focus of the testimony against Buchalter in the flour case, were you not?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

A. I don't know that.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.
The Court: Sustained.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5099 Q. Did you have an idea in your mind then— A. No District Attorney will tell you that so I don't know.

Q. Did you have an idea then in your mind from what Buchalter told you that you were involved?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.
The Court: You mean in the flour investigation?
Mr. Barshay: I am only speaking of the flour investigation.
5100 The Court: When you went away to these various places, did you have that in mind?
The Witness: I had that in mind, yes, sir.

Q. In the meantime nobody was looking for you from Brooklyn, were they?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

Q. To your knowledge? A. That is right.
Q. Your wife was home? A. That is right.

5101

Q. You made visits to the union when you came back? A. I did.

Q. You used your own name? A. That is right.

Q. You had a telephone? A. That is right.

Q. Paid rent? A. That is right.

Q. Made no effort to disguise yourself? A. No.

Q. Nobody from Brooklyn was looking for you at all, police or District Attorney, were they? A. That is right.

Q. Isn't that so? A. That is so.

Q. And you were fleeing from the Dewey investigation, as per the instructions of defendant Buchalter, were you not? A. No, I was fleeing from investigations, Dewey and otherwise. I was more afraid of the Brooklyn case than I was of the Dewey case.

Q. You committed no crime in Brooklyn personally, did you? A. I did not commit any crime.

Q. That is all. A. But wait a minute.

The Court: Let him answer.

The Witness: I can tell your Honor if you think it is advisable for me to repeat it to the Court, I will do it.

The Court: If there is any element of danger, don't repeat it.

The Witness: I don't want to go through this again but I could tell you why.

Mr. Cuff: I object to the statements of the witness, if your Honor pleases, and move to strike them out.

The Court: Better to shut it off right now.

Q. You knew, did you not, Paul Berger by name when you testified in the flour case? A. I did.

Q. You knew there was such a person? A. I did.

Q. Did you mention the name of Paul Berger in response to the Court's and Kleinman's questions with respect to Paul Berger once?

Mr. Turkus: They were trying the flour case over in New York. They were not trying the Rosen case. As I pointed out, the District Attorney on direct is in one position. On redirect he may be in another, depending upon the cross.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You said somebody made arrangements for you to go to Saratoga to see Danny Fields, did you not? A. I did.

5106

Q. You used the word "somebody"? A. That is right.

Q. You did not use the word "Paul Berger", did you? A. That is right.

Q. You used the word "somebody" on two occasions in that testimony, did you not?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it, it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Were you protecting Paul Berger? A. I was protecting nobody.

5107

Q. I am asking you. Was there a reason to leave out Paul Berger? A. Yes.

Q. Yes or no. A. There was a reason for leaving out every name. You will notice there is not a name there that I mentioned.

Mr. Barshay: I move to have the witness' answer stricken from the record. I asked a simple question, your Honor. I do not know how long this is going to continue.

Mr. Turkus: The simple question was if he had a reason and he got a very simple answer, which was responsive to the simple question.

Mr. Barshay: And I was satisfied with the answer and the rest I move to strike out.

The Court: Strike out the latter part.

Q. Now Buchalter to your knowledge had never seen Maguire before? A. He had not.

Q. That is true, isn't it? A. That is right.

Q. Buchalter had lawyers of his own in those days, did he not? A. He did.

Q. Maguire was not one of them? A. That is right.

Q. And to your own idea, from your own knowledge, Maguire was unknown to Buchalter? A. That is right.

Q. So much so that you had to introduce one to the other? A. That is right.

Q. You testified here that after the talk in Maguire's office you had a further talk in the hallway? A. That is right.

5110 Q. With the defendant Buchalter? A. That is right.

Q. Not in the presence or in the hearing of anyone but you and Buchalter? A. That is right.

Q. You testified here (page 1223 and 1224). "I did not want to tell you"—this is what Buchalter, you say, said to you in the hallway after you left Maguire—"I did not want to tell you this in front of Maguire but you have 5111 nothing to worry about. That case in Brooklyn is going to be thrown out of the window. McCarthy is not going to take care of it any more and Jacobs is going to come in and Jacobs is going to be pushed in something else in another building and the case will die". That is what you testified to here? A. That is right.

Q. (Page 967 of the flour case) Were you asked this question: "Did you and Buchalter leave Maguire's office together? A. Yes." Was that question asked? A. That is right.

Q. And that answer made. "Q. (Next page)
5112 Did you have any other talk with the defendant Buchalter about going away? A. Out in the hall trying to—" somebody interrupted—

Mr. Turkus: Trying to (dash).

Mr. Barshay: I said somebody interrupted him.

"Q. (Interrupting) What did he say?"

Mr. Barshay: Do you want me to read Mr. Kleinman's objection?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: "Mr. Kleinman: Now if your Honor pleases, may I enter my objection and formulate it a little more legalistically than we did before. I simply entered an objection upon the ground that the conversation at that time was incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial. I submit now that this conversation could in nowise be in furtherance of the original conspiracy and the case of extortion alleged in the indictment, that if anything 5114 this tends to prove the commission of another crime, therefore it is not relevant and should not come into this case. I ask that it be stricken from the record as highly prejudicial.

"The Court: I find this is competent testimony against defendant Buchalter. I overrule the objection.

"Mr. Kleinman: Exception.

"Please, Mr. Grumet, what is the question?"

"(The question was read)." 5115

All those things did take place as I read them? A. Yes.

Q. "Q. What did he say"—referring to Buchalter and you in the hallway when you left Maguire's office—and did you make this answer: "He told me I have nothing to worry about, everything would be O.K. and I should trust him.

"Q. Anything else that you can remember? A. That is all that." Did you make those answers to those questions? A. I did.

5116 Max Rubin—For People—Cross

Q. Was your memory fresher in 1940 when you testified—

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

Q. —in the flour case than it is now?

Mr. Turkus: Repetitious and argumentative.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5117

Q. Had you gone in detail with respect to the Rosen case in conversations with Buchalter? A. Had I gone?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. I do not know when he is talking about, whether it is this trial, in the D. A.'s office, in the Manhattan trial, or what. It is objectionable.

The Court: Sustained as indefinite.

5118 Q. You met Buchalter in Albert's office? A. I did.

Q. Many times? A. From the time I came back until I went away again, about the 30th of October, I met him once and sometimes twice a day in the office.

Q. Was it for convenience sake that Albert's office was chosen by Buchalter and you?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. That is not the testimony.

Mr. Barshay: I am asking him.

Mr. Turkus: Buchalter has to answer that.

The Court: He cannot say what Buchalter's motive was.

Q. Was Buchalter being tried across the street from Albert's office on those days? A. Yes.

Q. Isn't that so? A. Yes.

Q. He was in court every single day? A. That is right.

Q. And after recess you would meet him in Albert's office? A. That is right. 5120

Q. Isn't that why Albert's office was chosen, according to what Buchalter said to you? A. No, it was the fact that he was being tried there may have been one of the reasons but the other reason was that—

Q. Please, was that one of the reasons? A. In my opinion it was one of the reasons.

Q. He was there on trial for a considerable number of days, was he not? A. I don't know for how long. I don't know if it was completed by the time I went away, that is the reason I say I do not know for how long. I left October 30th. 5121

Q. The Albert's office was at 2 Lafayette Street? A. That is right.

Q. Across the street? A. That is right.

Q. Did Buchalter tell you, "Meet me at Albert's office after the day session"? A. Meet me in Albert's office.

Q. You did not meet him during the trial days, did you? A. When did the trial start?

Q. You did not meet him when he was actually on trial, I am trying to show. It was after the 5122 court day? A. Or at noon recess he would come over there.

Q. You gave testimony here that pictures of yourself were held in your home by yourself or by your family? A. That is right.

Q. Buchalter did not ask you to destroy them, did he? A. No, he told me to give them to Willie Alberts.

Q. For safekeeping? A. That is right.

Q. With instructions for Albert to return 5123 them to you later? A. I never got them back. I wish I could.

Q. When you went away, Mr. Rubin, from the very day you went away to Saratoga, no one had been looking for you from the Brooklyn District Attorney's office, had they? A. As far as I know, no one was.

Q. While you were in Salt Lake City you testified here that you received not one word from your home; is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. There is no doubt about that either? A. No doubt at all.

5124 Q. You testified in the case of The People of The United States of America against Polakoff and Albert, did you not? A. I did.

Q. That was in the Federal Court, Southern District, January 9, 1940? A. That is right.

Q. Were you asked this question there and did you make this answer?

Mr. Barshay: Mr. Turkus, do you want to see whether I am reading correctly?

Mr. Turkus: I will take your word for it.

Q. "Q. Do you know if any other County authorities of any county were looking for you at the time that you were in Salt Lake City?"

An objection by Mr. Halley:

"Objected to as assuming that somebody was looking for him.

"The Court: Where did you get your information about them looking for you?

"The Witness: I got word from my home that the New York County was looking for me."

A. Not at that time. After I got back.

Q. Mr. Rubin, I asked you merely did you make this answer to the question as I read it.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. It is not inconsistent with his testimony here.

The Court: Sustained. He did not say where he received word.

The Witness: I did not say I was in Salt Lake City when I got it.

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, this man testified here that while he was in Salt Lake City—

The Court: I know what he testified to. That answer is not inconsistent.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception.

The Court: Simply misunderstood by you.

Mr. Barshay: May I read it again?

The Court: Yes. If I misunderstood I will be glad to correct the error.

Mr. Barshay: All right, sir.

"Q. Do you know if any other County authorities of any Counties were looking for you at the time you were in Salt Lake City?

"Mr. Halley: Objected to as assuming that somebody was looking for him.

"The Court: Where did you get your information about them looking for you?

"The Witness: I got word from my home that New York County was looking 5129 for me."

Your Honor, this refers to the fact that while he was in Salt Lake City he got word from his home.

The Court: I beg your pardon, the question, "Do you know?" is in praesenti and means, "Do you know as you sit here on the witness stand in the trial of the flour case?" The ruling of the Court stands.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception to your Honor's interpretation, sir.

5130 The Court: It is no interpretation, but the plain meaning of the English language.

Q. Did you want to go away? A. I did not.

Q. Not at all? A. Not at all.

Q. Not in the slightest degree. A. Not in the slightest.

Q. You don't want to qualify that answer? A. What is that?

Q. You don't want to qualify that answer? A. I did not want to go away. I was scared terribly, very much frightened. I was so scared I almost died of fright and when the suggestion to go away was made to me, I was happy to take it, but I did not want to go away.

Q. In no way did you want to go away?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

Mr. Barshay: That is what I am trying to find out.

Mr. Turkus: The answer speaks for itself, what his feelings were at that time.

Q. In that same case, did you testify in United States of American against Polakoff and Albert? 5132

Were you asked this question: "Q You were anxious to get away at the time? A. In a way, yes."

A. In a way, sure. That is the reason I kept on putting in "in a way", in a way that if I did not get away. Of course I had to answer it that way, "In a way, yes," and you will notice there are a few questions I answered that way, because I was warned, "Don't make any statement that will cause mistrials and mistrials", and I did not want to go over these things over and over again, so I kept on saying, 5133 "In a way" without completing my answer.

Q. Before I read the question and answer to you, Mr. Rubin, I asked you to qualify it in every way you knew how. A. I am no magician and I have not got a crystal ball.

Q. Were you asked that question and did you make that answer? A. I did. You explain to me what "in a way" means.

The Court: Counsel, I call your attention to the fact you asked him if he wanted to go away. Now you confound him by a question as to whether he was anxious to go away. The jury knows what that means. A man can go away reluctantly and leave his family reluctantly and be depressed about it and yet be anxious to get away for another reason, although not wanting to. The jury can figure that out.

Mr. Barshay: May I object to the Court's remarks? I take exception to your Honor's remarks.

Q. Were you asked the following question: "Q. You wanted to be away from this Grand Jury investigation, didn't you? A. In a way, yes." Did you say that? A. Yes, I answered several questions in that way: "In a way, yes."

The Court: Was it for pleasure or was it from a sense of fear?

The Witness: Absolutely from a sense of fear.

Mr Barshay: I object to it and I ask again for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

5136

The Court: Objection overruled. Motion denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You testified here—

The Court: I mentioned "fear". For the record, the Court meant fear of being involved in something in the way of the investigations he has testified to. There is no implication in the Court's question that justifies any insinuation of fear of bodily injury.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor give me an exception?

The Court: I was wondering why you took your objection and exception. I can see it now. That is why I am trying to straighten out the record.

Q. You remember when Buchalter said to you to go to New Orleans? A. He did—or I did. 5138

Q. He told you that he would put you to work there with somebody in the slot machine business, did he not? A. That is right.

Q. You knew the name of that somebody when you testified in the flour case? A. I did.

Q. You did not mention that somebody's name in the flour case, did you? A. I did not.

Q. You took pains to mention it in this case, did you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained as to form. 5139

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you mention it in this case? A. I did.

Q. In this case you mentioned it was Frank Costello, did you not? A. That is right.

Q. In the flour case you merely mentioned someone? A. That is right.

Q. Here you said that Buchalter said to you, "You will have money from New York, money from me, and money from there, and you will be O.K.," is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. Did you say that here? A. That is right

5140 Max Rubin—For People—Cross

Q. On the same subject, were you asked this question in the flour case (page 973):

"Q. Did you have a conversation with him?

"Mr. Grumet: I want the whole story, the whole story.

"A. Yes, he wanted me to go to New Orleans, keep myself occupied, that is going to be the thing for me to keep away, there was a friend 5141 out there running slot machines." Was that the answer you made to the question?

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. It has not been read what happened at that point, that Mr. Kleinman objected. I submit, your Honor, this is—

Mr. Barshay: Do you want me to read objections?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, certainly. Objections lots of times end answers by witnesses.

Mr. Barshay: I am now reading Mr.
5142 Kleinman's objection to that, Judge, as your Honor ruled.

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, there was a question. The question was read and an answer was given. The context of the record shows clearly that at that point in the answer, Lepke's then lawyer got up and made an objection that it could in no wise be in furtherance of what we have in the indictment, referring to that indictment, and then there was discussion between the District Attorney, the defense lawyer, the Court and the witness. That should be told to this jury so they will understand when that answer was terminated and under what circumstances.

The Court: I thought, Mr. Barshay, you said you were going to read it?

Mr. Barshay: The Court overruled Mr. Kleinman's objection. If you want me to read it, I will read it.

The Court: I thought you said you were going to read it. I did not rule at all, that I know of.

Mr. Barshay: I am going to read it, 5144 knowing very well if I do not, Mr. Turkus has a right to read anything.

(Mr. Barshay reads as follows:)

"Mr. Kleinman: I submit, your Honor, this answer, what I tried to anticipate, this conversation could in nowise be in furtherance of what we have in the indictment.

"Mr. Grumet: It certainly is, because he said something about keeping him occupied, and it has a direct bearing on it

"The Court: I do not know whether 5145
Mr. Kleinman understands. I do not understand whether this is the witness's own conclusion or whether it is something the defendant Buchalter said.

"The Witness: He said to me.

"The Court: I will overrule the objection.

"Mr. Kleinman: Exception.

"Q. What did he say to you?

"Mr. Price: Exception.

"A. He said to me he has a friend out there who is running the slot machines.

"Q. Where? A. In New Orleans, and that I should break myself in to fix the machines and keep myself occupied.

"Q. Yes, go on. A. And I went to New Orleans." Those questions were asked? A. That is right.

Q. Those statements were made, and those objections, to your knowledge, were made by Mr.
5147 Kleinman, and the Court acted as I read? A. That is right.

Q. You did not mention the name of Frank Costello there; yes or no? A. I did not.

Q. You did not say a single word in the flour case, "You will have money from New York, money from me, and money from there, and you will be O.K.," did you? A. I did not.

Q. You testified here that Buchalter told you to tell Berger in some way where you are stopping and under what name? A. That is right.

Q. Buchalter was sending you to a friend of 5148 his, wasn't he? A. That is right.

Q. Buchalter gave you the name and the address of that friend? A. No.

Q. Well, he told you where you could find him? A. He told me after— No, he did not—he told me after I got to a hotel I should let Paul Berger know and then he would send—he would get in touch with these people.

Q. You told us here that he told you to go to a friend in New Orleans by the name of Costello?

Mr. Turkus: That is objectionable.

That is not the testimony in the record. The testimony is precisely as Mr. Rubin has just stated it.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception, sir.

Q. You testified that when you came back from New Orleans you went to your home and you sent for Paul Berger? A. I telephoned him that I was home.

Q. Whatever way you did it? A. I did not 5150 send fo. him.

Q. In the flour case, when you gave testimony, you knew Paul Berger's name, did you not? A. Very well.

Q. You knew he was around? A. That is right.

Q. You knew he was out on bail from Dewey? A. That is right.

Q. You knew he was available? A. That is right.

Q. At page 975 of the flour case, were you asked these questions: "Q. How soon afte. your 5151 return did you see the defendant Buchalter? A. The same day." Were you asked that question and did you give that answer? A. That is right.

Q. "Q. Where? A. A fellow came to my house." Did you make that answer to that question? A. That is right.

Mr. Turkus: Then Mr. Kleinman objected.

Mr. Barshay: All right, I will read the objection.

5152

Mr. Turkus: You read it so that this jury gets the whole context.

Mr. Barshay: Am I responsible for the form of Kleinman's objection, Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: No, but you have got to take the answer with it.

Mr. Barshay: It was overruled.

Mr. Turkus: "A fellow came up to my house—"

"Mr. Kleinman: The question is where."

The Court: Was he asked any name?

Mr. Turkus: No, he was not.

The Court: Then what does it amount to?

Mr. Turkus: That is what I do not understand.

Mr. Barshay: You will understand if you will be patient, not interrupt me, Mr. Turkus. I have a right to read, your Honor, the questions and answers as I have them without the objections, but if the Court wants me to read the objections which were overruled, I will do so.

The Court: The jury is entitled to a fair presentation of every element there. If a little piece of it is put in now which creates an impression in the minds of the jury, what good is it when maybe Monday the District Attorney comes back and asks the rest of it? The jury by that time cannot piece it together.

Mr. Barshay: I take objection to the Court's observation.

The Court: The time for the jury to get it is right now.

Mr. Barshay: I hope the Court does not intend to convey to the jury the impression that by my not reading Mr. Kleinman's objection I intended to change the context of any answer.

Mr. Turkus: No.

The Court: I do not know what your purpose is.

Mr. Barshay: It take an exception to that, sir.

The Court: I am not committing myself one way or the other on that point. 5156

Q. "Q. How soon after your return did you see the defendant Buchalter? A. The same day.

"Q. Where? A. A fellow came up to my house—" Interrupting.

Mr. Turkus: Will you put the dash in?

Mr. Barshay: Wait a minute, please. I am doing it just that way.

Mr. Turkus: You are not putting the dash in.

Mr. Barshay: I said, "Interrupting". 5157

Q. "Q. Where? A. A fellow came up to my house" Dash.

"Mr. Kleinman: The question is where.

"Q. Where did you see him? A. On Amsterdam Avenue.

Q. Did you say somebody came to your house? A. Somebody came to my house."

Now, I ask you, you knew Paul Berger's name at that time? A. I did.

5158 Q. You knew he was around and available? A. That is right.

Q. You did not mention the name of Paul Berger in the flour case, did you? A. I did not.

Q. That is all I wanted. You say Paul Berger was an intimate of this defendant Buchalter then? A. He was.

Q. He was entrusted with messages from him to you? A. That is right.

5159 Q. He was entrusted with your whereabouts? A. That is right.

Q. But when Buchalter and you spoke, Berger was in the automobile, and you and Buchalter spoke under an awning? A. That is right.

Q. In the absence of Berger? A. That is right.

Q. Did you ask Berger to stay away? A. No.

Q. Did Buchalter ask Berger to stay away? A. No.

Q. Did anybody tell Berger to stay away? A. I don't know.

5160 Q. You all three rode in the car? A. We did.

Q. You wanted to speak to Buchalter all alone, did you? A. I did not want to speak to Buchalter all alone. I got a summons to meet him, and when the king directs, you go.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer, your Honor.

The Court: Leave out, "the king". You mean from Buchalter?

The Witness: Of course.

The Court: Berger was the messenger?

The Witness: He told me that Lepke wants to see me and I should go down with him, and I got dressed and I went down.

Q. Berger was not permitted to partake in the conversation?

Mr. Turkus: That is objectionable?
The Court: Sustained.
Mr. Barshay: Exception. 5162

Q. While you were away to these various places, exclusive of the time that you mentioned a man from Michigan, you were all alone? A. Except when I was in Teitelbaum's store. I was with this here Sam Teitelbaum, but when I was in New Orleans, and in Atlantic City I was with Danny Fields.

Q. Mr. Rubin, will you tell us, you were all alone when you went to Salt Lake City, on the way out? A. Yes.

Q. You were all alone when you came back from Salt Lake City? A. Yes 5163

Q. You were all alone when you went to New Orleans? A. Yes.

Q. You were all alone when you came back from there? A. That is right.

Q. You knew then that Dewey was still offering protection to witnesses, did you not, who testified for him: did you? A. I did not know that. I was away. Whenever I came back, I do not know if I remember him saying it, but I suppose that is what he said.

The Court: Never mind what you suppose. You were only asked as to whether or not you knew it at the time.

Q. You did not go to Mr. Dewey's office, did you? A. When?

Q. Between those trips when you came back; did you? A. No, I did not.

Q. Buchalter did not send a man to guard you, did he? A. He did not.

5165 Q. In Washington you met Buchalter in a hotel, is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. You took him in the bath room, did you not, you said here? A. That is right.

Q. And you had a talk with him? A. That is right.

Q. In the flour case you were asked (pages 978 and 979):

"Q. Did you have a talk with him?"

I am now speaking with respect to the defendant Buchalter in Washington (folios 2933 and 2934). The first question, to show continuity:

5166 "Q. Before you returned to New York did you see the defendant Buchalter? A. I did.

"Q. Where? A. In Washington.

"Q. The District of Columbia? A. That is right.

"Q. And where did you see him there? A. In a hotel.

"Q. Did you have a talk with him? A. I did.

"Q. How long were you in Washington, by the way? A. Just overnight, that's all.

"Q. What conversation did you have with the defendant Buchalter in Washington?

"Mr. Price: Objected to.

"Mr. Kleinman: Before that, may I have a time fixed?

"Q. When was that? A. I would say approximately, I am not so sure, but I will make you a fair guess, March 9th."

Were you asked those questions and did you make those answers as I read them? A. I did.

Q. "Q. How long before you came back to New York? A. The next day. 5168

"Q. You returned to New York the next day? A. That is right." A. That is right.

Q. Were you asked this question: "Q. What conversation did you have with the defendant Buchalter in Washington?

"Mr. Price: Objected to.

"Mr. Kleinman: Same objection for Buchalter.

"The Court: Mr. District Attorney, do you mind coming up here for a moment and telling me what the purpose of this conversation is? 5169

"(Discussion at the bench between the Court and Mr. Gramet not within the hearing of the jury.)

"The Court: What is that last question.

"(Record repeated.)

"The Court: Objection overruled. Received only as to Buchalter.

"Mr. Price: Exception.

"Mr. Kleinman: Exception as to Buchalter.

"A. He told me not to come to New York."

5170 Max Rubin—For People—Cross

Were those question asked— Wait a minute, Mr. Turkus, I am not finished. —and did you make those answers? A. I did.

Q. "Q. Did he say anything else? A. I told him I can't stay away, I have been away seven weeks now, I have not seen my family, all along these lines, and the other fellow that was with me said—

"The Court: Never mind that.

5171 "Mr. Grumet: Never mind what he said, unless your Honor feels it is admissible. Never mind what the other fellow said.

"Q. What did you say to him? A. I told him I was going, that he has nothing to worry about me. Whatever would transpire with me would not affect him at all, and then he said to me, 'Remember, if you get in any trouble, don't come to me.' I asked him what he meant. He said, 'Well, if you need a lawyer for bail bond, something like that, don't expect me to foot any 5172 bills.'" Those are the answers you made in the flour case, as I read them, did you not? A. I did.

Q. Did not say one word about paying your income tax, did you? A. Did he say?

Q. You did not? A. I may have.

Q. I read them. A. I did not say it there perhaps.

Q. You did not say one word about taking Buchalter in any bathroom, did you? A. I did take him in. I did not say it there.

Q. That is all I am asking you, Mr. Rubin, won't you please cooperate to some extent? A. O. K., I am very anxious to.

Q. Now, you spoke about the penalty that you were willing to pay: is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. (Page 1261) You said that you were willing to pay substantially any penalty of any kind, is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. Again I say— A. Did I say from any penalty of any kind?

Q. Yes. Do you want to read it, Mr. Rubin? A. I just want to know.

Mr. Barshay: Am I reading correctly, Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: I have not seen it yet.

Mr. Barshay: (Page 1261, beginning at the bottom of 1260) "Q. What was said in the bathroom? A. I told him he had nothing to worry about, I was coming back to New York, if I got into trouble he had nothing to worry about; if I had to pay any penalty of any kind I was willing to pay it; but as far as he was concerned he had nothing to worry about."

Q. The only crimes that you say you participated in were in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York; isn't that so?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That is for the jury to determine on the basis of what he stated; further, that it is repetitious.

The Court: I am trying to figure out what this means. Let it in.

Q. Will you answer the question? A. I had in mind to pay whatever penalty for any crime that I thought I had committed.

Q. That was in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, wasn't it? A. I had in mind the Borough of Manhattan and City of New York.

Q. Because there was no penalty that you could pay for anything that you did in Brooklyn; is that so? A. I felt that way.

Q. That is true? A. I felt that way.

Q. So that you were fleeing from the places
5177 where you could be punished, and only from those places, isn't that so, at the direction of the defendant Buchalter? A. I did not know from where I could be punished. I did not know that.

Q. Well, you knew as a man of above average intelligence that you could not be punished for something you did not do? A. I don't know that.

Q. You could not be punished for anything you did in Brooklyn, could you? A. I don't know that. I don't know.

Q. I took your own word, sir, that you did absolutely nothing wrong in the Borough of Brooklyn.
5178 A. That goes into a long question of District Attorneys, their honesty, and a million other things. I do not want to go into that question. That can mean a whole lot.

Q. You were afraid of being framed by some District Attorney? A. Positively, positively.

Mr. Barshay: Judge, may we recess now? I have about four more pages, which will require considerable time.

The Court: How much time do you estimate?

Mr. Barshay: From an hour to two hours, your Honor.

The Court: May I suggest this afternoon that inasmuch as it is raining and the jury will not be able to take a walk and will be irked by being indoors so much, you keep occupied during the next twenty-three minutes and recess at half past four?

Mr. Cuff: Judge, relying upon your statement, I made an important appointment for 4:30.

The Court: If it is not agreeable, the Court has to go along with the arrange- 5180 ment promised counsel.

Mr. Rosenthal: I have an appointment with Judge Conway of the Court of Appeals at 4:30.

The Court: Members of the jury, please do not discuss the case; let no one talk to you about it; keep your minds open, and remember all of the other admonitions given heretofore.

First let the witness go out.

Recess to ten o'clock tomorrow morning, but everybody remain seated.

Now the jury may go out the other door.

The defendants are remanded.

(Whereupon an adjournment was taken to November 7, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.)

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 7, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

MAX RUBIN, a witness in behalf of The People, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Cross examination by Mr. Barshay (continued):

5183 Q. Yesterday I asked you whether or not you were on the payroll of the Garfield. I want to withdraw that.

Were you getting from Mr. Cooper, personally, $50 a month? A. No, sir.

Q. Or from anybody connected with the Garfield, personally? A. No, sir.

Q. At any time did you get any compensation from the Garfield in any way whatever? A. He bought a meal.

Q. I did not mean that. A. No, sir.

Q. Now, on page 1242 of this case, you testified substantially to a conversation you had with 5184 the defendant Buchalter after you came back from Salt Lake City. Do you recall that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Substantially, at page 1242, you said, among other things, that the defendant Buchalter said to you, "Things are very hot. Brooklyn is not straightened out. Investigations are getting very serious." Do you recall that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the bottom of page 971, Mr. Turkus,—in the Four case, were you asked this question: "Q. Now, you testified that you returned from Salt Lake City? A. That is right." A. Yes, sir.

Q. At page 973: "Q. How long did you remain in New York then? A. Until the middle of December." Do you remember that? A. About that time.

Q. Did you answer the question as I read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. Did you go away again? A. Yes, I went away again." A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. Did you have a talk with Buchalter about it? A. I did." A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. What was said? 5186

"Mr. Price: Same objection, on the same ground.

"Mr. Kleinman: May we have the time fixed?

"The Court: Objection is overruled with respect to Buchalter; I will take it only as to Buchalter and not as against the other defendants. Now, the time.

"The Witness: About the middle of December, your Honor, 1936, when I came back from Salt Lake City and I met him. He asked me, 'Why did you come back? Why do you always come back to New York? Have you got something in the back of your head?' And I said, 'No, Louis, why should I have anything in the back of my head? I have always been a friend of yours; you have always been a friend of mine; why should I have anything in the back of my head?' And that continued a little while. I believe he went in and had something to eat and he told me to stay in an East Side hotel, and see what he could do for me." 5187

Did you make those answers to those questions, as I read them? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. At page 1261, you testified in this case, substantially that the defendant said to you, "If you get in any trouble in New York, don't come to me." You said that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, on other occasions, in consultations he had with you, you specifically used the word "Brooklyn," didn't you? A. Here?

5189 Mr. Tarkus: I object unless the time is fixed.

The Court: In connection with which return?

Mr. Barshay: With respect to all returns he made when he had a talk with Buchalter and Buchalter said, "Brooklyn is not straightened out," and that "Brooklyn is very hot." That is the only conversation I have reference to.

The Court: "Brooklyn is still too hot?"

Mr. Barshay: Yes, in all conversations he specifically used the word "Brooklyn," whereas in this conversation he used the words "in New York."

The Witness: That is right. You are speaking about the one in Washington?

The Court: You are speaking about a different matter than the return from Salt Lake City?

Mr. Barshay: This conversation he is alleged to have had in Washington.

The Witness: In the hotel, yes, sir.

The Court: Is that where he said, "If you get in any trouble in New York, such as any lawyer and bail bond, don't come to me"?

Mr. Barshay: That is correct.

The Witness: That is right.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. You stopped at the Bossert Hotel? A. Yes.

Q. That is very close to the District Attorney's office, you know that? A. I did not know it at that time. 5192

Q. You know it now? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You stopped on Flatbush Avenue? A. That is right.

Q. That is not very far from Police Headquarters? A. I did not know it then.

Q. Do you know it now? A. No, sir.

Q. Flatbush, near where? A. 532 is the number.

Q. Do you know where near? A. Clinton Place—

Mr. Turkus: Lincoln Place. 5193

The Witness: Lincoln Place, yes, sir.

Q. That is not far from Washington Avenue and the Parkway, where the Homicide Bureau sits? A. I don't know. I am not too well acquainted in Brooklyn.

Q. Is it near Ebbets Field? A. Yes, sir, I believe it is, but I was not there.

Q. When you finally decided to surrender, you went to Maguire's office, and he took you to Dewey's office? A. No, sir, he went himself.

Q. He made arrangements for you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew he was going to Dewey's office? A. I sent him there.

Q. You did not send him to Brooklyn, did you? A. No, sir.

Q. You never went to Brooklyn? A. No, sir.

Q. You came back from Washington sometime in March of 1937? A. The early part.

Q. The last time you saw the defendant Bu-
5195 chalter was in Washington? A. That is right.

Q. You were in New York until Mr. Maguire made arrangements for you to go to the Dewey office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Sometime in the latter part of September, 1937? A. I think it was in August.

Q. Between March and September you personally had never seen or spoken to the defendant Buchalter? A. No, sir.

Q. But before that time, while— Question withdrawn.

Q. You know that Buchalter himself has never 5196 left the City of New York during the latter part of 1935, the year of 1936, and the early part of 1937, did you know that? A. I think Paul Berger told me he had left.

Q. From the time you were in New York, of course, you say you saw him? A. Saw who? Berger?

Q. Yes. A. You are talking after March 5th, after the Washington trip?

Q. Before the Washington trip. A. Whenever I saw him, whenever I came back.

Q. To your knowledge he was in the City of New York all the time until March of 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: May we have that clear? I object; all that knowledge is hearsay as to what somebody said to him.

By the Court:

Q. You mean so far as you know; is that what you mean? A. Yes, sir, as far as I know.

Q. You don't know where he was when you were away? A. No, sir, Mr. Barshay said only those times when I came in did I find Mr. 5198
Buchalter here each time I came in, and I said yes.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. You remember testifying in the flour case that Buchalter said he was staying in New York? A. If it is there I said it.

Q. You came home on the occasions that you did, and you did not speak to your wife? A. No, sir, not often.

Q. Not often, did you say—

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time is fixed, what occasion.

Q. Every occasion, Rubin, you came home, did you speak to your wife? Do you recall that? A. I spoke to her a few times.

Q. In those few times did she ever tell you that the Brooklyn District Attorney's office or the Police Department of the City of New York were looking for you with respect to a visit to the Kings County authorities? A. Never.

Q. So you can safely say now that, to your own personal knowledge, no one, either at the office, at your home, or in the places of business you customarily visited, was there anybody looking for you from the Brooklyn District Attorney's office?

Mr. Turkus: He cannot have knowledge; I object; all he can say is whether or not he heard it.

5201 Q. Did anyone ever tell you that? A. No, sir.

Q. It is a fact, isn't it, that there was a visitor at your home from Dewey's office? A. That is right, but I was only told of it.

Q. Your wife told you that? A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. From where? A. Dewey's office.

Q. Is that before or after you were arrested? A. Before I surrendered.

Q. Was that before you went to see Mr. Maguire? A. Much before that.

5202

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. That is to say, while you were in transit? A. While I was away.

Q. When you came to the office of the union for the $20 differential you testified about, did anyone tell you there that anybody from the Brooklyn District Attorney's office or the Police Department had left word for you? A. Never.

Q. Did you communicate with a brother-in-law of yours while you were away? A. I did not.

Q. Did he communicate with you? A. No, sir.

Q. May I know your brother-in-law's name? A. Jacob Kaminez.

Q. What business is he in? A. He is an office man, clerk in the Greater New York Expressmen's Association.

Q. That is an association you visited from time to time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The same association you had been testifying about? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. You knew Inspector McDermott before you 5204 spoke to him in 1940, in March? A. 1932, I believe.

Q. You knew him, whether you saw him or not, you knew who he was? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He knew you, to your knowledge? He did not.

Q. You mean that you knew him by reputation? A. No, sir.

Q. You knew him by speaking to him in some fashion? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your testimony in the flour case was before Inspector McDermott spoke to you in 1940? A. 5205
That is right.

Q. Your testimony in the flour case had already been completed when Inspector McDermott spoke to you? A. Yes, sir, about a month later.

Q. He took you to the District Attorney's office, or I will say, in the Bossert Hotel? A. About a week later.

Mr. Barshay: May we have the date of the defendant's indictment, your Honor?

The Court: May 28, 1940.

Mr. Barshay: Is it conceded, instead of reading it into evidence?

5206 Max Rubin—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: When the Court makes a statement on the record, that is enough.

Mr. Barshay: I will read it into evidence. Now, we have it as May 28, 1940.

Q. You did not testify in the Grand Jury that found that indictment, did you? A. I went to the Grand Jury, I said, about a month ago, or maybe less.

Q. While the jury was being chosen in this 5207 case, you testified before the Grand Jury? A. No, sir, before that.

Q. We started to pick this jury September 15, 1941; can you recall when you testified before the Grand Jury? A. I think it was during that time—I think so, but you can ask them and get the exact date.

Mr. Barshay: If the District Attorney will accommodate me I can have the exact date.

Mr. Turkus: September 25, 1941, is the 5208 exact date.

The Court: That is over a year after this indictment.

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, may we have for the record the number of times this case was upon the trial calendar, and then adjourned from time to time to September 15th?

The Court: I will not take time with that now. You may put it on the record later. The clerk's minutes show everything that is required in that respect.

Mr. Barshay: I wanted to get the dates before this jury, but if you will allow me to do it later, that will be all right.

The Court: For the information of the jury here?

Mr. Barshay: I did not say that, but that I may have something to say about the order of events. Unless I lay the foundation, I will not be able to make comments about it.

The Court: The procedural record is the Clerk's minutes. The Court should not be expected to convey that information. The Clerk's minutes are open to counsel for inspection.

Q. Were you subpoenaed as a witness or asked to be a witness in this court between May 9, 1941, and May 16, 1941? A. I received no subpoena of any kind.

Q. Did you receive a request, or did you receive instructions to be here? A. I simply got a call from Inspector McDermott to meet Judge O'Dwyer at the Bossert.

Q. I am not talking about that. I am talking about before the testimony in the Grand Jury, a year later. A. I got no subpoena.

Q. Were you in court May 9, 1941? A. No.

Q. Were you asked to come to court right after that? A. No.

Q. On May 16, 1941, were you asked to come? A. In court?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir, only on that particular day.

Q. June 15, 1941? A. No, sir.

5212 Max Rubin—For People—Cross

Q. Were you asked to come to court that day? A. No, sir.

The Court: May I ask what the purpose of this is?

Mr. Turkus: There was no case on that day.

The Court: It makes no difference whether there was or not.

Mr. Barshay: I know that too.

5213 The Court: And you will get the jury speculating as to what it is all about, when it is none of their affair.

Mr. Barshay: I am not using it for any other purpose than the one I said. I must lay a foundation if I am going to talk about it in summation.

The Court: The Court is not going to allow you to discuss matters outside of the case, in the presence of the jury.

Mr. Barshay: I don't intend to do it. There is only one more date. If you 5214 say I shall stop, I will stop.

The Court: I don't know what it has to do with the case, except to confuse.

Mr. Barshay: I except.

Q. When did you see Paul Berger last? A. In the Grand Jury, in the Bronx.

Q. Just give me the date. A. I don't know the date.

Q. Well, about. A. About three months ago, I imagine, something like that.

Q. Did you talk to Paul Berger about this case? A. They will not let you do that, no, sir

Q. Just answer yes or no. A. No, sir.

Q. Is that the very last time you saw Paul Berger? A. The very, very last.

Q. When did you see Paul Berger before that three-months period? A. When he was picked up and brought to the District Attorney's office.

Q. When Berger was picked up? A. Yes, sir. I was told to be there and I came there.

Q. Do you know how long ago that was? A. It was before that Bronx meeting.

Q. In the summer of 1941? A. I think it was.

Q. Did you speak to Berger? A. I just went 5216 in and said one thing only.

Q. Did you speak to him? A. I just made one statement.

Q. Did you speak to him? A. Yes, sir, I made a statement, that is, a statement to him.

Q. When you made a statement in the man's presence and spoke to him, did you speak directly to him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did he answer? A. He did not.

Q. How long did you and he face each other then? A. Just as long as it took to make that one statement. 5217

Q. Was it a long one? A. About 15 words.

Q. When did you see Berger before that? A. At his place of business, I believe.

Q. How long before the meeting you just described? A. I think in 1938.

Q. Then between 1938 to the time you described in the District Attorney's office, sometime this summer, you had not seen him or spoken to him? A. I don't think so; I cannot remember; that last meeting—

Q. Have you told us all the times you have seen and spoken to Berger? A. I think so.

Q. When did you see Allie Tannenbaum last? A. Also at this Bronx meeting.

Q. That was about three months ago? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You talked to him about the case? A. No, sir, he was not in the room.

Q. Did you see him other than that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where? A. I stopped at the Half Moon Hotel during the summer under custody, and 5219 I used to see him from the window or passing in the hall. His wife was on the same floor I was on.

Q. How long did you stay at the hotel? A. During the summer.

Q. Not at your own expense? A. No, sir.

Q. During that time how many times did you see Tannenbaum? A. I saw him a half a dozen times.

Q. Did you speak to him? A. Just "hello" and passed by.

Q. That is all? A. That is all.

5220 Q. Did you speak to his wife? A. I did not know his wife.

Q. You were not a material witness, you were not held as a material witness at the Half Moon Hotel, were you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

Mr. Barshay: Question withdrawn.

Mr. Turkus: He will state his status.

Q. Were you there pursuant to an order of any court, to your knowledge? A. No, sir.

Q. Before that, you lived at your home? A. I did.

Q. All of the time? A. All the time.

Q. When did you leave the hotel and go back to your home? A. In September.

Q. You have been at your home ever since? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is September, 1941? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you see Mrs. Rosen last? A. I saw her at the hotel but I never spoke to her.

Q. Did she, to your knowledge, live at the hotel?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; that was discussed with Mrs. Rosen when she was on the stand.

Mr. Barshay: May we have an objection without a speech, your Honor?

The Court: Objection overruled.

5223

A. Yes, sir. Mr. Barshay, before I went to the Half Moon Hotel, I took a place in Sea Gate, on Atlantic Avenue, and I paid a deposit of $100, and when I reported—

Q. (interrupting) That was your own money? A. Yes, sir. And when I reported to the District Attorney what I had done and I explained to them some of the people I had met there, they advised me to come to the Half Moon. I want to get the record clear.

Q. Did your family live with you at the Half Moon Hotel? A. My wife. I sent my boy to camp.

5224 Max Rubin—For People—Cross

Q. When you went to the candy store with Feinberg that day, you said it was pursuant to a call by Sylvia Rosen? A. That is what Feinberg told me.

Q. Had you spoken to Sylvia Rosen since? A. No, sir.

Q. Had you spoken to her about that time, about the time you visited the candy store? A. No, sir, I have not seen her since she—

Q. (interrupting) You have not seen her at all 5225 or communicated with her? A. No, sir.

Q. From the time you came to the union office, in transit, coming back from the various places you were, had you seen Feinberg? A. Yes, sir, he had those $20 accumulations.

Q. In other words, to your knowledge, he was attending to union affairs all the time? A. There was a committee that was appointed.

Q. He was one of them? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The union did stop your pay sometime in 1937, in the fall, didn't they—yes or no? Can you answer the question that way? A. You are put-5226 ting it very unfairly.

Q. Was there a time when the union stopped your pay for even one day? A. I was— You are putting the question very unfairly.

Q. If you can answer the question yes, say so, if you cannot, tell me you cannot. A. I think they did stop it.

Q. And then you were reinstated? A. There was no process of reinstatement. I simply got it again.

Q. Until 1939? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you discharged from the union in 1939 —yes or no? A. I was not discharged.

Q. Did you resign? A. I did.

Q. At your own suggestion? A. I had nothing else to do.

Q. Did they ask you to resign? A. They did not.

Q. Do you recall October 31, 1938, meeting Danny Fields and Paul Berger at 5th Avenue and 17th Street? A. October 31st?

Q. 1938. A. Tell me what it is about, and maybe I can remember.

Q. Did you give them some money, both Fields and Berger? A. I did not give them any money, 5228 no, sir.

Q. Did you transfer to them on behalf of anyone else the sum of $400? A. I did not, no, sir; I can tell you what I did do.

Q. You don't mind answering my question? A. I took them to a certain place to get $400. I am trying to help you.

Q. Did you tell Paul Berger and Danny Fields then you could put them on the union payroll? A. There was no union payroll; it was an association.

Q. Did you tell them you could put them on the association payroll? A. Danny, yes; I spoke to 5229 the association and I got Danny a job at $50 a week as association manager.

Q. Which association? A. The Greater New York Tailors Expressmens Association.

Q. Was that in 1938? A. That is right.

Q. Did you put Berger on the same payroll? A. No, sir, absolutely not.

Q. Did you give them $400 to be divided? A. I did not give them anything.

Q. Not your own, but the association's money? A. I did not give them a cent. Ike Brown gave it to them.

Q. Was it in your presence? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is the same Paul Berger and Danny Fields that you have been testifying about? A. Yes, sir, they told me they were broke and needed the money.

Q. You made that arrangement for them? A. I was anxious to help them. I helped lots of people.

Q. Did you get any part of that $400 from Danny Fields or Paul Berger? A. Of course not.

5231 Q. How long were they on the association payroll to your knowledge after this arrangement? A. I said— There was not "they" on; it was only Danny Fields on; he was only on a week or two.

Q. Did he get off? A. He did not get off.

Q. They put him off? A. They did not put him off; he was took off.

Q. By the District Attorney's office of Manhattan? A. Oh, no, sir.

Q. Did Mr. Gurfen speak to you about that situation, do you recall?

5232

Mr. Turkus: I object. That has nothing to do with the Rosen murder case.

Mr. Barshay: I object to Mr. Turkus making an objection in that form. If he has a legal objection, I wish he would make it.

Mr. Turkus: That is a very legal objection.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q Did you hand any more money over for the association to Danny Fields, other than the money you described? A. I did not hand that over.

Q. Did you make arrangements for any other moneys to be paid to Danny Fields other than you described? A. No, sir, he just got a check; he got a weekly payroll check from the association, that is all.

Mr. Talley: In view of the testimony of this witness, I say he has testified to exactly nothing so far as the defendant Weiss is concerned, or which tends to connect the defendant Weiss with the matter we are 5234 now engaged in trying. For that reason it would be useless to take up the time of the Court and the jury if I were to cross-examine this witness.

In this connection, at this time, I move that the entire testimony of this witness, in so far as it affects the defendant Weiss, be stricken from the record and the jury instructed now to disregard it,—in so far as the defendant Weiss is concerned.

The Court: Is there a similar motion by the defendant Capone?

Mr. Rosenthal: My motion is similar in effect, but it goes further than that, because of the admission of this testimony and because of the previous motions made to your Honor respecting the defendant whom I represent. My additional motion is on the ground of prejudice to my client, and I ask for a mistrial.

Mr. Talley: I join in that motion.

The Court: As it is the policy of the Court to give a reason for deciding, the following will be stated: Under the law whereby several defendants are tried together on the same indictment, the evidence does not have to apply to all in order to be received; it may apply to one only. That entitles it to be received. The Court may or may not instruct the jury at the time of each item of testimony by the witness that, according to the record up to that time, it applies to only a defendant or defendants.

5236 Max Rubin—For People—Cross

The Court has followed the policy here
5237 of not giving such an instruction at the time for this reason: that the way the case is being tried it is impossible to know how this testimony may be hooked up against the defendants Weiss and Capone before the People's case is over. Therefore, it is possible that there may be, and it is possible that there may not be, a hook. The Court cannot give an instruction at this time except that, so far as the law is concerned, the evidence is applicable only to the defendant or defend-5238 ants to whom it relates, and as to the others must be disregarded.

When it comes to the charge of the Court, at the conclusion of the case, this will be amply dealt with. The Court will have an opportunity to fully study the entire record by that time and to formulate a charge which will be sufficient for the jury to understand.

The motions are denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I say this, so that my motion is made clear: I came here on behalf of the defendant Capone to try a case alleging that Rosen was killed and that he participated. I am in no wise prepared to cross-examine or examine this man, or anticipate that this man has told the truth about anything with respect to the other defendant, Buchalter, in court, in regard to some flour record or otherwise. All that testimony is in here and I am not prepared to meet it. Whether it is hooked up or is not hooked up—and I assume there is no such contention by the 5240

District Attorney that it is going to be hooked up, or that we are in any wise associated with the flour record or the flour trial in the form of competent legal proof in this proceeding. So that whether your Honor subsequently strikes it out or does not, and says to this jury that it does not in any wise affect the defendant Capone, nevertheless, in so far as his interest is concerned there has been brought into this case a considerable amount of prejudicial testimony before this jury that may or 5241 may not affect their determination, even though the Court may instruct the jury to disregard it.

The Court: This comes under the statutory procedure ordered by the laws of the State of New York. As to the wisdom or unwisdom of that procedure, the Court has nothing to do. Counsel may assume the responsibility in the matter of a decision on cross-examination.

Mr. Rosenthal: In so far as a cross-examination of this man is concerned, he has mentioned that he has seen the defendant Capone twice in his life. I intend merely to question him on those two episodes which affect my defendant—not that it affects or tends to prove he is guilty of this crime, but the source of his knowledge, and that only, keeping in mind and reserving, if I may, my motion.

The Court: Judge Talley, do you intend to cross-examine?

5243 Mr. Talley: I do not, because, as I have stated, there is nothing affecting Weiss upon which I feel I should cross-examine him.

The Court: Very well, then Mr. Rosenthal may cross-examine.

Mr. Talley: I wish to note my exception to your Honor's ruling and your refusal to grant the motion.

The Court: Exception to Mr. Rosenthal, too.

5244 By Mr. Barshay:

Q. I forgot one question: Other than the statement you made to McCarthy, referring to one of the Exhibits for identification by Mr. Turkus, in 1937, did you at any time make a statement to Mr. McCarthy—yes or no? A. No, sir.

Q. You mean that at no time did you talk to McCarthy when a stenographer was present? A. Only that one time.

Q. That is the only time? A. Yes, sir.

Cross-examination by Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Do you understand, Mr. Rubin, that my questions are directed solely as to the defendant Capone? A. I understand very well.

Q. If you do not understand any question I ask you, just make that fact known to me, and I will make it clear. Is that clear to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you said that you saw the defendant Capone twice in your life prior to the time he 5246 came into this court-room: is that what you said on your direct? A. Twice or three times; I am not sure, maybe twice.

Q. Let me get it straight. Do you recall what you said to this jury at the outset of your examination? A. Let it be twice if that is what it was.

Q. What is your recollection? A. Twice. I will go along with you.

Q. Is there any doubt whether it was twice or three times? A. No, sir, I will go along with you. 5247

Q. I don't want you to go along with me. I just want you to tell this jury in your own way, in answer to my questions, the things which you have said on direct examination in answer to Mr. Turkus's questions. Is that clear? I don't want any quarrel with you. A. I say twice or three times.

Q. The first time you say you saw this defendant was when and where? A. I can guess at the year, but I cannot tell you where.

Q. Give us a guess at the year you first saw this defendant. A. I say around 1933, purely a guess.

Q. Might it have been 1932?

Mr. Turkus: I object, if it is guessing.

Mr. Rosenthal: I ask your Honor to direct Mr. Turkus that when he makes an objection now—and I consider this is legal—that your Honor direct him when he makes his objection on legal grounds, not 5249 to inject into it any reason which will give the witness an opportunity to gain knowledge of what the purpose of the cross-examination is. Further, I ask your Honor to direct Mr. Turkus that he refrain from now on, in his objections, from giving anything but the ground. He should legally say it is either irrelevant or immaterial to the issue, and say nothing about the "Rosen killing." The jury will determine whether there is anything to do with the Rosen killing. I am asking 5250 for a direction to Mr. Turkus at this time.

Mr. Turkus: That is an insulting remark, intended to bait the District Attorney into a discussion.

The Court: The Court recalls, in this case, several discussions have been indulged in from time to time by other lawyers than Mr. Turkus. All counsel are expected by the Court to make their objections in legal form. To object on the ground that the question calls for something that has nothing to do with the case is proper, legal ground of objection and synonymous to suggesting "upon the ground that the subject-matter is irrelevant."

The objection is overruled.

Q. Do you remember the question?

The Court: (interrupting) In 1932, could it have been?

A. It could have been, yes, sir, but I guess 5252
1933.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Is it not a fact that only on direct examination when you were asked by Mr. Turkus, on page 1288:

"Q. With respect to Louis Capone, when is the first time you saw him, if you can recall? A. I believe sometime in 1932 or '33."

Isn't that the answer you gave to Mr. Turkus? A. Yes, sir, that is.

Q. At that time, when you answered Mr. Tur- 5253 kus, your knowledge was no better or worse than it is when you are speaking to me? A. I guessed then, too.

Q. Is that correct? I want to get through with this. Is that correct? A. Yes, sir. I want to get through myself. I am sick of this.

Q. So you are not sure what year it was you saw the defendant? A. I place it around that period; I am not sure.

Q. Give me the place where you say you saw him. A. I cannot tell you.

Q. You cannot give me any idea of the place, is that it? A. No, sir.

Q. Whether it was in Brooklyn or Manhattan? A. Manhattan.

Q. Then you have still an idea. A. I mean as far as the Borough. I can tell you that, and that is all.

Q. Can you give me any—have you any indication about any place whatsoever, any place at all, other than the fact you now say Manhattan?

5255 A. We stopped in quite a few places during that period.

Q. Yes or no. A. I cannot give you an answer as to a specific place, no sir.

Q. You were not introduced to him? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not speak to him? A. I think we did. I think there was some sort of a conversation.

Q. I don't want you to think. A. There was some conversation.

Q. Didn't you say on direct examination you

5256 were not introduced and did not talk to him? A. I did not talk to him. It was in some sort of a conversation.

Q. (The Court) Did you participate in it? A. I don't believe so, but I heard.

Q. (The Court) It had nothing to do with this case? A. Not a thing, no, sir.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Then, can you please tell me, if you remember, how long he was within your sight or view in 1932 or 1933, or whatever year it may be? A. I cannot tell you that.

Q. It may have been a few seconds? A. It might have been longer.

Q. Or it might have been longer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you next saw the defendant when? A. In 1935, in the fall.

Q. At that time you were not introduced to him either? A. No, sir.

Q. At that time you did not talk to him or he did not talk to you? A. That is right.

Q. Can you give me any idea as to the length of time that ensued during which he was within your view on that particular occasion? A. Just to go in and out of a certain room.

Q. A fleeting glance? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The next time you saw him was when you entered this court-room? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you been shown the defendant by anybody, either the police or the District Attorney, on any occasion outside of the court-room or inside the court-room before you ascended the chair? A. No, sir.

Q. So when the question was asked you by the District Attorney as to the occasion, or whether you had seen the defendant Capone any time, you were then gazing at Capone for the first time after you had seen him in this fleeting glance in 1935; is that right, and 1932 or '33? A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. Was it a fleeting glance? A. I saw him come in the room and out of the room in 1932 or '33.

5260 Max Rubin—For People—Redirect

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to your Honor's question; he has already testified he went in and out of the room and it was a fleeting glance, in response to my question.

The Court: As to whether it was a fleeting glance?

Mr. Rosenthal: He said yes.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

5261 Q. Is that correct, Mr. Rubin? A. When?

The Court: The objection is overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

By the Court:

Q. Was it a fleeting glance on each occasion? A. Not on the first time, but on this particular time he went into a certain room and that is all.

Q. The second time was there any conversation? A. Not a word, no, sir.

5262 Redirect examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. During the cross-examination by Lepke's counsel, he elicited from you that the bakery extortion racket was going on even after Mr. Dewey had been appointed prosecutor; do you remember that? A. That is right.

Q. In fairness to Mr. Dewey, it did not take him long to catch up with those defendants and convict them, did it?

Mr. Barshay: I object and I ask for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: Objection is sustained; motion is denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Before I saw you in court, did you ever talk to me in your life? A. No, sir.

Q. That is true? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Tailey: 5264

Q. Before this witness leaves the stand, may I have the record indicate that during the entire course of his testimony a uniformed court officer stood directly behind his chair, within a foot, in the back of it; that two uniformed—another uniformed court officer stood within a few feet from him at the end of the jury box—and that during the entire testimony there was always a detective with a badge exposed on the lapel of his coat, standing also at the end of the jury box?

5265

The Court: Well, the set-up is perfectly proper. The two uniformed court officers are here legally, and the Court refuses to conduct the court without proper discretion and place court officers where it sees fit. It is none of counsel's business, and the jury will disregard it.

Mr. Talley: I submit—

The Court: Do not interrupt. There is a detective against the exit door between the court-room and the public hallway.

5266 Max Rubin—For People—Recross

Mr. Cuff: About two or three feet away from the jury box.

The Court: I will say he is almost in contact with it—behind the jury box—to one end; and that he is properly there. That door is going to be guarded at all times during this or any other trial this Court is engaged in. Now, the witness will be taken away.

Mr. Talley: I also ask your Honor to 5267 remove the picture which stood behind the witness chair through the entire course of this trial. It is entirely unnecessary and was never once referred to by this witness, who has been on the stand three days. I don't think it belongs there.

The Court: Let us have the number of the exhibit.

Mr. Turkus: That is People's Exhibit 2 in evidence.

The Court: It is not prejudicial in any way, and the Court was unaware of its 5268 presence.

This might create an impression on the record which, upon reading, would make it seem that the defendants were not having a fair trial. That is nonsense. Take the exhibit away—turn it the other way. The jury is not supposed to see exhibits, apparently. It is quite large, is on an easel, and requires a man to lift it.

Now the record is the way it should be as to accuracy and fairness.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Edward C. Maguire—For People—Direct 5269

EDWARD C. MAGUIRE, residing at 122 East 42nd Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York, called as a witness in behalf of The People, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Are you a member of the Bar of the State of New York? A. I am.

Q. How many years have you been engaged 5270 in the practice of your profession? A. I was admitted in 1922 in this Department.

Q. By this Department, you mean the Second Judicial District? A. That is right.

Q. Are you likewise admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the United States of America? A. I am.

Q. Are you entitled, and have you received permission to practice in the Eastern and Southern Districts of the Federal Court of the United States? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you been engaged, in all the years 5271 of your practice, actively in the practice of your profession as a lawyer? A. I have.

Q. Have you specialized in the practice of the Labor Law? A. That is correct.

Q. In or about October of 1936, where were your law offices located? A. 122 East 42nd Street.

Q. In Manhattan? A. In Manhattan.

Q. Were you retained by Local 240 of the Clothing Drivers & Helpers Union of the Amalgamated as their counsel? A. I do not think it was as of the Amalgamated; it was at that time the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

5272 Edward C. Maguire—For People—Direct

Q. When was it you were retained as counsel? A. In the fall of 1936.

Q. Do you remember meeting a man named Mr. Max Rubin sometime after that retainer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you known him prior to that time? A. I have probably known him from the early part of 1936.

5273 Q. Now, subsequent to the retainer by Local 240, where was it you met Mr. Rubin, Mr. Max Rubin? A. Mr. Max Rubin saw me in my office, I dare say, several times after the retainer.

Q. Did Mr. Max Rubin in the fall of 1936 have a conversation with you at your law offices? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Subsequent to the conversation, Mr. Maguire, did Mr. Rubin return? A. Yes.

Q. Did he return in company with Louis Buchalter, sometimes known as Lepke? A. Yes, sir.

5274

Mr. Rosenthal: So as not to interrupt the continuity of whatever this witness may testify to, may I have the Court's permission to enter a general objection to all of this testimony upon the ground it is in no wise binding upon the defendant Capone? It will save the necessity of my getting up continually throughout the trial, and I will reserve my motion until the close to strike out, if it turns out that my objection is well founded.

The Court: That remains to be seen.

The Court will instruct the jury at the proper time in its charge.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I have a general objection at this time so that I do not have to get up again and object to each question?

The Court: Yes. Your objection now is overrruled.

Mr. Rosenthai: Exception.

The Court: Gentlemen of the jury, when several people are tried together 5276 testimony must be accepted from witnesses only against such defendant or defendants as it applies to.

Q. Now, at the time Mr. Rubin returned with Louis Buchalter, sometimes known as Lepke, had you known Mr. Lepke or Buchalter at that time? A. I had not.

Q. On this occasion, then, when Mr. Rubin brought Lepke up to your law offices, did Rubin introduce you to Lepke? A. He did, as Mr. Buchalter.

Q. What did Rubin say? A. In the presence 5277 of Buchalter, or Lepke, as he has been called in this trial, he asked me to repeat what I had said to Rubin a day or two before.

Q. Did you do that? A. I did.

Q. What did you repeat or reiterate in the presence of Lepke? A. I told him—

Mr. Talley: This does not affect my client, and apparently will not. I object to the testimony upon the ground that it apparently is a disclosure or communication given to him by a client of his, which is improper and objectionable. Here he is going to repeat—and I am sure Mr. Maguire knows it as well as I do—he is about to repeat a conversation between him and Rubin, who was a representative or business agent—a direct representative of the union for which Mr. Maguire was counsel at the time. It is a confidential communication.

5279 Mr. Maguire: May I say this—

Mr. Turkus: You have something to say with regard to an instrument you secured before you came here to testify, as to some waiver of privilege from Rubin, in writing?

Mr. Maguire: Yes.

Q. Have you it with you? A. I haven't it just now.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that this paper be marked for identification.

5280

(Received and marked People's Exhibit Z-17 for identification.)

Mr. Maguire: With your Honor's permission, may I ask the District Attorney—there is a boy coming from my office, and it should be here any minute.

Q. Now look at People's Exhibit Z-17 for identification and tell us whether that is an exact copy of a waiver you received prior to testifying in this case. A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that, pursuant to the rules and ethics of the practice of law, you secured all the law requires before you took the witness stand? A. The privilege was his, not mine.

Q. You insisted on receiving such waiver before you would divulge or disclose the conversation? A. That is right.

Q. Now, at the time of the objection by Judge Tailey, there was a pending question which was not answered; I will ask the stenographer to read it to you. 5282

(Pending question read by reporter.)

The Witness: I told him, I told both of them, that in my opinion any man who would become a fugitive while an investigation was pending, was foolish and extremely unwise; that if that man should be indicted while he was such a fugitive and thereafter caught and brought back, that the fact he had been a fugitive would be a very weighty matter against him. I also told them that Rubin, I understood, was a married man with a child and I said it was utterly ridiculous for any man with those responsibilities to go off as a fugitive indefinitely. I told them also this: That Rubin was a representative of a union, and that no union was going to stand for its representative being off in some unknown place, and that the membership of the union would naturally rise and oust him. 5283

Q. When you made that statement to Lepke and Rubin, in connection with the word "in-5284 vestigation," did you use it in the singular or plural?

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as leading. He has answered.

Mr. Turkus: Question withdrawn.

Q. When you made that statement to Rubin and Lepke, did Lepke say something? A. In the early part of my statement to them he interrupted and said, "If witnesses are not available, 5285 investigations collapse."

Q. So the record may be clear, when you used that word, was that in the plural, was it "investigations"? A. Definitely plural.

Q. After you pointed out the inadvisability of fleeing during investigations, did Lepke say anything further? A. At the conclusion he said either, "I will see," or "We will see," and they departed.

Q. Did they leave together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you remain in your law offices? A. I did.

5286 Q. Mr. Maguire, did you see Max Rubin sometime in August of 1937? A. I did.

Q. At that time did he call at your law offices? A. That is right.

Q. Did he speak with you? A. He did.

Q. After his conference with you did you arrange for Rubin to attend at the office of the District Attorney, who was then Special Prosecutor, Thomas E. Dewey? A. He was not Special Prosecutor, he was District Attorney.

Q. Did you make such arrangement? A. I did. Now, wait a minute. He was Special Prosecutor. You are right.

Q. Did he have on his staff as Assistant District Attorneys Messrs. Hogan and TenEyck? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there any appointment made for Rubin to meet those Assistants? A. He was to meet Berent TenEyck.

Mr. Rosenthal: At the conclusion of the testimony I again move, in behalf of the defendant Capone, on the ground of prejudicial evidence, for a mistrial and the withdrawal of a juror, on the ground that this testimony is in no wise binding on him. 5288

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I make the same motion with respect to the defendant Weiss.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Cross-examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. You testified in the flour case? A. In the New York case, yes. 5289

Q. In 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In just the same way as you testified here? A. Substantially so, I believe.

Q. When you were called to testify, that was to apply against the defendant Buchalter?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. You never saw Buchalter before, and you never saw Buchalter thereafter? A. Excepting at the trial.

Q. I am speaking now of 1936. A. In 1936 I saw Buchalter once, at the time he was in my office.

Q. That was only for a few minutes? A. Yes, sir, ten minutes to fifteen minutes or so.

Q. You and he were absolute strangers to one another? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, Rubin had been to see you before?
5291 A. That is right.

Q. You knew Rubin fairly well? A. No, I would not say that. I may have met him three or four time, possibly, then, at dinners or the like of that.

Q. You knew his connection with the Expressmen's Local? A. I knew he was with a local, some teamsters' local.

Q. You claim you were retained by the local? A. That is right. I knew he was connected with the local.

Q. Was he somewhat instrumental in getting 5292 the retainer in your behalf? A. When the committee came up he was present and he seemed to feel that it was desirable for the union to retain a lawyer. He expressed his thoughts in that direction.

Q. Did you learn, through your activity in the labor field and as a lawyer, that Dewey then was conducting investigations? A. I knew that from the newspapers, that it seemed to be general knowledge that certainly Mr. Dewey had investigations on.

Q. Mr. Dewey was not only conducting an investigation but he was conducting investigations, wasn't he? A. I suppose he was.

Q. Isn't that so? A. I suppose he was.

Q. Flour was one investigation; the garment racket was another investigation; isn't that so? A. I am afraid they didn't tell me what they were doing there, but with the union they were very active.

Q. I don't say they told you, but it was common knowledge in the newspapers what Dewey was doing; he had already been in office upward 5294 of a year, hadn't he? A. That is right.

Q. As a general proposition, being a lawyer, you knew he was conducting investigations—plural—into various fields? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not know there was a Rosen investigation, did you? A. I knew this—that there was a great deal of publicity in September for some time with reference to the Rosen case. I do not want to go into anything.

Mr. Turkus: Just you finish your answer. 5295

Q. Go ahead, finish your answer. A. At one time, subsequent to the time when I was retained by union Local 240, Rubin did mention the Rosen situation.

Q. Do you know when? A. I know he mentioned it to me a day or two before Mr. Buchalter came into the office. I believe, further, it was mentioned, not at any great length, but at one time when the committee of the union was in the office.

Q. With respect to Mr. Rubin, can you give us a definite date when he told you about the 5296 Rosen case? A. My best judgment would be late in October or early in November, 1936, when Mr. Rubin, alone with me, mentioned the situation. The thing was mentioned with no great weight placed upon it, but just in passing at that time, when this committee was present.

Q. Confining ourselves to Mr. Rubin, did he tell you he ever waived privilege—did he tell you his connection with the Rosen case? A. He told me some things about it, but I do not know 5297 if you would consider it a statement of his in connection with the Rosen case.

Q. Did you take a stenographic statement of what he said? A. I did not.

Q. In your professional point of view, from what he told you, did he implicate himself or exculpate himself in the Rosen case? A. He exculpated himself; he certainly did not involve himself in his statement.

Q. From what he told you, you, as a lawyer, formed a conclusion that he was in no way involved in the Rosen case? A. I formed a con-
5298 clusion he was in no way responsible in the Rosen case.

Q. And you advised him accordingly? A. Well, what he was after. The advice he wanted was along the lines I have outlined before, that I recited, at the time Buchalter was there.

Q. Take one step at a time, please.

Mr. Turkus: I objected to that, one step at a time.

Q. When Rubin spoke to you the very time, you came to the conclusion from what he told you that he had absolutely no connection whatever of a criminal nature in the Rosen case?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as already answered in a different form.

The Court: That is what he said.

Mr. Turkus: It is repetitious, it has been answered by the witness in another way.

The Court: It is not a proper matter for objection by the District Attorney, 5300 but if any counsel for the other defendants object, the objection will be sustained. The opinion of counsel is of no consequence whatever.

Mr. Barshay: No counsel objects. May I have an answer?

The Court: The objection is overruled.

A. From what he told me, I believe he was innocent of the Rosen case.

Q. And you so advised him? A. I did not so advise him.

Q. He did not ask you for advise as to whether 5301 he was innocent or guilty? A. He made a statement to me and then asked about this fugitive thing.

Q. You did not give him any advice on the first proposition? A. I did not, that was not the question, that was not among the questions he asked me.

Q. You did not volunteer any advice to him? A. I did not.

Q. He did not tell you anybody was looking for him in Brooklyn, did he? A. No, sir, he did not.

5302 Edward C. Maguire—For People—Cross

Q. Of course, if he did, you would promptly advise him to go there, wouldn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did he say if any police were looking for him? A. He claimed that—

Q. (Interrupting) Did he say that any Assist-5303 ant District Attorney was looking for him? A. He did not.

Q. He did not tell you that anybody was asking for him at any time or any place up to that time, in the Borough of Brooklyn? A. That is right.

Q. Did he tell you about his participation in extortion, in the Borough of Manhattan? A. No, he did not, but he did mention that— I do not want to be long-winded— he did mention there was this Rosen situation and there was the Dewey situation. And then came the question about fleeing jurisdiction.

5304 Q. Did he tell you at any time that he was involved in the Dewey investigation? A. He did not.

Q. So that it is safe to say, Mr. Maguire, that at the time you spoke with Buchalter, you knew about the Rosen investigation? A. Yes, it had been mentioned to me, the Rosen matter had been mentioned, but as far as whether or not there was an actual investigation going on, to my own knowledge, I did not know it.

Q. That is what I want to know. Did you know of your own knowledge at any time that Rubin was wanted in the Rosen investigation? A. I did not.

Q. He did not tell you that, did he? A. He did not tell me he was wanted in the Rosen investigation.

Q. He did not seek advice from you on the Rosen investigation, did he?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That has been covered in all its phases, as to what the advice was. 5306

Mr. Barshay: I would be very much pleased if Mr. Turkus would just make objections and nothing else, no speeches.

The Court: The witness testified that there was mentioned both the Rosen situation and the Dewey situation, and that then followed the talk as to the question of flight. The present question calls for a conclusion and the objection is sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Buchalter that Rubin spoke to you about the Rosen case? A. No, sir, I did not. 5307

Q. You did not say one word in those fifteen minutes, with respect to the Rosen case, in the presence of Buchalter? A. That is right.

Q. But there was a talk about the Dewey investigation during that fifteen minutes? A. The way it was referred to was as an investigation pending.

Q. (The Court) Nothing said about what? A. A specific Dewey investigation was not mentioned, either. It was "pending investigation".

Q. But Dewey was conducting investigations, wasn't he? A. Yes, sir, according to the press.

Q. In Brooklyn there was just one investigation which you said you only assumed was going on? A. I assumed something happened in September.

Q. You simply assumed it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. So we have it now that in the fifteen minutes talk with Buchalter and Rubin in your office, not one word was mentioned with respect
5309 to the Rosen investigation? A. Not by name. The only thing that was referred to was, "investigation pending."

Q. And I agree with you that neither Rosen nor Dewey was mentioned—we have that clear? A. Yes, sir.

Q. May I ask you whether, at the time you spoke to Buchalter and Rubin in your office, you, of your own knowledge, had been aware, through information given to you by Rubin, that there was a Rosen investigation; yes or no? A. A day or two before he had mentioned a Rosen 5310 matter, but he did not specifically advise me there was an investigation pending, so of my own knowledge—

Q. (Interrupting) The Rosen matter was in all the newspapers? A. Yes, sir, it was in September; I doubt if it was in October.

Q. It was a matter which required newspaper publicity—you knew something about it from the papers, having read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it was generally discussed, Rubin may have—

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Did he come seeking advice on the Rosen matter from you a day or two before?

Mr. Turkus: I object as already answered.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Did you give him advice on the Rosen matter? A. I did not.

Q. It was mentioned in the ordinary course of events, was it? A. I would not characterize it 5312 that way; it was mentioned preliminary to the question about—the main question that he put to me.

Q. In the preliminary matter he did not ask you—rather, he did not tell you that he was being sought as a witness in the Rosen case? A. He definitely did not.

Q. Were you asked these questions in the flour case, at page 1326:

"Q. Did you simply offer Mr. Rubin some advice along broad general lines? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. And that it was not in connection with 5313 any specific thing that he mentioned? A. He referred to pending investigations.

"Q. There was an investigation pending at the time in the Rosen shooting, was there not?"

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Grumet: I object to that on the ground it has no bearing on the issue here.

The Court: I will allow the witness to answer if he knows.

"A. I Assume so; I don't know myself."

5314 Edward C. Maguire—For People—Cross

Did you say that? A. Yes, sir, I said it. It is correct.

Mr. Turkus: That is the testimony here.

Mr. Cuff: I object to that as an improper statement.

The Court: Go ahead.

Q. "Q. Well, then, you don't know what in-5315 vestigations were pending, do you, Mr. Maguire? A. I know the Dewey investigation was pending then."

Did you make that answer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. And how about the investigation in Brooklyn in connection with the shooting of Rosen?

The Court: He just said he did not know, Mr. Kleinman."

Do you remember that? A. I did not say that; Mr. Kleinman may have said it.

Mr. Turkus: I object, unless he gives the first question and answer and not stop when the lawyer makes objection.

Mr. Barshay: I never saw such conduct on the part of a public officer in all my life. I am reading questions and answers. I asked him whether he was asked that question and made that answer. I can only do it in one way. At that time I read what the Court said. I will now read—

Mr. Turkus: (Interrupting) He did not read the answer, because there is no answer to the question. He could not have read something that is not an answer. You should know that, having been an assistant.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor please say something to the District Attorney to stop this?

The Court: I am trying to make out this.

Mr. Barshay: I am going to read 5318
every question and answer, one at a time.

The Court: I want to get clear in my mind what you just read. It is not a matter for discussion with the witness. Ask him the question as to what he said.

Q. I want you to recall, when I was reading the questions and answers.

Mr. Turkus: He don't recall anything. This is all confusing.

The Court: You said you were going 5319 to read the next question and answer. Please do so.

Q. "Q. How about the investigation in Brooklyn, in connection with the shooting of Rosen?" And then this is the comment of the Court:

"He just said he did not know, Mr. Kleinman.

Mr. Kleinman: Well, I thought perhaps the fact he remembered the Dewey investigation might refresh his recollection, your Honor.

5320

The Court: Well, I will allow you to repeat the question.

Q. Did you know, Mr. Maguire, about any investigation in Brooklyn? A. I assume there was one."

Did you make those answers to the question I just read to you? A. Unquestionably.

Q. (The Court) That was correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Here is the next question:

"Q. And according to your testimony you merely advised that flight was bad under any circumstances, is that right? A. Definitely, yes, sir."

A. That is right.

Q. Of course, Mr. Maguire, in 1937, when Rubin came—he came to you previously, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. And so you knew, after you had discussed with him, which District Attorney you were to go to, did you?

5322

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You did take him to Dewey's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You never did take him to the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn? A. I did not.

Q. At no time you never took him to the Police Department in the Borough of Brooklyn? A. I did not.

Q. You never surrendered him in any shape, manner or form to any authorities in Brooklyn? A. I did not.

Q. Did Mr. Buchalter say to you during that conversation, "Well, we will think it over"? A. He said that at the conclusion.

Q. He never said to you, in your presence, or to Rubin, in your presence, "Don't leave the jurisdiction"? A. He did not.

Q. He never said to you, in your presence, or to Rubin, in your presence, "Get out of the jurisdiction"? A. He did not.

Mr. Talley: I have no cross-examination of this witness. 5324

Mr. Rosenthal: I wish to renew the motion I made, your Honor.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the testimony of this witness insofar as it applies to the defendant Weiss, on the ground it has no bearing on any of the matters in this indictment, respecting Weiss.

The Court: The Court cannot strike it out, but it will be applicable only against such defendant or defendants as 5325 are or will hereafter be connected with it. The jury will be instructed at the proper time, in the charge.

Mr. Talley: I except to your Honor's refusal to grant the motion now.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the testimony of Mr. Maguire on the ground it specifically shows that the inducement of flight, if any, was with respect to the Dewey investigation and no part of this case at all.

The Court: Oh, no. Motion denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5326 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

PAUL BERGER, residing at the Hotel Bossert, in the Borough of Brooklyn, City and State of New York, called as a witness in behalf of The People, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

The Court: Is this man in custody as a material witness or as a defendant?

Mr. Turkus: He is in the custody of the New York City Police Department.

5327 The Court: As a material witness or as a defendant under indictment?

Mr. Turkus: He is under indictment in Manhattan.

The Court: Then before he is permitted to be your witness he should be advised as to his Constitutional rights. Has your lawyer advised you?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

The Court: As to your Constitutional rights?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

5328 The Court: All right, proceed.

(Bernard J. Gardener, 60 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, seated in the opposite jury box, addresses the Court.)

Mr. Gardener: I represent the witness, your Honor. I have only advised him by phone. I would like your Honor to advise him now.

The Court: Repeat that, please.

Mr. Gardener: I represent the witness. I have only advised him as to his Constitutional rights over the telephone.

He is under indictment in New York County.

The Court: You have told him what his Constitutional rights as a witness are.

Mr. Gardener: Very briefly. I wish your Honor would so advise him at this time. It was with special reference to the indictment in New York.

The Court: We want to get this correct. The Court advises the witness that in the course of his examination he is entitled to refuse to answer any question upon the ground it will tend to degrade or incriminate him. 5330

Is that sufficient, Counsellor?

Mr. Gardener: I wish your Honor would do it further—If he is asked any questions concerning any crime committed in the State of New York, he may refuse to answer on the ground that the answer would incriminate him.

The Court: The Court so instructs you as to your Constitutional rights. The former instruction covered everything; this is specific. The previous instruction was sufficiently broad to cover the entire Constitutional privilege of the witness. 5331

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. How old are you? A. Forty-one.
Q. Are you married? A. I am.
Q. Have you any children? A. I have.
Q. How many? A. One.
Q. A son? A. A son.
Q. How old is he? A. Twenty years old.

5332 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Did you go to public school in New York City? A. I did.

Q. What public school did you go to? A. No. 34.

Q. Where is Public School No. 34—where was it located at the time you went there? A. Broome and Sheriff Street.

Q. Is that on the East Side of Manhattan? A. Yes, sir, it is.

Q. Did you graduate from public school? A.

5333 I did.

Q. After you graduated from public school did you go to high school? A. I did.

Q. To what kind of high school—was it a day or evening? A. Evening high school.

Q. How long did you go to evening high school? A. About six months.

Q. You quit school then? A. I did.

Q. How old were you when you quit school? A. About 16½.

Q. Did you do odd jobs after you quit school? A. Yes.

5334 Q. For example, what did you do? A. I sold newspapers, ice cream, chewing gum, things like that.

Q. In or about December of 1916 did you enlist in the United States Army? A. I did.

Q. Where were you stationed after your enlistment? A. Fort Slocum.

Q. How old were you when you enlisted in the United States Army? A. About 16½, a little over 16.

Q. When your mother found out you had enlisted in the Army at 16 years of age, did she do something? A. She went to the Commanding Officer and told him my age, and I was discharged.

Q. Sometime after your discharge from the United States Army for being under age, did you enlist in the National Guard? A. A number of months after that.

Q. Did you enlist in the National Guard? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what regiment was it? A. The 14th, in Brooklyn.

Q. Where was the 14th sent? A. Up to guard 5336
the Aqueduct, in New York.

Q. Were you sent up there on guard duty? A. I was.

Q. How old were you then? A. Past 17.

Q. When your mother found out about the enlistment in the National Guard, did she make complaint to the Commanding Officer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you again put out of the Army? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After your second discharge from the United States Army, did you go to work? A. 5337
I did.

Q. Do you recall now from whom you got that job, or by whom you were employed? A. I do.

Q. Who was your employer? A. Rensdorf & Kalikow.

Q. Where was that firm located? A. On West 3rd Street, Manhattan.

Q. What was the nature of the business of that firm? A. Clothing manufacturers.

Q. What kind of a job did you get in Rensdorf & Kalikow's? A. Cutter's apprentice.

5338 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Is that helper to a cutter? A. Helper to a cutter.

Q. How long did you work at that job with Rensdorf & Kalikow? A. I worked there about seven or eight years.

Q. Do you remember the time when that firm was unionized? A. I do.

Q. When was that? A. Around 1919.

Q. What union unionized that firm of Rensdorf & Kalikow?

5339

Mr. Barshay: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Q. After the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, unionized the firm or their employees, did you become a member of the union? A. I did.

Q. What local did you join? A. Local 4.

Q. Local 4 of what? A. New York Clothing Cutters Union.

5340

Mr. Barshay: May I have one general objection so that I may not interrupt Mr. Turkus, and except to your Honor's ruling?

The Court: It is proper in the examination of a witness to show the jury who the man is that is talking. It is not proper upon the question of guilt or innocence. Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you tell us you became a member of the union, Local 4 of the New York Clothing Cutters Union? A. That is right.

Q. Who was the manager of that local at the time you became a member? A. Murray Weinstein.

Q. After you joined the union, Local 4 of the Clothing Cutters, affiliated with the Amalgamated, did you continue working for Rensdorf & Kalikow? A. I did.

Q. After you became a union member did you 5342 do any union work? A. As far as picketing, here and there.

Q. When you say picketing here and there, do you mean picketing during the course of strikes in which the union was interested? A. Yes, sir.

Q. While you were connected with the union did you meet a man named Abie Slabow?

Mr. Barshay: I object, highly prejudicial, not binding on this defendant, and this is before this man ever said that he knew the defendant Buchalter. 5343

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Was he connected with the union? A. At the time, yes, sir.

Q. And on the payroll? A. On the payroll.

Q. Did you know a man named Philip Orlofsky? A. I did.

Q. Did he occupy any official position in the union? A. He did.

5344 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. What was it at that time, when you joined up, do you understand me? A. I do not.

Q. I will withdraw it. What position did Orlofsky have in the union, Philip Orlofsky? A. Business agent.

Q. Now, who was the business manager of the union before Orlofsky?

Mr. Climenko: I object to it as not binding on the defendants, too remote, 5345 and incompetent.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

A. Murray Weinstein.

Q. Did Orlofsky take over Weinstein's job?

Mr. Barshay: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He did.

5346 Q. Do you know Louis Buchalter? A. I do.

Q. What other name did you know him by? A. Lepke.

Q. After Orlofsky became manager, did you begin to see Lepke?

Mr. Barshay: May we have the time fixed, your Honor?

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: We don't know whether this is 1919, 1920, 1930, or 1941.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: You will find out in a minute.

A. I did.

Q. Was that sometime around 1926, if you can recall? A. 1927, to be exact.

Q. Did you, about that time, come to know a man named Jacob Shapiro?

Mr. Barshay: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled. 5348

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Did you know that Shapiro by any name other than Jacob Shapiro? A. I did.

Q. What name was he known by? A. Gurrah.

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant to this issue.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. 5349

Q. At or about that time did you come to know a man named Hymie Holtz?

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Was Hymie Holtz known by any other name? A. He was.

Q. What name?

5350 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Curley.

Q. Now, after Orlofsky became manager of the union did you see Lepke and Curley Holtz and Gurrah, at certain places?

5351 Mr. Barshay: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant to the issue in this case.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Also, it is a conclusion.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Where did you see them together? A. In the barber shop.

Q. Where was the barber shop located? A. On Broadway between 11th and 12th Streets.

5352 Q. How far from the Union Headquarters was the barber shop? A. About a block.

Q. When you saw Lepke and Gurrah and Holtz in this barber shop, did you see them with union officials there?

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as immaterial, too far afield, too remote to the issue in this case.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Who did you see them with, what union officials?

Mr. Barshay: The same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Philip Orlofsky, Lepke, Gurrah, Curley, Whitey Deutsch, Jack Noya.

Mr. Barshay: May we have the time and place, Mr. Turkus? 5354
Mr. Turkus: I cannot fix it every minute.
The Court: What year?
The Witness: To the best of my recollection around 1927.

Q. You know Max Rubin? A. I do.
Q. Did you see him? A. I did.
Q. Did you see him with Lepke, Gurrah, Curley, and Whitey Deutsch at that barber shop near Union Headquarters? A. On many occasions. 5355
Q. Did you see Rubin together with Lepke and Gurrah?

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as leading.
The Court: Sustained.

Q. With whom did you see Rubin close by the Union Headquarters at that time—who did he go with? Do you know what I mean? A. No.
Q. You say you saw Orlofsky and Rubin and Curley and Lepke and Deutsch in and around this barber shop? A. Yes, sir.

5356 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Did you see Rubin there too? A. Yes, sir.

Q. With those people? A. Yes, sir, with those people.

Q. On numerous times? A. Quite a number of times.

Q. Did you know Max Rubin well? A. I do.

Q. Did you see him around the clothing district in Manhattan? A. I did.

Q. Was he a union official? A. He was.

Q. At the time Orlofsky was manager, did 5357 you know what jobs with the union Rubin had? A. Executive Board member.

Q. After Orlofsky became manager of the union were you assigned to any strike duty? A. I was.

Q. What kind of duties did you perform pursuant to assignment? A. Slugging, pickets.

Mr. Barshay: I urge your Honor that this is entirely not binding upon the defendants.

The Court: Objection overruled.

5358 Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. (continuing) Kept scabs from going to work wherever there was a strike.

Q. Did you do those duties pursuant to your instructions?

Mr. Barshay: I object—instructions from whom?

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

I object further on the ground it is not binding on this defendant.

 5359

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Now, how long were you on that job doing that work on the strike? A. About two weeks.

Q. After that were you put to work? A. I was.

Mr. Barshay: I object; it is in no wise connected with this defendant; it is entirely incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. 5360

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.
Will you please give us the year, Mr. Turkus?

Q. With whom were you placed after the strike duty?

Mr. Barshay: I object. I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled. 5361
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. J. Eisner & Son.

Q. You mean the business was J. Eisner & Son? What kind of a business was J. Eisner & Son conducting? A. Clothing manufacturers.

By the Court:

Q. That is in Red Bank? A. No, sir, it happened to be in Brooklyn at the time. This is a different concern: it is not the Red Bank concern.

5362 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. After the strike duty you went to work with J. Eisner & Son. What kind of clothing were they then manufacturing? A. Men's clothing.

Q. How long did you stay at that job?

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. About a year.

Q. After that did you work for other firms in the clothing industry? A. I did.

Q. Can you recall the names of the firms by whom you were employed? A. I can.

Q. Will you tell us the ones that you can recall? A. The Eagle Clothes, Barsiowitz Bros.,
5364 Greenberg & Kupperman.

Q. Did you also work for the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. I did.

Q. And for the firm of Max Udel & Sons? A. I did.

Q. Can you tell us what year you worked for Greenberg & Kupperman when you began to work for them? A. The beginning of 1932.

Q. Did you know a man named Bruno Belen?

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as immaterial, not binding on the defendants.

5365

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I do.
Q. How long have you known Bruno Belea?
A. About between 12 and 14 years.

The Court: Gentlemen of the jury, please do not discuss the case nor let anybody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open.

5366

We will take a recess until 1:30 P. M.
Let the witness leave first.
The jury will leave by the other door.
The defendants are remanded.
Recess until 1:30 P. M.

(Whereupon a recess was taken to 1:30 P. M.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

5367

PAUL BERGER, resumed the stand and testified further, as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus (continued):

Q. Just before we went to lunch you told the Court and jury that you knew Bruno Belia, is that correct? A. That is right.
Q. Was Bruno Belia an official attached to the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America in some capacity?

5368 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Climenko: I object to that as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

A. He was.

Q. What was his position? A. General organizer.

Q. Do you recall the Finkelstein Brothers strike in the Bronx? A. I do.

5369 Q. Was Bruno Belia the organizer at that time?

Mr. Barshay: May we fix the date, please?

The Court: Yes, fix the date.

The Witness: It was either '27 or '28.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is entirely incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5370 Q. Will you answer the main question?

(Question read.)

A. One of them.

Q. Did you meet Bruno Belia frequently at union headquarters?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Do you know whether or not Bruno Belia is still an organizer for the Amalgamated?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection; not binding on the defendant.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He is.

Q. In or about the year 1931 was this Irving Whitey Deutsch connected with the union? 5372

Mr. Barshay: Same objection, your Honor.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Just yes or no. A. He was.

Q. Was he on the payroll?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5373

A. He was.

Q. Did this Irving Deutsch, whom you described also as known as Whitey, have some connection for the firm that you were working for—

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

Q. —namely, Greenberg and Kupperman?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.

5374 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He did.

Q. While you were working for Greenberg and Kupperman, in or about the year 1931, did you there see Lepke and Gurrah?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection. I wish counsel would not lead.

The Court: Overruled.

5375 Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Did you see them there at the same time that you saw Irving Whitey Deutsch?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Did you see Lepke, Gurrah and Deutsch in conversation, that is, talking to each other?

5376

Mr. Barshay: 1931?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: Same objection; on the further ground it is too remote.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you see them talking together a number of times? A. Quite a number of times, yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember when there was a dispute between the Orlofsky faction and the Hillman faction—

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

Q. —of the union?

Mr. Barshay: I renew my objection. 5378
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. What year was that, can you recall? Can you remember the year? A. 1932.

Q. At the time of the Orlofsky-Hillman factional dispute, did Lepke have a talk with you? A. He did.

Q. Did he give you a job to do?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. 5379
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He did.

Q. What did he tell you to do?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It has nothing to do with this case.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He told me to go in the market and speak to members to be with the Phil Orlofsky faction.

5380 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as entirely irrelevant to the issues in this case.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. When you say the "market", do you mean the clothing market? A. That is right.

Q. And you were told by the defendant Lepke to speak to people in the clothing market to side 5381 with the Orlofsky group, is that it?

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel repeating an answer.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. That is right.

Q. Did you, after you received that job, speak to people down at the market to side with the Orlofsky faction?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

5382 The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Do you know the result of that Hillman-Orlofsky dispute?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Yes or no. A. I do.

Q. Did Orlofsky quit the dispute?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as not binding on this defendant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He did.

Q. And after that, was he out of the union? A. He was.

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

5384

Q. After that dispute was ended by Orlofsky quitting, did you continue working for Greenberg and Kupperman? A. I did.

Q. Until about what year did you continue working for Greenberg and Kupperman, if you can recall the year? A. To the best of my recollection, about 1933.

Q. Did you know a man by the name of Danny Fields? A. I did.

Q. Do you remember when a general stoppage was called in the clothing trucking industry?

5385

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, we object to this as not binding on the defendant, as leading.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

A. I do.

Q. This question answer only yes or no: Before that stoppage was called, did Danny Fields have a talk with you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir; not binding on the defendant.

5386 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. After you had the talk with Danny Fields, did you have a talk with Lepke? A. I did.

Q. After you spoke to Lepke, were you put on the payroll?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir.
5387 The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay Exception.

A. I was.

Q. When you were put on the payroll, did Lepke say anything to you about a man named Murray Weinstein?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as not relevant to the issues in this case.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5388 A. Yes.

Q. What did Lepke say? A. I should do everything Murray Weinstein tells me.

Q. Were you invited by Lepke and Weinstein to go to a certain hotel?

Mr. Barshay: Fix the time, please.

A. I was.

Q. What was the name of the hotel? A. Hotel Governor Clinton.

Q. When you got there, who was there? A.

Murray Weinstein, Sam Katz, Danny Fields, myself, Lepke, Charlie Gurrah.

Q. At that time what was Murray Weinstein in the union? A. Manager of Local 4.

Q. By manager, do you mean business manager? A. Business manager.

Q. Had he taken Orlofsky's place?

Mr. Barshay: Objected to; not binding on the defendant.

The Court: Overruled.

5390

Mr. Barshay. Exception.

A. He did.

Q. What was Sam Katz with the union at the time of the meeting in the Governor Clinton hotel?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection; not binding on the defendant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5391

A. Business agent.

Q. Of what local? A. Local 4.

Q. Clothing Cutters' Union? A. That is right.

Q. When you were up at the Governor Clinton Hotel with those people whose names you have given to the Court and jury, did Lepke speak to you? A. He did.

Q. What did he tell you? A. He told us that we should— We discussed the stoppage for the next day, and I was told to be with Danny Fields on the corner of 16th Street and Fifth Avenue about 5:30 in the morning, and over there we would meet a number of other union men and we will stop trucks delivering and taking out work from any clothing house.

Q. That meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel, then, was the day before the general stoppage of the trucking industry; is that correct? A. That is right.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer before this question.

The Court: Denied.

5393 Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. And at that meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel with those people whose names you told the Court and jury, you got the instructions you just told us; is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. After you got the instructions, did you go down to the clothing district the next day? A. I did.

Q. Did you do what you were told to do? A. I did.

5394 Q. And did you perform the duties that you were instructed to do? A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: I object to the form of the question, calls for a conclusion.

The Court: This is purely collateral.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it on the further ground, too, but your Honor has overruled it. He can tell what he did.

The Court: Yes, tell what you did.

The Witness: We stopped trucks, slugged drivers, things along those lines.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out he "slugged drivers", because he, in his own testimony, your Honor, said that he received no such instructions.

The Court: You wanted to know what he did. Now you heard it.

Mr. Barshay: I wanted to know what he did pursuant to the instructions, not what he did on his own.

The Court: Let the jury figure that out.

Mr. Barshay: Exception, sir. I move to strike out the answer. 5396

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. After your day's work was done during the stoppage, did you go back and see anybody?

Mr. Barshay: I object to the characterization, "After your day's work was done".

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5397

A. We did.

Q. Whom did you report to? A. To Lepke, Murray Weinstein, Sam Katz.

Q. Where did you report to Lepke after the day's work was done? A. Met up in the Governor Clinton.

Q. And when you made your reports nightly, who was there at the Governor Clinton?

Mr. Barshay: I object to the characterization.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5398 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

A. Lepke, Gurrah, myself, Danny Fields, Murray Weinstein, Sam Katz.

Q. When these nightly reports were made, were plans discussed as to what should be done the following day?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir, entirely irrelevant to this issue, your Honor.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5399

A. It was.

Q. Was that stoppage at one time settled? A. It was.

Q. After the stoppage came to an end, did you continue on the payroll of the union?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as not binding on this defendant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

5400 Q. While you were on the payroll of the union at any time did either Murray Weinstein or Sam Katz give you money to bring to someone?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as not binding on this defendant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He did.

Q. By "he", do you mean Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz? A. Either one of them.

5401

Q. When you got that money, to whom did you deliver it? A. Lepke.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as entirely irrelevant to this issue.

The Court: What is the purpose of this?

Mr. Turkus: Showing that Lepke and the unions were closely allied.

The Court: Objection overruled. 5402

Mr. Barshay: Exception, sir.

Q. When you were on the payroll of the union, did you become an intermediary, a go-between, between Weinstein and Lepke?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I was.

Q. Did you make appointments for Weinstein to meet Lepke and for Lepke to meet Weinstein? 5403

Mr. Barshay: I object to it; nothing to do with this case.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Do you remember the time when Danny Fields left New York City? A. I do.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as not binding on the defendant.

5404 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Can you tell us approximately when that was, to the best of your recollection?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5405 A. March or April, 1936.
Q. Before Danny Fields left town, did he talk with you; yes or no? A. He did.
Q. After Danny Fields spoke to you, did you see Lepke? A. I did.
Q. And did you do business for Lepke, without stating what it was?

Mr. Barshay: I object to the form of the question.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5406 A. I did.
Q. Did you come in frequent contact with Lepke from time to time thereafter?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is immaterial to the issue here.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.
Q. How often did you see Lepke from that time on, for a period of time?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

Q. How often, how many times during the week?

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Every day or every other day.

Q. Did you know Joseph Rosen during his life time? A. I did. 5408

Q. Where did you come to know him, from what industry? A. Clothing industry.

Q. Was he a clothing trucker? A. He was.

Q. And where did you come in contact with him, that is, where did you see him? A. On the clothing market.

Q. Did you ever have any business dealings with him? A. I did.

Q. When was that? A. That was the time when I was contracting for the World's Clothing Exchange.

Q. At that time who was Rosen working for, do you know? A. He was working for Louis Cooper. 5409

Q. And did the World's Clothing Exchange have business with Louis Cooper? A. They were doing some trucking for us.

Q. Did you come to see Rosen frequently? A. I did.

Q. This question respond only yes or no: Do you recall reading in the newspapers about Joseph Rosen being killed? A. Yes.

Q. On the Friday before Rosen was killed, did you see Max Rubin? A. I did.

Q. Did he talk to you? A. He did.

Q. What did he say to you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it—in the absence of the defendant.

The Court: According to Rubin's testimony, he testified that Buchalter told him on that Friday to send this witness to see him right away, and that he conveyed the message. For that reason the objection 5411 is overruled.

Mr. Barshay: I except, sir.

(Pending question read.)

A. That Lepke wants to see me.

Q. Can you remember where you were when Rubin told you that Lepke wants to see you? A. I was up in the Clothing Cutters' headquarters.

Q. Is that known as union headquarters? A. That is right.

Q. After Rubin told you that Lepke wanted

5412 to see you, did you go up to see Lepke? A. I did.

Q. Where did you go to see Lepke? A. Up in his office.

Q. Where was it located? A. 200 Fifth Avenue.

Q. Is that the place you had been going to frequently, as you have heretofore testified, on other business dealings with Lepke? A. That is right.

Q. When you got up to Lepke's office, what happened? A. I opened the door and Lepke walked out. He said to me, "You know that Joe Rosen?" I said, "Yes." He said, "I want you to point him out." I said, "All right." He said, "Wait for me down the hall."

Mr. Rosenthal: We do not hear him. (Answer repeated by reporter.)

Q. Where down the hall did you go to wait for Lepke? A. The floor below, at the foot of the stairs.

Q. Did you there wait for him on the floor-below? A. I did.

5414

Q. Did Lepke come down? A. He did.

Q. And did you meet him on that floor below? A. I did.

Q. Did you accompany Lepke downstairs? A. I did.

Q. On those visits that you had been making to Lepke at 230 Fifth Avenue, had you gotten off at the same floor every time in the past?

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel leading, your Honor.

The Court: Sustained.

5415

Q. When you visited Lepke, what floors did you get off at? A. Either the floor below or the floor above the office.

Q. Did anyone tell you to do that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. Lepke.

Q. Now, we are getting back to the Friday before the Rosen killing. When you got downstairs with Lepke, what did he do? A. He got into a cab.

Q. Did you get into the cab with Lepke? A. I did.

Q. Who gave the driver the directions? A. Lepke.

Q. Where was the cab driver directed to stop the cab? A. In Suffolk Street and Grand Street.

Q. Is that in the East Side, Manhattan? A. That is right.

Q. Did the cab stop there? A. He did.

Q. Did Lepke get out of the cab? A. He did.

Q. Did you get out of the cab too? A. I did.

5417 Q. What happened after you and Lepke got out of the cab? A. He walked down Suffolk Street towards Broome Street, and near the corner we met some man there.

Q. Do you know who that man was that was met? A. I do not.

Q. Did Lepke speak to the man? A. He did.

Q. Did you hear what he said to him? A. I did.

Q. What did he say to that man? A. "Come over to the corner of Clinton and Broome and tell Mendy I want to see him."

5418 Q. How far away was Clinton and Broome Street from where Lepke told that man to go over and get Mendy? A. About a block.

Q. Some time after Lepke told this man to get Mendy, who showed up? A. Mendy.

Q. What is Mendy's full name? A. Emanuel Weiss.

Q. Emanuel Weiss? A. That is right.

Q. Had you known Emanuel Weiss before that, or Mendy, as you call him? A. I did.

Q. Now, when Mendy Weiss showed up, did Lepke talk to Mendy Weiss? A. He did.

Q. How long did Lepke talk to Mendy Weiss? A. Between five and ten minutes.

Q. Tell the jury when Mendy Weiss approached what Lepke did. Do you understand me? A. He walked towards him.

Q. In walking toward Mendy Weiss, did he walk away from you? A. He did.

Q. Were they at a distance away from you where you could not hear what Lepke and Mendy Weiss were talking? A. They were.

Q. You did not hear, did you, what Lepke said to Mendy Weiss, or what Mendy Weiss said to Lepke? A. No. 5420

Q. After they spoke together for that period of time that you told the Court and jury, did Lepke come over to you? A. He did.

Q. Did he come over with Mendy? A. He did.

Q. What did Lepke say to you with Mendy there alongside of the two of you? A. He told me to point out Joe Rosen to him.

Q. After Lepke told you that in Mendy Weiss' presence, did Lepke go away? A. He did.

Q. Where did you and Mendy Weiss go? A. Went over to eat.

Q. Where did you go to eat, if you can remember? A. Restaurant was located at the time on 5421
Clinton and Broome Street.

Q. A restaurant then located on the corner of Clinton and Broome Street? A. That is right.

Q. After Mendy Weiss and you had the meal, did you go some place? A. We did.

Q. In an automobile? A. That is right.

Q. Whose automobile? A. Mendy's.

Q. Who drove the car? A. Mendy.

Q. Where did Mendy Weiss drive that automobile? A. To Saratoga and Livonia Avenue.

Q. Brownsville? A. That is right.

Q. Brooklyn? A. That is right.

5422 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. You say you had known Mendy Weiss from before? A. I did.

Q. How long before had you known him, the best estimate that you can give? A. About two years.

Q. Had you seen him in company with Lepke before this Friday? A. I did.

Q. A number of occasions? A. Quite a number of occasions.

Q. Had you yourself had any personal deal-
5423 ings with Mendy Weiss before this Friday? A. I did.

Q. You came to the point in your testimony where you said Mendy Weiss drove over to the corner of Saratoga and Livonia Avenue, in Brownsville; is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. Did Mendy Weiss bring the car to a stop at or near that corner? A. He did.

Q. Did you see what Mendy Weiss did when he stopped the car? A. I did.

Q. What did he do? A. He got out of the car and walked into the candy store.

5424 Q. Where was the candy store? A. Saratoga and Livonia Avenue.

Q. To your knowledge, was that place a hang-out for the Brownsville boys?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. It was.

Q. Do you know how long he stayed in the candy store? A. About five minutes.

Q. Did he come back to the car? A. Yes.

Q. After he came out of the candy store and went back into the car, did he drive the car some place else? A. He did.

Q. Where did he drive it to, then? A. Sackman and Livonia.

Q. Also in Brownsville? A. That is right.

Q. A short distance away from the candy store? A. That is right.

Q. When he stopped the car at Sackman and Livonia, what did Mendy Weiss do? A. He got out of the car. 5426

Q. Did he say anything to you? A. No.

Q. Did you see where he went when he got out of the car? A. I did.

Q. Where did he go? A. He went across the street, speaking to Capone.

Q. Speaking to whom? A. Louis Capone.

Q. Had you known Louis Capone before that? A. I did.

Q. Can you tell us approximately how long you had known him before that occasion? A. Around two years.

Q. Did you see Mendy Weiss talk to Capone? 5427
A. I did.

Q. After they were through talking, did you see what Mendy Weiss and Capone did? A. I did.

Q. What did they do? A. Walked over to the car.

Q. Both of them? A. Both of them.

Q. When Capone walked over to the car with Mendy Weiss, what did you do? A. Capone said, "Hello", to me, and I said, "Hello", to him.

Q. Who got into the car? A. Mendy.

5428 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Did Capone get in? A. No.

Q. Did Mendy Weiss then drive the car some place else? A. He did.

Q. Where did he drive the car? A. Some corner off Sutter Avenue.

Q. Did Mendy Weiss stop the car on a corner off Sutter Avenue?

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, may counsel not lead? This is most material. The 5429 witness can be asked what he did.

The Court: Yes, this is vital.

Mr. Barshay: Let him tell what he did.

Mr. Turkus: He has already testified to this.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Barshay: Let him tell what he did.

The Court: You can ask him just where he stopped the car in relation to Sutter.

Mr. Turkus: I will adopt the Court's suggestion.

5430 Q. Where, in relation to that corner of Sutter Avenue, did Mendy Weiss stop the car? A. Off Sutter Avenue.

Q. When he stopped the car, did he say anything to you? A. He did.

Q. What did he say? A. He says, "Come on, I will show you where the candy store is and see if you can see Joe Rosen there."

Q. Did you go with Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. Where did he walk to? A. We walked on the opposite side of the candy store, on Sutter Avenue.

Q. When you got opposite the candy store, what happened? A. As we got opposite the candy store, it just happened that Joe Rosen was coming out of the candy store and he was fixing some newspapers and he was fixing the jars on the window there, and I said to him, "That's him, there he is."

Q. When you said to Mendy, "That's him, there he is," what did Mendy say to you? A. "All right," he said. "Now, get back to the car."

Q. When Mendy said, "Go back to the car," did you see what Mendy did? A. I did.

Q. What did he do? A. I walked up a few steps and I turned around and I seen him crossing over the street to the side where the candy store is, walked past it once, walked back again. Then he walked toward the side I was on.

Q. Did he come over to you? A. He did.

Q. When Mendy Weiss re-joined you, did he have any talk with you? A. He did.

Q. What was said? What did you say? A. I asked him if he'll know him now.

5433

Mr. Talley: Louder.

The Witness: I asked him if he'll know this Joe Rosen now. He said, "Yes, I will know him all right."

Q. Where did you go after that, after Mendy Weiss said that? A. Went down to the East Side.

Mr. Turkus: May I have People's Exhibit 2 put back on the easel?

5434 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Turn around, please, and look at the candy store, People's Exhibit 2, in evidence, and tell us is that the candy store. A. That is it (indicating).

Mr. Turkus: Indicating the candy store on People's Exhibit 2, in evidence.

Q. On the Sunday after that Friday did you read a newspaper? A. I did.

5435 Q. Do you recall the name of the newspaper? A. I do.

Q. What was it? A. News.

Q. Was it the Monday morning News? A. That is right.

Q. Just answer this question yes or no: Did you in that newspaper read an account of the killing of Joseph Rosen? A. I did.

Q. After the killing of Joseph Rosen, did you speak with Lepke? A. I did.

Q. Where was that? A. Up in his office.

Q. What was the conversation?

5436

Mr. Barshay: Time, please.

Mr. Turkus: After the Rosen killing.

Mr. Barshay: I know that. A year later, a day later, or when? I object to it unless a time is set, your Honor.

The Court: How long after?

The Witness: That was Monday following the murder.

Q. What did Lepke say to you? A. He asked me what the reaction is in the market.

Q. The jury did not hear you. A. He asked me what the reaction is in the clothing market.

Q. The reaction as to what? A. As to the killing of Joe Rosen.

Q. What did you say? A. I told him, "They all seem to be scared."

Q. What did he say to you then? A. He asked me if I seen Sam Katz and Murray Weinstein.

Q. What did you say to Lepke? A. I told him I did. 5438

Q. Yes, and when you told him you did, what did Lepke say, or did you say anything else? A. I told him, "They seem to be terrible nervous and worried."

Q. Who was terribly nervous and worried? A. Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz.

Q. When you told that to Lepke, what did he say to you? A. "Tell them I want to see them."

Q. After Lepke told you he wanted to see Weinstein and Katz, for you to tell them that, did you speak to Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz? A. I did. 5439

Q. Did you tell them that Lepke wanted to see them? A. I did.

Q. What did they say?

Mr. Barshay: I object to what they said.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. They said, "Things is too hot now. Wait until it cools off and then we will see him."

5440 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not binding on this defendant, what Weinstein and Katz said.

Mr. Turkus: It will be connected.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. After you were told that, did you see Lepke? A. I did.

Q. What did you tell Lepke? A. I told him
5441 what Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz told me.

Q. In order to keep the record straight, you must say the exact language that you said to Lepke as best you can recall. What did you say about Weinstein and Katz to Lepke? A. I told him that, "I told Murray and Sam Katz that you want to see them and they told me to wait until things cool down a bit," then they will see him.

Q. About two weeks or thereabouts after the Rosen killing, did you have a talk with Max Rubin? Yes or no. A. Yes.

5442 Q. After you had that talk with Max Rubin, were you introduced to some people? Yes or no. A. Yes.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not binding on this defendant.

The Court: Denied.

Mr Barshay: Exception.

Q. After that did you see Lepke? A. I did.

Q. Did he talk to you? Yes or no. A. Yes.

Q. Did he say anything about Max Rubin? Yes or no. A. Yes.

Q. Did he say anything about Danny Fields? Only yes or no. A. Yes.

Q. What did he say in that talk? A. He said it would be advisable for Max to go with Danny Fields.

Q. Did he say how long?

Mr. Barshay: Let us have the full conversation, without suggestions, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled. 5444

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: Yes, I think that is right.

Mr. Turkus: All right, it is withdrawn.

Q. When he said it would be advisable for Rubin to go with Danny Fields, did he say something else? A. Yes.

Q. Tell us what he said? A. Until things clear out in Brooklyn.

Q. Did he tell you to do anything? A. He did.

Q. Did he tell you to get in touch with anyone? 5445

Mr. Barshay: Please don't lead, Mr. Turkus. What did he tell you?

Mr. Turkus: I will ask it the way you want it and you take what goes with it. Is there an objection to the question?

Mr. Barshay: Yes, I object to counsel leading, your Honor.

The Court: Do you object to this question upon that ground?

Mr. Barshay: Yes, your Honor.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. What did Lepke say to you? A. He told me to get in touch with Danny Fields and make all arrangements for Rubin to go up there.

Q. Did he say anything else? A. He did.

Q. What did he say? A. Until things clear up in Brooklyn.

Q. Did you get in touch with Danny Fields after that? A. I did.

Q. Did you and Rubin go any place after that? A. I did.

5447 Q. Where? A. I made an appointment with Danny over in the Rustic Cabin.

Q. On what road is that? A. 9-W.

Q. When you got to the Rustic Cabin with Rubin, whom did you see him meet there? A. Danny Fields and a girl by the name of Ruth.

Q. And this girl, was that Danny's girl? A. That is right.

Q. After that meeting, did you go back to New York? A. I did.

Q. Did Rubin remain with Fields and Fields' girl? A. He did.

5448 Q. Did you see Lepke after that? A. I did.

Q. When after that? A. The next day.

Q. Did you talk to him? A. I did.

Q. What did you say to Lepke? A. I told him that I had Rubin over to meet Danny Fields and all arrangements were made for Rubin to stay with Danny.

Q. When you told that to Lepke, did Lepke tell you to do anything? A. He did.

Q. What did he tell you? A. He told me to keep in touch with Danny and tell Danny to pep Rubin up.

Q. Did you get in touch and keep in touch with Danny Fields? A. I did.

Q. Just answer this yes or no: Did he tell you certain things? A. He did.

Q. Did you tell those things to anybody?

Mr. Barshay: Who is "he", Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: Danny Fields.

Mr. Barshay: I object to what Danny Fields said to this man. 5450

The Court: Yes or no. Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

(Question read.)

A. I did.

Q. Whom did you tell it to? A. To Lepke.

Q. What did you tell Lepke? A. I told Lepke that I got in touch with Danny and Danny told me that Max called him up. At that time Max was staying in Saratoga and Danny Fields was stopping over in Glens Falls. Max Rubin called him up two o'clock in the morning and told him he must see him right away and Danny 5451 Fields rode over to see him and when he got there he seen Rubin raving.

Mr. Barshay: I object to anything that happened, the defendant not being present, your Honor.

Mr. Turkus: This is a conversation.

The Court: With Lepke. Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Rubin was raving. Go ahead. A. Rubin was raving on account he was named in the newspapers that he was wanted for questioning in the Joe Rosen murder.

Q. Just get back a minute. Before you related that conversation to Lepke, did Lepke again speak to you about meeting Weinstein and Katz, before that incident with Rubin? A. He did.

Q. What did he tell you to do? A. He told me to make an appointment, that he wants to see Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz.

5453 Q. When Lepke told you that, did you get in touch with Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz? A. I did.

Q. Did you make an appointment? A. I did.

Q. What place? A. The Governor Clinton Hotel.

Q. Did you attend the meeting? A. I did not.

Q. Did you see Lepke some time after the meeting had been scheduled? A. I did.

Q. When after? A. Next day.

Q. Did Lepke say anything to you? A. He 5454 did.

Q. What did he say? A. He told me that he made arrangements with Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz to give Max Rubin $50 a week while he was away.

Q. Did he say anything about the collection of the money? A. He did.

Q. What did he say? A. That I should get it from either Murray or Sam and give it to Max Rubin.

Q. Was it after that that you had gotten the telephone call from Danny Fields and you related to Lepke about Rubin raving about something in the newspapers? A. That is right.

Q. When you told Lepke what Danny Fields had told you about Rubin, did Lepke say anything? I am referring to the conversation when you told Lepke that you received a telephone call from Danny Fields that Rubin was raving about something that appeared in the newspapers. Did you say anything else to Lepke and did he say something else to you? A. I did.

Q. Tell us what was said? A. I told him that Danny told me that he would not have 5456 him up there.

Q. Would not have Rubin up there? A. That is right.

Q. Yes. A. And the next day I got a telephone call from Max Rubin and he told me he was over in the Hatfield Hotel and then I told Lepke and he says, "I don't know what I am going to do with that son of a bitch. He has to stay away until things clear up in Brooklyn."

Q. After Lepke said that, did you hear from Max Rubin? Did you hear from him? A. I did.

Q. In what way? A. By telephone.

Q. Did you speak with him on the phone? Yes or no. A. I did.

Q. Did you go to see Lepke after that telephone call with Rubin? A. I did.

Q. Did you speak to Lepke? A. I did.

Q. What did you say to him? A. Told him I got a call from Max Rubin, he is over in the Hotel Hatfield.

Q. When you told Lepke that you got a call from Max Rubin, that he was over at the Hotel Hatfield, did Lepke say anything? A. Yes.

Q. What did he say. A. He says, "I don't know what I am going to do with that son of a bitch. He has to stay away until things clear up in Brooklyn." He said, "Come on over. I will go over to see him with you."

Q. Did you go over to the Hatfield with Lepke? A. I did.

Q. When you got there did Lepke talk to Rubin? A. He did.

Q. What did he say to Rubin? A. He says,
5459 "Listen, Max, you got to stay away until things clear up in Brooklyn and you know things are getting pretty hot in New York", and Max said to him, "I can't get along with Danny." Lepke said, "Well, I think I got another spot for you."

Q. Do you know whether Lepke mentioned that other spot at that time? Can you remember? A. Yes.

Q. What spot did he mention? A. Salt Lake City.

Q. Any particular place in Salt Lake City? A. No.

5460 Q. Well, when Lepke spoke of this Salt Lake City, did Rubin agree to go? A. He did.

Q. Do you know a man named Willie Alberts? A. I do.

Q. Do you know what business he was in? A. I do.

Q. What business? A. Bonding business.

Q. Do you know where his office was located? A. I do.

Q. Where was it? A. Lafayette Street.

Q. Some time after that meeting in the hotel between Lepke, Rubin and yourself, did you learn that Rubin had left New York City? A. I did.

Q. From whom? A. From Lepke.

Q. What did he tell you? A. He told me that he sent him to Salt Lake City with a relative of Willie Alberts.

Q. Did he give you any instructions, Lepke give you any instructions? A. He did.

Q. What did he tell you? A. He told me to keep his money, meaning the $50 a week I was getting from Murray Weinstein; I should hold it until he'll see him.

Q. After that did you hear from Rubin? A. I did. 5462

Q. How long after, if you can remember? A. To the best of my recollection, about two or three weeks after.

Q. Did Rubin get in touch with you? A. He did.

Q. In what way? A. By telephone.

Q. Did he talk to you on the telephone? A. He did.

Q. Did you tell Lepke of that? A. I did.

Q. How long after you received the call? A. Same day.

Q. What did you say to Lepke? A. I just got a call from Max Rubin; he is over in the hotel. 5463

Q. Did you tell him the name of the hotel? A. That is right.

Q. What hotel was it? A. Hotel Hatfield.

Q. When you told that to Lepke, did Lepke say anything to you—that Rubin was in the Hotel Hatfield, I am talking about that conversation? A. He did.

Q. What did he say? A. He told me, "I don't know what I am going to do with him. He has got to stay away until things clear up." He also told me to give him his money.

Q. Did you turn over the money to Rubin that was coming to him? A. I did.

Q. Some time after that did Lepke have a talk with you about Rubin? A. He did.

Q. Do you remember how much later that was? A. To the best of my recollection it was about a week or so.

Q. What did Lepke say to you then? A. He told me he is making arrangement to have Rubin go down to New Orleans and he also told me 5465 that Rubin was going to get in touch with me and tell me the hotel he is going to stop and the name he is going to use and Lepke was going to get in touch with some people over there to take care of him.

Q. When Lepke told you that Rubin would communicate with you and tell you the name he was using and the place he was stopping at, did Lepke give you any instructions as to what you were to do with the information? A. As soon as I received the call from Rubin I should tell Lepke the name and the hotel that he is stopping 5466 at.

Q. Did you receive a telephone call from Max Rubin? A. I did.

Q. What did he tell you in that talk? A. He told me the name of the hotel he was stopping. He also told me the name that he was using.

Q. Can you remember either the name of the hotel he was stopping at or the name he was using? A. I cannot.

Q. At any rate, after you got that information, did you see Lepke? A. I did.

Q. Did you talk to him? A. I did.

Q. What did you tell him? A. I told him the name of the hotel that he told me he was stopping, also the name he was using.

Q. You came to a point in your testimony where you had told us that Lepke said he would have some people communicate with Rubin. Do you remember that? A. That is right.

Q. Some time after you had told Lepke the name of the hotel and the name that Rubin was using in New Orleans, did Lepke speak to you again? A. He did.

Q. Can you tell us how long after that time 5468 it was that you told him the hotel Rubin was stopping at and the name he was using, if you can remember? A. The next day.

Q. What did he say to you? A. He says to me, "I got in touch with them people out in New Orleans and they called up the hotel and where Max was supposed to be stopping and he is not there." He said, "I don't know what the hell I am going to do with that son of a bitch." He said, "Call up and find out what is wrong."

Q. He said call up whom? A. Call up the hotel where he was stopping.

Q. Did you call up the hotel? A. I did. 5469

Q. What information did you get? A. They told me there was a man registered there—

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not in the presence of the defendant, absolutely hearsay. He is now speaking to a gentleman, your Honor, somewheres in New Orleans who has not been identified.

Mr. Turkus: Subject to a direction of Lepke to do so, and then it will be connected by the next piece of testimony.

5470

Mr. Barshay: I don't care what that man in New Orleans said to this man. That was not pursuant to Lepke's direction.

Mr. Turkus: It was.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. After you spoke to somebody on the telephone in New Orleans, did you go and talk to Lepke? A. I did.

5471

Q. What did you tell him? A. I told him I called up the hotel and they told me there was a man registered there by that name but he checked out.

Q. Did you hear from Rubin after that? A. I did.

Q. Did he speak to you? A. He did.

Q. Was it in person or on the telephone? A. On the telephone.

Q. What did Rubin tell you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. This is not as per instructions. It is apparently a voluntary act on the part of Rubin.

5472

The Court: According to the evidence it is competent, the connection being sufficiently established if the jury believes it. Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. What did Rubin tell you? A. He told me he is in his home.

Q. Where was his home? A. Up in the Bronx.

Q. After you got that information from Rubin, did you see Lepke? A. I did.

Q. What did you tell him? A. I told him,

"I just received a telephone call from Max" and he asked me where he is and I told him, "He is home."

Q. And when you told that to Lepke, did he tell you to do anything? A. He did.

Q. What did he tell you to do? A. He says to me, "Meet me tonight."

Q. Where did he tell you to meet him? A. In 63rd Street and Central Park West.

Q. Do you know whether Lepke had lived in that vicinity? A. I do. 5474

Q. Was he living in that vicinity, as far as you know, at that time? A. He was.

Q. And had you ever been to his home? A. I was.

Q. Was it a nice place?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

A. Yes.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: I withdraw the objection. 5475

Q. You mean it was a very nice place?

Mr. Barshay: Yes or no.

A. Beautiful place.

Q. Did you meet him up on Central Park West? A. I did.

Q. Did you and he go some place? A. We did.

Q. In what kind of a conveyance? Do you understand what a conveyance is? A. No.

Q. In what did you go some place? A. An automobile.

Q. Whose car was it? A. Mine.

Q. Who did the driving? A. I did.

Q. On the way, in the car, did Lepke talk to you? A. He did.

Q. In which direction did you drive the car? A. Towards the Bronx.

Q. On the road to the Bronx did something happen? A. It did.

5477 Q. What happened? A. Lepke got off and he says, "Go over to Max's house and pick him up and bring him over here."

Q. Did you then drive up to Max Rubin's house? A. I did.

Q. Did Rubin go with you? A. He did.

Q. Where did you drive him? A. I drove him to the corner where I dropped Lepke off.

Q. When you got to the corner, did Rubin get out of the car? A. He did.

Q. Where did he go? A. It happened to be that it was raining that night and Lepke was 5478 standing under an awning and Rubin got off the car and he spoke with him.

Q. Did you see them talking together? A. I did.

Q. Could you hear what they were saying while they were under the awning? A. No.

Q. Can you give us an idea of about how long they talked together under the awning? A. I would say about ten minutes.

Q. What happened after that time elapsed? A. The both of them got into the car again.

Q. When they both got into the car, did they talk? A. They did.

Q. And by "they" I mean Lepke and Rubin. A. They did.

Q. What did Rubin say in the car? A. I heard Rubin say to Lepke, he said, "Listen, Lep, I got to be around somewheres where I can be near my wife and kid", so Lepke says, "Well, you can't stay home. I will tell you what you will do. I'll let Paul drive you downtown and pick out some hotel and check in in that."

Q. Who was the first one that got out of the car? A. Lepke. 5480

Q. Where did you drive Rubin after that? A. Back to his home.

Q. When he got home, what did you see him do? A. Took a couple of grips, some belongings, and went down in my car.

Q. Did he take the grips and belongings into the car? A. He did.

Q. Where did you drive him, if you can remember? A. We drove downtown and I think he either checked in either the Lexington Hotel or the Shelton Hotel.

Q. Did you give Rubin his money? A. I did.

Q. Did you pep him up? 5481

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: There is an objection.

The Court: I don't know what that means. Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: He was told by Lepke to pep him up.

Mr. Barshay: That was with respect to Danny Fields, if you recall, in Saratoga.

5482 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

The Court: I don't understand the meaning of the term.

Mr. Turkus: All right, I won't bother with it, if it is not understandable.

Q. In order that we may all understand what "pep up" is, what does that mean? A. Well, to cheer him up, that he should not be worried about that they are looking for him.

5483 Mr. Barshay: Will you get who is "they", Mr. Turkus?

Q. After that did Rubin go some place? Some time after he had gone into one hotel or the other, the names of which you have given us, did he leave New York City? A. He did.

Q. Did anyone tell you whom he went away with?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is hearsay.

Mr. Turkus: It only calls for yes or

5484 no.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir, beause it is hearsay.

The Court: That concludes that what someone told him is true.

Mr. Turkus: If your Honor will only understand it, when I ask a question and I submit it is proper, that the next question will connect it.

Mr. Barshay: I press my objection, sir.

The Court: You may say yes or no.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. Who told you? A. Lepke.

Q. What did he tell you? A. That he went away with Benny Levine.

Q. At that time did you have any of Rubin's money? A. I did.

Q. Was anything said about that? A. Lepke told me to give him the money.

Q. Give whom the money? A. Lepke.

Q. Rubin's money? A. That is right.

Q. How long after you were told that Rubin had gone away with Benny Levine, by Lepke, 5486 was it that you next heard from Max Rubin? A. To the best of my recollection, about four weeks.

Q. Who told you that Rubin was back? A. Lepke told me that he was back and Rubin is going to get in touch with me.

Q. Get in touch with you? A. That is right.

Q. Did Rubin get in touch with you? A. He did.

Q. Did you meet him some place? A. I did.

Q. Where did you meet him? A. I met him on Nostrand Avenue and Eastern Parkway.

Q. In Brooklyn? A. In Brooklyn. 5487

Q. And when you met Rubin on Eastern Parkway and Nostrand Avenue, describe how his face looked to you.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Describe his appearance.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: You mean disguise or something?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, absolutely.

Mr. Barshay: Mr. Turkus, you should not do that.

Mr. Turkus: I cannot give the Judge thought waves. When he asks me a question I must answer him.

The Court: I thought you meant expression. Under some conditions you can show normal reaction by change of expression. But you may show disguise at any time.

Mr. Turkus: Naturally.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Tell the jury about Rubin's appearance when you saw him on that corner at Nostrand Avenue and Eastern Parkway in Brooklyn? A. He was disguised and he looked very comical to me.

Q. What was the disguise that looked comical to you? A. He had a moustache and he wore glasses.

Q. After you had seen Rubin with that comical 5490 appearance as you have described it, did you speak to Lepke? A. I did.

Q. What did you tell him? A. I described how funny Max Rubin looked with his moustache and his glasses and he told me to give him his money and keep pepping him up.

Q. Do you remember the time when Rubin was staying at an apartment in Brooklyn after that? A. I do.

Q. Do you know where that apartment was located, on what street in Brooklyn? Can you remember it? A. Flatbush Avenue.

Q. Was Rubin using his own name in that apartment? A. No.

Q. Do you remember the name he was using? A. He was using some kind of a Russian name.

Q. Can you remember it? A. I could not even pronounce it at the time.

Q. Did you visit Rubin at that apartment when he was living under that unpronounceable Russian name? A. I did.

Q. Did you give him his money? A. I did.

Q. I mean unpronounceable in so far as you 5492 are concerned? A. That is right, unpronounceable for anybody that is concerned.

Q. Do you remember a time when Lepke left New York City?

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, we object to this, improper, incompetent, improper in form and is leading.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. I do. 5493

Q. Can you tell us approximately when that was? A. Around June, 1937.

Q. Before he went away, did he say anything to you? A. He did.

Q. What did he say to you? A. That things were getting too hot, he will have to lamm.

The Court: He will have to what?

Mr. Turkus: The New York Times spells it (spelling) l-a-m-m.

5494 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Do you know a man named Simie Diesenhaus? A. I do.

Q. At that time that you have just related, was the name of Diesenhaus mentioned? A. It was.

Q. What was said by Lepke about Diesenhaus? A. If I should want anything, I should see Simie.

Q. Was Diesenhaus an associate of Lepke?

Mr. Climenko: Object to the form of 5495 the question.

Mr. Barshay: If he knows.

A. He was.

Q. Did you have dealings with Diesenhaus from that time on? A. I did.

Q. Did there come a time when you were picked up as a material witness? A. There was.

Q. When was that? A. July, 1937.

Q. Picked up by Mr Dewey's men? A. That is right.

Q. Held in default of bail as a material wit-5496 ness in some jail in New York County? A. I was.

Q. Was bail fixed by the court upon which you could get your release as a material witness? A. There was.

Q. And to insure your appearance before the authorities in Manhattan? A. There was.

Q. What was the bail fixed? A. $20,000.

Q. How many thousand? A. Twenty.

Mr. Barshay: May we have it clear it was not with respect to this case, Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: To the Rosen case?

Mr. Barshay: Yes. If your Honor pleases, may I address the Court?

The Court: I am just trying to think. I can see where it might be and where it might not be. Do you promise to connect it up, because if you cannot give your assurance on that point—

Mr. Turkus: Well, I have a right to submit him in his true light, and it will be connected up in another direction. It is an important fact, or I would not bring 5498 it out.

Mr. Barshay: Judge, I don't want anything except—

Mr. Turkus: I won't say anything—

Mr. Barshay: I am addressing the Court, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: I will be very guarded and wary of the record.

The Court: You can ask him whether or not he was bailed out.

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: May I address the Court? 5499

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: I just want to know now for the record whether or not this material witness was picked up by Dewey with respect to the Rosen case or some other matter.

The Court: The Court received the impression that the answer meant picked up in one of Mr. Dewey's matters.

Mr. Barshay: Not with this case.

The Court: Mr. Dewey had nothing to do with this case.

Mr. Barshay: All right.

5500 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. How long were you in jail before you were bailed out, if you can remember? A. Close to two weeks.

Q. After your release on bail, were you indicted over in Manhattan? A. I was.

The Court: In another matter?

Mr. Turkus: Naturally.

The Court: That was in a Manhattan matter?

5501 The Witness: Yes.

Q. Was bail set by the court in Manhattan? A. There was.

Q. How much bail was set? A. $35,000.

Q. How long did you stay in before bail was put up? A. Close to two weeks.

Q. When you got out on bail, did you go to see somebody? A. I did.

Q. Whom did you go to see? A. Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out.

5502 It is not binding on this defendant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. After that did you see any of these defendants on trial in this case? A. I did.

Q. Who? A. Mendy Weiss.

Q. Where did you see him?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. At Clinton and Broome.

Mr. Talley: I do not hear the witness.

The Witness: Clinton Street and Broome Street.

Q. East Side?

Mr. Cuff: Fix the time.

Q. Did you have a talk with Mendy Weiss?

Mr. Cuff: May we have the time fixed first, Judge? 5504

The Court: Try to fix the time.

The Witness: The time or the date?

The Court: About the month. This was 1937, you said?

The Witness: About September.

Q. What did you say to Mendy Weiss?

Mr. Barshay: I ask your Honor now that this conversation is not binding upon the defendant Buchalter. This is September, 1937. 5505

The Court: I will charge the jury at the proper time.

Mr. Rosenthal: I make my objection similar to the ones that I have heretofore made in so far as the defendant Capone is concerned.

The Court: Same ruling.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I object to it as being too remote, too long after the date alleged in this indictment, over a year after.

The Court: Overruled.

5506 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: Exception.
(Pending question read.)

A. I explained him the way I went up to Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz.

Mr. Talley: Please speak up.

A. I explained him the time I went up to Murray Weinstein and Sam Katz, and I had an argument with them, and I told him, "What do 5507 you think of these guys, they wouldn't even send me down a lawyer or they wouldn't even get me bail after all what I have done for them", and Mendy says, "What are you going to do with them sons-of-a-bitch? After all we built the union for them and they won't even do a thing for us."

Q. Did Mendy say, "We built the union"? A. That is right.

Mr. Barshay: Is that the end of the conversation, Mr. Turkus?

5508 Mr. Turkus: Just a minute—

Mr. Barshay: I have to make a motion.

Mr. Turkus: I have to see if there is anything else. That is the end of it.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out with respect to the defendant Buchalter as not binding upon him.

The Court: It is not connected as far as I can see. Strike it out.

Mr. Turkus: This is a statement made by Mendy Weiss.

The Court: It had it down otherwise.

Mr. Turkus: I cannot help that.

The Court: Pardon me. He saw Weiss at the corner of Clinton and Broome and told Weiss he had an argument with Weinstein and Katz.

Mr. Turkus: Right, and now the witness has just related what Weiss said when he reported the conversation to Weiss, in substance, that Weiss said—

The Court: I am beginning to get it now. 5510

Mr. Turkus: Those so-and-so's.

The Court: They had built up the union.

Mr. Turkus: Yes, that is what Weiss said to him.

Mr. Barshay: I am moving, your Honor, now, with respect to the defendant Buchalter: It is not binding upon him.

The Court: I will charge the jury at the proper time.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: That is overruled. Motion to strike out is denied. 5511

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Now, about that time were you seeing Max Rubin? A. I did.

Q. Where were you seeing Max Rubin? A. Around the clothing market.

Q. Is that on Fifth Avenue? A. That is right.

Q. And where on Fifth Avenue were you seeing Max Rubin at that time, between what streets? A. Fifth Avenue between 15th and 18th Street, I will say.

5512 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Sometime in the fall of 1937 did you have a talk with Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. Where was that? A. Clinton and Broome.

The Court: Another talk?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

Q. What did Mendy Weiss say to you on that occasion?

5513 Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir. It is not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

Mr. Rosenthal: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: I object on the ground it is too remote, the fall of 1937.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

The Court: What did he say?

(Pending question read.)

A. He told me, "We got some information that Max Rubin is squealing, and he has got to 5514 be hit."

Mr. Barshay: I move—

Mr. Turkus: He has not finished yet.

Q. You got to the point where he said, "We got some information that Max Rubin is squealing," that "he has got to be hit." A. "I want you to point him out to Schlermer (Schloime) and work with Schlermer."

Mr. Barshay: Are you finished with the answer?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, at this point.

Mr. Barshay: I move for the withdrawal of a juror, your Honor, and declaration of a mistrial on the ground of prejudice.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I move to strike out the answer on the ground that it has in no way been connected up with the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Denied.

5516

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: The Court will charge the jury on that point at the proper time.

Mr. Rosenthal: I make the same motion on behalf of the defendant Capone.

The Court: The Court will say now, as a general legal proposition, that when it comes to what is known as spoliation or fixation of evidence, that evidence on that point is applicable only to the person who does it. The Court will charge the jury specifically as applied to this case at the proper time.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the answer as having no bearing or relevancy upon the questions now before this Court and jury for determination, as being, if anything, an attempt to bring in evidence of another crime not alleged in this indictment, so far as the defendant Weiss is concerned.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: It cannot be testified to.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

5518

Mr. Rosenthal: May I ask your Honor to inform the jury now that merely because your Honor has called attention to a certain rule of evidence is no indication that there is any proof in this case that that rule is applicable to the facts here.

The Court: That is why the Court is going to charge at the proper time.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am making the request now so that the jury is not under any erroneous impression as the trial proceeds, sir.

The Court: No doubt counsel are familiar with the maxim omnia contra spoliatorem. Counsel are referred to Chamberlain's Handbook, beginning with Section 431, on this point.

Proceed.

Mr. Talley: If your Honor pleases, I hope you bear in mind that this conversation apparently has reference to squealing in Manhattan, not anything connected here.

Mr. Turkus: May Mr. Talley sum up at the right time?

Mr. Talley: You bet I will sum up at the right time.

Mr. Turkus: Then do it.

Mr. Talley: You bet I will. Don't overlook that fact. I will have something to say about your witnesses, too. I don't want any confusion here of any other crime being brought in here or any confusion between the squealing in Manhattan in the Dewey investigation and the crime alleged in this indictment.

The Court: The Court understands. Objection is overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Tell the Court and jury what it means, "He will have to be hit." A. Get killed.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer with respect to the defendant Buchalter on the ground it is not binding upon him and on no theory applicable to him. 5522

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the answer.

Mr. Barshay: And I again move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the ground of prejudice as against the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I move, if your Honor pleases, to strike out the answer as being this witness's interpretation of somebody else's language. 5523

The Court: Why wasn't there objection? There was sufficient opportunity to make objection.

Mr. Talley: There was not an opportunity. There was nothing in the question that it was going to elicit anything approaching that answer.

The Court: He was asked as to the meaning of the word. When no objection was made, I assumed it was the lingo that counsel conceded it was willing that this witness should testify to the meaning of.

Mr. Talley: No, I was not at any time willing. I move for the withdrawal of a juror and declaration of a mistrial in view of that answer.

The Court: Well, for safety, notwithstanding no objection was made, the Court 5525 will strike out the witness's understanding as to the meaning of the words "have to be hit," and will instruct the jury to disregard it.

Mr. Talley: Take an exception to the denial of my motion.

Q. Now, when Mendy Weiss told you, as you have related to the jury, about Rubin squealing, "He will have to be hit," and he wanted you to work with Schlermer, did you agree to do so?

5526 Mr. Barshay: I object to it as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception, sir.

A. I did.

Q. Do you know Schlermer's right name? A. I only know him by the name of Schlermer Katz.

The Court: Is that the Katz who has been referred to here?

Mr. Turkus: No. The Sam Katz that was referred to here was a business agent.

Schlermer Katz is an entirely different individual.

Q. There have been some objections here by counsel, which have consumed some time. I want to direct your attention to this: Did Weiss say anything about Schlermer Katz to you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. Not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled. 5528

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial to matters in this indictment, too remote.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you understand what I mean? A. Repeat that question.

(Pending question read.)

A. I did. 5529

Q. What did he say? A. He is going to have Schlermer get in touch with me.

Mr. Barshay: With respect to the defendant Buchalter I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you, after that talk with Mendy Weiss, meet Schlermer Katz? A. I did.

5530 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception, your Honor.

Q. Where was the meeting between you and Schlermer?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception, your Honor.

5531

A. I met him on Stanton and Cannon.
Q. Did you have a talk with Schlermer?

Mr. Barshay: Yes or no.

A. I did.
Q. What was said?

Mr. Talley: I object to it as being immaterial, incompetent, irrelevant, not in any way binding upon the defendant Weiss, not in his presence, apparently having reference again, I submit, to another crime.

5532

Mr. Turkus: I refer your Honor to the conversation had by Mendy Weiss with this witness.

The Court: You don't have to. I remember it.

Mr. Talley: It does not make any difference. It has nothing to do with this particular indictment here and we are here to try that.

The Court: That is what we are trying.

Mr. Talley: And no other.

The Court: Yes, sir. Your objection, however, is overruled,—

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: Now I make a motion.

The Court: —because it is properly a part of this trial. Under the law it is properly a part of this trial.

Mr. Talley: I except to that statement and submit that it is not.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Barshay: Will you hear my ob- 5534 jection, your Honor, on another ground?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: Not binding upon the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: I will charge the jury at the proper time as to whom it is binding upon, if any.

Mr. Barshay: Exception, your Honor.

Q. What was said? A. He told me that Mendy told him to see me.

Q. Did you answer him? A. Yes, I was look- 5535
ing for him myself.

Mr. Barshay: I still object to it on the same grounds.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Same objection I made before. I take an exception.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Tell us the rest of the conversation.

Mr. Talley: I object to it upon the grounds already stated.

5536 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I object to it on the grounds that I stated.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. I asked him if he knows Max Rubin. He said no, and I tried to describe him to Schlermer. He said, "Well, maybe if I see him, I may know him." I says to him, "I will tell you what you 5537 will do. I have an appointment for lunch with Max Rubin over in Childs on 14th Street and University Place, at 11:30. You be in there at 11 o'clock."

11:30 I walked—

Mr. Barshay: Please. Are you finished with the answer?

The Witness: No, not yet.

Q. Finish. A. I met Max Rubin—

Q. That is all right. You finished with the 5538 answer.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out on the ground it is not in any wise connected with the defendant Buchalter; on the further ground that it is not binding upon him

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out upon the grounds already urged in respect to the previous objections.

Mr. Barshay: And in respect to defendant Buchalter I further move for the withdrawal of a juror and declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: Exception to your Honor's ruling in respect to my motion.

Q. Did you, in fact, have an appointment with Max Rubin for 11:30 for lunch at Childs Retaurant on 14th Street off University Place? Was that true, that you had such an appointment? 5540 A. That is right.

Q. Did you take Max Rubin to Childs Restaurant off University Place? A. I did.

Q. When you and Max Rubin went into the restaurant, that Childs Restaurant, did you see Schlermer there? A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, your Honor. Will you give me one objection, and I won't interfere with Mr. Turkus's questions, on the ground I already set forth, not binding in any wise on the de- 5541 dent Buchalter?

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. Is that agreeable to the Court—one objection instead of getting up every second?

The Court: It is difficult for the Court to assume any responsibility on that.

Mr. Barshay: Then I will have to get up, Judge.

Q. Can you remember where in the restaurant you saw Schlermer? A. About in the middle of the restaurant.

5542

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.
The Witness: The middle of the restaurant, facing the door.

Q. Did you have lunch there?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
5543 Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. We did.
Q. Did Max Rubin eat with you? A. He did.
Q. Do you remember how long you spent in the restaurant with Max Rubin?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. About an hour.
Q. Did you leave the restaurant with Max
5544 Rubin?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.
Q. Did you later have a further talk with Schlermer?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

5545

Q. When was that? A. Same day, same night.

Mr. Talley: May I get the date of that day and night?

Mr. Turkus: It is fixed. It is on the record.

Mr. Talley: Will you ask him, please?

Mr. Turkus: No, I won't. It is on the record, and I am not going back.

Mr. Talley: May I have the time fixed upon this conversation, if your Honor pleases?

5546

The Court: He said he had another talk with Schlermer that night.

Mr. Talley: What night is the witness referring to, is my question.

The Witness: The night that I ate in the restaurant.

Mr. Talley: What night, what month, what day of the week?

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. I am conducting the—

Mr. Talley: I am asking the Court.

5547

Mr. Turkus: —the direct examination. The time has been properly fixed in chronology, and I object to any cross-examination in the middle of direct examination.

Mr. Talley: I am asking your Honor to have the time fixed by this witness, the District Attorney having refused to do it.

The Court: He has testified that he had another talk with Weiss at Clinton and Broome.

Mr. Talley: I am asking if I can have the time definitely fixed. Will your Honor ask this witness what month he is referring to?

5548 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

The Court: Please wait a minute. And he then met Schlermer at Stanton and Cannon, but there is nothing in the record as to what month or approximately what part of any month this occurred.

(To the witness) Can you place that in any way as to time, Mr. Witness?

5549 Q. Your best recollection. A. Either the end of September or the beginning of October.

The Court: You think that was it?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. It was the same night that you had that further talk with Schlermer? A. I did.

Q. What did Schlermer say and what did you say? A. He told me that he lost Max Rubin, and he asked me where he can pick him up and what is the best time to pick him up. I told him to be around the clothing district on Fifth 5550 Avenue between 15th and 18th Street, to be there about 10:30, usually pick him up about 10:30 to 12.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not binding on defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You were familiar with Mr. Rubin's transaction of business and the places that he went customarily in the market? A. That is right.

Q. And by that I refer to the streets that he customarily walked on. A. That is right.

Q. And at times when he would be at certain corners. A. Right.

Q. After that talk with Schlermer, did you speak to Schlermer again? A. I did.

Q. When was that? A. The next day.

Q. What was said on that occasion?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled. 5552

Mr. Talley: Same objection that I made previously.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

A. He told me he picked up Max Rubin up on Fifth Avenue and he had Cuppie with him and they tailed him down to the Woolworth Building—at that time Dewey was the Special Investigator—and they waited there about an hour and they seen Max Rubin come downstairs and walk down to the subway, and they followed him home. He also told me that he has got to pick him up again tomorrow around the clothing market and when he goes into the subway to go home, he has got to get in touch with somebody in the Bronx. 5553

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out, your Honor, on the ground heretofore set forth.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you know Cuppie's right name? A. No.

5554 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Does the name Jack Migden mean anything to you, or Jacob Migden? A. I think that is it.
Q. You think it is Cuppie? A. That is right.
Q. In that talk did Schlermer tell you who in the Bronx he was supposed to telephone and report when Rubin got in the subway train to go home?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

5555 A. No.

Mr. Talley: I object to it on the ground it is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial, has no binding effect upon the defendant Weiss.
The Court: Overruled.
Defense Counsel: Exception.

A. No, he did not tell me who, but he told me they got to time it how long it takes when he goes into the subway, when he goes home. He has to get in touch with somebody but he didn't 5556 tell me whom he has got to get in touch with.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the answer on the grounds heretofore urged.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Sometime after that did you read about an accident happening to Mr. Rubin?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.
Mr. Talley: I object to it.
The Court: Sustained.
Mr. Barshay: I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Rosenthal: Same exception.

The Court: It is sustained because what you read in a newspaper is hearsay; it is not evidence.

Mr. Turkus: I only wanted a yes or no answer.

Mr. Talley: It does not make any difference what you want. 5558

The Court: Even that is dangerous.

Mr. Turkus: I won't pursue it at that point.

Q. How long after, if you can recall, after you were told by Schlermer what you just related to the jury, was it that you saw Mendy Weiss again?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. 5559

Q. Do you understand the question? A. Repeat that question.

(Question read.)

A. Quite some time after Rubin was shot.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out that answer.

The Court: Strike it out.

5560 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: And ask that the jury be directed to disregard it.

The Court: The jury is directed to disregard it.

Mr. Talley: And I move for the withdrawal of a juror and a mistrial.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: I make the motion for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial, and I join in the other 5561 motion Judge Talley made.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I have the same motion and exception?

Mr. Barshay: Exception to all counsel.

The Court: Same ruling.

Q. Tell the Court and jury what Mendy Weiss said to you.

Mr. Barshay: I object.

5562 The Court: You asked him how long after. That means days, weeks or months. Was it a few days, a few weeks or a few months between the time you left Schlomer the last time?

The Witness: I would say a couple of months.

The Court: You saw Weiss a couple of months later?

Q. Tell us what Mendy Weiss said to you.

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

(Question read.)

A. He said to me, "Look at that lucky son-of-a-bitch, he gets hit in the head and he is still alive."

5564

The Court: Louder.

The Witness: "Look how lucky the son-of-a-bitch is. He gets hit in the head and he is still alive, but we will catch up with him yet."

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the ground of absolute prejudice. 5565

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: Same motion on behalf of the defendant Weiss.

The Court: Same ruling.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

The Court: Same ruling.

Q. Some time after Mendy Weiss told you what you have just told this Court and jury, did you see him again; yes or no? A. Yes.

5566 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. How long after that when he told you about how lucky, et cetera, et cetera? A. To the best of my recollection, about six or seven months.

Q. What happened at that time?

Mr. Barshay: I object to the form of the question.

Mr. Talley: I object to it as being incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, too remote.

5567

The Court: It is too general. (To Witness) You saw Weiss six or seven months later?

The Witness: That is right.

Q Did you go some place with Mendy Weiss? A. He asked me to take a ride with him.

Q. And did you ride with him? A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: Objected to. It is not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

5568 Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Who drove the car?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Mendy.

Q. Where did he drive you to?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection, your Honor.

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Saratoga and Livonia.
Q. In Brooklyn? A. In Brooklyn.
Q. The Brownsville corner? A. That is right.
Q. Whom did you meet there?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

A. Pittsburg Phil Strauss. 5570

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer.
The Court: Denied.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. After you met Pittsburg Phil Strauss there, did you and Mendy Weiss go some place?
A. We did.

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

Q. Where did you go? 5571

The Court: Did Strauss go with you?
The Witness: He did.
The Court: All went?
The Witness: That is right.

Q. Who went?

Mr. Barshay: Did your Honor rule?
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5572 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Where did you go? A. Went over to Louis Cohen's house.

Q. Who were the ones that went to Louis Cohen's house? A. Myself, Mendy Weiss and Pittsburg Phil Strauss.

Q. How long did you, Mendy Weiss and Pittsburg Phil Strauss stay in Cohen's house?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

5573 The Court: You mean Louis Cohen or Philip Cohen?

The Witness: Louis Cohen.

The Court: Where is his house?

The Witness: Somewhere off Kings Highway.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

(Question read.)

A. About an hour.

Q. Did the three of you leave, that is, you, Strauss and Mendy Weiss leave?

5574

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

A. We did.

The Court: Same ruling.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you get into the car?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

A. We did.

5575

Q. In the car did Mendy Weiss say anything to you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He did.

Q. What did he say to you?

5576

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He asked me if I know that Seymour Magoon.

Q. What did you say when he asked you if you knew Seymour Magoon?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5577

Q. I did not hear you. A. I was not positive that I knew him and he started to describe him to me.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it and move to strike out the answer.

Mr. Turkus: Let him finish his answer.

Mr. Barshay: He dropped his voice and I thought he did.

Q. Finish your answer and then we will objections. A. He tried to describe him to me and I said, "Maybe if I will see him I may know him." He says, "I tell you what I want you to do." He said, "I want you to point out Max Rubin to Magoon. This time the son of a bitch ain't going to be so lucky." Then he says to me, "Be over in Ratner's restaurant—that is located on Delancey Street and Suffolk Street—at 9:30 in the morning and Magoon will be there and I will have Cuppie there with him."

5579 Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer, your Honor, as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the ground of prejudice.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out, if your Honor pleases, upon the ground that it has to do with a crime entirely 5580 distinct and remote from the crime named in this indictment.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: I join in the motion for the withdrawal of a juror and a mistrial. Take exception to your Honor's both rulings.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: At the same time, your Honor, may we have the date of this conversation, if possible.

The Court: About when was it?

Mr. Turkus: The witness has already fixed the time.

The Court: He said about two months after the previous occasion.

Mr. Turkus: May I continue with my direct? I fixed the time properly enough for the record. If there is any cross-examination, it can be done without breaking up the direct. 5582

The Court: All right, go ahead.

Q. Is that Cuppie the same Cuppie that Schermer was talking about? A. That is right.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

Q. After Mendy Weiss gave you those instructions, did you go to Ratner's restaurant the following morning? A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. 5583

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Whom did you meet in Ratner's restaurant?

Mr. Barshay: Same objection, your Honor.

The Court: Same ruling.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I met Magoon and Cuppie.

5584 Q. By Magoon you mean Seymour Magoon? A. That is right.

Q. When you saw Magoon there with Cuppie, did you recognize him?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.

5585 Q. Was he one of the boys from Brownsville?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir, not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He was.

Q. Now, did you, Magoon and Cuppie talk together?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled.

3586 Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. We did.

Q. What was said?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases, on the ground it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it on the ground I heretofore urged.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

A. I spoke over with him the best way to point Max Rubin out to Magoon.

Q. Tell us what you told him, what was the best way to point him out?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

A. I told him that they should meet me over 16th Street and Union Square.

Q. Whom did you tell to follow you down to Union Square and 16th Street? A. Cuppie was 5588 with me and Magoon followed me up in another car.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, your Honor, and move to strike out the answer. I asked Mr. Turkus, to have one objection and I would not interrupt you but the Court would not allow it and I cannot help it. If the Court will allow it, I will sit down with one objection.

Mr. Turkus: I am only the prosecutor.

Mr. Barshay: I don't want to interrupt 5589
Mr. Turkus except I want to record my objection.

The Court: The Court does not say it won't allow it. The Court says you will have to assume the responsibility as to the extent and number to which your objection and exception may go because if the Court assumes the responsibility, that will put over on the Court the burden of watching for objectionable points and doing the work that should properly be done by counsel. That is not the best procedure.

5590

Mr. Barshay: Then, your Honor, I will have to do it as I have been doing.

The Court: Use your judgment.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: As having no bearing whatever or relation to defendant Weiss, not in his presence or hearing, and I am warning your Honor with all the earnestness that I can that we are now delving into the alleged commission of another crime entirely distinct and apart from the indictment that we are here to answer.

5591

The Court: The Court is quite alert to its duties, but thank you for the warning nevertheless.

Mr. Talley: Perhaps your Honor, being alert to your duties, will rule on my motion.

The Court: Yes, I had already said "overruled" when you went on.

5592

Mr. Talley: I take an exception. I have done all I could to make plain what is in my mind.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Rosenthal: I do not want to make any objection but I want to see whether I understood your Honor properly at the outset of this testimony. I asked in so far as this witness was concerned that if the testimony was not applicable to my client, whether I could have a general objection and exception to the particular line without interrupting, and I understood your Honor said yes.

The Court: Certainly. I am going to instruct the jury at the proper time in the law as to whom this is applicable.

Mr. Rosenthal: That is the reason why I have not gotten up to object.

The Court: And I have even gone to the extent of stating in a brief and preliminary way to the jury generally the law on that point.

Mr. Rosenthal: I thought that I had understood your Honor correctly. 5594

The Court: I am trying to see you are not prejudiced. At the same time the Court cannot prejudice the case by making a ruling limiting the application of evidence in the absence of the possible connecting up of the evidence at a later stage of the trial with other defendants than is now indicated by the record.

Mr. Rosenthal: That was my theory, that your Honor and I had agreed on that particular point.

The Court: I think we understand one another. 5595

Mr. Rosenthal: All right.

Mr. Barshay: I will do the same as Mr. Rosenthal, one objection and one exception to this line of inquiry.

The Court: Yes.

Q. In view of the series of objections that were made here, I want to direct your attention to this: At the time when you were talking over with Magoon and Cuppie the best way to point out Rubin, did you tell them anything about speaking to you? A. I did.

Q. What did you say?

5596 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: That is objected to, in competent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I told them not to talk to me because I am very well known around there.

Q. Very well known around where? A. The clothing market.

Q. That is what you said to Magoon and Cuppie? A. That is right.

5597

Q. Now we got to the point where you started out to point him out. A. That is right.

Q. Where did you go to point out Max Rubin on this occasion? A. We walked down—we got off our cars on 16th Street and Union Square, and they followed me down towards 5th Avenue.

Q. So the jury will understand it, did you walk first? A. I did.

Q. Who walked behind you? A. Magoon walked behind me and Cuppie was following Magoon.

Q. Now, in that formation, or in that way, where did you walk? A. We walked down toward 5th Avenue. I walked up a block and I spotted Max Rubin.

5598

Q. Where did you spot Max Rubin? A. On the opposite side from where I was.

Q. Where were you then when you spotted him? A. On 17th Street and 5th Avenue, and he happened to be standing near a candy store right opposite me.

Q. When you spotted Max Rubin in that location, what did you do or what did you say? A. I walked over to Magoon. I says, "There's the fellow, standing across the street, the fellow with a stiff neck, standing with somebody else there."

Q. When you said that to Magoon, describe to the jury how you said it to him. A. As he was standing, he was watching me. I walked back. I said to Magoon, "There he is on the other side, the fellow with the stiff neck, talking to the other fellow on the corner."

Q. At that time did Rubin have a stiff neck? A. He did.

Q. After you had pointed out Rubin in that 5600 fashion to Magoon, what did you see Magoon do? A. I seen him cross over to the side where Max Rubin was standing, and he stood there. Then I walked away.

Q. After you had pointed out Rubin to Magoon, this Seymour Magoon, did you talk to Mendy Weiss again? A. I did.

Q. Where did you have the talk at that time? A. Over in the bar and grill on Lewis and Grand Street.

Q. How long after you had pointed out Max Rubin was that, after you had pointed him out to Magoon? A. To the best of my recollection, 5601 about two weeks.

Q. What did you say to Mendy Weiss?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Too remote.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I said, "What is happening with Max?"

5602 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. What did Mendy say to you? A. Mendy says to me, "What is the matter with you? We got to be very careful. He is with a cop and we don't want to hit a cop, so we got to be very careful how are we going to hit him."

Q. What does the expression mean, to be "hit"?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases.

5603

A. To get shot.

The Court: You can qualify him on those terms.

Mr. Turkus: He is an expert.

Mr. Talley: Expert spotter.

Q. Are you familiar with the expressions used by the underworld? A. I am.

Q. Have you heard it for years, these expressions? A. I did.

Q. Are you an expert in the use of the lan-5604 guage? A. I am.

Q. What does the expression, to be hit, mean in the underworld? A. Shot.

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor please.

Q. What was the answer? A. Shot.

The Court: Strike that out. The objection is sustained. He cannot say he is an expert.

(To Witness) How long have you been familiar with the word, as you used it, "hit"?

The Witness: About fourteen or fifteen years.

The Court: Is it common lingo?

The Witness: It is.

The Court: In the market there, among your group?

The Witness: That is right.

The Court: You may answer.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 5606

Q. Tell us what it means. A. It means shot.

The Court: Just what did he say about that? He said he was being followed by a cop?

The Witness: No, he said he is with a cop and we have to be careful, we don't want to hit the cop, too.

Q. At that time did you know that Rubin was under police protection? A. I did.

Q. Was he under police protection when you fingered him to Seymour Magoon in the clothing district? A. He was. 5607

Q. After Mendy Weiss told you about not wanting to hit the cop with Rubin, did you see Magoon in the East Side of Manhattan? A. I did.

Q. Where did you see him? A. I seen him talking to Mendy Weiss.

Q. Where was he talking with Mendy Weiss? A. On Lewis and Grand Street.

Q. Is that a hangout there, Lewis and Grand? A. It was at the time.

5608 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Q. Describe the dress, or clothes, rather, that Magoon wore on that occasion when you saw him talking with Mendy Weiss on Lewis and Grand Street. A. He was dressed like a laborer.

Q. Did he have on overalls? A. He did, with a flannel shirt.

Q. That was not the usual manner of dress of Seymour Magoon, was it? A. Absolutely not.

Q. That was something unusual? A. That is right.

5609 Q. After Mendy Weiss and Magoon got through talking, did you walk over to Magoon? A. I did.

Q. Did you talk to Magoon? A. I did.

Q. What did you say to him? A. I asked him what is the idea of dressing up the way he did. He says to me, "Listen, I am casing Max: around where he lives there happens to be some construction work going on there and I don't want to be spotted, so I dresses up like one of the laborers."

Q. Tell us what does "casing" mean. A.

5610 Watching.

Q. That is watching and observing his movements? A. That is right.

Q. Preliminary to doing something? A. Right.

Q. Tailing him, timing him? A. Right.

Q. Do you remember some time in May, 1940, reading a newspaper: yes or no? A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember reading something in the newspaper about one Albert Tannenbaum, or Allie Tannenbaum: yes or no? A. Yes.

Q. Did you know Albert Tannenbaum? A. I did.

Q. Was he an associate of Lepke? A. One of Lepke's men.

Q. Was he generally called Allie? A. He was.

Q. After you read something in the newspaper about Allie Tannenbaum, did you have a talk with Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. Where did you have that talk with him? A. Met him in Williamsburg.

Q. Williamsburg, Brooklyn? A. That is right.

Q. What was said by Mendy in that conversation? 5612

Mr. Cuff: May we have the time fixed?

Mr. Turkus: This is May, 1940, about.

Mr. Cuff: May we have the time fixed, Judge, by the witness, not by Mr. Turkus?

The Court: Yes. How long after this talk with Tannenbaum did you talk to Weiss?

Mr. Turkus: No, there is no talk with Tannenbaum.

The Court: I thought he said he talked with Tannenbaum.

Mr. Turkus: No, he read something in the newspapers. 5613

Mr. Talley: In May, 1940. Now, he asked about a talk he had with Weiss, and we are asking that that time be fixed.

The Court: How long after you read, did you talk with Weiss?

The Witness: About the next day.

Q. What did Mendy Weiss tell you over in Williamsburg?

5614 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: Same objection as made before, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Apparently has reference to the same happening, matter not referred to in the indictment.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. "It looks like Allie is talking."

5615 Q. Yes. Open up your mouth when you talk, so we can hear you. A. "It looks like Allie is talking and I will have to duck. If you want anything, get in touch with Shimmy."

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out upon the grounds already urged, no reference to any matter in the indictment.

Mr. Barshay: It appears apparently that Mr. Turkus has left the theory of spoliation, so I want to renew my motion to strike out the testimony.

The Court: So far as the Court under-5616 stands, so far as the Court sees at the present moment, that is so.

Mr. Barshay: Then I move to strike out all this man's testimony.

The Court: I would like to inquire of Mr. Turkus if he can completely—

Mr. Turkus: I don't hear you.

The Court: Can you tell me what you are driving at?

Mr. Turkus: Did you hear his answer?

The Court: Yes, sir. I as asking you a question.

Mr. Turkus: Flight.

Mr. Barshay: As against whom?

Mr. Turkus: Mendy Weiss says to this man, "It looks like Allie is talking. I have got to duck. You get in touch with Shimmy."

The Court: The Court understands that perfectly. From what crime?

Mr. Turkus: From this.

The Court: From what crime?

Mr. Turkus: From the killing of Rosen.

The Court: How do you connect Allie 5618
Tannenbaum with that knowledge?

Mr. Turkus: We will unfold that. We will have Allie Tannenbaum here to tell the jury.

The Court: You mean you intend to connect it?

Mr. Turkus: Of course.

The Court: Let it stand.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: I am sorry. I did not mean to have a petuiant tone of voice.

The Court: I could not recall where 5619
Allie Tannenbaum had been shown to have any knowledge of the Rosen murder and I could not figure what Weiss was ducking from, whether it was that or something else, whether it was possibly the Dewey general investigation. That would be incompetent, but upon your promise to connect it up, we will let the answer stand.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor listen to my motion?

Mr. Turkus: If you recall, on Rubin's cross-examination, counsel for Lepke

5620 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

brought out something about Allie Tannenbaum.

The Court: I remember that.

Mr. Turkus: You will hear from Allie Tannenbaum later on.

Mr. Barshay: Will you rule on my motion first to strike out this testimony?

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: May I make a motion?

The Court: I thought you made the 5621 motion.

Mr. Barshay: Yes, I was making the motion. Mr. Turkus, apparently having left the theory from this witness about spoliation, I want to make a motion to strike out all his testimony he gave in support of that theory as not binding upon the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I object to this line of inquiry because this has in absolutely no way any tendency to connect the defendant Buchalter.

5622

The Court: It is in the record. If it is not connected up, the Court will strike it out later. At this time it is denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: Thereby avoiding the necessity of bringing this witness back if it is connected up, and if it is not connected up, no harm is done, because to duck from something else has no evidentiary value in this case. I am sure the jury will not be prejudiced by that.

Mr. Barshay: The point I make is that the flight of one defendant is not binding upon any other defendant. That is my point.

The Court: I understand that perfectly. The jury will be so instructed, but I cannot strike out the evidence at this time.

Mr. Talley: I take exception.

The Court: I mean I shan't.

Q. I think prior to these objections, and so that we get back at the point of testimony that 5624 we were at, did you say in substance that Weiss said in substance, "It looks like Allie is talking," and that he, Weiss, will have to duck, and if anything comes up, if you want anything, to get in touch with Shimmy? A. That is right.

Q. Did you know Shimmy? A. I did.

Q. Was he one of Lepke's men? A. He was.

Q. After Mendy told you he would have to duck, did you ever see him again before you came to court? A. I did not.

Q. When were you picked up by District Attorney O'Dwyer? A. Around June 5, 1941. 5625

Mr. Rosenthal: That is objected to, if the Court pleases, nothing to show he was picked up.

Mr. Turkus: Nothing to show he was picked up?

Mr. Rosenthal: No.

Mr. Turkus: We got him here.

Mr. Rosenthal: He might have walked in.

Mr. Turkus: You be patient.

5626 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Mr. Rosenthal: Don't worry about me. I have been patient for a number of weeks. I still object to the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. And were you arrested and charged with murder in the first degree, the murder of Rosen, your part of it? A. I was.

Q. Went to jail? A. I did.

5627 Q. No bail? A. No bail.

Q. After that did you ask to see Judge O'Dwyer? A. I did.

Q. Did you see Judge O'Dwyer? A. I did.

Q. Did you have a full talk with Judge O'Dwyer?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the characterization; whether he had a full one is what the jury will determine, not Mr. Turkus.

The Court: Sustained.

5628 Mr. Rosenthal: Or Judge O'Dwyer either. We had that question asked of Mr. Bernstein also.

Mr. Turkus: Have you finished, Mr. Rosenthal?

Mr. Rosenthal: I made my objection. The Court has sustained it.

The Court: The objection is sustained for the reasons stated.

Q. Did you have a talk with Judge O'Dwyer? A. I did.

Q. You were taken out of jail after the talk? A. I was.

Q. Put into a hotel? A. That is right.

Q. Custody of the New York City Police Department? A. That is right.

Q. Twenty-four hour police guard? A. That is right.

Q. Still in the hotel? A. That is right.

Q. Still under 24 hour police guard? A. That is right.

Q. Were you taken before a Grand Jury and did you testify about the Rosen killing? A. I did.

5630

Mr. Turkus: The witness is offered for cross-examination.

Mr. Rosenthal: Before any cross, if your Honor pleases, so as to have the record straight, I now move for a mistrial and withdrawal of a juror in so far as the defendant Capone is concerned since it now appears affirmatively that in no wise is any of the testimony of this witness related to that defendant and the testimony in so far as he is concerned is highly prejudicial to his rights and interests to a fair trial. 5631

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I make a motion with respect to the defendant Buchalter for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the ground that the latter part of the testimony with respect to spoliation and flight is highly prejudicial to him.

5632 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I make the same motion with respect to the defendant Weiss, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: Gentlemen, I want to be reasonable with counsel and I want counsel to be reasonable with the Court. It is 5633 obvious that after the direct examination of this witness, defendants' counsel are entitled to an opportunity to properly prepare for cross-examination. I had intended to hold a Saturday session but if I do it will give the appearance of suddenly pushing the case to the disadvantage of the defense and I won't give the case that complexion so we will have no Saturday session, but I am going to ask counsel between now and Monday to decide and let me know on Monday one of 5634 two alternatives: Shall we sit later hours or shall we hold Saturday sessions. Don't answer that now. It is one or the other. Gentlemen of the jury, please don't discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it, keep your minds open. Remember each and every other admonition heretofore given, both orally in court and in the instructions given to the chief court officer concerning your demeanor. We will resume this trial at ten o'clock Monday and the Court expresses the wish that we shall all of us try to be promptly on hand so we can start the case promptly at ten o'clock each morning. We will do quite a bit more work. I think most of the trial as far as the prosecution is concerned may be over. Ten o'clock Monday morning.

The witness may leave first.

The jury by the other door.

Remand the defendants.

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor direct that I may have an opportunity for a very brief time to consult now in the pen with 5636 my client?

The Court: I gave that right to all counsel every day. That is understood. That is to avoid the necessity of any trips to their places of confinement.

Defendants are remanded.

(Thereupon an adjournment was taken to Monday, November 10, 1941, at ten a.m.)

5637

5638 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 10, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

PAUL BERGER, a witness in behalf of The People, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Mr. Turkus: I am not seeking to reopen the direct examination, but I want 5639 to go only to the extent of asking this witness to identify two individuals.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Will you identify this man, please? A. Yes, sir, that is Murray Weinstein, manager of Local No. 4, also executive board member of the General Executive Board of the Amalgamated.

Q. Can you identify this man (indicating)? A. Sam Katz, business agent of Local 4, New York Clothing Cutters Union.

5640

Mr. Turkus: Mr. Weinstein having been previously identified by Rubin, I ask that this man identified as Katz state his name for the record.

The Party Addressed: Sam Katz, 1045 Anderson Avenue, Bronx.

Mr. Barshay: We subpoenaed some police records. I understand they were brought to court by a police officer the other day and the officer turned them over to Mr. Turkus. May we have them, please?

Mr. Turkus: What are they?

Mr. Barshay: Police records indicating surveillance in New York County of the defendant Buchalter by the Police Department. The police officer who came here the other day did not bring the records, your Honor, but he did explain to Mr. Climenko, my associate, that he was here pursuant to subpoena, and he was told to deliver to Mr. Turkus the record. It had already been in his possession for 5642 a considerable time. Those are the records I have reference to.

Mr. Turkus: The records are in court, but counsel for the defendant Lepke will have to proceed according to law with respect to those records.

Mr. Barshay: I am proceeding according to law: I subpoenaed them by an order signed by your Honor. I subpoenaed them and I would like them.

Mr. Turkus: A subpoena does not warrant the turning over by the Police Department of D.D. 4's and D.D. 5's, to 5643 counsel for the defendant.

The Court: That is right.

Mr. Barshay: Mr. Turkus should not have them in his control then. Whether or not the D.D. 4's have anything to do with this case, they are only concerning the movements of the defendant Buchalter in the years 1935, 1936, and 1937 in Manhattan, and have absolutely no bearing upon this case.

The Court: I know nothing about it.

5644 Paul Berger—For People—Direct

All I know is what the law purports to be. You know how to proceed, with a subpoena duces tecum.

Mr. Barshay: I complied with every phase of the law.

The Court: Please. If you wish you can have it marked for identification and then offer it in evidence, and if there is an objection, the Court will rule.

Mr. Barshay: May we have them
5645 marked for identification? I have only information, in reply to Mr. Turkus's question, that the police officer told that to Mr. Chimenko in the hall the morning he was here, November 8th.

The Court: Is there a dispute about it now?

Mr. Turkus: I am checking through the records to see if we have such a record.

The Court: If Mr. Klein were here, he would probably know.

Mr. Turkus: Mr. Joseph takes care of all records.

5646 The Court: Do you know anything about it, Mr. Joseph?

Mr. Joseph: All we have is the original D.D. 5' and that is not part of the Rosen record.

Mr. Barshay: I don't want it at this time.

The Court: Instead of making a statement before the jury, proceed according to law. Put your policeman on the stand and see if he knows what he is talking about.

Mr. Barshay: The policeman was excused by Mr. Turkus, he is not here. I will have to get him again.

The Court: I am not interested in that. Nobody's subpoenas can be excused by counsel for either side, and you should not make such a hearsay statement before this jury.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception, because I am telling you what the officer said.

The Court: You do not have to raise 5648 your voice and shout your exception.

Mr. Barshay: May the record show that counsel has not raised his voice, nor has counsel shouted to the Court, but that counsel is talking in a regular tone and in his ordinary voice.

The Court: The Court states on the record that you are not telling the truth.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception to that. Not even the Court is going to say that to me.

The Court: Sit down and behave your- 5649 self.

Mr. Barshay: I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: Cross-examination first on behalf of Buchalter.

Cross-examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. Can you tell us where you were born? A. Poland.

Q. Are you a citizen of the United States? A. I am not.

Q. Did you register as an alien? A. I did.

Q. Can you tell me when? A. A few months ago.

Q. Can you tell me where? A. Up in the District Attorney's office.

Q. In Brooklyn? A. That is right.

Q. You mean you registered as an alien in the District Attorney's office? A. I did.

5651 Q. Can you tell us the time, please? Was it since your arrest? A. That is right.

Q. Do you know when the law allowed for registration period, between when registration began and registration ended? A. I did.

Q. You did not register within those times? A. I did not.

Q. So it was only after June 5, 1941, when you were arrested in this case by the District Attorney's office and the police? A. I thought I was a citizen.

Q. (continued) That for the first time you declared yourself as an alien? A. Through ques-5652 tioning by the District Attorney. I presumed I was a citizen, through questions.

Q. You never applied, Berger, for citizenship papers, did you? A. No, sir, I was under the impression my father was a citizen, and being that I was in the Army, naturally I thought I was.

Q. Now, when for the very first time were you questioned in this case? A. When I was first arrested.

Q. That was June 5, 1941? A. That is right.

Q. You have lived in the City of New York all the time since 1936 or before that? A. I did.

Q. So that, going back to sometime before September 11, 1936, you used your own name, Berger, Paul Berger? A. That is right.

Q. You lived with your family? A. That is right.

Q. And your son used his own name, Berger? A. That is my name.

Q. He used that name too? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you live? A. At what time?

Q. About 1936. A. 1936—at No. 96 East 54th Street.

Mr. Turkus: I that Manhattan?

The Court: The jury and counsel are all entitled to hear what you say. Speak loudly.

Q. Was it in Brooklyn or Manhattan? A. In Brooklyn.

Q. Did you have a telephone? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have a bank account in your own name? A. I did.

Q. And you attended to the business of either working for the union or working for yourself during all that time? A. That is right. 5655

Q. You made no effort to conceal yourself? A. You mean to hide myself in any way?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. You were always available, weren't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

A. Available to whom?

Q. Well, put it this way: You were always at your place of business, weren't you, or at your home, or in the garment district, or in the Cut 5656 ters Local, during these periods, September, 1936, 1937, September, 1938, 1939, 1940, all those times—isn't that a fact? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Mr. Barshay: May we have the date, Mr. Turkus, please, when McCarthy took a statement from Mr. Rubin?

Mr. Turkus: December 16, 1937.

5657 Q. So that up to December 16, 1937, you were living in the City of New York with your family, attending to your business in the regular course of events, using your own name and living openly?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: Let him answer, again.

Q. (continuing) Is that so? A. Yes, sir.

Q. From December 16, 1937, until the day you were arrested in this case, June 5, 1941, you also 5658 were in the City of New York, living under your own name, with your family, attending to your regular business, appearing daily at places of business; is that so? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You never left town except for maybe a vacation or so? A. I did.

Q. (The Court) Were you ever in hiding? A. No, sir, I never hid.

Q. The defendant Buchalter never told you to hide from the authorities? A. No, he told me to be careful, though.

5659

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the latter part.

The Court: Strike out the last part as unresponsive.

Q. Will you please try to answer my questions without volunteering? A. Yes, sir.

Q. As a matter of fact, Berger, after December 16, 1937, that being the day when Rubin was questioned by Assistant District Attorney McCarthy, you had seen and spoken to Rubin very often, didn't you? A. Repeat that question, please.

Q. After December 16, 1937, that is the day on which Mr. Rubin was questioned by Mr. McCarthy, you had seen and spoken to Rubin quite frequently, is that right? A. On that day?

Q. No, after that date. A. Yes, sir.

Q. I mean, if you used to see Rubin in the garment center or the Clothing Truckers Association, you spoke to him? A. Did you say December?

Q. December 16, 1937. A. Yes, sir.

5661

Q. You had seen Rubin, hadn't you? A. I don't think I did.

Q. You did not? A. No, sir.

The Court: You mean on that day?

Mr. Barshay: No, after that day.

The Witness: Oh, yes.

Q. If you are not clear now, tell me. Do we understand each other? A. After that day?

Q. Yes, you saw him in 1937 and 1938, 1939 and 1940? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not? A. I did not.

5662 Q. When is the last time you saw him? A. The last time I seen him, to be sure, to the best of my recollection, that is when I went before the Grand Jury, that is the last time. I did not see him in 1939.

Q. Did you see him in 1938? A. I did.

Q. There is no doubt about that? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you talk to him? A. That is right.

Q. Did you have business with him? A. I will not say business, but I spoke to him.

5663 Q. You had some financial dealings with him with respect to the New York Truckmens Association, didn't you? A. I did not.

Q. In 1938? A. Absolutely not.

Q. We will come back to that later. At no time until June 5, 1941, had anyone from the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn been to your home or to your place of business and left a subpoena for you, is that right? A. That is right.

Q. You learned in the newspapers or by talk in the garment center that Rubin, in 1937, had 5664 spoken before the Grand Jury in Manhattan, hadn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object, that is not the testimony.

Mr. Barshay: That was Rubin's testimony, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: This man has testified how he learned about the Rubin talk.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. That is right.

Q. You knew he testified in the flour case against the defendant Buchalter?

Mr. Turkus: I object, unless the time is fixed.

Q. In 1940, February, 1940. A. That is right.

Q. Do you know when the defendant Buchalter surrendered to Edgar Hoover, of the F.B.I., in August of 1939? A. I read about it.

Q. You heard about it? A. I read about it in the newspaper.

Q. You were still in town, living under your own name? A. Yes, sir, but I was in custody at the time. 5666

Q. Will you please not volunteer? You said you would not.

Mr. Turkus: I object, that is not volunteering.

Q. Did you read in the paper or did you hear any place all that the defendant Buchalter was indicted in May of 1940? A. I did.

Q. In this case? A. That is right.

Q. You knew about that? A. I read about it.

Q. You were still living in town under your own name, with your family, attending to your business? A. That is right. 5667

Q. Did there come a time when you heard or read that Rubin had made a statement to Inspector McDermott and to District Attorney O'Dwyer, in the early part of 1940, before the indictment of the defendant Buchalter? A. I don't remember reading that.

Q. Did you ever hear it? A. I did not.

Q. Did anybody tell you that—yes or no? A. No.

5668 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Did Rubin tell you that? A. Absolutely not.

Q. At any rate, you were not sent for, to your knowledge? A. Will you repeat that?

Q. At any rate, you were not sent for by Judge O'Dwyer's office—I don't mean by the Judge himself—but by his Assistants or by the Police Department working with the D. A.'s office, before the indictment of this defendant, in May, 1940, were you? A. No, sir.

5669 Q. You were not sent for or questioned by the District Attorney's office, meaning Judge O'Dwyer's office, or the Police Department, with respect to this case, until June 5, 1941; is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you give me the date when you testified before this Grand Jury? A. I would say about five or six weeks ago.

Q. Did you sign a waiver of immunity? A. I did not.

Q. So that you have not been indicted in the Rosen murder? A. Not as far as I know.

5670 Q. Did you receive advice from counsel about not signing a waiver, when you went in before the Grand Jury in this case? A. I did.

Q. And pursuant to his instructions you did not sign; is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. The lawyer that stood up in court the other day, Mr. Gardner, was the same lawyer that gave you that advice, wasn't he? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. Will you please speak up? A. That is right.

Q. Now, between September 11, 1936, and the day you were arrested here, you testified in direct examination that you had been in custody in New York County, that is, you were under arrest awaiting fixation and putting up of bail, twice? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were arrested under your right name there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You gave your right address? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you see the defendant Buchalter for the last time before you saw him in this court? A. In the beginning of June, 1937.

Q. You have a good memory, Berger? A. 5672
Pretty fair.

Q. You remember that without any doubt? A. That is right.

Q. Can you tell us the place where you saw the defendant Buchalter in June of 1937? A. The last time I met him was on 5th Avenue and 23rd Street.

Q. On 5th Avenue and 23rd Street, what part of June, if you can tell us? A. Around the beginning of June.

Q. Would you say the first week of June? A. The beginning of it.

Q. Is it fair to say between June 1st and June 10th? 5673

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Q. Do you want to make it between June 1st and June 15th, 1937?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: See if you can fix it accurately; don't guess. Can you remember?

The Witness: I cannot say definitely.

5674 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. But you are definite about the month? A. Yes, sir, about the beginning.

Q. And you are definite about the year? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you see him, in the street or in his place of business? A. In the street.

Q. Do you know exactly where? A. Around 5th Avenue and 23rd Street.

Q. Was it by appointment? A. It was.

Q. Can you tell us where you made the ap-
5675 pointment? A. I was meeting him there quite a number of times.

Q. Before that time, I take it, you made an appointment to meet him there that time? A. That is right.

Q. With reference to the last time, now when before the last time did you see Bachalter? A. I would say, to the best of my recollection, a couple of days before that.

Q. About two days before; where did you meet him then? A. The same place.

Q. Always in the street? A. The last month
5676 or so I used to meet him in the street.

Q. Did he have the Raleigh Clothes then, at No. 200 Fifth Avenue? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, instead of meeting you upstairs at the Raleigh Clothes, he met you downstairs? A. Not in front of the building, sometimes in the park.

Q. Would you see him coming down from the Raleigh Clothes? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you call him at the Raleigh Clothes about that time? A. No.

Q. You knew he was there, though, at 200

Fifth Avenue, about that time? A. I presumed he was.

Q. Well, that is what brought him in the vicinity of 23rd Street and 5th Avenue?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Before the time you just described you saw Buchalter at 23rd Street and 5th Avenue, when had you seen him before that? A. I would like the question repeated. 5678

(Last question read to the witness.)

A. Before I started meeting him in the street I used to meet him up in his office.

Q. When was the last time you saw Buchalter in his office? A. To the best of my recollection, it would be about between a month or five weeks before he left.

Q. You said you saw him last in the early part of June, 1937, didn't you? A. That is right. 5679

Q. And for the last time you saw him in the Raleigh Clothes at 200 Fifth Avenue, it was within a month of the last time you saw him in the early part of June, 1937? A. I did not say that.

Q. Is it fair to say that in the month of May, 1937, you saw the defendant Buchalter at the Raleigh Clothes?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it as having been already answered. Well, I will withdraw the objection.

5680 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

A. I would say that to the best of my recollection it would be the first couple of weeks.

By the Court:

Q. We don't know what your best recollection means. A. It would be maybe about—between two or three weeks of May—after April.

By Mr. Barshay:

5681

Q. What? A. The first few weeks in April.

Q. The first few weeks in April is the last time you saw him at the Raleigh Clothes?

The Court: He said it could be. He did not say it was. He is obviously groping to form a recollection of dates.

Q. Give us your best recollection, please. A. The best of my recollection would be the first week or two in April.

Q. That is the last time you saw him at the 5682 Raleigh Clothes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That refers to 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Thereafter you met him in the street almost daily? A. Daily or every other day.

Q. Openly on the street corner? A. Well, we were pretty careful.

Q. But you spoke to him openly?

Mr. Turkus: I object as already answered. He said they were pretty careful.

Mr. Barshay: I withdraw the question.

Q. I mean, you did not hide in hallways? A. We did.

Q. What hallway did you hide in? A. Well, there was one building on 5th Avenue and 23rd Street.

Q. That is the Raleigh building? A. I beg your pardon.

Q. In that other building? A. No, sir, right opposite.

Q. The Flatiron Building? A. Yes, sir, and also in the subway. We would walk down in the 5684 subway, the 23rd Street subway.

Q. Where did you meet him? A. Sometimes I would meet him at 23rd Street and 5th Avenue.

Q. In the street? A. In the street, sometimes in the park, sometimes downstairs in the subway.

Q. How many times did you meet him, after April of 1937, in the street? A. We always met after that in the street.

Q. Always met in the street? A. After that.

Q. You mean in the public street? A. Yes, sir. 5685

Q. Anybody else with you? A. No, sir.

Q. Anybody else with him? A. No, sometimes Sidney would be there too.

Q. In the street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Between the first two weeks of April, 1937, and the last time you saw him in June of 1937, can you tell me how many times you saw the defendant Buchalter in the City of New York at any time or in any place?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

5686 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember? A. I did not keep any tabs, but quite often I did.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. But you have a recollection of seeing him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew, didn't you, at that time, that 5687 the Police Department of the City of New York were surveilling him every single day, did you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

Q. (The Court) Did you know it? A. I did.

Q. As a matter of fact, Berger, the fact that the cops were following him from New York, and the District Attorney's office, was made known to you by the defendant Buchalter himself? A. He told me that he sneaks away from them; and that is the only way he can meet me, 5688 that he loses the cops.

Q. Tell us everything he told you about the cops trailing him.

Mr. Turkus: I object; he said he sneaks away from the cops.

Q. And sneaking away from the cops—the cop must first be there to sneak away from, isn't that so?

Mr. Turkus: I object; that is obvious.

5689

A. The only thing I know is he told me he loses the cop. He comes to where I am because he usually lost them in the subway. He loses them some way—how he did it I don't know.

Q. He did tell you the cops were on his tail? A. He told me he was being watched.

Q. Twenty-four hours a day? A. He did not tell me how long, but he told me he was being watched.

Q. He was being tailed? A. He told me he was being watched.

5690

Q. You saw some policemen around, sometime, didn't you? A. I don't remember.

Q. Never? A. I don't know whether they were police or not. They did not have any uniforms. I saw people in plain clothes; I don't know whether they were cops or not.

Q. (The Court) That is a busy locality and there are lots of people? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew some of the detectives who were assigned to watch the defendant Buchalter? A. No, sir.

Q. Not by name, I mean by face. A. No, sir.

5691

Q. Do you know when the cops started to watch him? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he tell you? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know then that the cops stopped watching him? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he tell you? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know he was on trial in the Federal Court in October and November, a part of each month, in November, 1936? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You used to see him then, in 1936, when he was on trial in the Federal Court? A. See him where?

5692 Q. Where did you see him, if you did at all? A. The last time I seen him—when he was on trial, yes, I saw him in the bull pen.

Q. Is that the only time you saw him during that trial? A. I seen him after the case was over.

Q. But during the trial he was out on bail, wasn't he, Berger, if you know? If you do not know, tell me. A. I don't remember.

Q. Now, answer this yes or no, please: On 5693 November 1, 1938, did you see Rubin? A. I am not definite whether I seen him just on that day.

Q. Well, about that day did you see Rubin? A. I seen him around the district, around the clothing market.

The Court: Counsel is specific as to dates.

The Witness: I definitely cannot say.

By the Court:

5694 Q. He wants to know if around that date—if you can recall. A. I cannot definitely recall, if it was around that date or not. I know I answered him.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Did you on that day attempt to induce Max Rubin to commit perjury in New York County, and did you attempt to induce him to say that Thomas Dewey and his assistants were forcing Rubin to swear falsely in a case pending in New York County against you? A. I refuse to answer that question, on the ground it may in criminate me, on the advice of my counsel. But I wish I could answer it so I could tell you who told me to do it.

Q. Do you want to waive privilege of your rights?

Mr. Turkus: I object. The witness has stated his position.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the latter part of his answer.

The Court: Strike it out. 5696

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor instruct the jury to please disregard it?

The Court: Yes.

The Witness: You know who told me.

Q Now, please. Now do you recall the date?

Mr. Turkus: I object. It makes no difference, the exact date.

The Court: What date?

Mr. Barshay: The date of this alleged inducement.

The Court: He said he refuses to answer your question upon constitutional grounds. 5697

Mr. Barshay: I want to know if he remembers the date, November 1, 1938.

The Court: But your question embraced something which would violate his Constitutional rights, and the objection was sustained.

Q. Answer this question yes or no: Did you threaten Rubin with violence unless he swore as you wanted him to do?

5698 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: I object. That would be violative of his rights; although I am prosecutor I have to protect him from injury, as much as I dislike to.

The Court: You cannot.

The Witness: I refuse to answer the question; it might incriminate me. I only hope I could.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer.

5699 The Court: Strike out the latter part. It does not mean anything. The point is, as all counsel know, the man is under indictment in New York County, and he was advised at the outset by the Court, before he was permitted to answer any questions by the District Attorney, as to his Constitutional rights. The Court is obligated to do that. Now he is availing himself of that right in respect to this question. We cannot conjecture as to whether or not it could be used against him on the trial of that indictment. We are bound to accept, 5700 under the law, his assertion of his Constitutional right.

Mr. Barshay: I take it your Honor does not intend to preclude me from asking the question?

The Court: No.

Q. This advice, too, was given to you by Mr. Gardener, who was in court here on the morning you took the stand; he was the same lawyer? A. Yes.

Q. You are awaiting trial in New York County on that charge, are you? A. I am.

 5701

The Court: Is the copy of the New York indictment here?

Mr. Barshay: There are more than one. I have a copy of one and part of another.

The Court: I would ask to see them all.

Mr. Barshay: This is a copy that was made for me, with respect to the subject we are now talking about.

The Court: Tell me how many indictments are against him. Have you just 5702 checked that up?

Mr. Barshay: I cannot say I did, but my information is, from the copy of the record handed to me, Judge— This is the one we are speaking about, and another one.

The Court: I do not know if you get what I mean. If I had copies of all indictments I could read them and I could form, at least in my own mind, a notion as to whether the Constitutional right is asserted in good faith. 5703

Mr. Barshay: Then I will have copies for you before this man leaves the stand.

The Court: I don't say I have a right to reveal that or alter my ruling, but at least I can form an impression.

Mr. Barshay: I will make the effort, Judge.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Did you tell us, of your own personal knowledge, how many trials you are already in in New York County? A. Two.

5704 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. The one that I just spoke of, is that one of them? A. That is right.

Q. The other one is extortion, isn't it? A. A superseding indictment; the extortion was a superseding indictment. I presume that is the only one.

Q. You are out on bail on two charges now, Berger?

Mr. Turkus: He is not on bail. I ob-

5705 ject.

Q. In New York County, I should say. A. That is right.

Q. You knew personally, didn't you, that after September 3rd—rather, after October, 1947, Rubin was under police guard? A. That is right.

Q. You saw him with policemen? A. That is right.

Q. You saw him with detectives? A. I did.

Q. When I say detectives, I don't mean uniformed men. A. That is right.

5706 Q. You spoke to him while the officers were there; is that so? A. That is right.

Q. Did the officers step aside when you and Rubin spoke? A. At times he did.

Q. You had a private conversation with him, did you? A. That is right.

Q. Without the hearing of the officer? A. We did.

Q. Berger, when did you join the union? A. 1919.

Q. Were you a cutter before you joined the union? A. I was an apprentice.

Q. In the clothing industry? A. That is right.

Q. Was it essential, then, before you could gain membership in the union, to be either a cutter or an apprentice? A. That is right.

Q. If you were not connected in some way with the clothing industry, either as an apprentice or a helper of some kind in the clothing industry, you could gain no membership in Local 4, is that right? A. I would not say that.

Q. There were exceptions? A. At that time, if anybody connected with the union, as far as the underworld is concerned, they would fix it 5708 p, and you would be able to do so.

Q. So if someone had a connection with the underworld, he could get into the union? A. Yes.

Q. That is how Rubin got in, isn't that so? A. I cannot say that; I don't know. How do I know how Rubin got in the union?

Q. Well, if you don't know, tell me: I am trying to find out whether you do or not. Did you know Jack Noya when you joined the union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What position did he have in the union? 5709
A. I don't know whether he had any position there.

Q. Did you know then, in 1919, whether or not Jack Noya was one of the underworld men connected with the union? A. No. I would not say I knew at that time.

Q. Did you know that in 1920? A. I cannot definitely remember that.

Q. In 1921? A. Around that time.

Q. So that in 1921, to your knowledge, Jack Noya was a strong arm guerilla, or underworld character, connected with the union? A. That is right.

Q. When did you meet Rubin for the first time? A. I would say around—to the best of my recollection, about 1926.

Q. Was that the very first time? A. That is right.

Q. You never saw Rubin around the union between 1917—exclusive of the years 1921 and 1923? A. To the best of my recollection.

Q. Who introduced you to Rubin? A. Danny Fields.

5711 Q. He was a partner of yours, or a good friend of yours? A. That is right.

Q. Which was it? A. A good friend of mine.

Q. An underworld character, was he, at that time—yes or no? A. Not at that time.

Q. Did you know "Legs" Diamond? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Johnny Spanish? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Kid Dropper? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Slabow, Abie Slabow? A. I did.

Q. Where did you meet him? A. I met him

5712 on Broadway and 12th Street.

Q. In what year? A. I would say around 1924 or 1925.

Q. May I direct your attention to your direct testimony. Did you say it was—if I am mistaken, let me know—about 1923, could that be possible? A. Around that time. I cannot definitely say to the month, so many years back.

Q. Did you know Terry Burns? A. I did not, but I heard of him.

Q. Up to 1926, can you give me the names of the underworld characters, gunmen, guerillas or sluggers that were working for the union of which you were a member? A. Kid Dropper. I heard of him. I did not know him.

Q. Tell me the names.

Mr. Turkus: Is this hearsay? I have no objection, but I want the record to show that it is hearsay; what he knows is by hearsay.

Q. Will you answer? A. Kid Dropper, Johnny Spanish, Jack Noya. 5714

By the Court:

Q. Do you know that, or is it hearsay? A. Johnny Spanish I don't know. I did know of Jack Noya.

Q. Don't say anything unless you know it of your own knowledge, because it is of no value whatever; it is hearsay.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Tell us whom you knew personally. A. Jack Noya. 5715

Mr. Turkus: That is not responsive to the other question. The question was, who were the guerillas that were on the union payroll doing certain jobs of slugging and other work for the union?

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. That you knew personally.

The Court: I did not understand it that way. The Court has to do a little thinking while all this is going on. The first thing that occurs to the Court is, what is the reason for the question? I assume it is to attack credibility.

Mr. Barshay: That is correct.

The Court: Of course you under and, it being collateral, you are bound by the answer, and you cannot put a single witness on the stand to say it is not so?

5717 Mr. Barshay: That is elementary. But what I want to show is association before a certain specific time.

The Court: The question asks for more that that; it asks for hearsay, and the District Attorney is grabbing that to get before the jury the names of certain people, underworld characters of which the witness has no personal knowledge.

Mr. Barshay: I am trying to find that out. These names were brought out by Mr. Turkus.

The Court: I was just cautioning you.

5718 Mr. Turkus: He just asked if he knew Dropper or Spanish personally, and as to what guerilla work was done.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Let us straighten it out, Berger: Who did you know personally who was doing strong-arm work for the union before 1926? A. I would say Jack Noya.

Q. Now, anyone else that you knew personally, who was doing that kind of work? A. Danny Fields, but he was a member of the Union.

Q. Any one else? A. Slabow, I heard.

Q. Anyone else? Don't shake your head. A. That is all I know.

Q. Did you take instructions from Slabow personally with respect to the conduct in strikes, the settlement of strikes, picketing, etc.? A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you take instructions from Noya, with respect to the same thing? A. I did not.

Q. Did you take instructions from Danny Fields, with respect to those things? A. Not 5720 before 1926.

Q. When did you become a slugger for the union? A. I would say around, to the best of my recollection, around 1926, when Phil Orlofsky became manager.

Q. Do you say that before 1926 you participated in no sluggings whatever? A. No.

Q. You say no? Would you say that? A. To the best of my recollection, no, sir.

Q. You did not? A. No, sir.

Q. You were working as a cutter? A. A cutter and an active union member at that time. 5721

Q. What were your duties as an active union member at that time? A. Attend meetings.

Q. Anything else? A. Picket where there was a strike.

Q. Anything else? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you participate in the International strike? A. I did.

Q. Were you a slugger then? A. I was, and there were a hundred others; I was only one.

Q. You said you would not volunteer. Now please answer the question and give us the year of the International strike. A. I do not definitely remember that.

Q. May I remind you? A. Sure.

Q. Was it 1925? A. I don't definitely remember.

Q. It does not refresh your recollection? A. I am still saying not definitely.

Q. Do you remember August 4, 1925? A. So many years back I can't remember.

Q. You tell me if you don't remember. A. I cannot remember.

Q. How long did that strike last? A. Quite a 5723 number of months.

Q. How long were you active in that strike? A. I was active during that strike.

Q. Were you a cutter at the same time? A. I think I was.

Q. What? A. I was.

Q. Did you work as a cutter during the International Tailoring strike? A. I think I did; I did, sure.

Q. From morning until night? A. Some days I would be off.

Q. Did you get paid for the days you were 5724 off?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. What difference does it make?

Mr. Barshay: It makes a lot of difference. May I say the purpose, if you want to know?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: This man has said he has been a cutter until 1926. I am now directing his attention to a strike in 1925 and impeaching him for the purpose of showing that he was a guerilla and slugger in 1925. That is my purpose.

The Witness: And I was a cutter at the time.

The Court: You are going back quite a number of years, and he has answered it is hard to recall. Do you think this would amount to anything as impeachment? Splitting hairs on things so far back?

Mr. Barshay: I except. I think it means a lot. It will amount to a lot when 5726
I connect it up.

The Court: Thank you for raising your voice. He may answer.

Mr. Barshay: Am I not allowed to raise my voice in this court?

The Court. You are expected to be courteous and follow the Court's rulings.

Mr. Barshay: I cannot understand your Honor.

The Court: You are a man that likes to beat up a referee.

Mr. Barshay: My name is not Durocher. 5727

The Court: The Court is trying to be fair to both sides.

Mr. Barshay: I didn't say anything else.

The Court: Just have in mind your voice.

Mr. Barshay: I am proud of it.

The Court: I will see that you have something to be proud of from now on. Proceed.

5728 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Did you get paid for the days you were off?

Q. (The Court) Do you remember? A. No, I do not, but I know I was a cutter at the time.

Q. You attended to activities in the International Tailoring strike from time to time, didn't you? A. Sometimes.

Q. Did you get any extra pay from the union
5729 for that work? A. I did.

Q. So that that pay was in addition to the pay you had been receiving from your private employer? A. That is right.

Q. Can you tell us how long you received extra pay from the union? A. The duration of the strike.

Q. How many months? A. I definitely would not say.

Q. Can you tell us the amount? A. $25 a week while I was working.

Q. Who was directing the International strike
5730 on behalf of the union? A. Philip Orlofsky.

Q. Who was giving you the orders with respect to your personal conduct in the International Tailoring strike? A. Philip Orlofsky.

Q. Who was the underworld character in charge of that strike? A. Jack Noya.

Q. Was he the man who was giving your instructions? A. No, sir, he did not.

Q. Was he present every day on the picket line? A. Well, I have never seen him there.

Q. How many sluggings did you take part in in the strike? A. A couple of them.

Q. How many? A. Maybe two or three.

Q. Did you use any blunt instrument in the sluggings? A. I did not.

Q. Did you use any weapon in the sluggings? A. I did not.

Q. Was Danny Fields working with you at that time in the strike? A. He was, and there were a hundred others.

Q. A hundred others? A. Around that.

Q. All participating in the slugging? A. That is right.

Q. You being one of the one hundred? A. 5732
That is right.

Q. Do you remember August 4, 1925, during that strike? A. I am not definite what year the strike was on. I just cannot remember.

Q. May I refresh your recollection? Had you been in custody August 4, 1925? A. I don't remember.

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as immaterial.

The Court: Objection overruled.

5733

Q. You don't remember that day? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Do you remember whether you were in court on that day during that strike? A. I was arrested in that strike.

Q. Was it August 4, 1925? A. I cannot remember.

Q. Was it for felonious assault that you were charged with? A. It was.

Q. Do you remember August 6, 1925, during that strike? A. I do not.

Q. Two days after the day you said you were arrested during that strike? A. I don't even remember that I was arrested—I know I was arrested and charged with feeenious assault, but when, what year, I don't remember.

5734 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Can't you tell us, Berger, how many times during that strike you had been arrested? A. I definitely cannot say; I don't remember.

Q. Was it once?

Mr. Turkus: I object. Arrests are not 5735 proper.

Mr. Barshay: He volunteered it.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I don't remember. I know I was arrested maybe once, twice, maybe three—I don't remember.

Q. Did you kill a man during that strike? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you beat him up so badly he died two days later? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you in the Homicide Court during that strike?

5736

Mr. Turkus: I object; that is going beyond the realms of cross-examination.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Did you know Izzy Korman, who was a picket in the strike? A. I do not.

Q. Who was a brother-in-law of Barlow, did you know him? A. No, sir, there are a few thousand members there; do you expect me to know everybody.

Q. Do you know that Korman was killed during that strike?

Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you participate in the slugging and killing of this Izzy Kornman during that strike, on August 6, 1925?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.
The Court: Objection overruled. 5738

A. Absolutely not.
Q. Did you see Rubin there during that strike? A. I did not.
Q. Wasn't he there on the picket line? A. I have not seen him.
Q. Did you know him then? A. Yes, I did.
Q. Was he an active participant in that strike?

Mr. Turkus: I object, that is neither affecting his credibility nor going to the Rosen killing.
Mr. Barshay: I object to the form of 5739
the objection saying anything about the Rosen killing.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor permit me to repeat that question? I made an objection, and I thought your Honor sustained my objection to that statement.
Mr. Turkus: Your objection was after mine.
The Court: I ruled on Mr. Turkus's objection.

5740 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Barshay: Will you rule on mine, Judge?

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you know a person named Carl Johnson(?)? A. No.

Q. Were you on a trolley car, a Church Avenue trolley car, October 21, 1925? Do you recall that? A. Repeat that, please.

5741 Q. Were you on a Church Avenue trolley car October 21, 1925, at 20 minutes after 6 o'clock in the morning? A. I was, with a half a dozen others.

Q. Was Carl D. Johnson, a cutter, there? A. I don't know.

Q. Were you on that trolley car for the purpose of following someone who was made known to you to be a strike breaker? A. I was there with six others.

Q. On that trolley car, while you were there with six others, at Church Avenue and Nostrand, did you cut Johnson's face on the right cheek, the right side of his head, four times with a knife? A. I did not.

5742

Q. Did you participate in it? A. I was there.

Q. For the purpose—for that specific purpose, isn't that so? A. No, sir.

Q. What were you on the trolley car for? A. We were going to beat him up, me and six others.

Q. And that is what you did, you and the six others? A. No.

Q. Didn't you and six others plan this beating up of Johnson after you got on the trolley car? A. We were told to do it.

Q. Who told you to do it? A. Philip Orlofsky.

Q. And you carried out your instructions? A. With a half a dozen others.

Q. Was Johnson cut? A. I don't know; I was told after that he was.

Q. You were on the trolley car? A. I was.

Q. You knew what you were going on the trolley car for? A. That is right.

Q. You had followed him from his home? A. That is right.

Q. To make sure he does not get to his place 5744 of employment? A. That is right.

Q. Was he cut on the trolley car? A. I don't know.

Q. Did you flee from the trolley car? A. I did.

Q. Were you caught? A. I was.

Q. Did you learn then that he was cut? A. I did.

Q. Four times on the side of his cheek? A. I don't know where, but I was told he was cut.

Q. Did you see him subsequently? A. I did not.

Q. Did you see him subsequently in court? A. 5745
What do you mean by "subsequently"?

Q. Did you see him later in court? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see his face? A. I did.

Q. Was it cut? A. I don't remember seeing it cut.

Q. How many other people did you personally or with others participate in slugging in the International strike? A. I told you before.

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. (The Court) How many did you participate in slugging during that strike, if you remember? A. Maybe two or three.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Were there any other strikes before then which you participated in? A. I cannot recollect.

Q. Can you recollect how many sluggings you took part in before this one we spoke about?

5747 A. No, sir.

Q. Were there some? A. I don't remember.

Q. Did you participate in the Finkelstein strike, in 1921? A. No, sir.

Q. You were never there? A. No, sir.

Q. Not once? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have anything to do with the Finkelstein strike? A. To the best of my recollection, I know there was a Finkelstein strike at one time, and they beat the union somehow. The next time I participated in the strike, and that time he was chased out of town.

5748 Q. What year was that? A. I don't remember definitely.

Q. Was it after the International strike? A. Yes, sir, to the best of my recollection.

Q. About how many years? A. I cannot answer that because I do not remember.

Q. Did you slug anybody in that strike—yes or not? A. Maybe I did; I don't remember.

Q. Do you know how many times you slugged people in that strike? A. Listen, Counsellor, I told you there were over a hundred people working for the union at the time, and the members.

Q. And you were one? A. No, sir, I beg your pardon; I was a member of that union. There were a hundred others that were members and there were outsiders.

Q. I want to know about you. A. I am answering you.

Q. How many sluggings can you recall participating in in the last Finkelstein strike before you chased him out of town? A. I chased him out?

Q. Before the union chased him out of town. A. Maybe one, maybe two; I don't remember.

5750

By the Court:

Q. Were all sluggings under orders by union officials? A. That is right.

Q. Were the sluggings left to the discretion of the slugger? A. That is right.

Q. Did you have any discretion about it or just take orders? A. Just took orders.

Q. That was part of the system? A. That is right. There were a hundred there.

Q. No free-lancing in slugging? A. Now and then.

5751

Q. Sometimes you would do it on your own? A. If I were attacked by some other Guerillas who would be there, naturally I would fight back.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. The union did not tell you which people to slug at which time, did they? A. What is that?

Q. The union did not tell you which persons to slug at a particular time, did they? A. Then how would you know who to slug?

Q. I will tell you if you want to know—maybe on who was on the picket line whom you thought deserved a slugging, you slugged. A. No, sir, you are all wrong.

Q. Do you know which ones? A. It could have been the union had some people working on the inside; they usually have that.

Q. Spies? A. That is right. Then they would go out and tell union officials who he is and that is the way they worked it. Sometimes the other side would have the underworld—well, gangsters 5753 connected there, or they were likely to attack us and we would attack them.

Q. In other words, manufacturers had underworld characters, then? A. Sure. Finkelstein did, I know.

Q. The union had, too? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Both of them worked hand to hand, and you were one of those who worked hand to hand? A. No, sir, I was a member; I was not an underworld character; I was a cutter.

Q. You were a "cutter" in all the sense of the word? A. Yes, sir. I cut myself many times 5754 while working on the machine.

Q. And you cut others? A. No, sir, the only one I cut was myself. I was a damn good cutter, for your information. Ask some of the firms I worked for; I was a good cutter.

Q. Did you know Anthony Brullo of 312 East 112th Street? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know him March 9, 1927? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Anthony Brullo who had a place of business, or worked in a place of business at 361 West 36th Street in the Borough of Manhattan in March of 1927? A. I don't remember nobody by that name.

Q. Was there a strike in those premises then? A. What kind of a place was it?

Q. I am trying to probe your memory. A. I do not.

Q. I will try to refresh your recollection: did you know or did you use the name Sam Gold then? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you live at 106 Ludlow Street at any time? A. No, sir. 5756

Q. Did you tell the police that you did? A. I did.

Q. Did you tell them your name was Sam Gold? A. I did.

Q. Did you know a person named Morris Zolombeck? A. No.

Q. Or Harry Liss, or Sam Shifter? A. Yes.

Q. Isaac Robbins? A. No, sir.

Q. Henry Myers? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know a group of men, one of whom was the person you just mentioned you knew, Harry Liss, or Sam Shifter, and did you go in 5757 the place of Anthony Brullo, at 361 West 36th Street, on March 9, 1927, and there attack him and give him eight stitches? A. I don't remember that.

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. Do you remember when you gave the name Sam Gold, address 106 Ludlow Street to the police? A. I remember that name, yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember the name and the time you gave it to the police, and the address you gave to the police with respect to this occurrence on March 9, 1927, at 361 West 36th Street? A. I do not.

5758 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Did you tell the police then you were a shipping clerk?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question because the form makes it ambiguous and confusing.

5759 The Court: It is terribly remote.

Mr. Barshay: Terribly remote, did you say?

The Court: Yes, are you going to quarrel about it?

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: The objection is sustained, too far away.

Q. Do you remember Brullo walking in front of the premises where there was this strike at 361 West 36th Street? A. I do not.

5760 Q. Did you tell the police then you were a shipping clerk for three years?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: The Court has ruled that out.

Mr. Barshay: I am trying to refresh his memory with respect to that.

The Court: No.

Q. Were you in court with the men whose names I mentioned to you, on that day?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. That does not affect credibility.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you all pull up in an automobile in front of these premises, jump out of the car, and attack Brullo?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: I will allow it. This goes into more detail. 5762

A. No, sir.

By the Court:

Q. You said that for years you did slugging and picketing? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And for many years you slugged a good many people, I take it? A. I did.

Q. In many strikes? A. Not many, but a few of them I did.

Q. Is this a fair statement: that most of these were on union official orders, specifically as to the names of people to be assaulted? 5763

Mr. Barshay: I object to the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. That is right.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. On August 3, 1928, did you use the name of Harry Weinstein? A. I don't remember.

Q. Did you ever use the name of Harry Weinstein? A. I cannot definitely recollect.

Q. Do you deny using the name of Harry Weinstein?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. He says he does not remember.

Q. Did you ever live at No. 90 Norfolk Street? A. No, sir.

5765 Q. Did you ever tell the police you did? A. I don't remember.

Q. Did you ever tell the police your name was Harry Weinstein, and that you lived at No. 90 Norfolk Street, on August 3, 1928? A. I do not definitely remember that.

Q. Did you know Harry Freedman and Sol Bloom, in August of 1928? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you and Harry Freedman and Sol Bloom attack a man named Ben Green, in a strike conducted on August 3, 1928, in the Borough of Manhattan?

5766 Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you in court that day, if you recall? A. I do not remember. If it was so, I will tell you. I am not looking to hide anything. I don't remember being in court then. Ask me if I was there and I will tell you.

Q. If that is the way you will take it, all right. You know what I am reading from? A. I don't know; you are sidetracking; you are going uptown; you are trying to hit me in the back to tell you what you want.

Q. I am going in the order of your arrests. A. Tell me what it is; just call them off when I was arrested and I will tell you if I was guilty or not. You don't have to make a big long story, go to Canarsie and the Bronx. Go to the book and tell me what it is.

Q. You did it when anyone told you? A. Under orders.

Q. On March 9, 1927, then, you were arrested as Sam Gold, for felonious assault? A. Is it so on the record? 5768

Q. Yes. A. Call up the record, and I will tell you. You don't have to make a big thing of it.

Mr. Turkus: No matter what Lepke's counsel or the witness may say as to procedure; we still have rules of procedure that the Court must follow. I object to it.

The Court: Objection overruled. 5769

Q. The court records show that you and Harry Freedman and Sol Bloom, when you used the name of Harry Weinstein and gave the address 90 Norfolk Street, and assaulted Benny Green in a strike, cutting him with a knife—

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is reprehensible. The court records show he assaulted somebody.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: The man invited me to do so and I was accommodating him.

5770 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Did you use the name of Paul Goldstein August 31, 1938? A. If it is there I used it.

Q. July 3, 1928, while you used the name of Paul Goldstein, did you go to the premises occupied by Rousemond Company at 67 Fifth Avenue? A. No, sir. You said a minute ago if it is there you must have it— I said whatever name I used, if it is there, that is the name.

The Court: If you don't remember a 5771 thing, say so.

Q. Did you speak to Mr. Rousemond in those premises? A. I knew him.

Q. Did you talk to him? A. I don't remember.

Q. Were you up there? A. I don't remember being up there.

Q. Did you ever talk to him about taking a certain employee back? A. Repeat that.

Q. Did you ever talk to Mr. Rousemond about taking certain employees back to work? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you ever there with three other men?
5772 A. No, sir.

Q. In your presence, Berger, at any time in Rousemond's place, either on the 3rd of July, 1928, or a day or two before or after, with a young man that worked for him at one time— A. (interrupting) I was up there several times. I happened to work with this fellow, a cutter; he was connected with J. Eisner at one time. I worked and knew him as a cutter, if that is the fellow you mean.

Q. Yes, was it the time you were there that bolts of cloth were destroyed by acid? A. I remember I was arrested for it.

Q. Were there three other men with you at that time? A. I was arrested.

Q. Were there three other men with you when you were arrested? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you live at 668 Saratoga Avenue then? A. I was there, but I do not remember if it was at that time.

Q. Did you use the name of Joe Cohen at that time? A. If it is there I used it; if it is on the 5774 record I used it, on the arrest.

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember? That is the question. A. I don't definitely remember.

Q. Did you ever charge your mind with the various names you had given on various times you were arrested? A. I was innocent; I used to go picked up; I didn't want my name in the paper.

Q. Was it customary to give false names on 5775 arrests, slugging arrests? A. Well, it was, more or less.

Q. And did you charge your mind with those names so you can remember any of them at this time? A. I can hardly remember them.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Do you remember July 28, 1929, pointing a revolver at a man named Meyer Rubin, of 241 West 37th Street? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember July 31, 1929, at the place of Meyer Rubin, 241 West 37th Street, throwing a quantity of acid and spoiling $1,300 worth of merchandise?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the "and". That carries an implication.

The Court: He may answer.

By the Court:

Q. Did you ever throw acid on merchandise? A. No, sir.

5777 Q. Was that part of your work, or was that a specialist's job? A. There is quite a number of them that probably did, but I did not use it.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Were you a member of this brigade that did it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember August 17, 1932, using the name of Joseph Schwartz? A. If it is on the record.

Q. I am reading from the record. Did you assault anyone on that day? A. No, sir.

5778 Q. Do you remember March 3, 1933, assaulting someone in the Borough of Manhattan in another strike in the garment center? A. I do not.

Q. You have been living with your wife, you say? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you live with any other woman at the same time? A. Must I answer that question?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Sustained. That is too far afield.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I submit your Honor, that goes to a person's credibility.

The Court: Yes? (Question mark after "yes.")

Q. Did you hit a woman on the head with a bottle in a cabaret on Allen Street? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know who I mean? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you and Danny Fields put yourselves on the payroll of the Stock Clerks Union at $75 a week—yes or no? A. No, sir. 5780

Q. Were you ever on their payroll? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you ever to the Uneeda Frock Company, on West 23rd Street?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time is fixed.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. If you tell me the name of the boss, I can remember.

Q. Don't you know the name of the boss? A. Well, I don't remember whether I was there or not. 5781

Q. Did you ever work for Little Frenchy, a strong-arm man? A. I did.

Q. Did you and Little Frenchy go to the premises 7th Avenue and 25th Street during a strike? A. I don't definitely remember.

Q. Did you ever go out beating up people during strikes with Little Frenchy? A. I was arrested with him.

Q. In 1937, I believe, were you questioned by an Assistant District Attorney in Mr. Dewey's office? A. That is right.

5782 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Were you questioned about the defendant Buchalter—yes or no? A. I think I was; I am not definite.

Q. And in reply to the questions they asked you did you say to them that you never gave any money to Lepke and you had never had any kind of business with him whatever?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless there is some alleged statement.

5783 Mr. Barshay: You know there could not be such a thing that I would have in my possession—a statement from Mr. Dewey's office.

Mr. Turkus: It looks awfully suspicious to me.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception to that remark.

Mr. Turkus: I object to this procedure.

Mr. Barshay: I am trying to show a prior inconsistent statement.

By the Court:

5784 Q. Do you remember on any occasion at all that you were interviewed in Mr. Dewey's office, stating that you did not give money to Lepke—

Mr. Barshay: Or have any kind of business with Lepke.

A. I do not definitely remember it.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. You would not deny it? A. No, I don't remember.

Mr. Turkus: I object to his not denying it.

The Court: He says he does not definitely remember. That is an answer. The objection is sustained to the last question.

Q. When were you definitely put on the payroll of the union as a strong-arm man, what year?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question; there is nothing in the record to show he was definitely put on any payroll. He showed his slugging in connection with his union work. 5786

The Witness: I was not put on the payroll then.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. What year were you put on the payroll as a slugger? A. I was not put on as a slugger.

Q. When did you stop really working as a cutter? A. When I started to take a contract for the Worlds Clothing Exchange. 5787

Q. What year was that? A. 1933 or 1934, I don't definitely remember.

Q. When were you put on the payroll of the union, the payroll, without doing any work as a cutter—strictly working for the union? A. Never.

Q. Never? A. No, sir.

Q. You never got money from Weinstein? A. I did.

Q. What year? A. I worked also as a cutter.

Q. I am now speaking of any time when you worked strictly for the union and Weinstein was in charge, or anybody was in charge, when you did not work as a cutter. A. Then I was in business for myself, when I started working for the Worlds Clothes, when I started contracts.

Q. How long were you at the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. I would say about two years.

Q. What years were they, if you know? A. I don't know definitely—'33, '34 or '35.

Q. After you finished that connection, did you
5789 go back to the Union on the payroll? A. Finished what connection?

Q. With the World's Clothing Exchange. A. No, sir.

Q. When did you go back on the Union payroll? A. I still was on the payroll but I still had my business.

Q. I get you. In other words, while you were conducting your business, the Union kept you on their payroll? A. I was one of them.

Q. That is right. How many years? A. Until I was arrested.

5790 Q. June 5, 1941. The defendant Buchalter you saw for the last time, as you say, in June of 1937?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as repetitious.

Q. Did you?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to, repetitious.

Mr. Barshay: Trying to fix the date for the next question, Judge.

The Court: Overruled.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So while the defendant Buchalter was away up until June 5, 1941, you were on the Union payroll, is that so? A. That is right.

Q. Even though you were in business for yourself? A. That is right.

Q. Or business with some one else? A. That is right.

Q. Can you tell me how much you were getting a week? A. $50. a week.

Q. Every week? A. That is right.

Q. Can you tell me how much you were earning per week in your private business? 5792

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to. That neither goes to credibility nor the issue.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you report the $50 a week in your income tax? A. No, sir.

Q. Never? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you get any other advantages from the Union other than being on the payroll since you saw the defendant Buchalter in June of 1937? 5793
A. Did I what?

Q. Did you get any other advantages? Were there any other favors extended to you by the Union other than your payroll? A. Favors?

Q. Yes. A. Not that I can definitely say.

Q. I will try to refresh your memory. Did you conduct businesses yourself, contracting businesses? Did you—either yourself or as a member of a firm?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. This does not go to credibility. This neither affects his reliability nor has it anything to do with the issue we are trying, this murder case.

5794 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Were you allowed by the Union to conduct non union shops since 1937? A. It was not on account of me; it was on account of your client, on account of Mendy. I was only a front 5795 over there.

Q. You mean on account of Mendy, my client? A. I don't know who.

Q. I am not his attorney; he has a much better one in Judge Talley and in Mr. Cuff. A. I was only fronting there. Mendy was the boss, if you want to know something.

Q. Judge Talley will take care of that. But were you getting that advantage from the Union? Were you allowed to run non-union shops in your own personal business? Yes or no. A. It was not my personal business.

Q. Did you have a share in it? Yes or no.
5796 A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you profit by it, if you wish? A. I was getting paid. Most of it I handed over to Mendy. I only got a little bit of it.

Q. A little bit? A. Even handed over the money I got from the Union to Mendy, now if you want to know something, the $50 a week I handed that over.

Q. Judge Talley will take good care of that. I am trying to find out about my defendant. Were you a partner with a man by the name of Nathan Berger? A. I was not a partner. He was a partner, not me.

Mr. Turkus: Who is "he"?

The Witness: That Berger was, not me. When you see me, you see Mendy.

Q. You said before you would not volunteer, Berger. Do you mind doing that, please, not volunteering? Mr. Turkus will have another chance with you and you can tell him all you want.

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. This is 5798 not a question. (To reporter) Will you read it?

(Remarks of Mr. Barshay read.)

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor please tell the witness not to volunteer anything other than in response to a question?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: In this specific instance where he brought out about Mendy Weiss

Mr. Barshay: Will you stop arguing?

Mr. Turkus: In this specific instance 5799 of the defendant Mendy Weiss, the witness did not volunteer but he responsively answered the question as to the things in that particular firm.

The Court: The Court understands.

Q. What was the name of this concern that you had some interest in with Nathan Berger? A. Berger Clothing Company. Let us presume that I did not have the interest.

Q. Were you drawing $100 a week? Yes or no. A. Two hundred.

Q. Please, Berger— A. $200 a week I said.

5800 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Were you drawing $200 a week? A. That is right. Half of it went to Mendy.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out, if your Honor please. I listened long enough to this stuff, and I now move to strike out that part of the answer as not responsive.

The Court: Strike it out.

5801 Q. Was this business at 57 Thames Street in the Borough of Brooklyn? A. That is right.

Q. How long were you in that business? A. What business?

Q. In this business? A. Since they formed the Berger Clothing Company.

Q. How long, please? A. Say about two years.

Q. How much were you getting out of it for yourself? A. A hundred a week.

Q. That was a non-union shop, wasn't it? Yes or no? A. It was.

Q. You did not put any money into this business, did you? A. Neither did Mendy.

5802

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Strike it out.

Mr. Talley: And I think your Honor should now instruct this witness, if instructions mean anything to him, again not to volunteer answers of this kind. He is a little over anxious.

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

The Court: Don't volunteer explanations.

The Witness: I have to say that in order to explain myself. I am getting accused of something that isn't so. I was nothing over there. Mendy was the boss. I was no partner there.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out, and I ask your Honor to instruct the jury at this time to disregard it.

The Witness: A lousy $50. a week I have to give up, too.

The Court: Strike it out. 5804

The Witness: Good thing he didn't ask me to give my wife up, too. I would do that, too.

Q. You gave your wife up a long time ago, didn't you, Mr. Berger? A. No, sir.

The Court: Does it impeach credibility if a man engages in non-union business?

Mr. Barshay: Oh, no. I am trying to show, sir, that he muscled into a firm and continued there—

5805

The Witness: I did not muscle in.

The Court: You have not touched that point.

Mr. Barshay: I can only do it one step at a time, your Honor.

The Witness: Mendy put me in as a front there. Mendy muscled in, not me.

The Court: Why not get down to the point? This is collateral. It is of no value unless it tends to show that he is dishonest.

5806 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out that reference to Weiss.

The Court: Strike it out.

The Witness: I was put in there as a front and there was thousands of dollars coming out of there besides that hundred dollars a week that I gave up.

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor strike that from the record and direct the jury to disregard it?

5807 The Court: Strike it out. The jury will disregard it.

The Witness: And what is more, I had to pay income tax on money I gave him. The money I gave him I had to pay income tax and pay him. I am still paying some of that money that Mendy got.

The Court: Please, no more of that.

Mr. Turkus: Mr. Barshay said, "Go ahead".

The Witness: I am paying income tax and still paying it on the money I gave 5808 to Mendy.

The Court: Five minute recess. The witness will be taken out. When you come back, no more of that.

Mr. Talley: I want your Honor to instruct the jury to disregard that.

The Court: Pay no attention to it. It is obvious the man, in persisting, thought he had the floor and the Court had no gavel.

(After a short recess the witness resumed the stand.)

Q. Do you know the month you disassociated yourself from the Berger Clothes? A. The month I associated myself?

Q. Disassociated yourself? When you stopped with the Berger Clothes? A. Yes, then we formed a corporation. First it was a partnership.

Q. Yes, but when did you stop being connected with Berger Clothes? A. Completely?

Q. Yes. In 57 Thames Street? A. Over a year. 5810

Q. 1946? A. It was in 1940.

Q. Do you remember during the last month that you were there, a nineteen year old boy by the name of Tony Brusillier of 102 Harrison Place, coming up there and asking you for a job? A. That is right.

Q. At that time were you having coffee and rolls? A. That is right.

Q. On the desk? A. That is right.

Q. Do you recall whether or not you gave him a job? A. No.

Q. Did he tell you that he had not eaten for two weeks? A. No, sir. 5811

Q. Did he ask you for some coffee and rolls? A. No, he did not.

Q. Did you offer it to him?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

Mr. Barshay: Just wait a while.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you then grab him by the collar, beat him up against the wall, cut his lip, and throw him downstairs? Did you? A. I will tell you why.

5812 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Go ahead. A. I was in the office and he came walking in and I asked him what he is looking for. He said he is looking for a job. I said, "We are not open for any one now." He said, "All you Jews are alike." So when he said that, that's just what I done.

Q. You busted his lip? A. I did not.

Q. Did you throw him down the stairs? A.
5813 And then he started to fighting. That is just what he said to me.

Q. Do you remember—

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. Anything under those circumstances does not affect the credibility of a witness.

Mr. Barshay: I object to the comment of counsel.

The Witness: What would you do if you were in a place of business and somebody comes in for a job and you told him you don't need any one and he said, "All 5814 you Jews are alike," and he starts to wrestle me. I told him to go out. I should have had him arrested. When he told me he has not eaten, then I brought him coffee.

The Court: That was afterwards?

The Witness: That is right.

Q. You gave him coffee afterwards? A. That is right.

Q. Where? A. In the place.

Q. Didn't your partner's brother-in-law take that boy immediately to a doctor and have his lip stitched? A. I don't remember that.

Q. Didn't your partner continue to pay the expenses, medical expenses, for that boy?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. That does not affect credibility. That merely shows an act of being a good Samaritan under those circumstances.

The Court: Sustained.

The Witness: Yes, and I told him that— 5816

Q. You were a good Samaritan with that boy? A. What would you do if anybody come into your place of business and acts that way? I thought he was looking to burglarize the place, and so he came walking in. You are a lawyer. If you have somebody coming into your office like that, what would you do if he says to you, "All you Jews are alike," what would you do about it? I don't think you would buy him coffee after that neither.

Q. Finished? Did your partner, Nathan Berger, and you have an argument over that incident; yes or no? 5817

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you say to Berger, "If I was not in trouble with Dewey, I would break your God damn neck"? Did you say that? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Did Berger say to you then, "I am an ex-

Army man. Go ahead and do it"? Did he? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Wasn't that the last day that you were in that place? A. Absolutely not. We were on friendly terms. I never had an argument with Berger.

Q. You were on friendly terms with Berger? A. Absolutely.

Q. You still are? A. I don't think now. I was at the time, until I left that business, very 5819 friendly terms.

Q. You say until you left that business you were on very friendly terms with him? A. That is right.

Q. There is litigation pending between you and him for money that you overdrew, isn't there? A. There is.

Q. Isn't there? A. There is.

Q. And he charged you with taking money from the business without his permission or consent, isn't that so? A. That is not so.

Q. Isn't that the litigation that is pending now? A. No.

5820 Q. Yes or no. A. No, sir.

Q. Is there litigation pending? A. There is. He is suing me.

Q. Is it for money? A. That is right, for some of the money I took and gave to Mendy.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out.

The Court: Strike it out.

The Witness: Because he would never give me a nickel unless Mendy sent word to give him the money.

The Court: That is too far afield.

The Witness: Because Mendy was the boss there; I was not.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out.

The Witness: He would not give me any money unless Mendy said so.

The Court: Strike it out. No more about Mendy.

Q. You spoke, at page 1651, substantially about a meeting at a Governor Clinton Hotel with respect to the stoppage. Do you remember that? A. That is right. 5822

Q. Did you see Rubin at Fifth Avenue during that stoppage? A. I think I did.

Q. Did you see him do anything? A. I don't remember.

Q. Is that the time when the striking employees lay down at Fifth Avenue and 17th and 16th Streets and refused the trucks permission to go? A. That is right.

Q. Did you beat up anybody then; yes or no? A. I don't recollect.

Q. What? A. I did not. I don't recollect whether I did or not. 5823

Q. Page 1653, on direct examination, were you asked by the Court:

"Yes, tell what you did.

"The Witness: We stopped trucks, slugged the drivers, things along those lines."

A. I said that. It was me and maybe about two hundred others, maybe five hundred, maybe two thousand.

5824 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. It included you? A. I was one of them, yes—had a whole union stopped at that time, and got a 50,000 membership, I think, in New York City alone.

Q. Did Rubin point out anybody to you? A. He did not.

Q. Did you see him do anything at all— A. I did not.

Q. With respect to that strike? You knew that Danny Fields fled from the Dewey investigation, did you not? A. I did. Lepke's orders.

5825

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer, sir.

The Court: Strike out the last part.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor tell this witness again not to volunteer?

The Court: Volunteer nothing, just answer the questions.

Q. When do you say, to your personal knowledge, the defendant Buchalter's connection with the union ended? A. Will you repeat that question again?

5826

(Pending question read.)

Mr. Turkus: He never did say that.

The Court: Is that an objection?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, there is an objection as to the form.

The Court: Sustained as to form.

Q. Do you know when the defendant Buchalter's connection with the union ended?

The Court: Do you know if it did?

The Witness: What do you mean by "connection"? I don't think — It ended?

Q. Please, Berger. You say you saw Buchalter for the last time in 1937, is that correct? A. Yes.

Q. You did not see him again until you saw him in court? A. That is when he got off the payroll, in 1937. That is when he got off the payroll from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. Until then he was on the payroll. 5828

Q. After that, to your knowledge, he was not? A. That is right. I was told that they would not give him any more money.

Q. That is right, isn't it, after 1937 you say he was not on the payroll? A. I was told they would not give him any more money. That is what I was told, the exact words.

Q. You said here that on the Friday before the killing of Rosen you were at the clothing cutters' headquarters, is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. What was the address of that concern? A. What concern? 5829

Q. Clothing cutters' headquarters, call it the union headquarters, or concern—call it what you want— What was its address? A. On 15th Street and Union Square, in the Amalgamated Bank Building.

Q. What floor? A. Top floor.

Q. What was the address of the Truckmen's Association, New York Truckmen's Association, that day? A. What was the address of it?

Q. Greater New York Truckmen's Association? A. On 17th Street, it was.

Q. Do you know the exact address? A. No.

Q. Do you know the building? A. That is right.

Q. Do you know between what avenues? A. 17th Street and Union Square.

Q. And there is no doubt, Berger, that Rubin saw you that Friday, September 11, 1936, at the clothing cutters' headquarters? A. That is right.

Q. That is what you testified to? A. That is right.

Q. Now, will you give me the time? A. About 5831 five o'clock.

Q. Had you had your lunch that day? Had you eaten that day? A. I was not sick. I must have eaten.

Q. Was it your custom on Friday nights to go home and have dinner with your family? A. Not all the time.

Q. Not every Friday night? Do you know whether that night you did? A. I did not.

Q. Don't be mad at me. I only asked you whether you did or you didn't. A. I didn't.

Q. When did you look at a clock, to your knowledge, or a watch, before Rubin came to see 5832 you that day at the clothing cutters' headquarters? A. I don't remember.

Q. But it was about five o'clock? A. To the best of my recollection.

Q. What was the usual time on Fridays that you left the clothing cutters' headquarters? A. There was no usual time.

Q. Was it before supper hour? A. As a rule.

Q. Supper hour, would you say, was six o'clock, about? A. Sometimes there Friday until seven. Sometimes there is meetings. They are there until eight and nine. There was meetings on Friday nights.

Q. Do you know whom you were talking to when Rubin came? A. I was just walking out.

Q. You were going home, do you recall? Do you know where you were going? A. I don't remember definitely.

Q. He gave you a message, didn't he? Didn't he? A. That is right.

Q. Do you know what time you got to see Buchalter? A. After he told me, I went over.

Q. How long after? A. I walked all the way up. 5834

Q. How long did it take you? A. I just can't remember. Maybe I said, "Hello", to a person here or there. I just don't remember when I got there.

Q. You remember definitely Rubin coming up? A. Definitely.

Q. But you don't remember meeting anybody on the way? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember what entrance you came into the premises? A. I do. What premises?

Q. Wherever you saw Buchalter? A. That is right. 5835

Q. What entrance? A. On the Fifth Avenue side.

Q. Walked right in through the street? A. That is right.

Q. Walked into the elevator? A. That is right.

Q. Right into the elevator? A. That is right.

Q. Went right up to see Buchalter? A. I got off on the floor above and came down.

Q. Did you know an employee by the name of Cohen who worked for Buchalter then, Louis Cohen—Frank Cohen? A. If I see him, I may know him.

5836 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Did you ever see an employee of Buchalter's at that office? A. I seen a girl, a couple of girls.

Q. Was the girl there? A. I seen a couple of girls.

Q. Never a person by the name of Frank Cohen? A. If I see him, I may know him.

Q. Was the girl there that day? A. What day?

Q. The day that you went up to see Buchalter, 5837 September 11, 1936? A. I can't say that definitely.

Q. You don't recollect that either? A. Because I didn't walk into the office. I just opened the door and he seen me and he walked out.

Q. It was a little bit of an office, wasn't it? A. What would you call a little bit of an office?

Q. Describe the size yourself. A. Well, as you walked in there was a desk and a telephone. Then they had one—like after his desk and telephone, then there was one room there; there was another little room on this side.

5838 Q. In the room in which Buchalter was? A. He was out front. When I opened the door he seen me.

Q. The room whose door you opened, was that a big room or a small room? A. Small room.

Q. Look around in back of you. There is a big board there. Was the room much bigger than that board? A. What board?

Q. This blackboard right in back of you? A. Bigger than that?

Q. Was the room bigger than this blackboard, and if so, how much? A. You are asking me ridiculous questions. Did you ever see a room as big as that?

Q. I have seen lots of rooms as big as that. A. Would you be able to walk into it?

Q. How many times the size of that blackboard is that room, do you know? A. I am not a mathematician. I didn't go to college. How can I tell you how large? Can you tell me how large?

Q. I want to know the size of that room, to the best of your recollection. A. I can't say unless you showed me a little office here.

Q. Buchalter said to you, "You know that Joe 5840
Rosen," didn't he? A. That's right, he did.

Q. He asked you whether or not you knew Joe Rosen, didn't he? A. That is right.

Q. And you said, "Yes"? A. Yes.

Q. And then, in the hall, he said to you, "I want you to point out that Joe Rosen"? A. That is right.

Q. Then you claim you went down with Mendy and you did, is that right? A. That is right.

Q. Berger, don't you know as a fact that Mendy Weiss and Joe Rosen had worked together for one employer for a period of one 5841 year? A. I do not. Absolutely. Worked as what? Mendy ever work as a truckman? Is that what you are trying to tell me? Are you trying to tell me that Mendy worked as a truckman? Answer my question, will you, please? Are you trying to tell me that?

Q. Finished? A. That is right.

Q. Don't you know that Mendy Weiss and Rosen rode the same truck in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, when Rosen worked for Cooper? A. I do not.

Q. Please—

5842 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: Please what? That is an answer.

Mr. Barshay: Let me finish.

Q. When Rosen worked for Cooper on Bleecker Street, in the Borough of Manhattan?

Mr. Turkus: The question has been answered.

A. I do not.

5843 Q. Don't you know that Weiss and Rosen knew each other personally and intimately? A. Then why did he tell me to point him out to him? I wish to hell he wouldn't have told me to point him out.

Q. The jury may answer that, Berger; I won't. A. Why the hell didn't he go himself? Why the hell did he want me over there for if he knew him? I wish I had never gone over there. From your estimation that he knew him, then what the hell did he need me there?

5844 The Court: No more.

Mr. Barshay: May we suspend now?

The Court: We will reassemble promptly. All counsel be here at 1:30.

Gentlemen, please remember the previous admonition in all respects. Follow it.

First, the witness will be taken out.

Now the jury taken out by the other door.

Now the defendants are remanded.

(Recess until 1:30 P.M.)

AFTERNOON SESSION—TRIAL RESUMED

PAUL BERGER, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Cross-examination by Mr. Barshay (continued):

Q. Berger, did you see Weinstein on September 11, 1936? A. I seen him in September.

Q. I am now speaking of September 11th. Do you know what day that was? A. Was that before the murder? 5846

Q. Yes. Did you see Weinstein? A. What day is September 11th?

Q. You tell me. A. I ask you what day is September 11th, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday?

Q. You remember everything else. Can you tell me what day of the week it was? A. I don't remember that. Tell me the day.

Q. You cannot tell me? All right, I will tell you. Friday, September 11th. A. That is right.

Q. Did you see Weinstein that day? A. I did.

Q. Where did you see Weinstein that day? A. I think it was the Cutters' Local. 5847

Q. Was it before you received your message from Rubin? A. I think it was.

Q. What? A. It was before.

Q. Did you communicate to Weinstein the message you received from Rubin?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

A. Did I what?

Q. Did you tell Weinstein the message you got from Rubin? A. No.

5848 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. You did not tell a soul, did you? A. Will you repeat that question?

(Pending question read.)

A. The one before that.

(Question preceding read.)

A. That is right.

5849 Q. Did you see Weinstein at the same place that you saw Rubin that day? A. I am not sure.

Q. Well, that was the Clothing Cutters' Headquarters, wasn't it? A. That is right; maybe a time when he is not there.

Q. You know best. You tell me. Did you see him, meaning Weinstein, at the Clothing Cutters' Headquarters that day? A. I would not say definitely.

Q. How long were you at this Clothing Cutters' Headquarters that day? A. Maybe about 15 or 20 minutes.

5850 Q. What time did you get there? A. I did not look at the time when I walked up there.

Q. How close to five o'clock? A. A little over 4:30, maybe.

Q. Do you know where you had been before that day? A. I was in my place of business.

Q. Where was that? A. I think it was at that time 714 Broadway.

Q. Manhattan? A. Manhattan.

Q. Was that the only time that day you saw Rubin? A. That is right.

Q. When you came to the headquarters of the Clothing Cutters, did you see Weinstein there?

A. Well, I can't say that definitely. I answered that before.

Q. You say you stayed 15 minutes; is that correct? A. 15 or 20 minutes.

Q. Did you come there for any special purpose that day? A. Well, it was more or less of me coming up there almost every day. I understand what you are driving at, if I go up there for the money I used to bring Lepke. Sometimes I used to get the money on Thursday, sometimes Friday, sometimes Wednesday. The 5852 reason for that was he thought he was being watched for Mr. Dewey's office, and Mr. Weinstein told me, "Lepke told me don't go up there all the time the same day for the money," but I used to go up there, regardless of why I used to go up there.

Q. He told you he was being watched by the police very carefully? A. Or maybe there may be a Dewey man who saw me going in there every time the same time.

Q. In other words, he told you he had to be very careful whom he meets? A. Who told me?

Q. Buchalter. Buchalter told you he has got 5853 to be very careful whom he meets? A. So did Weinstein and Katz.

Q. They told you, too, that Buchalter has got to be very careful whom he meets? A. Meaning officials.

Q. Police? A. I said officials.

Q. Not detectives? A. What do you mean?

Q. In other words, Berger, the idea expressed to you or told to you by Weinstein and Katz and Buchalter all together, substantially was that the police from Dewey's office are watching Lepke very carefully, and they want to know, the police want to know and Dewey's office want to know whom Lepke was meeting, whether it was union officials whom he was meeting; right? A. That is right.

Q. You stayed at the Clothiers' Local, 15 minutes, you say? A. Around that.

Q. Did you get your money then? A. I don't remember whether I got it that day or the day before. Not my money. It was my money, Lepke's money, and Danny's money, not my 5855 money alone.

Q. You said that. I asked you did you see Weinstein during those 15 minutes? A. I can't say definitely.

Q. Did you see Weinstein when you left? A. No.

Q. Did you leave alone or with Rubin? A. I left alone.

Q. Where did Rubin stay? A. I think he remained there; I am not definite.

Q. You did not ask Rubin why Buchalter wants to see you, did you? A. No.

5856 Q. And he did not tell you? A. No.

Q. You were told the message? A. That is right.

Q. He has done that before? Has he done that before? A. Very seldom.

Q. But he has? A. At one time or another.

Q. When you went into the 200 Fifth Avenue, it was to see Buchalter at the Raleigh Clothes? A. That is right.

Q. Did you see any detectives whom you recognized as you entered the building? A. No.

Q. As you got off the elevator, did you see any detectives in the hall? A. No.

Q. Do you know the elevator boy who operated the elevator? A. I do not know. There is quite a lot of elevators there.

Q. Did you know any of them? A. No. I made sure that I would not.

Q. What? A. I was pretty careful they should not know me.

Q. Did you hide your face? A. No.

Q. You walked in normally, did you not? A. There is thousands of people walking in there every day. 5858

Q. To your knowledge, the Police Department had a picture of you, did they not?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

Mr. Barshay: I am trying to prove something, your Honor.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Did you not? A. I did not.

Q. Well, you had been photographed by the Police Department on prior occasions, had you not? A. I was.

Q. Then they had a picture of you to your knowledge, didn't they? 5859

Mr. Turkus: Objection. That does not follow.

A. They had it in Headquarters.

Mr. Turkus: Even that does not follow.

The Court: It is only an argument. Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: At certain times prints and pictures are returned.

5860 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Well, did you get any pictures back from the Police Department? A. What?

Q. Did you get any of the pictures that were taken of you by the Police Department? Did you ever get them back? A. Did I get any of them?

Q. Yes. A. What did I need them for?

Q. I asked you if you ever got them back from the Police Department. A. I asked them. I wish I could get them back.

5861 Q. But you did not get them back, so they had them? A. That is right.

Q. Did Buchalter tell you that even the elevator boys in the building were instructed to watch who was going into the Raleigh office? A. If he ever told me that?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. Did he tell you that even the elevator boys were given pictures of certain people for them to look at? A. That is the first time.

Q. Well, if he did not, he did not. I am trying to find out from you. A. The first time I hear it.

5862 Q. Did Buchalter tell you that even the taxicab drivers in the vicinity of Raleigh and in the vicinity of his home had been picked up and questioned by the police every time Buchalter was taken for a ride as a passenger? A. This I don't know.

Q. Did he tell you that they inquired of the taxicab drivers at Police Headquarters and at Dewey's office where they took Buchalter from and where they took him to? Did he tell you that? A. Don't know anything about it.

Q. You claim you saw, as you opened the door, someone in the office, did you? A. Lepke.

Q. That is all? A. That is right.

Q. Anybody else? A. Well, there was some people in there, but I didn't take notice. He just walked out as I opened the door. As soon as he seen me he walked towards me.

Q. Did he have his hat and coat on? A. No.

Q. Did he go back into the office to put his hat and coat on? A. After he told me to wait for him down by the stairs. 5864

Q. He went back and got dressed? A. Put his hat on and came out.

Q. Did you go back into the office with him? A. No, I did not.

Q. So that you know nobody who was in that room from the moment you opened the door until the moment you left? A. Will you repeat that question, please?

(Pending question read.)

A. No, I could not identify anybody.

Q. Not a soul? Did you know there was a 5865
Dictaphone in that office? A. I didn't know that.

Q. Were you told there was a Dictaphone in that office? A. I was told there may be.

Q. You were not told that it was sure? A. No, Lepke told me that office may be wired.

Q. Did you and Buchalter ever look around the office to see whether or not there were any wires? A. No.

Q. Or Dictaphones? A. I did not.

Q. You know the telephone was tapped by Dewey's office? A. I did not know that.

Q. Were you told that? A. I was told it may be tapped; that's why I never called; I always come up in person.

Q. You and he went down in the elevator together, did you not? A. That's right.

Q. What floor did you leave from? A. From the floor below.

Q. How long had Buchalter been in that building as a tenant, if you know? A. I cannot say that definitely.

Q. A few years? A. What?

5867 Q. At least a few years? A. I cannot say it definitely.

Q. At least one year, if you know?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it because it had there, "as a tenant"—

The Witness: You have got it on record. You know when he moved in: I don't.

Q. I know when he moved in and when he moved out. I want to know whether you know that. A. I know when Danny was told to go 5868 away by Lepke and I was told to deliver messages and other things to it. Then I knew he was up there, but I don't know how long.

Q. You say Danny was told to go away by Lepke; is that right? A. Positively.

Q. Did you ever tell anyone that Weinstein told Danny Fields to go away? A. Don't be ridiculous.

Q. I should not be ridiculous? A. That is right.

Q. Did you tell that to an Assistant in Dewey's office? A. I never spoke to anyone, to an Assistant, in Dewey's office. I would not talk to him, if you want to know the truth.

Q. I know the truth. A. I am telling the truth now.

Q. Did you tell it to anyone at all? A. That what?

Q. That Weinstein told Danny Fields to go away. Did you? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you up to a lawyer's office at 51 Chambers Street in the Borough of Manhattan? Were you? A. By the orders of—

5870

Q. Please. Were you there? A. Just a minute— By the orders of Mendy Weiss.

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, I ask this man to please be told—

The Witness: Yes, I was told to go up there.

Mr. Barshay: —not to volunteer.

The Witness: I was told to go up there by Mendy. I was told to go up there, and I knew what would happen to me if I didn't go up there.

5871

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Strike out the latter part.

Mr. Barshay: I move for the withdrawal of a juror and declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor please tell this witness again not to volunteer any information?

The Court: The Court was about to do that.

Mr. Barshay: All right, sir. I thank you.

The Court: Just answer the question, no more. Volunteer no information.

Q. Did you go up to a lawyer's office at 51 Chambers Street? A. What was the name of the lawyer, please?

Q. What difference does that make? A. It does make a difference. There is a number of 5873 lawyers that I know in that building. What lawyer are you referring to?

Q. Did you go up to any lawyer at 51 Chambers Street and speak to him with respect to the investigation that Dewey was conducting then?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it on the ground that the name of the lawyer be fixed, as the witness asked. There are a number of lawyers in the building.

The Witness: That I know.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5874

Q. Whoever the lawyer may have been, did you ever tell him that it was Weinstein who told Danny Fields to go away? Did you tell him? A. If you will tell me who the lawyer is, then I will answer that question. There was a number of lawyers in that building.

Q. Did you tell it to any lawyer in that building?

Mr. Turkus: I object. I ask that the name of that particular lawyer be revealed.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Did you tell it to any lawyer in that building or any building in this Universe, that Weinstein was the one who told Danny Fields to leave town? Did you? A. Can you tell me the name of the lawyer?

The Court: Yes or no.

The Witness: Yes, by the instructions of Mendy.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the latter part of the answer and that only 5876 that part which is responsive stand.

Mr. Turkus: Of course, under those circumstances any inconsistent statement would not impeach his credibility here, if that is the fact, as testified to. I think the answer should stand.

The Court: If you will make a memorandum of these so you do not forget them on redirect, you won't have to worry about it. It is stricken out.

Mr. Turkus: I am not worried about it.

Q. As you got into the elevator with Buch- 5877 alter, did you know whether or not he said, "Hello" to the elevator boy? A. No.

Q. Was he disguised—Buchalter? A. No.

Q. No smoked glasses? A. No.

Q. Walked right into the elevator, rode down with you? A. That is right.

Q. Walked out of the building in the main entrance? A. There was quite a number of entrances there.

Q. What entrance did he walk out with you, what exit or entrance? A. I think it was—

The Court: Not what you think: do you remember?

The Witness: The front entrance.

Q. 200 Fifth Avenue? A. That is right.

Q. There is a cab line there? A. There is.

Q. Hailed one of the cabs right on the line? A. No.

Q. Where did you go for a cab? A. A cab passing by.

5879 Q. Hailed it right from the street? A. Walked up a bit, not in front of the door.

Q. Right in the public street? A. What is that?

Mr. Turkus: Every street is public.

The Witness: Walked up a bit, away from the building.

Q. How far did you walk? A. Crossed over to Broadway, 23rd Street.

Q. How far? A block, half a block? A. That is a corner there with a number of streets coming in. It is more or less of a square, to a certain extent. We walked up towards Broadway.

5880

Q. Did Buchalter turn around to see if anyone was following him? A. That is right.

Q. A lot of people were following, were they not? A. Walking.

Q. Directly behind him? A. That is right.

Q. You did not know any? A. No, sir.

Q. Then he hailed a cab? A. That is right.

Q. Both got in? A. That is right.

Q. As far as you could learn, or as far as you knew then, Buchalter did not know that cab driver, did he? A. No.

Q. It was an ordinary passing cab? A. That is right.

Q. You and he sat in the cab? A. That is right.

Q. Did you hear Lepke giving instructions to this cab driver? A. That is right.

Q. What did he say? A. Just "Ride downtown."

Q. That is all? A. Just a minute. That ain't all. When we rode down a way, then he says, "Go over to Suffolk and Grand."

5882

Q. Is that all? A. And while riding in the cab, we were looking back in the window.

Q. You were looking back? A. Not me.

Q. Buchalter? A. That is right, to see if anyone was following us.

Q. There were cars following you? A. I don't know what he was watching; watching to see if he was being followed by cars.

Q. There were cars following you? A. There was a lot of cars riding.

Q. Have you told us all the instructions he had given to that cab driver? A. That is right.

5883

Q. He has not given another instruction in your presence and hearing? A. Not that I know.

Q. Right? A. Yes.

Q. You were there all the time and immediately alongside of Buchalter? A. That is right.

Q. So that Buchalter did not tell this cab driver through which streets to go, did he? A. He was telling him to go downtown.

Q. He did not tell him through which streets to go, did he? A. No.

Q. The cab stopped at the street you said? A. What? Grand and Sutter.

Q. It did? Cab man paid? Cab man paid? A. Cab paid.

Q. Who paid him? A. Lepke.

Q. You both stood on the street corner? A. That is right.

Q. The cab went on? A. That is right.

Q. No instructions given to the cab driver by Buchalter after that? A. No.

Q. Then there was some talk with an unknown man and then Mendy Weiss came over? A. We 5885 walked down towards Broome Street.

Q. Right in the street? A. That is right.

Q. Both of you? A. Both of us.

Q. How long a time elapsed before Mendy Weiss comes along? A. About 10 minutes.

Q. During the 10 minutes, where were you and Buchalter? A. When we stopped near the corner there he said, "Go over and get Mendy. He is on the corner of Clinton and Broome." This fellow walked down.

Q. Where were you and Buchalter during that 10 minutes? A. I was standing with Buchalter 5886 on Suffolk Street, and as the man walked down, we turned around towards Broome Street.

Q. Still no glasses on Buchalter's face, no smoked glasses? A. No.

Q. No collar up? A. No.

Q. Nor on yours? A. No, sir.

Q. About what time would you say, if you can tell us, when Mendy Weiss came along? A. I can't remember the time to the minute, but I can tell you about.

Q. About. A. To the best of my recollection it would be about six o'clock.

Q. Was it dark? A. No

Q. Was it getting dark? A. No.

Q. Then there was a talk with Buchaiter and Mendy? A. That is right.

Q. Were you told to keep out of that talk? A. No. Walked away on the side; don't think I was going to go over and listen what they were going to say. Do you get it?

Q. That was right on the street? A. That is right.

Q. Buchalter and Mendy talking? A. That is right. 5888

Q. Light? A. Light.

Q. There was daylight saving time then; six o'clock would be really five o'clock; right? A. I know it was light.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

Q. How long did they talk? A. About 5 or 10 minutes, I would say.

Q. About a quarter after six or something like that? A. They did speak about 5 or 10 minutes. 5889

Q. Well, you said you got there about six o'clock. A. Got where?

Q. At the corner? A. What corner?

Q. Suffolk and Grand. Did you? A. I did not say we got there at the corner at six.

Q. What time did you get at the corner? A. You did not ask me that question.

Q. Well, I ask you now. A. It would be near six o'clock.

Q. Then it took about 10 minutes to get Mendy and they spoke about 5 minutes, so I said to you it was about a quarter after six.

5890 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That was because the witness has indicated an approximate time.

Mr. Barshay: I will withdraw it.

The Witness: I cannot remember definite on that.

The Court: Did you look at your watch at any time?

The Witness: No, sir, Judge; just a matter of the best of my recollection.

5891 Mr. Barshay: May I object to the question, if your Honor pleases? I move to strike the answer out.

The Court: Let it stand.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You did not hear a single word of the talk between Lepke and Mendy, did you? A. No, sir.

Q. What is the next thing Buchalter said? A. To whom?

Q. To you. A. He says, "You go with Mendy and point out Joe Rosen."

5892 Q. Did he tell you where? A. No.

Q. Did you know where? A. I did not.

Q. You did not know where Rosen had a candy store? A. No, sir.

Q. You never heard Rosen had a candy store? A. I heard it.

Q. Did you ever hear the address of that candy store? A. In Brownsville—all I knew.

Q. When did you see Rosen last before that day? A. Before what day?

Q. September 11, 1936. A. You mean on the Friday?

Q. Yes. A. About a week or 10 days before.

Q. Where? A. Around the clothing district.

Q What time? A During the day. I can't remember what time

Q. Did you talk to him? A. I did not

Q. When did you talk to him before?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. That takes in an improper implication. The witness just said he did not talk to him.

The Court: Sustained.

5894

Q. When did you talk to Rosen before September 11, 1936? A. Maybe a couple of weeks before that.

Q. Where? A. In the clothing district.

Q. Did you talk to him then? A. I did.

Q. Did he tell you about a candy store that he had? A. He did.

Q Did he tell you that he was doing badly at the candy store? A. No.

Q. Did he tell you that he was there just with his wife and children? A. No.

Q. Did you hear he was doing very badly at the candy store? 5895

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Do you know whether or not Rosen had a partner in that candy store? A. I don't know.

Q. You know he did not have a partner, don't you? A. I cannot say either. I don't know.

Q. You know his son lived in Reading, Pennsylvania, at that time? A. I don't know that.

Q. Did you know that Rosen was the only person tending that candy store, the only male person tending that candy store? A. Did I know what?

5896 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Did you know that Rosen was the only male person working in that candy store? A. I did not know that.

Q. Did you know that he could afford neither helper nor partner? A. I did not know anything about that.

Q. Did you know that he was the only man tending that candy store?

5897

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Now Buchalter leaves. You are left alone with Moody; is that right?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. I don't understand the question at all.

5898 Q. You understand, Berger.

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute.

Q. We are back again at the East Side, aren't we?

Mr. Turkus: There is a question and objection: "Now Lepke leaves." I object to it.

Mr. Barshay: I will fix the time and place, if you want it.

Q. Going back again to the East Side, after this talk with Buchalter, he leaves, does he? A. Yes.

Q. And you are left alone with Mendy? A. That is right.

Q. You know what I am talking about, don't you, what period? A. It was that Friday you are talking about.

Q. Yes. A. That is right.

Q. Where did you go with Mendy? A. We walked down towards Broome and Clinton. 5900

Q. Did you meet anybody on the way? A. He did. I didn't.

Q. Whom did he meet on the way? A. I don't know. He spoke to some people.

Q. Did you know them? A. No.

Q. How long did he speak to them? A. About 10 minutes.

Q. You waited? A. That is right.

Q. That is about 6:25, isn't it?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Mr. Barshay: "About," I said.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. 5901

The Court: He said he did not time himself.

Q. You set the time yourself, Berger. It is 10 minutes now after Buchalter leaves.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it, because if he cannot predicate the first time, anything upon that is speculation. That is my objection.

The Court: Pure guesswork. Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5902 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Where did you go after this talk that Mendy had with an unknown man? A. Went into the restaurant.

Q. Do you know the name of it? A. No, it was a restaurant on the corner of Broome and Clinton.

Q. What kind, self-service? A. No; regular meals.

Q. What did you do there? A. We ate there.

Q. Both of you? A. Both of us.

5903 Q. You had your dinner there? A. That is right.

Q. How long did it take you to eat? A. Not only ate. There was some people coming in. We spoke there. We were sitting around there.

Q. Did you know any of them? A. Some of them I knew.

Q. Can you tell me their names? A. There was Farvel there.

Q. Anybody else? A. Some others there that I know.

Q. How long did you stay in the restaurant? A. Starting to get dark.

5904 Q. About that you are sure? A. That is right.

Q. Would you say you stayed in the restaurant about an hour or less or more? A. More.

Q. Would you say it was an hour and a half or two? A. I cannot say that definitely. The best I can say, that when we got out of there it was getting dark.

Q. Who go out of there? A. Me and Mendy.

Q. That is all? A. And others. There was a few others when we got out. Farvel, I think, was there.

Q. Walked out, right? A. That is right.

Q. Where did you go then? A. He talked to a couple of people there.

Q. For how long? A. Killed maybe another half hour or so, and I was hanging around.

Q. Was it dark by then? A. That is right.

Q. No doubt about it? A. That is right.

Q. Where did you go then? A. We got into the car.

Q. Where was this car? A. On Broome Street.

Q. Both of you got in? A. That is right.

Q. Only you two? A. That is right. 5906

Q. You drove out to where? A. Saratoga and Livonia.

Q. How long does the trip take? A. We rode over there. I can't say how long the trip will take.

Q. A half hour? A. Around that.

Q. Traffic is pretty heavy over the Williamsburgh Bridge at that hour, is it not? A. No, not at that hour. Not heavy.

Q. Have you been over the Williamsburgh Bridge? A. Yes, many times.

Q. Have you been there between 5 and 8 o'clock at night? A. I have been through that 5907 hour.

Q. Isn't that the time that most people who live in Brooklyn and work in Manhattan travel, between 5 and 8? A. Towards 8 o'clock the traffic is not so heavy.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. This is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial. There is no time fixed.

The Court: It is purely argumentative. Sustained.

5908 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Barshay: I except to it. It is going to be most vital. I wish you would allow me a little latitude in respect to this.

The Court: The Court can indulge you no more.

Q. Berger, as you crossed the Williamsburgh Bridge, was it— A. That is right.

Q. —was traffic heavy or not? A. Not very 5909 heavy.

Q. How long would you say it took you and Mendy Weiss in that car to get to Saratoga and Livonia? A. Between a half hour and three-quarters of an hour.

Q. But it was absolutely dark? A. That is right.

Q. Lights of the car were on? A. Yes.

Q. On the way out, did you look back in the car to see if anyone was following you? A. We did.

Q. Lots of cars behind you? A. Yes.

5910 Q. On the way out, after you crossed the Williamsburgh Bridge and you went to Saratoga and Livonia, did you look to see if anyone was following you? A. You mean the car?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, we were riding through a lot of side streets.

Q. Was that because you knew then that the police or members of District Attorney Dewey's office were following you two? A. No, sir.

Q. Or Mendy? A. I don't know that.

Q. Were you told that by either Mendy or Buchalter? A. That I was followed by—

Q. That you were followed? A. No.

Q. That everyone in connection with Buchalter was being tailed? A. No.

Q. When you got to Saratoga and Livonia it was positively dark, wasn't it? A. That is right.

Q. How long did you stay there? A. About 10 minutes.

Q. How long did it take you to get to the candy store? A. What candy store?

The Court: Rosen's.

The Witness: What candy store? 5912

The Court: Rosen's.

Mr. Turkus: Wait. The witness has something else in mind. He is talking times now. There was a candy store at Saratoga and Livonia.

The Witness: That is right.

Mr. Barshay: I am past that, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: I did not know that. Neither did he.

Q. You said you stayed there 10 minutes? A. That is right. 5913

Q. I am past that candy store. A. He got into the car—just a minute—

Q. All right. A. He got into the car with me again.

Q. And you went to another place? A. That is right.

Q. How long did that take? A. From there to Sackman Street and Livonia.

Q. How long? A. From there? About five minutes.

Q. Can you tell us as best you can what time you got to Sackman Street.

5914 Mr. Turkus: I object to this. The witness has indicated he kept no watch or clock of the movements, and he has explained that he could not even fix the first time.

Mr. Cuff: If your Honor pleases, I object to Mr. Turkus putting the words into the witness's mouth. If he has an objection he ought to state it in a legal form and not make a statement that will guide 5915 the witness later on. I object to the statement.

Mr. Turkus: That is very unfair of Mr. Cuff.

Mr. Cuff: And you have been doing that right a'ong.

Mr. Turkus: If he cannot predicate the first time, anything else is speculation.

By the Court:

Q. Did you have a watch with you? Do you remember? A. I did.

5916 Q. Do you remember whether or not you looked at it? A. I did not. Had no special reason.

Q. Did you look at any watch or clock? A. No, sir; I had no special reason to look at a watch.

Q. Have you any means of determining so as to give us fairly reliable information as to what time you got to the store on Sackman and Livonia?

Mr. Barshay: May we have an objection, your Honor, to line of inquiry?

The Court: I withdraw it. I was trying to help you out. Go ahead.

The Witness: To the best of my recollection—

The Court: Recollection or judgment?

The Witness: —it would be about 9:30.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Then you left Rosen's candy store. After you did what you told the jury you did, you left Rosen's candy store? 5918

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. The witness is shaking his head in the negative.

Q. Without shaking your head, Mr. Berger—

Mr. Turkus: I object to it because he said that that is not the fact.

The Court: I thought the questioning already had the witness there.

Mr. Turkus: No, the questioning has got him on Sackman and Livonia. There is something else happened here. 5919

Q. You said you were there five minutes and you went to Rosen's candy store, did you not,—at Sackman and Livonia, and then you went to Rosen's candy store? A. From Sackman and Livonia.

Q. That is what I said. A. You did not. You asked me when I left Rosen's candy store.

Q. It only took five minutes to get to Rosen's candy store? A. That is right. And then you asked me if I left.

5920 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. That is what I say now. A. That is different.

Q. Did you leave Rosen's candy store? A. After I pointed him out to Mendy.

Q. Did you leave Rosen's candy store? A. After I pointed him out to Mendy.

Q. If you want to say it again, you can, but did you finally leave Rosen's candy store? A. I say after I pointed him out.

Q. What is the closest you got to Rosen's 5921 candy store? A. Across the street.

Q. Directly opposite? A. That is right.

Q. It is a 30-foot gutter, if you know? A. What is that?

Q. The gutter is 30 feet wide? A. I don't know how wide any gutter is. I did not measure it.

Q. And the best time you can give us is 9:30? A. Between 9:30 and 10. I left that place 9:30, to the best of my recollection.

Q. After you did whatever you said you did at Rosen's candy store, where did you go? A.
5922 Down to the East Side again with Mendy.

Q. How much time did you spend in Brownsville near the vicinity of Sackman and Livonia, Saratoga and Livonia, and Rosen's candy store, all together?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it as already answered to the best of his recollection.

The Court: His testimony shows it is all guesswork.

Mr. Barshay: He has fixed himself the time as between 9:30 and 10.

The Court: Pardon me, he has not fixed the time. The Court won't discuss that.

5923

Q. Mr. Witness, did you say between 9:30 and 10?

The Court: I know what he said, but the Court knows it means nothing.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception to the Court's remarks.

The Court: Now proceed.

Mr. Barshay: And I ask for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

5924

The Court: On what ground?

Mr. Barshay: On the ground of prejudice, when the Court said that does not mean anything.

The Court: You mean to have a withdrawal of a juror because the Court will not agree with you that guessing as to time is accurate?

Mr. Barshay: No, sir, that is not my point.

The Court: I think it is. Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception, sir.

5925

Q. Did you ride back with Mendy Weiss to New York? A. I did.

Q. Where did you leave Mendy Weiss? A. On the East Side.

Q. Can you tell us now, your best recollection of what time you got back to the East Side? A. I cannot say definite.

Q. Can you tell us how long it took you to get back? A. Whatever time it took us to get back from there.

Q. About how long, please? A. You can figure about three-quarters of an hour.

Q. Where did you live then? A. I lived in East 54th Street, Brooklyn.

Q. Weiss left you off where? A. On the East Side.

Q. Where did you go from there? A. I took my car. I had my car there.

Q. Where did you have your car? ... On the East Side.

5927 Q. What kind of a car? A. My own car.

Q. What make? A. I had, at that time I had a Chrysler.

Q. When did you leave it on the East Side, that night or that day? A. I come in with it in the morning. I used to park it on 12th Street and Broadway in a lot.

Q. Where did you park it that day? A. 12th Street and Broadway, in the morning.

Q. Is that what you call the East Side? A. What would you call it, the West Side?

Q. I won't call it anything. Is that what you
5928 call the East Side? A. To my recollection, yes, sir; to my knowledge, unless I am wrong.

Q. Where did Mendy take you from East New York and Rosen's candy store? Where did he leave you off? A. On the East Side.

Q. Exactly where? A. On Broome and Clinton.

Q. And where did you go from there? A. I took a cab and I went up to 12th Street and Broadway. 12th Street off Broadway there was a lot, parking lot.

Q. Did you ask Mendy to drive you to where your car was? A. I did.

Q. He refused? A. He had to see somebody.

Q. You testified here that about two weeks after the killing of Rosen, Buchalter had a talk with you; did you not? A. That is right.

Q. Where was this talk? A. Up in his office.

Q. Where? A. 200 Fifth Avenue.

Q. In the office? A. Not in the office.

Q. Where? A. In the hall. I never spoke in the office. We always used to walk out in the hall; walk up one flight or walk downstairs one flight—talked like that on the stairs. 5930

Q. He told you the police were looking for Rubin? A. That is right.

Q. He told you that the District Attorney's office was looking for Rubin? A. I don't remember that definite.

Q. But definitely you do remember that the police were looking for him? A. I don't know if they were at the time; probably were, but I can't say that definitely.

Q. A few minutes ago or a few seconds ago you told this jury that he told you in that hallway, that Buchalter told you in that hallway, that the police were looking for Rubin. A. That is right. 5931

Q. No doubt about that? A. He will have to go away.

Q. Had you seen Rubin in the meantime in those two weeks? A. I did.

Q. Talked to him? A. I did.

Q. He told you that the Brooklyn D.A.'s office and police were looking for him too, didn't he?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Overruled.

A. He did.

5932 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. How many times did he tell you that? A. Once.

Q. Then you were told to make arrangements to have Rubin go with Danny Fields? A. That is right, until things straightened out in Brooklyn.

Q. Danny Fields had already been told to go away on account of the Dewey investigation, is that right? A. The time, yes.

Q. Speak up, please. A. That is right, Lepke
5933 told him to go away.

Q. And when you were told by Buchalter that Rubin had to go away with Danny Fields until things cleared out in Brooklyn—is that what you said? A. Yes.

Q. You remember that phrase distinctly? A. That is right.

Q. And in that conversation he told you again, did he not, that the District Attorney's office and the Police Department were looking for Rubin?

5934 Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That is not the testimony.

The Court: Let him state.

Mr. Barshay: If your Honor pleases—

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. Will you answer that? A. What is that again?

(Pending question read.)

A. No, he did not.

Q. Please, will you not look in this direction? A. What is that? What was that?

5935

Q. If you don't mind, Mr. Berger, in this direction. A. What was that? That is where I am looking.

Q. Face the jury. A. That is where I am looking. Just wanted to see—

Q. Did Rubin tell you that when he made the arrangements to go away? A. Did Rubin tell me what?

Q. That he was going away as per instructions because the Police Department and the District Attorney's office were looking for him? A. No, sir, Lepke.

Q. Lepke told you that? A. Lepke told me that he should go away until things straighten out in Brooklyn, and he suggested that he should go with Danny Fields, and I said it would be all right, and have Danny Fields cheer him up, and to be away until things start clearing up in Brooklyn.

Q. Did Lepke tell you that the police were looking for Rubin before you made those arrangements?

5937

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. It is repetitious. It has already been answered.

The Court: That is what he said. Did he specifically say the police were looking, or did he simply say what you have just testified to, that it was advisable for Rubin to go away with Danny Fields?

Mr. Barshay: May I object to the form of the question, your Honor?

The Court: On what ground?

Mr. Barshay: This witness is a clever witness, Judge. I am allowed on cross-examination a little wider latitude than on direct.

5938 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Court: Now you are starting to scold the Court.

Mr. Barshay: I am not scolding the Court.

The Court: Yes, you are. Objection overruled. Listen to the question.

(Pending question by the Court read.)

The Court: Which was it?

5939 The Witness: That it was advisable for Rubin to go away with Danny Fields until things cleared up in Brooklyn.

The Court: But did he say specifically that the police were looking for Rubin?

The Witness: No.

Q. You mean at that point he did not say that?

The Court: At any time.

The Witness: Not at that time.

5940 Q. At what time did he say that? A. A few days before.

Q. A few days before? Where? A. Up in his office. I say "office"; I do not mean we spoke in the office.

Q. And when after that did he tell you that again? A. That was the time when he suggested that it would be a good idea for him to go up with Danny Fields. That is the time he only said that he should go away with Danny Fields until things cleared up in Brooklyn and have Danny Fields cheer him up, pep him up.

Q. When else, Berger, did Lepke, or Buchalter, tell you? At any other time or place did Buchalter tell you that the police were looking for Rubin or that the District Attorney's office were looking for Rubin?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He has already answered it.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. If your Honor pleases, I have now gone beyond the time with respect to the arrangements being made between Rubin and Danny Fields. I am going beyond that now. Any conversation with Buchalter is admissible, your Honor has ruled, and it is admissible. Might this witness be allowed to answer those questions? 5942

The Court: He has answered the question, but obviously there was some confusion as to what your question called for. Apparently he did not pay attention to it closely. You may go ahead with that.

Q. Berger, when at any other time did Buchalter tell you, in all your dealings with respect to your making arrangements with Rubin for his going out of town and giving him his money, that the police or the Brooklyn D.A.'s office was looking for him? A. He told me they were looking for him. 5943

Q. Yes. A. He did not tell me who.

The Court: Did he say "police"?

The Witness: No, I won't say that definitely.

The Court: Did he say "District Attorney", if you recall?

5944 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Witness: I can't recall it definitely, but I know he told me they were looking for him.

Q. Yes. Did he say, with respect to who was looking for him, the word "Brooklyn"? A. Meaning on account of the murder of Rosen.

Q. That is clear, isn't it? A. In my mind it was.

Q. You understood it that way? A. Right.

5945 Q. How many times did he tell you they were looking for him, without mentioning who, because of the murder of Rosen in Brooklyn? A. That was just the time.

Q. Any other time, Berger? A. No, not that I can recollect.

Q. When he came back from Salt Lake City, was there any such talk by Lepke and you? Was there? A. Of what?

Q. That the police or the District Attorney's office or someone, no matter who it is, was looking for Rubin with respect to the Rosen case? A. Well, this I can't say definitely, but I do 5946 know that he was told to go away until things cleared up in Brooklyn.

Q. You have said that about three or four times. Now I am asking you something else, Berger. Rubin came back from trips here and there, didn't he? A. That is right.

Q. You used to see him when he came back? A. That is right.

Q. Did you speak to Rubin? A. I did.

Q. He complained did not want to stay away, didn't he? A. That is right.

Q. Always? A. That is right.

Q. Buchalter always urged him to go away.

through you or personally, right? A. Personally. Not through me. I had no say there.

Q. In those talks, when you and Rubin spoke, when he came back from Salt Lake City, New Orleans, and here and there, he told you that he was tired, he did not want to stay away, and did he tell you also that he was away because the police or the D. A.'s office were looking for him with respect to the Rosen case?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. There is a double question there. 5948

Mr. Barshay: I will ask it one at a time. You are right.

Q. Did he tell you when he came back from those trips that someone was looking for him on account of the Rosen case? A. Who tell me?

Q. Rubin.

Mr. Turkus: Speak up.

A. He did not.

Q. Did you ever speak to Rubin about his fleeing from the Rosen case? A. In regards to what? 5949

Q. In regards to running away from the Rosen case.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

A. He was following instructions. I don't know what you mean, Counsellor.

Q. Well, did Rubin tell you that they were looking for him? A. Lepke told me they were looking.

5950 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. We will get to that, Berger. Did Rubin tell you—

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

Q. —that they were looking for him because of the Rosen case?

Mr. Turkus: Object to it. That has been answered.

The Court: This calls for yes or no.

5951 Mr. Turkus: He has answered it.

The Court: Did Rubin ever say they were looking for him because of the Rosen case, specifically using the name Rosen?

The Witness: He did.

Q. Now tell me how many times he told you that. A. That was the time when Danny Fields, when I spoke to Danny Fields.

Q. Any other time, Berger? A. Danny Fields told me at the time I spoke with him over the wire that Rubin called him up, wanted to see him 5952 at two in the morning, and when he went over there Rubin was raving. The reason for that was he had seen in the papers they were looking for him in regards to the Rosen murder. That is the only time.

Q. In other words, you were told that Rubin's name was mentioned in the paper? A. That is right.

Q. With respect to the Rosen case. Was that the New York Post, if you recall? A. I did not see it in the papers.

Q. There is no doubt you were told that is the name appeared in the newspaper? A. That is the conversation I had.

Q. At any other time—forget this one for the second—at any other time from the beginning to the time that Rubin finally came back and surrendered himself, did Rubin tell you that they were looking for him in the Rosen case? A. No.

Q. Did Lepke tell you? A. No.

Q. What? A. You mean at what time?

Q. At any time other than the time you just told us. A. No. 5954

Q. Did you ever speak to Rubin about the Rosen case in those conversations you had? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you collect any money from Local 138 or from Wolfie Goldis for Rubin? A. I refuse to answer that question on the ground that it may incriminate me, on the advice of counsel.

Q. Maybe you do not understand me, Berger. I am speaking only of the $25 amounts. Did you collect any moneys? A. I refuse to answer that question on the ground it may incriminate me and on the advice of my counsel.

Q. Before Rubin left for Saratoga, did Rubin take you around to customers? Did he? A. What do you mean, "customers"? 5955

Q. Did he take you around to people, to any people, and introduce you? A. What is the purpose of introducing me?

Q. I do not know. Did he do such a thing? Did he take you and introduce you to people whom you had never met before, before Rubin left for Saratoga?

Mr. Turkus: The witness has raised his Constitutional point on that.

5956

Mr. Barshay: If your Honor pleases, he never raised it with respect to this question and, Mr. Turkus, I think you ought to be fair enough not to make an objection in that form.

The Court: Yes.

Q. Did Rubin take you around and introduce you, before you had made arrangements for him to go to Saratoga, to introduce you to some people whom you had never met before? A. I 5957 can't answer that question. That question is going to incriminate me on account of my case in New York.

The Court: No more suggesting on the question of Constitutional rights. The witness is well able to take care of himself, having been advised by his own lawyer.

Q. Did you get any money from any of those people to whom Rubin introduced you? A. I 5958 refuse to answer that question on the ground that it may incriminate me.

Q. Can you tell us how many people he introduced you to? A. I refuse to answer that question on the same ground.

The Court: May I see those indictments?

(Assistant District Attorney Hurwitz of Mr. Dewey's office, handed papers to the Court.)

Mr. Barshay: May I proceed in the meantime?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: Because I want to pursue exactly the subject you are going to look at.

The Court: Briefly they cover alleged extortion and coercion from the period beginning about 1929 up to and including the specific date in 1937.

Mr. Barshay: May I go into each one, your Honor?

The Court: No. I looked at them only to see whether there was any indication 5960 that the refusal to answer was not in good faith and for the constitutional reasons stated. You go ahead.

Mr. Barshay: Perhaps I do not understand the Court's ruling. Are you going to allow me to ask each and every question?

The Court: The Court should not be required to explain a point of law. I did this for your benefit. The explanation is that if it was apparent from the indictments that the refusal to answer was 5961 not in good faith and obviously not for the purpose of protecting the constitutional rights of the witness, then the Court would have a right, in another way, to deal with the witness for contumacious refusal to testify; but after reading the indictments the Court is satisfied that it cannot deal with the witness in that way.

Mr. Barshay: All right. May I ask your Honor specifically to direct this witness to answer?

The Court: I cannot.

5962 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Barshay: May I take an exception?

The Court: He is within his constitutional rights.

Mr. Barshay: May I take an exception?

The Court: Certainly.

Mr. Barshay: May I have the same request with respect to a direction and an exception in every question and answer I am now going to put to this man?

The Court: I don't know what they are.

5963

Q. Berger, between August, 1933, and August, 1937, did you participate and share in the extortion of moneys to the amount of $4800 from the Acme Textile Shrinkage Works, Incorporated, and David Greenberg, in the County of New York? A. I refuse to answer that question on the same ground, that it may incriminate me.

Mr. Barshay: I ask your Honor to direct him to answer.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5964

Q. Did you participate and share in the extortion of moneys to the amount of $4800 between August, 1933, and August, 1937, from the Atlas Cloth Sponging Corporation and Isidore Feingold, in the County of New York? A. (No answer).

Q. May I have an answer to the question? A. I refuse to answer that question. It may incriminate me.

Mr. Barshay: Instead, your Honor, of my asking for a specific direction on each question, may I have one objection to your failure to do so and one exception?

The Court: Yes.

Q. Did you participate—

The Court: I take it you are reading from the indictments?

Mr. Barshay: I have been so informed, your Honor.

The Court: I think that should be on the record, that these questions are asked from the reading of the indictments by counsel. 5966

Mr. Barshay: They have been given me with that understanding.

The Court: Yes, all right. That should protect you sufficiently in your rights.

Q. Did you participate in the month of October, 1954, in extorting the sum of $1500 from the Adeline Dress Manufacturing Company, Incorporated, and Herman Goodman? A. I don't even know what it is. 5967

Q. Is that your answer or do you refuse to answer? Which is it? A. Refuse to answer on the same ground. Judge, is it all right?

The Court: The Court cannot advise you. You have been advised by the Court previously and been advised by your counsel.

The Witness: I had nothing to do with it anyway. As long as the counsel advised me that, all right.

Q. I want to get these questions to you, Berger. Did you participate in extorting the sum of $20,000 from May, 1934, to July, 1935, from the B. & R. Clothing Company, Incorporated, and Irving O. Rudow and Albert Turner? A. I will answer the question. I never extorted a nickel. That was all extorting, you ask me?

Q. Are you now waiving your rights to object and refuse to answer, Mr. Berger?

5969

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Do you want me to go back to the first case?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

5970 Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $9,000 between July, 1933, and October, 1935, from Blacker Brothers, Incorporated, and Morris Blacker? A. I will give you the answer that will settle the whole thing. I never extorted five pennies. I worked for my money. Besides I got paid from the Union. That settles the whole thing. I never got two pennies from any one of them, only followed instructions. I carried the damn money after they went away, nothing to do with any extortions. Never extorted a nickel from anybody.

The Court: These indictments, I think should be on the record, are against quite a large number of defendants collectively. They are not against just this defendant but all who are claimed by the Grand Jury to have participated.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception to that.

The Court: Do you deny it?

Mr. Barshay: No, that is why I am using the words "Did you participate?" That means with others. It is quite ob- 5972 vious.

The Court: You don't deny what the Court says is true?

Mr. Barshay: Of course what the Court says is true. That is why I am using the words "participate in".

The Court: The names of those defendants would be put on the record, if you wished, but I am just informed by Mr. Dewey's representative that some of the defendants are still fugitives and it is not wise to let anybody know who they 5973 are.

Mr. Barshay: I did not ask to put them on. I am only asking of this witness whether he is a defendant in that case.

The Court: You see you are asking him if he participated. That may be confusing to him and it may be confusing to the jury. It may mean, did you go out and take the money and carry it, whereas legal participation may require no such thing. The actual carrying and collecting may have been by other members of a group. You can go ahead with that understanding.

Mr. Barshay: I will take the answer from this witness to tell what he did in each and every case. They claimed privilege so I was stopped from doing so.

The Court: Go ahead. He has not waived his privilege.

Mr. Barshay: He claimed it. I said not 5975 waived it.

Q. Berger, you knew what that money was, did you not, that you got from these people?

Mr. Turkus: Wait a minute. I object to the form of the question. That is a confusing question.

A. I did not, absolutely not, what the agreement was made with.

The Court: Did you collect any of the 5976 money yourself?

A. I was told to pick it up by Lepke. That's all I know.

Q. Did you pick it up? A. Yes.

Q. Did you go to the people whose names I read and pick it up personally? A. Went to some, not to some of them that you read.

Q. Can you tell me whether or not you did so personally with respect to Acme Textile Shrinkage? A. I don't know who Textile is.

Q. David Greenberg. A. Who?

Q. David Greenberg. A. I don't know who David Greenberg is.

Q. Atlas Cloth Sponging Company, Isidore Feingold. A. I refuse to answer these kinds of questions. I am indicted on them. I gave you a couple of things.

Q. Berger, either you answer them or you don't, depending upon yourself. Which do you want to do? A. I just gave you an outline of it but I refuse to answer these questions that it may incriminate me. I am indicted on a case in 5978
New York.

Q. All right, Berger, tell me one way of the other. A. I refuse to answer.

Q. You refuse to answer?

Mr. Barshay: Now may I ask the Court to direct the witness to answer?

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Answer the questions, please, as I put them to you. 5979

The Court: The Court will rule this way now because the man has asserted his constitutional rights. First the Court will ask this of the witness: Does your assertion of constitutional privilege refer to each and every allegation in those indictments? Is that your claim?

The Witness: I don't understand that.

The Court: Counsel is now reading paragraph after paragraph from the indictment. When you say you refuse to answer upon the ground it may tend to incriminate you, is that refusal to answer intended to apply to all of the allegations against you in those indictments?

5980 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Witness: Not all against me. Maybe some of them.

The Court: Your refusal to answer applies to the entire indictment?

The Witness: That is right.

The Court: The Court rules counsel may not ask any further questions con-

5981 cerning the guilt or innocence of this defendant upon any of the matter alleged in the Dewey indictments.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception to that and then may we mark—can we get into the record, your Honor, the names and addresses and the dates and the amounts of each and every person mentioned as the victim in those indictments?

The Court: No.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception. May I mark this piece of paper, which is 5982 not a full copy of the indictment but which contains the names and addresses, the dates and the amounts, for identification?

Mr. Turkus: I object. I ask that the indictments be marked for identification so that upon any review it may be properly before the Court.

The Court: You don't have to mark an indictment for identification.

Mr. Turkus: May we have the indictments considered marked for identification?

The Court: The Court assumes no responsibility for the contents of counsel's memorandum and therefore refuses to let this be marked for identification.

Mr. Barshay: May I have the original indictments or copies—

The Court: You may not because, as I told you, it is silent as to some defendants. That would disclose to you the names of people whom the police are seeking and who are alleged to be fugitive. 5984

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, may I urge upon you this fact, that the office of District Attorney Dewey allows you to make a copy of the indictment but leaves out the names of the fugitives.

The Court: I know nothing about it.

Mr. Barshay: That is how I got them, sir.

The Court: I know nothing about it. That is Mr. Dewey's business. These allegations in those indictments are worthless as evidence against the witness. The 5985 jury is so instructed. That is a mere charge on which this witness is awaiting trial.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception.

The Court: In the absence of any admission by this witness as to the truth or not of those allegations, the asking of these questions is worthless. This witness has a constitutional right to refuse to answer any and all questions concerning his guilt or innocence upon those charges.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception.

5986 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Court: So disregard it. That is the reason the Court will not permit the reading of the indictments.

Mr. Talley: May I be heard on that?

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception.

The Court: A question of law, Judge.

Mr. Barshay: I make an offer of proof, your Honor.

The Court: No, you won't read them that way.

5987 Mr. Barshay: I do not want to read them. I am making an offer of proof.

The Court: Refused.

Mr. Barshay: To prove each and every allegation in the indictment against this witness on the theory that when a man offers himself to cross-examination, counsel is entitled to inquire into every act of his life which involves moral turpitude.

The Court: The Court has ruled. You have your exception. Let it go at that.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception.

The Court: You wanted to say something, Judge Talley?

5988 Mr. Talley: May I be heard, sir?

The Court: Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: I want to submit to your Honor, as a matter about which I did not think there would be any question or dispute, that this witness, having been offered by the District Attorney, counsel for any defendant is entitled as a matter of right to inquire into any discreditable, criminal, dishonorable act ever committed by this witness. He has been offered, he has been vouched for, his veracity has been attested by his being called as a witness for the prosecution in this case. I respectfully submit that you cannot close the door; you have no power to close the door to a searching examination into every alleged discreditable or criminal act on the part of this witness, and I respectfully submit, sir, that we have a right to call his attention to every case of extortion upon which he has been indicted or which has been called to our attention and that he must 5990 be required to give some answer to those questions. If he chooses to say that he refuses to answer on the ground it will incriminate or tend to degrade him, then he may, under certain conditions, have the right to make that answer, but your Honor has no right to estop or foreclose counsel from calling his attention to a specific act upon which the inquiry is to be made.

The Court: The Court is not trying to conceal anything.

Mr. Talley: Yes, you are. 5991

The Court: But you are trying to create the impression the Court is.

Mr. Talley: That is exactly my impression.

The Court: The Court is trying to prevent an hour or maybe two hours being wasted in a long lengthy trial where the witness has already said that his constitutional right, as alleged by him, applies to each and every part of those indictments, but as long as the good faith of the Court is challenged by you, the Court will not be put in that light before this jury, will permit any and every question to be asked. Proceed. We will sit until we get through with it, even if we work late.

5992 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Talley: I think that is the proper way to proceed.

The Court: You will be howling for an adjournment about five or six o'clock.

Mr. Talley: No, I won't.

5993 The Court: Proceed.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of moneys to the amount of $9,000 between July, 1933, and October, 1935, from Blacker Brothers, Incorporated, and Morris Blacker? A. I refuse to answer that question on the ground it may incriminate me.

Mr. Barshay: Take an exception to the Court's refusal to direct this man to an-5994 swer all along the line, your Honor, without saying so specifically. Is that all right, Judge?

The Court: That is all right.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of moneys to the amount of $3,000 between July, 1933, and October, 1935, from Blankson Clothes, Incorporated, and Irving Blank? A. I refuse to answer that question on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $50,000 from Donnie Frocks, Incorporated, and David Goldberg from January, 1934, to December, 1937? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $15,000 from Empire Bilt Clothing, Incorporated, Max Zerkow, and Samuel Cassidy from January, 1935, to December, 1936? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $15,000 from January, 1933, to August, 1934, from the Fair Waist & Dress Company, Incorporated, and Abraham Gerwitz?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

5997

The Court: Overruled.

A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $2700 from March, 1935, to December, 1936, from Gladdy Trusize Dress Corporation and William Schwartz? A. I refuse to answer that.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $1500 in the month of March, 1935, from Joseph Goldman and Brother, Incorporated, and Joseph Goldman? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $10,000 from Goldsmith Brothers Manufacturing Company, Incorporated and Samuel R. Goldsmith between January, 1929, and December, 1935? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $90,000 from the Greater New York Tailors Expressmen's Association, Incorporated, between May, 1928, and November, 1937? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

5999 Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $6500 from Halpern Modell Company, Incorporated, and Samuel Halpern and Bernard Modell from July, 1934, to December, 1936? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $7500 on July 1, 1934, from Hammondton Park Clothes Incorporated, William Kessler and Charles Goldberg? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $4800 from Hylo Textile Shrinking Company, Incorporated, Harry Buchalter and Anthony 6000 Sartori, from August, 1933, to August, 1937? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $12,900 from the Interstate Shrinking Corporation and John Lippman, from August, 1933, to August, 1937? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $7,000 from Jay Day Frocks, Incorporated, and Jack Davis, from March, 1932, to November, 1935? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. And did you participate in the extortion of $13,000 from January, 1930, to December, 1936, from Jerry Dress Company, Incorporated, and Joseph Meyer? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $27,000 from Kaplan & Elias, Mattie Kaplan and Samuel Elias, from February, 1933, to August, 1937? A. I refuse to answer. Three-quarters of them I don't know about.

6002

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $4,000 from Varsity Dress Company, Incorporated, Samuel Edelman and Henry Meisler, from January, 1931, to October, 1935? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground. Over ninety per cent of them firms I don't even know who they are.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer, your Honor, not responsive.

The Court: Let it stand.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

6003

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $35,000 from Welco Dress Company, Incorporated, and Samuel J. Weiss, from January, 1934, to December, 1937? A. I refuse to answer on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $30,000 from Lustberg & Lipschitz, Max Lustberg and Jacob Lipschitz, from March, 1933, to April, 1937? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $25,000 from Lombardy Frocks, Incorporated, and Max Blauner, from August, 1931, to August, 1936? A. Refuse to answer to that on the same ground. Them firms I don't even know what you are talking about.

6004

The Court: Be patient and listen.

The Witness: Never heard of them firms in my life, ninety per cent of them or ninety-five per cent. You are asking me and I am answering.

The Court: Strike that out. Either

6005 answer or assert your constitutional rights.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $9600 from L. & L. Expert Shrinking Corporation and Morris Zydney, from August, 1933, to August, 1937? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $5,000 from January, 1934, to December, 1936, from Monogram Costume Company, Incorporated, and William Slonin? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground.

6006

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $4200 from the Monarch Textile Shrinking Corporation and David Glick, from August, 1933, to August, 1937? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $4200 from Accurate Sponging Works, Incorporated, and Martin Dribben, from August, 1933, to August, 1937? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $9600 from Perfect Chatham Corporation and Morris Horowitz, from August, 1933, to August, 1937? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $6,000 from Shil-Or Textile Shrinking Corporation and Philip Orlofsky, from August, 1933, to August, 1937? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $6,000 from Sachs Clothes, Incorporated, and Rudy Sachs, from March, 1935, to October, 1936? A. I refuse to answer that on the same ground. 6008

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $2,000 from Frank Starr-Friedlander, Incorporated, and Frank Starr and Samuel Friedlander, from January, 1934, to August, 1936? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. Did you participate in the extortion of $30,000 from Samuel Saffer, Incorporated, and Oscar Saffer, from January, 1932, to October, 1935? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground.

Q. And did you participate in the extortion of $4800 from the Union Cloth Sponging Works, 6009
Incorporated, and Ralph Kibel, from August, 1933, to August, 1937? A. Refuse to answer that on the same ground. A whole lot more names in the telephone book.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer, sir, not responsive.

The Court: Strike it out.

Mr. Barshay: I ask again, your Honor, for the record, to direct this witness to answer those questions.

The Court: Denied.

6010 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Barshay: Exception. May I ask your Honor to direct this witness to answer the question heretofore put by me to him with respect to the alleged inducement of the commission of perjury on November 1, 1938, of one Max Rubin.

The Court: I don't recall that.

Mr. Barshay: I asked that question of him, your Honor, and he claimed privilege.

The Court: Denied.

6011 Mr. Barshay: Exception, sir.

Q. Now, Berger, are you sure that the conversation between Buchalter and you and Rubin with respect to Rubin's going to Salt Lake City took place at the Hatfield Hotel? A. That is right, sir.

Q. No doubt about it? A. No.

Q. That is where the arrangements were made, at the Hatfield Hotel, with respect to Max Rubin leaving for Salt Lake City? A. That is right.

Q. How many conversations did you have with the defendant Buchalter and Rubin at the same time at the Hatfield Hotel?

6012

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time be fixed. The Hatfield figured in the testimony—

Mr. Barshay: In his testimony.

Mr. Turkus: On other occasions too. I object unless the time be fixed.

The Court: Try to fix the time.

Mr. Barshay: I will get back to it, Judge.

The Court: You mean in relation to the Salt Lake City incident?

Mr. Barshay: No, sir.

The Court: Other occasions too?

Mr. Barshay: He testified to two occasions where he saw Rubin at the Hatfield Hotel. I will try to get the date exact.

The Court: Yes.

Q. There is no doubt that the money that you were getting for Max Rubin to give to him, you 6014 got from Murray Weinstein, is that so? A. Moneys or money.

Q. Moneys or money to give to Rubin you always got from Murray Weinstein? A. Only $50.

Q. Only once? A. The time that he was away, every week.

Q. Yes, but you got it from Murray Weinstein? A. Either Murray Weinstein or Sam Katz.

Q. Never from the defendant Buchalter? A. No.

Q. Can you tell me the date that you first saw 6015
Rubin at the Hatfield Hotel, pursuant to the telephone call that you got? A. I can't remember that definitely.

Q. Was it immediately after he came back from Saratoga in October of 1936? A. That is right.

Q. What part of October, do you know? A. I cannot say that definitely.

Q. He was away one week, was he not? A. About a week or so.

Q. Where did you get the telephone call from Rubin? Where were you? A. I was in my place of business.

Q. Which place of business? A. 714 Broadway.

Q. Name of the concern? A. Goldcraft Clothing Company.

Q. Did you tell Rubin where you had your place of business before he left? A. He knew it.

Q. Had he ever called you there before? A. He did.

6017 Q. He and you had personal business that had nothing to do with Buchalter, isn't that so?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time be fixed.

Q. At any time.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, at any time.

The Court: Overruled.

6018 Q. Do you understand me, Berger? A. No, I do not.

Q. You and Rubin had matters of personal interest between you and Rubin alone that had nothing to do with Buchalter; isn't that so? A. No.

Q. Never? A. We did not have any personal business. Any business we had was through Lepke.

Q. Did you ever have any other business other than for Lepke, you and Rubin, any union business? A. Not that I know of. Only business I had with Max Rubin was through the instructions of Lepke.

Q. About that there is no doubt? A. That is all.

Q. On October 31, 1938, Buchalter had already been away; isn't that so? A. That is right.

Q. You had not been communicating with Buchalter while he was away? A. No.

Q. You did not know where he was? A. No.

Q. He never got in touch with you? A. No.

Q. Did you see Max Rubin then at twelve o'clock noon at Fifth Avenue and 17th Street? 6020

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to as repetitious. This morning we had that incident.

Mr. Barshay: I barely touched upon that.

Mr. Turkus: I know, but you brought out something about another defendant and he objected, his counsel did. I object to it. It has been answered.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. 6021

Q. On that day did you have personal business with him?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered, what the business was and who instructed him.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. At that time was Max Rubin in custody of police? A. He was.

6022 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. You mean he was under guard? A. At that time?

Q. Yes. A. He was under guard since he got shot.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer, your Honor.

The Court: Strike it out. The jury disregard it.

6023 Q. Did he speak to you in the absence of these police; yes or no? A. I refuse to answer that on the ground that it may incriminate me in New York.

Q. Did he offer to put you then on the payroll of the New York Tailoring, Greater New York Tailoring Expressmen's Association? Did he? A. I refuse to answer that question, that it may not incriminate me.

Q. Did he give you $400 to be split between you and Danny Fields? A. I refuse to answer that one that it may incriminate me.

Q. Did he offer you a job on the payroll of 6024 this association at the rate of $50 a week?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is not competent, material or relevant, does not affect his credibility.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. May I call your Honor's attention, if you please, that this man said he had no personal business with Rubin and on that point I am now trying to impeach him, that he did have personal business with Rubin after the defendant Buchalter had been away from the jurisdiction of New York and he did not communicate with him nor had he heard from him.

The Witness: At the direction of Mendy Weiss.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer.

The Witness: The same as Lepke.

The Court: Strike out the answer as irresponsive.

Mr. Barshay: On that theory will your Honor permit me to go ahead? 6026

The Court: No.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception.

Q. On November 2, 1938, at Fifth Avenue and 17th Street, did you meet Rubin again? A. I don't definitely remember that.

Q. Well, did he give you $200 on that day?

Mr. Turkus: I object to [redacted] That does not affect his credibility. He has made that statement this morning.

The Court: Overruled. You would remember $200, wouldn't you? Did he give you $200? 6027

The Witness: He did.

The Court: Do you remember when that was and where it was?

The Witness: He loaned me $200.

Q. He loaned you $200?

The Court: Counsel is trying to place time, the time this happened. Do you remember that?

6028 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Witness: I don't definitely remember, Judge.

The Court: Do you remember the place?

The Witness: Oh, that was up in the Expressmen's Association.

The Court: Whereabouts?

The Witness: 17th Street.

Q. Did Rubin say to you at that time and at that place at Fifth Avenue and 17th Street, 6029 "Berger, you be with me just to let the members of the Union see me walk with you and speak with you"? A. He did not.

Q. How many weeks did you get $50, if you got any at all, from this association?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

A. He loaned me $200.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

Mr. Barshay: I will withdraw it, Mr.
6030 Turkus.

Q. You did get the $200, you say? A. He loaned me $200.

Q. You say it was a loan? A. That is just what it was.

Q. Did you give him a note for it? A. No.

Q. Did you ever pay it to him back? A. No.

Q. You still owe it to him, don't you? A. That is right. That time I told him I am in need of some money and it is the best thing to get a loan of $200.

6031

Q. You did not tell Rubin then that you fingered him, did you? A. I did not.

Q. Did Rubin tell you, after he gave you this $200, that an Assistant District Attorney of Dewey's office told him, Rubin, not to put you on any payroll and Rubin then said to you, "Under these conditions I have to take you off"? Did he say that to you? A. No, sir; I don't remember that definitely at all.

Q. What? A. I don't remember definitely about me being put on any kind of a payroll 6032 there. The only thing I loaned $200, the only thing I remember. Anything else what you tell me now, there is no truth in it.

Q. Did you give Danny Fields any money? A. I did not give him.

Q. Did Rubin give him any money? A. He loaned him $200.

Q. He loaned Danny Fields how much? A. $200.

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. That does not affect his credibility or have any- 6033 thing to do with the case under indictment that we are trying here.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: I except to it.

The Witness: I took the $200 and I gave it to Mendy Weiss, if you want to know that.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out and ask the jury disregard it.

The Witness: I gave it to Mendy and Mendy took it too.

The Court: Strike it out.

6034 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor admonish this witness?

The Court: Yes. Don't interrupt that way again. What were you saying, Mr. Barshay?

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, I am only addressing this to this witness because he said he had no personal business with Rubin.

The Court: Go ahead.

6035 Mr. Barshay: On that score and that score alone.

The Court: Whether he did or not has no bearing on the question.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception.

Q. Did he first give you a check for $400 and did you say to him at that time, "Where can I cash this check?"

Mr. Turkus: I object.

6036 Q. And then did he take it back?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That is a triple question.

Mr. Barshay: Do you want me to do it three different ways?

Mr. Turkus: I do not want you to even be annoyed with it at all. I object. It does not have anything to do with the case.

Mr. Barshay: I assure you I am not annoyed, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: Do it any way you want.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Do you know whether or not your telephone was tapped at this Golderaft Corporation? A. I didn't know.

Q. Dewey at that time had been in the process of questioning you through his assistants, isn't that so?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the question.

The Court: Overruled.

A. Will you repeat that question? 6038

Q. Mr. Dewey at that time was in the process of questioning you?

Mr. Turkus: My objection was on the ground it is repetitious. That was answered this morning.

The Court: I think so.

Mr. Turkus: And again this afternoon.

Q. Rubin called you up and gave his right name?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time be fixed. 6039

Mr. Barshay: The time that he speaks of, the only conversation over the telephone at his place of business from the Hatfield Hotel.

Q. Did he give you his right name? A. No.

Q. What name did he give on the telephone? A. I naturally recognized his voice.

Q. Did you answer all the telephone calls? A. If I was not there, some one else answered.

Q. What name did he leave? A. Did not leave

6040 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

any name, just a friend and the time he called back so I would be there and get a phone call.

Q. You know Rubin at that time was being looked for by the District Attorney's office of Manhattan, isn't that so?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. It does not affect his credibility or go to the issue of this indictment.

The Court: Sustained.

6041 Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did Rubin tell you that?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. It is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. It does not affect his credibility or go to the issue of the indictment.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Did Rubin tell you that? A. Tell me what?

Q. That Dewey was looking for him? A. Never told me.

6042 Q. You did not know that?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. That does not go to his credibility.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: Or the Rosen murder.

Mr. Barshay: Again I object, your Honor, to Mr. Turkus naming the Rosen murder in any objection he makes.

Mr. Turkus: Three times you have been overruled on that.

The Court: Overruled again.
Mr. Turkus: That is the fourth.

Q. You knew Rubin was engaged in participating in extortions in the flour industry, did you not?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.
The Court: Sustained.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

6044

Q. At the Hatfield Hotel, when you and Rubin separated, did you give him any money? A. I did.

Q. Did you get that money from Weinstein? A. I refuse to answer that question that it may incriminate me.

Mr. Barshay: That question I ask your Honor to direct him to answer.
The Court: Denied.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

6045

Q. Did Buchalter say anything about Brooklyn at that time? A. At what time?

Q. At the time that you gave Rubin money? A. I gave him money—

Q. At the Hatfield Hotel. A. I gave him money a number of times.

Q. At the Hatfield Hotel, the very first time he came back from Saratoga? A. What is the question?

Q. Did Lepke say anything to you with respect to Brooklyn at that conversation? A. That is right, while we were there.

Q. No doubt about it? A. That is right.

Mr. Barshay: Page 1677, at the bottom. Mr. Turkus.

Q. Were you asked this question on your direct examination, referring to a talk at the Hatfield Hotel, the very first talk: "Q. When you told that to Lepke did Lepke say anything to you—that Rubin was in a hotel Hatfield I am talking about that conversation. A. He did.

"Q. (At the top of page 1678) What did he 6047 say?" And did you make this answer on your direct examination: "A. He told me, 'I don't know what I am going to do with him. He has got to stay away until things clear up,' and Lep told me to give him his money."

Did you answer the question exactly the way I read it? A. Cleared up in Brooklyn.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not responsive.

Mr. Turkus: That is responsive to that question, did he answer it exactly that way.

6048

The Court: I cannot understand the answer.

(Answer read by the reporter.)

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not responsive. I asked him whether that question was asked of him and that answer was made and I read as Mr. Turkus followed me, correctly.

The Court: You mean you are reading from the record of this trial?

Mr. Turkus: If you read page 1676, at the top.

Mr. Barshay: I object to that. I asked a simple question for the purpose of impeaching him, after laying my foundation properly.

Mr. Turkus: I am going to object to it because it does not impeach his testimony. On page 1676 he said verbatim —

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel doing any such thing and getting the witness out of a hole.

Mr. Turkus: I am not getting him out 6050 of a hole.

Mr. Barshay: Which I have a right to do, your Honor, exactly as it is quoted.

Mr. Turkus: Page 1676, the top, the first question has it verbatim, the way he has answered now.

Mr. Barshay: What page did you say?

Mr. Turkus: 1676.

Mr. Barshay: Where is that?

Mr. Turkus: The page before what you read.

Mr. Barshay: First, your Honor, I 6051 think Mr. Turkus ought to know he will have a chance at redirect to read whatever he wants. I asked a proper question and I ask a ruling on it. Did he make that answer to that question as I read it?

The Court: Is there any doubt about it?

Mr. Barshay: I want Mr. Turkus to say that.

The Court: It is in the record.

Mr. Barshay: Yes, but this witness

6052 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

now says he said "cleared up in Brooklyn," which is inconsistent.

Mr. Turkus: He did on 1676.

Mr. Barshay: You ought to be ashamed of yourself.

Mr. Turkus: You ought to be ashamed of yourself to try to confuse someone.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception to that remark, your Honor.

Mr. Turkus: Well, if he is going to 6053 bait the District Attorney, I won't make any objection to anything he says. Let him say what he pleases.

The Court: The Court has not been able to get in a word edgewise—

Mr. Turkus: I am sorry, your Honor.

The Court: —for some time back. The Court cannot understand why you have to ask a man whether he has been asked this and was his answer this, when it is on the record of this trial. All you have to do is read it. If there is any dispute about

6054 it—

Mr. Barshay: The man now denies, apparently, your Honor, that he said that.

The Court: He has not denied anything.

Mr. Barshay: He added something which is not contained in the answer.

The Court: He gave something not directly responsive, but quite illuminating and also competent. Let it stand.

Mr. Barshay: Take an exception to it.

The Court: You won't get a technical ruling on that.

Mr. Barshay: May I urge upon the Court that the question of flight from Manhattan and the question of flight from Brooklyn is very vital in this case?

The Court: Please proceed.

Mr. Barshay: Take an exception.

Q. You called New Orleans on the telephone? A. I did.

Q. From where? A. From a booth, telephone booth.

6056

Q. What booth? A. I was in Brooklyn. Telephone booth.

Q. Where did you telephone New Orleans from? A. From a telephone booth.

Q. Address, please? A. I don't remember the address.

Q. The street? A. Somewhere on Broadway, Brooklyn.

Q. Broadway near where? A. On Gates Avenue.

Q. Do you know what kind of a store it was? A. Either a drug store or a cigar store.

6057

Q. Do you know which? A. I cannot definitely say.

Q. Do you know what time you called? A. At night.

Q. Do you know what time at night? A. After nine o'clock. I know because the rates were down.

Q. How much money did you put in the coin box? A. I don't remember definitely, but I think it was a couple of dollars.

Q. Do you know how much? A. I don't remember definitely.

Q. Did you have to put in any more money when the three minutes were up, if they were up? A. I don't remember that definitely.

Q. Did you ever telephone to New Orleans on any other occasion? A. No, sir.

Q. For Max Rubin? A. No, sir.

Q. That was the only time, wasn't it? A. That was.

Q. And you could not remember where you made that call from? A. I cannot.

6059 Q. Is it because you know I could trace that number— A. I am telling you the truth.

Q. —that you don't remember? A. If I knew I would tell you. There is nothing for me to hide. I called him. I did call him. I put my own money in there. What is there to hide? I did call him at New Orleans by Lepke's orders.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer, your Honor.

Mr. Turkus: That was invited by the observation does he know he could trace the number. I ask that it stand.

6060

Mr. Barshay: Yes, you know that too.

Mr. Turkus: I don't know that.

The Court: All through? Strike out the latter part as irresporsive.

Q. When did you see Rubin again at the Hatfield Hotel? A. Repeat that question again.

Q. When did you see Rubin again at the Hatfield Hotel? A. After what?

Q. After the first time you described you saw him at the Hatfield Hotel. A. What is relating to? I seen him a couple of times. I don't remember just what time you mean.

6061

Q. You saw him the first time when he came from Saratoga, did you not? A. That is right.

Q. That is the time you described as the conversation about Salt Lake City taking place; is that right? A. That is right.

Q. When again did you see him at the Hatfield Hotel after that? Do you know? Do you know that? A. After he came back from Salt Lake City?

6062

Q. Yes. After he came back from Salt Lake City you are definitely certain about seeing Rubin at the Hatfield Hotel? A. That is right.

Q. There is no doubt about it in your mind? A. That is right.

Q. Do you know the date? A. I do not.

Q. Do you know who was present? A. I was with him.

Q. Who else? A. I don't remember anybody else being there.

Q. Do you know where he called you? A. I think he called me from the hotel.

6063

Q. Where? A. In my place.

Q. You did not expect that call, did you? A. Lepke told me he was back and he was going to get in touch with me.

Q. Buchalter told you before he came back from Salt Lake City that Berger is to get in touch with you? A. What? Who was to get in touch with me?

Q. Withdrawn. That Rubin was to get in touch with you.

Mr. Turkus: That is an incomplete question.

6064 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Witness: I presumed that he was back, when he told me he was back he was going to get in touch with me.

Q. What I want to know is, did Buchalter tell you he was back, meaning Rubin? A. That is right.

Q. He told you that he was back before— A. That is right.

Q. —you saw Rubin at the hotel? A. That is 6065 right.

Q. Isn't it a fact, Berger, that when you got the call from Rubin at the Hatfield, you went and told Buchalter that Rubin was back? A. No, I did not keep in touch with him since he was in Salt Lake City. How did I know he was going to come back?

The Court: After he came back.

Q. After he came back from Salt Lake City, he got in touch with you first, did he not, and you were the one that told Buchalter that he is 6066 back? A. No, sir.

Q. You say now that Buchalter told you he was back? A. He was back in town from Salt Lake City.

Q. (Page 1677) Were you asked these questions and did you make these answers:

"Q. After that did you hear from Rubin? A. I did.

"Q. How long after, if you can remember? A. To the best of my recollection, about two or three weeks after.

6067

"Q. Did Rubin get in touch with you? A. He did.

"Q. In what way? A. By telephone.

"Q. Did he talk to you on the telephone? A. He did.

"Q. Did you tell Lepke of that? A. I did.

"Q. How long after you received the call? A. Same day.

"Q. What did you say to Lepke? A. I just got a call from Max Rubin: he is over in the hotel.

6068

"Q. Did you tell him the name of the hotel? A. That is right.

"Q. What hotel was it? A. Hotel Hatfield."

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. There is nothing inconsistent.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Did you testify as I read? A. That is right.

Q. Do you remember that conversation in the automobile between Buchalter, yourself, and Rubin? A. At what time and what place are you talking about?

6069

Q. After you took Rubin from the Bronx to meet Buchalter in Manhattan. Do you remember that? A. That is right.

Q. Did you talk to Rubin on the way down from the Bronx, on your way down to meet Buchalter? A. I did.

Q. Did you talk to him about his being away? A. I don't think I did. The only thing I told him was Lep wanted to see him.

Q. Is that all that was said on the way down from the Bronx, all the way downtown? A. As 6070 far as I can remember, all the way downtown, and a few blocks away from his house.

Q. How long did you stay at the house? A. I think I was there five minutes.

Q. Did you talk to him during those five minutes? A. I told him, I said, Lepke wanted to see him.

Q. Did he tell you about his whereabouts? A. Who?

Q. Rubin? A. He was there. What do you
6071 mean?

Q. Did he tell you what had happened, what was going on while he was away? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he ask you what was going on while he was away? A. No, sir, the only thing I told him was Lepke wanted to see him; he is a few blocks away from here.

Q. Did he tell you that Brooklyn was looking for him? A. Who?

Q. Did Rubin tell you Brooklyn was looking for him? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he tell you that the Police Department
6072 was looking for him? A. If I am not mistaken, I think he told me a cop was to his house.

Q. Did he tell you from where the cop was? A. I don't remember definitely.

Q. Did he mention the Dewey investigation? A. I don't remember that definitely; the best of my recollection is he told me there was a cop around to his house.

Q. Where did Rubin live at that time? A. In the Bronx.

Q. What street? A. I cannot remember that.

Q. Where did you meet Buchalter with Rubin on the way from the Bronx? A. You mean when

I took him out of his house, when I took Rubin?

Q. Yes. A. A few blocks away from there.

Q. How many blocks is a few blocks? A. Between ten or fifteen blocks, about that area—about five or ten minutes ride from his house.

Q. Buchalter remained in the Borough of Manhattan, didn't he? A. I don't remember that definitely.

Q. Do you know where you let him off? A. Well, about ten minutes ride from where I let him off to Max's house. 6074

Q. It took you about ten minutes to drive back? A. There was some traffic.

Q. If there was no traffic you could go fairly fast? A. I don't definitely remember.

Q. It took you ten minutes to go between ten or fifteen blocks? A. I figured on that time; I did not time myself.

Q. Was anybody following you in an automobile from the point you picked up Buchalter on the way up to Rubins'? A. From the point I picked up Buchalter?

Q. That night on the way to meet Rubin? A. 6075
Not as I know of.

Q. Did Buchalter tell you to go through side streets? A. He was pretty careful. I was watching through the mirror. I went through a one-way street to see if I am getting followed.

Q. Buchalter and Rubin spoke right under the awning, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your car was parked right at the gutter, right in the gutter, right at the curb? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they talk to each other under the store awning? A. Under the awning.

Q. Was the store lit? A. I don't remember definitely.

Q. They did not hide in a hallway? A. No, sir.

Q. They did not go into your car to talk? A. Well, after they spoke a few minutes they came in my car.

Q. How many minutes is a few? A. Between five and ten minutes.

Q. So for five or ten minutes at that time they 6077 stood out in the public street? A. Under the awning.

Q. It was not an enclosed awning, was it? A. No, sir.

Q. Incidentally, do you know when Buchalter entered the Perfection Coat Company? A. Do I know when?

Q. Yes. A. I do not.

Q. Do you know the year? A. I do not; I had nothing to do with it; how can I know?

Q. Had you seen Buchalter at the Perfection? A. Yes.

6078 Q. When was the first time you saw him at the Perfection? A. I don't remember that definitely.

Q. Was it in 1934? A. Maybe.

Q. Can you give us a better answer than that? A. No, sir, I cannot.

Q. When did you first meet Wiener from the Perfection? A. I know him from the trade.

Q. You knew him before Buchalter was a partner? A. Yes, sir. You mean Sam Wiener? There are a lot of them.

Q. The Perfection Coats? A. Sam Wiener?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does that refresh your recollection that Buchalter did not join that concern until the latter part of 1934 or the early part of 1935? A. Not definitely.

Q. Do you know when Gurrah left town in the year 1936, or 1937, rather? A. When he left?

Q. Yes. A. Just when he left, I don't know. Do you think they are telling me about that?

Q. You saw Gurrah and Buchalter together very often? A. Yes, sir.

6080

Q. When did you stop seeing Gurrah and Buchalter together in 1937? A. All of a sudden I stopped seeing them around.

Q. Was it in June of 1937? A. No, sir; that was before 1937; he was away, if I am not mistaken, but Danny Fields, if I am not mistaken—

Mr. Turkus: Does "he" refer to Gurrah?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

6081

Q. When you got in trouble in July, 1937, with Mr. Dewey's office, you said you made a demand upon Weinstein for bail, isn't that so? A. That is right—just a minute, repeat that question.

(Question repeated.)

A. That is right.

Q. You wanted a lawyer from him, too? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You made no such demand upon Buchalter, did you? A. He was not there.

Q. And you made no such demand upon him? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object. That has been answered by, "He was not there."

Q. You say he asked you to get in touch with a man named Diesenhaus, the last time you saw Buchalter? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not get in touch with Diesenhaus for a lawyer or a bondsman? A. No, sir.

Q. You went where, directly to Weinstein? A. When I came out.

6083 Q. While in jail, awaiting bail, you sent word to Weinstein? A. No, sir, not while I was in jail.

Q. When did you send word to Weinstein? A. I spoke to him myself.

Q. When? A. After I was bailed out.

Q. What did you say to Weinstein? A. I asked him why he didn't send up a lawyer and try to get me bail, and he told me — Of course, I had an argument with him— they said they cannot stick their heads out.

Q. You went to Weinstein because you felt that Weinstein owed you an obligation? A.

6084 Well, he owed everybody, he owed quite a number of obligations.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out.

Q. Berger, you were in jail and got out on bail in July of 1937 and went to the union for help, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as repetitious.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. After I was bailed out?

6085

Q. You went to the union for help, didn't you? A. I thought that they should at least get me a lawyer.

Q. You were on the payroll of the union then? A. So was Lepke.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer and I ask your Honor to do something with this witness.

The Court: I am trying to find out what the last answer means— "That was Lepke," he said?

6086

Mr. Barshay: He said, "So was Lepke".

The Court: Strike it out.

Q. When you were arrested in this case you engaged Mr. Gardiner, of counsel, didn't you? A. I did.

Q. Before your arrest what business were you in, I am speaking of June, 1941? A. Manufacturer.

Q. What was the name of the concern? A. S. B. and M. Corporation.

6087

Q. Can you tell us what that consisted of? A. Schwartz, Berger and Montlick.

Q. Was it you, Berger—you were in the corporation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you invest any money in that corporation; yes or no?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Sustained as irrelevant.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Was that corporation engaged in doing government work? A. That is right.

6088 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Making Army uniforms? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you sign any of the bids given by the Government for contracts? A. Did I what?

Q. Did you sign any bids submitted to the Government before your corporation got the contract?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not go to credibility.

The Court: Sustained.

6089 Mr. Barshay: I am trying to lay a foundation for something, your Honor, that may attack his credibility.

Mr. Turkus: If that is the purpose, I will withdraw the objection, if it goes to credibility.

Mr. Barshay: I may not succeed, but that is my purpose.

The Court: Why don't you come down to the point?

Q. Did you sign personally an application for bids? A. I don't think I did.

6090 Q. Did your partner sign applications for bids?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not go to the credibility of this witness.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: It is too far afield.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge that one of the questions submitted in the application was whether or not any one of the corporation had a police record? A. Absolutely not.

Q. When you were arrested, on June 5, 1941, on the charge of murder, you denied your guilt of participation in it? A. I did.

Q. You were arraigned in the Magistrates' Court on a short affidavit? A. I was.

Q. You had Gardiner as your lawyer? A. I did.

Q. You pleaded not guilty? A. I did.

Mr. Turkus: The law requires that.

Q. Isn't that so? A. That is right. 6092

Q. Did you then tell Gardiner to go to Weinstein and get for you a lawyer of the calibre of Martin Littleton? A. I did.

Q. Did you then go to Weinstein and demand, through your lawyer, that Weinstein pay all counsel fees in your defense? A. I asked him for a lawyer.

Q. At their expense? A. That is right.

Q. And then did you say that unless a lawyer was furnished by them of the calibre of the gentleman I mention, they would feel sorry? A. I did not say about the calibre. I asked for any lawyer. I did not say any calibre. 6093

Q. (The Court) Did you mention Martin Littleton? A. I did not mention it.

Q. (The Court) Who did? A. I don't know.

Q. Did you hear the name? A. Yes, sir, from my lawyer.

Q. Yes, of the calibre of Mr. Littleton? A. Yes.

Mr. Turkus: I object. How does it go to discredit this witness?

6094 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. The union rejected your request? A. Not as far as I was told.

Q. Did the union furnish a lawyer for you? A. They did not, but they said they were going to take it up.

Q. When they took it up, did they reject your request? A. From what I was told.

Q. So they never furnished a lawyer for you? A. No.

Q. You made no demand upon the defendant
6095 Buchalter for a lawyer, did you? A. Repeat that.

(Question repeated.)

A. Absolutely not.

Q. You felt then that the union was still obligated to you because you were one of the men who built it up, isn't that so?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

6096

Q. You demanded a lawyer at the union's expense because in your mind you acted for them and it was their obligation to protect you? A. Acted for them in what?

Q. In anything you did? A. I did not know anything I did—I did some things—a lot of things I done, that is, for Lepke.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike that out.

The Court: Strike out the latter part.

6097

Q. How long did you remain in jail? A. A little over a week.

Q. During that week you had not seen anybody from Judge O'Dwyer's office, had you? A. While I was in jail?

Q. Yes—when did you get word from the union that they cannot stick their heads out and give you a lawyer? A. You mean after I was arrested in this case?

Q. Yes. A. I answered that question before.

6098

Q. Was it a week after your arrest? A. Didn't I answer you that question? I told you that they said they would think it over—that is an answer.

Q. That is the last answer you got from them? A. Yes, sir. They were supposed to get in touch with a lawyer but they never did.

Q. You waited how long to get that answer before you decided to do something? A. About a week. I know the make-up of these people, you know.

Q. So at the end of the week your patience became exhausted, is that so?

6099

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. At the end of the week, when you did not hear from the union, you decided to do something about it? A. Do what?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

6100 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. When you failed to hear from the union at the expiration of a week, did you then send word through this lawyer to the District Attorney of Brooklyn? A. That is right.

Q. You were angry at the union officials, weren't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object. His state of mind does not affect his credibility, whether he was angry at them or not.

6101 Mr. Barshay: I submit, your Honor, we are entitled to show his animosity and his motive.

Mr. Turkus: On that ground, I will withdraw it.

Q. You were incensed, weren't you, at the time? A. I was angry at the whole union, not at any particular official.

Q. You knew at that time that Buchalter had already been in jail, had already surrendered, already been tried, and already been convicted, and he was awaiting trial here, isn't that so? A.

6102 Yes, sir.

Q. When were you taken out of jail and put into a hotel? A. After my lawyer got in touch with the District Attorney.

Q. How long after your arrest? A. The latter part of the week, about eight days.

Q. When did you have your first talk with any representative of Judge O'Dwyer's office? A. I had no talk at all. When I first was arrested I refused to talk.

Q. And you maintained that refusal for about a week—when did you have your first talk with respect to this case? A. When my lawyer got in touch with Judge O'Dwyer and he had me brought to his office.

Q. Was there a stenographer present? A. No.

Q. When first was there a stenographer present when you talked to any representative of the District Attorney's office? A. I don't remember seeing any stenographer.

Q. Did you ever see any person sitting at a desk when some official was questioning you, either Judge O'Dwyer or anybody else, making 6104 notes while you were speaking? A. Well, when Mr. Turkus and Mr. Klein spoke to me.

Q. Was there a stenographer then? A. Not as I know of: I seen him taking notes.

Q. Notes himself? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At any time in your recollection do you recall a stenographer being present when you spoke to a representative of the D. A.'s office? A. No, sir, not to my recollection.

Q. Did you speak to Captain Bals? A. I did.

Q. In the talk with Judge O'Dwyer and with Captain Bals, did you tell them you fingered 6105
Rubin on two occasions: yes or no? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you ever been arraigned on a charge of assault, or attempted assault, with respect to the fingering of Rubin? A. Well, will you explain to me what is meant by that?

Q. I mean, had you ever been arrested for those two things? A. I was up before the Grand Jury on it in the Bronx.

Q. Did you sign a waiver of immunity? A. No, sir.

Q. You got immunity? A. I did not sign a waiver.

Q. You have not been arraigned for that in any court? A. I was only before the Grand Jury.

Q. You did not sign a single paper? A. No, sir.

Q. That was pursuant to instructions of your counsel? A. The District Attorney told me.

Q. In other words, you have not been arrested charged with fingering Rubin, either for assault or attempted assault? A. No, sir, I told you I went before the Grand Jury in the Bronx.

Q. While you were in jail did you receive any message from your partners that your pay was being cut off? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: I am leading to something which may affect his motive, and I have to lay my foundation for it.

The Court: All right.

Q. Were you getting your pay while you were in jail? A. That is right.

Q. Did any one in the District Attorney's office tell you, or your lawyer tell you, as a result of having received a message from the D. A.'s office, that unless you would turn State's evidence, the Government contract that your corporation had would be cancelled?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

A. No, absolutely not; not to my knowledge.

Q. After you turned State's evidence, Berger, did the members of your corporation put you, or tell you they were going to put you off the payroll? A. They did not.

Mr. Turkus: I object. He has already answered it, Judge.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Are you living at the Bossert since your arrest? A. Yes, sir. 6110

Q. Are you allowed visitors? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you see your wife? A. I do.

Q. Do you see your son? A. That is right.

Q. Do you go out? A. I go to see them.

Q. You go for automobile rides? A. To see them.

Q. Do you go for automobile rides?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

Q. Did you visit your place of business? A. No, sir. 6111

Q. Did you go to your place of business—withdrawn. Did you visit the premises opposite your place of business in the custody of the police?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not affect his credibility.

Mr. Barshay: It may affect his motive in giving testimony, if he got the treatment that I am trying to bring out.

The Court: To keep him good natured, you mean?

Mr. Barshay: Yes.

6112 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Did you go with policemen, did you go with policemen and go into a restaurant opposite your place of business? A. No, sir, never.

Q. Never at all? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Do you know Cy, who worked there as a foreman? A. I do.

Q. Didn't you meet him opposite the place of business in the custody of police? A. No, sir, I never did.

Q. Not even once?

6113

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered. He said "No" twice.

Q. Were you getting your pay from the corporation ever since?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. It does not affect his credibility on the issue of this indictment.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. Yes, sir.

6114 Q. Can you tell me how much a week? A. $150. a week.

Q. Did you ever go into the Half Moon Hotel? A. I did not.

Q. Had you seen Tannenbaum at the hotel? A. I did not.

Q. Had you seen Mrs. Rosen? A. I never seen her, never know her.

Q. Have you spoken to Mrs. Tannenbaum? A. I did.

Q. And was that on the Boardwalk near the Half Moon Hotel? A. That is right.

Q. How many times? A. Once.

6115

Mr. Turkus: I object. This does not go to his credibility.

The Court: Objection sustained; a fishing expedition.

Mr. Barshay: I am not fishing, because he answered correctly. I am trying to show opportunity for association with prospective witnesses. She might be an intermediary. It is my province to prove it, if I can.

The Court: You cannot guess at it.

6116

Mr. Barshay: I am not guessing, sir.

Mr. Turkus: Is that a representation to the Court that Mr. Barshay has made?

Mr. Barshay: I make no representations. I am making an effort to discredit this man, and nothing else, no more than you vouch for the integrity of your witness.

Mr. Turkus: I will tell the jury what I vouch for in this case before it is over.

Q. Were you told what Rubin testified to in this case? A. Absolutely not.

6117

Q. When for the last time, before you took the stand, did you speak to any Assistant District Attorney? A. Repeat that question.

(Question repeated.)

Q. Tell me when. A. You mean before I took the stand on Friday?

Q. Will you tell me which assistant it was?

Mr. Turkus: He is asking you a question.

6118 Q. Yes, that is what I mean. A. Before I took the stand?

Q. Yes. A. Turkus.

Q. When did you speak to him before you took the stand? A. He told me to be down Friday morning.

Q. Is that all? A. That is right.

Q. Did you read the Grand Jury minutes before you took the stand — Question withdrawn. Did any official read to you the questions and 6119 answers that you gave before the Grand Jury, before you took the stand? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Now, you said you knew Rosen when you were a contractor with the World's Clothing Exchange? A. That is correct.

Q. Can you tell me what year that was? A. You mean when I had actual dealings with him?

Q. Yes, what year? A. What is the question?

(Question repeated.)

A. To the best of my recollection, it was 1934 or 1935.

6120 Q. At that time Rosen was working for Louis Cooper, wasn't he? A. I presume so.

Q. Had you ever been at Cooper's place? A. I had.

Q. While Rosen was working there? A. I don't recall while he was working.

Q. He was working there at the time he had business with your concern? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever see him there? A. Where?

Q. Rosen, at Cooper's place, at the garage? A. I do not definitely remember I saw him at the place.

6121

Q. Did you see Mendy Weiss at Cooper's place? A. No.

Q. Never? A. I never did—I think I saw Lepke there—I am not sure whether I saw—

Q. (interrupting) I am asking you about Mendy Weiss. A. Where?

Q. At Cooper's place? A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you ever talk with Cy, either on the telephone, since you have been under arrest, or personally?

6122

Mr. Turkus: Who is Cy?

Q. The foreman of your premises. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you speak to him? A. Over the 'phone.

Q. You were allowed to talk from the Hotel Bossert to your place of business?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That has nothing to do with the witness' credibility.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

6123

Q. Did you instruct your concern to give any part of your salary to some woman? A. Absolutely not.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor permit me to reserve one or two questions? I am not now in a position to ask him.

The Court: You have had a very, very long examination and I thought you had concluded it. It is within the Court's discretion. If there is really something which you think should be inquired into, all right; otherwise proceed and finish with your cross-examination.

Mr. Barshay: I am finished then.

Cross examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Did I understand you correctly in saying—Question withdrawn.

6125

Mr. Talley: If your Honor please, I move to strike out all the testimony given by the witness, direct and cross, up to now, upon the ground that no witness has a right to be called by the District Attorney to give testimony on behalf of the People, and then, upon cross-examination, take refuge behind the provision which says a man is not called upon to testify against himself—that he may claim the privilege of refusing to testify because it might incriminate or degrade him. I submit, sir, it is my understanding of the law that when a witness is submitted on behalf of the People, as in this case, he cannot take refuge upon cross-examination in any so-called claimed constitutional right of safety. As Your Honor has no right to allow any of the testimony on direct examination or on cross examination to go to the jury in this case, he having refused to answer certain questions propounded to him by counsel upon the ground that to answer those questions would incriminate him, he has either got to go all the way or none. He cannot answer the questions that he chooses to answer and then decline answering another line of questions because he chooses not to answer those questions. I therefore move that the entire testimony be stricken out and that the jury be instructed to disregard it.

Mr. Climenko: May the record show that the defendant Buchalter joins in that motion? 6128

The Court: All of you join?

Defense Counsel: Yes.

The Court: The law is against all of you, so all of you are overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

Mr. Talley: Before I commence my cross-examination on the part of my defendant of this witness, I ask your Honor to remove the court officer standing within one foot of the back of this witness there on the ground that it tends to distract the jury and to prejudice the defendants 6129 in this case.

The Court: The officer is in the proper place.

Mr. Talley: I ask your Honor to remove the big drop you have hanging on the wall showing the scene of the alleged murder in this case.

The Court: There is no objection to that. It can be taken to any part of the court room you so desire at any time you request, or hidden from view. It is not prejudicial in any way.

6130 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Talley: I submit it is.

The Court: Then take it away. Please turn it so the jury will not be prejudiced by it.

(Exhibit removed from wall.)

A Juror: May we have a five minute intermission, please?

The Court: We will take a ten minute recess. Everybody will be in order, please. Now, gentlemen, remember the admonition 6131 previously given. First, the witness goes out.

(The jury then left the court room.)

(The defendants were remanded.)

The Court: We will reassemble at 4:30 P. M.

(The jury returned to the courtroom and the trial continued.)

6132

6133

PAUL BERGER, resumed the stand, and further testified, as follows:

Cross examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Did you say that you gave yourself up? A. In the summer of this year—the spring of this year—to the District Attorney.

Q. Did you say you were living at the Hotel Bossert? A. I am.

Q. And what other hotels? A. No others.

6134

Q. Did you ever live at the Towers Hotel in Brooklyn? A. I don't know even where it is.

Q. What? A. I don't even know where the Towers Hotel is.

Q. You do not? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Do you know a woman named Dorothy Katz? A. Shall I answer that question?

The Court: Yes or no.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did she ever visit you since you have been in custody? A. No, sir.

6135

Q. She did not visit you at the Towels Hotel? A. I don't even know where the Towers Hotel is.

Q. The answer is no? A. I don't know even where it is.

Q. Is your answer no? A. Absolutely not.

Q. You have been keeping that woman, haven't you, living with her?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6136 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. You are not a citizen of the United States, are you? A. I thought I was.

Q. How long did you think you were, how long a time was it during which you thought you were a citizen of the United States? A. I thought my father took out his papers; besides that I thought I was in the Army and that made me a citizen.

Q. Have you thought you were a citizen for the last twenty years? A. I did.

6137 Q. Did you vote every year? A. I never did.

Q. If you thought you were a citizen of the United States, would you not have voted?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is argumentative. All citizens don't vote.

Mr. Talley: I am cross-examining. I have a right to be argumentative in cross-examination.

Mr. Turkus: All citizens do not exercise the right of franchise, unfortunately.

The Court: Objection sustained as argumentative.

6138 Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. When do you say you learned you were not a citizen? A. When Judge O'Dwyer was questioning me.

Q. That was this year, 1941? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before that you had sworn on two different occasions that you were a citizen, didn't you? A. I thought I was; I answered that.

Q. You answered you were? A. That is right, definitely under the impression I was.

Q. What effort did you make to find out whether you were a citizen or not? A. I made no effort; I took it for granted that I was.

6139

Q. So without making an effort or taking any advice, you made two affidavits at various times that you were a citizen of the United States, is that true?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as repetitious.

Mr. Talley: I have a right to be repetitious on cross-examination.

6140

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I definitely thought I was.

Q. Because you were in the Army, is that one of the reasons? A. Yes, sir, because I was twice in the Army; that was one of the reasons; I enlisted twice; that is more than a lot of citizens would do that were born in this country.

Q. One of those Army experiences was joining the Militia in Brooklyn, is that what you call the Army? A. After I was discharged from Fort Slocum, yes, sir, I joined the Militia, and I was sent up to patrol the Aequeduct that furnishes the water to New York. At the time of the war they thought they would get poisoned water. I was up there guarding it in 1917.

6141

Q. Do you consider that service in the United States Army? A. What?

Q. Do you consider being in the 14th Regiment, being in the United States Army? A. No, sir, I was in Fort Slocum with the United States Army.

Q. How long were you in the Army at that time? A. A number of months.

6142 Q. How many months? A. I would say about three months.

Q. So because of that three months service at Fort Slocum you regarded yourself as a citizen?

Mr. Turkus: I object. He said he had a dual reason.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6143 Q. Was your father's name Berger? A. No, sir.

Q. What was his name? A. Hamburger. That is the reason why I changed it, because I was kidded when I was in the Army, it sounded German, and for other reasons that is right. I changed it after I came out.

Q. How did you have the name changed from Hamberger to Berger? A. I changed it myself on account I was being kidded when I was in the Army, and it sounded a whole lot like German, and I just took the "Ham" off. Besides 6144 that, there was a "Ham" on there and I was a Jew, and I wanted the "Ham" off.

Q. So you dropped it? A. Yes, sir, that was a couple reasons.

Q. You did not have any legal proceedings? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object. There is no law you have to have a legal proceeding to change your name.

The Court: Will you come down to the point?

6145

Q. When you went into the Army did you give your name as Berger or Hamberger? A. Hamberger.

Q. Was it when you came out of the Army that you changed it to Berger? A. After I was discharged from the Militia, the 14th Regiment here.

Q. Did you give your name when you joined up with the 14th Regiment as Berger or Hamberger? A. Hamberger.

6146

Q. So then when you discontinued your association with the 14th Regiment, then you began using the name of Berger? A. Yes, sir, I told you the reason why. If you had that name, I think you would change it.

Q. You're getting quite comical, aren't you? A. It is the truth. You asked me those questions and I am answering you. It is true.

Mr. Turkus: I must object to this.

The Court: Objection sustained.

6147

Q. You are feeling pretty good about this case, aren't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Don't answer it. Objection sustained.

Q. You are under arrest in connection with the murder of Joseph Rosen, aren't you? A. I am.

Q. You have not been indicted, have you? A. I don't think I was.

Q. You know you were not, don't you? A. Yes.

Q. You do not expect to be punished in any 6148 way for your connection with the killing of Joseph Rosen, do you? A. I don't know about that.

Q. Have you any doubt about it? A. I have. I am leaving myself to the mercy of the District Attorney and the mercy of the Judge.

Q. What did the District Attorney or any of his assistants promise you in connection with the killing of Joseph Rosen? A. They promised me nothing.

6149 Q. Nothing at all? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you mean that? A. Positively, sir.

Q. Didn't your lawyer tell you—didn't your lawyer tell you that you could not be indicted for killing Joseph Rosen because you testified before the Grand Jury and did not sign, under legal advice, a waiver of immunity? A. No, sir.

Q. You never heard that? A. The lawyer told me if I had anything to do with it, to tell the truth.

Q. Did he tell you that if you testified before the Grand Jury you could not be indicted? A. That is right.

6150 Q. Did the District Attorney tell you that, too? A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you know now you cannot be indicted for the murder of Joseph Rosen? A. That is right.

Q. And the reason you gained immunity was by promising to give the testimony you have given in this trial, isn't that so?

Mr. Turkus: That is a legal question. I object.

Mr. Talley: I have a right to show bias, motive.

6151

The Court: The question calls for an answer on a point of law, and the previous question and answer covers that point. Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Well, Berger, you refused to testify before the Grand Jury unless you got immunity, didn't you? A. I don't understand that question.

Q. You understood when you were asked about not signing a waiver of immunity, dida't you know what that means? A. Yes, sir.

6152

Q. My question is, didn't you refuse to testify before the Grand Jury this year, 1941, unless you got immunity from punishment? A. No, sir, that was not so. I was only told that. I did not refuse. I made my mind up to tell the truth. That is what I am doing.

Q. Everything you have told us is the truth? A. Today, yes, sir, all times since I have spoke to the Judge, yes, sir.

Q. Well, now, as long as you are telling only the truth—

6153

The Court (Interrupting): When you say, "Judge", who do you mean?

The Witness: Judge O'Dwyer.

Q. You said you were familiar with the terms used in the underworld? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What does the term "fingerman" mean? A. Pointer.

By the Court:

Q. What does it mean? A. The same thing as a fingerman.

6154 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. In connection with what? A. You know—he was a Judge, ask him.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Yes, and without any further quibbling, what does "fingerman" mean in your language, in the underworld?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the 6155 question. It embraces "without any further quibbling."

Mr. Talley: Isn't he quibbling?

The Court: Objection sustained as to form.

Q. I ask you again what is meant by a "fingerman"?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

By the Court:

6156

Q. Using the term that Judge Talley mentioned, and your answer, what is the pointing done in connection with? Is it to point out a man to be bumped off, or to be beaten? A. Either that, or to be beaten.

Q. Or given a ride? A. That is right.

Q. Is that what it means, somebody has to identify? A. Somebody that knows the man.

Q. And then others do the work? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Don't you know it is only used in connection with pointing out a man who is to be murdered, or whose murder is attempted? A. I do not.

6157

Q. It means pointing out a man who is to be "hit", in your language, does it?

Mr. Turkus: I object. He gave a more comprehensive definition of "fingerman" than that.

Mr. Talley: He gave a very fine definition of what it means to be "hit", and I am asking him now if that is what a "fingerman" is. 6158

The Court: The definition includes that but does not make it exclusive.

Q. You do not deny you were the fingerman in the killing of Joseph Rosen? A. No, sir.

Q. And you know that makes you an accomplice in this murder, don't you? A. I know it now, but I did not know it then.

Q. You did not know when you pointed out Rosen, as you say you did, that you were a participant or accomplice? A. Absolutely not. 6159

Q. In his subsequent murder? A. Absolutely not; I never had the least idea that man was going to be killed.

Q. When you acted as fingerman against Max Rubin, that was different, wasn't it? A. That is right.

Q. You knew then — A. (Interrupting) That was the first time I ever pointed out a man to get killed.

Q. When you pointed him out you knew that he was to be killed? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Rubin? A. I am talking about Rosen.

6160 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. I am talking about Rubin. A. Why don't you say who you are talking about?

Q. I said who I was talking about.

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. I am talking about Rubin. A. Talking about Rubin, all right.

6161 Q. My question is, when you acted as fingerman for Rubin, you knew he was to be killed? A. Yes, sir. I did not know then.

Q. You not only pointed him out once, but twice? A. I did.

Q. And in the case of Rubin, you yourself made arrangements, in part, as to where he was to be and where you were to be? A. That is right, by orders.

Q. You never did anything since you left the 14th Regiment without orders, did you?

6162 Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Did you know the Monday after Rosen was killed, when you say you read it in the newspaper, did you know then that you had been an accomplice in his murder?

Mr. Turkus: I object. It makes no difference.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6163

Q. Besides the name of Berger, which you are now using, did you ever use any other names in the underworld, in which you were so familiar? A. Not as I can recollect.

Q. Your memory is pretty good? A. To a certain extent.

Q. Were you ever known or heard yourself referred to as "Crazy Paul?" A. Don't be ridiculous.

Q. I am waiting for an answer to my question, yes or no.

6164

Mr. Turkus: I object. It has been answered.

The Court: It makes no difference what he heard himself called. Sustained.

Q. Wasn't your nickname in the underworld, "Crazy Paul"? A. That's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard a lawyer ask me.

Q. You mean to convey by that that your answer is no? A. Absolutely no.

Q. Why didn't you say, so? You have been also known in the underworld as—

6165

Mr. Turkus (Interrupting): I just want to make an objection.

Mr. Talley: I will ask the District Attorney to take his seat until my question is finished.

Q. Were you also known among your associates as "Whackey"?

Mr. Turkus: I object. "Also known".

He has indicated he was not known under that alleged other name.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Were you known as "Whackey"? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you known as "Dopey"?

The Court: What a person is called by an outsider is something that he is not responsible for. But the name which he adopts himself and uses as his own is something which may be inquired into.

6167

Mr. Talley: I take exception.

Q. Did you tell us all the places you worked when you say you were taken out of the Army by your mother?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. He was discharged from the Army, being under age.

Mr. Talley: He said he was taken out by his mother's request because he was under age, too young to enlist.

6168

Mr. Turkus: She, of course, would have no authority to bodily remove him from the United States Army.

The Witness: I would like to hear the question.

(Question repeated by reporter.)

A. Maybe I missed a couple of places.

Q. Go back in your recollection and tell us, if you can recall, any place you worked after you came out of your military experience; just go back in your recollection and tell us if there are any others which you have not yet mentioned. A. I answered before in direct examination the places where I worked.

Q. And that is all the places you remember you worked? A. That is all I can positively remember, unless there may be one or two which I did not say.

Q. Did you ever work in an insane asylum? A. Worked as what?

6170

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor direct the witness to answer the question?

By the Court:

Q. Did you ever work in a State hospital in any form at all? A. I did.

Q. As an orderly? A. An attendant.

Q. What State hospital? A. I think it is around Middletown, New York.

By Mr. Talley:

6171

Q. How long did you work there? A. About two weeks.

Q. Is that all? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why didn't you tell us that? A. You did not ask me that.

Q. The District Attorney and Mr. Barshay asked you very directly where you worked. It was the District Attorney, if I remember. A. I may have slipped on probably a couple of places.

Q. I ask you to try to recall them now. You stated you have given all you remembered? A.

6172 That is right. There may be one or two left out.

Q. Can you figure that out now? A. I did not have anything to hide.

Q. Why didn't you tell us you worked in the Middletown State Hospital for the Insane? A. Because I forgot about it. There is nothing to hide; there is no crime to work as an attendant in a hospital, is there? I worked for my money, didn't I? I did not steal anything there. I 6173 worked there.

Q. You had a sister as an inmate of an insane asylum right here in this vicinity, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you ever make a statement that your experience in the Middletown State Hospital for the insane had made you a little crazy, too? A. Absolutely not.

6174 Q. Now, were your parents Russian?

Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. What language did they speak when you were at home? A. With them?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you speak Russian? A. No, sir.

6175

Q. Did you speak Yiddish? A. I do.
Q. You do now? A. At that time I did, too.
Q. And do you now? A. Certainly.
Q. And Yiddish is a form of the Russian language, isn't it? A. Not to my knowledge.

Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Sustained as immaterial.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

6176

Q. You told us you could not even pronounce the name that Rubin was using? A. I did.
Q. Despite the fact that you spoke Yiddish? A. Yes, sir, that is a fact, correct.
Q. You cannot either remember the name or pronounce it if you knew it? A. Yes, sir, there is a difference between Jewish and Russian like Chinese and English.
Q. Isn't Yiddish a corruption of the Russian language? A. No, sir; maybe with the German but not with the Russian. I will tell you something now.

6177

Q. What was the language that you spoke when you were a boy in your home?

Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Sustained as immaterial.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Now, are you now in business at 599 Broadway? A. I am.
Q. In this clothing business that has a contract with the United States Government? A. That is right.
Q. During all the time you have been under arrest and in the custody of police officers you say you have lived in the Hotel Bossert? A. I was.

6178 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. You still own an automobile, don't you? A. I do.

Q. You secretly have been taken out of the Hotel Bossert and brought to 599 Broadway, your place of business? A. Absolutely no.

Q. That is not true? A. Absolutely no.

Q. Have you driven around in your automobile with police officers? A. I drove any place 6179 the police told me; I drove them with me.

Q. Where?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did anybody else drive your automobile besides yourself? A. No, sir.

Q. You have been in the custody of the Police Department in the hotel since about May of this year, 1941—when were you put in custody, in 6180 the hotel? A. In the month of June.

Q. June of 1941? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have kept your automobile since June, 1941? A. Yes, sir. I had most of it paid out before I was arrested.

Q. You have used it since June, 1941, haven't you? A. That is right.

Q. And to what use have you put it to, how often have you been using it?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not go to his credibility.

6181

The Court: It is immaterial. Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Haven't you been using it to take drives for yourself and police officers in whose custody you have been since June, 1941?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as repetitious.

The Court: Objection overruled.

6182

A. That is right; drives me home.

Q. How often do you drive to your home from the Hotel Bossert? A. I refuse to answer that question.

Q. You refuse to answer that upon what ground? A. Well, on the ground that certain people would find out where I am living.

Mr. Talley: I ask the Court to inform the witness to answer my question.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that the witness be allowed to refrain from divulging his address.

6183

The Court: Why don't you object?

Mr. Turkus: I do.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: I did not ask the address of his home. I am not asking it now.

The Court: The question, as I understood it, was how often he drove home.

Mr. Talley: That is what I asked him. In an automobile that he is permitted to retain and use while in custody and being on trial for the murder of Joseph Rosen. I have a right to show the manner of treatment that is being accorded to him in exchange for the testimony he has given here. That is one element.

6184 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: The District Attorney cannot take his property away.

The Court: Sustained as incompetent and for the further reason that as a matter of public policy the comings and goings to public places of any witness of this character should not be divulged.

6185 Mr. Talley: I am not asking him about his comings and goings. I am asking about the use of this automobile. It is unprecedented. Nobody ever heard of such an arrangement being made with a witness in a criminal trial.

The Court: Take your exception.

Mr. Talley: I do take exception.

The Court: You say it is unprecedented. I thought that Judge O'Dwyer learned it from Mr. Dewey. That has been my impression.

6186 Q. Did you testify you are getting $150 a week now from your business at 599 Broadway?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. Did I testify where?

Q. Here in this courtroom, this afternoon? A. That is right.

Q. You knew where I meant, didn't you? A. Now I know; I didn't know where you meant.

Q. Is it correct that you have been getting that every week? A. I have.

Q. For how long a time? A. Since I was in business.

Q. How long is that? A. Since the first of this year.

Q. January 1, 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: 1941.

Q. Is that right, 1941 or 1940? A. 1941. 6188

Q. January 1st of this year? A. Yes, sir, this year.

Q. What was your source of income in 1940? A. I was in another business.

Q. What business were you in? A. I was contracting.

Q. Contracting clothier? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was your place of business? A. One of them was No. 8 Astor Place.

Q. How long were you in business at No. 8 Astor Place? A. Well, I would say from about June or July of 1940.

Q. Just those two months? A. No, sir, I was 6189 there from that time on until about the first of the year.

Q. June or July of 1940 until the first of the year? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before June or July of 1940 what was your business? A. That is the time I left the Berger Clothing.

Q. What was your business between January of 1940 and July of 1940? A. I was in business with Berger Clothing Company.

Q. How long before June or July of 1940 had you been with the Berger Clothing Company?

3190

A. About two years to the best of my recollection.

Q. How much did you get from the Berger Clothing Company? A. Toward the end of the year?

Q. For the two or three years you were in business with the Berger Clothing Company, what was your income or draw? A. At one time it was $200. Half of it went to Mendy. Then it was cut down. Besides that there was more 3191 money taken out which I gave to Mendy.

Q. How much did you manage to hold onto yourself? A. Nothing—$5,000 went out.

Q. During that time you were in business with Berger Clothing Company you drew nothing? A. I did, one-half.

Q. You just told us you got nothing. Which is true? You did get something or you didn't? A. At the time I got $200, and $100 went to Mendy. When I drew out $5,000, that went to Mendy; I got nothing out of the $5,000. Only out of the $200 I got half.

3192 Q. How much did you get out of the business, I asked you. A. I answered that question.

Q. Answer it again.

Mr. Turkus: I object; one answer is enough.

The Court: He said he got $100 a week. Objection sustained.

Q. For three years, two and a half or three years you were with the Berger Clothing Company, did you get $100 a week? A. I did not.

Q. How many weeks did you get $100? A. I said $200 a week; and not $100.

6193

Q. You said you gave $100. A. $100 I gave away to Mendy. It was quite a number of months.

Q. That is, you got $100 a month for yourself? A. A week.

Q. For yourself? A. To be exact, I got $200; $100 went to Mendy, and $50 I got from the union. I got from Mendy. So legitimately I only got $50, not $100.

Q. I am trying to get you to tell us how much you got for yourself. You are saying you are a Santa Claus, giving away money. A. I didn't give it away; I would not be here—you would not be here to question me if I did not get it. 6194

Mr. Turkus: I object to the word "Santa Claus."

The Court: Strike out "Santa Claus."

Mr. Talley: I move his whole answer be stricken out.

The Court: Strike it out.

Q. I will ask you again until I get an answer: How much did you get from the Berger Clothing Company during the two and a half or three years you were employed there, for yourself? 6195

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as repetitious.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception. Will your Honor tell me what the answer was, if it is repetitious?

The Court: No, the Court is not under examination.

Mr. Talley: But this witness is, and

6196 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

your Honor sustains an objection to testimony that is not on the record. I take an exception.

The Court: Don't forget that you are no longer a judge. I am the judge here.

Mr. Talley: I take exception to that remark by the Court.

Q. In the year 1940, how many months of that year were you with the Berger Clothing Company? A. I will say between five and six months.

6197 Q. How much was your income for that five or six months from the Berger Clothing Company? A. Very lit le because the firm was going on the downward grade.

Q. How much? You understand. A. I am answering your question.

Q. Answer it in dollars. A. I said at the utmost I only got $50. a week, and some weeks I got nothing.

Q. Are you able to tell us how much you got in those six months? A. No, I am not; it is on the record.

6198 Q. Where? A. In the books.

Q. The Berger Clothing Company's books? A. Absolutely.

Q. Is that still in business? A. The books are there.

Q. Where are they? A. In the place, Berger has them.

Q. Berger has a place now of its own? A. I think so.

Q. Was there a man named Drucker employed in that Berger Clothing Company? A. He was put in there by Mendy.

Paul Berger—For People—Cross

6199

Q. Did you give him any money? A. To give to Mendy.

Q. Did you give Drucker money? A. To give to Mendy, I did.

Q. Is your answer yes? A. Yes, sir, I am answering it, to give to Mendy.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike the latter part of the answer out, to keep the record intelligent.

The Court: Motion denied. 6200

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you see Drucker give any money that you gave, to Mendy Weiss? A. No, sir.

Q. No? A. At that time I was under police guard and I could not get near Mendy; I could not sneak away from them; I had to give it to Drucker.

Q. Your answer is you never saw Drucker give any money to Mendy Weiss, that you had given to Drucker? A. No, sir, I will tell you the reason why. If I saw him, I would give 6201 it to him myself.

Q. The fact of the matter is, all the money you delivered or tried to deliver, you gave to Mendy Weiss out of the Berger Clothing Company, is the money you gave to a man named Drucker, is that right? A. No, sir. There were times when I gave Mendy money myself, and there were times I could not get away from the cops that were watching me, so I gave it to Drucker, that he should be able to give it to him, because I could not get away that night.

Q. Then you say you never saw Drucker hand it to Weiss? A. No, sir, because I could give it to him myself if I did not have Drucker to give it to him.

Q. How much of this money you say you gave to Weiss did you give through Drucker? A. Quite a bit of money; I cannot remember definitely.

Q. Now, since you have been in custody, did you talk to a man named Allie Tannenbaum? A. I did not.

6203 Q. When did you talk with him last? A. Oh, sometime before he was arrested.

Q. When do you fix that time as? A. The beginning of the year 1940.

Q. Did you talk to him in 1940? A. I did, before he was arrested.

Q. You have had no talk with him since you were arrested in the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you talked with Rubin since you were put under arrest in the Rosen case? A. I did not talk to him; he spoke to me.

Q. You did not talk to him? A. No, sir.

6204 Q. At any time or any place? A. In the District Attorney's office.

Q. You met there? A. The first time, when I was arrested.

Q. Is that the only time you saw him? A. That was the only time.

Q. And no other time? A. I seen him up in the Bronx before we went before the Grand Jury.

Q. Was he there at the same time you were there before the Grand Jury? A. He was there that day, but he was not there at the same time.

Q. Did you talk to him there? A. No, sir.

Q. Where did you talk to him about this case?

6205

A. When I was picked up; when I was brought over to the District Attorney's office. I told him everything. You might as well—

Q. Tannenbaum told you that? A. I said that to Maxie Rubin.

Q. Is that the only talk you had with Rubin? A. That is the only time I spoke with him.

Q. Now, Tannenbaum was there on the same day, wasn't he, when you say Rubin talked to you? A. No, sir, I have not seen Tannenbaum.

6206

Q. Wasn't Tannenbaum present in the Bronx when you went before the Grand Jury there? A. He was brought up there.

Q. Did you see him? A. I seen him passing by.

Q. Didn't you talk with him up there? A. I did not.

Q. When was this talk you had with Rubin, such as you have described, in the District Attorney's office? A. I answered that, didn't I?

Q. Answer it again, please. A. I said in the District Attorney's office.

6207

Q. I asked you when that was. A. When I was arrested.

Q. When was that? A. When was I arrested?

Q. Don't you know? A. Not definitely, it is the 4th or the 5th. It is on the record.

Q. You tell us your best recollection as to the day you were arrested. A. Either the 4th or the 5th of June.

Q. And have you been in custody ever since? A. I have, after I came out of the Tombs.

Q. Now, you told Mr. Barshay you were a good clothing cutter? A. I did.

Q. You still say you are? A. I presume so.

Q. And you could always get a job as a good clothing cutter, couldn't you? A. I could at one time, but I will tell you one thing now, that is, I told the truth, and I think the union may stop me from getting a job. I could at that time, but now that I have told the truth, I am under the impression now the union would stop me from getting a job.

Q. The what? A. The union.

Q. Because of your confession of complicity in 6209 the murder of Rosen; is that why they would stop you? A. No, sir.

Q. Because you are a murderer? A. Absolutely not, because I told them the truth, that I got money from them and I gave the money to Lep and Danny Fields.

Q. You think because you tell the truth now, the union would not allow you to go back in their rank-? A. Absolutely not.

Q. How much could you earn as a cutter when you were working as such? A. $60 a week; maybe $10 more $70. Some jobs pay more.
6210 The scale on them now is $60. Cutters at different places, some get $70.

Q. You went into the employ of the union as a strong-arm man, when you got $60 or $70? A. At that time it was not $60 or $70; the scale was $50 to $55.

Q. Although making $55 a week, you took a job as a slugger in the union? A. I did.

Q. Strong-arm? A. Yes, sir, after working hours and sometimes before working hours, but I worked.

Q. You don't deny that that is what you were.

a strong-arm man, during these times you have been asked about, do you?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. (The Court) Were you a strong-arm man? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you committed assaults on a great many men, didn't you? A. What do you mean, "a great many men"? 6212

Q. (The Court) You committed many assaults? A. I did.

Q. Some of those assaults were with the use of blackjacks? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Did you ever use any weapons in any of those assaults you committed? A. No, sir.

Q. Just your hands, is that right? A. That is right.

Q. And some of the people you beat up were pretty badly hurt, weren't they? A. How bad can you be beaten up if you get beaten up with your hands? 6213

Q. Don't you know some of the people you say you beat up with your hands had to be taken to a hospital?

Mr. Turkus: I object, he never testified to that. That is not testimony.

The Court: He can say so, if it is so or not.

A. I cannot say it definitely; I did not see them go to a hospital.

6214 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Now, do you know what a schlom expert is? A. A schlom?

Q. You were that? A. I was no schlom, though.

Q. Tell the jury what it is. A. A schlom means beating.

Q. Well, a beating for what purpose? A. Scabs.

Q. Also to intimidate witnesses, wasn't it, to keep them from testifying? A. What do you 6215 mean by that?

Q. Part of your job was to beat up people who were going to be witnesses against strong arm men or against the union, isn't that right? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever beat up anybody under orders, as you say you did everything to keep them away from testifying in court against you or some of your other strong arm men?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Yes or no.

6216

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you intimidate witnesses against yourself on more than one occasion by beating them up? A. Absolutely no.

Q. Did you shake down Murray Weinstein for $2,000 in 1946? A. I did not shake—do you know what shake means? Do you know what it means?

Q. I know what it means. A. Well, you tell me. I don't know what it means.

Q. Do you know what extortion means? A. Absolutely not. I did not extort.

Q. Did you get $2,000 from Murray Weinstein? A. I did, and it went to Lepke's defense. That is not extortion.

Q. Didn't you demand that Murray Weinstein give you $2,000? A. I did not.

Q. Did you get $2,000 from him? A. I did.

Q. Didn't you threaten him that something was going to happen if he did not pay? A. Absolutely not. I will tell you what I told him.

Q. You just answer my question. A. Now that you asked me I will tell you what I told 6218 him.

Q. I don't want to hear anything further. You said you did not shake down Murray Weinstein for $2,000. A. Absolutely not. I got the money and it went to Lepke's defense in the floor racket.

Q. You got it? A. Yes, sir, and I will tell you who I turned it over to.

Q. Oh, stop. A. Mendy told me to give it to Shimmy, and I gave it to Shimmy.

Mr. Talley: Are you going to allow 6219 this witness to take possession of this court-room?

The Court: Are you asking the Court a question for the purpose of entertaining the jury? I don't think your question is in order.

Mr. Talley: I ask you with all the vehemence I have at my command whether you are going to permit this witness to refuse to answer questions and shout at counsel.

The Court: The Court rules your question is impertinent. The Court can run its business and demands respect. The Court has had no opportunity to inject itself into this colloquy between you and the witness. The Court is not going to shout you both down. When you are through with this show you are putting on just now, the Court will have a chance to say something, if permitted.

6220 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

6221 Mr. Talley: I object to your Honor's statement and I take an exception. I am not putting on any show. I am trying to cross-examine in accordance with the rules of law with which I assume your Honor is and should be familiar, that govern cross examination of witnesses of this kind. It has not been my experience that any judge will permit a witness to go through such a performance as this man has been allowed to go through.

6222 The Court: The Court will request you sit down and behave yourself until the Court has a chance to speak. You have tried to put the Court in a false light on the record, contingent for somebody else to read, but you are not going to get away with it.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception. That is my only resort.

The Court. Now I know what you are up to.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception to that: I am up to nothing except to represent a client.

The Court: The Court demands you sit down at once.

6223

Mr. Talley: Yes, of course

The Court: And hold your tongue.

Mr. Talley: I except to your admonition.

The Court: Now, Mr. Witness, this is my first opportunity to address you. You are required to answer questions and not inject. Do not quarrel with counsel. Proceed.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the witness's answer with respect to the defendant Buchalter,—the statement that the $2,000 he got was for a specific purpose.

6224

Mr. Turkus: He was asked whether he extorted money, and he denied any extortion.

The Court: The Court strikes out the purpose of it, as unresponsive. This is the first opportunity the Court has had to do so because this has been just a rabble between counsel and the witness.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor give me a general exception to the line of inquiry as not binding on the defendant Buchalter?

6225

The Court: Yes.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. You never had any quarrel with Rosen, did you? A. Absolutely not.

Q. In fact, you were rather friendly with him, weren't you? A. Well, we were not very intimate, but we had no quarrel. I knew him the same as any other person.

Q. You were friendly? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He never did anything to hurt or injure you? A. He never did.

Q. You were friendly with Rubin, too, weren't you? A. Certainly was.

Q. You never had any quarrel with him either? A. No, sir.

Q. As a matter of fact, on one occasion he loaned you $200, didn't he? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Yet you pointed out Rosen, you say, when 6227 you knew that something was going to happen to him, and you pointed out Rubin, when you knew he was to be killed; is that true? A. As far as Rubin is concerned, but not true as far as Rosen was concerned. I never knew that man was going to be killed.

Q. Is your answer predicated upon the fact that Rosen is dead and Rubin is alive, that you admit you knew Rubin was going to be killed? A. Absolutely not. I never pointed out anybody, only except Rosen. I thought he was going to be schlommed or something.

6228 Q. You thought Rosen was going to be Schlommed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What does that mean? A. Beaten up.

Q. You were willing to point him out because you thought he was going to be beaten up or schlommed? A. I know what would happen to me if I was not willing to agree to that.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the latter part of the answer.

The Court: Motion granted.

Q. Now, schlomming, as you call it, means striking somebody with a lead pipe, doesn't it?

A. Not necessarily. It don't necessarily mean it has to be a lead pipe. Schlomming can be with the hand.

Q. But usually it is applied to assault with a lead pipe, isn't it? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Do you use that expression when a man is to be assaulted without a weapon? A. Either way, certainly.

Q. But generally, isn't it your knowledge that, when you use the term "schlom" it means hitting a man with a lead pipe? A. Absolutely not. 6230

Q. Isn't that what you thought was going to happen to Rosen? A. No, sir, I thought he was going to get a deal.

Q. What does that mean? A. A deal means to get hit, the same thing as schlomming.

Q. With or without a weapon? A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. What language is the word "schlom" in—is that Yiddish? A. It is more or less of a Yiddish expression.

Q. The German is "schlag." What is the 6231
Yiddish for "schlag"? A. I know what the word "schlom" means definitely.

Q. Is "schlag" also Yiddish? A. "Schlug."

Q. "Schlom" is not Yiddish, but I take it it is New York slang? A. A certain amount of slang in it.

Q. It is plain slang? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. It means hitting somebody with a blunt instrument? A. No, sir, it does not.

6232

Mr. Turkus: I object. We have gone over the definition several times.

Mr. Talley: You qualify this man as an expert.

The Court: Sustained as repetitious.

Q. How tall are you, Berger? A. About 5 foot 7½.

Q. How tall is Mendy Weiss? A. I would say about 6 feet.

6233

Q. How heavy are you or were you when you pointed out Rosen for this schlom you thought he was going to get; how much did you weigh? A. Well, about 155 or 160.

Q. Is that what you are now? A. No, sir, I weigh more now. Of course, I am older now; sure, we get more weight after the age of 40.

Q. You gained more weight since you have been living at the Hotel Bossert, haven't you? A. Maybe I did; I did not weigh myself.

Q. How was Weiss with regard to weight; about the same as he is now? He was just as heavy, wasn't he?

6234

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time is fixed.

A. Yes.

Mr. Turkus: I move to strike out the answer unless the time is fixed.

The Court: I don't see what it has to do with it anyway.

Q. In 1936 was Weiss about the same height and weight he is now? A. I cannot say that definitely.

Q. What is your impression? A. I cannot definitely say.

Q. I again ask you your best impression; he was a big, husky, heavy man, wasn't he? A. He was, yes.

Q. Would you say about 200 pounds? A. I would.

Q. So we have him about 6 feet tall and about 200 pounds, in 1936, is that right? A. Yes, sir, 6236 that is right.

Q. Now, you testified that you got money to give to Rubin, didn't you? A. I did.

Q. Did you give him that money you got for him? A. I did.

Q. You didn't hold on to any of that for yourself? A. Absolutely not.

Q. How many weeks did you give him money? A. Quite some time.

Q. What does that amount to in weeks, 10 weeks, 30 weeks? A. Months, I gave him money, quite a number of months. 6237

Q. How many months would you say? A. Between eight and nine months.

Q. How did you give it to him, in what manner? A. I gave it to him personally.

Q. Where was he during the time you were collecting money for him? A. At times he was away, and I kept the money until I seen him.

Q. Did you keep the money when he was in Salt Lake City? A. I did.

Q. You gave him that money at the rate of $50 a week, is that right? A. That is right.

Q. For the entire period he was in Salt Lake City? A. That is right.

Q. How much money did you give him when he came back from Salt Lake City? A. I don't remember that definitely. I do know I was getting $50 a week for him from Murray Weinstein.

Q. What is your best recollection as to how much you gave Rubin when he came back from Salt Lake City? A. I could not say definitely.

6239 Q. I am asking you for your best recollection, not definitely. A. Maybe three weeks, maybe four weeks, maybe less, I don't remember definitely.

Q. Is that as long as you say he was in Salt Lake City, three or four weeks?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is something he cannot say, how long somebody else was in some other place.

6240 Q. (The Court) How long was he away, if you recall? A. I don't recall definitely, but the best of my recollection would be between three and four weeks.

Q. So when he came back you handed him $150 or $200? A. Whatever it was; maybe it was a little less; maybe he was short the last time and I gave him less. It was at the rate of $50 a week.

Q. It was approximately that if he was away three or four weeks? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where would you hand him that particular money? A. At the Hotel Hatfield.

Q. Is that a hotel in the Borough of Manhattan? A. Yes, sir, 29th Street and 4th Avenue.

Q. Was anybody with you when you handed Rubin that money? A. I don't remember definitely.

Q. What is your best recollection, indefinitely, generally?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the sarcastic form of the question.

Mr. Talley: Nothing sarcastic about that; he has been using the term "indefinitely" for the past few days. Now we are going to try to get something different. 6242

Mr. Turkus: May we have objections without any interpolations from Judge Talley?

The Court: Are you all through?

Mr. Turkus: I have stated my objection.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 6243

Q. Did you give him money for the time you say he was in New Orleans? A. Yes, sir, I kept the money for him.

Q. How much money did you give him after he returned from that visit? A. I don't remember that.

Q. What is your best recollection? A. A number of weeks.

Q. Do you remember how much money you gave him when he came back? A. I was giving him at the rate of $50 a week.

6244 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Was it more than $250 you gave him?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as speculative.

A. I do not remember definitely.

Q. Where did you give it to him? A. I gave it to him when I took him down to the hotel.

Q. The Hotel Hatfield? A. No, no.

Q. What hotel? A. Either the Lexington or 6245 to the Shelton.

Q. You don't remember which? A. I don't remember definitely.

Q. Did you give him any money after his return from any other trips than those two? A. I did.

Q. How much did you give him on any other occasion other than his return from New Orleans and after his return from Salt Lake City—on what other occasion did you? A. If you will ask me the question I will tell you, because there was a time—

6246 Q. I am asking you now, never mind about the time. A. There was a time when Lepke told me not to give him the money, but to give him the money.

Q. Let me know the time—

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the last answer as not responsive.

The Court: Motion denied to strike out.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor please, on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, we move that that be stricken out as prejudicial.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

I also move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Did you give him money on any other occasions than after he returned from Salt Lake 6248
City and after he returned from New Orleans?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time is fixed.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: All you have to do is to fix the time reasonably, because otherwise the question is too general.

Mr. Talley: I am fixing the time as any other time than the time he returned from these two places. 6249

The Court: That is too general. You may answer yes or no to that question.

The Witness: Yes.

Q. What money did you give him?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time is fixed.

By the Court:

Q. When was it you paid him other money?

6250

The Court: The witness hesitates a long time. Make it more specific.

Mr. Talley: At this point I am not able to make it more specific. He said he got $50 a week to pay Rubin when he came back from certain trips. I am asking him the amount which he paid.

The Witness: I will answer that: After he came back when he was away with Benny Levine, at that time I had to give 6251 the money to Lep. When he came back from there Lep told me he would get in touch with me. Lep told me I should give him the money.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. How much did you give him? A. I did not owe him anything the; then I started to give him money because of that money I was giving to Lep.

Q. I am asking you about the money you gave 6252 to Rubin. Did you give him money after you paid him this time in New Orleans, and after his return from Salt Lake City, was there any other time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I am asking you when. A. When he came back to the city that time when he was living on Flatbush Avenue.

Q. Did you pay him any money for any time he was out of New York other than once you told us about in New Orleans and Salt Lake City?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is confusing.

The Court: Objection overruled.

6253

By the Court:

Q. When he was away in any other city than New Orleans or Salt Lake City, did you send any money to him? A. I never sent any money to him.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Did you pay him any money after he had been away on any of these trips? A. I did. 6254
The only time I did not hold money for him was the time he was away with Benny Levine, and Lep told me to give him the money. After that I was giving him the money direct.

Q. Giving who? A. Rubin, whenever he was here.

Q. You never sent any money to him, did you? A. Not to my recollection.

Q. Now I want you to go to Friday, September 11— Question withdrawn.

Q. You knew Rubin in 1936, didn't you? A. Certainly. 6255

Q. And you knew him in 1937? A. Yes.

Q. And you knew him in 1935? A. Yes.

Q. Did Rubin wear glasses in any of those years? A. The first time I seen Rubin with glasses is the time I met him on Nostrand and Eastern Parkway.

Q. When you said he was in disguise? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say you never saw Rubin wear glasses before that time? A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Are you sure? A. I am sure I never saw him with glasses before.

6256 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. Did you know Rubin's brother-in-law? A. Will you please tell me his name?

Q. Don't you know anybody you knew as a brother-in-law of Rubin?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless he directs his attention to a name.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I do not.

6257 Q. How did you know him? A. I knew of one. Maybe he has a few more.

Q. The one you know is the one I am asking you about. A. What is his name?

Q. I asked you if you know a brother-in-law of Rubin's, and your answer now is yes? A. I know one. He may have a number of others.

Q. What is the name of the one you know? A. I don't know.

Q. Did you know Rubin's brother-in-law when you got any mail for Rubin? A. Not as I know of.

6258 Q. Do you know if he got any mail from Rubin? A. Do you mean the one who is working in the Association?

Q. The one in the Expressmens Union; did he get any money from Rubin while Rubin was away? A. I cannot say that; I don't know anything about it.

Q. What time do you say you saw the defendant Weiss on Friday, September 11th, the first time that day? A. When I came down there with Lepke.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out.

The Court: Strike it out.

6259

Q. Answer the question, please. A. The first time I seen him was when I was standing with Lepke, I saw him coming over toward us.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out as unresponsive.

The Court: Do you want the time of day?

Mr. Talley: Yes.

By the Court:

6260

Q. Do you remember the time of day, if you know? A. The best of my recollection would be about 5:30 or 6.

Q. That is based upon an impression or looking at a watch? A. On impression; I did not look at any watch.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. But you are pretty sure that is about the time, aren't you?

6261

Mr. Turkus: I object; he said it was his impression.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Is it your best recollection as to time? A. Around that.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it as already having been answered.

The Court: He said "impression." Objection sustained.

Gentlemen of the jury, please remember the previous admonition given you and particularly the one regarding segregation and housing. Let no one talk to you about the case; do not listen to radios or read anything in the newspaper. Keep your minds open.

6262 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Recognizing what Armistice Day means in the public mind today, the Court would be misunderstood if it sat tomorrow. I think it is up to us to give that day the 6263 due respect that everybody else gives to it. We will make up for the lost time in other ways this week. At the present time we will recess until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

First the witness may leave.

Now the jury may go out the other door.

The defendants are remanded.

Mr. Barshay: (After the jury leaves, but before the defendants are remanded) I find it necessary to ask the District Attorney to produce for the Court's inspec-6264 tion a statement made by the witness Rubin to former Assistant District Attorney McCarthy. It is marked for identification.

The Court: You have the "Q. & A." in that statement?

Mr. Turkus: I have the "Q. & A." that McCarthy took.

The Court: I will read it. Send it to my chambers.

The defendants are remanded.

(Whereupon an adjournment was taken until Wednesday, November 12, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.)

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 12, 1941

TRIAL RESUMED

PAUL BERGER, a witness on behalf of The People, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

The Court: Mr. Witness, we are now starting this session. You are going to be subject to cross-examination for probably the day. Now, please bear in mind that the Court requires order. Questions must be asked civilly and answers must be given civilly, and to the point. Bear in mind that this is not a picket line. This is a court of law, and the atmosphere must be kept as dignified as the tradition of the Court entitles it to. Volunteer nothing. Just answer the questions frankly and honestly, and treat counsel with civility. No more demonstrations.

6266

Proceed, Judge Talley.

6267

Cross-examination by Mr. Talley (continued):

Q. When did you register as an alien? A. At the time when Judge O'Dwyer was questioning me.

Q. That was in May of this present year? A. No, sir, it was sometime in June.

Q. In June of 1941? A. That is right.

Q. You only registered at the direction of the District Attorney, isn't that right?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the question.

The Court: Objection sustained.

6268 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. You registered at the direction and request of the District Attorney, isn't that right?

Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Who prepared your registration as an alien?

6269 Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you answer all the questions that were required to be answered in the registration? A. I did.

Q. Did you answer them truthfully? A. I answered them truthfully to Judge O'Dwyer; that is how he came to know I should be registered.

Q. Then it was at Judge O'Dwyer's request
6270 that you did register?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is the second time the Court's ruling has been violated.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: This witness has just opened the door. I say my question is the only way to make it comprehensive for the jury.
The Court: Proceed.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. My question is, did you answer all of the questions truthfully and completely?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That has just been answered.

The Court: He has not answered that. Answer yes or no.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you state in the application the various names or aliases that you had used for the last ten or fifteen years? A. Yes, sir. 6272

Q. You put them all down, did you? A. Yes, sir, it is of my remembrance.

Q. You have a pretty good memory, haven't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. You have a good memory, have you not?

The Court: A man is sometimes afraid of his own memory. 6273

Q. You have remembered the names of the streets exactly in the last ten instances in which you met people and had various conversations, as long ago as 1936, haven't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6274 Q. Did you notify the Government when you registered as an alien that you had used the name of Samuel Gold, in 1927?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already covered.

The Court: You can say yes or no. Do you remember?

The Witness: Every name I will explain.

6275 Q. I don't want you to explain. I want you to tell me if, when you registered as an alien citizen in 1941, in June or thereabouts, when you were talking to the District Attorney of this county, did you tell the Government that you had used the name of Samuel Gold? A. For your information—

Q. Tell me, yes or no? A. I have to answer that question so you will know what it is all about. I will tell you what it is. When I was registered, my record was taken off the Police Department, and every name was put in there;
6276 if you want to know something, that is an answer.

By the Court:

Q. Counsel wants to know if at that time you remember particularly whether or not you put "Samuel Gold" on the return. Do you remember? A. Yes, sir, my record was given from the Police Department.

Q. Are you assuming that "Gold" was there, or is that a matter of recollection? A. I am positive "Gold" was there, because that is one of the names I used when I was arrested.

6277

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Did you tell the Government in that statement which you filed that in 1926 you used the name of Henry Weinstein?

The Court: Do you remember?

Mr. Turkus: I object, it is cumulative. He stated he gave every name that he has with the police.

The Court: It is not clear whether he remembers or whether he is only assuming because of the police record. 6278

The Witness: If it was on the police record I used it and it was put in there.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. What is your independent recollection, whether you put that in or not? A. Because he was handed the yellow sheet, and he took all the names off the sheet.

Q. Who did? 6279

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not make any difference.

Mr. Talley: It does make a lot of difference for the purpose of my examination.

By the Court:

Q. Who filled it out? A. A man from the Federal—he was from the Immigration Department, or whatever it is.

Q. You did not fill out the form? A. No, sir,

6280 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

I signed it; I know he was handed that yellow sheet. Definitely I saw he got that yellow sheet and he copied the whole thing.

Q. You are only assuming that those names were accurately recorded by the man who filled it in?

Mr. Talley: I take an exception. I object to your Honor's question as an interference with my cross-examination of 6281 this witness.

Q. (continuing)—filled in the form, but you are not stating according to your recollection; is that it?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as leading and suggesting to the witness.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. That is right, and he was also kidding me about all the names I was using.

6282

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Kidding, he kidded you about it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He kidded—what did he say about all the names?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6283

Q. Now, my question, which is not answered: Did you tell the Government when you filed this statement, your registration as an alien, that you had been known as or used the name of Henry Weinstein, in 1928?

Mr. Turkus: I object. The witness has made a comprehensive answer.

The Court: Sustained, as answered.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6284

Q. Did you tell the Government in your certificate of registration that you had used the name of Paul Goldstein, in 1928?

Mr. Turkus: I object for the same reason.

By the Court:

Q. Do you actually remember that? A. To the best of my recollection—

Q. No, not the "best", we don't know whether the best is good or not. Do you actually remember whether you did or not? A. Whether I used that name?

6285

Q. Whether that was filled in on the form. Did you see it on the form? A. I did not see it on the form, but the only time I used aliases was when I was arested. Before that I never used aliases.

Q. Did you read the form before you signed it? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Are you telling us that you made this declaration to the Government and signed it without reading it? A. I presume everything was copied off.

Q. My question is: Do you say you signed that registration statement without reading it?

The Court: Yes or no.

Mr. Turkus: I object. He does not have to read it if it is read to him.

The Court: Answer yes or no to that.

6287

A. I read some of it.

Q. You mean you did not read all? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you swear to it? A. I did.

Q. In this instance you swore to something and you did not know whether it was correct or not—is that true?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Sustained as argumentative.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6288

Q. Did you tell the Government when you made that form that you used the name of Joseph Cohen, in 1929?

Mr. Turkus: I object. The witness has given a comprehensive statement as to these names that appeared.

Mr. Talley: The witness has not given any.

Mr. Turkus: I am addressing the Court.

Mr. Talley: So am I.

6289

The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. What part of this application or declaration of being an alien did you read?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

6290

Q. Now, did you tell the Government in that declaration that in 1932 you used the name Joseph Schwartz?

Mr. Turkus: I make the same objection.
The Court: The same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q Did you set out in your declaration of being an alien the different crimes you had committed at various times? A. That is right. I answered that question before.

6291

Q. Answer it again. A. I told you before there was a sheet given to that man and he took everything down, and that settled it. I answered that question before.

Q. That sheet you speak of was your police record? A. No convictions, for your information.

The Court: Are you talking about fingerprint sheets?
The Witness: Yes.
The Court: Police Department record?

6292 The Witness: Yes, sir. You never asked me if I was convicted of any crime. Why don't you ask me that?

Mr. Talley: You will be asked plenty of questions.

The Witness: Yes, that particular question you would not ask me: Was I ever convicted.

Mr. Talley: Did you hear the Court's direction to you before we opened here?

6293 The Court: Just answer the question.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. You committed other crimes than those set out in this yellow sheet you speak about? A. No, sir. That was no crime, either. When you talk about the yellow sheet, those were arrests. No crimes there.

The Court: No convictions?

The Witness: No.

6294 Q. Each time you were arrested as shown on this long yellow sheet known as the police record, you were arrested actually for crimes you did not commit?

Mr. Turkus: I object. Arrests are not competent for cross-examination.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Am I required to allow this witness to answer these questions without following him up? This is cross-examination.

6295

The Court: The Court is glad to be enlightened.

Mr. Talley: Does your Honor not permit me an answer to that question?

The Court: The Court is not a witness. Please abide by the ruling.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you say that the statement you filed, the sheet as to being an alien, was true in every respect?

6296

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained as already answered.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. When you were in the Middletown State Insane Asylum— A. (interrupting) What do you mean, I was in it? I was never in it.

Q. You told us you were working there. A. I worked there. When you say "in" that means I was an inmate.

6297

Q. Didn't you go there as an inmate and a patient? A. I will ask you the same question: Did you ever go there as an inmate? That answers the question. Did you?

Q. If I had listened to you very much longer, I might. A. The question you asked me—

Mr. Turkus: This is no time for a confession by Mr. Talley. I object to it.

The Court: Come to order.

By the Court:

Q. Were you ever committed there as an insane patient? A. Absolutely not. That is ridiculous.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. When you got there weren't you given the job of being an orderly? Isn't that what happened? A. Absolutely not. I went for the job. I worked there. I got paid for it. Look that up if you want to. Why don't you look it up? I 6299 worked there, I got paid for it, and I was there two weeks. You would not go to the trouble of looking it up, would you, if I was not? That is a ridiculous question.

The Court: Strike that out. Come to order, Mr. Witness.

Mr. Talley: I would like to have it in. I did not move to strike it out.

The Court: All right, leave it in.

Q. In what court was your father naturalized?

6300 Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Was your father ever naturalized, to your knowledge?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. As a matter of fact, you know he never was made an American citizen, don't you? A. That is not a matter of fact.

6301

Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You don't deny that in two affidavits you made you swore that you were an American citizen—you don't deny that, do you?

6302

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.
The Court: Objection overruled.

A. What?

By the Court:

Q. You swore in two affidavits you were a citizen? A. At all times I thought I was. I probably did.

By Mr. Talley:

6303

Q. Did you or didn't you? A. What?
Q. Did you make two affidavits in which you swore you were a citizen of the United States? A. If I—, I probably did, thinking I was. That is right.
Q. Did you? A. (Witness remains mute.)

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember whether you did or not?

6304 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

A. I said I was always under the impression I was a citizen, then it was that way—

Q. Do you remember whether you ever swore to two affidavits which stated you were a citizen? Do you remember—yes or no? A. Can I have an explanation of what he means?

Q. Do you remember swearing to these affidavits? A. Out and out affidavits, where I said I was?

Q. Yes. A. I don't remember.

6305

By Mr. Talley.

Q. Did you make an affidavit dated the 16th of August, 1937, when you were seeking a reduction in your bail from $35,000, in the Borough of Manhattan, County of New York? A. I did.

Q. And in that affidavit did you say as follows: "That your petitioner"—meaning you—"is a citizen of the United States and has never been convicted of any crime"? Did you say that?

6306

Mr. Turkus: That does not affect his credibility under the circumstances stated by the witness, who was under the belief of citizenship.

Mr. Talley: Supposing we leave that to the jury.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I did.

Q. In an affidavit dated April 28, 1939, in a proceeding in the Appellate Division, Borough of Manhattan, County of New York, where you were seeking to reduce your bail from $100,000, did you make an affidavit in which you swore as follows: "That your petitioner"—meaning you —"is a citizen of the United States and has never been convicted of any crime"? A. I did. At that time, I explained, I thought I was a citizen.

Q. The answer is you did? A. Yes, sir, I did. I explained that to you a number of times. I thought I was.

Q. Now, you assaulted a man named Brucillo, didn't you, who came into your shop? A. I answered that question to you, if I am not mistaken, on Monday. 6308

Q. You did not answer it to my question, did you? Have you any real, unseparable objection to answering it again?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it as argumentative.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. I ask you now to answer that question. I ask you if you did not assault a 19-year-old Italian boy named Brucillo in your shop. 6309

The Court: Isn't that the same question?

Mr. Talley: Mr. Barshay questioned him about that; I did not.

The Court: I don't recall. I thought Mr. Barshay said 50 years old.

Mr. Barshay: I said 19 years old.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I did.

Q. You did not have anybody to help you in 6310 that assault, did you? You did that all alone, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object. The witness has stated what occurred. I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Was anybody in the shop with you when 6311 you assaulted this young man? A. That was right in front of the office.

Q. Do you mean on the street or in the hallway? A. In my place of business, right near the office. He was on the premises, on the floor; he came in and opened the door like a burglar.

Q. Was anybody else in the office with you at the time you assaulted him? A. There was.

Q. How many?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. Under the circumstances, that was a legal assault.

6312

The Court: Sustained, but not on that ground.

Mr. Talley: It is an illegal assault.

Q. Now, you assaulted him, you said, because he said to you, "All you Jews are alike," is that correct? A. No, sir. That is one of the things that was said. You are not asking me how he came walking in and how he acted and what I called him.

Q. Didn't you tell us on Monday when he said to you, "All you Jews are alike," then you assaulted him?

 6313

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is not the testimony.

Mr. Talley: That is the testimony.

Mr. Turkus: That is only a portion of it which he seeks to inject into the record for reasons best known to himself.

The Court: It is a collateral issue. Details of a collateral issue cannot be tried out on the main issue here as collateral impeachment. You have his admission of committing an assault. That is as far as 6314 you can go.

Mr. Talley: I have a right, I submit, to go into the character and circumstances surrounding that assault.

The Court: You may do that, but you may not go into the question of witnesses.

Mr. Talley: I understand I cannot try a collateral issue and I am bound by this witness's answer, but I am certainly entitled to his answer.

The Court: Bear that in mind.

Mr. Talley: Now I ask that I may have 6315 an answer to my question, and I take an exception.

Q. You assaulted him because you believed that his statement to you was an insult to your race, isn't that so? A. That is one of the reasons. The other reason is he refused to get out.

Q. What is the other reason? A. He refused to get out. He came walking in like a burglar and I spotted him from the office, and I walked out and I said, "What do you want?" He said,

"I am looking for a job." I said, "I am sorry, I cannot do anything for you." He said, "All Jews are alike." I said, "Get out," and he started shoving me.

Q. You don't mean that, do you? A. I certainly do.

Q. A man comes in looking for a job in your place and because you told him you didn't have any work he started shoving you around? A. I explained how it happened.

6317 Q. Is that right? A. Definitely so, yes, sir.

Q. Now, you learned afterwards that that boy had not eaten for two days, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That would be hearsay.

The Court: I thought Mr. Barshay said 12 days.

Mr. Barshay: Two days, I said.

The Court: How would he know? Objection sustained.

6318 Q. Didn't the boy tell you that?

Mr. Turkus: I object; he said in answer to Mr. Barshay's question that when the boy told him he had not eaten for some days, he fed him. Do you wish to go over the same ground.

Q. Did you testify you fed this boy after you assaulted him? A. That is right.

Q. You know the boy was taken to a doctor by your partner? A. That is right.

Q. You know he had six stitches taken in his head from the blow you gave him? A. Not as 6319

I know of. Absolutely not. How am I to know that? I was not there with the doctor.

Q. You hit him, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. That has been answered. We have been over that.

The Court: He said the boy went downstairs—fell down on being struck, but it does not appear by the record whether there was any laceration by reason of a blow—whether the laceration occurred in the fall.

6320

Mr. Talley: That is why I am inquiring into it.

The Court: If you wish to go that far you are entitled to do so.

Q. When you struck this boy, did you see him bleed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was he bleeding from? A. Right here (indicating).

Q. From his lip? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know your partner took him to a doctor? A. He was there.

6321

Q. Do you know he took him to a doctor? A. Yes, sir, we went over to the doctor with him—not my partner—one of the men working.

Q. You say you thought this boy was going to commit a burglary when he came into your place?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as too far afield.

The Court: Sustained. You cannot go any further on that. It is purely collateral.

6322 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. The real reason you hit him was because he said, "All you Jews are alike"?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that, trying to inject such an issue in this case—

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You knew that Rosen was a Jew, didn't you?

6323

Mr. Turkus: I object. We are in the United States of America.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. And you knew Rubin was a Jew, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor now admonish counsel that we are trying this 6324 case in Kings County?

Mr. Talley: God knows I know you are trying it in Kings County—I know you are trying it in Kings County—bringing out witnesses of this type and those you have had.

Mr. Turkus: I did not bring them: your client associated with them. I am forced to prove their association.

The Court: Cannot this be stopped?

Mr. Turkus: I resent the implication.

The Court: Let us stop resenting, let us get to work. They don't do these things in New York County; that is settled.

Mr. Talley: May I have an answer?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: The objection was sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You did not hesitate to point out men who were Jews whom you knew were going to be assaulted or killed, did you? 6326

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You did not hesitate to extort hundreds of thousands of dollars from business men who were Jews, did you?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 6327

Q. You were always a good union man, weren't you? A. To a certain extent.

Q. You worked for the union? A. I answered that question, "to a certain extent."

Q. Answer it again, if you did. A. To a certain extent. I did until I found out who they really were.

Q. How long did it take you to find that out? A. When I started working for them.

Q. When was that? A. 1927, 1928, 1926.

Q. You worked for them in 1927? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in 1928? A. Yes.

6328 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. And in 1929? A. Yes.

Q. And in 1930? A. On and off.

Q. Right up to 1941, didn't you? A. I said on and off.

Q. Did it take you all that time to find out, as you say, what they were? A. I said it.

Q. You beat up scabs, didn't you? A. I did.

Q. And you beat up non-union men? A. I did.

Q. That was as early as 1925 and 1926, wasn't it? A. If it is so, then it is.

6329 Q. Don't you know? A. Well, it was.

Q. You went right on from 1925 right through to 1935 and up to 1940 or 1941 doing that kind of work? A. That was not the only kind of work —I was working as a cutter, if you please.

Q. While you were working as a cutter, you were also working as a picket and as a strong-arm man for the union? A. Now and then, when there was a strike.

Q. When there was a strike on you were called on as a strong-arm man, weren't you? A. One of them. There were a hundred others. I was 6330 a member of that union.

Q. You began doing strong-arm work back as far as 1921, didn't you? A. I am not definitely positive about that.

Q. Are you reasonably sure of it? A. Almost sure.

Q. You continued from 1921 to 1922, 1923, 1924? A. Continued what?

Q. As a slugger and a strong-arm man, beating up non-union men. A. Them years I was working in a factory, if you please.

Q. Weren't you working as a strong-arm man for the union before 1926, as you told us? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Didn't you tell Mr. Barshay you were working as a strong-arm man and committing assaults in 1925, at the time of the general strike? A. That is right, but not in 1921.

Q. You were working in 1925, weren't you? A. '25 or '26, around that time.

Q. How about 1924? A. I was working around there as a picket.

Q. And as a slugger? A. I would not say at 6332
that time.

Q. Weren't you? A. I would not say at that time; I answered you.

Q. How about 1923, weren't you acting as a slugger and a strong-arm man then for the union? A. I was a picket.

Q. Did you assault people who were going to work or coming from work in non-union shops? A. Not as far as I can remember.

Q. How about 1923? A. Not as far as I can remember.

Q. How about '22? A. Not as far as I can re- 6333 member; I was a picket.

Q. Do you say you started out as a slugger and a strong-arm man in the spring of 1925? A. Around that time.

Q. It could have been before? A. I said around that time.

Q. Do you mean by that it might have been before 1925?

Mr. Turkus: I think we are splitting hairs.

Mr. Talley: I am cross-examining him.

The Court: Objection overruled.

6334

A. Maybe it was. If it is so, I will tell you. I have nothing to hide—nothing I am trying to hide. I am teling you the truth. If it is so, it is so. I am telling you the truth. I am telling you it was. If it was around 1923 or 1924 then I worked like that.

Q. Suppose you begin to tell us the truth from now on. A. I have been telling you it all the time.

Q. Is it not a fact that in 1921—

6335

Mr. Turkus: (interrupting) Mr. Talley has heard your Honor admonish the witness. Now he invites repartee by this kind of bantering remarks back and forth with the witness, such as "Supposing you start to tell us the truth now." That invites an answer like we are just getting from the witness. I will ask your Honor to advise him again.

The Court: The court is ready to admonish the witness as often as necessary.

6336

The only thing the Court objects to is this, and I do not want it to occur again: That when the Court is unable to admonish because it cannot get a word in edgewise and the situation becomes somewhat out of hand, that the Court should be blamed for it. I came here this morning expecting, and I still believe, to have an orderly day's work in court. Go ahead, Judge Talley.

Q. In 1921 you were committing assaults for the union?

6337

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as repetitious.

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember the year? A. To the best of my recollection—

Q. Do you remember the year you began to do muscle work? A. Actual muscle work?

Q. Yes. A. I would say around between 1925 and 1926—1925 and 1926.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. I am asking you if you did not do that as early as 1921. A. Not to my recollection.

Q. Didn't you do it as early as 1922?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as repetitious. We have gone up and down the ladder in years.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6339

Q. Now, you were a member of the union, weren't you? A. I was also working in a factory.

Q. Also working for the union, weren't you? A. That is right: not all the time, not all the time. I answered that.

Q. Yet you have been running a non-union shop at 599 Broadway, haven't you? A. I beg your pardon?

Q. (Question repeated by the reporter.) A. Absolutely not.

Q. Is that a union concern at 599 Broadway? A. That is right, 100 per cent.

6340 Q. Is that business at 599 Broadway known as the S.B.M. Corporation? A. That's right.

Q. What does the "S" stand for? A. Schwartz.

Q. What does the "B" stand for? A. Beeble and Berger.

Q. And what does the "M" stand for? A. Montluk.

Q. A man named Schwartz and a man named Montluk were your partners? A. That is right.

6341 Q. Are you secretary of that company? A. That is right.

Q. Did that company, on Monday last, while you were testifying in this court, before the Department of Labor, admit it was violating the law while operating on Government contracts? A. Did they?

Q. I am asking you. A. I am asking you. I want to learn something about that.

Q. You will learn a lot of things before we get through. A. This particular thing I don't know anything about.

6342 Q. You don't know, do you? A. About what?

Q. About that company being before the Federal Department of Labor? A. What happened to it?

Q. I am asking you. A. I want to know what happened. I want to know about it.

Mr. Turkus: They are having a very pleasant debate.

The Witness: He is telling me something.

Mr. Turkus: This does not go to his credibility or affect the issue we are trying.

The Court: Do I hear an objection?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, I object.

The Court: Sustained as too far afield.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Are you president of the Berger Clothing Company at 57 Thames Street? A. I was.

Q. Are you now? A. I think I am; I am not sure. If you want to know who the real president was, I will tell you. Right here, Mendy Weiss. 6344

The Court: Stop volunteering.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out.

The Court: Answer the question and no more.

Q. Do you know Samuel Kaminsky? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know Nathan Berger? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is he a relative of yours? A. He is not.

Q. Were they your partners? A. They were Mendy's partners. 6345

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out and I ask the Court to direct an answer.

The Witness: That is the truth that I am telling you. I am telling you the truth. They were Mendy's partners.

The Court: Strike it out. Say yes or no.

A. On paper I was, that is right.

6346

Q. You mean on a paper filed with the Secretary of State? A. That is right.

Q. You were a stockholder and officer of that corporation? A. That is right.

Q. And they were officers and stockholders? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was your office there, president? A. I think it was.

Q. What connection was there between the Berger Clothing Company and the Promenade Clothes Company of Brooklyn? A. It was practically one.

6347

Q. On Monday last when you testified in this court, did Samuel Kaminsky and Nathan Berger plead guilty in the United States Court in Brooklyn to violating the Wage & Hour Law on this Government contract you told us you had?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: This is his own corporation. He is president.

The Witness: I had nothing to do with that Government contract they had, for your information.

6348

Mr. Talley: I take an exception to your Honor's ruling.

Q. Did they plead guilty and were they given 18 months? A. For your information, I am away from that concern for over a year. You don't know what you are talking about. I am in business for myself. I am not in business with them any more.

6349

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Despite the Court's ruling, counsel deliberately puts this before the jury. It was an impropriety, and it provoked the answer by the witness. Both counsel and witness will come to order and proceed.

Mr. Talley: Does your Honor sustain the objection?

The Court: I surely do; apparently you were not listening. The Court is entitled to the attention of all counsel, and you had no right to turn your back to the Court and then ask the Court to repeat its ruling.

Mr. Talley: I did not turn my back on this court, and I am quite confident of deporting myself properly and with respect. I assume your Honor ruled against me, and I will take an exception to your Honor's ruling.

6351

Q. You were not prosecuted for anything in connection with the violation of the Federal law, in connection with your Government contract, were you?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is becoming reprehensible.

The Court: Objection sustained. The Court refuses to be goaded into losing its temper, but is going to be very patient.

Q. Now, you were a slugger and a strong-arm

6352 man for a man named Jack Noya, weren't you? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you tell Mr. Barshay on Monday that you were?

Mr. Turkus: I object, that is not the testimony.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Did you work for a man named Jack Noya in any capacity? A. I never worked for him.

6353 Q. Did you know him? A. I did.

Q. He was a gangster? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you do any work for a man known as Little Frenchy? A. For him?

Q. Yes. A. I never done any work for him. He was arrested with me.

Q. You were working with him, not for him? A. That is right.

Q. You were working with Jack Noya and not for him: is that right? A. I did not work with him.

Q. Were you ever arrested with Jack Noya?

6354

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Little Frenchy was a gangster too, wasn't he? A. He was.

Q. Now, these assaults you committed you only committed with a lot of people around you; is that right.

Mr. Turkus: I object. It has been a ready gone over six or seven times this morning.

The Court: Objection sustained, but not upon that ground.

Mr. Talley: May I ask upon what ground your Honor sustains the objection, so I may be guided?

The Court: Upon the ground it is immaterial how many witnesses may or may not have been there. As to this assault, under the rule of collateral impeachment, 6356 that is as far as you can go. We are not trying atmosphere in connection with collateral matters.

Mr. Talley: I have a right to show that this man committed assaults only when he was protected by having others around him. "Me and six others," was his expression, when they assaulted a lone man in a street car. And I have a right to go into that respecting credibility and whether this jury can properly be asked to believe anything he says.

The Court: The question you asked 6357 appears to be a question as to whether or not there were witnesses, not co-participants. You are inquiring whether or not they were co-participants in this case?

Mr. Talley: I have no relation to witnesses.

The Court: Proceed.

Q. You only committed these assaults when there were people around you, in company with you? A. Repeat that.

6358

By the Court:

Q. In connection with others. You did not do a solo attack? Is that what counsel means? A. As a rule, yes, sir.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Did you do any job by yourself, alone, without some of your underworld friends or gangsters, like Noya, Frenchy? A. How would I know what is what? I had to have some people with me.

6359

Q. Your answer is you never committed any of these assaults? A. For the union?

Q. (The Court) Yes. A. That is right.

Q. How about the assaults you committed that were not for the union? Did you ever assault anybody alone for any reason not connected with the union? A. Not as I can remember.

Q. In any of these attacks you made upon people, did you kill any of them? A. Absolutely not.

6360

Q. You are sure about it? A. Positive.

Q. You did leave them stretched out unconscious, didn't you, on the sidewalk, many times? A. Did I?

Q. Who do you think we are talking to? You. A. I explained to you, at times there were four or five, sometimes a half a dozen.

By the Court:

Q. Judge Talley's question is whether or not the victims were at that time knocked out or appeared to be knocked out. Yes or no. A. Yes and no.

Q. Both ways? A. I cannot definitely say.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Some were knocked out and some were not knocked out? A. I said yes and no.

Q. You never used a lead pipe or a blackjack in any of these assaults, did you? A. Absolutely not. 6362

Q. You never had any weapon at all? A. No, sir.

Q. Is that right? A. That is right.

Q. How many of these assaults do you think you committed? A. I cannot definitely say.

Q. They would run from the hundreds, wouldn't they? A. Absolutely no.

Q. Over a period of several years, would you say you did not assault hundreds of men? A. What would you call several years, if you please?

Q. I say from 1921 to approximately 1941, 20 years. 6363

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. Absolutely not.

Q. How many do you say you have assaulted and injured? A. You said 20 years. I told you I was working in the factory.

Q. How many years did you say you have at various times assaulted and injured? A. Some of them—I don't remember how many, but not what you are talking about, 1921. All those years I was working in the factory.

6364 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. My question is, how many men have you assaulted during whatever period you say it was you have been acting as a slugger and strong-arm man? A. Maybe 15, maybe 20.

Q. Maybe more? A. Maybe more.

Q. How many more? A. I cannot say definitely. Maybe one or two more, maybe two less. Not what you are talking about. You are ridiculous altogether. I was working. It was years I never went out. I was working in the factory.

6365 All those records can be brought here.

Q. When you were working in the factory and you were called upon by the union to do something for the union, you did it? A. There were times that years went by.

Q. Did you? A. All right, but that has nothing to do with what I am telling you now, that there were sometimes a year and a year and a half I was not called on to do any picket work. I told you there were hundreds more there. I am not the only one.

Q. That is what I say, you only assaulted people when there were a hundred other people 6366 to help you? A. A hundred others were working, union men. I told you I was working as a cutter.

Q. You told me you were working for $25 a week as a slugger. That is true, isn't it? A. I told you I was working as a cutter, and at night when there was a strike, at night and in the morning, I used to get twenty-five bucks for that. Not all the time. Only when there was a strike. There were times I was not called upon in a year or a year and a half. You are trying to impress me that I was on it for 20 years. I am a cutter, and I am a damn good cutter, one of the best in the business. Now, what do you think of that?

Q. In addition to being the kind of a cutter you say you were— A. (interrupting) You don't think I would be kept on all the time—I had to work.

The Court: Now please come to order. You have completely disregarded what the Court told you about behaving yourself.

Q. In addition to being a good cutter, with all the rest of it, you say, you also were a good slugger, weren't you? 6368

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Let him answer.

Mr. Turkus: There is only one judge here.

The Court: No outburst, please. This means nothing.

Q. You were working with the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. I was. 6369

Q. In what year? A. I think I started for them around 1933, I would say.

Q. What part of the year 1933 did you commence working for the Worlds Trucking Company? A. What?

Q. The Worlds Clothing Company. A. For the Worlds Clothing Exchange?

Q. Yes.

6370 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: I object. This is confusing for the record.

Mr. Talley: I withdraw the question.

Q. What part of the year 1933 did you commence to work for the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. To the best of my recollection about the beginning of the year. I don't remember definitely. It may be so and may not.

Q. Would you make it around January? A.
6371 I cannot tell you.

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as speculation.

Mr. Talley: This is not speculation; this is cross-examination. You don't seem to appreciate this province at all. May I have an answer?

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember? A. I don't definitely remember.

6372

By Mr. Talley:

Q. When you say the early part— A. There's a record there, why not look at the record? I am not denying it. I don't remember. I worked there. Sure I did. What is it you want to know?

Q. When did you begin to work there, you say? A. I think it was—I don't remember. If the records are here, all right.

Q. When you said the early part of the year, what did you mean, what month? A. I cannot definitely say. I told you it is on record. I done work there, I told you.

Q. Cannot you definitely tell us what you mean by the early part?

Mr. Turkus: Object.

The Court: Sustained as answered already.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6374

Q. You did trucking for them when you went to work for them in 1933? A. Who did trucking for them?

Q. You heard the question. A. Before I went to work for them?

Q. When you went to work for them, when you were working for them. A. A number of truckmen.

Q. Who were they? A. One was Louis Cooper, another one was named Larry Cooper, and maybe one other that I don't remember.

Q. Which one did you see Joseph Rosen work for? A. He worked for Louis Cooper.

6375

Q. Are you sure it was Louis and not Larry? A. He also worked for Larry Cooper.

Q. And for what other truckmen? A. For what other truckmen he worked?

Q. Did Joseph Rosen work for. You say he worked for Larry Cooper and Louis Cooper. Did he work for any other truckmen? A. I don't know.

Q. While you were connected with the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. Not as I know of.

Q. How long were you connected with the 6376 Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. A couple of years.

Q. Would they be 1933 and 1934?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as speculative.

A. I presume they would; I presume they would be '34, I presume that would be 1935.

Q. Was a man named Weiss working for 6377 Larry Cooper or Louis Cooper at the time you were connected with the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. A man named who?

Q. A man named Weiss. A. What Weiss?

Q. A brother of the defendant Weiss in this case. A. He was.

Q. He was working with the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. No, sir, he was working for me. Mendy asked me to put him on to work to break him in as a cutter. He worked for me.

Q. That was for the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. I said for me. I paid him.

6378 Q. While you were working for the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. That is right. I was contracting for the Worlds Clothing Exchange. He was breaking in in my place as a cutter. I paid him $20 a week. I should not have given him 20 cents. 20 cents is all, because he was Mendy's brother.

Q. How long did Mendy's brother work for you? A. I don't remember definitely. I know he worked some time.

Q. How long? A. Six months or more. I don't remember definitely.

Q. Is it not a fact that he worked there approximately two years? A. I don't remember definitely.

6379

Q. If you don't remember definitely, why did you say six months? A. I said six months or more. I don't remember definitely. I told you he worked there. Get the record and it will show you.

Q. I am asking you how long he worked there. A. I don't remember; I know he worked there. I paid him $20 and I should not have given him 20 cents.

6380

Q. While working there did you ever see Mendy Weiss in the place of business of the Worlds Clothing Exchange? A. I did.

Q. Many times? A. I seen him there a number of times, while his brother was there, and I saw him many times while Lepke was there, and the whole mob were there—Charlie Gurrah and everybody else.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike that out as not binding.

The Court: Strike it out as not responsive. You are again told not to volunteer information.

6381

Q. Did you see Mendy Weiss there while Rosen was working in the same shop?

Mr. Turkus: I object, that is not the testimony at all. It is embracing a state of facts not testified to in this case by any witness.

The Court: Sustained as leading.

Q. Was Rosen working as a truckman? A.

6382 (interrupting) What do you mean, as a truckman? How can he work on a truck? Do you know how many truckmen there are in the place?

Q. Was Rosen doing work for the World Clothing Exchange? A. Was doing trucking. He was only a foreman. He came up for five minutes. How long do you think he was there?

Q. He came there very often, didn't he? A. I wouldn't say very often.

Q. He came there every day, didn't he? A.
6383 When, the times we had work. We didn't ship all our work out to Louis Cooper.

Q. When you had work, Rosen was there every day, wasn't he? A. I beg your pardon, he was not. Sometimes he would call up. What the hell he wants to come down to Broadway and Eighth Street when his office on Fifth Avenue some place?

Q. Isn't it that he even came more frequently than once a day? A. When we had work.

Q. When you had work, he would be there sometimes two or three times a day, wouldn't 6384 he? A. No, sir. No reason for it. Could he spend so much time? The man was taking care of the business for Louis Cooper. I had one lousy office down in the World's Clothing Exchange. He had to take care of about a hundred accounts. He had to call up on the phone, did we have any work, he got something to pick up. Sometimes he didn't send work out at all. He sent it to other places. He was working for Louis Cooper. He had to take care of maybe a hundred accounts. I was a peanut account to him. I used to ship four hundred or five hundred a week.

Q. Are you through? A. That is right.

Q. Louis Cooper did the bulk of the work for the World's Clothing Exchange while you were there, didn't he?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. This is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

A. Not the whole time that I was there.

6386

Q. Most of the time that you were there, was not most of the trucking done by Louis Cooper? A. Not most of it. There was a lot of work that had to be sent to New York and when it was sent to New York Louis Cooper can't handle it. He only handled stuff that went to Jersey.

Q. Rosen was working for Louis Cooper, wasn't he? A. That is right.

Q. And you saw him in your place of business, didn't you? A. I did. I seen him before he came to my place of business, too. I used to know him from the avenue.

6387

Q. Did you ever see him at your place of business at any of the times when Mendy Weiss visited there? A. Absolutely not.

Q. Never did? A. Absolutely not.

Q. It never happened that they met in your place of business? A. Absolutely not.

Q And yet you say Mendy Weiss came to your place of business frequently to see you and see his brother, is that right? A. What would you call frequently? There was times I didn't see him in months.

Q. What do you call frequently, when you said in answer to my question that he was there often? What did you mean by that? A. I would say he was there maybe a dozen times since I was there. The way you are talking he is liable to think he was there 180 times.

Q. Are you drawing a salary now from this business at 599 Broadway? A. I am.

Q. Are you drawing $150 a week? A. I am.

Q. And you have been drawing that during all the time that you have been in the custody of the police? A. That is right.

6389 Q. That is true, isn't it? A. That is right.

Q. What do you do with the $150 a week that you get now?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. It does not cost you anything to live at the hotel that you are putting up at, does it? A. No.

Q. Your board is paid; your lodging is paid? A. That is right.

6390 Q. And has been since May or June of this year?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. It is not May.

Q. Is that right? June 5, 1941? A. Not June 5th.

The Court: Just a minute. There is an objection.

Q. Was it in June?

The Court: Please. The Court refuses to engage in a brawl. Objection was made that requires ruling. What is the objection? Repeat it again.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Isn't this witness in custody?

Mr. Turkus: The witness is in custody of the New York City Police Department.

The Court: Under an order of the court? 6392

Mr. Turkus: That is right.

The Court: Then it may fairly be assumed that being a prisoner and being held under an order of the court, that the City pays his board, of course, the same as if he was locked up in a cell.

Mr. Talley: Is the objection sustained?

The Court: Certainly it is sustained. It has nothing to do with the case anyway.

6393

Q. You were locked up in a cell, weren't you, when you were first arrested? A. I was.

Q. And spent a week there, did you? A. I did.

Q. In the Tombs prison in New York? A. That is right.

Q. And you were not driving an automobile during that week that you were in the Tombs, were you?

Mr. Turkus: It is a known fact in the law that one charged with homicide is held without bail, so that that necessarily and obviously is an impossibility.

6394 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Court: It is immaterial anyway.

Q. You are still being held on a homicide charge, aren't you? A. Yes.

Q. And the charge is the killing of Joseph Rosen. That is true, isn't it?

Mr. Turkus: Participation. I object
6395 to the form.

Mr. Talley: The law does not recognize any difference. You ought to know that.

The Court: May I ask this?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: Did I make the order holding this witness, or was it made in New York?

Mr. Turkus: No, this witness was held on a short affidavit in the Felony Court.

The Court: I am talking about putting 6396 him in custody of the police. Who made that order?

Mr. Turkus: That is either a Supreme Court order or it is an order downstairs in the Felony Court. My recollection is—

The Court: It is a New York indictment?

Mr. Talley: No, it is not.

Mr. Turkus: No, he was held in the Rosen case on a short affidavit for his participation.

The Court: I thought he was indicted in New York?

Mr. Turkus: No. He is on bail on New York indictments.

The Court: He was held on a short affidavit?

Mr. Turkus: I do not want the jury to be confused.

The Court: So whoever made the order was some Judge in Brooklyn?

Mr. Turkus: That is right, in the Felony Court.

The Court: The reason why the court 6398
sees fit to place this witness in the custody of the police, instead of remanding him to jail, is the Court's affair and is not the affair of this jury.

Mr. Turkus: That is right.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception to that.

The Court: And cannot be questioned.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception to that statement.

The Court: And furthermore it would be prejudicial to conjecture as to the reason why it was deemed wise to take 6399 him out of the jail and put him in the custody of the police.

Mr. Talley: I take exception to that statement. As I understand the situation, this witness was held, charged with complicity in the murder of Joseph Rosen. He is being held without bail and the order, or any order, if there is such a one, has nothing to do with the situation prevailing, that he is under arrest charged with the murder and killing of Joseph Rosen.

6400 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

The Court: That has no bearing upon this question that is before the Court.

Mr. Talley: It has a lot of bearing—

The Court: That is simply diversion.

Q. After you were a week in jail, you were taken to the Bossert Hotel, is that correct? A. That is correct.

Q. And would that be in the month of June, 1941? A. That is correct.

6401 Q. And you have been at the Bossert Hotel ever since? A. That is correct.

Q. You have not been paying any expenses in the Bossert Hotel, have you?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Q. For your lodging or your board?

Mr. Turkus: That has already been answered.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6402

Q. It is very much more comfortable there than it was in your cell in the Tombs, isn't it?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained. It is not done for that reason. It is done for a reason of sound public policy. The Court knows the reason why it was done and why the Court deems it necessary for it to be done, to get him out of Raymond Street jail.

Mr. Talley: I except to that statement of the Court as being prejudicial.

The Court: I advise you you are treading on dangerous ground. Get off it.

Mr. Talley: I think your Honor inadvertenly said this witness was in Raymond Street jail. He never was.

Mr. Turkus: In jail.

The Court: That was an inadvertence.

Mr. Turkus: It applies to any jail.

The Court: What I mean is this, that I have made in this court many such orders. It has always been upon the 6404 ground of sound public policy and what appeared to the Court to be necessity. It is not a matter that concerns a jury in this or any other case. It makes no difference whether I made this order or whether some other Judge made the order; it is none of the jury's business and you may not question it. The man is a prisoner but he is not held as a prisoner in Raymond Street Jail or in the Tombs or any other prison for a reason that is sufficient to the Court and does 6405 not concern the jury. Now let it rest there.

Mr. Talley: I take exception to your Honor's statement.

Mr. Barshay: May I address the Court, your Honor?

The Court: I instruct the jury to completely disregard it.

Mr. Barshay: May I address the Court?

The Court: No, not on that. The ruling is made and it is none of your affair.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor give me an exception?

The Court: Yes.

6406 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Talley: Will the District Attorney tell us what Judge made the order, if there is such an order?

The Court: Here is the Judge right here (indicating). Judge Solomon, stand up. Did you make the order?

Magistrate Solomon: Sitting in the Felony Court, on two occasions, he was brought before me; at the request of the District Attorney's office, under a short affidavit, he was continued.

6407

The Court: How about the order committing him?

Magistrate Solomon: No, I made no such order; just that.

Mr. Talley: Now I ask the District Attorney in charge of this case if there is such an order and, if so, what Judge did make it?

Mr. Turkus: I just instruct Mr. Talley all he has to do is walk downstairs to the Felony Court and look it up. It is there on the record.

6408

Mr. Talley: I ask the District Attorney to put upon the record now who made the order and when it was made, and I further ask the District Attorney, in view of his apparent reluctance to produce that order—

Mr. Turkus: "In view of his apparent reluctance" is a reprehensible remark that I can well take from him.

The Court: Do you know who made it?

Mr. Turkus: I don't. I know it was done in the Felony Court. Who the Judge was is immaterial.

The Court: It is none of the jury's business and if Judge Talley wants to know from curiosity, he can find out.

Mr. Turkus: I cannot charge my mind with all those things, Judge.

The Court: Let us please proceed with the trial.

Mr. Talley: Then I understand the District Attorney does not agree to pro- 6410 duce that order in this court?

Mr. Turkus: There is no such understanding at all.

The Court: You are trying to put the District Attorney in the wrong attitude and the Court rebukes you for that. I say that reluctantly. The situation was sufficiently clarified before and this tends to cause the jury to confuse it. If there is any persistence along this line, the jury will be excused and we will see how far you go then.

Mr Talley: This situation is not clari- 6411 fied at all—

The Court: The Court instructs you not to go any further on that.

Mr. Talley: I take exception to your Honor's ruling and I say that it all has a bearing—

The Court: Judge, if you persist in this, there is always a risk of provoking something that you will use as a basis for a motion for a mistrial. I advise you to get off dangerous ground. Try your case.

6412 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Talley: I appreciate your advice but I think I am quite as competent as your Honor is to know when I am on dangerous ground, when I am not.

The Court: The jury is excused until the Court sends for you.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception.

The Court: After the jury goes out, you may complete your record and the jury will then come back.

6413 Mr. Talley: I have no record to complete.

(The jury retired from the court-room.)

The Court: Now the jury is out of the room. This is without prejudice because the jury is out of the room and because they are not permitted to read newspapers concerning this trial.

In all orders made by this court, the Court has followed the practice which was 6414 inaugurated by Mr. Dewey in New York and which was followed by the Judges in New York and the reason has been to prevent the assassination of witnesses in the jail. At one time the situation was so desperate here that in trying a case it was deemed necessary to get an armored bank car with armed police outriders in order to escort one witness here because it was indirectly reported that there was a scheme on to block traffic and to assassinate that witness on his way to the jail. That witness is reported to have committed suicide this morning by jumping out of the eighth story window of a hotel.

If there is anything more to be said by way of a record, sir, put it on the record and have it over with.

Mr. Barshay: Now may I address the Court, your Honor?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: Of course, with respect to this witness—

The Court: The Court will say nothing 6416 more on it nor permit anything further to be said on the subject when the jury comes back.

Mr. Barshay: Can I say something now, Judge?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: Of course, out of the mouth of this witness, he testified here that at no time was he induced to flee but I do not know whether or not he said or was asked about intimidation or threats, but the point is this, Judge, if his 6417 being placed in a hotel would induce him to give false testimony, may we ask the Court isn't that proper, if we can convince the jury through questions and answers that his treatment, his special treatment, could induce him to give false testimony?

The Court: The Court has not discussed that question at all.

Mr. Barshay: That is the purpose of the inquiry, Judge.

The Court: The Court has ruled on a

6418 specific point of judicial procedure and the Court will not be drawn into saying something on which you can place an exception to raise in the event of conviction.

Mr. Barshay: The only reason I would be interested in that is whether or not that treatment induced false testimony, and no other reason.

The Court: You are not going to draw
6419 the Court into that. The Court will rule on that in response to objections to questions.

Mr. Barshay: I only want to make my purpose clear, Judge.

The Court: You have it on the record. If there is anything else to be said, let us have it on the record.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, since the jury is out of the room now,—your Honor recalls that I mentioned that matter to you this morning with respect 6420 to those papers. May we discuss it now, your Honor?

The Court: Yes, this is a good opportunity.

Mr. Climenko: The situation is simply this. We on behalf of our client subpoenaed certain records which were records made by the Police Department of the City of New York and records in the possession of the City of New York, and we asked for their production here.

Mr. Turkus: The records are here.

Mr. Climenko: The other day, on Friday, when we requested them, it was in Mr. Turkus' mind that they were not in his possession or in the possession of his office.

Mr. Turkus: They were not in the court-room.

Mr. Climenko: I am going to make a complete statement, Mr. Turkus, and nobody is going to be misunderstood.

Mr. Turkus: O. K.

Mr. Climenko: We persisted, however, 6422 and Mr. Turkus has completed his investigation and he finds that he has those records. In the meantime, so that the record may be complete as to what has happened as to our efforts to obtain them, we had subpoenaed an officer of the Police Department to come here and produce them and that man did appear here, though I did not know he was here, and I understand that he had a conversation with someone from the District Attorney's office—what I am now saying is not 6423 in criticism of anyone—but he was apparently told that since the District Attorney had them, there was no necessity for him to remain here.

Now, if your Honor pleases, those are records that we believe we have a right to see; they are in the possession of the District Attorney but they are not the property of the District Attorney. They are public records. We called for their production from the only source that we can get them and, if your Honor pleases, those are not records having to do with this case as a case but rather are they records having to do, as I understand the situation, with the work of the Police Department of the City of New York during the period from about September of 1935 to the end of 1936 in respect to surveillance by agents of that department of one of the persons on trial here. Now we ask Mr. Turkus, through your Honor, making the request to your Honor re-

6425 spectfully, of course, for the production of those records. For the record, so that I will be entirely clear—

The Court: What is the nature of these records?

Mr. Climenko: I thought I described them, your Honor. They deal with surveillance by the Police Department of the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Are they required in connection with the examination of this witness?

6426 Mr. Climenko: They may be, your Honor, because those records, as I understand it, have to do with all of the activities of that defendant, have to do with an identification of the people whom he saw, what he did throughout the period that I described.

(At this point the witness left the court-room.)

The Court: May I see the record?

Mr. Turkus: These are not public records. This is an investigation conducted by the Police Department in regard to certain criminals, crooks, and gangsters. To release these public records—

Mr. Wegman: Even with the jury out of the room, I take exception to that, if your Honor pleases. I think the District Attorney ought to be criticized for making a speech for the purpose of the newspapers, even though there is no jury present, and even though the jury does not read the newspapers while on this 6428 case.

The Court: This is properly a basis on which a question of law is predicated.

Mr. Wegman: It may be, but the District Attorney has no right to make any such statement. His statement is grievously wrong and knowingly wrong to him. This is a record of the Police Department's surveillance of one individual.

Mr. Turkus: Have you seen the records?

Mr. Wegman: And it was a 24 hour 6429 guard. We have been informed by the Police Department.

Mr. Turkus: You do not know what you are talking about.

Mr. Wegman: We have been informed by the Police Department.

The Court: Please do not interrupt counsel when he is talking to the Court.

Mr. Turkus: I am stating to the Court, your Honor, that these records are in connection with crooks, criminals and gangsters, that they are not public records, 6430 and that it would be unconscionable, that it would be against the public interest, to reveal the contents of these documents as we have them now, to anybody.

Mr. Wegman: And I say that is a deliberate lie on the part of Mr. Turkus, and I cannot use a stronger word.

The Court: Counselor, I am very sorry but that is going to cost you ten dollars which you will pay right away.

6431 Mr. Wegman: I will be glad to, if contempt of Mr. Turkus is contempt of court.

The Court: It will cost you ten dollars each time.

Mr. Wegman: Incidentally I take exception and note my right to appeal from your Honor's ruling.

The Court: Yes, and see how far you get.

Mr. Wegman: I pay it under protest.

The Court: I am very much surprised, considering the quarter from which it 6432 comes, because you surely forgot yourself.

Mr. Wegman: That is perhaps true and I apologize if the Court took it as that.

The Court: You should go through life without ever doing that.

Mr. Wegman: I do not recall any other occasion when I have done it but there are certain things that go too far. There is a point to which one can be tormented by conduct of another person which is unconscionable and which after a while gets so far under the skin that it causes an eruption. I think that Mr. Turkus's conduct calls for condemnation from your Honor, but I don't suggest it because I would not presume to suggest to your Honor what your Honor ought to do.

The Court: Counselor, I do not think you will do it again, but the ten dollars will be a reminder.

Mr. Wegman: I hope it has been noted that I paid it under protest.

The Court: The Court was goaded on 6434
Monday at one point, where there was an obvious attempt to create a wrong record situation that might be misunderstood in the eventuality of an appeal, into saying to a distinguished counsel in the case, "Hold your tongue." The Court has been trying to bite his own tongue out ever since saying it. That simply tumbled out under the impulse of the moment.

Mr. Wegman: The Court suggested on the record on Monday, at least the Court said in so many words, that one of the 6435 defense counsel was telling a deliberate untruth.

The Court: Please, no further of this.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases—

The Court: No more. I am hearing Mr. Turkus. He was interrupted. Where was that?

(Remarks of Mr. Turkus were read.)

Mr. Turkus: However, they are about three inches in thickness. They refer not only to the type of individuals I have mentioned but their activities and their associates.

6436

The Court: I am asking you this: Do they contain any Q's and A's by witnesses in this case?

Mr. Turkus: They do not.

The Court: Do they contain any depositions by witnesses in this case?

Mr. Turkus: They do not.

The Court: Are they purely police re-

6437 ports?

Mr. Turkus: They are police confidential reports of activities of the Police Department.

The Court: No depositions?

Mr. Turkus: No depositions.

The Court: No admissions?

Mr. Turkus: No conversations, no admissions that I could find. They are about three inches thick.

The Court: All right. Then what was it that counsel desires to have done, so 6438 that the Court can make an intelligent ruling, if that be possible?

Mr. Wegman: May I state what those records are, your Honor? It has been stated in court, and it may as well be made clear. The defendant Buchalter was under surveillance by the Police Department of the City of New York every single day over a period of time. He was followed by police officers—

The Court: Without that, what is the purpose of this? I want to get the procedure correct.

Mr. Wegman: These records of the Police Department show the report of these police officers as to where the defendant Buchalter was, and with whom he spoke, and who spoke to him, over the period of time as to which these witnesses have testified. It is important for the purpose of contradicting the testimony of the witness Rubin and of the witness Berger to show that the Police Department's own records indicate that their testimony 6440 could not have been true.

Mr. Turkus: Unfortunately—

Mr. Wegman: That in these records—

The Court: It requires no further argument.

Mr. Turkus: I want to make a statement of fact.

The Court: I am hearing counsel. Go ahead.

Mr. Wegman: We want to see these records for two reasons: First, because in order to lay a foundation we ought to be able to cross-examine these witnesses as to places and times indicated by these records and, secondly, to call the police officers who witnessed— 6441

The Court: I understand now. Have you any authority of law to show that the law has been changed on that point?

Mr. Wegman: May I ask your Honor on what point? I am afraid that I do not understand.

The Court: You know that these have always been held to be confidential.

6442 Louis Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Wegman: These are not investigations of crime. If they are, perhaps they are confidential. They are a record made by police officers of surveillance—

The Court: Pardon me. Has the law been changed recently on that point?

Mr. Wegman: Not that I know of.

The Court: Then the Court is compelled to rule against you, but still I don't know specifically what your motion is.

6443 Mr. Wegman: Our motion—we subpoenaed the Police Department to produce those records.

The Court: I know that.

Mr. Wegman: We have now asked for their production.

The Court: They are here. Now you want to see them, is that right?

Mr. Wegman: Specifically as to certain dates.

The Court: (To District Attorney) Do you object?

6444 Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Wegman: Might they be marked for identification?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wegman: May I also make note of the fact that we are asking only for certain dates, not for the entire record.

Mr. Turkus: So that the record may be clear—

Mr. Wegman: We want the record of the month of September, 1936.

 6445

The Court: Mark the outside of the folder.

Mr. Turkus: So the record may be clear, may I make this statement? It is in the absence of the jury. Had there been any such police surveillance of the defendant, there may not have been this homicide. Unfortunately the only kind of surveillance was known in police parlance as a harassing detail, an annoying detail, to annoy. In addition to that, it was, of 6446 course, an incomplete type of police surveillance. If this defendant and others had been followed 24 hours a day, we would not have had this indictment; there would have been no necessity for it. It was known as an annoying or harassing affair. In addition, these papers which are about three or four inches in thickness as you can see—

The Court: Please cut things short. Mark the folder for identification.

(Folder marked People's Exhibit Z-18 for identification.)

The Court: Not only is this illegal but were the Court to divulge this, it would practically permit these confidential records to be divulged for counsel in a manner that could be used in connection with a defense of any of the other cases in so-called Murder Incorporated line.

Mr. Wegman: May we ask your Honor before making that statement to look at these records because I think that Mr. Turkus has just completely justified my resentment of his earlier statement and has indicated that his earlier statement was not in accordance with facts, as I charged that it was not, when he says that these are records of a harassing detail, not an investigation.

Mr. Turkus: They are an investigation—

6449 Mr. Wegman: I suggest, your Honor—

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, I am not going to permit him to create a false record for a contingent basis.

Mr. Wegman: May I be permitted to continue my statement?

Mr. Turkus: I resent this thing which cost him a ten dollar fine.

The Court: Mr. Wegman knows nothing about the contents because he has not seen them. He is not going to be permitted to see them and all the record 6450 that is going to be made has been made.

Mr. Wegman: May I ask your Honor to look at them yourself?

Mr. Barshay: May I address the Court because the vital point has been missed?

The Court: What is it? Is there anything new?

Mr. Barshay: Yes. First of all we do not want to see a single thing that has anything to do other than with respect to the whereabouts and the people who saw Buchalter on the specific occasions when Rubin and Berger said they saw him on certain days beginning September 11, 1936, up to and including June, 1937, to see whether or not there is something in those records which would dispute the truth of their allegations. For example, your Honor, if Berger said that he saw Buchalter at the Hatfield Hotel on a certain day, at a certain hour,—and I tried to be specific with respect to that—and these records would show that on that day the police reported him to be at an entirely different place in the city of New York, with different people, then in the interest of public justice these records are not confidential and your Honor should look at them and see if there are any such things in existence. Public policy demands— 6452

Mr. Turkus: Why don't you look at them, Judge?

The Court: If a policeman took the stand and testified otherwise, then the question as to whether or not these records could be used to contradict the policeman, provided they were made by him, would come up and call for a ruling, but that is not present at this moment. Now as it stands, in addition to the fact that these are privileged and confidential under the law, they are hearsay. I will go further than that and I will do this and then stop because I am not going to get into too long a harangue. You practiced law, counsellor, and I assume you have employed detectives and so have I. I prac- 6453 6454 ticed law for twenty years and spent many thousands of dollars for detectives who rendered private reports and I have paid good money per day for trailing and making those reports and found them in a large percentage to be arrant humbug. I have had to employ detectives to watch detectives and even they sold me out. That may make you think.

Mr. Barshay: May I finish the state-
6455 ment, Judge?

The Court: The Court is not going to say any more because I do not propose to have any record that will cause an appellate court to think that that is what activates my ruling, but I am telling you it is just arrant hearsay. You are not going to be permitted to have the inspection and I am not going to hear anything more.

Mr. Barshay: Judge, I did not finish my statement. I will finish it and I will 6456 take my exception and sit down.

The Court: Very well.

Mr. Barshay: First, your Honor, I do not know of any law which makes these police records private records. My understanding is that they are public records and I cite to you as authority the case I tried, People against Behan, where he was indicted for stealing public records, and I contended under the law there that they were private records, being under the same impression then as your Honor is now. I was overruled by the Court and the indictment was sustained and we had to go to the jury on the question of fact. Now, second, I do not know which police officers, your Honor, to subpoena because unless I know which police officer said he followed him and reported to his chief that he did follow him and said in that report whom he saw the defendant Buchalter with, at what place, at what time, at what date, I am in no position to subpoena the entire Police Department of the City of New 6458

York. Third, under the law, the law presumes that an officer of the City of New York does his duty honestly and faithfully and not that he does it by hearsay and, if in Mr. Turkus' possession or in the Police Department's possession there is evidence which gives the lie to any witness offered in this court-room, as a public duty he owes it not only to the defendants but to the community to produce him.

Mr. Turkus: Nobody finds fault with that statement. There is another— 6459

The Court: The Court will permit no more post mortem.

Mr. Barshay: I take exception.

The Court: A long time back the Court made its ruling.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I ask to be heard upon this point, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Go ahead.

Mr. Talley: Counsel for defendant Weiss have subpoenaed certain D.D.4 records from the Police Department. They have not been produced and I am asking the District Attorney now if he has them in court and if he will permit the examination of them preliminary to adducing testimony with respect to them.

6460 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: The first I heard of any D.D.4's and 5's other than this. What D.D.4's and 5's have you reference to?

Mr. Talley: We want them in reference to the statements taken by the police in reference to this case from witnesses who 6461 have testified and we presume will be called to testify in this case.

Mr. Turkus: You don't understand what D.D.4's and 5's are, apparently, Judge Talley.

Mr. Talley: What is it?

Mr. Turkus: Apparently you have some misconception about D.D.4's and 5's.

Mr. Talley: No, we have not. We know exactly what they are.

Mr. Turkus: You mean you want the D.D.4's and 5's in the Rosen case?

6462 Mr. Talley: Yes, certainly.

Mr. Turkus: They are in court. We have them.

Mr. Talley: May we inspect them?

Mr. Turkus: Of course not.

Mr. Talley: Will the Court permit them to be marked for identification, and I request that the Court inspect them.

The Court: Mark for identification only.

(Folder marked People's Exhibit Z-19 for identification.)

Mr. Talley: May we have the number of papers contained in this folder counted now, preferably by the clerk of the court?

The Court: Is it much of a folder?

Mr. Turkus: It is. It is a substantial folder.

The Court: How many pages?

Mr. Turkus: I don't know.

The Court: No. We are not going to lose time on that.

Mr. Talley: Will the Court permit 6464 counsel to count the number of papers?

The Court: No, that carries an insinuation which is wholly uncalled for. I assume Mr. Turkus is a man of honor.

Mr. Turkus: These are Police Department records.

Mr. Talley: I ask they be counted so we will know how many of these separate sheets are in the folder.

The Court: The Court has ruled.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception to your Honor's ruling.

The Court: Anybody else wants to be 6465 heard?

Mr. Climenko: Yes, if your Honor pleases, merely for the record, if I may, your Honor. I should like to have marked for identification a subpoena duces tecum signed by your Honor and directed to Louis Valentine as Police Commissioner, calling for the production of those records which presumably have now been marked People's Exhibit Z-18 for identification.

The Court: All right, mark it.

6466 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

(Paper marked Defendants' Exhibit D for identification.)

Mr. Turkus: May the subpoena be marked in evidence, your Honor?

The Court: For identification. Bring back the jury.

(The jury returned to the court-room. The witness resumed the stand.)

6467 By Mr. Talley:

Q. Since you have been in the Bossert Hotel, Berger, with whom have you talked about this case? A. To no one.

Q. You went into the Bossert Hotel in June, 1941? A. That is right.

Q. And since June, 1941, up to this present 12th of November, 1941, you say you have talked to nobody about this case? A. In the Bossert Hotel. I answered that question, sir.

Q. I asked you whether you talked with any 6468 of them since you have been in the Bossert Hotel?

Mr Turkus: I object to it.

Q. I did not ask you whether you talked in the Bossert Hotel; I asked you since you have been there? A. You asked me if I spoke to anybody about this case in the Bossert Hotel.

Q. I beg pardon?

Mr. Turkus: Then there was a misunderstanding.

Q. Since you have been confined in the Bossert Hotel, under police guard, as a defendant in this Rosen case, with whom have you talked about this case, any place? A. To the District Attorney.

Q. Judge O'Dwyer? A. I did.

Q. Who else? A. Mr. Turkus, Mr. Klein.

Q. Who else? A. No one else.

Q. Did you talk to Captain Bals of the Police Department? A. I did not.

Q. Then the only ones that you talked to are 6470 those that you named, is that so? A. Talked to.

Q. Who was the first of those three that you talked to, Judge O'Dwyer? A. That is right.

Q. Was that in the District Attorney's office? A. That is right. Captain Bals was sitting there.

Q. And then how many times did you talk with him about this case? A. A couple of times.

Q. How many times did you talk with Mr. Turkus about your testimony in this case? A. A number of times.

Q. How many? A. A number of times. 6471

Q. How many? A. About three or four times.

Q. And how many times have you talked with Mr. Klein about this case? A. Klein was there too at the time.

Q. Klein was always with Mr. Turkus when he was talking to you? A. That is right.

Q. And you never talked to Mr. Klein in the absence of Mr. Turkus? A. Unless Mr. Turkus walked out of the office, or vice versa.

Q. Then your testimony is that you talked with Mr. Jacobs the same number of times that you talked with Mr. Turkus, is that right—

6472 Josephs, not Jacobs—you talked with Mr. Josephs the same number of times that you talked with Mr. Klein? A. I was not talking to Josephs; I was talking to Mr. Turkus.

Q. And who else? A. Quite a number of men in there. Some of them I didn't know.

Q. Didn't you mention Mr. Josephs? A. I mentioned Mr. Klein. Maybe Josephs was there, too, I don't know. There was a number of men there.

6473 Q. Did you ever talk with Mr. Klein without Mr. Josephs being present? A. Yes, if he walked out.

Q. How many times did you talk with Mr. Klein about your testimony in this case? A. When he was in and out? Repeat that question again, please.

Q. You know what I mean by "How many times," don't you? How often? A. Talked to whom?

Q. Mr. Klein. A. As many times as I spoke to Turkus, unless they walked out. I don't know 6474 how many times.

Q. You remember when this case commenced, don't you, the 15th of September? Do you remember when the trial began? A. That is right.

Q. Since that date have you talked with Mr. Klein of the District Attorney's office? A. I did.

Q. Didn't you talk to him while the jury was being picked in this case? A. I did.

Q. And Mr. Turkus was not present when you were talking to Mr. Klein? A. No.

Q. While the jury was being picked, was he? A. That is right.

6475

Q. But you just told us that you never talked to one without the other being present, didn't you? A. He spoke to me when I was before the Grand Jury alone.

Q. Do you want to change your testimony that you gave, that you never talked with Mr. Klein except in the presence of Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

6476

Q. About your testimony in this case? Do you want to change that?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Witness: Repeat that question.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. While this case was going on, after the selection of the jury was commenced, you testified before the Grand Jury, didn't you? A. I did.

6477

Q. And until this case commenced by the beginning of the selection of the jury, you had not testified before the Grand Jury, had you? A. I don't think I did.

Q. And up to that time you had never given a written statement to the District Attorney or to the Police Department, isn't that so? A. I never signed a statement.

Q. Did they ever take a statement from you in writing? A. What do you mean, take a statement from me in writing? What do you mean by that? Explain that to me, please.

6478 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. You do not know what that means? A. Will you explain it to me, please?

Q. You do not know what it means, is that right? A. I want to know what it means definitely before I answer.

Q. Do you say you do not know what it means?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That witness has repeated three times he wants 6479 to know what is meant by a statement.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you see a stenographer taking down any statements that you were making to Judge O'Dwyer, to Mr. Turkus, or to Mr. Klein, before you testified before the Grand Jury? A. I seen Turkus and Klein take notes. I don't know if it was stenography or not.

The Court: Any shorthand writer?

6480 The Witness: Not that I know of. I seen them taking down notes.

Q. Did you see any stenographer taking down what you were saying, the same as this court stenographer is taking it down? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever sign a statement for the District Attorney? A. I did not.

Q. You were asked to sign it several times, were you not? A. I was not asked.

Q. Had you given any written statement or signed any statement up to the very day you went before the Grand Jury?

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to. It is repetitious.

The Court: That is what he said.

Mr. Talley: Is the objection sustained?

The Court: I say that is what he said.

Mr. Talley: I would like to have it again, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: It is repetitious.

Mr. Talley: I have a right to be repetitious on cross-examination.

The Court: Who is ruling? I thought 6482
I was.

Mr. Turkus: That is law I never heard of before Judge Talley pronounced it.

The Court: That is said in good humor. The objection is sustained, and I guess that is what counts.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You refused to testify before the Grand Jury unless you got immunity, didn't you? A. I don't know what you mean by that, definitely.

Q. Don't know what I mean definitely? Do 6483 you know what immunity from prosecution is, to be free? You know what that means? A. I have an idea. I just want the explanation definitely so I can explain it definitely. You explain it to me. I ain't sure of it. I have an idea of it but I want to know definitely.

Q. I will tell you definitely. Immunity is given by a District Attorney against his being prosecuted for a crime which he admits commiting. Is that plain?

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. That is not plain at all.

6484

Mr. Talley: It is not for you: it is for the witness.

Mr. Turkus: I don't care about that. That is bad law. It is an improper question. It is incorrect law.

The Court: Let the question be finished.

Mr. Turkus: It was finished. Is that clear?

Mr. Talley: The question is finished.

6485

The Court: There was a little confusion in pronouns. The way your question is phrased, it would keep the District Attorney from being prosecuted. You better re-frame it.

Mr. Talley: This witness knows so well what immunity is that it is carrying coals to Newcastle to explain it. He knows better than you and I—

The Witness: That certainly ain't true.

The Court: Is it the fact, that you have been given immunity from being prosecuted for the Rosen murder as the finger man by being permitted to testify before the Grand Jury without signing a waiver of immunity? Did you so understand?

6486

The Witness: I understand now.

The Court: You understand now?

The Witness: I understand that now. Ask me straight and I will tell you. Ask me what immunity means. Tell me what it is. I will tell you. I am here to tell the truth and I am telling it.

The Court: Please—

Q. Don't you think I speak plain English? A. You are pretty tricky about your questions.

Q. Is that so? A. Speak to me plain, will you, please?

Q. Am I not speaking to you plain? A. A whole lot of tricking is right behind you. I am straight. I am telling you the truth.

Q. When did you become straight? A. After I spoke to the Judge.

Q. And not before? A. I was not. I am telling the truth now. I probably lied before. 6488

Q. You were a crook, a strong-arm man, and a murderer, before you spoke to the District Attorney? A. No murderer. I was a strong-arm man; I was a slugger; and that's about all, and a cutter.

Q. That is about all? A. After I spoke to the Judge I told him I am going to tell the truth, and I am telling the truth. You are the one—

Q. You put your finger on Max Rubin, though, didn't you, before you spoke to the District Attorney? A. I did, and so did I put my finger on Rosen, and if Mendy knew him, why the hell did he take me over there to show me who he is? Why didn't he go himself if he knew? I wish the hell I had never gone over there, damn it. He knew him, didn't he? 6489

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases—

The Witness: Why the hell did Lepke tell me to point him out, God damn him? Didn't he know him?

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases—

The Court: This must stop.

The Witness: He knew him so well,

6490 why did he want to implicate me? If he knew him, he made sure I'd be implicated, and you know that, don't you? You look me straight in the eyes and tell me if he didn't know that. If that man you claim knew that man, then why did Lepke tell me to go and point him out to Mendy, if Mendy knew him? Why?

The Court: Please sit back in your chair and stop talking.

6491 The Witness: Answer me that question.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor please, by reason of the apparent uncontrolled—

The Witness: I wish he never done it. I wouldn't be here now.

Mr. Climenko: I repeat my application, if I may—

The Witness: And you know it.

The Court: Keep quiet.

Mr. Climenko: By reason of the fact that it is apparently impossible to control

6492 this witness through the admonition of the Court, and on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: The Court takes this view, that the witness was twitted. No objection was made to the twitting by counsel for any of the defendants. That was the time to object. That is what provoked this. It was a reaction which might have been foreseen. It must not happen again, Mr. Witness. You behave yourself in the future and just answer questions.

The Witness: I will try, the best of my ability.

The Court: If you sit back in your chair and relax, instead of leaning forward and feeling resentful, this is less likely to occur.

The Witness: He is trying to trick me into something.

The Court: Just forget that. The incident is closed. Motion denied.

Mr. Climenko: Exception. May I state 6494 for the record, without desiring in any way to engage in any controversy as to what your Honor has said, that I have been paying quick earnest attention to the proceedings here, that I did not notice that the witness had been affected as your Honor said.

The Court: No post-mortems. Don't take this on the record at all. Now, please sit down. The cross-examination will be resumed. The Court has ruled and you have taken an exception. 6495

Mr. Climenko: Yes.

The Court: There will be no speech making.

Mr. Climenko: I have no desire to make any speeches. I take my exception.

Q. Berger, you refused to testify before the Grand Jury unless you were given immunity, isn't that so? A. That is not so.

Q. You were given immunity, weren't you?

Mr. Turkus: He has already answered that.

6496

A. I did not refuse it.

Q. Was it offered to you? A. What was offered?

Q. The immunity that you say you did not refuse?

Mr. Turkus: I object. The question is confusing unless the offer is explained as emanating from what source.

The Court: It is beyond the proper
6497 scope of cross-examination. Once he admits that he has received immunity, that is all that pertains to this situation. Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You refused to testify in this court before this jury unless you were given immunity in this Rosen case, isn't that the fact?

The Court: Yes or no.

A. I don't know definitely what counsel means.
6498 I went before the Grand Jury.

The Court: Did you say that you would not testify before the Grand Jury unless without a waiver of immunity?

The Witness: I did not say that.

Mr. Talley: That is not my question, sir. The Court misapprehended.

The Court: I will put it in a different way.

Mr. Talley: My questions is—I will put it the same way. My question is this: Did you not refuse to give testimony in this trial unless you were brought before the Grand Jury and given immunity?

The Court: Yes or no.

A. No.

Q. Isn't that the reason you were taken before the Grand Jury after this trial had commenced?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He has twice said no to that.

The Court: Sustained. He cannot tell why he was taken before the Grand Jury. 6500

Mr. Talley: I except, your Honor.

The Court: That is the District Attorney's business.

Q. You knew that if you were brought before the Grand Jury and gave testimony about this case, you could not be prosecuted for it, did you not? A. I did.

Q. And you were so advised by lawyers to that effect, were you not? A. I was.

Q. And was your lawyer, Mr. Gardiner, with you when you came over and testified before the Grand Jury? A. He was not. 6501

Q. Was it your suggestion or was it your lawyer's that you be taken before the Grand Jury?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. That embraces an improper state of facts not testified by this or any other witness.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6502 Q. Who was your lawyer at the time you testified before the Grand Jury? A. I had no lawyer in the Grand Jury only Mr. Klein.

Q. Mr. Klein, the Assistant District Attorney? A. That is right.

Q. He was your lawyer?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. That is not the testimony.

6503 A. No, no.

Mr. Talley: That is what he said, he had no lawyer except Mr. Klein.

Mr. Turkus: He did not.

Q. What did you say?

Mr. Turkus: I can understand why the witness characterized your question.

Q. What did you say? A. Will you please ask me direct questions and don't be tricky about it?
6504 I am telling the truth. I said Mr. Klein asked me. I did not say he was my lawyer. He asked me before the Grand Jury. He questioned me.

The Court: He was the Assistant District Attorney who conducted that examination?

The Witness: He was the one who was speaking to me in front of the Grand Jury.

The Court: Counsel wants to know if he was your lawyer?

The Witness: Absolutely not. That is ridiculous.

6505

Q. Didn't you say that he was? A. Was he? I am asking you. I told you who my lawyer was, is today, Mr. Gardner.

Q. Yes. A. Klein questioned me in front of the Grand Jury. He ain't my lawyer.

Q. It was Mr. Gardiner who advised you about getting immunity?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. That is repetitious. We have gone over that.

The Court: Sustained.

6506

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. It was Mr. Gardiner who arranged that you get immunity, wasn't it, before you testified?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You charged this same Mr. Gardiner with stealing $600 of your money, didn't you, in a proceeding in the City Court in the City of New York, in the Borough of Manhattan?

6507

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That is entirely incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception. It seems to me I have a right to show his freedom of accusing people of crime. I should not be stopped.

The Court: Don't argue after the ruling.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6508 Q. You were sued for legal services by Mr. Gardiner's firm, were you not, in the City Court of the City of New York?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

The Witness: Let me answer that question, will you, please?

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: I except.

The Witness: I will tell you who told

6509 me to sue him.

The Court: No.

Q. And you made an affidavit that you did not owe him any money, didn't you?

The Court: Counselor, you are persistently violating the Court's rulings.

Mr. Talley: I am not, sir.

The Court: I beg your pardon, the Court rules that you are.

Mr. Talley: May I have an answer?

The Court: Please don't do it any more.

6510 Mr. Talley: Your Honor ruled that I can ask him about papers, affidavits.

The Court: Will you please proceed with the trial and come to order.

Mr. Talley: I am in order, sir.

The Court: Now you are shouting at the Court.

Mr. Talley: No, I am not shouting at the Court or anybody else. That is my natural voice.

The Court: You are distinctly rude and uncivil. The Court refuses to be goaded to the extent that you are obviously trying to goad the Court at this or any other time. The Court will be patient to the utmost and take it on both cheeks from counsel. Now please proceed.

Mr. Talley: I won't proceed until I deny that I am trying to goad this Court into anything. I am cross-examining this witness and I am cross-examining him in accordance with the rules of evidence strictly and I have no time or disposition to be 6512 goading the Court. It is this jury that I am concerned with at this present moment.

The Court: I know the whole speech is for the jury. Proceed.

Mr. Talley. Exception.

The Court: It is disorderly and it would not occur if there were no jury.

Mr. Talley: My conduct would be precisely the same, sir, jury or no jury.

The Court: I think you are prejudicing your case before this jury.

Mr. Talley: We are taking the re- 6513 sponsibility for that, sir, and I take an exception to your Honor's statements.

Q. Now, Berger, we will get back to Friday, September 11th, yes, September 11th, 1936. You testified that you got in touch with the defendant Lepke at his office in 200 Fifth Avenue. Do you remember that? A. I do. I walked up there.

Q. What time did you get there? A. After five o'clock.

Q. After five o'clock? A. Some time after five.

6514 Q. In the evening? A. That is right.

Q. And how long did you talk with him there? A. With whom?

Q. Whom do you think?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. It is not what he thinks.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6515 Q. Whom did you say you met at 20 Fifth Avenue? A. Lepke.

Q. Don't you know that I am asking you how long you talked with him there?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. There are four questions that could have been done in one.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. How long did you talk with Lepke on that Friday afternoon at five o'clock? A. At where? Up in 200 Fifth Avenue? Is that what you mean?

6516

Q. You know what I mean. I will repeat it—200 Fifth Avenue. A. About five to ten minutes.

Q. Then you came down in the street, didn't you, out of the building? A. That is right.

Q. And then you took the car? A. Cab.

Q. Cab, and you went where? A. Went down to Suffolk and Grand Streets.

Q. Did you stop at Suffolk and Grand Streets? A. We did.

Q. How long did you stay there? A. We got out of the car, out of the cab.

Q. When you got out of the cab, how long did you stay at Suffolk and Grand Street? A. He paid the cab and we started walking. Lepke paid the cab and we walked down.

Q. Where did you walk? A. Down Suffolk Street.

Q. Where did you stop? A. Off the corner of Broome Street he met some man. He told this man to go over to Clinton and Broome and tell Mendy, "I want to see him."

6518

Q. Then did you wait there? A. No, we walked up a bit, turned around on Broome Street. We walked up a bit and we seen Mendy was coming towards us.

Q. Was he coming towards you on Broome Street? A. That is right.

Q. What time would you say that was, 5:30? A. To the best of my recollection it would be.

The Court: You mean estimate?

The Witness: Best of my recollection it would be around—

6519

The Court: Did you time it?

The Witness: I absolutely did not time it.

The Court: We will take the noon recess now until 1:30. Everybody remain seated. Gentlemen of the jury, remember the Court's previous admonitions in all respects. First the witness will leave. Then the jury by the other door. Defendants are remanded.

The Court: Mr. Climenko is asking as to the closing hour. The question of court hours is always for the Court's discretion.

6520 It is not even reviewable. The Court may sit as early as eight o'clock in the morning and as late at night as it decrees, but the case has been dragging terribly. We are between the devil and the deep sea. I know that this is a case of unusual stress. We have to be mindful of the ability of counsel to try the case with a minimum of strain. We also have to be mindful of the necessity of the jury being able to absorb and digest
6522 That enables the jury to get its daily exercise, not be fatigued, enables counsel to confer with clients before they are taken over to Manhattan, and enables the defendants to get their meal hour in accordance with the time which the Federal authorities prefer. Unless there is objection to this upon the religious grounds, the Court will go along with that idea. Ten to four and a session of ten to four on Saturdays. That is also advisable for this reason: For the jury to be for two days alone means boredom and a temptation to talk about the case in violation of the Court's instructions. There is a danger about that. I don't think it should occur. Keep the jury busy six days a week and one day of idleness is just about as much at this time as a patient jury can stand. Think it over.

(Whereupon a recess is taken to 1:30 P. M.)

6524

AFTERNOON SESSION—TRIAL RESUMED

PAUL BERGER, a witness in behalf of The People, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Cross-examination by Mr. Talley (continued):

Q. We were speaking about Friday night, September 11th, 1936, after you say you met Mendy Weiss, the defendant Weiss, at Suffolk and Grand Street. A. What is that? 6525

Q. After you met Weiss, as you said, at Suffolk and Grand. A. I didn't say Suffolk and Grand, if you please.

Q. Where did you say you met him? A. On Broome Street.

Q. What other street? A. Off Suffolk Street.

Q. Then you went to eat, didn't you? A. After Lepke told me to point him out to him.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike that out as not responsive.

The Court: Objection sustained.

6526 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor again admonish this witness to answer questions yes or no, if the answer calls for that?

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: We take an exception on behalf of the defendant Weiss.

The Court: It should not be required to explain a ruling. I think it is a fair 6527 answer to the question, even though not yes or no. We will let it go at that, because it fairly takes in the time that counsel wants.

Mr. Talley: I except.

Q. What restaurant did you go to? A. On Broome Street and Clinton.

Q. Do you know the name of it? A. I do not.

Q. Was it Seltz's? A. I am not sure.

Q. Was it Bloom's? A. Absolutely not Bloom's; that is the candy store around the corner, a hangout for them. It was a restaurant.

6528 Q. Do you know Seltz's Restaurant? A. I am not sure that is the name, but that was a restaurant.

Q. I am asking you do you know the restaurant you say you and Weiss went to? A. I am not sure if that is the name. There is a restaurant on the corner there.

Q. Do you know the name of it? A. I did not know at that time.

Q. How far is that corner on which the restaurant is from Clinton and Delancey Street? A. One block.

Q. And there is a police station at Clinton and Delancy, isn't there? A. That is right.

Q. At what time did you go into this restaurant? A. Around six o'clock I would say.

Q. How long did you stay in the restaurant? A. A couple of hours.

Q. That would bring it up to about 8 o'clock, would it? A. It would.

Q. At eight o'clock you left the restaurant in an automobile? A. No, sir, he went outside and there were some people there that he was talking to. They stood there for some time. 6530

Q. Did you get into the automobile? A. After he spoke to these people.

Q. How long did it take him to talk to these people? A. He spoke to them, not long.

Q. How long did it take him to speak? A. Some time wasted.

Q. What was wasted? A. Speaking to him, that is right.

Q. You were in a hurry to get to Rosen's place to point Rosen out, weren't you? A. I was not.

Q. This corner restaurant, which you say you don't know whether it is Seltz's or not, what kind of a restaurant is it? A. It was—you get regular meals in there. 6531

Q. It was not a cafeteria? A. No, sir, it was not a cafeteria.

Q. It was a regular restaurant, with tables and chairs, where people sit at tables? A. That is right.

Q. You are sure it was on the corner, are you? A. Positive.

Q. Which corner was it on? A. On Broome and Clinton, on the same side as the station house is.

6532 Paul Berger—For People—Cross

Q. On the same side? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On the same block? A. On the same block.

Q. That is the northeast corner, isn't it? A. If that is what it is, I am not definite on east or west.

Q. Do you know? A. No, sir, it is on the same side where the station house is, wherever that is, is it.

Q. Is it toward downtown or uptown? A. What do you mean, uptown or downtown?

6533 Q. I want to know whether it is the uptown corner or the downtown corner, you know which is uptown and downtown in that location? A. Uptown and downtown—that is on the East Side.

Q. You don't know whether it is the north or the south corner? A. I don't; I could tell you the corner it is on. The same side and the same block as the station house, on the corner of Broome and Clinton, whatever you want to call it, go ahead, that is the place.

Q. What time was it when you got into the automobile? A. It was getting dark then.

6534 Q. Would you say it was 8:30? A. Maybe more than that.

Q. Later than that? A. Maybe, I am not definite on time.

Q. Was it about 9? A. I would say it was getting dark.

Q. Would you say it was more than 8:30? Now I am asking you if, to your best recollection, that would be about 9 o'clock.

Mr. Turkus: I object; he has answered it was getting dark. May I point out that the time was predicated on a surmise, anyway, from the start?

Mr. Talley: I object to that statement on the part of the District Attorney. I am trying to find out from this witness what time he did these things he says.

The Court: If I recall correctly, he testified under cross-examination before that he did not look at any watch or clock. This is purely an estimate.

Mr. Talley: I want his estimate. I am 6536 entitled to his estimate. I want to know what time he did the things he claims to have done.

The Court: Of course, that all goes to the accuracy of his memory.

Mr. Talley: I intend to have the jury pass on that. I have a right to probe into this matter and ask under cross-examination,—

The Court: Are you telling the Court?

Mr. Talley: No, I am asserting my rights as I view the law on the subject. 6537
It is my duty and obligation.

The Court: There are ways of doing these things.

Mr. Talley: Yes, they are very curious, some of the ways.

The Court: I notice that. I am learning all the time. Proceed.

Q. Are you sure it was getting dark? A. Yes, sir, positively.

Q. Wasn't it dark when you got into the automobile? A. I said it was getting dark.

Q. Wasn't it actually dark? A. Well, about. It was not actually dark when I got in there.

Q. Was it dark before you got out of there? A. That is right.

Q. When you drove away from this place? A. What place?

Q. When you drove away from this place were the lights lighted? A. What place?

Q. This restauarant. A. I am not positive.

Q. Were the lights lit in the restaurant before 6539 you left? A. I think they were.

The Court: Do you remember?
The Witness: I am not positive.

Q. What kind of a car did you get into? A. I am not definite; I know I got into an automobile.

Q. Do you know what make it was? A. I am not sure.

Q. Do you know what type of car it was? A. I will not say definitely that I remember.

Q. What is your best recollection? A. I don't 6540 definitely remember.

Q. Was it—you know what a limousine is? A. An open car?

Q. No, a limousine is a closed car. Was it a closed car type? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You owned a car yourself? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is your car a closed type or open? A. A closed type.

Q. This car you drove away from this place. Clinton and Broome, whatever corner it was, that was a closed car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have been running automobiles for a good many years, haven't you? A. Yes, sir.

6541

Q. You cannot give us any better description of this car you got into when you left the restaurant? A. It was a closed type of car; I am not definite as to the make of the car.

Q. You drove then to Brooklyn? A. Yes.

Q. Where did you get out of that car? A. When I got out?

Q. Where did you stop, when you did stop, in Brooklyn? A. You mean the first stop?

Q. Yes. A. Saratoga and Livonia.

6542

Q. How long did you stay there? A. Who stood there?

Q. Were the lights lit when you got to Saratoga and Livonia? A. Absolutely.

Q. Then it was quite dark? A. Yes, sir, dark.

Q. All the way over to Brooklyn the lights were lit in the street and shops, weren't they? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What time did you get to Saratoga and Livonia? A. To the best of my recollection it would be around 9:30 o'clock.

6543

Q. Then, when did you get out of the car? A. I didn't; Mendy got out of the car.

Q. Did he come back to the car? A. He went into a candy store, and when he came out of the candy store he went in the car.

Q. You are not referring to Rosen's? A. No, sir, the corner of Livonia and Saratoga candy store.

Q. How long was he there? A. A couple of minutes.

Q. Then he came back and got into the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You drove from that place to where? A. To Livonia—

Mr. Turkus: (Interrupting) I object. That is not the testimony, that he drove.

Q. Who did drive the car? A. Mendy, I told you, I didn't drive the car.

Q I am not asking you,—I am asking you if Mendy did not drive the car. A. Mendy Weiss did drive the car.

Q. Where did you go from there? A. To Livonia and Sackman Street.

6545 Q. What time was it when you got there? A. To the best of my recollection it would be between 9:30 and 10 o'clock; only a few minutes from Livonia and Saratoga to Livonia and Sackman.

Q. When you got there did you both get out of the car? A. We did not. Mendy got out. I saw him talk to Capone, and Capone came back with Mendy and said, "Hello" to me.

Q. Then did he get in the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then he drove some place else? A. Yes, sir, me and Mendy drove away.

6546 Q. Where did you go? A. To some corner on Sutter Avenue.

Q. Did you both get out of the car? A. That is right.

Q. What time was it when you got out of the car around Sutter Avenue? A. It would be around 10 o'clock, I would say. I am not definite about the minutes. I don't remember to the minute. I was not watching time.

Q. The lights were lighted in the shops around Sutter Avenue? A. Definitely, yes.

Q. It is a busy place there? A. I would not say very busy.

Q. There were penty of people around there on a summer night? A. Yes.

Q. What did you do when you got out of the car? A. Mendy says, "Come on, I will show you where the candy store is, and see if you can see Joe Rosen there."

Q. Then you told us you saw Joe Rosen and pointed him out to Mendy? A. I walked to the opposite side of the candy store and he said, "That is the candy store. See if you can see him." As it happens, Joe Rosen walked out 6548 and he happened to fix the papers on the stand and the jars in the window. I said, "That is him."

Q. What time was that? A. As I said before, how long does it take from here to the candy store—a minute or two minutes.

Q. Was it between 9:30 and 10? A. Around 10 o'clock.

Q. After you pointed out Rosen and said, "That is him," what did you do then? A. Then he says to me, "Go back to the car."

Q. After you left Sutter, or wherever you had 6549 stopped, where did you go? A. You mean after I pointed him out to Mendy and Mendy came back to the car?

Q. Yes. A. Downtown.

Q. Whereabouts? A. Dropped me off at Broome and Clinton.

Q. He let you off at Broome and Clinton? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that the last you saw of him that night? A. That is right.

Q. Then you went to Manhattan, the Borough of Manhattan? A. That is in the Borough of Manhattan, Broome and Clinton, isn't it?

6550

Q. You went uptown, didn't you? A. That is right.

Q. Now, at what time was it when you got to Broome and Clinton where you say he let you off? A. Around—To the best of my recollection it would be around eleven o'clock.

Q. Where did you go from there? A. I went to pick my own car up.

Q. Where had you left it? A. I think I left it at 12th Street and Broadway, parked there.

6551

Q. Now, the next thing you heard about Rosen you say was when you read in the Monday morning News that he had been shot? A. That is right.

Q. You knew he was the man you had pointed out? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not leave town, did you? A. I did not.

Q. And nobody told you to leave town? A. No, sir.

Q. But you became busy and tried to get Max Rubin out of town? A. I did not.

6552

Q. Nobody at any time told you to get out of town, did they? A. No, sir.

Q. Broadway and 12th Street, you say, you parked your car that night? A. I presume so.

Q. That afternoon? A. That morning, not that afternoon.

Q. You left it there until 11 or 12 o'clock that night? A. Around that time.

Q. Where was your place of business then, in September of 1936? A. I think it was in 714 Broadway.

Q. What street is that? A. Off—I think it was near Washington Place.

Q. How far was your place of business from 12th Street and Broadway, where you say you parked your car? A. About four or five blocks.

Q. Had you ever parked it there, at Broadway and 12th Street, before that day? A. Sure, I think I did.

Q. Why didn't you park it in front of your business? A. The reason for that was I did not want the car to get banged up. Sometimes there was no room to park in front of my place of business.

Q. Wasn't there danger of it being banged up 6554 at Broadway and 12th Street? A. That is a parking lot.

Q. Were you in the parking lot? A. I think I was.

Q. You think you were? A. There is a parking lot right on 12th Street off Broadway; that is where the union used to be there at one time.

Q. On this day did you park your car in the parking lot? A. I think I did.

Q. At Broadway and 12th Street? A. I think I did.

Q. You think you did? A. I parked there 6555
many times.

Q. What is your best recollection of this particular day, the 11th of September, 1936?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as repetitious.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Have you any recollection now that you did park your car in the parking space at 12th Street and Broadway on this day, September 11th? A. I think I did.

6556

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the answer as not responsive.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Witness: I happen to know the man that owns that lot. The Union used to be over there; park there many times.

Mr. Cuff: May we have this outburst stricken out?

The Court: The supplemental answer

6557 is stricken out.

Q. Did you go home directly from this place where you parked your car at 12th Street and Broadway? A. I did.

Q. What time did you get home? A. I cannot definitely say; probably it was after 12.

Q. Do you remember if your wife was home? A. Positively.

Q. Now, when was it you pointed Rubin out to Schlermer? A. It was around the month of September.

Q. September of 1936? A. No.

6558

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Q. What year in the month of September? A. I think it was 1937.

Q. Just about a year after you had pointed Rosen out? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was it you pointed Rubin out to Seymour Magoon? A. You mean when Mendy told me to point him out to Seymour Magoon?

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the question he asked and that the witness be directed to answer my question.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: I think the witness wants to be enlightened so he can answer you correctly.

Mr. Talley: There is nothing difficult about his answering me correctly when I ask him when he pointed out a man whose life he thought was to be taken.

The Court: You have had the last word. That settles it. But the Court's 6560 ruling stands.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. When did you point out Max Rubin to Seymour Magoon? A. Around eight or nine months after that.

Q. Eight or nine months after September of 1937, when you pointed him out to Schlermer? A. That is correct.

Q. You made the plans on both of these occasions for pointing out Rubin to both of these men? 6561

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is not his testimony.

Mr. Talley: I have a right to ask questions on cross-examination which are not in the testimony at all.

The Witness: I made plans at the direction of Mendy.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the latter part.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

6562 Q. You told us that in the case of Magoon you saw Rubin standing on the other side of the street and you pointed Rubin out to him. Do you remember that? A. That is correct.

Q. Will you tell us again what you told Magoon? A. That Rubin was on the other side of the street.

Q. You stand up and tell us what you did. A. I went over to Magoon, I spotted him 15 or 20 feet away from me, when I saw him on the other 6563 side of the street. I walked over to him and I said, "On the other side, the fellow with the stiff neck, standing with another man."

Q. Then you walked past him? A. Who?

Q. Magoon. A. That is right.

Q. You told him so out of the corner of your mouth, just as you are indicating? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not want anybody to see you were speaking to Magoon? A. That is right, to a certain extent, yes.

Q. When you were arranging to point Rubin out to Schlermer, you arranged that you and 6564 Rubin were to have a meal in the Childs Restaurant? A. That is right.

Q. That was your suggestion, wasn't it, about taking him to Childs Restaurant? That was, nobody suggested that you do that on that particular night, did they? A. No, sir.

Q. That was on your own? A. On my own.

Q. Then you went and you sat with him for about one hour in Childs Restaurant? A. I did.

Q. You had arranged that while you were eating with this man, that Schlermer was to be in the restaurant? A. That is right.

Q. You arranged with him that he would know it was Rubin because you were going to sit at a table eating with Rubin? A. That is right.

Q. How long did you sit with Rubin in Childs Restaurant? A. I would say about an hour.

Q. You saw Schlermer there? A. Positively.

Q. Did you leave Schlermer behind you when you came out? A. When I walked out with Rubin?

Q. Schlermer was still there? A. That is right.

Q. Then after you got Rubin out of the restaurant, where did you go? A. I left. 6566

Q. You left him there? A. Left him where?

Q. At the restaurant where you had been dining, outside of it. A. I left Rubin?

Q. Yes, did you? A. I did.

Q. When you did that, you knew, you told us, that Rubin was to be killed? A. I did.

Q. Yet you did not hesitate to sit down and eat with that man in Childs Restaurant that night, did you?

Mr. Turkus: I object. 6567

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. And was it after you had pointed him out in the manner you described to Schlermer that you borrowed $200 from him? A. I did.

Q. And you never paid him back, did you? A. No, sir, I gave that money to Mendy, that money Mendy got.

Q. Not up to this day? A. That money Mendy got.

Q. You have been receiving $150 a week from 6568 the business you conducted at 599 Broadway since June of this year, haven't you? A. I did.

Q. That is $600 a month? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you paid Rubin back that $200 since June, 1941?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: Objection sustained.

6569 Q. Why didn't you pay him back that money you got since June, 1941, since you have been in the Hotel Bossert? A. Pay Rubin back money?

Q. Why didn't you pay back Rubin? A. He did not as me. Maybe I would not pay him if he did ask me. That is the truth. Maybe I would not. What more do you want to know, anything? Have you anything to show that he gave me $200? Maybe I would give it to him back and maybe I would not.

The Court: No more of that.

6570

Q. Yes, you said that several times. Berger, you would not hesitate to lie to save yourself from prison, would you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. What is the question?

Q. (Question repeated by reporter.) A. No.

Q. Of course, you would not hesitate to lie to save yourself from the electric chair, would you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. It may not have been made clear to the witness.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. Maybe I would.

Q. What is your answer? A. I said maybe I would.

Q. Maybe you would or would not? A. Common sense—anybody would probably lie to save themselves from trouble. 6572

Q. That includes you? A. Certainly.

Q. When you pointed Rubin out to Magoon, you knew he was being guarded by policemen? A. I did.

Q. Did it occur to you that if Rubin were shot at, the policemen who were guarding him might also be shot? A. Probably.

Mr. Talley: I have no further questions.

Mr. Rosenthal: My motion is directed along the same line I previously made about the other witness, and as has been outlined in my original motion for a severance. Now I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial, and a severance, on behalf of Capone, on the ground the evidence is prejudicial to his rights. 6573

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Redirect examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Weiss's lawyer asked you if you would 6574 lie to save your skin and you answered, in substance,— Now, I am asking you did you lie in this case? A. Absolutely not.

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Witness: (repeating) Absolutely not.

6575 Q. Weiss's lawyer brought out something about Bloom's candy store. Do you remember? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you tell him that that was a hang-out? A. Yes, sir, the whole mob used to come there.

Q. Tell me who they were—

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike the last answer out on behalf of the defendant Buchalter as not binding on him.

Mr. Talley: May I also make that motion with respect to the defendant Weiss. And, with regard to Bloom's candy store, 6576 I was trying to ascertain from the witness whether he had gone into Bloom's or to Seltz's. There is nothing on direct or on cross about this being a hang-out for anybody. I also object on the ground it is not proper redirect examination.

The Court: You mean the restaurant at Broome and Clinton?

The Turkus: Judge Talley inquired of the witness. This was a candy store.

The Court: What address?

Mr. Turkus: I don't know the address. Your Honor may ask the witness. This is something he elicited on cross-examination and I want to inquire about.

Mr. Cuff: It was as to the identity of the restaurant he went in.

By the Court:

Q. What is the address? A. On Clinton Street, right next to the station house.

Q. Is it on the same block as the restaurant? A. Certainly. 6578

The Court: Just what is before the Court now? Did Judge Talley move to strike it out?

Mr. Talley: Yes, I do.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Tailey: Exception.

Q. Tell me who used to hang out in Bloom's candy store?

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as not binding upon the defendant Buchalter. 6579

Mr. Talley: I object on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not proper redirect examination.

The Court: He can be asked only what persons he saw hanging out there from time to time.

Mr. Turkus: That is it.

Mr. Cuff: And we have an objection to that..

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Cuff: Exception.

A. Mendy—Farvel.

6580 Q. Do you mean Farvel Cohen? A. Yes, sir. Charlie the Bug.

Q. That is Charlie the Bug, Charlie Workman, known as Charlie the Bug? A. Yes, sir. Toots—

Q. Was Toots Feinstein? A. Yes, sir. Al Tannenbaum. Red Levine.

Q. Do you remember any more? A. Farvel, Specht.

Q. Do you know his right name or other alias? A. Spick.

6581 Q. Was that big or little Farvel? A. Big Farvel. His name is Siegel.

Q. Do you remember any others? A. A fellow named Big Mannie; we used to call him Culky Mannie.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out as not binding on the defendant Buchalter, in no way involving him.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

6582 The Court: Motion denied. Gentlemen of the jury, the Court will charge you at the proper time as to the application to persons to whom a specific point of the evidence applies or may be considered as applying. The reason the Court cannot charge at this time is that the Court rules, up to date, only on what has been connected up to date. It does not know what yet may be connected with other defendants and those who have been directly involved on specific points of evidence. I trust you are of sufficient intelligence to follow all this evidence in all its ramifications and can properly apply it in accordance with the Court's instructions at the proper time.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. When Lepke's lawyer questioned you about eating with Mendy Weiss in a restaurant before going over on your mission with Mendy, you said that Farvel ate there with both of you, do you remember? A. Yes, sir. 6584

Q. By Farvel, do you mean Farvel Cohen? A. Yes, sir, Farvel Cohen.

Q. Weiss' lawyer brought out about a concern known as the Berger Clothing Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You told him that the real president was Mendy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Mendy Weiss the real president of the Berger Clothing Company? A. That is right.

Mr. Cuff: I object to that as calling for a conclusion and improper. He cannot say that. 6585

The Court: He cannot say that. That is a conclusion, but he can state who he understood to be the real boss.

Mr. Cuff: I object to that, too.

The Court: Objection overruled. He has given the impression, from cross-examination, that he was only a paper officer.

Mr. Cuff: May I take an exception to your Honor's statement and suggestion.

6586 Paul Berger—For People—Redirect

Q. Further, in response to Weiss' lawyer's question, you said that on paper you were a partner, do you recall that? A. Yes, sir, on paper.

Q. Did you have knowledge about who was actually getting the money from the Berger Clothing Company?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

6587 The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you know who was actually getting the money?

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. That's right, Mendy.

By the Court:

6588 Q. Did you see him get it? A. I gave it to him, plenty of times.

By Mr Turkus:

Q. Lepke's lawyer asked you about making a visit to a law office at 51 Chambers Street, Manhattan, and you responded, didn't you, that you went there by instructions of Mendy Weiss? A. That is correct.

Q. In substance, you were asked by counsel for Lepke, "Did you tell it to any lawyer in that building, or any building in this universe, that Weinstein was the one who told Danny Fields to leave town, did you? A. Can you tell me the name of the lawyer?", and the Court pressed you for a yes or no answer? A. That is right.

Q. By whose instructions did you go up to see that lawyer? A. By Mendy's.

Mr. Talley: I object.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception. 6590

Q. Did you tell that particular lawyer that Weinstein was the one who told Danny Fields to leave town, did you tell that to the lawyer? A. That is right; they were the instructions of Mendy that Danny Fields was up there, too. He told me to tell one thing with another that was not so. That is what we done.

Q. You mean when you were up there Danny Fields was also up there? A. Yes, sir; I did not want to go there but Mendy forced me to tell him about everything that was going on in the union office, tell about the bonus he got from Hillman for $25,000 for Lepke after the strike. 6591

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike that out.

The Court: That is not re onsive, the latter part. Strike it out.

Mr. Barshay: I ask that the jury be instructed to disregard it.

The Court: So instructed.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor admonish this witness so he will understand not to make speeches from this witness stand?

6592 Paul Berger—For People—Redirect

The Witness: That is what happened.

The Court: I have repeatedly admonished him. I admonish him again to just answer questions and no more.

Q. Answer these questions if they can be answered yes or no, answer them yes or no. At the time that you were up to the lawyer's office was Danny Fields there—this particular lawyer at 51 Chambers Street?

6593

Mr. Barshay: I object on the ground it has already been answered two or three times.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge who sent Danny Fields to the lawyer's office?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: It calls for a yes or no answer. Objection overruled.

6594 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was it? A. Mendy Weiss.

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

By the Court:

Q. Were you there? A. I was. I know what was told, too.

6595

Q. You heard it? A. I was there. Whatever I was to say was what Danny had to say. That was done for the purpose to scare off—to tell him to come across with the money—that is what it was done for.

Mr. Barshay: I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: Hadn't you better move to strike out the answer?

6596

The Court: Counsel hesitates— The Court, on its own motion, strikes out the latter part of the answer as not responsive, and instructs the jury to disregard it. The motion is denied for a mistrial.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Were you asked this question by counsel for Lepke and did you make the following answer, at page 1844:

"Q. Did you ask Mendy to drive you to where your car was? A. I did.

6597

"Q. He refused? A. He had to see somebody."

Mr. Cuff: I object to that as already part of the record.

The Court: Objection overruled. I have allowed both sides to do it within reason. The Court is really fair, notwithstanding what you say.

Q. Did you, in substance, make those answers in reply to questions I just read to you? A. What do you mean?

6598 Q. I mean by that, did Mendy Weiss tell you when you asked him to take you to where your car was parked, after you had come back to the East Side, did he refuse, saying he had to see somebody? A. That is correct.

Q. Did he tell you who that somebody was? A. No, sir.

Q. One of the lawyers, I don't remember which one it was, asked you whether or not $2,000. was received by you from Weinstein.

6599 Were you asked that by one of the lawyers on cross-examination? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did that $2,000. go to?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; not proper redirect.

The Court: This element of the examination was the subject of caution by the Court at the time. Strictly speaking, the Court was compelled to go into considerable latitude in indulging counsel for the 6600 defense in that line of questioning. But you will recall that the answers of the witness were that he pleaded his constitutional privilege, because those matters were included in an indictment now pending against him in New York County. So that does not permit of this question. The objection is sustained.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the testimony of this witness with respect to Buchalter from the time he last saw the defendant Buchalter, as he claims, in June of 1937, on the ground that there is no connection between that, directly or indirectly, and it is not, therefore, binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: I do not want to repeat each time I deny that kind of a motion the reason why it is denied, purely as a matter of procedure at this time, but the jury will be properly instructed in the course of the trial at the proper time. The motion is denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. 6602

Recross examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. This Bloom's candy store which you spoke about, how many times were you in there? A. Plenty of times.

Q. Plenty? A. Yes, sir, that is correct.

Q. You were one of those who hung out there with others you described? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This was within the block, right next door to the police station? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have seen a good many policemen from the police station in Bloom's candy store? 6603
A. In uniform; I don't know plainclothesmen.

Q. You say that on occasions policemen in uniform were in the candy store? A. Yes, sir, when I went in.

Q. You saw them there frequently? A. Now and then.

Q. What do you mean by "now and then"? A. Well, I did not always see policemen in uniform there all the time when I walked in. Sure, I saw policemen in there in uniform, police.

Q. You knew some of the detectives from the Clinton Street station, didn't you? A. I did.

6604

Q. You never saw a plainclothesman in Bloom's candy store? A. I probably did, once in a while.

By the Court:

Q. Did they hang out there, or just make purchases and go out? A. They did not hang out. They probably came in and bought cigarettes.

Q. I mean, they were not members of the 6605 crowd? A. No, absolutely not.

Mr. Talley: I object to your Honor's questions as leading and suggestive to this witness.

The Court: Strike out the word "members".

Q. I mean, they did not associate with the crowd? A. Not as I know of.

Q. Did you ever see them do that? A. No.

By Mr. Talley:

6606

Q. What do you mean by your answer, "No", that you did not see them associate with the others? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Could you get anything to eat in this candy store, sandwiches? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they have a soda fountain? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they serve coffee? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever see any plainclothesmen or uniformed policemen eating sandwiches at the fountain or taking coffee? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you said uniformed men, you meant to exclude plainclothesmen? A. I did not; I maybe knew one or two of them.

Q. Your testimony is you frequently saw in this candy store that has been referred to as Bloom's, which is next to the Clinton Street police station, you frequently saw there both uniformed policemen and plainclothesmen? A. The ones I knew. I did not know all the plainclothesmen in the house, though.

Q. Did you see policemen in uniform in the candy store? A. Yes. 6608

Q. Did you see plainclothesmen, whom you knew to be policemen, in the candy store? A. I did.

Q. In Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many years did you work at this College Shop in the Borough of Manhattan, on Broadway? A. About three or four years.

The Court: Please speak loudly.

Mr. Turkus: It is important that everybody hears this testimony.

Q. After you worked in this haberdashery store for a period of time you told the jury, did you get another job? A. I did.

Q. Do you remember the name of that boss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was his name? A. Buzen.

Q. And the first name? A. "D."

Q. What business was Buzen in? A. Paper and twine business.

Q. Where was his place located? A. On Blake
6617 Avenue, East New York.

Q. By East New York, you mean the East New York section of Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What type of work did you do in this paper and twine business? A. I delivered orders and I took orders.

Q. Would a description of salesman and delivery man fit that job? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many years did you work in the paper and twine business for Buzen? A. For about five years.

6618 The Court: Just keep your voice up so that the last juryman will hear you.

Q. After your father had owned Rock Hill, that is, the hotel in Rock Hill, did he thereafter own and operate a place known as Loch Sheldrake Country Club? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was the Loch Sheldrake Country Club which was owned and operated by your father located? A. Loch Sheldrake, New York.

Mr. Cuff: May we have the time?

6621

Q. How old were you then, do you remember? A. About twenty— Twenty-five or so.

Q. Now, coming back to the hotel which your father operated at Rock Hill, New York, did you meet a man at that hotel by the name of Shapiro? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was Shapiro's first name? A. Jack Shapiro.

Q. Did you know Jack Shapiro under any other name? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. What name? A. Charlie Gurrah.

Q. Did you become friendly with Charlie Gurrah Shapiro? A. I did.

6622 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel for The People leading. May the witness testify himself?

The Court: That appears to be a question you ask the Court. Make your objection in proper form.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as leading.

The Court: Sustained as leading.

Q. Did you see Charlie Gurrah Shapiro fre-
6623 quently at the Rock Hill Hotel your father owned and operated? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you talk with him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did he talk with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you remember what year it was that you first met Charlie Gurrah Shapiro? A. About 1925 or so.

Q. Now, when your father operated this Loch Sheldrake Country Club, did Shapiro patronize the facilities there? A. He did.

Q. Did he speak to you? A. Yes, sir. 6627

Q. And the others whose names you mentioned, did they talk to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Lepke and the others patronize the Loch Sheldrake Country Club?

Mr. Barshay: I object unless we have the time set.

The Court: Set the time.

Q. When was that you first met Lepke? A. About 1930 or 1929.

Q. Are you referring to the time when you

6628 first met him at the Loch Sheldrake Country Club? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out all the testimony with reference to a time prior thereto, as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Did I understand the date previously mentioned was 1925?

Mr. Barshay: Yes, that is as to 6629 Shapiro.

The Court: Motion denied. It means nothing so far, but I do not know what it may lead to. That is why the motion is denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. When you saw Lepke at the Loch Sheldrake Country Club whom did you see with him? A. I saw Charlie Gurrah with him, Hymie Holtz, Farvel, Toots.

Q. By "Farvel," you mean Farvel Cohen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And other people? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember the names of any others that you saw Lepke with? A. A few more, a fellow named "Lady Lucy."

Q. At the time you saw Lepke in company with those people, was he a patron at the Loch Sheldrake Country Club and some of its facilities? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Answer this yes or no—did you, after you had made the acquaintance of Lepke, meet Harry Greenberg in Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was it you had the meeting with Harry Greenberg? A. About 1931.

Q. Do you recall where it was or when it was that you met Greenberg in Manhattan?

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as immaterial and not binding on Buchalter.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. 6632

Q. Where? A. Around Broadway and 31st Street.

Q. Answer this yes or no: Did you have a talk with Greenberg? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After that talk with Greenberg did you go to work for any of the defendants in this case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which one? A. Lepke.

Q. What was your salary? A. $35 a week.

Q. Now, without stating the nature of your services, was your work performed at that time in the clothing district? A. In the ladies' garment district. 6633

Q. And without stating the nature of your work, did you receive general assignments from Lepke? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did there come a time when you got a specific assignment from Lepke? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

6634

Q. Now, after you followed the specific assignment, did you meet Lepke?

Mr. Barshay: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that by instruction? A. Yes, sir.

6635

Mr. Barshay: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Whose instructions? A. Lepke's—whoever gave me authority—Lepke, Gurrah.

Mr. Talley: I object. That is incompetent and not binding on the defendant Weiss.

The Court: Objection overruled.

6636 Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Where did you see Lepke after you had performed the specific assignment given to you?

Mr. Barshay: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Wherever his office was located.

Q. Where was the office located from time to time? A. There was one office Broadway and 8th Street, another office at 19th Street between 5th and 6th Avenue, another office at 22nd Street and 5th Avenue, and an office at 200 5th Avenue.

Q. Where did you spend your time when you were in between assignments? A. Up in the office.

Q. Whose office? A. Lepke and Gurrah.

Q. Did you meet other employees of Lepke at the office when you were there in between assignments?

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. 6638

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Rosenthal: My objection is that it calls for a conclusion.

The Court: That ground is good. Objection sustained.

Q. In between assignments, when you were at the office of Lepke, who did you see there with Lepke? A. I saw a whole lot of fellows who worked for him.

6639

Q. Who did you see there? Can you name some of them? A. I saw Charlie Workman, Toots.

Q. Is that Charlie the Bug? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Toots? A. Yes. Farvel Cohen, Mendy Weiss, Shimmy.

Q. Do you know Shimmy's right name? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is it? A. Sidney Salles.

Mr. Barshay: Will you please fix the time?

Q. Who else did you see there? A. I used to see Danny Fields there and Max Rubin; and Bartfield.

Q. What was Bartfield's right name? A. I knew him as Bartfield.

Q. Did you know his first name, what he was called? A. Izzy. I saw Murray Weinstein there, Sam Katz.

Q. Was there a man named Feinberg you saw there? A. Feinberg? A. Yes, Yegel Feinberg.

6641 Q. A man named Cravatz? A. Yes, sir, Louis Cravatz.

Q. Did he use any other name? A. Louis Kay.

Q. Do you know Danny Fields' right name? A. Yes.

Q. What was it? A. Irving Friedman.

Q. Did you know a man named Oscar Frankel? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever see him there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did your salary go up while you were in the employ of Lepke? A. Yes, sir.

6642 Q. Did it go up when you got specific assignments? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much did it go after your first raise? A. I got $50 a week.

Q. Did you go up from $50? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Up to what? A. $75.

Q. Did your pay continue to go up? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the next raise after $75? A. $100.

Q. From $100 did it go higher? A. Yes, sir.

Q. To what? A. $125.

Q. Now, was this your weekly salary? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In August, 1936, did you get a specific assignment, without stating what that assignment was? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant to this issue.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. From whom did you get that specific assignment? 6644

Mr. Barshay: I make the same objection.

The Witness: I got it from Lepke through Mendy Weiss.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as hearsay.

Mr. Talley: I make the same motion.

The Court: Strike out the answer.

Q. While you worked for Lepke, from whom did you receive orders? A. I received orders from Lepke, Charlie Gurrah, and in later years I took orders from Mendy Weiss. 6645

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike that out as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

Mr. Talley: I make the same motion, on the ground it is not binding on Weiss.

The Court: He has not stated whether or not those orders were in the course of his employment, the usual employment procedure.

Mr. Turkus: I mean to do that step by step.

6646 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Direct

The Court: The question in the form it is asked is objectionable and sustained.

Q. Did you, in the course of your employment by Lepke, receive orders from Lepke? A. Yes.

Q. Did you, in the course of your employment by Lepke, receive instructions to obey others? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were the others that Lepke told you to obey? A. Charlie Gurrah, and in later years, 6647 Mendy Weiss.

Q. Was it in the regular course of your employment that you received those orders?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as a conclusion.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. In the regular course of your employment did you receive those orders? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In August of 1936, through the course of your regular employment, did you receive an order 6648 with reference to a specified assignment, without telling us what that assignment was? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as not binding on Buchalter. He has not said that he did receive it from Buchalter.

The Court: We have not gotten to that yet.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. From whom did you receive the assignment? A. From Mendy Weiss.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Now, in the regular course of your employment did you have instructions from your employer to report back to him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you, after you had performed specific assignments, report back to your employer? A. 6650
Yes, sir.

Q. To whom did you make your report? A. Whoever gave me the assignment.

Q. Referring to the assignment given in August of 1936, without stating what the assignment was, tell the Court and jury, did you perform your assignment? A. I did.

Mr. Cuff: Objected to as a conclusion.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Cuff: Exception.

6651

Q. Merely to fix the time, did you hear of the death of one Joseph Rosen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On the Friday before his death, where were you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel leading.

The Court: Objection overruled.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I was in New York.

6652 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Direct

Q. At that time had you performed the specific assignment you had been given? A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as immaterial.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. When you were in New York did you go some place? A. Yes.

Q. Where did you go? A. I went up to the 6653 office to report.

Q. To report to whom? A. Lepke.

Q. What office were you up to to report to Lepke, where was it? A. That was at No. 200 Fifth Avenue.

Q. Do you know the name of that office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the name of it? A. Raleigh Manufacturing Company.

Q. When you went up to that office to make your report, as you stated to the jury, whom did you see in the office? A. I saw different people 6654 that worked there. Then I walked into one of the rooms and I saw Lepke.

Q. Speak loudly. Were you seated somewhere in the office? A. Yes, sir, I walked in.

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as leading.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. (The Court) Did you sit down or stand up? A. I sat down.

Q. When you were seated there did you see any of the defendants in the office? A. Yes, sir.

6655

Q. Which defendant did you see? A. Lepke.

Q. When you saw Lepke did you see who he was with? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was he with? A. Max.

Q. Max who? A. Max Rubin.

Q. What were Lepke and Max Rubin doing when you saw them there together? A. They were talking.

Q. Now, at the time Lepke was talking to Max Rubin did you observe his face, his demeanor?

6656

Mr. Barshay: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you observe in connection with his face? A. I saw he was—

Mr. Cuff: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Cuff: Exception.

The Witness: (continuing) His face was flushed; he looked angry. 6657

Mr. Cuff: I move to strike that out.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Cuff: Exception.

Q. When you saw Lepke's face flushed, what was Lepke doing? A. He was talking to Max; he was yelling at Max.

Q. By "Max," who do you mean? A. Max Rubin.

Q. Was that a usual occurrence, from your observation, to see Lepke with his face flushed? A. No, sir.

6658 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Now, when Lepke's face was flushed, what did you hear him say to Rubin, in substance, the best you can recall? A. He was yelling at Max and he was saying—I heard him tell Max he gave Rosen some money to go away and he 6659 comes back; stays away a little while and then he comes back and sneaks back into a candy store. Lepke was hollering. He said, "There is one son-of-a-bitch who will never go down to talk to Dewey about me." And Max was trying to quiet him down.

Q. Repeat that and talk loudly. I did not hear you. A. He was yelling at Max and telling Max he could not set up with Rosen. He gave him some money to go away and he stayed away a short time and he came back, and he sneaked back into the candy store after he told him to 6660 go away. He said he has got to take it up with him, and there is one son-of-a-bitch that will never go downtown and talk to Dewey about him.

Q. That is what Lepke said to Rubin? A. Yes.

Q. Did Rubin answer Lepke? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the tone of Rubin's voice? A. Max was quiet, he was trying to calm him down; he was saying, "Take it easy, take it easy," he said, "I will handle Joe Rosen," he said, "he is all right."

Q. When Rubin said to Lepke, "Take it easy, I will handle Rosen," what did Lepke say to Rubin—you said when Rubin spoke in a lower tone of voice, saying to Lepke, "Take it easy, I will handle Rosen," when Rubin said that to Lepke, what did Lepke say? A. He said no. He told him that before and that is the end of it.

Q. When he said, "You told me that before," did he use any curse words? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell us what he said? A. He told him, he said "that he is fed up with that son-of-a-bitch and he will take care of him. That is one fellow that will never go downtown." 6662

Q. And after Lepke said that did Rubin make some response to Lepke? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say? A. Max said, "All right, give me a chance, let me run up to Murray and see, maybe Murray could straighten the whole thing out."

Q. When he said "Murray", did he say the last name? A. Murray Weinstein.

Q. When Rubin asked for an opportunity to see Murray Weinstein, what did Lepke say? A. Lepke said, "Go ahead if you want to see him, go ahead, but make sure to come back and let me know what happened." 6663

Q. You had seen Murray Weinstein before? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you seen him before that with any of these defendants? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which one? A. I saw him with Lepke.

Q. Was he a union official, Murray Weinstein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you ever seen Weinstein at any office in which Lepke was present? A. I saw him in all the offices.

Q. Did Rubin leave Lepke after that talk? A. Yes, sir.

6664

Q. Were you waiting for him to finish? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After he finished what did you do? A. I went to Lepke and told him what I did.

Q. Without saying what you told Lepke, did you make a report of the specific assignment you had been given in August of 1936? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Climenko: I object to that as having no bearing on this matter.

6665

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Were you there in the office pursuant to your instructions to make a report? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the course of your employment by Lepke, to make a report? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After you made your report to Lepke, did Lepke say anything to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say? A. He said, "All right, go ahead."

Q. Some days later were you in the office of Lepke again? A. Yes, sir.

6666

Q. And is that the place that you were frequenting in between specific assignments? A. Yes, sir.

Q. While you were hanging around the office, did you see any one of these defendants come in? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which one? A. Mendy Weiss.

Q. Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Lepke there at the time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you see Weiss do?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it unless we have the time set.

The Court: Try to fix the time.

Mr. Turkus: This is several days after Friday, September 11, 1936, so the time is fixed.

Mr. Talley: Let the witness fix it.

Mr. Turkus: It is fixed by the witness.

Mr. Talley: Let the witness fix it.

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, may I continue my direct examination?

Mr. Talley: I object to the question unless the time is fixed, not by the District 6668
Attorney but by the witness.

The Court: Just what do you mean by "several"?

The Witness: What is that?

The Court: About how many days?

The Witness: Three or four days.

Q. The question pending without answer, I believe, is the one that when Weiss came in was Lepke in the premises, in the office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you see Weiss do? A. Weiss walked in and he said to Lepke, "O.K.?" 6669

Q. He said to Lepke, "O.K.?", in the form of a question? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When Weiss said, "O.K.?", in the form of a question to Lepke, did Lepke answer him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say? A. He said, "Was everything all right?"

Q. What did Weiss say? A. Weiss said, "Everything is O.K., but that son-of-a-bitch, Harry Strauss," he said, "I gave him strict orders not to do any shooting, and", he says, "after I shot Rosen," he says, "he was laying on the floor, Harry Strauss started shooting him."

6670 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

6671 Q. After Weiss told Lepke that Harry Strauss stuck his nose in, as you have related to the jury, and shot Rosen after he was on the floor, did Lepke say anything? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say to Weiss? A. He said, "All right, what's the difference as long as everyone is clean and you got away all right?"

Q. "As long as everyone is clean and you get away all right"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After Lepke said that, did he do anything with relation to Mendy Weiss, do you know? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he do? A. He patted him on the back. He said, "All right, go ahead." He said,

6672 "I will see you later."

Q. After Weiss had that talk with Lepke and he got the pat on the back, where were you? A. I was sitting there.

Q. Did Weiss speak to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say to you? A. He walked over to me and he said, "What are you doing?" I said, "Nothing." He said, "Come on, let's go out and get some coffee."

Q. "Let's go out and get some coffee"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go out with Mendy Weiss to get coffee? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go with him? A. Walked into a restaurant on Fifth Avenue right off 23rd Street.

Q. Do you know the name of that restaurant on Fifth Avenue off 23rd Street that you and Weiss went to? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was it? A. Child's.

Q. Did you and Mendy Weiss have coffee together in Child's restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. While you were having your coffee did he talk to you? A. Yes, sir. 6674

Q. What did he say to you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He said to me, "When did you get back?" I told him, "I got back just a few days ago."

Q. When you said you had gotten back a few days ago, did he ask you a question about the specific assignment that you had up there? 6675

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel leading.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. Without telling us what the answer was, did you give him an answer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after you spoke about the specific assignment, did Weiss talk to you further? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say to you?

6676 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, not binding on the defendant Buchalter.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. He said, "Yes, I just got through with a piece of work myself."

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.
6677
The Court: Denied.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. When Weiss said to you, "I just got through with a piece of work myself," did you answer him? A. Yes, sir.
Q. What did you say to him? A. I said, "Yes, I just heard you say it."

Mr. Barshay: Object to it, sir.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.
6678

Q. You were in the middle of an answer there. Will you complete your answer? A. I said, "Yes, I just heard you tell Louis about it."
Q. Was the name of Strauss mentioned by Weiss in that conversation?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ask Mendy any questions about Rosen in that talk? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. What did you say to him or ask him?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I asked Mendy who Rosen was.

Q. What did he say? A. He says, well, he 6680 was some truck—

Mr. Barshay: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Speak up. What did Mendy say when you asked him who Rosen was? A. Mendy told me this Rosen is some fellow used to be in the trucking business and that he was threatening to go down to Dewey and talk about Lep.

Mr. Barshay: Is that the answer com- 6681 plete now?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Tannenbaum, heretofore, have you ever been convicted of a crime? A. No, sir.

Q. You did commit crimes, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you engage in throwing stink bombs? A. I did.

Q. Sluggings? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Strike breakings? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you, together with others participate in the crime of murder? A. I did.

Q. Together with others, how many crimes of murder did you participate in? A. Six.

Q. Six? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In addition to the six murders in which you
6683 were a participant, did you, together with others, help dump the body of a dead man? A. Yes, sir.

Q. For disposition? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And concealment? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The six murders, who were the victims of the six murders? Name them. A. One was Ashkenaz, Yuran, Diamond—

Q. You mean Mersh Diamond?

The Court: What Diamond?
The Witness: Morris.

Q. Morris or Mersh Diamond? A. Plug Shu-
6684 man, Whitey Friedman, and Harry Greenberg.

Q. And the case in which you helped to dump the body into a lake after the murder, was that victim's name Solomon Goldstein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Ashkenaz case, what part did you play in the murder? A. I did the shooting.

Q. You did the shooting? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That meant you were the trigger man in that one? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Yuran case, what part did you play in that murder? A. Drove the car.

Q. That made you the wheelman, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. In the Plug Shuman murder, what part did you play in that? A. Drove the car.

Q. That made you the wheelman? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Greenberg murder? A. I covered the get-away car.

Q. That is covering the get-away car of the man who actually fired the shot? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Whitey Friedman murder, what part did you play? A. I fingered him.

Q. And in the Mersh Diamond, what part did you play? A. I fingered him. 6686

Q. Tannenbaum, after District Attorney O'Dwyer came into office, you were arrested, were you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember when you were arrested? A. About the latter part of March.

Q. 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you brought to the District Attorney's office for questioning? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you there questioned by two Assistant District Attorneys? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was one of the assistants Mr. Heffernan? A. Yes, sir. 6687

Q. Was the other myself, Turkus? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you were questioned by Assistant District Attorneys Heffernan and Turkus, did you raise your constitutional rights not to incriminate yourself?

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel leading, sir.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you answer questions? A. Just my name and address, then I refused to answer.

Q. To other questions, did you say you had constitutional rights and refused to answer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you subsequently taken up-State? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you lodged in an institution up-State? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was the District Attorney of the 6689 county in which that institution was and in which you were lodged? A. Mr. Deckelman.

Q. When was it that you spoke to Mr. Deckelman in which the name of District Attorney O'Dwyer was mentioned? A. About the first or second Sunday in May.

Q. The first or second Sunday in May, 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After you spoke to District Attorney Deckelman after the name of Judge O'Dwyer was mentioned, were you visited by Judge O'Dwyer? A. Yes, sir.

6690 Q. Did you have a talk with Judge O'Dwyer? A. I did.

Q. Thereafter, did Judge O'Dwyer come up with Assistant District Attorney Turkus and have a talk with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many days after that was it before you went to a Grand Jury in Brooklyn, how many days after that talk with Judge O'Dwyer and Assistant District Attorney Turkus? A. Oh, about a week.

Q. From that institution up-State were you taken to Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where were you put in Brooklyn? A. At a hotel.

Mr. Talley: What hotel?
Mr. Turkus: At a hotel.

Q. Do you know whether you were brought down by a court order? A. Yes.

Q. From that time on have you been in the custody of the New York City police authorities? A. Yes, sir. 6692

Q. Have you at various times in that custody of the New York City Police Department been confined in a hotel? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you been confined there with other men? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were the other men that you have been confined with from time to time? A. Sol Bernstein, Ike Sykoff, Abe Reles.

Q. In that hotel were there police officers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they armed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have the hotel arrangements been one with a peep hole and shackles on the door? A. Yes, sir. 6693

Q. Do you know whether or not there have been mirror set-ups in the corridors? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And police officers armed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Since you had the talk with Judge O'Dwyer have you testified for the People of the State of New York in the Plug Shuman murder? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you also testified for the People of 6694 the State of New Jersey against Charlie, the Bug? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And have you been before a Grand Jury in Southern California? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have not testified before any Grand Jury in the Mersh Diamond murder, have you? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Had you in the Whitey Friedman matter? A. No, sir.

Q. How long were you on the payroll of the 6695 defendant?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object unless he specifies which defendant.

Mr. Turkus: The defendant who had him on the payroll.

The Court: Overruled. Buchalter, you mean?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, that is right.

A. About nine years.

Q. Were you on the payroll up to the time of your arrest? A. Yes, sir.

6696 Q. What was the top salary that you had gotten? Was it $125. a week? A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the course of your employment, was your salary at one time reduced? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was it reduced to? A. At one time it was reduced to $80. a week.

Q. What was your salary at the time of your arrest? A. $100.

Q. $100. a week.

Mr. Turkus: The witness is offered for cross-examination.

Mr. Barshay: I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the ground of prejudice.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. Will your Honor give us a few minutes to get our notes together?

The Court: How long do you wish?

Mr. Barshay: Ten minutes. 6698

The Court: It is now half-past three.

Mr. Barshay: Until what time does your Honor desire to work?

The Court: You see, that is all up to the way the increased working schedule is arranged. I have tried to see if counsel could not be agreeable, although I have the power to fix it.

Mr. Rosenthal: Will your Honor give us a few minutes to see whether we all cannot agree along the line of what your Honor suggested? I am perfectly willing. 6699

The Court: Is there any one here who does not go to his office on Saturday?

Mr. Barshay: We will work Saturday.

The Court: That is very much better. We will work then only until four o'clock daily and that will give you a chance to read your minutes, the stenographers to prepare the daily copy, to prepare for the next day, the jury to get its exercise, and also the jury to work on Saturday so as not to be bored by two days' inactivity, so it works out very nicely all along.

6700 Mr. Talley; Can we work until one o'clock on Saturday, straight session?

The Court: No.

Mr. Turkus: I ask your Honor to open this examination for a few questions I omitted.

The Court: There is no sense in coming back for fifteen minutes. I was willing to give counsel until tomorrow morning to start the cross.

6701 Mr. Turkus: Let me finish my direct.

The Court: Finish your direct.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Do you know the third defendant in this case, Capone? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you first meet Capone? A. About 1938.

Mr. Rosenthal: Will you keep your voice up?

6702 The Witness: About 1938.

Mr. Rosenthal: You can talk loud enough, can't you?

Q. Where did you meet Capone? Try to imitate me.

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it, if it is 1938, upon the ground that it is immaterial, incompetent, irrelevant to this issue.

The Court: I cannot tell, but if it im-material, no harm done. See what it leads to. Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

(Pending question read.)

A. At Saratoga and Livonia Avenue.

Q. Saratoga and Livonia Avenue, that is Brownsville, isn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Between the time when you met him at Saratoga and Livonia Avenue until the time of your arrest, how many times have you seen 6704 Capone?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it upon the ground it is immaterial, two years after the alleged killing in this case.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

A. It was a good many times.

Mr. Rosenthal: I do not hear you.

The Witness: I said a good many times. 6705

Q. Try to estimate the number of times. A. Maybe a hundred times.

Q. Maybe a hundred times, is that what you said? A. Yes, sir.

Q. With whom did you see Capone on these frequent times that you have seen him? Whom was he with?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it upon the same ground previously urged.

The Court: Overruled.

6706 Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to the Court's ruling.

A. I used to see him with Harry Strauss, with Buggsy Goldstein, Abie Reles, Mendy Weiss, Farvel.

Q. And where did you see him on these occasions with these individuals whom you have named?

6707 Mr. Rosenthal: I make the same objection.

A. On the corner.

Q. Was that Harry Strauss one Pittsburg Phil? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear him called "Pep"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Big Harry"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Farvel, what was his last name? A. Cohen.

Q. Is that the Farvel Cohen you have been talking about in your earlier testimony? A. Yes.

6708 Q. And Buggsy Goldstein, was that Martin Buggsy Goldstein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Reles, was that Abie Reles? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you say you saw Capone with these men on the various occasions?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it. It is repetitious. The very question itself is improper in form.

The Court: He just stated.

Mr. Turkus: I did not hear the answer.

The Court: He said it was Saratoga and Livonia Avenue.

Mr. Rosenthal: Mr. Turkus wants it repeated again. He said Saratoga and Livonia. Did you hear it?

Mr. Turkus: I hear you.

Mr. Rosenthal: The fourteen jurymen have heard it, too, Saratoga and Livonia.

Q. Was Saratoga and Livonia Avenue a hang-out in Brownsville? A. Yes, sir. 6710

Mr. Rosenthal: Isn't that repetitious, Judge? I object to the question on the ground that it is repetitious which is the word frequently used by the District Attorney towards defense counsel.

The Court: And also by the Court. It is repetitious.

Mr. Rosenthal: That is right.

The Court: That is Rose Gold's?

Mr. Rosenthal: Does your Honor sustain the objection? 6711

The Court: Yes, repetitious.

Mr. Turkus: Having been sustained on the ground of repetition, I am through with the witness.

Mr. Rosenthal: I move to strike out the entire testimony upon the ground it is based upon actions of this defendant two years subsequent to the alleged killing. It is immaterial. It is only for one purpose, to prejudice this jury.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

6712 In line with my previous motions, I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial upon the grounds which I urged at the time I moved to strike out.

The Court: The usual ruling. Denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: And the usual exception, sir.

The Court: Everybody kindly remain seated. Gentlemen of the jury, please 6713 don't discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it, keep your minds open. We will resume at ten o'clock tomorrow morning, and I think that from now on the case will make more speed so far as the length of testimony of witnesses is concerned. Please do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it, keep your minds open, and read nothing in the newspapers, and follow the other previous instructions.

Let the witness go.

The jury out the other door.

6714 The defendants are remanded.

(Thereupon adjournment was taken to November 13, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.)

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 13, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

The Court: One of counsel for the defense (Climenko) approached the bench and hands up a paper to the Court.

I say that because I have seen a similar notation on the record, in reviewing the testimony of Bernstein:

"(The District Attorney approached the bench and conferred privately)"—which casts suspicion on the Court, which was not justified. 6716

Mr. Climenko: Oh, no, your Honor. Then I withdraw it.

The Court: The Court now reads the paper and asks to have it marked for identification.

(Received and marked Defendants' Exhibit V for identification.)

The Court: I will tell counsel the Court refuses to do these things over the bench surreptitiously. If you have any motion to make, make it in open court. The jury will be excused while you make it. 6717

(The jury thereupon left the courtroom.)

The Court: Are all of the defendants represented by counsel?

Defense Counsel: Yes.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases,

6718 the defendant Buchalter now moves for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial by reason of prejudice created by the manner of the conduct of the direct examination of the witness Tannenbaum, which direct examination was conducted in such a manner as to convey to the jury the belief that the defendant Buchalter directed that witness to commit other crimes, including murder.

6719 The Court: Do any of the other counsel wish to be heard?

Defense Counsel: We join in the motion.

Mr. Rosenthal: The motion I made has nothing to do with that particular phase. My motion was made and denied upon an entirely different ground, and that was the ground contained in my original motion for a severance, namely, that the permission of all this testimony against two defendants in reality, and not connected with the defendant Capone, was 6720 highly prejudicial to his interest and warranted the granting of the original motion for a severance on his behalf. That has been, your Honor, all my motions throughout in so far as concerns the witnesses who were unconnected with him and were permitted to testify.

The Court: Both motions are denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: Of course, the motion incorporates the application for the withdrawal of a juror on the ground that I mentioned.

The Court: Referring to the matter just spoken of by the Court, a matter which directly puts the Court in an entirely false position in the event of a conviction and in the event of a review of the record by the Court of Appeals, I found last night in my nightly work of reviewing the evidence in its many ramifications that in the minutes, at page 943, is the following:

6722

"By Mr. Rosenthal:

"Q. Did you accidentally meet Fat Cooperman?

"Mr. Turkus: Will you wait just a minute, sir?" Then, parenthetically: "Mr. Turkus appears before the bench and talks privately to the Judge, without the hearing of the jury.)" Then another parenthesis: "(Mr. Turkus resumes his place in the court-room.)" Then comes the question:

6723

"Q. Did you accidentally meet Fat Cooperman that night and take him home?"

Now, when I read that in the record I did not recognize it as the record of the trial, but in putting my thought to it it did come back to me that at one time when a question was asked and no answer had been made, and no objection had been made, there was an interruption by Mr. Turkus approaching the bench and handing up some sort—or attempting to show 6724 the Court some sort of a confidential police report concerning the murder or alleged murder of Fat Cooperman. The Court paid no attention to it whatever, and Mr. Turkus resumed his seat.

It also brought to mind that at various times during the ' al the Court, in perfectly good faith and in courtesy to counsel for the defense, has permitted counsel for the defense, and without any record being 6725 made in the minutes, to step over to the bench and present papers—some of them subpoenas—and also for various other reasons. The Court, feeling that its integrity could not under any circumstances be put in issue, innocently permitted these practices to go on. From now on, however, in view of this at page 943, the Court will allow no counsel to approach the bench at any time during the course of this trial for any purpose whatever, no matter how innocent it may be.

6726 There is just another matter: In reviewing and epitomizing the record for the purpose of the jury charge, there has come to the attention of the Court that the case has been beset by quarrels between counsel upon the asking of questions and upon the interposition of objections, quarrels which disturbed the orderly procedure of the court—quarrels which were heated and personal, and sometimes, in fact, many times, have caused the Court to sit by, unable to interrupt or restore order until the quarrels wore themselves out. These are largely omitted from the record. Now, this results in the following situation: That remarks thereupon made by the Court which had relation to the disorder are made by the record to appear to have application to the question and answer or objection which preceded it. There is no other way I can see in which the Appellate Court could otherwise interpret that record.

For instance, as a concrete example, at 6728
page 1024:

"Q. You left from the Coffee Pot, didn't you? A. Wait a minute, wait a minute. I got him now, sir. I got him very clear now, very clear, very clear now."

The colloquy which naturally followed that outburst from the witness was extensive. I know why the stenographer could not take it down, because more than one talked at once. But every word of the quarrel between counsel is omitted. However, we do find this: 6729

"The Court: When the Court speaks, everybody stop. The Court is not trying to appear superior but that is the Court's position it has to maintain."

That remark by the Court is made to appear to have reference to the "Q. & A." just repeated, which would put the Court in a ridiculous position, because the Court could not sensibly make such a remark in connection with "Q. & A." At the same time, I know perfectly well how an Appellate Court will look at that unless it is explained. I am instructing the stenographers from now on to put on the record every word of every quarrel and colloquy between counsel. If, because it jumbles too much, or because more than one talk at the same time, it cannot be accurately transcribed, the stenographer will record, "Disorder between counsel."

Mr. Climenko: May I note an exception to the part of your Honor's comment
6731 regarding any motive on my part to be surreptitious, and also, on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, I except to your Honor's comment in so far as—

The Court: Now that the jury is not here, let me have the slip and I will read it. The motion should have been made from where you stand.

Mr. Climenko: Here is the motion; it was made word for word (handing paper to the Court).

The Court: (reading) "The defendant
6732 Buchalter moves for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial by reason of prejudice created by the manner of the conduct of the direct examination of the witness Tannenbaum, which direct examination was conducted in such a manner as to convey to the jury the belief that the defendant Buchalter directed that witness to commit other crimes, including murder."

The Court cannot entertain a motion in a case other than on the other side of the rail.

Mr. Climenko: May the record now show that the intention of counsel was only to preserve time; that counsel, with respect to the motion, could not make it before the jury without doing that which the motion attempts to avoid the harm of.

The Court: All you had to do was to ask to have the jury excused. I am only concerned about the record, because this Court has done its utmost from the very start of the trial to handle a tough situation with fairness to both sides. It will stand by the court record as to everything and anything it says, but it wants no false record.

6734

Bring in the jury.

(The jury thereupon returned to the courtroom.)

ALBERT TANNENBAUM, a witness on behalf of The People, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

6735

Cross-examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. Will you please answer the questions the same way you answered Mr. Turkus, without volunteering anything? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that all right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You admitted participation in six murders, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many were in the County of Kings? Just give me the number. A. Three.

Q. Have you been arraigned on any indictment with respect to any of those three murders? A. Have I been indicted, you mean?

Q. To your knowledge, have you? A. Not as I know of.

Q. Speak up. A. I don't know.

Q. Have you ever been arraigned in any court to plead to an indictment? A. In Kings County?

Q. Yes, for murder. A. No, sir.

Q. To your knowledge, have you been indicted
6737 in California? A. I don't know.

Q. Have you ever been before any Court to plead to any indictment in California? A. No, sir.

Q. How many murders did you participate in in Sullivan County? A. One.

Q. Did you gain immunity? A. Two, rather.

Q. Did you gain immunity for the one? A. I don't know.

Q. You testified before the Grand Jury which sat up in Sullivan County, and you did not sign a waiver of immunity, isn't that so? A. Yes, sir.

6738

Q. That is the Ashkenaz case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you gained immunity in that case, didn't you? A. I don't know.

Q. Well, we will leave that for the Court. You are indicted in Sullivan County for the Yuran case? A. I don't know if I am indicted.

Q. You were never called to trial in that? A. No, sir.

Q. Since your arrest? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you been called for pleading in Sullivan County to any indictment? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which one? A. The Ashkenaz case.

Q. That is the one you testified to before a Grand Jury? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is the one where you entered the Grand Jury without signing any paper whatever? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Without signing any waiver of immunity? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Give me the number of sluggings you participated in over the period of years you said you did. A. Oh, I could not give you the exact number. 6740

Q. About. A. Maybe fifty.

Q. How many? A. Maybe fifty.

Q. Have you ever been in jail for any of them? A. No, sir.

Q. How many stench bombs did you throw? A. I don't know.

Q. About how many? A. I could not give you the exact amount.

Q. Well, approximately. A. Maybe one hundred.

Q. Have you been in jail for any of that? A. No, sir. 6741

Q. How many times did you throw acid and destroy merchandise? A. I never did.

Q. When you went out to California did Abie Reles go with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it in an aeroplane? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You stayed there in California? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you came back? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you make another trip to California? A. I did.

Q. While this jury was being chosen did you make a trip to California? A. I don't know that.

6742 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. When is the last time you flew to California? A. About six weeks ago.

Q. You were not an eye-witness to the Dutch Schultz killing? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not participate in that? A. I did not.

Q. But you were a witness in the trial of that case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You met the defendant Buchalter, I believe you said, sometime in 1930? A. Around that time.

6743

Q. Or was it 1931? A. About 1930 or 1931.

Q. May I refresh your recollection if I can. In the Grand Jury in California you testified in August of 1940, do you remember? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know the exact date? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you there testify—perhaps I may refresh your recollection—and say you knew the defendant Buchalter for nine years? A. I don't remember, I might have.

Q. That would approximately make the meeting between you and Buchalter in 1931?

6744

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. That is arithmetic.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. Isn't that so? A. About 1931.

Q. Going back to your days in Brownsville, how many years did you live there before 1931? A. About 20 years.

Q. In 1925, approximately six years before you met the defendant Buchalter, were you a stool pigeon for Detective Barney Rabinsky? A. I was not.

Q. Didn't you turn Abie Reles in to Barney

Rabinsky when Abie Reles shot Marcelle Ryan in the breast? A. I did not.

Q. Isn't that what made you and Abie Reles enemies? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object. There is no such testimony.

Mr. Barshay: I am asking him if there is.

The Court: Objection overruled.

6746

Q. What? A. No, sir.

Q. At that time in Brownsville or East New York were you a member of a gang? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Meyer Shapiro? A. I did.

Q. Was he a gangster? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know his brother Irving Shapiro? A. Yes.

Q. Was he a gangster? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know his brother Willie Shapiro? A. Yes.

Q. Was he a gangster? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you associate with them? A. I knew them but I did not associate with them. 6747

Q. You lived with Meyer Shapiro, didn't you? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever live at 92nd Street, Manhattan? A. I did not.

Q. With Meyer Shapiro? A. I did not.

Q. Did you live there with Louis Kauffman? A. No, sir.

Q. Known as Kaufy? A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't know Kaufy? A. I never lived with him.

Q. Did you know Kaufy? A. If I see him maybe I would.

6748 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. You pointed a gun at him on Vermont Street? A. I did not.

Q. Were you ever in the 92nd Street apartment with Kauffman and Meyer Shapiro, and Meyer Shapiro's girl? A. Not as I know.

Q. Didn't you live there the night Meyer Shapiro was shot? A. No, sir.

Mr. Barshay: We will come to that.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that that be stricken
6749 out, Mr. Barshay's remark.

The Court: I did not hear it.

Mr. Barshay: I withdraw it. Maybe I will come to it later.

Q. You knew Alex Eisenberg? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know what business he was in? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On the 30th of November 1931, at 290 Junius Street, in the City of New York, or rather, in the County of Kings, City of New York, did you point a gun at this Eisenberg and take from him at the point of this gun one 6750 diamond ring and one diamond pin? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You had a gun there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This was you own act, wasn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The gun was loaded? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You intended to kill him if he resisted? A. I did not.

Q. Did you point the gun at him? A. I did.

Q. Did he make resistance? A. No, sir.

Q. That was your friend, wasn't he? A. My friend?

Q. Yes, Eisenberg. A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know him before the hold-up? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After the hold-up did you threaten to kill him if he prosecuted you? A. I did not.

Q. He did not prosecute you? A. I did not see him after that.

Q. Did you send word to him? A. No, sir.

Q. But he did not prosecute you?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered. 6752

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. Did he? A. What is that?

Q. He did not prosecute you? A. No, sir.

Q. Although he did sign an affidavit in the Magistrate's Court charging you with what you just admitted? A. I don't know what he signed.

Q. It was read to you? A. I don't remember whether it was read to me; I don't remember what was read to me.

Q. You knew the Shapiros at that time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you see the Shapiros in those days? A. Around Brownsville section, East New York. 6753

Q. On what particular corner? A. Sutter Avenue.

Q. Sutter and where? A. Around Hinsdale Street.

Q. Is it not a fact that the Shapiro gang was a rival to Reles's gang at that time? A. They were enemies.

Q. The Shapiro brothers were pimps—

Mr. Turkus: I object. We are trying 6754

this indictment; we are not trying rival gangs in Brownsville now.

By the Court:

Q. Did you associate with the Shapiros? A. I knew them, but I did not associate with them.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I have a right, I think, to show he did associate with the Shapiros despite—

6755

The Court: If you can show association, then you have a right to show they were pimps.

Mr. Barshay: I am trying to, but if I am shut off, I cannot.

The Court: I am not shutting you off, I am telling you what you can do. I have ruled on a specific question.

By Mr. Barshay:

6756

Q. Do you recall the night Meyer Shapiro was shot? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The first time, do you recall that? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know the Earbender? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know a man named Leo Goldstein? A. No, sir.

By the Court:

Q. Were the Shapiros in your crowd? A. No, sir, they were in Brownsville.

6757

Q. Then Reles's crowd was in Brownsville, too? A. Yes, sir.

Q. There was a feud between the two? A. As far as I know.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. You were a friend of a man named Leo Goldstein, knowr as the Earbender? A. I was not.

Q. Speak up. A. I was not.

6758

Q. Do you know who I am speaking about when I speak of Leo Goldstein, also known as the Earbender?

Mr. Turkus: I object. It does not make any difference. He says he was not his friend; there was no association.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. Do you know who I as speaking about when I refer to Leo Goldstein, also known as the Earbender? A. I don't know who you mean.

6759

Q. You never heard the name? A. No, sir.

Q. You never saw him at the apartment in 92nd Street? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you ever there? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever visit Meyer Shapiro there? A. No, sir.

Q. You said you did recall when Meyer Shapiro was shot. A. When he was killed?

Q. I said shot. A. No, sir.

Q. Maybe he was killed, I don't know. Do you recall that night? A. Which night?

Q. The night Meyer Shapiro was shot and killed. A. Yes, sir.

6760

By the Court:

Q. Were you there? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Did you know Icchy Belsky? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Fat Kupperman then? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Dave Needleman then? A.

6761 No, sir.

Q. Didn't you drive those men whom I have just mentioned to the corner of Elton Street and Glenmore Avenue, in pursuance of a tip you got from Meyer Shapiro's brother? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know at that time the Reles gang was responsible for the shooting of Meyer Shapiro? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object. He just said he did not do something. That would be an implication that he did it, not matter how he answered it.

6762 The Court: It is hearsay. Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you pull up in a car to that corner, Elton and Glenmore, and you, personally, puncture tires of an Oldsmobile standing at that corner? A. I did not.

Q. Did you see DeFeo there? A. I don't know him.

Q. Or Buggsy Goldstein? A. No, sir.

Q. While you were puncturing the tires, is it not a fact that men who were with you in the car, whom I mentioned, Fat Kupperman, Icchy Belsky, and Dave Needleman, fired in the direction of that car, killing DeFeo? A. I did not know that at that time.

Q. Didn't you shoot—the crowd of men, not you personally—right then and there, Buggsy Goldstein, in the nose? A. I did not.

By the Court:

Q. Were you in the car? A. No, sir. 6764

Q. Did you know Buggsy? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. You did not know Buggsy? A. No, sir.

Q. You never knew Buggsy? A. I knew him from the name in the newspaper, but I never met him. I never saw him.

Q. I take it you never met Reles either? A. At that time I didn't know them.

Q. Did you know them later? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you know them? A. I met them in 1936. 6765

By the Court:

Q. Buggsy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Part of his nose was already deformed, wasn't it? A. I don't know.

Q. He had a flat nose, didn't he? A. He had a funny nose.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. The year I am speaking of, Tannenbaum, is 1932. A. I did not know them at that time.

6766 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. You lived in Brownsville? A. I did.

Q. You associated with them? A. Yes, sir—associated with whom?

Q. With the Shapiros. A. Yes, sir, I knew them.

Q. You knew they were a rival gang of Reles'? A. I knew they were fighting, yes.

The Court: Mr. Barshay, may I interrupt you? This may take a little time to 6767 clarify the situation.

By the Court:

Q. Was there a feud on about the pinball racket? A. I don't know what they were feuding about.

Q. Was there a feud between the Shapiros and the Reles gang because the Reles gang muscled in on Brownsville under the pinball racket? A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know? A. No, sir.

6768 Q. Were you connected with the pinball racket? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. You knew of the reason for the feud between them? A. No, sir.

Q. Why, it was for the control and the protection of houses of prostitution in Brownsville? A. I did not know anything about it.

Q. You knew then that the Shapiros and the Reles mob were both pimps? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you know the girl over whom the feud started?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is an obvious attempt to try to prejudice the jury on matters that this witness did not know anything about.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: I have an objection to Mr. Turkus's remarks.

Q. You knew the girl over whom this feud started? A. I did not.

Q. Do you know her now? A. No, sir. 6770

Q. Did you come to the conclusion at any time that the Reles gang was the more powerful one? A. I did not.

Q. (The Court) You knew that two of the Shapiros were wiped out? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: Three, if your Honor please.

The Court: All three?

Mr. Barshay: All three, yes, sir.

By Mr. Barshay: 6771

Q. Did you and a man named Kennedy and his wife enter a bar and grill of Leo Goldstein, known as the Earbender, in Long Island City, and shoot him? A. I did not.

Q. You were at a meeting at the Lido Hotel on West 61st Street, uptown, at any time? A. The Lido?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. What is the name of the hotel? A. You just said Lido.

Q. Is there any hotel you were up at a meeting? A. No, sir.

6772 Q. With the Shapiro brothers and Reles, when peace was attempted to be made? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you kill then, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy in Long Island City, in a furnished room in Long Island City? A. I did not.

Q. You know whom I speak about? A. I knew George Kennedy.

Q. And you knew his wife? A. Yes, sir.

Q. They ran a cabaret, didn't they? A. I don't know if he ran a cabaret.

6773 Q. You know they were killed, don't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. They were your friends, weren't they? A. I knew them, yes, sir.

Q. Did you know them at the time the Earbender was killed?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not go to the credibility of this witness; it is far afield from this indictment.

The Court: The defense is entitled to much latitude.

6774 Mr. Turkus: All right.

Q. Did you? A. What?

Q. Did you know them when the Earbender was killed? A. I don't know. When was the Earbender killed?

Q. Did you know that Kennedy, George and his wife, when they were arrested for the killing of the Earbender? A. I don't think so.

Q. Do you know that within a few weeks after that they were both killed in their furnished room in Long Island City? A. I know they were killed.

Q. You had nothing to do with the killing, did you? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Chinky Sherman? A. No, sir.

Q. You never heard of Chink Sherman? A. I heard of him.

Q. In Montecello? A. I never met him.

Q. Did you help bury him? A. I did not.

Q. Was he buried on your friend's farm? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that in 1935? A. I don't know the 6776 year.

Q. Did you know Maurice Carillot? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear of him? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever work as a strong-arm man in a gambling house? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was later, on your own? A. No, sir, I was sent there to work.

Q. Just answer yes or no.

Mr. Turkus: That does not call for a yes or no answer. That was not given 6777 in the form of obtaining a yes or no answer.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out as not responsive.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Was this gambling house known as the Riviera, not in New Jersey, but in Sullivan County? A. That was my father's cabaret.

Q. The Riviera? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that a gambling house? A. No, sir.

Q. Where did you work as a strong-arm man in a gambling house? A. I worked in Florida and I worked in Saratoga.

Q. You worked in Florida every winter? A. No, sir, not every winter.

Q. How many winters? A. Two.

Q. Which winters did you work there? A. The winter of 1935 and the winter of 1936.

Q. How many other times had you been in Florida without working? A. Without working?

Q. Yes. A. Maybe three times.

6879 Q. Was it '37?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question as confusing. Do you mean 1937?

Mr. Barshay: Yes.

A. Yes, I was there in 1937.

Q. You spent the whole winter there? A. Of 1937?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Without working? A. I worked there in 1937.

6880 Q. You said in 1935 and 1936. A. 1936 into 1937; there is a winter in '37, too.

Q. In 1938, did you spend that winter in Florida?

By the Court:

Q. That is '38 and '39. A. No, sir.

Q. In 1937 and 1938, where did you work? A. I worked in 1935 and 1936.

Q. What gambling house? A. One was in Miami Beach and the other was in Hollywood, Florida.

Q. Which one in Miami Beach, and where was it located? A. In Deauville, North Miami Beach.

Q. Right on the ocean? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know the crowd at Mannie's Coffee Shop on 33rd Street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you hang out there too? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know about a poker game there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was to hook people from the Rooney Plaza? A. I don't know; I was never in ther.

Q. Little Augie ran that, didn't he, Pisano? 6882
A. Yes, sir.

Q. He ran Jimmy Kelly's up here on Atlantic Avenue and Court? A. I don't know.

Q. Did you belong to the Rooney Plaza pool? A. Did I belong?

Q. Did you bathe there? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Other than the 1938-1939 winter season, did you sojourn in Florida? A. No, sir.

Q. In 1939 and 1940 did you sojourn in 6883
Florida? A. I did.

Q. You were not working then? A. I worked three days and then the place closed.

Q. Then did you remain there for the rest of the season? A. I did.

Q. That was in 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, how many seasons did you work in Saratoga as a strong-arm man in a gambling house? A. One.

Q. What year was that? A. That was in the summer of 1937.

Q. Did you spend any summers up there? A. No, sir.

Q. Other than working as a strong-arm man in a gambling house? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, in Sullivan County, where your father ran this country club, did you run slot machines? A. I did not.

Q. Were you partners with men who ran slot machines? A. No, sir.

Q. Wasn't that your racket? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you, in association with others, force upon the hotel keepers in Sullivan County your 6785 slot machines? A. I never had slot machines.

Q. Did you have a partner up there? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have a friend up there in that business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he have his machines in your father's place? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object—All right, it is answered.

Q. Have you been working recently, Tannenbaum, before your arrest in legitimate employ-6786 ment? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever tell anyone you worked—Did you ever tell any Government agency that you worked? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was a lie? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You obtained a Social Security card, didn't you? A. I did.

Q. Did it say that you were working at the Annette Shop, a hat shop at 596 Broadway? A. No, sir.

Q. What is the name you gave as the one company that employed you? A. Passaic, New Jersey.

Q. What was the name of it? A. The D. R. Clothing Company.

Q. You did not work for them? A. No, sir.

Q. You secured a Social Security card that you did? A. Yes, sir.

Q. For how long did you carry that? A. Oh, for about a year.

Q. Did you register for the draft? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where from? A. From Brooklyn.

Q. What date, do you know? 6788

Mr. Turkus: I object, it does not make any difference.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I don't know.

Q. Did you ever use an alias? A. No, sir—An alias?

Q. Yes. Do you know what that means? A. Yes, sir, I did use an alias.

Q. You change your answer? A. I did use an alias. 6789

Q. What name did you use? A. Engel.

Q. Any other? A. Schafer.

Q. Any other? A. Snyder.

Q. Any other? A. No, that is about all.

Q. Did you live in the Borough of Brooklyn under aliases? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Under what name? A. Schafer.

Q. You were married then? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Living with your wife and child? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know the date of your marriage? A. No, sir, I do not.

Q. Do you know when your baby was born? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you live at the White Hotel? A. I did.

Q. How long did you know Rubin? A. Who?

Q. Rubin. A. Max Rubin?

Q. Yes. A. I met him about 1933 or 1934.

Q. You know his business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know he was a finger man? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever have any business with him?

6891 A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever see him at his union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever talk to him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, this country club that your father ran, was this a Sullivan County bar and grill, bowling alley, and above it were some rooms? A. He had a hotel.

Q. In 1925, was it the way I described it, or did he have a hotel in addition?

Mr. Turkus: I object to how it was in 1925.

Q. In 1925, at that time was it a hotel or was it just a bar and grill, concession like bowling and pool, and some rooms above the bar and grill? A. I don't know what it was in 1925.

Q. You went to work there? A. In 1925?

Q. You said so. A. He bought the place about 15 years ago; it would not be 1925.

Q. Were you there in 1925? A. Rock Hill?

Q. I am now speaking after you left Rock Hill and went to Sullivan County, Loch Scheldrake.

What year did he go there? A. About 15 years ago.

Q. I am approximately right, 1925 or 1926. Do you recall that? A. That would make it 1927.

Q. What? A. 1927.

Q. May I refresh your recollection? Did you say yesterday here that you met Charlie Gurrah Shapiro about 1925 or so? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: That is not inconsistent, because he did not say he met him at Loch Sheldrake. 6894

Mr. Barshay: I did not say it was inconsistent. I simply asked him to refresh his recollection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. It was then you met Gurrah? A. About 1925.

Q. Did you sell liquor up there in 1925? A. Where are you talking about, Rock Hill?

Q. I am talking about Loch Sheldrake. A. We did not have it then. 6895

Q. When did you have it? A. About 15 years ago.

Q. This is 1941. Now subtract 15 from 1941 in your own mind. What year was it? A. 1926.

Q. Did you sell liquor up there then? A. Loch Sheldrake? When we had Loch Sheldrake we did sell liquor.

Q. A speakeasy? A. No, sir, it was not a speakeasy.

Q. That was in violation of law? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You ran gambling there, too, didn't you? A. No, sir.

Q. That was the attraction to your father's bar and grill, wasn't it, gambling and liquor? A. I did not run it.

Q. Your father ran it, and you worked there? A. He did not.

Q. Shapiro did not stop at your father's place in 1926, did he? A. Loch Sheldrake, no.

Q. All these men you mentioned did not stop at your father's place in 1926, did they? A. No, sir.

6797 Q. They stopped in surrounding hotels? A. That is right.

Q. And your father's place attracted them because he was running a speakeasy and gambling, didn't it? A. He was running it, but if you want me to tell you who ran the gambling place, I will tell you.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out.
The Court: Motion granted.

Q. Please answer the question, Mr. Tannen-
6798 baum. What did you do there during the summers, up until the time you met Buchalter? A. I worked up there during the summer.

Q. What did you do? A. All around the place, by the boats, the lake. Used to drive to the station.

Q. In a gambling house at night? A. I did not work in a gambling house; it had nothing to do with the gambling house.

Q. Did you work there at night—yes or no? A. I did not.

Q. Did you work in a speakeasy—yes or no? A. No, sir.

Q. Never? A. No, sir.

Q. What were you making a week up there before you met Buchalter? A. I was not getting paid by the week.

Q. So you had very little money? A. Well, if we had a good summer my father used to pay me.

Q. You, personally, had very little pocket money? A. That is right.

Q. You saw all these men who came there spending rather freely? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the bug began to bite you, didn't it, 6800 isn't that so? A. The what?

Mr. Turkus: Which bug, the Charley bug?

Mr. Barshay: No, the Charley bug did not bite him.

Mr. Turkus: We will tell you more about that afterwards.

Q. You saw these men who were coming there before you met Buchalter, you saw them spending lots of money? A. Buchalter came with 6801 them.

Q. You said you met him in 1930—I am speaking about before you met him.

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is not the testimony. The testimony is—

Mr. Barshay: (Interrupting) I object to Mr. Turkus saying what the testimony is. I refer you to the record.

Mr. Turkus: At the proper time, maybe you will.

6802 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Mr. Barshay: I will let the witness read the testimony.

Q. Did you say you met Buchalter in 1930 or 1931? A. I knew him in 1930 or 1931. I went to work for him in 1930 or 1931. I met him before.

Q. Do you remember this question yesterday: "Q. When was that you first met Lepke? A. About 1930 or 1929."

6803 Did you say that yesterday? A. I went to work for him in 1930 or 1931, but I met him before.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not responsive.

The Court: Let it stand.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. The next question, right after the one I just read to you:

"Q. Are you referring to the time when you

6804 first met him at the Loch Sheldrake Country Club? A. Yes, sir."

Did you make that answer to the question as I read it to you? A. What is that?

Q. I will read them together so as to get your mind clear:

"Q. When was that you first met Lepke? A. About 1930 or 1929.

"Q. Are you referring to the time when you first met him at the Loch Sheldrake Country Club? A. Yes, sir."

Did you make those answers to the questions as I read them? A. Yes.

Q. Now, all these times until 1930 your father was asking Shapiro to put you to work? A. He was not.

Q. Shapiro forced you to work for him? A. He did not.

Q. You went there to work voluntarily? A. Where?

Q. For Shapiro? A. Greeny put me to work.

Q. Greeny? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You went to work for him eventually? A. He asked me if I wanted to go to work. 6806

Q. And you said, "Yes"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, no one put a gun to your back and made you go to work? A. No, sir.

Q. The pay was good? A. $35. a week.

Q. You enjoyed it?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Was it to your liking?

6807

Mr. Turkus: I object. Everybody likes their pay.

The Court: It is immaterial. Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. So you continued in this employ until you were getting $150. a week? A. $125.

Q. Now, in 1935, toward the end, and of the year 1936, you said you saw the defendant Buchalter? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: There is not a scintilla of evidence in the record by this witness that any such statement was made which you just said.

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel interrupting.

The Court: Yes.

Q. How often did you see him in 1936? A. Whenever I went up to the office.

Q. How often, once, twice, ten times? A. You
6809 mean during the year 1936?

Q. Yes. A. I saw him about four or five times a week.

Q. Well, did you see him after September 11, 1936, four or five times a week? A. After September 11th?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. How many times a week did you see him after that? A. I used to start going to the office less.

Q. You started going to the office less and less? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What month in 1936 did you start to do
6810 that? A. Toward the end of 1936.

Q. Was it because he told you that the police were following him? A. He did not tell me but I knew it.

Q. You knew that yourself? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew before September, 1936, that the defendant Buchalter was being followed by police? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew it in the latter part of 1935, didn't you? A. I don't know about the latter part of 1935.

Q. Did you know it in the early part of 1936? A. I knew he was being followed.

Q. Did you know until when he was being followed by the police? A. Until he went away.

Q. Do you know when he went away? A. About August of 1937.

Q. Is your memory clear on that? A. To the best of my knowledge.

Q. When did you see him last before he went away? A. Oh, I don't know, maybe a few weeks before he went away.

Q. So that, can you say with reasonable certainty, you saw him in August of 1937? 6812

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as already answered.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. (The Court) Was it in August? A. I don't know.

Q. Was it in July? A. It might have been in July.

Q. Give me your best recollection. A. I could not tell you that. A few weeks before he went away.

Q. Can you give me your best recollection now when, to your knowledge, Buchalter went away? 6813
A. About August of 1937.

Q. Your best recollection is that about two weeks before he went away in August of 1937, as you say, you saw Buchalter?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as repetitious of what he said.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. When before the time you just spoke of, two weeks before he went away, did you see Buchalter? A. What?

Q. When before the last time you saw him—next to the last time you saw him—

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as confusing.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Q. Do you know? A. No.

6815 Q. (The Court) Do you remember? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see Buchalter in February or March of 1936? A. February or March?

Q. Yes. A. I don't know.

Q. What is your best recollection? A. I don't know.

Q. Did you see him in October, or November, or December of 1936? A. I used to see him right along.

Q. If you saw him right along, you are not sure that you saw him in September, 1936? A. I know it was 1936, I was in Florida for a while.

6816 Q. You were in Florida in October of 1936? A. October?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see Buchalter then? A. I might have.

Q. I want to know your best recollection. A. I could not answer that. That is five years ago.

Q. You did not keep a diary? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not keep notes of what people say to you? A. No, sir.

Q. And you do not keep notes of where you see people? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not keep notes of what hours of the day you saw people? A. No, sir.

Q. You never made a memorandum who was present when you saw people? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see him in November of 1936? A. I don't know.

Q. Did you see him in the early part of December, 1936? A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know whether you saw him before he went away in 1937? A. No, sir.

Q. Was it at number 200 Fifth Avenue? A. 6818
I do not remember.

Q. Was it at any one of the other offices which you say you saw him at? A. I don't think so.

Q. Can you tell me, to the best of your recollection, when you saw him before he went away, two weeks before he went away? A. Toward the end we got strict orders to stay away, just before he went away; and he used to make different appointments, in different places, sometimes in the subway, sometimes in the street.

Q. Give me your best recollection when before he went away, where you saw him. A. I don't 6819 remember that.

Q. Or who was present? A. I don't remember that.

Q. When, for the first time, did you learn that Buchalter was under surveillance? A. I could not give you the date of that.

Q. Give me the approximate year. A. About 1936.

Q. Can you give me the approximate month? A. I could not give you that.

Q. Did you see Buchalter in 1935? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see him in September of 1935? A. September of 1935?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are positive of that? A. I think so.

Q. Can you tell me what part of September, 1935? A. No, sir, I could not give you the exact date.

Q. Can you tell me where you saw him in September, 1935? A. It might have been in the office.

6821 Q. Which one? A. I do not remember which one; I could not tell you the exact place.

Q. Did you see him in August of 1935? A. I might have.

Q. Give me your best recollection. A. I don't know; I could not tell you exactly.

Q. You cannot remember? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know he was in Europe in 1935? A. I knew he was in Europe.

Q. Do you know what month he was in Europe, was it in August or September? A. I don't know; I don't remember the month.

6822 Q. When he came back from Europe in 1935, did you learn that Thomas E. Dewey was appointed Special Assistant District Attorney? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it well known? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tannenbaum, were you told immediately after he came back from Europe, meaning the defendant Buchalter, in 1935, to keep away from him because Dewey's representatives or members of the Police Department attached to Dewey's office were following him day and night? A. Yes, we were told but we used to sneak over.

Q. Did you know that detectives were in front of his home? A. No.

Q. Did you know they were in front of his place of business? A. As far as I was told, they were.

Q. What? A. As far as I was told, they were.

Mr. Turkus: I think the hearsay will have to be stricken out. It may give a confused picture of what kind of surveillance this was.

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel—

The Court: It has a relation nevertheless to this witness' comings and goings in relation to Buchalter. 6824

Mr. Turkus: He has not been asked about that.

The Court: I figure that is the purpose of it. Overruled.

Q. The defendant Buchalter told you that? A. I don't remember if it was Buchalter.

Q. You knew, it, did you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you acted accordingly? A. Well, we could always sneak away from the police.

Q. The police were not good, were they? A. 6825
Not that I know of.

Q. What? A. As far as I know, we used to sneak up.

Q. What? A. We used to sneak up.

Q. Did you know that police were immediately outside of the Raleigh Clothes at 200 Fifth Avenue, in the very hallway— A. I never saw them.

Q. From time to time? A. I never saw them.

Q. Did you know some of the detectives assigned then to watch Mr. Buchalter? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know any of them? A. No, sir.

Q. Until what time—until what year, rather, did you continue to see Buchalter four or five times a week? A. About 1936 or so, some time in 1936.

Q. Can you tell me what month? A. No, I could not.

Q. What? A. No, sir.

Q. Can you tell me any other date that you met Rubin? A. No.

Q. What? A. I could not tell you the exact date.

6827 Q. Nohow?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that "nohow". That is confusing.

Q. You cannot tell me nohow? A. What do you mean, when I met Rubin?

Q. Yes, what date you met Rubin other than the time you mentioned? A. No, I could not mention it.

Q. Do you know the size of this office, the Raleigh Clothes? A. The size?

Q. Yes. A. I could not tell you the exact size.

6828 Q. Do you know the floor? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many floors did they occupy there? A. How many floors?

Q. Yes. I don't mean in space. I withdraw it. I will put it this way:

Q. Did they occupy at one time a floor other than the one you described? A. Which building are you talking about?

Q. 200 Fifth Avenue. A. They occupied any other in that building?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir, not that I know of.

Q. Didn't you know they were on the seventh floor? A. They were on the tenth floor that I know.

Q. And then on the tenth? A. They were on the tenth.

Q. Were you ever on the seventh? A. I don't think so.

Q. Do you know when they moved out? A. Out of 200?

Q. Yes. A. No.

Q. Cannot tell us at all? A. No.

Q. Do you know when the last time was you 6830 were at the Raleigh? A. The last time? It was some time in '36.

Q. Do you know the day? A. No.

Q. Do you know the construction of that office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. As you walk in, there is one outer office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it divided inside with a wooden partition, right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And two small rooms? A. Yes, sir.

Q. About eight by ten feet? A. I don't know the measurements.

Q. Can you indicate here, from the beginning 6831 of the jury rail, just exactly how the inside office, how large rather the inside office was? A. I could not tell you the exact size.

Q. Was it a small office? A. It was a medium office.

Q. How many windows in the office? A. I don't remember how many windows.

Q. Do you know how many people worked there? A. I know about how many people.

Q. How many? A. Bookkeeper, about three salesmen—he had about three salesmen up there.

6832 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. Do you know their names? A. I forgot their names.

Q. Do you know how many girls were employed there? A. I think there was two girls there, one or two girls.

Q. Did you know their names? A. One was Charlie Gurrah's niece.

Q. You knew her? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The other one? A. The other one I don't know.

6833 Q. Do you know anyone else who was working there? A. In that particular office?

Q. Yes. A. The same people that worked over in 22nd Street and Fifth Avenue went over there.

Q. That was an office of a Baltimore concern, wasn't it? A. Raleigh Manufacturing Company.

Q. Their main factory was in Baltimore? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This was a buying office, was it not, a selling office? A. Selling office.

Q. And people used to come there to sell cloth, is that correct? A. Yes.

6834 Q. And it was a very active office? A. Sometimes it was active.

Q. The outer office was always active, wasn't it? A. Well, no, not always.

Q. Well, there were girls there? A. There was a girl worked there.

Q. Typewriters, telephone? A. Yes.

Q. Filing system? A. Yes.

Q. Cabinets? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Samples? A. I don't know if the samples were outside.

Q. Samples of cloth, not the finished product but samples of cloth? A. They had cloth samples there, yes.

Q. Was the defendant Buchalter's name on the door? A. I don't think so.

Q. What? A. I don't think so.

Q. Was it on the inner door? A. I don't think so.

Q. Can you pick out any one in this courtroom who worked there? Do you think you can?

The Court: It is a pretty big courtroom, Mr. Barshay.

Mr. Barshay: That is all right. That 6836 is the only way.

The Court: Do you want him to step down and walk around? I doubt if he can do it up here. I have been trying to pick out some relative of mine, without success.

Mr. Barshay: I won't bother the Court with having him walk down, although that is the proper way.

The Court: It will be done, if you wish.

Q. You walked into this Raleigh, you say, on September 11, 1936? 6837

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. There was no testimony by this witness as to the date.

The Court: I think that is right, Mr. Barshay.

Q. All right, I will ask you what day did you go there? A. I don't remember the date.

Q. What day of the week was it? A. It was on a Friday.

Q. Had your father's place been opened in Loch Sheldrake at that time? A. It was right after Labor Day.

Q. Yes. Didn't your father keep open for the Jewish holidays? A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know when the Jewish holidays followed Labor Day then? A. No, sir.

Q. I am speaking of the Jewish holidays, that is Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur. A. Yes, I know.

Q. Wasn't it the custom to keep open in Sul-
6839 livan County until the end of the Jewish holidays? A. Some places did and some places didn't.

Q. What was the custom with respect to your father? A. Sometimes he kept open.

Q. What did he do that year? A. I don't remember what he did.

Q. You have no recollection? A. No.

Q. Have you a recollection of being at the Laurel Club that week-end, the Labor Day week-end? A. The Laurel Club?

Q. The Laurel Country Club. A. I don't re-6840 member.

Q. You don't remember that? A. No.

Q. Have you a recollection of being at the Park Hotel? A. Park Hotel?

Q. Yes. A. Where is the Park Hotel?

Q. Is there a Park Hotel in Sullivan County, to your knowledge? A. I don't know.

Q. The Palace Hotel? A. I don't know.

Q. You don't remember those? Do you recall now whether or not your father kept his place open during the Jewish holidays of September, 1936? A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you recall staying there any portion of those holidays? A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you recall what date you left Sullivan County? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you recall what date you arrived in New York? A. No, sir.

The Court: Were not those holidays in October?

Mr. Barshay: Not that year, your Honor. I can say with reasonable certainty they were September 17th. They began September 17th. That is the best I can get. They don't always run in October; mostly in September. 6842

Q. You have no recollection of your doings? A. Of what?

Q. I said, you have no recollection of your doings?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

Mr. Barshay: Let me finish. I will make it more specific. 6843

Q. You have no recollection with respect to your doings before September 11, 1936? A. Before September 11th?

Q. Yes, when you came from Sullivan County, when you arrived. A. I came in to New York.

Q. You don't know the date, do you? A. No, the exact date I don't know.

Q. Did you go back to Sullivan County in September of 1936? A. After I came back?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go back to help your father close

6844 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

his place? A. I did not work for my father any more.

Q. I did not say you did. Did you go back to help him close his place? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go back to gather up the slot machines in 1936 for that year?

Mr. Turkus: Object to it.

A. I did not have any slot machines to gather 6845 up.

Q. You did not see them? A. I saw them. I had no part of them.

Q. Were they in your father's place then? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know who put them there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your friend, wasn't it? A. No, sir.

Q. Was it the same man on whose farm a body of one of the men you mentioned was buried?

6846 Mr. Turkus: Let us have identities mentioned for the record. I object to the question.

Q. Do you know the man I mean? Do you know the body I mean? A. Yes.

Q. What was the name? A. Chink Sherman.

Q. That is the same man who put the slot machines in your father's place? A. Chink Sherman?

Q. No, the man who owned the ground. A. No, he did not have any slot machines in my father's place.

Q. Was it another man? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you give us his name? A. I can give you his first name.

Q. What was his first name? A. Morris.

Q. You don't know his second name at all? A. No.

Q. Do you know what time you came up to this office at the Raleigh to see Buchalter? A. When are you talking about?

Q. What? A. When are you talking about?

Q. The time you are talking about.

6848

Mr. Turkus: I object to this colloquy between the witness and the lawyer. That is prone to start some discussion—

Mr. Barshay: Please, Mr. Turkus, there is no colloquy. I put a question to the man.

Mr. Turkus: He asked you a question and you answered him one back, and that will start an argument. I object to that type of examination.

The Court: Better reframe it.

6849

Q. I am talking about the Friday. Now you understand? A. Yes, sir.

Q. But you don't know the date? You don't know the date or the month? A. The date?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. So we speak of it as Friday? A. Yes, sir.

Q. But it is clear what day we are speaking of? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know what time you came in? A. Sometime in the afternoon.

Q. Do you know the time? A. No.

Q. Can you give me the approximate time? A. No, sir. All I can say was the afternoon.

6850 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. The afternoon is quite big, isn't it? A. Yes.

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Q. You tell me your best recollection of the hour.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He stated that he could not.

6851 The Court: Are you in a position to make any estimate as to the hour that is fairly accurate?

The Witness: No, I could not give an accurate hour.

Q. I will try to probe your recollection. Was it three o'clock? A. I would not say for sure.

Q. Four o'clock? A. It was sometime in the afternoon.

Q. I am trying for a purpose to find out if you can fix your recollection. A. I would not say for sure.

6852 Q. You had a very vivid recollection as to the conversation, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. But you have no recollection as to the hour you came? A. The exact hour I don't know.

Q. I don't want the exact hour. A. It was sometime in the afternoon.

Q. Was it five o'clock?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You have not any idea whatever? A. No.

Q. Do you know what time you left? A. No, I could not give you the time.

Q. Do you know how long you stayed there? A. About a half hour or so.

Q. Do you know who was in the office when you first came? A. In which office? There were three rooms to that office.

Q. I am speaking of the main office, when you entered the door, and in the outer room. A. The outer room?

Q. Yes. A. The girl was there. 6854

Q. Which one? A. I don't know which one.

Q. You don't recall that? A. No.

Q. Anybody else there? A. I don't remember if there was anybody else there.

Q. Speak up, please. A. I say I don't remember if there was anybody else there.

Q. Did you know Frank Cohen there? A. Who?

Q. Frank Cohen. A. I don't recall the name.

Q. Do you know who was in charge of that office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know his name? A. Yes, sir. 6855

Q. What is his name? A. Carl Shapiro.

Q. Carl Shapiro was in charge of the factory and traveled from the factory to the office. You knew that? A. As far as I knew, he was in charge of Raleigh Manufacturing Company.

Q. Was Carl Shapiro there that day? A. I don't recall.

Q. You knew him well? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You don't recall seeing him, do you? A. I don't remember. Sometimes if I went up there he was there; sometimes he was not there.

Q. How many people who worked there did you see that day when you entered? A. They might have been in different rooms. I don't know how many were there. I saw the girl outside. I remember her.

Q. Only one? A. Yes, I think there was one girl.

Q. That is all? A. I would not say for sure how many was there.

Q. Did you speak to her? A. Just, "Hello."

Q. Was it Naomi Shapiro? A. That's her name. Naomi Shapiro worked there.

6857 Q. Did you speak to her that day? A. I don't remember if I spoke; probably said hello and kept walking.

Q. Do you remember her definitely being there that day? A. I can't say definitely.

Q. Do you remember the other girl being there that day? A. No.

Q. Was this after the lunch hour that you came up? A. I think it was, yes.

Q. How many people would you say you saw in the outer room as you entered? A. I would not say for sure.

6858 Q. About how many? A. I don't know. I would not answer.

Q. Would you say one? A. One I know I seen.

Q. Would you say two?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He has indicated—

Mr. Barshay: I object to counsel making a speech so that the witness can gain some suggestion, even though it may not be intended for that purpose.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Turkus: I have heard these charges before.

Mr. Barshay: I am not making any charges.

Mr. Turkus: They are underhand attacks to bait the prosecutor.

Mr. Barshay: You are an expert at that.

Mr. Turkus: You are an expert at that, and your coterie of counsel with you.

The Court: Lots of compliments. 6860

Mr. Barshay: All right, let us skip it.

Mr. Rosenthal: I thought we started out without casting slurs on one another. "Coterie," I assume, means everybody.

Mr. Cuff: He did not leave me out either.

The Court: You are smiling, and Mr. Barshay is smiling, so I guess everything is all right.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will forgive him.

Mr. Turkus: There are so many of you, I got confused. I should not have said "coterie." 6861

Q. Tannenbaum, can you tell me in your best recollection how many people you saw in the outer room? A. No, I couldn't.

Q. Was it more than one? A. Possibly.

Q. Was it more than two? A. I could not say for sure.

Q. Did you see different people in that room? A. What do you mean by different people?

Q. I am using your expression at page 2098: "When you went up to that office to make your 6862 report, as you stated to the jury, whom did you see in the office? A. I saw different people that worked there. Then I walked into one of the rooms and I saw Lepke."

Don't shake your head, please. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which different people did you see there? A. People that work there. I don't know their names. I don't remember their names.

Q. How many? A. I don't know. I would not say the exact amount.

6863 Q. Can you give me your best definition of what you mean by "different people," in numbers?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. The testimony has been elicited clearly as to what his recollection is.

The Court: Obviously there was nothing to attract his attention to that unless he went up in connection with people who worked there. Did that register?

The Witness: No, sir.

6864 The Court: Let it go at that.

Q. Were there people there other than those who worked there?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

A. I don't remember.

Q. You do not remember, do you? A. No.

Q. Now, the partitions are made of wood. Is that so? A. I imagine so.

Q. Oak wood? A. I don't know what kind of wood.

Q. Do you know the color of wood? A. I don't know.

Q. And did the partitions made of wood run to the ceiling?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. The witness said he imagined they were made of wood. That does not make them made of wood.

The Court: Don't imagine anything.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the question.

The Court: Just state, Mr. Witness, 6866
what you know.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the question.

The Court: He can say whether he noticed if the partitions ran to the ceiling.

The Witness: I don't know.

Q. Whatever they were made of, Tannenbaum, did they run to the ceiling? A. I don't know. I don't remember that. Never noticed.

Q. Were the partition part up against the wall made of some substance which was solid and the other part up to the ceiling a substance which was glass? 6867
A. I don't know.

Q. You do not recall that? A. I never noticed it.

Q. Were the transoms open so that the outer room could get air from the inner room if the windows were open? A. I don't know.

Q. You do not recall that at all? Were you told there was a dictaphone in that room? A. No, sir.

Q. When you went into the outer office, did you announce yourself? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you hear a lot of noise? A. No. No.

6868 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. Did you hear any voices within the room? A. I heard voices.

Q. Could you hear it from where you were in the outer room? A. Could I what? Could I hear it from the outer room?

Q. When you were in the outer office, could you hear the voices in the inner room? A. I could hear voices, yes.

Q. Loud enough— A. You could not make it out though, could not understand it.

6869 Q. Well, as you got into the outer office of this Raleigh, from the noises that you heard did you come to the conclusion that they were speaking louder than in the ordinary tone? A. No.

Q. What? A. No.

Q. Did the voices seem excited inside? A. I could not make it out through the wall.

Q. Not in the hall? A. I said through the wall.

Q. Did they sound loud and angry?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already 6870 answered.

The Court: Just yes or no. Could you tell?

The Witness: What is that?

The Court: Did they sound loud and angry?

The Witness: No, I could not tell.

Q. And so you opened the door of Buchalter's office, did you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just when Rubin was there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell me of any other time when that same occurrence took place, that you opened the door and you saw Rubin and Buchalter speaking? A. I used to see them together a lot.

Q. Give me one time. A. I could not give you the exact time. I saw them together a lot of times.

Q. In that office? A. In that office, Fifth Avenue.

Q. Give me now the exact time or near the exact time as you can when you saw that situation? A. I could not tell you the exact time.

Q. Nobody asked you to stay out of that office, 6872 that private office, where Rubin and Buchalter were speaking? A. No, sir.

Q. Just walked right in and sat down? A. That is right.

Q. At that time the conversation was loud and angry, wasn't it? A. When I walked in, yes.

Q. And it continued loud and angry for how long? A. A few minutes.

Q. Were the voices raised when you walked in? A. Louis was angry.

Q. Were the voices raised, that of Louis or Rubin?

6873

Mr. Turkus: Object as already answered. He said Louis was angry.

The Court: Let it stand. Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. When you walked in was Buchalter's voice louder than what you heard on the outside? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Much louder? A. A little louder.

Q. Shouting? A. Not shouting.

Q. Very angry? A. He was angry.

6874 Q. He did not subside when you walked in? A. No, sir.

Q. No request to come out into the hallway? A. What?

Q. There was no request by Buchalter to come out into the hallway? A. Request of me?

Q. Of you or of Rubin? A. Not that I know.

Q. Were the voices at the time when you got into the room loud enough to be heard on the outside?

6875 Mr. Turkus: I object to that. That is something he could not tell. Mr. Barshay has him in the room now with these two individuals, Lepke and Rubin, where there is a conversation and asks him were the voices there loud, loud enough for people on the outside to hear. That is an impossibility.

The Court: That calls for expert testimony but he can state whether they were loud or whether they were quiet.

6876 Q. What were they?

The Court: Were they loud?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the word "they" because the testimony is that only one voice was raised.

Mr. Barshay: All right, Buchalter's.

The Court: Was Buchalter's voice loud?

The Witness: It was not too loud.

Q. It was not too loud? A. No.

Q. He was not trying to modulate his tone so that he could not be heard on the outside?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. He cannot tell what Lepke was trying to do.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Normally Buchalter talks in a quiet tone, does he not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Isn't that his normal speech? A. Yes, sir. 6878

Q. About as quiet as you were talking on the stand until the Judge asked you to raise your voice? A. Yes, sir.

Q. But this time he was shouting?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. That is not the testimony.

The Court: I don't think he said. Did he say shouting?

Mr. Turkus: He did not.

Mr. Barshay: Judge, I must not have him repeat what he said in his testimony. That is the very purpose of cross-examination, to see what his recollection is now. 6879

The Court: Counselor, the reason I asked you is because you say "this time he was shouting." You did not say it with an upward inflection but you said it as a statement, with a downward inflection.

Mr. Barshay: I am questioning him, Judge. I have not even turned to the page so I do not know.

The Court: You can ask him if he was shouting.

(Pending question read.)

6880

A. He was not shouting. He was talking louder than he usually does.

The Court: Does he usually talk in undertones?

The Witness: Not undertones—soft.

The Court: Quiet spoken?

The Witness: Yes.

Q. Was he yelling?

6881

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: He said he was not shouting. Now the question is, was he yelling?

Mr. Turkus: That is a play on words.

Mr. Barshay: Just a second, please. I must have Mr. Turkus not interfere. I do not want to make any accusations but this is a smart witness.

Mr. Turkus: Every witness in this case is sure to be smart. If they were so smart, they would not have been here, you bet your life.

6882

Mr. Barshay: I won't answer that now. I will later.

The Court: Objection is overruled. Was he yelling?

The Witness: He was talking louder than he usually does.

Q. Was he yeling? Yes or no.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That is already answered.

The Court: Overruled. Just yes or no, was he yelling?

The Witness: He was talking louder than he usually does.

Q. Can we get an answer to that, Tannenbaum, yes or no? A. I would not call it yelling.
Q. You would not call it yelling? A. No.
Q. That is the truth? A. What?

Mr. Barshay: I withdraw the question.

At page 2099: 6884
Q. "Q. Now, when Lepke's face was flushed, what did you hear him say to Rubin, in substance, the best you can recall? A. He was yelling at Max and he was saying"—do you remember—

Mr. Turkus: Finish the answer.
Mr. Barshay: Wait a minute, please.
Mr. Turkus: Finish the answer.
Mr. Barshay: Judge, can I go one step at a time?
Mr. Turkus: No, you cannot read a question and a partial answer. That is 6885 not permitted.
The Court: Overruled. Did you use the word "yelling" there? Yesterday did you use the word "yelling"?
The Witness: I don't remember.

Q. You do not remember whether you used the word "yelling" yesterday? Is that your answer? Is that your answer? A. I might have used "yelling".
Q. As a matter of fact wasn't he yelling so loudly that Max tried to quiet him? A. For Louis it was yelling.

Q. In all that conversation about Rosen, calling Rosen an s.o.b., all that—remember? A. Yes.

Q. And "that is the last time and he won't go down to Dewey"? Remember that conversation? A. Yes.

Q. That is the conversation you described in your direct testimony as yelling; isn't that so?

6887 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did not ask you to get out of the room? A. No, sir.

Q. Wanted you to hear it?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He cannot tell what Lepke wanted him to hear.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. He did not ask you to get out of the room? A. No, sir.

6888 Q. He did not ask Rubin to go in the public hallway, in the main hallway, of the building? A. No, sir.

Q. He did not open the door, Buchalter did not, to see if anyone came into the outer office? Did he? A. No.

Q. What? A. Not that I remember.

Q. He did not open the door to see who was in the outer room at that conversation? A. Not that I know.

Q. You did not see him do it? A. No.

Q. Do you recall exactly what was said? A. I don't recall the exact words.

Q. You are sure you heard him say—you are snre you heard Buchalter say to Rubin, "Go ahead if you want to see him go ahead but make sure to come back and let me know what happened"? A. Yes, sure.

Q. That remained in your mind from 1936, on that Friday, until you testified yesterday? A. Well, I don't know if that is the exact words but I heard him say that.

Q. Did you give us what Buchalter said yesterday or did you give us your idea of what he 6890 said? A. What he said.

Q. I am asking you now, did he use the words to Rubin, in the presence and hearing of Rubin—A. Yes.

Q. In this conversation that was yelling: "Go ahead if you want to see him, go ahead, but make sure to come back and let me know what happened?" A. That is right.

Q. That was Buchalter's exact words? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Said in the presence of Rubin, said in the hearing of Rubin? A. Yes, sir. 6891

Q. You made no note of that? A. Note?

Q. Yes. A. No.

Q. When you went out of the room how many people were in the outer room? A. I don't know.

Q. Don't remember that? A. No.

Q. Anybody speak to you? A. No, sir.

Q. Where did you go after that? A. Went around. I went out, probably went uptown.

Q. What? A. Probably went uptown.

Q. You don't remember? A. No.

6892 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. You don't remember where you went that night? A. No.

Q. You don't remember where you went the next day? A. Where I went?

Q. Yes. A. No.

Q. You don't? No recollection whatever? A. No.

Q. What? A. No, sir.

Q. That was a Saturday? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know where you were Sunday? A.
6893 No.

Q. Do you know whom you saw Saturday? A. No.

Q. Have no recollection whatever? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see Shapiro Saturday? A. Might have.

Q. Have you a recollection? A. No.

Q. Did you see any Shapiro Saturday? A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember that? Did you have a hotel or did your family have a hotel in Long Beach then? A. My family have a hotel?

6894 Q. Yes. A. No.

Q. Were you at Long Beach that week-end? A. No, sir.

Q. You are positive? A. Yes.

Q. Did you register at the Nassau Hotel that Saturday, in Long Beach? A. Never lived in the Nassau Hotel.

Q. What? A. Never lived in the Nassau Hotel.

Q. I did not ask you that. Did you register at the Nassau Hotel? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever register at the Nassau Hotel? A. No, sir.

Q. You were not there? A. No, sir.

Q. At any time in your life? A. No, sir.

Q. In Long Beach? A. No, sir—I was in Long Beach but not at the Nassau.

Q. Which hotel? A. Never lived in Long Beach.

Q. I did not say lived. Did you register for the night? A. No.

Q. At no hotel in Long Beach? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you ever in a hotel at Long Beach? A. No, sir.

Q. In that conversation with Buchalter you 6896 heard the name Rosen, did you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew Rubin at that time was a representative of a union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew it was the Truckmen's Union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you hear in that conversation that Rosen was a truckman? A. No, sir.

Q. Was that the first time you heard the name Rosen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you at that time know that Rubin was also interested in the flour trucking business in 6897 some fashion or other? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew he was part and parcel of a scheme to extort money from flour merchants?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: It calls for a conclusion.

Mr. Turkus: That does not go to his credibility.

The Court: Also hearsay. It is not evidence.

6898 Q. Did Rubin ever tell you that?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception, your Honor.

The Court: It is collateral impeachment, does not come under the rule.

Mr. Barshay: I am laying my foundation for something else, not to impeach him.

6899 The Court: What is the purpose?

Mr. Barshay: Well, if I say the purpose openly, Judge, I am afraid the witness will get my idea.

The Court: Not to impeach him?

Mr. Barshay: No, not to impeach him.

The Court: You cannot impeach Rubin that way.

Mr. Bar hay: No, I am not asking to impeach Rubin. It is on the question of flight.

The Court: Of Rubin's flight?

6900 Mr. Barshay: Yes.

The Court: You mean to challenge Rubin's testimony that he did?

Mr. Barshay: Not to challenge it, but to show whom he was fleeing from.

The Court: That would have to be by way of collateral impeachment or specific impeachment.

Mr. Barshay: Just laying my foundation.

The Court: Pardon me just a minute.

Mr. Barshay: I beg your pardon?

The Court: I am thinking. No, I do not see where the rules of evidence as to either collateral or specific impeachment of Rubin on that point apply. Rubin has denied having fled for any other reason than the Rosen murder, hasn't he?

Mr. Barshay: I beg your Honor's pardon. To the contrary.

The Court: I am asking you.

Mr. Barshay: My idea is that Rubin has admitted flight from Dewey but he also adds flight from the Rosen case. 6902

The Court: You mean flight for general reasons, to keep away from Dewey?

Mr. Barshay: That is right. My purpose, your Honor, was to show that there was no flight on Rubin's part from the Rosen case, but a definite purpose to flee from the Dewey investigation. I hope to prove that.

The Court: Yes, but the objection is sustained because you are not under the rule.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. 6903

Q. Did Rubin ever tell you that Dewey was looking for him? A. No, sir.

The Court: That what?

Mr. Barshay: That Dewey was looking for him.

Mr. Turkus: He has answered "No."

Q. When did you learn of the Rosen murder? A. I think it was Sunday night.

Q. You read about it in the newspapers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You read, I may say, tomorrow's edition today; is that so? A. That is right.

Q. What papers did you read? A. News, the Mirror.

Q. Any others? A. No.

Q. The next morning did you read the other papers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Still about the Rosen murder? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Frankly, it made the headlines then, didn't it? A. I think so.

6905 Q. You read it quite in detail? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Because when you read the name of the victim, it recollected to your mind exactly what happened? A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that in that story did you read in either the News, Mirror, or any other newspaper, that Rosen was a truckman? Did you? A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't recall that? A. No.

Q. You don't recall reading in the newspaper that Sunday with respect to the name of Rosen as to the alleged motive of his killing? You don't 6906 remember that? A. I don't think so, no.

Q. Weren't the papers full of the story? A. They were full of the murder.

Q. Yes? A. Yes.

Q. And the alleged reason for the murder? A. I don't remember about the reason in the papers.

Q. And who it was? A. Who what was?

Q. Who it was that was killed. A. Rosen.

Q. Isn't that so? You knew that? A. Yes.

Q. Something occurred in your mind of the similarity of names? A. Yes.

Q. Did it occur to your mind that the name

Rosen mentioned the day before was the same person mentioned in the newspaper? A. It occurred to me it might be.

Q. You guessed at it? A. Yes.

Q. Well, in reading the details, did it say that Rosen was a truckman?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. 6908

Q. The following day did you read it? A. I think so. What do you mean now, Tuesday or Monday?

Q. Monday.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the word "it" as confusing. Read "it" in referring to the Rosen murder would be one thing; read "it" referring to something else, is another thing.

The Court: The Court assumes "it" means the Rosen murder. 6909

Mr. Turkus: I know, but when you read questions back afterwards that assumption is not worth anything. "It" is confusing on the record.

Mr. Barshay: I did not know anything was confusing to you, but all right.

Q. I mean the Rosen murder, did you read it? A. I might have.

Q. Any other papers? A. I think so.

Q. What other papers did you read then? A. The Journal and some other paper.

6910

Q. Did you read in those papers who Rosen was? A. I don't remember if it was in the papers.

Q. Did it say something about him being a member of the Trucking Union or that he was a truckman? A. I don't remember that.

Q. Or that Dewey was looking for him? A. There was something in there about Dewey.

Q. Isn't that so? A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you knew, did you not, after you read
6911 the papers—you tell me whether you did or not —who Rosen was, without knowing him personally, when you finished reading all the accounts in all the press?

Mr. Turkus: Is this going to open up the newspaper articles for the jury?

The Court: Please.

Mr. Turkus: I am satisfied, if that is the purpose.

The Court: No objection?

Mr. Turkus: No objection to newspapers
6912 going in, if they want to be offered.

The Court: I say there is no objection before the Court; there is nothing to rule on.

Mr. Turkus: Then I object to the form of the question.

The Court: The form of the question is indefinite.

Mr. Barshay: All right, I will reframe it; but will your Honor entertain a motion on my part, please, to instruct the District Attorney to make no such comment as he did?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: By indirection he is trying to put in evidence—

Mr. Barshay: There he goes again.

Mr. Turkus: —a recollection and a newspaper article of five years ago.

The Court: You are so instructed. Go ahead, Counsellor. I take it you mean, Mr. Barshay, whether or not when he read it he placed Rosen as the same person who had been discussed by Rubin.

Mr. Barshay: I go further. He has 6914 already admitted that. I go further than that. But again I am forced into the position, Judge, to give myself away if I explain it.

The Court: You will have the latitude, although the question is a little ambiguous, too general.

Mr. Barshay: I withdraw it.

Q. Do you recollect the contents of any of the articles you read in the newspaper with respect to the killing of this man Rosen? A. I read 6915 something about Dewey in there.

Q. You recall that? A. Yes.

Q. You recall the name Rosen? A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall the address of where the killing took place? A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you recall it was East New York or Brownsville? A. You mean now?

Q. Now, do you recall now whether or not that was in the papers? A. It mentioned candy store.

Q. Yes, in East New York or Brownsville: do you recall it? A. Yes.

Q. Now do you recall whether or not the item in any of the papers described the victim Rosen as a truckman? A. I don't remember that.

Q. Or connected with the Clothing Truckmen's Union? A. No, I don't remember that.

Q. Do you recall whether or not the papers said anything at all about this Rosen threatened to go— Withdrawn. Rather, being a witness for Dewey? A. There was something in the paper about it.

6917 Q. You do recall that? A. Yes.

Q. Did you see Rubin after that? A. I don't think so.

Q. What? A. No, I don't think so.

Q. You never saw Rubin after that Friday? A. No.

Q. What? A. I don't think so.

Q. That was the last day you saw him in your life? A. No.

Q. When did you see him again? A. I saw him this past summer.

Q. When? A. This past summer.

6918 Q. At the Half Moon Hotel? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Between the Friday that you described of this talk, did you see Rubin at all between then, 1936, and this last summer? A. I might have seen him.

Q. What? A. I might have seen him.

Q. You tell me where you might have seen him? A. I don't know where I might have seen him. I don't remember that.

Q. Will you tell me when? A. I would not tell you the exact time.

Q. Give me the approximate time, when subsequent to September 1, 1936, that you saw Rubin. A. What? In '36?

Q. Yes, after the day you saw him at Buchalter's office, when again did you see Rubin next? A. I don't remember that.

Q. Well, did you see him that year, 1936? A. I don't know. I said I might have seen him after that.

Q. Have you any recollection at all? A. No.

Q. What? A. No, I have not.

Q. Have you any recollection of seeing him in '37, the early part of '37? A. No.

Q. Have you a recollection of seeing him after 6920
October, 1937? A. No, I don't remember.

Q. Have you ever seen him in the market when he was under police guard after October, 1937? A. No.

Q. Have you seen him before Buchalter was indicted for this crime in the month of May, 1940? A. May, 1940?

Q. Yes. A. No.

Q. So that your answer is that between September 11th, or the Friday of which you do not know the date, 1936, and until this summer, you can give us no recollection of ever having seen 6921
Rubin? A. I have seen him.

Q. But Rubin did see you in Buchalter's office that day? A. He should have seen me.

Q. And you knew each other? A. Yes, sure.

Q. Now, in December of 1937 did you learn that something happened to Rubin? A. That what?

Q. You did not hear me, Tannenbaum? A. No, I did not hear the full question.

Q. I will reframe the question. Did you hear that something happened to Rubin in, sometime in 1937, the latter part? Yes or no. A. I heard something happened to him.

Q. Yes. After that did you see him? A. After 1937?

Q. Yes. A. I seen him once.

Q. Where? A. I met him over in the Federal Grand Jury building in 1939.

Q. Did you talk to him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you talk to him? At that time you were not under arrest, were you? A. No, sir.

Q. You mean, you gave testimony in a harboring case there, did you not? A. No.

6923 Q. In the Federal Grand Jury? A. Special Grand Jury.

Q. Was it Dewey's office or the Federal Building? A. Federal.

Q. You know that building? A. I was in it once or twice.

Q. Did you speak to Rubin then? A. Yes.

Q. You were a witness before that jury, were you not? A. I had a subpoena.

Q. Yes. You came there pursuant to the subpoena? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Came there yourself? A. Yes, sir.

6924 Q. Your movements were not restricted? A. No, sir.

Q. Where did you speak to Rubin? A. In the hallway.

Q. Who was with him? A. There was a policeman with him.

Q. What? A. There was a policeman with him.

Q. Were you prohibited from speaking to him or were you allowed to speak to him? A. No, I just said, "Hello, how are you feeling?" He walked over to me.

Q. That is all? A. That is all.

Q. Nothing was mentioned about the occurrence of September, 1936, when you were in the same room with Buchalter, at the conference, at the few words you had with Rubin in the Federal hall? A. No, sir.

Q. Not a word? A. No, sir.

Q. No cops detained you? A. At that time?

Q. Yes. A. No.

Q. You were allowed to walk away? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were around New York? A. Yes, sir. 6926

Q. Lived with your wife and family? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Nobody told you to run away? A. No, sir.

Q. You were not questioned by the police? A. No, sir.

Q. When did you go to Florida? A. When?

Q. Yes, after that. A. January of 1940.

Q. Under your own name? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Openly? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Lived openly? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Nobody questioned you? A. No, sir.

Q. So that from December, 1937, until you were picked up in this case— I withdraw the question. —until you were arrested in March or April of 1940, no person had questioned you about the Rosen case? 6927

Mr. Turkus: March was the date.

Q. March, 1940. A. From when?

Q. Put it this way: Up to March, 1940, when you were arrested in Brooklyn, you had not been questioned about the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. Not even after you saw Rubin in the Federal Building?

6928 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered. It has been answered twice.

The Court: That is what he said.

Q. You read in the papers of the arrest of Abe Reles when you were in Florida? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not run away? A. No.

Q. At that time you already knew that Buchalter surrendered in August of 1939 to Edgar 6929 Hoover, did you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew he was in prison, did you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew he had been convicted in the Federal Court? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew he had already been tried in the flour case in General Sessions in New York, did you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew he had already been sentenced? A. I don't know if he was sentenced yet.

Q. Did you read about it? A. I don't remember.

Q. All this time you say you were getting your 6930 pay? A. Yes, sir.

Q. $125 a week? A. $100 a week.

Q. While Buchalter was in prison? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Living in Florida? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Not working? A. No, sir.

Q. How long did you stay in Florida before you came back in 1940? A. About two and a half months, two months, something like that.

Q. When you came back from Florida, you lived in Brooklyn with your wife and family? A. When I came back from Florida?

Q. Yes. A. I was arrested when I came back from Florida.

Q. But before your arrest, you lived in Brooklyn? A. Before I went to Florida?

Q. No, before your arrest in 1940, when you came from Florida, you lived in Brooklyn, didn't you? A. 1940?

Q. Yes. A. When I came from Florida?

Q. Yes. A. I was arrested.

Q. The same day? A. Two days later.

Q. That day you did go back to your home, 6932 didn't you? A. No, sir.

Q. Where did you go? A. Went to somebody's house in Brighton Beach.

Q. With your wife and family? A. No, sir.

Q. Yourself? A. I came up alone.

Q. You rode up from Florida? A. By train.

Q. In the train, is that so? A. Yes.

Q. The last day you left Florida you were still under your own name? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You saw lots of people in Florida whom you knew in Brooklyn, did you not? A. That I knew in Brooklyn?

Q. Yes, in Florida then you saw lots of people 6933 whom you knew from Brooklyn? A. Yes.

Q. Can you give me the address where you lived in Florida then? A. Meridian Avenue.

Q. Under your own name? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Near where?
The Witness: 1427.

Q. When did your wife and child leave Florida? A. Oh, about ten days to two weeks after I came back.

Q. So you left them there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In Florida, during that period, you went out nights, saw people? A. Yes.

Q. Undisguised? You did not disguise yourself? A. No. The time I was in Florida.

Q. You met some New York City policemen, didn't you, in Florida—I don't mean socially; you bunked into them accidentally? A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember any at all? A. I don't know many policemen.

6935 Q. Did you know there were New York City policemen assigned to Florida during the winter season? A. No.

Q. Did you see any of them around the gambling houses where you worked? A. (No answer.)

Q. At any rate, you were not running away from them? A. No.

Q. When you came back to New York, can you tell me the exact date when you were placed under arrest? A. No, I could not tell you the exact date.

6936 Q. You don't remember? Do you know the day of the week? A. I think it was a Saturday.

Q. Do you know the early part of March or the latter part of March? A. March.

Q. You do not know which part? A. I think it was the latter part of March.

Q. Do you know whether it was day time or night time? A. When I was arrested?

Q. Yes. A. Night time.

Q. Were you told what you were arrested for? A. Not when I was arrested.

Q. Did you ask what they were charging you with? A. I asked the detective.

Q. What did he say? A. He did not answer me.

Q. You were taken where? A. I was taken down to Greenwich Street, New York.

Q. Greenwich Street, New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you booked? A. I don't know.

Q. Were you questioned? A. Not there.

Q. Do you know who arrested you, wherever you were arrested in March of 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. Detective Belsky. 6938

Q. And who else? A. I don't know the other fellow's name.

Q. He took you directly to Greenwich Street station in Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. There were you told by anyone the reason for your arrest? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you find out that night the reason for your arrest? A. Did I what?

Q. Did you find out that night the reason for your arrest? A. No, sir.

Q. How long were you kept at the Greenwich Street station house? A. A few hours.

Q. During that time were you questioned about the Rosen case? A. No, sir. 6939

Q. Were you booked at that station house? A. I don't know where I was booked.

Q. You know what it means to book a man? A. Fingerprint him and take his picture.

Q. Yes, right in front of the lieutenant's desk. A. No, not in Greenwich Street.

The Court: Make the blotter entries.

The Witness: Not in Greenwich Street, I don't think.

6940 Q. Did anyone from the Brooklyn District Attorney's office question you at the Greenwich Street station house? A. No, sir.

Q. Where were you taken from the Greenwich Street station house? A. Taken to Coney Island Court.

Q. Coney Island Court? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You mean the next morning? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you spend the night? A. I think it was in headquarters.

6941 Q. Manhattan? A. I think so.

Q. In other words, were you taken from Greenwich Street to Police Headquarters in Manhattan? A. Coney Island.

Q. Which headquarters do you refer to that you spent the night in? A. I think it was Manhattan headquarters.

Q. 240 Centre Street? A. Yes.

Q. Is that where you slept? A. I think so.

Q. Were you questioned there during the night by anyone from any office with respect to the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

6942 Q. In the morning you were taken to Coney Island Court, is that so? A. Yes. The first night I was arrested I was all night in Greenwich Street.

Q. That is what I am asking you. A. Yes.

Q. During that night, were you questioned about the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you charged with any participation in the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see anyone from Judge O'Dwyer's office at the Greenwich Street station during that night? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see anyone from Inspector Mc-

Dermott's office during that night whom you knew? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see Inspector McDermott? A. I don't know Inspector McDermott.

Q. In the morning you were taken to Coney Island and you were charged with what? A. Vagrancy.

Q. You were arraigned before the magistrate? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you let out on bail? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you in jail from the day of your 6944 arrest until you were discharged in the Magistrates' Court for vagrancy? A. Was I in jail?

Q. Yes. A. Yes.

Q. Which jail? A. I was in custody.

Q. What? A. I was in custody.

Q. Where were you in custody during those days? A. I was in Coney Island Court a while. I was in Snyder Avenue.

Q. For another while? A. Yes.

Q. Let us see. Were you arrested on March 23, 1940, about 11 p.m.? A. At night.

Q. Yes. A. It was about that time. 6945

Q. You did not get out on bail on the 23rd, did you? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not get out on bail on the 24th, did you? A. No.

Q. You did not get out on bail on the 25th, did you? A. No, sir.

Q. And during those days, Tannenbaum, were you questioned about the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. By no one? A. No, sir.

Q. During those days had you seen anyone from Judge O'Dwyer's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you see? A. I saw Mr. Turkus. I saw Mr. Heffernan.

Q. Mr. who? A. Heffernan.

Q. Edward Heffernan? A. Yes.

Q. Anyone else? A. A few people.

Q. How soon after your arrest on March 23rd did you first see Mr. Turkus? A. A day or two after that. I think it was two days after that.

Q. Two days? A. I think so.

Q. Where? A. At the District Attorney's
6947 office.

Q. Was it before you were arraigned in the Magistrates' Court for vagrancy? A. No, it was after.

Q. I am trying to find out, between March 23rd when you were arrested and March 26th, had you seen anyone from the District Attorney's office? A. March 23rd to March 26th?

Q. Yes. A. Two days after, I think it was two days after I was arrested, I saw Mr. Turkus.

Q. Do you know when you were dismissed in the Magistrates' Court for the vagrancy charge?
6948 A. I think it was the day before they took me up to Sullivan County.

Q. Was it March 26th? A. I don't know the date.

Q. During the time that you were here in custody, in Brooklyn, until the time you left the Borough of Brooklyn to go in custody to Sullivan County, had you been questioned about the Rosen case? A. No.

Q. Not a word? A. No.

Q. And in those days you were questioned by Mr. Turkus and by Mr. Heffernan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Anyone else? A. No, that's all.

Q. Captain Bals? A. No.

Q. Any other detective? A. No.

Q. Was a stenographer present? A. Yes, there was.

Q. Were any of the questions about the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. Was any question asked of you whether or not you had been in the office with Rubin and Buchalter on Friday, in September of 1936? A. No, sir.

Q. Not one question? But you were questioned about other things? A. Yes. 6950

Q. And you refused to answer? A. That is right.

Q. From the Magistrates' Court in Coney Island, were you taken any place? A. Yes.

Q. Where? A. To the District Attorney's office.

Q. Who took you? A. A couple of detectives.

Q. Who? A. Some detectives.

Q. Do you know their names? A. No, I don't.

Q. In the District Attorney's office were you again questioned by any assistant? A. Well, that day I was questioned. 6951

Q. Yes, by any assistant? A. When I was discharged from Coney Island Avenue Court, then I went over to the District Attorney's office.

Q. You were questioned at the District Attorney's office? A. Yes.

Q. But not about the Rosen case? A. No.

Q. And not about the meeting in Buchalter's office of yourself—the accidental meeting of yourself, Rubin and Buchalter? A. No.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question, carrying with it an implication.

6952

The Court: You mean the word "accidental"?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: All right, I will leave it out.

Q. You were not asked any question about your seeing Rubin and Buchalter on Friday in 6953 September, 1936? A. No.

Q. At the Raleigh Clothes? As a matter of fact not one time was the Rosen case mentioned to you— A. No.

Q. During that questioning? You maintained your silence and refused to answer on the ground it may tend to degrade, or something like that; right? A. Yes.

Mr. Turkus: Let us have the "something like that" understood.

Mr. Barshay: Let him tell us.

6954 Mr. Turkus: Yes.

Q. You tell us, what grounds did you give? A. Me?

Q. Yes. A. Constitutional rights.

Q. You asserted them and they were respected; right? A. Yes.

Q. Where were you taken from the District Attorney's office after you asserted your constitutional rights? A. I was taken to headquarters.

Q. Where? A. In New York.

Q. By whom? A. I don't know: a couple of detectives.

Q. From where? A. From the District Attorney's office.

Q. Brooklyn? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know their names? A. No.

Q. On the way over to headquarters, Tannenbaum, were you questioned about the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. Whom did you see at headquarters? A. I was locked in a cell.

Q. What? A. They locked me in a cell.

Q. How long were you kept there? A. Over 6956 night.

Q. Were you questioned over night by anyone? A. No.

Q. Where were you taken then? A. The following day?

Q. Yes. A. Back to the District Attorney's office.

Q. Brooklyn? A. Yes.

Q. Whom were you questioned by then? A. Mr. Turkus.

Q. Anyone else? A. No, that's all.

Q. How long were you questioned? A. A few 6957 hours.

Q. Was a stenographer present? A. I don't think so. A few other people in the room but I don't know if there was a stenographer there.

Q. You know what a stenographer is, of course, and you knew then? A. Yes.

Q. Did you see anyone taking notes? A. No.

Q. Were you questioned about the Rosen case? A. No.

Q. Not a word? Isn't that so? A. Yes.

Q. Were you questioned about your presence in 1936 at the Raleigh Clothes, with Rubin and Buchalter? A. No.

6958 Q. Did you still assert your constitutional rights? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And again they were respected? A. Again what?

Q. Again they were respected? A. Yes.

Q. After the District Attorney's office, where did you go? A. Sullivan County.

Q. Who took you? A. A few State troopers.

Q. Do you know their names? A. One was Inspector Maynard.

6959 Q. Who else? A. Two others—three others.

Q. Was it Sergeant Quinn? A. Sergeant Quinn.

Q. Was it Trooper Driscoll? A. Trooper Driscoll.

Q. Was it Corporal Lawson of the State police? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This all took place right at Police Headquarters, didn't it, where they took you? A. No, I left from the District Attorney's office.

Q. Right from the District Attorney's office up there? A. Yes.

6960 Q. They are the men that had custody of you all the way up to Sullivan County? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Up to that minute, Tannenbaum, you had not been questioned with respect to the Rosen case? A. No sir.

The Court: These were all upstate troopers, were they?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

The Court: Is not Quinn from White Plains?

The Witness: Around Hawthorne.

Mr. Barshay: May we stop now?

6961

The Court: Gentlemen of the Jury, please do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it, keep your minds open. We will resume at 1:30.

First the witness will go.

The jury out the other door.

Defendants are remanded.

(A recess was taken to 1:30 p.m.)

6962

(Afternoon Session. Trial Resumed.)

ALBERT TANNENBAUM, recalled, further testified, as follows:

Cross examination by Mr. Barshay (continued):

Q. The last question I put to you was with respect to your being questioned about the Rosen case at the time you were taken to Sullivan County? A. Yes, sir.

6963

Q. Is that clear in your mind? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said you had not? A. That is right.

Q. Where were you taken in Sullivan County? A. Monticello.

Q. Were you lodged in jail? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you engage counsel? A. I did.

Q. Were you questioned in the jail by any one with respect to the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you arraigned for the Yuran murder in Sullivan County? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you arraigned for the murder of Ashkenaz? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know the date? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you any recollection? A. I don't remember the date.

Q. Was it April 22, 1940? A. I do not know the exact date.

Q. Was it in April? A. It might have been April.

Q. Can you give me your best recollection of the date? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you plead not guilty? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was your lawyer at that time? A.
6965 Mr. Baker and Mr. Price.

Q. Who appeared in court for you on that day? A. Mr. Baker.

Q. Is that Mr. Ellsworth Baker? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: Do you mind standing up to be identified? Is this the gentleman?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: You are Mr. Ellsworth Baker, of Monticello, New York?

Person Addressed: Yes, sir.

6966 Q. Was he the only one who appeared for you in court on that day? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He had been your family lawyer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you mind talking up and taking your hand away, so that I will be able to hear you—Do you know when you retained him? A. The date?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know how soon after you reached Monticello Jail you retained him? A. About a week after I got there.

Q. Is that the same case in which you later testified before the Grand Jury, the Ashkenaz case, without signing a waiver? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know that date? A. No.

Q. Was it after you pleaded not guilty? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how long after? A. A few weeks after.

Q. You don't know the month? A. No, sir.

Q. You don't know the day? A. No, sir.

6968

The Court: What is the name of that case?

Mr. Barshay: Irving Ashkenaz, according to my records.

Q. Did there come a time when you had been receiving visits from your lawyer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Up to that point, when you pleaded not guilty in the Ashkenaz case, is it a fact that no one came up to question you about the Rosen case? A. That is right.

6969

Q. Did you sign an affidavit supporting a motion to inspect the Grand Jury minutes in the case entitled, "Supreme Court, Sullivan County, People of the State of New York against Albert Tannenbaum, Defendant," involving the Ashkenaz indictment? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know where you signed that affidavit? A. I do.

Q. Where? A. In the Monticello jail.

Q. Do you know who brought the affidavit to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. Mr. Baker.

Q. Personally? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know that Mr. Baker was the 6970 former District Attorney of that county, did you know that? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you sign that affidavit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you read that affidavit? A. I did.

Q. And after you read it, you signed it? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: May I address the Court?

The Court: You have the affidavit?

Mr. Barshay: Mr. Baker has. He is 6971 here ready to produce it. If you want the jury present, all right. I want to confront him with the affidavit.

The Court: I think a question of law should be publicly stated.

Mr. Barshay: Then can I, through the Court, ask Mr. Baker to produce the affidavit here which he brought pursuant to subpoena duces tecum served upon him?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: Was that an affidavit that was ever used in a court of record, or re-6972 tained exclusively in possession of the lawyer?

Mr. Barshay: Mr. Baker knows that. Mine is hearsay. He is here.

Mr. Turkus: Mr. Baker has been asked to produce it. It has not been offered in evidence. The question of confidential communication between attorney and client is not yet presented.

The Court: Is the paper on file as a court record or has it remained in the files of a lawyer?

Mr. Barshay: I do know, but mine is hearsay, and Mr. Baker is here. It was before a Supreme Court Judge on his desk and returned to Mr. Baker. There was a copy served on the D.A.'s office.

Mr. Turkus: What D.A.'s office?

Mr. Barshay: Mr. Deckelman's.

The Court: Is that a case in which this defendant was indicted?

Mr. Barshay: Yes, sir.

The Court: Did Mr. Baker represent this defendant in the submission of the 6974 affidavit?

Mr. Barshay: Yes, your Honor.

The Court: Why did the Supreme Court hand it back instead of filing it?

Mr. Barshay: Because, by the time the motion came on to be heard, this man became a State witness, and it was no longer necessary.

The Court: Let me see the paper.

Mr. Baker: May I correct a statement in one respect? After the motion came on to be heard, but before it was decided, 6975 it was found that it was no longer necessary at that time to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury, and it was returned to me by the Judge, and the motion held in abeyance.

The Court: But the motion had already been submitted?

Mr. Baker: Had been submitted and the papers returned to me, and I have a letter of the Judge returning it to me.

The Court: But the papers had been submitted?

Mr. Baker: The papers had been submitted to the Court, yes, sir.

The Court: And they then became the custody of the Court.

Mr. Baker: That is right.

Mr. Barshay: May I have the affidavit?

Mr. Baker: I want to address the Court in that respect. I have it here.

The Court: That affidavit was not submitted without a copy being given to the District Attorney?

Mr. Baker: A copy was given to the District Attorney, with notice of motion attached.

The Court: That was part of the District Attorney's file?

Mr. Baker: That is right.

The Court: That is a public office.

Mr. Baker: Yes.

The Court: Then I direct you to show it.

(Paper handed to Mr. Barshay.)

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. I show you this paper and ask you whether or not that is your signature. A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is the affidavit you signed in prison, in Monticello? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you swore to it before Mr. Ellsworth Baker, who, according to this paper, was also a notary public? A. Yes.

Mr. Barshay: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: At this time it is objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: With the Court's permission, may I read it to the jury?

The Court: Mark it and then read it.

Mr. Turkus: May I simply state my position? The objection was that it was not asked by alleged prior inconsistent statements. I think the regular procedure would be to ask him if he had made the statement in the affidavit.

The Court: I had a different point in 6980 mind, and that was perjury, false swearing in a judicial proceeding. But, inasmuch as the affidavit was withdrawn, that nullifies that particular motion. But there is a question of doubt about it and I think the defendant is entitled to the benefit of that doubt; and certainly the affidavit goes right to the question of his credibility.

(Received and marked Defendants' Exhibit 2.)

6981

Mr. Barshay: May I read this paper to the jury?

The Court: Just the affidavit, that is all the jury is interested in. Briefly, it is a notice of motion for leave to inspect the Grand Jury minutes in an indictment against this witness for the murder of this Lithuanian— What is his name?

Mr. Turkus: Irving Ashkenaz.

The Court: An inspection of the Grand Jury minutes would reveal the names of witnesses who testified against him on which the indictment was found, and also what they testified to. Proceed and read it.

6982 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

(Mr. Barshay reads, as follows:)

"SUPREME COURT—SULLIVAN COUNTY

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK,

6983 against

ALBERT TANNENBAUM

Defendant.

State of New York)
County of Sullivan) ss.:

"ALBERT TANNENBAUM, being duly sworn deposes and says, that he is the defendant

6984 in the above entitled proceeding; that he was indicted for the crime of murder in the first degree, alleged to have been committed September 15, 1936, at the March, 1940, term of this court.

"A copy of the indictment, as has been furnished to deponent, is attached to this affidavit and made a part hereof.

"It will be noted that the indictment indicates that there are two other defendants charged with the same crime. Deponent assumes that these defendants are not named because they are not in custody.

"It will also be noted that the names of the witnesses heard by the Grand Jury are not endorsed upon the indictment.

"Deponent is informed and believes that the witnesses, upon whose testimony the indictment was found, are witnesses who claim to be accomplices in the alleged murder and present at the time the same was committed.

"Deponent desires to say at the outset of this affidavit that he is entirely innocent of the charge and was not connected with the alleged murder, nor with any other murder, and deponent will be able to establish his innocence beyond any question upon the trial of the indictment. 6986

"Deponent is of the firm belief and opinion that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the finding of the indictment and inasmuch as he is incarcerated in jail, without an opportunity to furnish bail because of the nature of the offense he has decided to make an application to dismiss the indictment upon the ground that there was not sufficient proof produced before the Grand Jury to warrant the finding of the same. 6987

"Deponent has never had any criminal record, he is married, has one child, lives with and supports his family. Deponent's father is connected with a restaurant at Loch Sheldrake and has been for many years, and deponent himself has resided at Loch Sheldrake for several summer seasons where he has enjoyed a good reputation.

"Deponent does not even know the names of the other parties indicted under this indictment. He not only has no knowledge or information concerning the nature of the testimony before the Grand Jury, except what he has read, or appears in the public talk, nor does he know the names of the co-defendants.

"Deponent was arraigned on said indict-on the 22nd day of April, 1940, in the Sullivan County Court and pleaded not guilty. He is informed that it is the purpose of the District Attorney to move the indictment for trial at the June Term of the County Court. The indictment was found in the Supreme Court and moved to the County Court by the District Attorney.

"Deponent, therefore, asks that an order be made directing the District Attorney of Sullivan County to permit deponent, or his attorney, to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury which found the indictment and for such other and further relief as the Court may deem proper to grant.

"No previous application has been made for this relief.

(Signed) Albert Tannenbaum.

"Sworn to before me this 3rd day of April—stricken out—1940, the word 'May' written over that, and signed, Ellsworth Baker, Notary Public."

6991

Q. You testified in the Workman case, with respect to the same subject matter I just questioned you about? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you admit signing this affidavit I just read to the jury when you were asked about it in the Workman case? A. I was not asked about it.

Q. You were not asked about it? A. Not to my recollection.

Q. Give us your best recollection. A. I don't think so.

6992

Q. Is that your best answer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know the date you testified in the Workman case? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know the month? A. In the spring, I think.

Q. May I refresh your recollection? A. Yes.

Q. Was it some time in June of 1931? A. June?

Q. Yes. A. Around that time.

The Court: Was that the Newark case?

Mr. Barshay: Yes.

6993

The Court: That was tried in Common Pleas?

Mr. Barshay: Court of Oyer and Terminer.

The Court: That is Common Pleas.

Mr. Wegman: Court of Oyer and Terminer of the criminal branch of the Supreme Court.

Q. At page 392 in the case of The State of New Jersey against Charles Workman, Indictment 336, April, 1941, indictment for murder—

6994 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

I might say to the Court that this is for the murder of Dutch Schultz—am I right, Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: One defendant?

Mr. Barshay: One defendant, to my knowledge.

The Court: Go ahead.

6995 Q. Were you asked these questions, at page 392, in that case:

"Q. Before then you were first taken to Sullivan County on the charge of Ashkenaz' murder?" And did you make this answer: "Yes". A. What do you mean, "Before then"?

Q. Maybe I had better read one more question. After the testimony concerning your being taken from Brooklyn to Sullivan County, which is the preceding question— I do not want to burden the record, you were asked this question:

"Q. Before then you were first taken to Sullivan County on the charge of Ashkenaz' murder?

6996 A. Yes." A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. Is that right? A. Yes." A. Yes.

Q. "Q. You were charged with that murder? A. Yes." Yes.

Q. "Q. You were indicted? A. Yes, sir."

"Q. You made an affidavit in that case in which you denied that you had anything to do with it? A. I never made an affidavit."

Did you say that exactly as I read it, in the Workman case, in June, 1941? A. I don't remember.

Mr. Barshay: Am I reading correctly, Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

Q. "Q. Didn't you make an affidavit for your attorney, a man name Baker, who filed it in court, that you were not guilty of that crime?

"Mr. Wakenfield: —That is the District Attorney in New Jersey—I object to that.

"The Court: I sustain the objection. 6998
What difference does it make?

"Mr. Kessler: On the question of credibility, I think."

Mr. Turkus: Mr. Kessler was Charley the Bug's lawyer?

Mr. Barshay: Yes.

(Mr. Barshay continues reading, as follows:)

"Mr. Kessler, representing the defendant, then—"On the question of credibility, I think I have a right to test his credibility of whether an oath means anything to the 6999 man.

"The Court: Remote—I make no point of it from his answer.

"A. I signed a paper, I did not know what it was." A. I might have made that answer.

Q. Your answer here is, "I might have made that answer"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. (By the Court) You signed a paper and you did not know what it was? A. No, sir."

Did you make that answer that way in court?

A. If it is in there I probably made it.

7000 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. It is in there, and you made it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Mr. Wakenfield (District Attorney): He said something to the Court. I think we ought to have on the record what he told the court.

"The Court: I am perfectly willing to put on the record what he said to me—'He told me it was a bill of particulars.'"

7001 Do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. (By Mr. Kessler, attorney for Workman) In that paper you thought was a bill of particulars, didn't you say that: 'Deponent desires to say at the outset of this affidavit that he is entirely innocent of the charge and is not connected with the alleged murder, nor with any other murder; and deponent will be able to establish his innocence beyond any question upon the trial of the indictment.' Didn't you sign that affidavit?

7002 "Mr. Wakenfield (District Attorney) I object.

"The Court: I will permit it.

"Q. Didn't you sign that affidavit? A. I signed an affidavit, but I did not know what it was. I was told it was for a bill of particulars."

Did you say that in that case, exactly as I read it? A. If it is in there, I did.

Q. It is in there. Did you say it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. You signed the affidavit, didn't you? A. I signed it. He told me it was a paper for a bill of particulars."

Did you say that exactly as I read it? A. If it is in there, I said it.

Q. It is in there. A. I said it.

Q. "Q. All right, so he said it was a bill of particulars, that is what you signed, was it? A. I don't know. I did not read it."

Did you make that reply as I read it? A. If it is in there, I said it.

Q. It is in there. A. I said it, then.

Q. "Q. You did not read it. After that were you taken to Sullivan County, but you were 7004 never put on trial? A. No, sir."

Did you make that answer?

Mr. Turkus: At this time, may the defendants' exhibit be deemed in evidence, not only the affidavit but the notice of motion and the indictment appended?

Mr. Barshay: I have no objection.

Mr. Turkus: It is marked Defendants' Exhibit 2. It will be deemed in evidence as to everything in it, including the notice of motion and the indictment.

Mr. Barshay: I am informed that the 7005 correct title of Mr. Wakenfield is not District Attorney, but Prosecutor of the Pleas.

Q. You testified here that there came a time when you had a talk with Mr. Deckelman, the District Attorney of Sullivan County, while you were in jail, in which the name of Judge O'Dwyer was mentioned? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell us the date? A. I cannot give you the date; it was either the first or second Sunday in May.

Q. Either the first or second Sunday in May, 1940? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. That is your best recollection? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was a stenographer present? A. No, sir.

Q. During that conversation with Mr. Deckelman? A. No, sir.

Q. Are you sure about it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you sign any paper for Mr. Deckelman during or after that conversation? A. No, sir.

Q. Thereafter, did Judge O'Dwyer come to see 7007 you personally? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Alone? A. No, sir, with some others.

Q. Can you tell me the names of the others? A. Captain Bals came up with him.

Q. Any one else? A. Yes, sir, I think there was somebody.

Q. You think there were some others? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know where they visited you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where? A. In the court house, the Sullivan County Court House.

Q. You were taken out of the jail and taken
7008 to the court house? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And this was on a Sunday? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you questioned then by Judge O'Dwyer or any of his associates or assistants? A. Yes, sir. Judge O'Dwyer asked me some questions.

Q. Was a stenographer present? A. No, sir.

Q. At no time? A. No.

Q. No one took notes at all? A. No, sir.

Q. Will you tell me how long this conference took, or this questioning and answering took? A. About an hour.

Q. During that time did you sign any paper? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see any stenographer present at all during that hour taking any notes in that room? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you questioned during that hour about the Rosen case? A. Yes, sir, I was asked about that.

Q. And no statement in any form whatever was presented to you for signature? A. No, sir.

7009

Q. You were asked about a lot of other things, too, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

7010

Q. And about other things was there a statement; yes or no—either signed by you or a stenographer present? A. No, sir.

Q. When were you taken back to Brooklyn? A. About the middle of May, a little after that; I would say it was about the 17th of May, somewhere around there.

Q. Is that your best recollection? A. Yes, sir.

Q. From that court house, after Judge O'Dwyer spoke to you, where were you taken? A. Back to the Monticello jail.

7011

Q. And you remained there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you been visited by anybody from Judge O'Dwyer's office after this talk with Judge O'Dwyer on the Sunday before you were taken back to Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir, I got another visit.

Q. From whom? A. Judge O'Dwyer, Mr. Turkus and Captain Bals.

Q. Was a stenographer present then when you talked about the Rosen case, if you did speak about the Rosen case the second time? A. No, sir.

7012 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Q. Did you speak about the Rosen case the second visit? A. I spoke about a few cases.

Q. Did you speak about the Rosen case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was a stenographer present? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you sign any statement? A. I did not.

Q. Were there any other visits from Judge O'Dwyer's office, either by himself or through his assistants, that you received while you were waiting to return yourself to the County of 7013 Kings? A. Any visits from Judge O'Dwyer or any of his assistants?

Q. After that one you just told us about? A. they came up and took me down to Brooklyn.

Q. Yes, was that May 18, 1940? A. I don't know the exact date.

Q. My question was, does that refresh your recollection? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know the day of the week? A. Today, today is Thursday.

Q. I don't mean today, do you know the day of the week then? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you placed in a hotel when you came 7014 back to Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Borough of Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it the Half Moon Hotel? A. No, sir.

Q. Was it another hotel? A. Yes.

Q. Since then, I think you testified you were not arraigned in any court on this charge? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is true? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you say, "Yes, sir," do you mean you were not arraigned, but you testified before several Grand Juries? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You had been eating at the hotel? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see your wife? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see your child? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you taken out for rides? A. Once in a while.

Q. About how many times a week? A. Once a week, at the most; sometimes not even once a week.

Q. On the average? A. On the average, once in three weeks.

Q. Did you get any money from the District Attorney's office to maintain your wife? A. No, 7016
sir.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether or not your wife received any money? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you transferred from that hotel to another hotel? A. Yes.

Q. Was that other hotel to which you were transferred the Half Moon Hotel? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you taken out to Long Island to play baseball? A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the summer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many times? A. Oh, maybe six or 7017 seven times.

Q. Always in the custody of detectives? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see Sholem Bernstein at either of the hotels? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see Abie Reles at either of the hotels? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they go out and play baseball with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there any one else that went to play baseball with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. Mikey Syeoff.

Q. Anybody else? A. Yes, some detectives.

Q. Did you eat together with Abe Reles and the others at the hotel? A. Sometimes.

Q. Did you sleep in the same room with him? A. With Reles?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. Did you sleep in the same room with Sholem Bernstein? A. No, sir.

Q. Or with Sycoff? A. Yes, sir.

Q. With Sycoff? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you play cards with Reles? A. Yes,
7019 sir.

Q. Did you play cards with Bernstein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And with Sycoff? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you take walks on the Boardwalk in the custody of detectives? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see Mrs. Rosen at the hotel? A. I don't know Mrs. Rosen.

Q. Then you say you did not?

Mr. Turkus: I object. He says he does not know her.

Mr. Barshay: Question withdrawn.

7020

Q. Before yesterday, Wednesday, when did you see any one from the District Attorney's office? A. Tuesday.

Q. Where? A. Over in the District Attorney's office.

Q. May I know the name of the assistant you saw? A. Sure, Mr. Turkus.

Q. Mr. Turkus was in court; do you mean after court? A. Tuesday was Armistice Day.

Q. Before that did you see any one from the District Attorney's office? A. I saw him a few times.

7021

Q. You discussed your testimony, which is all right, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew Berger was on the stand? A. Yes, sir, sure.

Q. You knew Ruben had already testified? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you learn through any source whatever the substance of Ruben's testimony? A. Just what I read in the paper.

Q. Just what you read in a paper? A. Yes, sir.

7022

Q. When did you see Reles last? A. On Tuesday.

Q. Did you play cards with him? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have dinner with him? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you in the same room with him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you speak to him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were detectives there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, Tannenbaum, you wish to escape electrocution, don't you? A. I would like to.

7023

(At this point the witness is excused and leaves the court room. The Court remains in session. After three minutes the witness returns and resumes the stand.)

Cross examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. You know the defendant Weiss very well? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have known him very well from 1930 or 1932? A. No, sir, I met Weiss when he came out of prison in Trenton.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out, if your Honor please, and I move for the declaration of a mistrial. The answer is not responsive.

7024

The Court: Strike it out as not responsive. The jury is directed to reject it and not consider it. The motion for a mistrial is denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Wegman: I join with Judge Talley in that motion.

7025

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

The Court: Mr. Witness, do not volunteer any information. Just answer the question and nothing more.

Q. What year did you begin your acquaintance with the defendant Weiss? Keep your voice up now. A. 1934, around that time.

Q. From 1934 to 1941 you got pretty well acquainted with him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew him very well? A. Yes, sir.

7026

Q. You knew him so well that, according to your testimony, in Child's Restaurant at 23rd Street, he told you all about the Rosen case, that is your testimony? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At what time of day were you discussing this in Child's Restaurant? A. Some time in the afternoon.

Q. Other people were present besides you and Weiss? A. Other customers there, but not at our table.

Q. There were a number of customers there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say you discussed this Rosen case in Child's Restaurant with other people sitting around you?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is not what he said.

Q. You said there were a lot of people there?

Mr. Turkus: That is different.

A. Yes. 7028

Q. You would not hesitate to testify falsely, would you? A. No, sir.

Q. Under oath? A. I would now.

Q. But prior to what you call "now", you would not hesitate to testify falsely under oath? A. That is right.

Q. What do you call "now"? Let us have the date of your reform. A. Now I am telling the truth, now.

Q. When did you commence to tell the truth? A. In May of 1940.

Q. Since then, every time you have testified, any statement, since May, 1940, you have told the truth? A. To the best of my knowledge, yes, sir. 7029

Q. Would you testify falsely now to save yourself from prison or the electric chair? A. No, sir.

Q. You would not? A. No, sir.

Q. In May of 1940, that was when you began to tell the truth, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the month of May, 1939, which is about a year before you began to tell the truth, you testified in a trial right here in Brooklyn, didn't 7030 you, or in a trial before the Grand Jury, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the question as confusing. If you will straighten it out, I will not object.

Mr. Talley: Question withdrawn.

Q. Didn't you testify in May, 1939, in a trial before the Federal Grand Jury?

7031

Mr. Turkus: I object. It is still confusing, "In a trial before the Federal Grand Jury", that is impossible.

Q. In a hearing before a Federal Grand Jury, in May of 1939?

Mr. Turkus: Is the question revised?

Mr. Talley: Yes, that is the question.

The Witness: May of 1939? No, sir, I did not.

7032 Q. Did you ever testify before the Federal Grand Jury? A. I did.

Q. Where? A. In New York.

Q. In what proceeding? A. The Special Grand Jury.

Q. What you call the harboring case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you tell the truth before that Grand Jury? A. Are you talking about the Grand Jury in Brooklyn here or the one in New York?

Q. I am talking about the one in New York. I just asked you about the Federal Grand Jury in New York. A. That I what?

Q. Did you testify? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was in what you call the harboring case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you tell the truth before that Grand Jury? A. No, sir.

Q. You testified falsely? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were under oath? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you testify before Judge Brancato in the Nitzberg case in the Borough of Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were under oath there when you gave your testimony? A. Yes, sir. 7034

Q. Did you tell the truth there? A. I did.

Q. Didn't you testify before the Federal Grand Jury that you only knew Mendy Weiss slightly? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was false, you say now? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was a deliberate false statement you made to the Federal Grand Jury? A. It was.

Q. Do you remember when it was? A. September of 1939.

Q. Now, you have been at the Half Moon Hotel since when? A. About a year ago. 7035

Q. What month did you go there, was it before the summer of 1940? A. After the summer.

Q. Was it in the winter time? A. No, sir, it was right after summer.

Q. Will you say about September? A. About the end of September.

Q. September of 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This is November of 1941, you have been living there ever since? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Without any expense to you? A. No, sir.

Q. You mean by that that you have not been paying your bills at the Half Moon, is that what you mean? A. That is right.

Q. (The Court) You have been in custody, haven't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. (The Court) Under an order of arrest? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Reles also held at the Half Moon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Bernstein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Berger? A. Berger? No.

7037 Q. He has never been there while you were there, in custody? A. No, sir.

Q. And Sycoff? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Ruben? A. Ruben was there.

Q. Anybody else? A. That is all.

Q. You occupied rooms on the sixth floor, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You told the District Attorney about the door being shackled; I think that was the term used? A. Bolted.

Mr. Turkus: I used the word "shackled" incorrectly.

7038

Q. You talked about the mirrors in the hallway? A. About what?

Q. Mirrors in the hallway? A. That is right.

Q. You were under guard constantly, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. For twenty-four hours a day? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many policemen were guarding you at a time? A. At a time, six.

Q. How close to Reles' room was yours? A. A few feet.

Q. On Tuesday night, the night before last, you were in Reles' room? A. No.

Q. You were not? A. No, sir.

Q. How close to Reles' room was your room? A. Right across the hall.

Q. Did you see Reles Tuesday night? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. How late Tuesday night were you in his company? A. I saw him about eleven o'clock.

Q. You were not playing cards with him that night? A. No, sir. 7040

Q. What was he doing when you saw him last? A. His wife had just left.

Q. At eleven o'clock? A. Around that time.

Q. Was the door— Where did his wife visit him, in his room? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he sleeping alone? A. He had a room by himself.

Q. Did you have a room by yourself? A. No, sir.

Q. Who was sleeping in your room? A. Sycoff.

Q. How long had Sycoff been your room mate? 7041
A. A few months.

Q. Were there policemen outside of Reles' door? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All of the time? A. Well, if he was not in his room.

Q. (The Court) When you were in there playing cards on Tuesday night? A. I was not playing cards.

Mr. Turkus: That is not his testimony.

The Court: Then I misunderstood. I thought he related that on Tuesday night after the wife left they had a card game.

7042 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: He did not say that.

Q. When you slept in the Half Moon at night, were there guards there? A. When I went to sleep there were guards.

Q. Where do the guards stay? A. There is a chair there, they used to sit down.

Q. At the door? A. No, sir, inside.

7043 Q. Did the same thing apply to Reles' room? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object. This man cannot tell; he was not in the same room with him.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Were the windows locked in your room? A. Locked?

Q. Locked? A. We could open them.

Q. Were the windows open in Reles' room?

7044

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You did play cards with Reles and others, didn't you? A. At night? Are you talking about Tuesday?

Q. No, at any time? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Where were the card games usually held, in his room? A. No, sir.

Q. In your room? A. No, sir.

Q. Where? A. In the living room.

7045

Q. You had a living room, did you? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question, "He had a living room". He had what was given to him there.

The Court: Leave out "living".

Mr. Talley: I am quoting this witness. I am sure they had quite a suite there.

The Court: He said he had a room.

7046

Q. You told us you had a living room? A. A room where they used to stay during the day.

By the Court:

Q. You mean where all gathered? A. Yes.

Q. You yourself did not have a suite? A. No, sir.

Q. You had a common room where you people would all get together at times, is that right? A. That is right.

Q. That is the one you called the living room? 7047
A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you had ample opportunity to talk to one another, didn't you? A. That is right.

Q. And you did talk with Reles? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And with Bernstein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And with Sycoff? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And with Rubin? A. I did not talk to Rubin.

Q. Did not talk to Rubin? A. Not up there, I didn't.

Q. Why not? A. Did not come up there.

Q. Was not he at the hotel? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was not he on the same floor that you were? A. No, sir.

Q. When did he come to the hotel? A. I don't know.

Q. Did you never see him there? A. I saw him there, yes.

Q. But you never spoke to him? A. I did.

Q. When you say he never came up there, do you mean to the card room, the living room? A. In our place. He never came up to our place.

7049 Q. Did you ever talk with any of these others that you have named, Reles, Bernstein, Sycoff?

Mr. Turkus: He has already answered that.

Q. About this case? A. No, sir.

Q. And the subject of this case or any testimony that you were to give was never mentioned; is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You talked about everything else under the sun except the testimony you were to give in this case, is that correct? A. Not only this case, 7050 all cases.

Q. What? A. We never spoke about any case.

Q. You never did? A. No, sir.

Q. Not in the fourteen months that you have been down in the Half Moon Hotel? A. That is right.

Q. No case was ever mentioned between you? A. No, sir.

Q. You took out registration cards for automobile licenses, didn't you? A. I did.

Q. And you had them signed in your name by other people, didn't you? A. What? Had them sign in my name?

Q. No. Other people signed your name to those applications; isn't that true?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time be fixed.

The Court: Try to . the time if you can.

Q. Any time in the last five years in which you have taken out license to drive cars and registration of cars, did you have someone else sign your name? A. You mean my driver's license? 7052

Q. Yes.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That does not affect credibility in that form. It has nothing to do with the issue we are trying.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. When you left court yesterday where did you go? A. I went over to the office. 7053

Q. To the District Attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you interrogated there about your testimony in this case? A. No, sir.

Q. What were you interrogated about? A. About a different matter.

Q. What matter?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Why not?

Mr. Turkus: Do you want me to tell you why not?

Mr. Barshay: Please, Mr. Turkus.

Q. How long were you in the District Attorney's office after you left court yesterday afternoon? A. About a half hour.

The Court: Was that an entirely different investigation?

7055 The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. And nothing was said to you, do you say, in the District Attorney's office about the testimony you gave yesterday? A. Nothing was said.

The Court: Was that about something that just happened?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. Besides testifying falsely under oath before the Federal Grand Jury in New York, in what other case did you testify falsely under oath? A.

7056 That is all.

Q. What? A. That is all.

Q. That is the only one? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And of course, this affidavit that was shown to you by Mr. Barshay, that was false, wasn't it?

Mr. Turkus: What do you mean, the wording of it, the contents?

Q. Will you take your hand away from your mouth, please? A. What do you mean, it was false?

Q. The one in Sullivan County was a false affidavit, wasn't it? A. That is right.

Mr. Talley: I have no further questions.

Mr. Rosenthal: I have no questions.

Redirect examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Counsel for the defendant Lepke brought out that you were arrested by Detective Belsky, 7058 do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whose squad Detective Belsky was attached to? A. Yes, sir.

Q Whose squad? A. District Attorney Dewey's squad.

Q. And after the arrest by Detective Belsky of District Attorney Dewey's squad, you were eventually brought to Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Counsel for Lepke also brought out that you refused to answer all questions that were put to you by the Assistant District Attorneys, namely, Heffernan and Turkus, shortly after your arrest, on the ground of self-incrimination; is 7059 that right?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, your Honor, in view of the fact that Mr. Turkus brought that out on direct examination.

Mr. Turkus: I am going to get specifically to the Rosen matter. That is only to direct his attention to these questions.

The Court: I don't recall. Overruled.

(Pending question read.)

A. Yes, sir.

7060 Q. Before you were questioned by Assistant District Attorneys Heffernan and Turkus, had you been given legal advice by a lawyer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who gave you the advice not to answer the Assistant District Attorneys on the ground of Constitutional rights and self-incrimination? A. You mean the lawyer's name?

Q. No. Was it the lawyer that gave it? A. Yes, sir.

7061 Q. So that before you were questioned by the Assistant District Attorneys, you had had the advice of counsel as to how to answer them? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you persisted in your refusal to answer questions, you were taken up to Sullivan County on a murder charge. That you told the counsel for Lepke. Is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you were brought up there on the murder charge, you were lodged in the Sullivan County jail where prisoners awaiting trial for murder in the first degree are usually lodged; is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

7062 Q. At that time, you told counsel for Lepke, a man by the name of Ellsworth Baker, Esq., prepared Defendants' Exhibit 2, is that right, this affidavit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time were you likewise represented by another lawyer besides Mr. Ellsworth Baker of Monticello? A. Yes, sir

Q. And were you represented as co-counsel by the same lawyer who gave you the advice not to answer the District Attorney's questions in Brooklyn?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. May I have another objection on the ground that "that time" includes a general time and he is referring specifically to the time this affidavit was signed.

The Court: Yes. Go ahead. Was it the same lawyer?

The Witness: That was my co-counsel 7064 up there, that gave me the advice?

The Court: Yes.

The Witness: Yes.

Q. And the co-counsel to Ellsworth Baker was also the lawyer for Farvel Cohen, a defendant in the Rosen case?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. There was no Rosen case at that time.

Mr. Turkus: It was in being. There was a Rosen murder September 13, 1936. 7065
There most emphatically was a Rosen case.

Mr. Barshay: Just a second. May I direct your Honor's attention that at that time, referring to the time mentioned in this affidavit or prior thereto there was no such person by the name of Farvel Cohen as a defendant; consequently he had no counsel and could not have counsel.

The Court: I will take it subject to being connected.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: But if it is not connected,

7066 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Redirect

there is no harm done because Farvel Cohen is not being tried.

(Pending question read.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, Farvel Cohen's lawyer on the indictment for the killing of Rosen is that same lawyer who was co-counsel with Mr. Baker?

Mr. Cuff: Objected to as already an-7067 swered.

The Court: He has already answered it. Sustained.

Q. And has that lawyer been sitting in court now while you were on the stand, listening to the testimony?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. The co-counsel I am talking of? A. I don't 7068 see him.

Q. Look over in the jury box. A. That is Mr. Price (indicating Saul Price).

Q. I did not ask you for the name. The name is on the record. Do you know the difference legally between a motion to inspect the Grand Jury minutes which find a murder indictment and a bill of particulars supplied by the District Attorney?

Mr. Barshay. I object to it. It is entirely immaterial.

The Court: He does not have to know.

Mr. Turkus: Didn't you hear, your Honor, that he asked him questions that were put to him in the Bug Workman case in Jersey about a bill of particulars?

The Court: You can ask him if he read it.

Mr. Turkus: I wish to direct your Honor's attention to this—

The Court: That is as far as you can go.

Mr. Turkus: This witness was asked 7070
whether or not he testified in the Charlie Bug Workman case for the killing of Dutch Shultz in reference to the bill of particulars.

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, that is a misstatement.

The Court: You do not have to argue this and there is no use in splitting fine hairs on small points considering the large points that have been admitted, but he has stated that he swore in the Workman case that he made the affidavit, not knowing 7071 what it was. The furthest you can go is to ask him whether or not he read or had the affidavit read to him before he signed it, thereby knowing its contents.

Mr. Turkus: What I want to elicit from the witness—

The Court: Does it get you anywhere or does it only open a new jam? The man has admitted murders; he has admitted perjuries.

Mr. Turkus: I will go beyond that.

The Court: He says he would not hesitate ordinarily to commit perjury but he claims that since about a year ago this last spring he has been telling the truth. Now it is for the jury to say whether or not, in spite of his bad credibility, he is nevertheless telling the truth now.

7072 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Redirect

Mr. Turkus: I won't pursue it.

Q. At any rate, at the time you entered the plea of not guilty and signed Defendants' Exhibit 2, you were then a defendant resisting con-
7073 viction on the indictment therein alleged, namely, the killing of one Irving Ashkenas, is that right? A. Yes.

The Court: You were then fighting to save your own life, is that it?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. You also said on your cross-examination by counsel for Mendy Weiss, that after May, 1940, you had told the truth in all matters in which you had testified? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that after your conversation with 7074 Judge O'Dwyer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just answer this question yes or no: Did Judge O'Dwyer say to you what would occur if you testified falsely?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not proper redirect. We never brought that out.

Mr. Turkus: Yes, Judge Talley did. He brought out that since May, 1940, that was the period of transition when he decided to tell the truth. Let the jury understand how the transition came about.

The Court: Put it in clearer language —alleged change of front.

Mr. Turkus: Yes, put it that way.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I object to what Judge O'Dwyer told him.

The Court: He was not asked what Judge O'Dwyer told him, but whether he told him what would happen. It calls for yes or no.

Mr. Barshay: I may have heard 7076 wrongly, but I thought Mr. Turkus asked the question in that way.

Mr. Turkus: Will you read the question?

(Pending question read.)

The Court: Yes or no.

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Denied.

Q. Can you recall when Judge O'Dwyer spoke to you and said that he kept his fingers like that 7077 (indicating two fingers held closely together)?

Mr. Barshay: A half an inch apart.

Mr. Turkus: Even less than that.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not binding on the defendants, what Judge O'Dwyer told this man.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. At any rate, has it been since that talk with Judge O'Dwyer that you have told the truth as you have stated to Mr. Talley?

7078 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Redirect

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. That is a conclusion. That is for the jury to decide.

The Court: He can state when that talk occurred.

Q. Yes, when did that talk occur? A. In May of 1940.

Q. It was brought out by counsel for the defendant Lepke that you went to California in an 7079 aeroplane since you have been in the custody of the New York Police Department, that is, since May, 1940. Was that trip with police officers in connection with your testimony before a Grand Jury in Southern California? A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was also brought out by counsel for defendant Lepke that you secured a Social Security card? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On the basis of working at some D. R. Clothing Company of Passaic, New Jersey? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And as a matter of fact, you were not working for that company at all? A. No, sir.

7080 Q. When did you get that Social Security card? A. I think it was 1938.

Q. Was that at a time when you were on the payroll of the defendant Lepke?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir. The defendant Lepke—I will just confine myself to the objection as I made it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. Yes, sir.

7081

Q. Did you walk over to the agency of the United States Government and secure a Social Security card exclusively upon your representation that you were working for the D. R. Clothing of Passaic, New Jersey?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. The owner of the shop gave me the Social Security card. 7082

Q. The owner of the shop gave it to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who is the owner of the shop? A. Dave Ricefield.

Q. Was that for the purpose of showing allegedly legitimate employment if you were arrested?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not binding on the defendant Buchalter, whom this witness at that time said he had not seen since August of 1937. 7083

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.
(Pending question read.)

A. Yes.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, may we add the further objection as to impropriety of form as to that question?

The Court: Obviously he could not get any compensation. His motive may be disclosed if it was to frame up an alibi in case he got in any kind of trouble.

Mr. Turkus: That is all I am asking about.

The Court: That would explain his motive, but it would not connect him with any defendant.

Mr. Turkus: I don't say that it does. I just wanted to show the purpose of getting that type of Social Security card in 7085 so far as he was concerned.

Q. You also told counsel for defendant Lepke, when he asked you about gambling houses that you were sent down to work there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does that refer to the two gambling houses in Florida and the one gambling house in Saratoga? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. The purpose I asked it, your Honor, was for the purpose of attacking his credibility. That 7086 does not excuse him.

Mr. Turkus: I submit the door was opened.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Witness: Who sent me?

Q. Yes, you said you were sent down there to work. A. Yes. The first job Lepke sent me down.

Q. Yes, what about the second? A. Second one Moey sent me down.

Mr. Barshay: I object to that and move to strike it out.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Who is that? A. Moey Dimples.

Q. Was that Dimples Wolinsky? A. Yes.

Q. Was he an employee of the defendant Lepke?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir. That 7088 is a conclusion.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. How about the one in Saratoga? A. Moey sent me up there too.

Q. That is referring to Dimples Wolinsky? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: Same objection. I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Overruled. Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

7089

Q. Counsel for defendant Lepke also spoke to you about a police vigilance of the defendant Lepke. Do you remember those questions? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you say to him in substance that it was easy to sneak away from them? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you say in substance that there were meetings with the defendant Lepke in the subway and street?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. That is not proper redirect. That is merely repetition.

The Court: It is repetition. Sustained.

Q. You were asked by counsel for defendant Mendy Weiss if you saw Rubin at the Half Moon Hotel. Do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever see Rubin in the Half Moon Hotel in that suite of rooms which you testified 7091 were barricaded with a peep hole and with the mirrors outside? A. No, sir.

Q. On any occasion that you spoke to Rubin, did you say to him more than "Hello," that's all, as you responded to the question? A. That's all I said to him.

Q. Were you ever permitted to discuss facts of any case with any witness?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases. What they were permitted to do and what they did are two entirely 7092 different things.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, we were not permitted.

Q. And did you ever talk about any case with any other prospective witnesses? A. No, sir.

Q. Since your incarceration and custody with the New York City Police Department, I mean. A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were asked by counsel for Mendy Weiss about being a good friend of Mendy Weiss. Do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you as good friend in September,

1939, when you testified before the Federal Grand Jury? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was also brought out by counsel for defendant Lepke. There was a time when he went away? A. When Lepke went away.

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, to that.

Mr. Turkus: I am leading up to something that is most important.

The Court: All right, take it on that 7094 basis only. Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. And you had testified on direct examination that you were on the payroll right up to the time of your arrest. Do you recall that? A. Yes.

Q. After Lepke went away, who paid you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It has already been answered on direct examination.

7095

Mr. Turkus: This has a bearing as to September, 1939, when he was in that Federal Grand Jury.

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, on the ground it is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

Mr. Turkus: Mr. Talley brought out that he lied to a Federal Grand Jury with respect to Mendy Weiss. Now we are entitled to have the jury understand all the facts attendant upon that circumstance.

Mr. Talley: Not entitled to anything except the fact that he swore falsely before a Grand Jury in New York County that he did not know Mendy Weiss except slightly.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. Mendy Weiss.

Q. And was Mendy Weiss paying you in Sep-
7097 tember, 1939? A. Yes.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. And were you getting paid through Mendy Weiss at the time when you were testifying before the Federal Grand Jury in September, 1939, in the matter which Mr. Talley referred to as the harboring case?

7098

Mr. Barshay: I object to the question because it contains the words, "through Mendy Weiss," as an implication for which there is no basis in the record.

Mr. Talley: I object to it on the ground it is incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial.

The Court: The word "through" is objectionable.

Q. Was the money actually being handed to you by Mendy Weiss at the time in September, 1939, when you were testifying in the Federal Grand Jury in the matter which Mr. Talley referred to in questioning you as the harboring case?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: That would not justify perjury, even if it were true.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.
(Pending question read.) 7100

A. Yes.

Q. Just answer this question yes or no: Had you spoken to anyone with reference to the testimony that you were going to give in the Federal Grand Jury before you gave it? A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, incompetent.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Defense Counsel: Exception. 7101

Q. Did you receive any instructions from Lepke as to the payroll, as to who was to pay you, before he went away?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is repetitious.
Mr. Turkus: I am referring to the future, as to who would pay him thereafter.
Mr. Talley: I object to it.
Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, he has a-ready answered that on direct examination.

Mr. Turkus: I have no recollection of that.

The Court: I have none at this moment. Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

A. Did Lepke tell me anything?

Q. Yes, before Lepke went away, did you re-
7103 ceive any instructions from Lepke as to who would pay you thereafter? A. No, sir.

Recross examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. Mr. Tannenbaum, if I misunderstood you, you let me know. At the time you were arrested by Mr. Belsky of Dewey's office and charged with vagrancy, and then questioned by Mr. Turkus, you told me on cross-examination that you were not questioned about the Rosen case. Am I correct? A. That is right.

Q. So that with respect to the Rosen case you 7104 did not assert any constitutional rights. It was not even mentioned by Mr. Turkus or Judge O'Dwyer or anyone else? A. No, sir.

Q. Isn't that right? A. That is right.

Q. You said that Mr. Price, Saul Price, was associate counsel for you at that time in Sullivan County? A. Yes, sir.

Q. But at the time this affidavit was signed by you and read to you, was Mr. Saul Price present? A. No, sir.

Q. When had you seen him before that time? A. A few days before.

Q. Did he have anything to do in the execution of this document in the prison?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He would not know about that.

Mr. Barshay: I will reframe it so that he will know the simple language.

Q. There is no doubt he was not present when you signed it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Only Mr. Baker was? A. That is right. 7106

Q. You said up to that time you had not been questioned by anyone with respect to the Rosen case? A. That is right.

Q. As a matter of fact, Tannenbaum, Farvel Cohen at that time was not under arrest for the Rosen case at all, was he? A. No, sir.

Q. As far as you know there was no arrest of anyone with respect to the Rosen case at that time, referring to the day you signed the affidavit? A. As far as I know, no.

Q. Isn't that a fact? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not want to convey to this jury 7107 the thought that Saul Price asked you to lie?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

Q. Did you?

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. Does he want to convey that? That was not the intent of anybody.

Mr. Barshay: I will withdraw the question as long as you did not intend that.

Mr. Turkus: I intended to show he was Farvel Cohen's lawyer.

7108 Albert Tannenbaum—For People—Recross

Q. At that time to your knowledge Mr. Price was not the attorney for Farvel Cohen with respect to the Rosen case, was he?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. That has already been answered.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Was he? A. As far as I know, no.

Q. He was not? A. No, sir.

7109

Mr. Barshay: That is all.

Mr. Turkus: Just one question.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. At the time that the affidavit was signed in May of 1940, May 3rd was it, did you know where Farvel Cohen was? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: That is all.

Mr. Barshay: Judge, as a convenience to Mr. Baker—I want to ask him one question—would you take him out of order so that he should not have to come back?

7110

Mr. Turkus: This is unusual to break up the State's case.

The Court: I think it would tend to confuse.

Mr. Barshay: All right, I will abide by the Court's ruling.

Mr. Turkus: May all counsel approach the Court at the bench, all counsel? Is there a ruling on that?

The Court: That goes.

Mr. Turkus: Bring in Mr. Rubin, Max Rubin.

Max Rubin—Recalled for People—Redirect 7111

MAX RUBIN, having been previously sworn, recalled as a witness in behalf of The People, testified further as follows:

Redirect examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Mr. Rubin, on October 1, 1937, were you walking towards your home at one time during that day?

Mr. Barshay: With respect to the defendant Buchalter, I object to it. 7112
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Yes.
Q. Where had you come from?

Mr. Rosenthal: Judge, so that I might not interrupt this line of questioning, may I have a general objection and exception to these questions on the ground that it is in no wise bearing upon my client and is highly prejudicial in its nature. I don't want to get up at each question and make the same objection. 7113
The Court: Yes. Of course, you know the ruling is not final. The ruling is only temporary, overruling the objection.
Mr. Rosenthal: Yes, but the purpose is so that I do not interrupt the continuity of it by getting up. I preserve my objection to the end.
The Court: Correct.
Mr. Barshay: If your Honor will permit me to do that, then I won't interfere either.

The Court: All right.

(Pending question read.)

A. From 17th Street.

Q. 17th Street and where? A. I had left the office of the Greater New York Tailors Expressmen's Association on 22 East 17th Street, on a Friday.

7115 Q. And where did you go? Take the subway? A. I took the Lexington Avenue subway from 14th Street and rode up to Gunhill Road.

Q. Gunhill Road is where? A. Mosholu Parkway is the station.

Q. At that time where were you living, Mr. Rubin? A. 245 East Gunhill Road.

Q. Did you get out at the Mosholu Parkway station? A. I did.

Q. And where did you walk? A. On the east side of Jerome Avenue, for one block, to Gunhill Road, and then I turned right, which meant I was on the south side of Gunhill Road, walking towards my home.

7116

Q. Were you alone? A. I was alone.

Q. What happened to you?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor please, as incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: No bearing upon the issue being tried before your Honor; apparently an endeavor to do something, to present evidence of something that has no bearing upon this indictment whatsoever.

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. When I got opposite Montefiore Hospital I heard a report, a shot, and I was stunned and then I fell down.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out that answer as indicating the purpose now of the question, on the ground that the shooting of this witness, if it happened, has no 7118 bearing whatever upon this indictment.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: And may involve testimony of a crime entirely distinct from that named in this indictment.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: I take an exception.

Q. After you were shot, Mr. Rubin, were you taken to a hospital? A. I was.
Q. What hospital? A. Fordham.

Mr. Talley: May I have an objection 7119 to all this line of testimony?
The Court: Yes.
Mr. Talley: And an exception to it.

Q. Do you know how long you were in Fordham Hospital? A. From October 1st to November 8th,—thirty-eight days, about.
Q. Get a blood transfusion? A. I did.
Q. After you came out of the hospital on November 8th, were you given a police guard? A. Yes, at first three men.
Q. That would have been a full 24-hour guard?

7120 A. One man for 24 hours and the other two men whenever I went outside, so I had three men whenever I went down on the street.

Q. How long did that 3-man guard keep up? A. Several months, I believe.

Q. After several months, was it cut down? A. Yes, it was.

Q. To what kind of a guard? A. 24-hour guard, one man.

Q. One man 24 hours? A. That is right.

7121 Q. How long after you were shot was it before you went back to the garment district? A. I walked through the garment district whenever I could because I was getting paid from the union and I wanted to try to maintain that relationship, if I possibly could, and so I was there until February, 1939. Whenever I was able to walk around, I went down there and sort of said, "Hello" to a few people and made myself at least as if I was appearing there, to get paid.

Q. Where did the bullet enter you, Mr. Rosen?

7122 Mr. Climenko: I object to that, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Object to this demonstration. This matter has no materiality to the issue before the Court and it can tend only to be inflammatory.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection and call your Honor's attention to the fact this claimed shooting was more than a year after the crime named in this indictment, too remote, in addition to being incompetent and immaterial and irrelevant to this issue.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. The bullet entered right here in back of my head (indicating), and it came out right here, right close to my eye (indicating).

Q. It entered the back of your neck and emerged at the bridge of your nose? A. That 7124 is right.

Q. In close proximity to your right eye? A. Yes; a .38 calibre revolver bullet, too.

Q. Since that bullet went from the back of your neck and came out at the vicinity of one of your eyes, at the bridge of your nose, has your neck been permanently on the side?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

7125

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have some of those neck muscles and nerve muscles been affected by the bullet so that your head is to one side? A. Yes, and my nerves have all been shattered.

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. And have you since that time been on total

7126 disability on your insurance, and receiving payments?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, as being purely inflammatory and tending to have an effect upon this jury that cannot possibly be justified and should not be permitted.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

7127 A. Yes, I have been on disability from that time on.

Q. Receiving weekly checks or monthly checks? A. Monthly check.

Mr. Turkus: That is all.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out each and every bit of testimony that this witness gave on the ground it has no binding effect upon the defendant Buchalter, not connected with him in any wise whatever.

7128 The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I join in the motion, if your Honor pleases, and take an exception.

Mr. Barshay: I now move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the ground that this testimony is highly prejudicial and inflammatory and does not tend to connect the defendant with the commission of this crime.

The Court: Judge Talley's objection is overruled. Both motions are denied.

Defense Counsel: Exception, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: On behalf of defendant Capone I again renew the motions which were made at the time of the severance and throughout this trial and ask for the withdrawal of a juror and a severance upon the ground that this testimony is in no wise connected with the defendant Capone and is prejudicial to his rights 7130 and interests.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

Mr. Talley: I join in both motions, if your Honor pleases. Take an exception.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: We all except. May I call upon your Honor now to let us know whether or not we have a right to see that statement?

The Court: I did not anticipate that this witness would be back this afternoon. 7131
I have the deposition before me now. Of course, the jury will have to be excused while the matter is discussed. I have read it about three times so as to try to comprehend it, but I have not checked it up against my notes of the testimony of the witness. However, I will excuse the jury now. We may be able to come to a conclusion on it.

(To jury) Excuse you for a few minutes, gentlemen.

(The jury retired from the court-room.)

The Court: The deposition now being before the Court, notations will be put against each question and answer which the Court feels the defense is entitled to see. As to some of the material in the deposition, the same is highly speculative, opinionative, and therefore incompetent, and some concerns a possible prospective witness in this case, so that it would be a matter of court policy not to let counsel see that in advance of that witness taking the stand.

The Court can state now that the witness, when the deposition was being taken, told nothing whatever about flight and hiding, this, of course, in keeping with the advice previously given by Mr. Maguire.

The witness also failed in any way to implicate Lepke. On the other hand, he went out of his way to give assurance that if he could, he would. The Court will not comment one way or the other as to why that may have been deemed feasible, whether true or untrue, by the witness when he gave this deposition. Counsel can figure that out without any suggestion from the Court. The witness did name two men as probably active participants in the killing, whose names are included in this indictment as probable killers. That was purely on the basis of speculation. The witness was offered immunity by Mr. McCarthy, but in another part of the deposition he expresses not wishing or not wanting immunity, in other words, apparently rejecting the offer of immunity. I will go over these questions and answers, if you will be patient for a few minutes.

Mr. Barshay: Can I take one exception to one part of the comment your Honor made?

The Court: The jury is out of the room.

Mr. Barshay: I know that, Judge, but for the record, it is an observation which your Honor made which is not based on 7136 the testimony in this case. I would like to call your Honor's attention to it.

The Court: What is that?

Mr. Barshay: That is that he failed to mention anything about flight, pursuant to the suggestion of Mr. Maguire. I do not believe, your Honor, there is anything in the record with respect to that phase.

The Court: I did not say that.

Mr. Barshay: I thought I heard you say that.

The Court: In accordance with the 7137 legal advice. Mr. Maguire, you will recollect, is supposed to have advised him and told Lepke that flight may be viewed as evidence of guilt, makes a man look guilty, and then came the alleged, somewhat trite, saying by Lepke that when witnesses are away, investigations collapse. You recall that?

Mr. Barshay: Yes, Judge.

The Court: Of course, as to that, we have a motive for concealment.

Mr. Turkus: May the record indicate that that statement was the one that was marked for identification by the District Attorney?

The Court: Z-16 for identification.

Mr. Turkus: Was offered in evidence by the District Attorney, the offer was rejected by the defense, and when the witness was asked whether the statement was true or false, objection was made by defense counsel.

7139 Mr. Barshay: Counsel acting as lawyers made the objection then and they would make the objection now, because that is incompetent.

The Court: It is incompetent. It could not be admitted without prejudice to the defense. There was also an admission of giving money to Rosen, but there was an attempt to cover it up and to say that it was not connected in any way with the Rosen murder but was a mere casual hand-out.

7140 The Court amends what it said first about not leaving town. He admitted leaving town, but denied it was about the Rosen matter.

This is just preliminary, because my notes are rather voluminous. I am asking of all counsel, does any counsel recall at any place this witness claims that Lepke admitted having any part in the killing of Rosen?

Mr. Barshay: No, he never claimed that.

The Court: That is agreed. To save the trouble of having to make, through some member of the court staff, a transcript of questions and answers which the Court finds defense is entitled to see, the Court will, in view of the lateness of the hour, dictate those questions and answers, and then when counsel get a daily transcript they will have them before them and continue the cross-examination tomorrow morning. Is that agreeable?

Mr. Barshay: Very much so. 7142

Mr. Rosenthal: If that is so and there will be no other testimony, may I be excused for the afternoon?

The Court: I think you had better be here when this is read. It will take only a few minutes.

(Reading.)

"By Mr. McCarthy:"—and the date of the deposition being December 16, 1937.

"Stenographer: Caneveri.

"Book No. 26. 7143

"Q. Your name and address? A. Max Rubin, 245 East Gunhill Road, Bronx.

"Q. Now Mr. Rubin, my name is McCarthy. I am an Assistant District Attorney of Kings County. I am going to ask you some questions and at the same time I want you to know that you can expect something from us. The District Attorney of Kings County is willing to give you immunity and we will agree not to prosecute you. We want to question you about the Joseph Rosen murder. Of course, you know you were over to the Joseph Rosen store. That is before the Grand Jury now. Even if it does involve you, we are not going to prosecute you. A. I was only over to the store once, and that was on an invitation from Louis Feinberg from the union I represent. I had a car at the time, a Buick."

Mr. Barshay: Pardon my interruption. May I ask your Honor's indulgence in excusing Mr. Rubin at this time, so that he should not hear?

7145 The Court: Oh, yes. Thank you for the suggestion.

Mr. Rubin need not be brought back today. Ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

(Continuing reading.)

"Q. What color was it? A. Black. He had to meet this Sam Levine to go to Brighton or wherever they wanted to go fishing. He said at the same time that Rosen wanted to see me. I went over there just that once to see Joe Rosen. It was an afternoon, I imagine about three 7146 o'clock or so, or two o'clock. I am not sure about the time. He was in the store alone. Later on his little girl came drifting in and out, maybe two or three times. The general conversation that I had with him I don't think lasted more than half or three-quarters of an hour. He complained about the business he was in and asked me what I could do to get him out of it. I did not know what he wanted to see me for, and I said, 'Joe, I will do what I possibly can do, but you had no right to quit the job without first taking it up with me.'

"Q. Quit what job? A. He was working at that time for Larry Cooper.

"Q. That is a fellow from Jersey, isn't it? A. No. His brother is a detective in the Homicide Squad. I think his name is Nat, or Nathan Cooper. He has been there for years. (continuing) He jumped off that job without me knowing it. I told him at first that I could have gotten him some money because there was always somebody hanging around the union that would have paid him. He said he had heart trouble and that is why he had to leave the job. He said he wanted to go in the cleaning and 7148 dyeing business. He said, 'I want to get in that other business.' I said, 'I may be able to help you, because we have done it in three or four other cases before.' We would run an affair and put them in business. That is the small union that I represent.

"Q. What union do you represent? A. The Clothing Drivers & Helpers Union, Local 240.

"Q. Are you the business agent? A. Yes, and have been for about twelve years, at 35 West 15th Street. I told him I would see what I could do for him, and that is all the conversation we had, and I did not see him from that day 7149 until I read he was shot, in the newspaper.

"Q. Didn't you leave town then? A. Yes, sometime in November, but not on account of that.

"Q. Did you know Lepke and Gurrah? A. Yes, very well.

"Q. Did you ever tell Rosen to get out of town? A. No.

"Q. Did you give him any money to go away? A. No.

"Q. Did you give Mrs. Rosen any money? A. I gave Rosen plenty of money. I used to give him 5's or 10's or deuces as I would do for anybody else.

"Q. You don't know anything about the Rosen murder at all? A. No."

The next question and answer are debatable. I put "yes" against it and then a question mark, but determined not to reveal it because I think it is incompetent, and I am absolutely sure that counsel for 7151 defense would not use it.

According to another part of the deposition I have a question mark against the question and answer next to the last, on page 5, but the trouble with it is that it states—and this must be read in connection with the rest of the answer, which is simply to state his own motive and position—it states the following, which is incompetent, clearly: "I am in a position to know whether the whole thing will be run on the up-and-up. If it will be run on the up-and-up, I will do anything I 7152 can." I decided not to let that in.

Then at the bottom of page 5:

"Q. I am giving you immunity. A. I don't need immunity. I was never taken into anybody's confidence on any murder cases. That was always one thing. Where I got that other stuff from was from general conversation."

On page 8, next-to-the last question and answer:

"Q. The little girl said you threatened their father and told him to get out of town. A. I did give him some money, but he did not ask me. He wanted to go in the cleaning and dyeing business, which would have required about six or seven hundred dollars. It was a question of trying to get together."

On page 9, the lower half—in reference to context which deals with Mrs. Rosen's knowledge concerning him: 7154

"Q. Because you were in the store"—

I will read the one before that. I had "No" against it. I will mark it "Yes," because these two must be read together:

"Q. She knows a whole lot about you. You were the man, according to her. A. How could she base it on?

"Q. Because you were in the store. A. I was only there once." 7155

There is a question and answer in the middle of page 10. I don't think it is competent. There is a question mark put by me against it to qualify the notation "Yes," but I think counsel should know it.

"Q. Tell me, is there anything else you want to say? A. All you ought to do with me is to pray for a break. It will come, and if I can be of any help and if you find that my story deviates one bit from what I told you, you can do what you want. You will find that in the long run we will get many of them. You will see more of a chap in me today than any cop in the Department today."

7156 Max Rubin—Recalled for People—Redirect

The rest of the questions and answers are deemed incompetent, speculative, and, to a certain extent, confidential.

7157 Mr. Barshay: I hope your Honor won't misunderstand when I read my motion or my objection and exception in the record as tending to put the Court in any spot. It is merely on the law. We may be wrong.

The Court: The Court may be right or wrong. It can only do the best it knows how.

7158 Mr. Barshay: Counsel for defendant Buchalter take an exception to the ruling that speculative statements are incompetent and not available to the defendants and also an exception to the ruling that the portion affecting a prospective witness is not available to defendants for the reason— I shall modify that, Judge. If that prospective witness, whoever he may be, is not called, then your Honor will let us see any other part of the statement which you deem advisable as competent?

The Court: I have not gone so far as to say that. So far as I can see at the present time, this was purely opinionative as to personality and speculative as to possible connection.

Mr. Barshay: May I finish, Judge?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: We also, in view of the view we have about the law, which may be right or wrong, request the opportunity of seeing the whole statement in order to exercise the right to determine, as counsel, what portions are inconsistent with the testimony of the witness and affect his 7160 credibility, for if any inconsistency exists, it is our view that we must see the whole statement in order to propound our cross-examination in the light of our understanding of the record.

The Court: Of course, you understand, Counsellor, the development and present liberality of the law, allowing the defense on a criminal indictment trial to see the prosecution's preparation work, has never been liberalized one bit to the extent of allowing the prosecution to see the de- 7161 fense preparation work or statements. This is a one-sided liberalization. It works entirely in favor of the alleged criminal. The Court, therefore, is not justified in going any further than compelled by the authority of which it is at present cognizant, which it recognizes as being controlling upon the action of the Court in this trial. Personally, I don't agree with it. I think it is one-sided, and I agree with Judge Crane in what he has said many times, that the laws tend in all re-

7162 spects to favor the criminal and not The People of the State of New York.

Bring back the jury.

Mr. Barshay: If your Honor pleases may the record show all people present at the time this questioning of Rubin took place, according to the statement? Was there anybody else present in addition to Mr. McCarthy and the stenographer, and the exact time and place?

7163 The Court: Detective Giordano of the Homicide Squad, Brooklyn; Mr. Frank S. Hogan, Assistant Prosecutor, who represented Mr. Dewey.

(The jury returned to the court-room.)

The Court: Gentlemen of the jury, we will take a recess until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, when the cross-examination of the witness now on the stand will be resumed. In the meantime you are cautioned to follow all admonitions heretofore given in relation to not talking or reading or discussing or receiving any impression regarding the case. Keep your minds open.

7164

The jury may go out of that door.

The defendants are remanded.

(Whereupon an adjournment was taker to November 14, 1941, at 10 A. M.)

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 14, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

MAX RUBIN, a witness on behalf of The People, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Mr. Barshay: If your Honor please, there are some things I would like to clear up with respect to the statement we spoke 7166 of yesterday, so there may not be any misunderstanding at all when your Honor makes a ruling. If I understood it clearly last night, I was to have certain rights and not have other rights. Will you excuse the jury?

The Court: The Court has ruled on that.

Mr. Barshay: It is a question of interpreting some of the rulings your Honor has made.

The Court: Refer to it by page.

Mr. Barshay: Page 2266. Will I be 7167 allowed to make comment? Will I be allowed to ask the witness questions on that point? It is next to the last paragraph.

The Court: Not only that, but you will be permitted to even read that part of the record to the jury. That was the purpose of the Court's stating it. You have that right. Likewise, the last paragraph, which begins at the bottom of that page and continues on the other, up to and including the first four lines on page 2267. Omit the speculation, but as to the offer of immunity, that may go in. Is there anything else?

Mr. Barshay: There may be some odds and ends.

The Court: You can call my attention to that.

Mr. Barshay: I ask again that you permit counsel, for the purpose of assisting him in cross-examination, to use the 7169 entire statement.

The Court: The Court has ruled on that. This is repetitious.

Mr. Barshay: Because, when I read it over, I wanted to make it clear. Do you deny my motion?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: Since the statement was given, that portion was given to the defense counsel in the absence of the jury—

The Court: You will have to speak
7170 louder.

Mr. Turkus: I say that since that portion of the statement, Z-16 for identification, a People's exhibit, was given in the absence of the jury, I would like the jury to know that was a statement, that was not for identification.

The Court: There is nothing that the jury cannot hear. Speak louder.

Mr. Turkus: I would like— It was the Court's direction that Z-16, a statement concerning which the District Attorney questioned Rubin on direct examination, be marked for identification. When a question was addressed to the witness as to whether or not the contents thereof were true or false, that was prevented by the Court at that time. I would like the jury to know the circumstances.

The Court: This refers to the deposition taken by Assistant District Attorney McCarthy, who was one of the Assistants under Mr. Geoghan in an investigation that was made before Judge O'Dwyer 7172 came into office as District Attorney of this county. You, Mr. Turkus, offered it in evidence, and it was objected to and excluded, but was marked for identification. The Court has read parts of it to determine what is fair to allow counsel for the defense to see, for the purpose of further cross-examining this witness. Those parts have been revealed to counsel, and counsel have the right now, to cross-examine on those points. Is that sufficient? 7173

Mr. Barshay: That is clear.

Recross-examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. Will you try to answer these questions without volunteering anything? A. Yes, sir, but it is pretty hard as far as that paper is concerned.

Q. You will try, please. I will try to ask of you questions in a way that will give me a simple answer. A. If you ask me fairly, I will certainly answer them fairly.

Q. I don't want to quarrel with you. Will you please answer the questions if you can, and if not, will you tell the Judge you cannot, without volunteering? Is that all right? A. I will try.

Q. Subsequent to the occurrence that happened to you as you described it to the jury, when you came out of the hospital you were under guard by the Police Department, weren't you? A. I was.

Q. For 24 hours a day? A. That is right.

7175 Q. You had already been in Mr. Dewey's office, you said, sometime in September of 1937? A. In August.

Q. Sometime in 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. There did come a time when you became acquainted with Mr. Frank Hogan, then an Assistant District Attorney? A. At that time.

Q. You dealt a great deal with him? A. That is right.

Q. Mr. Frank Hogan is the same person who is now District Attorney elect in New York County? A. That is right.

7176 Q. On December 16, 1937, there is no doubt about when you were under police guard? A. That is right.

Q. Were you at the office of Mr. Hogan on that day? A. I was.

Q. Can you tell us where the address was? A. 120 Broadway— Not 120—the Woolworth Building.

Q. 233 Broadway? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was Mr. Dewey's headquarters? A. That is right.

Q. Some of the building was rented to him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were there at what time of day? A. I cannot tell you that.

Q. You were there under guard, I take it. A. That is right.

Q. Did you meet Mr. McCarthy, an Assistant District Attorney then serving under Mr. Geoghan? A. I did.

Q. Mr. Hogan was in the room? A. He was.

Q. The police were in the room? A. Just the one detective that Mr. McCarthy came with, and the stenographer. The detective I had went out- 7178 side.

Q. Right outside of the room? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, in that immediate room you were certainly not under physical fear? A. No, sir, not in that room.

Q. You had heard the name McCarthy before, hadn't you, as you say from the defendant Buchalter? A. That is right.

Q. That is the famous McCarthy whose name was mentioned by Mr. Buchalter to you when he said, "McCarthy is going around saying he will make the biggest collar," or something like that, 7179 of Lepke and Gurrah? A. That is right.

Q. Were you asked questions there by Mr. McCarthy? A. I was.

Q. Was a stenographer there? A. He was.

Q. Do you know now whether his name was Caneveri? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Hogan was in the room? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And a detective? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you asked this question? I am going to read it just exactly as the Court gave it to you, and you answer yes or no, will you? A. Can't I elaborate?

7180 Max Rubin—Recalled for People—Recross

Q. No, please. A. Wait a minute Mr. Barshay—

Q. I don't want to quarrel with you.

Mr. Barshay: May I ask that the Court just say to this witness he shall answer the question yes or no, because that is the only way I shall ask the question.

The Witness: Your Honor, there is a 7181 background to this case.

The Court: I understand there is a background, but you don't have to shove it before the jury. The District Attorney is here to take care of you. At the present you will be asked questions by counsel for the defense which call for direct answers and for no volunteering. The question as to whether or not a reason may be given for any apparent inconsistency is a question of law for the Court to rule upon, but the situation will 7182 be confused if you attempt to volunteer anything in order to straighten this out.

Q. Was this question asked of you: "Q. Your name and address?" and did you give this answer: "A. Max Rubin, 245 East Gunhill Road, Bronx"? A. That is right.

Q. Was this question asked you: "Q. Now, Mr. Rubin, my name is McCarthy. I am an Assistant District Attorney of Kings County. I am going to ask you some questions and at the same time I want you to know that you can expect something from us. The District Attorney of Kings County is willing to give you immunity and we will agree not to prosecute you. We want to question you about the Joseph Rosen murder. Of course, you know you were over to the Joseph Rosen store. That is before the Grand Jury now. Even if it does involve you, we are not going to prosecute you. A. I was only over to the store once, and that was on an invitation from Louis Feinberg from the union I represented. I had a car at the time, a Buick." 7184

Did you make that answer to that question? A. I did.

Q. Were you asked this question: "Q. What color was it? A. Black. He had to meet this Sam Levine to go to Brighton or wherever they wanted to go fishing. He said at the same time that Rosen wanted to see me. I went over there just that once to see Joe Rosen. It was an afternoon, I imagine about three o'clock or so, or two o'clock. I am not sure about the time. He was in the store alone. Later on his little girl came drifting in and out, maybe two or three 7185 times. The general conversation that I had with him I don't think lasted more than half or three-quarters of an hour. He complained about the business he was in and asked me what I could do to get him out of it. I did not know what he wanted to see me for, and I said, 'Joe, I will do what I possibly can do, but you had no right to quit the job without first taking it up with me.'"

Did you make that answer to that question as I read it? A. That is right.

Q. "Q. Quit what job? A. He was working at that time for Larry Cooper."

Did you answer that question as I read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. That is a fellow from Jersey, isn't it? A. No. His brother is a detective in the Homicide Squad. I think his name is Nat, or Nathan Cooper. He has been there for years. (continuing) He jumped off that job without me knowing it. I told him at first that I could have 7187 gotten him some money because there was always somebody hanging around the union that would have paid him. He said he had heart trouble and that is why he had to leave the job. He said he wanted to go in the cleaning and dyeing business. He said, 'I want to get in that other business.' I said, 'I may be able to help you, because we have done it in three or four other cases before.' We would run an affair and put them in business. That is the small union I represent."

Were you asked that question and did you
7188 make that answer? A. That is right.

Q. You were then speaking about a conversation you had with Joseph Rosen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you asked this question: "Q. What union do you represent? A. The Clothing Drivers & Helpers Union, Local 240."

Did you answer that question in that way, as I read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. Are you the business agent? A. Yes, and have been for about twelve years, at 35 West 15th Street. I told him I would see what I could do for him, and that is all the conversation we had, and I did not see him from that day until I read he was shot, in the newspaper."

7189

Did you answer that question just as I read it? A. I did.

Q. "Q. Didn't you leave town then? A. Yes, sometime in November, but not on account of that."

Did you answer that question as I read it? A. I did.

Q. "Q. Did you know Lepke and Gurrah? A. Yes, very well.

Did you answer that question as I read it? A. Yes, sir.

7190

Q. "Q. Did you ever tell Rosen to get out of town? A. No."

Did you answer that question the way I read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. Did you give him any money to go away? A. No."

Did you answer that question as I read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. Did you give Mrs. Rosen any money? A. I gave Rosen plenty of money. I used to give him 5's or 10's or deuces as I would do for anybody else."

7191

Did you answer that question as I read it? A. I did.

Q. "Q. You don't know anything about the Rosen murder at all? A. No."

Did you answer that question as I have read it? A. I did.

Q. "Q. I am giving you immunity. A. I don't need immunity. I was never taken into anybody's confidence on any murder cases. That was always one thing. Where I got that other stuff from was from general conversation."

Did you answer that question the way I read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. The little girl said you threatened their father and told him to get out of town. A. I did give him some money, but he did not ask me. He wanted to go in the cleaning and dyeing business, which would have required about six or seven hundred dollars. It was a question of trying to get together."

Did you answer that question as I read it? A.
7193 I did.

Q. "Q. She knows a whole lot about you."—referring to Mrs. Rosen—"You were the man, according to her. A. How could she base it on?"

Were you asked that question and did you make that answer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "Q. Because you were in the store. A. I was only there once."

Did you make that answer to that question? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you asked this question by Mr. McCarthy:

"Q. Tell me, is there anything else you want to 7194 say? A. All you ought to do with me"—

Mr. Barshay: Am I reading it correctly, Mr. Klein?

Mr. Turkus: The record is that way. Let it go according to the record. We have no quarrel.

The Court: It shows as the stenographer transcribed it. I do not assume responsibility for errors in transcription.

Mr. Turkus: It has the word "got" instead of "ought."

The Court: Change it. There are numerous mistakes in the record of a trial, sometimes several to a page.

Mr. Barshay: That does not change the meaning of the statement.

Q. Were you asked this question by Mr. McCarthy: "Q. Tell me, is there anything else you want to say? A. All you got to do with me is to pray for a break. It will come, and if I can be of any help and if you find that my story deviates 7196 one bit from what I told you, you can do what you want. You will find that in the long run we will get many of them. You will see more of a chap in me today than any cop in the department today."

Mr. Barshay: I believe the word "chap" is meant to be "cop."

Q. Did you mean "chap" or "cop"? A. I cannot remember now.

Q. I will read it just as it says: "You will see more of a chap in me today than any cop 7197 in the Department today." Did you make that answer to the question I just read? A. I did.

The Court: The word "chap" was in the transcript that the Court read from, but it is obviously an error. He must have said "cop."

Mr. Turkus: May I say at this point, your Honor, in reading the statement, or the portions of it you have given to the defense counsel, you referred to this as a deposition. In order that the record may be clear, this is simply a "Q. & A." statement taken by McCarthy on December 16, 1937. This is not signed or sworn to and not what I would call a deposition.

The Court: In the sense that it is not signed or sworn to, the term "deposition" does not apply, but "deposition" was used to typify it, because the legal meaning of "deposition" is a sworn statement in question and answer form. An 7199 affidavit is in the narrative form, purely as matter that is alleged. Go ahead.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Is it not a fact, Mr. Rubin, that in that statement to Mr. McCarthy at Mr. Dewey's office, in the presence of Frank Hogan, you in any way— Question withdrawn.

Q. You did not implicate the defendant Buchalter, or Lepke, in any respect whatever—yes or no? A. That is true.

Q. You did not implicate him? A. I did not.

7200 Q. Is it not a fact that in that statement you, on the other hand, went out of your way to give assurance to the Assistant District Attorney then that if you could implicate Lepke you would? A. Where do you get that inference from?

Mr. Turkus: No, is is something the Court disclosed to counsel yesterday.

By the Court:

Q. Is it a fact you said you would implicate

Lepke if you could? A. I don't remember saying that. I don't think at that time I would implicate him, even if I could.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not responsive. I am following the Court's instructions to the letter.

The Court: Correct. Strike it out. The District Attorney can take care of anything by way of explanation.

Mr. Barshay: I ask to have the question repeated by the stenographer. 7202

Q. (Repeated by stenographer.) A. I did.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. There is no doubt, Mr. Rubin, that the offer of immunity made to you by the Assistant District Attorney, Mr. McCarthy, was repected by you? Yes or no. A. I am not looking to deviate from my understanding or instructions from the Court, but I simply want to say as a layman I did not know—you can stop me if you want to— I would be pleased if you stopped— 7203

The Court: Mr. Barshay wants to know if it is not a fact you said you did not want immunity.

The Witness: Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. Is it not a fact that in that statement made to Assistant District Attorney McCarthy you did not mention to him the incident with respect to you going to Berger and telling him to go to Buchalter? A. I certainly did not.

7204 Max Rubin—Recalled for People—Redirect

Q. Isn't it a fact that in that statement made to Assistant District Attorney McCarthy then, that you did not tell him that Allie Tannenbaum was present in the room with respect to the conversation you and Bachalter had on September 11th?

Mr. Turkus: I object, there was no conversation in that statement in which he said he had such a conversation with Lepke.

7205

The Court: There is nothing in the statement concerning any conversation with Lepke whatever.

Mr. Barshay: Is it clear, your Honor, that the name of Tannebaum is not mentioned in that statement?

The Court: It is clear the statement is silent so far as such a conversation with Lepke is concerned.

The Court: Any other questions?

Defense Counsel: No questions.

7206 Redirect examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. When you were on direct examination I put a question to you: Was the statement Z-16, District Attorney's exhibit for identification, true or untrue, and at that time the Court sustained objection to the question. I now renew it. Was People's Exhibit Z-16, the District Attorney's exhibit in this case for identification, true or untrue as to your anwers?

Mr. Barshay: Object: that is a matter for the jury.

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Untrue.

Q. When you discussed the matter in the District Attorney's office after Judge O'Dwyer was District Attorney, was this statement, Z-16 for identification, shown to you—yes or no?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as not binding upon this defendant. 7208
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. It was.

Q. Answer this question yes or no: And were you asked about that statement in the District Attorney's office?

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as incompetent, not binding on the defendants.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception. 7209

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you make response to the District Attorney in connection with People's Exhibit Z-16 for identification?

Mr. Barshay: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.
The Court: Answer that yes or no.

A. Yes, sir.

7210 Max Rubin—Recalled for People—Redirect

Q. Now, you have related to the Court and Jury that the contents of People's Exhibit Z-16 for identification are untrue.

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as repetitious.

The Court: Yes, that is what he said.

Q. Why did you give untrue answers to Mr. McCarthy on December 16, 1937, in the Rosen case?

7211

Mr. Barshay: I object. That calls for the witness's opinion and is a conclusion and self-serving declaration, and not binding in any wise upon the defendants.

The Court: This is a ticklish question of the law of evidence. The Court must use care, unusual care, in deciding it, but the Court must assume the responsibility of decision. Under the rules of evidence ther are circumstances under which a witness may state the reason existing in his 7212 own mind at the time of doing a certain thing. There is no doubt about that. As applied to the evidence in this case as heretofore given by this witness, the statement concerning which he has just been cross-examined on is obviously for the purpose of impeaching his credibility as a witness in giving his testimony for the prosecution in the trial of this case. It is the view of the Court, and I think it is good law, that if a witness has given an untrue statement on some occasion and that is used as the basis of impeachment of his credibility, that in redirect the prosecution may go into the gravamen of the falsification as having a bearing on the extent to which his credibility is affected. The magnitude of the falsification varies in accordanee with the temptation that produces it; varies in accordance with the temptation that produces it. There is a distinction that is properly considered between a wilful falsification as a sheer matter of dishonesty, and that which, under temptation or inducement, is tendered to serve an end—to serve a selfish purpose—an instinct of self-preservation, or an instinct, possibly, of personal safety. I think that some of counsel have read an illustration of that kind in the first book of Victor Hugo's Les Miserables, where Javert enter the home of the priest, after Jean Valjean, a criminal fugitive has just fled to escape arrest after having been dined at the table of the priest and of the priest's two sisters—I should say a sister. That sister enjoyed the reputation of having never told a lie, and when Javert asked the sister whether or not Jean Valjean had been there, the sister told her first lie. She said "No." I read that book while my philosophy on this subject was in its formative stage—that is a good many years ago—but the words of Victor Hugo, as recorded there, in commenting on the lie told by the priest's sister, have had a profound influence on my philosophy in determining the extent to which a person, to my notion, is impeached in general credibility by falsification in a specific respect. Counsel may possibly have the same recollection that I have. I think this is admissible. I think the witness is entitled to state the reason why he did not tell the truth, if, in fact, he did not tell the truth and that is the view of the jury. The objection is overruled.

7217 Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, may I take exception to the Court's observation, most respectfully.

Now, I have another objection, if your Honor will hear it, a very brief one. We object to the ruling of the Court because we anticipate that the answer of this witness, if improperly received, will tend to create prejudice by reason of the statement of the mental operation of this witness. And for that reason we move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

7218 The Court: Objection overruled. Motion denied.

Mr. Barshay: In addition, we most respectfully move for the withdrawal of a juror by reason of the remarks of the Court, which, however intended, may well be construed by the triers of the facts to be exculpatory of the witness.

The Court: Not at all. I know nothing about the question of the truth or falsity of this witness's statement, nor have I permitted myself to form any opinion. In my own mind a wall has been erected between myself and the consideration of that point because that is the function of the jury.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

I ask your Honor, in the absence of the jury, to hear the answer of this witness to determine for yourself whether or not his answer is prejudicial and inflammatory, in order for your Honor to obviate the necessity of a subsequent declaration 7220 of a mistrial should you find that to be necessary.

The Court: I think that is a fair suggestion. The jury is excused.

(The jury leaves the court-room.)

The Court: Now that the jury is out of the room, the Court will state for the edification of counsel its recollection of the quotation from Les Miserables. "God bless her for that lie."

Mr. Talley: Supposing some of these 7221 jurors have read Les Miserables. Is not the telling of that story just about the same as giving them the answer that you just quoted, which would be fatal, and nearly every one of those twelve men have read Les Miserables.

The Court: I doubt if it has been read for the last forty years. I read it nearly fifty years ago.

Mr. Turkus: At any rate, we are try-

7222 Max Rubin—Recalled for People—Redirect

ing an indictment for murder, not a literary gem.

Mr. Cuff: We did not drag it in.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Now that the jury is out of the room, state to the Court why it was that on December 16, 1937, when Assistant District Attorney McCarthy questioned you about the Rosen case, why you made untrue answers.

7223

Mr. Barshay: I make the same objection as I made before. I ask your Honor at the same time to instruct the witness not to give any hearsay testimony.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. It is improper in form and improper redirect.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I had just been shot in the head. I went 7224 to the Grand Jury, where anybody knew where I was. I was shot in the head. Do you mean to tell me I would give that man or any other man a statement for his office? Like hell I would—like hell I would. It was like giving it to that man (indicating defendants). And if I had fifty cops around me I would have been killed with these rifle shots two blocks away. It would be as much as death to myself and family if that office had that statement. You could not keep it secret from that man. He had an "in" there, and he knows it. And I know it, because he told it to me.

The Court: Now, gentlemen, of course it is obvious that a demonstration of this kind before the jury cannot be permitted. Mr. Witness, you are instructed that this will not be tolerated before a jury. When the jury comes back, under no circumstances must there be any such demonstration with the answer, no matter how you feel on the subject. Now, counsel, the furthest the witness can be permitted to go will be to state in a temperate manner whether or not he falsified under a feeling of fear, because of having been shot. 7226

Mr. Turkus: He has other reasons.

The Court: I have not heard that.

Mr. Turkus: I am making this suggestion: I am going to withdraw the question in that form because I understand what your Honor has reference to.

The Court: I will permit this—and I think no exception can properly be taken to it—I am going to permit a leading question to be asked in order to prevent a repetition of this demonstration. There must be assurance against that. We know what the answer is; therefore a leading question is not harmful. The witness may be asked whether or not he gave false answers. 7227

Mr. Turkus: Due to fear on account of having been shot?

The Court: Those are the words that may be asked, and the answer will have to be yes or no, without demonstration or emphasis.

Now, there was one other point there in the deposition which does not relate to the question of fear, and that is concealment or flight. On that point he has had advice, according to the record, of an attorney named Maguire, as to what inference of guilt could be drawn from flight. If questioned on that point he would have a right 7229 to answer.

You may bring the jury back.

Mr. Turkus: Under that rule, the information that Lepke had been giving this witness as to his contact with the District Attorney's office then in Brooklyn was something that was in this man's mind, which he stated here on the record. Now, under that rule, it is not before a jury, may we have what he said?

The Court: I know what he said. I am thinking hard on that point at the 7230 present moment. I think that would be incompetent. He can state—he can be asked whether or not it was fear of a come-back from Lepke due to the fact he had been shot.

Mr. Turkus: The witness has pointed out what he told, even in the Grand Jury, then he is asked to relate something about some representative in the office—

The Court: You don't want a mistrial, do you?

Mr. Turkus: No, but can't we have this reread to see if there is any objectionable matter? That can be read by the stenographer.

The Court: The Court has said you may ask a leading question which calls for a simple "yes" or "no" from the witness.

Mr. Turkus: I will do it that way.

The Court: I dictated the question, which you are permitted to ask exactly as the Court dictated it, word for word. Please do not deviate from it or you may 7232 run into trouble. Do you want me to put it in writing? I will again read it to you, before the jury is called back. I will read the question you are permitted to ask: "Did you give untruthful answers to Mr. McCarthy due to fear of Lepke on your part because of the fact of you having been shot, following"—that was after he testified before the Grand Jury?

Mr. Klein: Yes.

The Court: (continuing)—"following your testimony before the Dewey Grand 7233 Jury?"

Mr. Turkus: I don't want to limit the redirect examination to that question. There are certain matters I want to bring out. For example, Lepke was on the loose at that time. Another thing I want to show is the forecast that Lepke made as to happenings in the Rosen investigation, that they came true—every forecast he made. It was brought out by Mr. Barshay that he was then under the protection of a bodyguard; that he was not in fear of any physical harm in the room of Mr. Hogan at that time, so that argument may be made to the jury about the man in that respect. I want to show that Lepke was not in custody then, that this witness had confidence in Dewey's office, and that the matters he said there—

The Court: There was no evidence he was in custody.

Mr. Turkus: No, Lepke was then on 7235 the loose at that time. McCarthy might be able to give him immunity from any prosecution in the Rosen case, but he could not give him immunity from Lepke on the loose. I want to bring out the real situation here.

Mr. Barshay: I object to further comment.

The Court: How can he answer whether or not Lepke had been apprehended? How does Rubin know? How could he know?

7236 Mr. Turkus: (addressing the witness) Tell the Judge.

The Court: I am talking to you. There is nothing on the record to show he had been apprehended. Why do you have to ask this witness for hearsay evidence on that point?

Mr. Turkus: That was his mental status, that Lepke was on the loose, and that immunity could not be given to him by McCarthy, because Lepke was on the loose. Further, that he knew that whatever was said to anybody over across the Bridge at that time would get right back to the defendant Lepke.

The Court: Now you are just going to run into a wrangle on a collateral issue concerning the manner in which another administration of the District Attorney's office was conducted, and I do not think that would look very pretty to discuss in connection with this case.

Mr. Turkus: Only his state of mind.

The Court: It would be unfair to the 7238 gentlemen who were connected with that administration and the high class and excellent public officials who were on the stand, including Mr. Geoghan himself.

Mr. Turkus: Nobody finds any fault with Mr. Geoghan.

The Court: You know how this will be sensationalized by the press. It is not fair. I will not permit it.

Mr. Barshay: I regret an opportunity has been given to the press for this, but it was instigated by Assistant District 7239
Attorney Turkus. I will keep my temper.

The Court: A fair and true report is expected by representatives of the press. The Court has shown courtesy to all of them in the court-room set-up, and in every way has enabled them to be facilitated in the handling of press comment in this case. And the Court feels confident that the members of the press will handle this in a gentlemanly manner and with due regard for propriety.

Mr. Barshay: Some of the members of the press left before your Honor made this comment. However, I am not going to be put in a position of defending Mr. Geoghan. He needs no defense. All the people in Judge O'Dwyer's office cannot come up to his standard, that is all I want to say about that.

7240 Max Rubin—Recalled for People—Redirect

I move to strike out this witness's answer that he has given to Mr. Turkus.

The Court: Motion denied.

7241 Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: It cannot be stricken out without confusing the record in reference to the precautions taken as to the method by which this witness may be interrogated upon the return of the jury to the court-room.

Mr. Talley: I wish to advise your Honor that I will object to the question as dictated by your Honor for the guidance of the District Attorney, when it is put. I think I should apprise your 7242 Honor of that beforehand.

The Court: I naturally expected there would be objection.

Mr. Talley: I wish to add, and I regard it as my duty as a member of this bar, that the attack upon Mr. Geoghan and his office is the most outrageous and unjustified thing I ever heard in a court-room. I can only give you my experience with that office. I found Mr. Geoghan a high-class, capable, intelligent, and able District Attorney, despite the attack made upon him by Mr. Turkus, and I think your Honor and the gentlemen of the press who appear here should consider it as coming from a polluted, vile source, and I mean this witness, whose testimony has been heard, who cannot tell the truth either here or in any other tribunal, whether before an Assistant District Attorney or a judge of this court.

The Court: Mr. Turkus has not said anything derogatory to Mr. Geoghan. Mr. Geoghan is a close personal friend of 7244 mine. I have the highest respect and admiration for him. I have the utmost confidence in his integrity, and I feel quite sure Mr. Turkus feels the same way.

Mr. Turkus: That is true, and it is unfortunate he was betrayed by somebody who was an alleged friend.

The Court: We are not going to try here the question of integrity concerning any person on that staff.

Mr. Talley: We should not allow it by an attack which emanates from a cow- 7245 ardly killer like this, upon a decent man like Mr. Geoghan, to go unchallenged.

The Court: Do you expect this man, after what he has gone through, to be without emotion and be insulted—

Mr. Talley: He is a fakir and an actor.

The Witness: You are only the front of this whole thing; that is all you are.

The Court: The Court asks you to take your seat. This is disorderly conduct.

Mr. Talley: I will be glad to.

The Witness: He has no right to insult me like that. You are the front. That is all you are. You are the great big front, because you are a judge, not for what you can do—don't insult me like that. I want you to know I am 52 years old. Until I met that man I never did anything wrong, and only to do him a favor is why I got in any trouble. I never was a crook and I never was a murderer and I never had anything to do with that. You filthy 7247 swine, to call me such names. I think it is an outrage when a witness comes up here voluntarily. I am not involved in this thing. I came up voluntarily. I am not lying to save my skin. I have more guts in me than you will ever have.

The Court: This unwarranted insult was done for the purpose of causing this outbreak, which is a normal reaction as observed by the Court and compels the Court to allow the witness to go out at this time for the purpose of composing 7248 himself. I know that an emotional outburst of this kind takes considerable time to recover from, and it forces the Court now, at 25 minutes after 11, to declare a recess until one o'clock.

The jury will be brought back. A recess will not be declared until the jury has been brought back. There will be no more discussion. I feel the Court has been deeply humiliated.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will wait until after recess. I do not want to be accused of being dilatory, though, to make a motion.

The Court: Please make it now.

Mr. Rosenthal: My motion is, in so far as the defendant Capone is concerned, for a mistrial, the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial upon the ground that his rights have been absolutely prejudiced and that he is in no wise connected with any of these matters that have been alleged or testified to, or in accordance with your Honor's proposed question that will be propounded. 7250

The Court: The motion is denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor note my objection.

The Court: The whole thing here was disgraceful and absolutely reacts upon the one who caused it.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor give me an exception to the entire proceeding?

The Court: It is a discredit to the party who caused it.

(The jury then returned to the room.) 7251

The Court: (addressing jury) For reasons which the Court is not permitted to state to you, it has become necessary to recess at this time until one o'clock. Please do not discuss the case not let anybody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open. You may go to dinner or lunch at 12 o'clock. Be promptly on hand, everybody at one o'clock.

The Court wants to call attention to another matter. In the reorganization of the court, a ceremony which is usual in opening the court session, all counsel should be in their places when the Judge enters and makes his bow. That is a courtesy owed, not only by the other members of the staff and by the jury, but by counsel. It has been repeatedly called to the attention of the Court that counsel, notwithstanding advice in the corridor to be in their places, have disregarded such 7253 advice particularly and to a large degree have sauntered into their places after the ceremony of calling the court-room to order. The Court will not be provoked into discipline but expects a gentlemanly response. The jury will now pass out. The defendants are remanded. Recess till one p. m.

(Recess taken until 1:00 P. M.)

7254 AFTERNOON SESSION—TRIAL RESUMED

The Court: Gentlemen of the jury, counsel for both sides know the answer to that question but, in order to avoid the possibility of a mistrial by reason of the framing of the answer by the witness, the Court has permitted a paraphrasing of the answer that was given by the witness in such a manner as to eliminate anything of an improper or objectionable nature and is permitting the District Attorney to put that question as a leading question so as to call simply for a yes or no answer.

7255

Bring in the witness.

MAX RUBIN, resumed the stand and testified further, as follows:

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Mr. Rubin, the District Attorney is permitted to only ask you a single question and to that single question you are permitted to make only a yes or no answer and disclose nothing else. Is that clear to you? A. That is right. 7256

Q. Listen very attentively to the question and answer it exclusively either yes or no. Did you give untruthful answers to Mr. McCarthy due to fear of Lepke on your part because of the fact of having been shot, following your testimony before the Dewey Grand Jury?

Mr. Talley: I object to the question as leading, suggestive, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, and not proper redirect examination. 7257

The Court: The Court is making it leading in order to benefit you, sir. Now you object to it as leading.

Mr. Talley: Your Honor has ruled?

The Court: After what occurred this morning, I think it is in bad taste. The ruling is that the Court's view is you are doing this to provoke an outbreak to use as the basis for a motion for a mistrial. You have called for this answer. Now you have it. The objection is overruled.

The Court will assume the responsibility for this ruling.

Mr. Talley: I take exception to your Honor's ruling.

The Court: Of course, the word "that", Mr. Turkus, is wrong.

Mr. Turkus: I tried to write it verbatim.

The Court: I did not say "that".

Mr. Turkus: I thought I took your 7259 Honor down verbatim. The way I wrote it down—

The Court: Put it just as you read it. Put the question.

Q. Did you give untruthful answers to Mr. McCarthy due to fear of Lepke on your part because of the fact of having been shot, following your testimony before the Dewey Grand Jury?

Mr. Talley: We make the same objection, upon the same grounds.

The Court: Overruled.

7260 Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: Answer yes or no.

A. Yes.

The Court: That is all.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

7261

SEYMOUR MAGOON, residing at 608 Pennsylvania Avenue, Borough of Brooklyn, City and State of New York, called as a witness on behalf of the People, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Magoon, how old are you? A. Thirty-three.

Q. Will you keep your voice up, keep it at the same tone as mine, if you can, so that it will be audible to everybody in the jury box and to defense counsel, some of whom are to my rear. Are you married? A. Yes, sir.

7262

Q. Have you any children? A. Yes, sir.

Q. About how many? A. Two.

Mr. Fischbein: We do not hear you.

Q. You will have to speak more loudly because the last jurors here must hear you and there are defense counsel to my back and your voice must carry to them as well.

7263

Q. Did you go to public school? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How far did you go in public school? A. Eighth grade.

The Court: Loud. Repeat it.

The Witness: Eighth grade.

The Court: Can't hear it.

The Witness: I have a sore throat, your Honor.

The Court: Let a court attendant stand here and repeat his answers.

7264 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Q. Did you graduate from public school? A. No, sir.

Q. How old were you, Magoon, when you quit school? A. About sixteen years old.

Q. Did you after you quit school go to work? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you thereafter get some odd jobs? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I think he is doing all 7265 right now.

Q. Did you know a man by the name of Harry (Pittsburg Phil) Strauss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you know Harry Strauss? A. About fifteen years.

Q. Did you know him by any other name besides Pittsburg Phil? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What name? A. Big Harry.

Q. Did you know a man by the name of Martin Goldstein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know him by any name other than Martin Goldstein? A. Yes, sir.

7266 Q. What name? A. Buggsy.

The Court: You may repeat, if you wish.

Q. Buggsy Goldstein? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor grant me one objection?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: —with respect to the defendant Buchalter, on the ground that it does not in any wise tend to connect him with the commission of the crime. It is not binding upon him. I take one exception and I won't interfere with Mr. Turkus.

The Court: I have not the least idea as to whether it is or not binding. Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you also know one Abie Reles? A. Yes, sir.

7268

Q. How long did you know Martin (Buggsy) Goldstein? A. About fifteen years.

Q. And does the same go for Abie Reles? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know the defendant Louis Capone? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long do you know Louis Capone? A. About nine years.

Q. About nine years? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know a man by the name of Albert Anastasia? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many years did you know him? A. About eight or nine years.

7269

Q. Eight or nine years, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many years have you known Mendy Weiss? A. About five or six years.

Q. Did you meet Mendy Weiss in Brownsville? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know exactly where it was that you saw Mendy Weiss in Brownsville for the first time? A. Yes, sir.

7270 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Q. Where? A. At the corner.

Q. At a corner? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At what corner did you see Mendy Weiss in Brownsville for the first time? A. Saratoga and Livonia Avenue.

Q. Saratoga and Livonia Avenue? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which particular corner of Saratoga and Livonia Avenue was that? Describe it by the place of business that was on the corner. A. A 7271 cigar store.

Q. Was this cigar store also a candy store? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that place a hang-out for the boys from Brownsville? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of Farvel Cohen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long do you know Farvel Cohen? A. About five or six years.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of Harry Maione? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you knew Maione by any name other

7272 than Harry?

Mr. Rosenthal: That is objected to. It is in no wise material to this trial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What name? A. Hap.

Q. Is that short for Happy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know Frank Abbendando?

Mr. Rosenthal: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.
Q. You said you knew him? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you know Frank Abbendando by any name other than Frank? A. Yes, sir.
Q. What name? A. Abby and "The Dasher".
Q. Is that (spelling) A-b-b-y? A. Yes, sir.
Q. And "The Dasher"? A. Yes, sir.
Q. How long do you know Maione and Abbendando? A. Several years. 7274
Q. Were you associated with the men whose names I have just questioned you about, namely, Strauss, Pittsburg Phil Strauss, Martin (Buggsy) Goldstein, Abie Reles, Louis Capone, Albert Anastasio, Farvel Cohen, Harry (Happy) Maione and Frank (The Dasher) Abbendando—

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the form of the question.

Q. —and Mendy Weiss?

7275

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.
Mr. Barshay: May I object to it as not binding on the defendant Buchalter?
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. I did not hear the answer. A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did that association have a name? A. Yes, sir.
Q. What was the name? A. The Combination.
Q. The Combination? A. Yes, sir.

7276 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: His name not having been mentioned by this witness in any respect, your Honor.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

7277 Q. Without stating what the nature of the business was, do you know of your own knowledge whether Martin (Buggsy) Goldstein, Harry (Pittsburg Phil) Strauss, Abie Reles and Louis Capone were engaged in business together?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that upon the ground it calls for a conclusion.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: I will put it in this form, then:

7278 Q. Did you work for Martin (Buggsy) Goldstein, Harry (Pittsburg Phil) Strauss, Abie Reles and Louis Capone?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the question upon the ground, first, it is leading and suggestive; second, it calls for a conclusion.

Mr. Talley: I object to it.

Mr. Turkus: Conclusion whether he worked for them?

Mr. Talley: Same grounds.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: May I have an objection on another ground?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: Not binding on the defendant Buchalter in any respect whatever.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: Just answer that yes or no.

7280

A. Yes.

The Court: Let me have those names again, please.

Mr. Turkus: Martin Buggsy Goldstein, Harry Pittsburg Phil Strauss, Abe Reles, and Louis Capone.

The Court: All right.

Q. Were the four of them your boss?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that.

The Court: Overruled. 7281

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you receive a salary? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Without stating the nature of the instructions, did you from time to time get orders and instructions from your four employers?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that, not binding on this defendant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, that it in no wise involves the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You may answer. A. Will you repeat that question, please?

(Pending question read.)

7283

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you obey the orders and instructions?

Mr. Rosenthal: Objected to.

A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, will you give me one general objection? It is apparent it does not involve the defendant Buchalter and I won't interfere.

7284

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: And one exception.

Q. Was your answer yes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you on or about Labor Day in the year 1936 leave the State of New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go? A. Out to California.

Q. To the State of California? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go alone? A. No, sir.

Q. Who went with you? A. Buggsy Goldstein.

Q. How long did you and Buggsy Goldstein remain in the State of California? A. About a month.

Q. From California where did you and Buggsy Goldstein go?

Mr. Rosenthal: Objected to as in no-wise connected with this trial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except. (Pending question read.) 7286

A. Back East.

Q. And by "back East" what State did you go to? A. New York State.

Q. Did you go to some place in New York State, a town, a village, or a city, having a name? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the name of the place where you and Buggsy Goldstein went?

Mr. Rosenthal: That is objected to.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception. 7287

A. Milton.

Q. Was it Milton, New York? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: You mean right above Marlboro?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

The Court: Just below Highland?

The Witness: That is right.

Q. Did you and Martin Buggsy Goldstein stay in or about Milton, New York? A. Yes, sir.

7288

Mr. Rosenthal: Make the same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. In what kind of a place did you and Goldstein stay?

Mr. Rosenthal: Same objection.

7289

A. A tomato farm.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. A tomato farm, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who owned the tomato farm? A. Mannesse (phonetic spelling)

Q. A person by the name of Mannesse? Is Mannesse spelled (spelling) M-a-n-n-e-s-s-e? A. I would not know.

Q. Was the Mannesse tomato farm a place that you used for a hideout?

7290

Mr. Rosenthal: That is objected to, not material to this issue.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. The mob used it for a hangout.

Mr. Rosenthal: I ask that that be stricken as not responsive.

The Court: Strike it out.

Q. Did you, is the question, among others use that place for a hideout? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did other people use that Mannesse tomato farm up in Milton, New York, for a hideout?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that.

Mr. Talley: I object to it as immaterial, irrelevant.

Mr. Rosenthal: A conclusion.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

Q. What is the answer? A. Yes, sir. 7292

By the Court:

Q. Is that between the river and the highway? A. It is off the highway.

Q. There are two sides to the highway. Is it towards the river? A. No, the hill side.

Q. It is west of the highway? A. It is on the left-hand side of the highway.

Q. Going north? A. Going into Milton proper, into the town of Milton.

Q. Do you know Jim Conklin's stand and farm? A. No, sir. 7293

The Court: All right.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Were you hiding out—

The Court: Pardon me just a minute.

By the Court:

Q. Before you get into Milton proper, the old highway branches off. There are remnants of it there. Do you know what I mean? A. I don't know much about the old highway.

Q. You mean that this is left of the concrete highway? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. Turkus:

7295 Q. While you were hiding out in this farm in Milton, New York, were you arrested there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you brought to the Grand Jury of Queens on a charge? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you recall when that was? A. (No answer).

Q. I see you hesitate so I suggest the month of October, 1936. Does it refresh your recollection? A. October 8, 1936.

Q. Before January 1, 1940, had you ever been convicted of any crime? A. No, sir.

7296 Q. During the month of March, 1940, were you arrested in Brooklyn and convicted by the District Attorney's office of the crime of vagrancy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. To date, is that the only conviction that stands against you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you sentenced to a jail? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What jail were you sent to? A. The Riker's Island Penitentiary.

Q. Did you serve your sentence? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you get on that vagrancy conviction? A. Two months.

Q. Were you actually released from Riker's

Island Penitentiary? Did you get as far as the street? A. No, sir.

Q. Or the warden's office? A. The warden's office.

Q. Did you reach the warden's office on the last day of your sentence on the vagrancy charge? Do you understand me? A. You will have to explain that.

Q. Well, had you served your sentence and were you brought into the warden's office preparatory to going out on the street? A. Yes, sir. 7298

Q. Were you arrested again? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then and there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you taken to a jail? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What jail? A. The Raymond Street Jail.

Q. So that you had actually not set foot out on to the street after that conviction? A. That is right.

Q. You say you were brought to Raymond Street Jail, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. From Raymond Street Jail were you taken to some county other than Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Other than Kings? Where were you taken? 7299
A. To the Bronx.

Q. In the County of Bronx did you see District Attorney Foley? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This question you are permitted to answer only yes or no: Did District Attorney Foley speak to you in the Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Likewise did Assistant District Attorney Edward Breslin of the Bronx speak to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This question, too, you can only answer yes or no: Did you speak to District Attorney Foley and Assistant District Attorney Breslin of the Bronx? A. Yes.

Q. After that were you removed from the Raymond Street Jail in Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you put in the custody of the New York City Police Department? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you taken to another institution? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the name of that institution? A. Bronx County Jail.

7301 Q. Are you segregated from other prisoners? Do you know what "segregated" means first? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you segregated from other persons? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you still kept in this Bronx County Jail? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have already told us that you knew Mendy Weiss, Louis Capone, Pittsburg Phil Strauss, and Abie Reles. Is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Directing your attention to the fall of 1938, did you see Mendy Weiss, Louis Capone, Strauss 7302 and Reles together at a certain place? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you see them together? A. At the corner.

Q. And when you say "the corner" do you refer to the corner of Saratoga and Livonia Avenues? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that corner known by you and others as "the corner"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time and place did you receive an assignment?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it.

Mr. Talley: I object to it, calling for a conclusion.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who spoke to you? A. Weiss.

Q. Did Weiss speak to you in the presence of Capone, the defendant Capone, Harry Pittsburg Phil Strauss, and Abie Reles? A. Yes, sir.

7304

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that.

Mr. Barshay: Just another objection, your Honor, on the defendant Buchalter's part.

The Court: What date was that?

Mr. Turkus: The fall of 1938.

Mr. Rosenthal: Two years after the alleged crime. I object to it on the ground it is immaterial.

Mr. Turkus: The relevancy and materiality—

The Court: That is overruled. What is your objection, Mr. Barshay? 7305

Mr. Barshay: My objection is on the ground that the defendant Buchalter, not being present, certainly is not binding upon him.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

Q. What did the defendant Mendy Weiss say to you in the presence of the defendant Louis Capone, and Strauss and Reles?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object.

7306 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the ground it is two years after the alleged crime named in the indictment, too remote, and immaterial, irrelevant and incompetent.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: With respect to Buchalter on the grounds heretofore urged by me.

The Court: Is this on the subject of 7307 spoliation?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, sir.

The Court: I assumed it was. Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. He says, "Go to Ratner's restaurant tomorrow morning and meet Paul Berger and another fellow. He will point out Rubin, Max Rubin, and you tail him and find out all his habits and see if he has a police bodyguard with 7308 him."

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out the answer on the ground it is not binding on the defendant Buchalter and on the ground that it is evidence of another crime not connected with him, and on the further ground with respect to him there has been no attempt to prove spoliation chargeable directly to him in this case.

The Court: At the present time it would apply only to Capone, but the Court cannot tell with whom else it may be connected before the end of the trial, so at this time I will overrule the objection.

Mr. Turkus: It applies to the defendant Weiss, too.

The Court: Pardon me?

Mr. Turkus: And Capone.

The Court: Wait just a minute.

Mr. Rosenthal: Let the Judge rule, not you.

Mr. Turkus: I am stating the District Attorney's position in the offer of evi- 7310 dence.

The Court: Will you correct me if I am wrong? My notes say—and of course I am a little behind the questioning in my notes always—about the fall of 1938 Weiss spoke to him in the presence of Capone, Strauss and Reles. You mean Weiss was there, too?

Mr. Turkus: Weiss was the speaker. Weiss was the one who gave him the assignment and gave him the instructions.

The Court: That is right. 7311

Mr. Talley: According to his testimony.

The Court: O. K.

Mr. Rosenthal: Your Honor mentioned defendant Capone. Does that ruling of your Honor hold, in view of the fact that it now appears that the defendant Weiss is supposed to have done the talking, not Capone?

The Court: Now you are going to get the Court in a corner. I have quoted evidence. I am not going to fall into that little trap. Objection overruled.

7312 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Mr. Rosenthal: I object on behalf of the defendant Capone on the ground it is not binding upon him.

The Court: Overruled at this time.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Talley: I object to it as an attempt on the part of the District Attorney to introduce evidence having to do with a crime separate and distinct from that named in the indictment.

7313 The Court: Overruled. The applicability will be dealt with at the proper time in the charge.

Q. Before the Court's ruling, you had told us in substance what Weiss told you in connection with tailing Max Rubin. Were you told the purpose of tailing him?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that as leading and suggestive.

The Court: He can say whether or not Weiss told him anything else. That is 7314 leading. Sustained.

Q. Did the defendant Weiss tell you anything else?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection as to the last question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What else did Weiss say? A. He says, "After you find out what is what, come back on the corner and we'll see what we have to do."— Not in those words but to that effect.

Q. At that time, when you received those instructions, did you know Paul Berger? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where had you met him, if you can remember, before you were told by Weiss to meet him in Ratner's restaurant? A. On the corner.

Q. On the corner? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After the defendant Weiss gave you those instructions, what did he do? After he told you 7316 this that you have just told the jury, to meet Berger in Ratner's restaurant, and the other instructions, what did Weiss do? A. I don't know. I left the corner.

Q. Before you left the corner, did you have any talk with either Capone, Reles, or Strauss? A. Not that night.

Q. Are you sure that that very night, when you got the instructions, that you did not have a talk with either Capone, Reles or Strauss?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the question on the ground it is already answered. It 7317 is repetitious.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except. It is both leading and suggestive.

(Pending question read.)

Mr. Rosenthal: Might I add the further ground, it is an attempt to impeach his own witness.

Mr. Turkus: We will worry about that if we have to come to it.

The Court: The effect of this is to confuse and cause constant repeating of the question by the stenographer. When counsel has an objection, he should state it completely and be done with it. Once more, the stenographer will repeat the question. Objection overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. With which one did you have the talk?

7319 The Court: He said he did not.

Mr. Turkus: He said he did.

The Court: He said he is sure he did not.

Q. What do you mean by "yes", that you did or did not?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the question.

The Court: He said and he has made clear, he did not have a talk with one of them that night at that corner.

7320 Mr. Turkus: I want to pursue it.

Mr. Rosenthal: I have an objection before the Court.

The Court: Objection to what?

Mr. Rosenthal: To his pursuing it or to an answer to the question.

The Court: There is no question before the Court. (to witness) Did you have a talk with one of them later?

The Witness: The next night.

The Court: Go ahead from there.

Q. I want to go back to that conversation that you had with Mendy Weiss, where you got your instructions to go to Ratner's Restaurant, and ask you specifically, were you told the purpose of tailing Rubin?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it, if your Honor pleases, upon the ground that it is answered twice; it is repetitious, and now it is leading and suggestive.

The Court: Overruled. 7322

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

The Court: By anybody? You have told us that it was said, in effect, that after you find out what is what, "Come back on the corner and we will see what we have to do." Was anything else said?

The Witness: Not then.

Q. Were you told the time that you were to be at Ratner's Restaurant?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that as leading and suggestive. The witness should be permitted to exhaust his recollection of any alleged conversation before he is led by the District Attorney. 7323

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go to Ratner's Restaurant the next day after that talk? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In between the time you got your instructions to go to Ratner's Restaurant the following 7324 morning, did you see either Capone, Reles, or Strauss? A. Will you repeat that question?

(Pending question read.)

Q. Do you understand it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you? A. I don't recollect.

Q. Did you the following morning go to Ratner's Restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Approximately what time did you go, if you can remember? A. About 9:30 or 10:00—around 7325 that time.

Mr. Cuff: May we have the date fixed?

Mr. Turkus: This is the fall of 1938.

Mr. Cuff: That is not definite.

Mr. Turkus: Then you take care of it on cross.

Mr. Cuff: I am asking the Court if we may have the time fixed by the witness, not by the District Attorney.

The Court: Overruled.

7326 Q. Where was this Ratner's Restaurant located, if you can remember? A. On Delancey Street.

Q. Did you meet anybody in Ratner's Restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you meet there? A. Paul Berger and another fellow.

Q. This other fellow, were you introduced to him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who introduced you to him? A. Paul Berger.

Q. What is the name of this other fellow you were introduced to? A. Cuppie.

Q. Do you know Cuppie's true or right name? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is it? A. Jack Migden.

Q. Did you, Berger, and Cuppie do anything in Ratner's Restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do there? A. Ate.

Q. During the course of the meal, did the three of you speak together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Answer this question yes or no: Did you speak about Rubin? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After the meal was over and the talk was over, did the three of you leave the restaurant? 7328
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see where Berger went? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did he go? A. He went in his car with Cuppie.

Q. When you say "his car" do you mean Berger's car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When Berger and Cuppie went together in a car, where did you go? A. I went in my car and I followed them.

Q. Had that matter been discussed in the restaurant? A. Yes, sir. 7329

Q. Can you remember now where Berger parked the car in which he and Cuppie were riding? A. Around Union Square.

Q. When that car was parked around Union Square, where did you park your car, if you can recall? A. Right near his car.

Q. After the cars were parked, did Berger say something to you and Cuppie? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did Berger say to you and Cuppie?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object.

7330 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial, not in the presence of any of these defendants, in no way binding upon any of them.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. He says, "I will walk first and Cuppie and you follow me, and as soon as I see Max Rubin 7331 I will point him out."

Q. Did Berger walk first? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where did he walk? On what street or avenue, if you can remember? I do not want the route, but ultimately what streets did he walk along? A. He walked up—I think it was —16th Street or 17th Street—17th Street.

Q. And did he walk down that street to an avenue? A. Yes.

Q. What Avenue? A. Fifth Avenue.

Q. When Berger walked down to that place, 17th Street and 5th Avenue, as you recall it, what did you and Cuppie do? A. Followed Paul 7332 Berger.

Q. At or about 5th Avenue and 17th Street, did Berger say anything to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what tone of voice did he say it? A. In a whisper.

Q. What did Berger whisper?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. He says, "That is Rubin on the other side, the fellow in the blue suit with a crooked neck, and I think it is the law with him."

Q. When he said, in words or substance, "There is Rubin, the guy with the blue suit and the crooked neck, and I think it is the law with him," was there a man standing near the person that Paul Berger pointed out as Max Rubin? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is meant by "the law"? A. A policeman.

Q. At that time when Paul Berger whispered 7334
what you have just told the jury about Rubin and the law, where was Rubin standing? A. On the other corner.

Q. Do you mean by that across the way? A. That is right.

Q. Did that man have a bent or crooked neck that he pointed out? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After Berger whispered this to you, did he keep on walking? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After Berger walked off after having whispered what you have told the jury, to you, did you remain? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did Cuppie do? A. He remained with 7335 me.

Q. What did you and Cuppie do in connection with Rubin? A. We followed Rubin all afternoon.

Q. All afternoon did the man that you had seen with him on the corner when Berger whispered, "Maybe it's the law," or "It is the law"—whichever he said—did that man remain with Rubin all afternoon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did there come a time when Rubin and that man went into a subway? A. Yes, sir.

7336 Q. Can you give us an approximate time when that was that afternoon? A. Approximately 4:30.

Q. What subway did Rubin and the man with him enter? A. 14th Street and 7th Avenue.

Q. When Rubin and this man went into the subway, what did Cuppie do? A. He went after them.

Q. And what did you do? A. I went back to Brooklyn.

7337 Q. Now, that night did you go to the corner, namely Saratoga and Livonia Avenue? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That night whom did you see at the corner? A. Weiss, Capone, Strauss and Reles.

Q. Was there a talk on the corner between all of you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was said at the corner that night, and by whom?

Mr. Talley: I object to it, if your Honor pleases, upon the ground that this is evidence apparently tending to attempt to prove a crime separate and distinct from that named in this indictment, being incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

7338

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Rosenthal: I make the same objection and take the exception.

Mr. Barshay: All counsel.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. Weiss spoke to me. He said, "Tomorrow morning put on old clothes and here is Rubin's home address and go up there and watch his house, see who he comes out of the house with, how he walks over to the subway, who walks with him, and so forth."

Q. Now, when he said, "Here is his address," did he give you anything? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he give you? A. An address.

Q. Can you remember what the address was? A. It was some address on Gunhill Road. 7340

Q. In the Bronx? A. In the Bronx.

Q. Was that said by Weiss to you in the presence of Capone?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it.

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: And ask that the answer be stricken.

The Court: Overruled. Denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

The Court: How close was Capone? 7341

The Witness: In the group.

The Court: How close? We want to know if he could hear?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: I ask that that be stricken.

The Court: Strike out that he could hear. The jury has to judge if he could hear.

The Witness: A foot away.

The Court: All right.

7342 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Q. When you were told to go up to this address in Gunhill Road, what else, if anything were you told about the following morning?

Mr. Rosenthal: That is objected to as inferring that something else was told, leading and suggestive.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

7343 The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: Anything else told?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. What else was said? A. I was told that, "After you find out—"

The Court: By whom?

The Witness: Weiss.

The Court: Go ahead.

A. (Continued) "After you find out what is 7344 what, see me at a saloon on Grand and some other street there."

Q. Was anything else said in connection with what you were to do the next morning up at Gunhill Road? A. Yes, find out all his habits, I would say.

Q. How were you dressed when Weiss was telling you this at Saratoga and Livonia Avenues? What type of clothes? I know you cannot remember the color, but what type of clothes did you have on then? A. A suit.

Q. Was anything else said about what you were to do the following morning at Gunhill Road?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

Mr. Rosenthal: It has been answered twice, repetitious.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

The Court: Go ahead.

7346

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go to Gunhill Road the following morning? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go in your suit? A. No, sir.

Q. What did you go in? A. I went in other clothes.

Q. Was anything said the night before about the other clothes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. That is what I want to hear about.

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to what the District Attorney wants to hear and I ask that the interjection be stricken out. 7347

Mr. Turkas: I consent to it that it be stricken. I am sorry I said it.

The Court: What other clothes did you wear?

The Witness: I wore overalls, a lumber jacket, old pants, a slouch hat, and he says, "Use a pipe."

Q. Who said, "Use a pipe"? A. Weiss.

Q. What kind of a pipe are you referring to? A. A smoking pipe.

7348 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Q. That is the kind you put tobacco in? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you told that the night before? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was that in the presence of Capone? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The following morning, after getting the instructions, did you put on that outfit which you have related to the jury? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Dressed in that outfit, what time approxi-
7349 mately did you arrive at Gunhill Road in the Bronx? A. About six o'clock the following morning.

Q. At six o'clock or approximately then that morning, what did you do when you got there in this outfit, at Gunhill Road? A. I parked my car and walked opposite Rubin's house and sat on the curb and was watching his house.

Q. As you sat there on the curb in that outfit, did you see somebody come out of Rubin's house? A. I seen a lot of people come out of Rubin's house.

Q. In addition to the other people that came 7350 out, did Rubin come out? A. Eventually he came out.

Q. Did he come out alone? A. No, sir.

Q. Who came with him? A. A police bodyguard.

Q. Did you observe what Rubin and the police bodyguard did that morning? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you see the police bodyguard and Rubin do that morning? A. Walked to the subway and Gunhill Road.

Q. Did they enter the subway? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After they went into the subway, what did you do? A. I hung around there.

7351

Q. How long did you hang around? A. All day.

Q. After hanging around all day, did you see Rubin again? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Approximately when was that? A. Approximately five o'clock.

Q. Was he alone then when you saw him? A. No, sir.

Q. Who was with him, do you know? A. The same man.

Q. What did you see Rubin and this man do? 7352
A. Go into that house.

Q. Did anybody come out of that house? A. Yes.

Q. Who came out? A. The man.

Q. How long after Rubin and the man had gon a was it that the man came out? A. A few minutes.

Q. In conformity with Weiss's instructions, did you go to a saloon?

Mr. Talley: Object, if your Honor pleases, to the form of the question. 7353

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did you that evening go to a saloon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know where that saloon was located? A. On Grand Street.

Q. East Side of Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know the other street? A. I think it was Lewis Street.

Q. Did you there at that saloon see one of the defendants? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which one? A. Weiss.

Q. Did Weiss ask you a question?

7354

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, upon the ground already stated, to this line of inquiry; has to do with an offense not named in this indictment.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he ask you?

7355

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it.

Mr. Talley: Same objection I made.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

A. He said, "What happened?"

Q. Did you tell him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After you told him what had happened up there in the Bronx, did Weiss say anything else? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say? A. He says, "Go back to Brooklyn and see Harry Strauss, and he will give you further instructions."

7356

Q. Did you go back to Brooklyn that night? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go to the corner? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you see at the corner? A. Strauss, Capone, and Reles.

Q. At that corner where you saw Strauss, Capone, and Reles, was there a talk? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell us who spoke and what was said.

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Strauss spoke and he said, "What happened up there?"

Q. Was this in the presence of Capone and Reles? A. Yes.

Q. Were you all close to one another when you were talking? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it, leading and suggestive. 7358

The Court: He can say how close they were.

Mr. Rosenthal: Is the question withdrawn, or is there a ruling on it?

The Court: Sustained.

Q. State where you were in proximity to one another. Do you know what that means? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right, tell us. A. About arm's length away from one another.

Q. Continue to tell us what was stated there. 7359
A. He asked me, "What happened up there?" and I explained to him exactly what happened. He says, "Well," he says, "go up there again tomorrow morning and watch him again and stay around there until about 7:30 and see if he comes out of the house after supper; if he does come out of the house, where he walks to and with whom."

Q. At that time did Capone say anything? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say? A. He says, "That

7360 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Rubin is hurting Lep, and we got to hit him in the head—

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out—

A. (continued) —and get rid of him."

Mr. Turkus: Let him finish, please.

Q. Continue. "That Rubin is hurting Lepke" — A. 'And we have to hit him in the head and 7361 get rid of him."

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike it out as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you agree to continue your job? A. Yes, sir.

Q As you walked away, did Capone say and do anything?

7362 Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the continuous leading and suggesting to this witness.

Mr. Turkus: There were other people there in conversation, Judge.

The Court: What was the question?

(Pending question read.)

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Do you understand the question? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right, did he? A. No, sir.

7363

Q. At any time in the talk, did anybody use the word "luck"?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to leading and suggesting.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. Not then.

Q. When was that word used?

7364

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. The next night.

Q. Did you continue on the job of watching the movements of Rubin? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many days after that night was it that you continued to watch him? A. Oh, about three more days.

Q. And while you were watching him for those times, how were you dressed? A. In those overalls that I spoke about.

7365

Q. I am calling your attention now to the last day of the watch. What time, if you can recall, did you arrive out in the vicinity of Gunhill Road? A. Early in the morning.

Q. Were you dressed in those overalls and the rest of that outfit that you described to the jury, on that occasion? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Dressed in that outfit, where did you keep yourself in relation to Rubin's house? A. Across the street from Rubin's house.

Q. And what were you doing there while you were waiting for Rubin that morning? A. Sitting on the curb.

7366 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Q. While you were sitting on the curb, did somebody come over and question you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. A policeman.

Q. Was it a policeman in uniform? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did the policeman in uniform say to you?

7367

Mr. Rosenthal: Objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did the policeman in uniform—and answer this only yes or no—ask you questions? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: Objected to.

The Court: That is what he says.

Q. Did you make answers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the policeman go away? A. Yes, sir.

7368 Q. Did you see Rubin come out of the house? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Keep on tailing him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After that incident with the policeman that you have told us about, did you go to the corner, namely, Saratoga and Livonia Avenues? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it that night? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you see on the corner that night? A. Weiss, Capone, Reles, and Strauss.

Q. Did you speak to any one of these defendants on trial? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which one? A. Weiss.

Q. What did you tell Weiss?

Mr. Rosenthal: I make the same objection.

Mr. Talley: I object to it, if your Honor pleases, on the ground already stated.

The Court: Overruled.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: My general objection still holds good, I take it?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. 7370

(Pending question read.)

A. I told him once more that he has a guard with him at all hours, at all hours that I was there; he walks out of the house with the guard and back into the house with the guard; he has the bodyguard with him at all times.

Q. Had you ever seen Rubin leave the house by himself? A. No, sir.

Q. And from your observation of him, had he always been with the bodyguard every time that you saw him? A. Yes, sir.

7371

Q. When you told that to Weiss, that he was always in the company of the cop or the bodyguard, what did Weiss say?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He said, "Then we will have to whack him and the cop."

Q. After Weiss said about what would have to happen to Rubin and the cop, did you say anything about the incident of the policeman? A. Yes, sir.

7372 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

Q. What did you say? A. I explained what happened, that I was stopped up there that morning and questioned off a cop.

Q. Did you tell them what the cop asked you? A. Yes.

Q. And did you tell him what you said to the cop? A. Yes, sir.

7373 Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the form of the question, "Did you tell them?"

The Court: He said he was talking to Weiss and has not made clear how closely together they were.

Q. How close—

Mr. Rosenthal: Just a minute. I have an objection.

The Court: Sustained.

7374 Q. How close together were you, Mendy Weiss, Capone, Strauss, and Reles, when this talk went on? A. All in a huddle.

Q. And were you in a huddle when Weiss said about watching Rubin and the cops? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you in a huddle when you made your report as to what you had seen up in the Bronx in connection with Rubin and the cop? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell us what you said in that huddle to them in relation to your experience with the uniformed police officer that stopped you and questioned you.

Mr. Rosenthal: I again object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Conversation he said was with Weiss. Exception.

(Pending question read.)

The Court: Technically, I think Mr. Rosenthal is right.

Mr. Turkus: I will withdraw it in that form.

The Court: He has placed them all within apparent hearing distance. The conversation was with Weiss. 7376

Mr. Rosenthal: Does your Honor then sustain the objection?

The Court: Yes.

Q. Tell the court and jury what you said about that incident. A. I told him that as I was sitting on the curb a police officer walked over to me and he saw me sitting there, and says, "What are you doing here?" I says, "I am a plumber and I work upstairs and I am waiting for my boss." So he says, "Well, leave it go for a while, drop it for a while." 7377

Q. Who said, "Leave it go for a while," then? A. Weiss.

Q. Now, at the time when this police officer asked you the questions, were you dressed up in that outfit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when you indicated the house that you were waiting for your boss to show up, what house did you point out, in relation to where Rubin's house was? A. Across the street.

Q. I am going to direct your attention to the month of April, 1939, and ask you if in April, 1939, you saw the defendant Capone. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Capone in April, 1939, speak to you with reference to a man named Friedman? Yes or no?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.
(Pending question read.)

7379

A. Yes.

Q. Answer this question only yes or no, and no other disclosure: Were you given an assignment with reference to a man named Friedman?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the question.
The Court: The word "assignment" is objectionable. Sustained.

Q. Were you told to do something with reference to a man named Friedman?

7380

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the question.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. After that conversation did you see Capone again? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many days later? A. A few days later.

Q. Where did you see Capone a few days later? A. I went over to his house.

Q. Do you remember where Capone's home was located then? A. I think it was Avenue K.

Q. Did you see Capone at his home? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember where in his home you spoke with him, what room? A. The parlor.

Q. In the parlor did you ask Capone a question? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you ask him?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it. 7382

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. I asked him if he thought it was advisable that I work on the Friedman thing because I hung out about a block away and I thought I would be recognized.

Mr. Rosenthal: Is that the finish?

Q. Is that the finish of the question that you put to him, that you said to Capone? Is that what you said to Capone? A. Yes, sir. 7383

Q. Did Capone answer you?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to it and ask that the answer be stricken. At this time I move for the withdrawal of a juror.

Mr. Barshay: In that motion counsel for Buchalter joins.

Mr. Talley: Weiss joins in that motion, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: I am trying to place who Friedman was.

Mr. Turkus: That is no concern of the jury at this time, as far as the District Attorney is concerned.

The Court: On what theory is it offered?

Mr. Turkus: The next part of the conversation, which is so interwoven with that, will be the competent part against Capone. I don't want to make any disclosure. I want it to come from the witness. I don't want anybody to say I suggested anything. It is inextricably wound 7385 up with it so that you cannot part it. It has got to be brought out that way. Mr. Klein and I have given it considerable thought before putting the question, and it is the only way it can be done.

Mr. Rosenthal: If there is any question of law involved, in pursuance to your Honor's former policy, I think it should be discussed by both the Court and counsel without the presence of the jury. That seems to have been the policy that has been formulated during the trial,—with all 7386 due deference to the intelligence of both Assistant District Attorneys, their thought and deliberation being the ruling of the Court or even being impressed as a proper method of examination, insofar as I am concerned. I think we should be let in on the secret.

Mr. Turkus: You will be let in very quickly.

Mr. Rosenthal: Just a minute, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: I object to any such implication about a secret. There is nothing secret here. We will expose everything—no secrets.

Mr. Rosenthal: I thought your Honor had ruled that we discuss with the Court and not with Mr. Turkus or one another and we would get along very nicely.

The Court: The policy of the Court is always not to talk with counsel arguing but wait patiently until the discussion ends and then try to put in a word or two. 7388

Mr. Rosenthal: If there is any question—

The Court: Will you wait just a minute, please? Offhand, the impression given is that this is inter alios but I don't want any error here. The jury is excused for a few minutes.

(The jury retired from the court-room.)

The Court: What is this all about, now that the jury is out?

Mr. Turkus: When the witness spoke 7389 to Capone about the advisability of working on the Freedman thing, which is the word in the testimony, Capone's next words are the words that tie him up by an admission.

Mr. Cuff: May we have the witness excused, Judge?

Mr. Turkus: Certainly, I have no objection.

The Court: Let the witness be excused.

(The witness leaves the court-room.)

7390 Mr. Turkus: Without going into the exact language, Capone then said there was, in substance, nothing to worry about and made the admission which puts him into the Rosen killing. That is what will be developed. The answer is so wound up with that conversation that you cannot take some of it away and put the rest of it in because it will be completely without sense and understanding.

7391 Mr. Rosenthal: The only thing that is lost sight of is the fact that the witness Allie Tannenbaum has already testified in the presence of this jury that a man by the name of Whitey Freedman, whom he now identifies, Mr. Turkus, in the form of the question—was shot and killed or in some way was killed—I do not know whether he was shot or what happened but in any event that he was killed, and that is in this record.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor understand this—

7392 Mr. Rosenthal: This question which has been formulated already in the presence of this jury, first in the form which was objectionable and ruled out by your Honor, namely, were you given an assignment in respect to this particular individual, is already prejudicial to the rights of this defendant and is calling into this trial something which should not be developed, which is accusing this defendant of another crime or participation in another crime.

Mr. Turkus: Let me say this. This witness did not mention—let me get the record straight. There is a serious charge there as if the District Attorney did something improper and while defense lawyers have a lot of latitude, still somebody has a sense of feeling in the matter. Freedman is a very common name. It has three different spellings. Nothing was extracted from this witness as to it being Whitey Freedman or any victim of a homicide. As a matter of fact I took every precaution I could that that would not be brought out into the case; that was the purpose of the language used, but the Freedman incident is so interwoven with Capone's admission of guilt in the Rosen case, it is so inextricably interwoven, that you cannot bring it out any other way so that is the problem that we in the District Attorney's office had and this is the only way we could meet it. 7394

The Court: Naturally I don't remember the use or connection of use of the word "Freedman" in the record because it is not a constituent part of this case. It is purely atmosphere, purely incidental and I assume that the memories of the members of the jury are as bad as that of the Judge, and no prejudice has been done. But will you kindly tell me precisely what you expect this witness to answer to that question? 7395

Mr. Turkus: How far did he go?

The Court: You know every detail.

Mr. Turkus: I want to see how far we got and then I will tell you what is going to happen next, according to what I anticipate.

The Court: The admission that will link up Capone, you said.

Mr. Turkus: Well, Capone is going to admit his part in the Rosen killing, tell him what is he worrying about, he worked on the Rosen job and he hung around there and nobody made him, so what is 7397 this fellow worrying about. I cannot tell you the exact language he is going to use, but that, in substance, is the way it is going to be.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I address the Court, if that is supposed to be the purpose?

The Court: Will you wait just a moment?

Mr. Rosenthal: Yes, sir.

The Court: What are the words that you claim were used in reference to Ca-
7398 pone on the Rosen job, I mean Capone's words?

Mr. Turkus: I have made a memorandum.

The Court: Let me know what it is.

Mr. Turkus: The memorandum is this, that he asked him if it is advisable that he should work on this Friedman thing, because he used to hang out a block away from there, just off Sutter Avenue, and that Capone said to him why, and Magoon said he was afraid of being made. Being made is the expression for being identified.

The Court: Don't tell a Judge who has been on the Bench twenty years.

Mr. Turkus: And Capone is supposed to have said to him, in words or substance, what are you worrying about? I worked on the Rosen thing right on Sutter Avenue and I was not made. I hung around there, too. What are you worrying about, being made? Magoon said, in words or substance, I am not worried about it. I just want to let you know and 7400 get your advice. That is all the conversation.

The Court: I will hear Mr. Rosenthal.

Mr. Rosenthal: Even assuming that such a thing was said, the very following conversation alleged to have emanated from Capone would substantiate the statement which I originally made to your Honor, that it is an attempt to prove guilt of another crime, namely the Friedman crime, because if, as he says, the alleged admission relates to the Rosen killing and 7401 says, "What are you worrying about Friedman for?", and already having the testimony here in the form of one or more witnesses the fact that Friedman was killed, it definitely is putting this defendant on trial for a crime which he is not charged with in the indictment.

Mr. Turkus: No, that is not a proper analogy.

Mr. Rosenthal: No?

Mr. Turkus: No, there was nothing brought out—

The Court: Bring in the jury.

Mr. Barshay: Is there any need for any urging the ground? I am moving for a mistrial.

The Court: I am not telling counsel what is their job.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I just add one more thing before the jury comes back? I understand from other counsel, which I did not know, that this man is charged with the Friedman killing and they are 7403 going to bring it out cross-examination, which would make the error still more harmful.

The Court: The Court is prepared to rule.

Mr. Barshay: May I add for the record that Friedman is one of the names mentioned by Mr. Tannenbaum when he said he was receiving instructions, both specific and general, from the defendant Buchalter. That fact may prejudice the jury to a point where they have a right to draw an inference from the question
7404 put by Mr. Turkus that this, too, was done at the direction of Buchalter, and it is not offered on the theory of spoliation and is in no wise connected with the Rosen case.

The Court: All I can say is I have no recollection of it and I just hope that the jury has just as bad a memory as I have.

Mr. Barshay: I cannot rely on that hope, your Honor.

The Court: It may not be prejudicial, anyway.

7405

Mr. Barshay: We have our exception, of course.

(The jury returned to the court room.)

The Court: The objection is overruled and the motion is denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception to all defendants.

The Court: Bring in the witness.

7406

SEYMOUR MAGOON, resumes the stand:

(Last question read.)

Q. After you asked him that question, did he say anything to you? Did he, Capone, say anything to you? A. I have not finished my answer on that.

Q. Continue. A. I says, "I hung out about a block away and it is sort of off Sutter Avenue."

7407

Q. When you said that, that you hung around about a block away and it is sort of off Sutter Avenue, did Capone say anything to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say? A. He says, "What are you worried about?" He says, "I worked on the Rosen thing and it was right on Sutter Avenue and I was not made." I said, "I am not worried, Louie; I am just asking your advice."

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out that conversation as having no bearing upon the defendant Weiss, being incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

7408 Seymour Magoon—For People—Direct

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Barshay: Same motion with respect to Buchalter and exception.

Q. Earlier in your examination you told us that you had only been convicted heretofore of 7409 the crime of vagrancy. Do you recall that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Nevertheless you have committed other crimes, haven't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you stolen automobiles? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Approximately how many? A. I could not count them.

Q. Well, can we help you make an estimate? Fifty? More? A. Roughly I will say fifty or better.

Q. Did you participate in the commission of the crime of murder with others, in Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

7410 Q. Once in Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you participate in the crime of murder in the County of Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In Brooklyn were you the wheel man on the job? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Bronx were you the wheel man? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you testify in the case of Plug Shuman here in Brooklyn, in which Irving Knadles Nitzberg was a defendant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In connection with that homicide, did you deliver the car to Nitzberg and Sheppy Shapiro? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know when you made delivery of the car that it was to be used in a murder? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you asked that question in that trial, in the Nitzberg trial?

Mr. Cuff: Object to that, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. In the matter of one Irving Feinstein who was killed on or about Labor Day, September 4, 1939, did you help one of the defendants in that case get rid of the empty gasoline can which was used to burn the body of Feinstein? A. Yes, sir. 7412

Mr. Turkus: The witness is offered for cross-examination.

Mr. Barshay: I have a motion. I move to strike out this witness' testimony on the ground that it is in no way connected with the defendant Buchalter and is not binding upon him.

The Court: That remains to be seen. Denied. 7413

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I take it, your Honor, that some of the testimony with respect to his activities with Rubin was offered on the theory of spoliation. Your Honor will remember that the period he spoke of was October, 1938, or thereafter, perhaps thereafter, even after December of 1938. Will your Honor recall that the record here is clear that Rubin at that time did not involve the defendant Buchalter in the Rosen case. Conse-

7414 quently there could be no motive on the part of defendant Buchalter, either through himself or anyone else, to dispose of Rubin in the Rosen case.

The Court: I do not know what this is about. There is nothing before the Court.

Mr. Barshay: It is in support of my motion.

The Court: I thought I had just denied the motion?

7415 Mr. Barshay: That is another ground I urge, your Honor.

The Court. It was denied twice. All right, denied twice.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. No cross on the part of Buchalter.

Cross-examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Are you known by any other name than Seymour Magoon? A. No, sir.

Q. No? A. No, sir.

Q. Sure about that? A. Yes, sir.

7416 Q. Did you ever give any other name in any court or to public authorities than Seymour Magoon? A. I don't think it was ever in any court.

Q. Where was it that you gave a name other than Seymour Magoon? A. If a police officer stopped me sometimes or I was picked up for something or other, I would give another name.

Q. Were you picked up many times? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many? A. I could not say exactly.

Q. Would it be as many as the automobiles you have stolen, fifty or better? A. No, it would be less.

Q. How much less? A. Oh, I will say about twenty-five times.

Q. And each of those times that you were picked up by police officers, you gave some other names than Seymour Magoon? A. Not at all times.

Q. How many of the 25 times, as best you can remember, did you give false names? A. Probably once or twice. 7418

Q. Is that all? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then if it was only once of twice, you remember the occasions, don't you, when you gave false names? Give me the first time you gave a name other than Seymour Magoon? A. Will you kindly repeat that question?

Q. Yes, give me the first time when you used a name other than Seymour Magoon? A. I could not very well do that.

Q. You don't remember when it was? A. I don't remember the initial time, but I remember that I have given it on one or two occasions.

Q. All right, I am asking you to tell us either of those occasions. Where was it? When was it? 7419

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. He has already answered.

Mr. Talley: He has not answered.

Mr. Turkus: Will you read the answer to Judge Taylor?

The Court: He used the word "initial." I suppose he meant "identical." Do you remember any particular time?

7420

The Witness: I mean first time, your Honor.

The Court: You may answer. Repeat the question.

(Pending question read.)

Q. Tell us what those occasions were. A. I think once was in Milton, New York, and another time in Brooklyn.

Q. Were you picked up at the tomato farm in 7421 Milton, New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what name did you give then? A. If I recollect right, it was Harry Levinson.

Q. Harry Levinson? A. Right.

Q. That is not your name? A. No, sir.

Q. Never was your name? A. No, sir.

Q. And to whom did you give that name? A. To the police officers who broke in on the farm there and asked me my name.

Q. They took you to the police station, didn't they? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you taken to any court? A. I don't think that night.

7422

Q. The next day? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you give your name there as Harry Levinson? A. I don't think so.

Q. Did you give the name of Seymour Magoon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was the next occasion when you used a false name? A. It was some sort of pick-up, if I recollect right, not exactly a pick-up—I was stopped. A few of the fellows were stopped then: "What's your name?" and "What's your name?" and when I was asked my name I told them "Harry Levinson."

Q That was the second time you used the name of Harry Levinson? A. To the best of my knowledge, yes.

Q. And you used the same name on two different occasions, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are known as Blue Jaw, are you not? A. No, sir.

Q. Never heard that name applied to you? A. I have read that name.

Q. You have read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. But you never heard anybody apply it to you? A. No, sir. 7424

Q. You took part in the killing of a man named Irving Penn, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was in the Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you say you were driving the car from which the shots were fired that killed Irving Penn? A. I drove the car after the shots were fired.

Q. You helped to kill a man named Whitey Friedman, did you not? A. I drove the car on that occasion as well.

Q. And you knew that Whitey Friedman was to be killed? A. Yes, sir. 7425

Q. When you drove the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew what the job was that night, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you drove the men who did kill Whitey Friedman to where Whitey Friedman was? A. The man who killed him.

Q. The man who did it. And then you drove that man away, did you, after Whitey Friedman was killed? A. Yes, sir.

Q How was he killed? Was he shot? A. Shot.

Q. These cars that you say you stole, some fifty or better, some of them were used in murders, were they not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And some of them that were used in murders were driven by you? A. Will you kindly repeat that question?

Q. Some of these cars that were used in murders were driven by you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That is an ambiguous question. Does he mean were they driven on the murder? I object to the form of the question. It is very, very ambiguous and confusing.

7427

The Court: He testified he had wheeled on at least two. I think Judge Talley wants to know whether they were stolen cars.

Mr. Turkus: I did not get that as the import of the question. I thought he was going into other—

Mr. Talley: I will reframe the question, if the District Attorney cannot understand my language.

7428

Q. You told the District Attorney that you stole some fifty cars or better; to use your language; didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have just told me that some of those cars were used in murders, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now my question is, when those cars were used for murders, did you on any of the occasions drive the cars either before the murder or after the murder?

Mr. Turkus: The words "before the murder" are confusing because to steal the car you have to do some driving. To affect his credibility, was he driving them on those murders; that is the question. In its form it is objectionable.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Turkus: And is confusing.

Q. Did you? A. I don't understand your question.

7430

Q. I see. That is good enough. Some of the fifty cars that you stole were used in murders? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What murders were they used in? A. On the Penn case.

Q. You told us about that. A. On the Friedman case.

Q. You told us about that. A. And on a couple of other cases that I have read in the papers the next morning. I recognized the car that I stole.

Q. What cases were they that you got your first notice about from the papers? A. Well, there was one on a couple of plasterers who was killed in Brooklyn.

7431

Q. What were the names of those plasterers? A. I don't know.

Q. Didn't you read their names in the newspaper that you say you read? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you don't remember their names? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You mean you do not remember their names? A. I do not remember their names.

Q. And who killed these two plasterers?

Mr. Barshay: I object.

Mr. Turkus: Oh!

The Court: Sustained. That is fishing.

Q. Did you drive a car in any other murder than the murder of these Freedman, Penn, and the two plasterers? Did you steal the car that was used in any other murder? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know how many? A. No. There
7433 was another one that I have in mind.

Q. You beat up a policeman in Coney Island, didn't you, on one occasion? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not? A. No, sir.

Q. Had no part in the beating up of a patrolman Murphy? A. I had a fight with him.

Q. Did you beat him up? A. I won the fight.

Q. What? A. I won the fight.

Q. You and who else? A. I fought with him alone but there was others standing around.

Q. Who helped you to beat Patrolman Murphy in Coney Island? A. Nobody.

Q. Is that your answer, nobody? A. Yes, sir.

7434 Q. At the time you beat up, had the fight as you say with this policeman, was Abie Reles with you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Sustained. It is too collateral.

Mr. Talley: I don't quite understand your Honor's ruling.

The Court: I am ruling according to the rules of evidence that on matters of collateral impeachment, when you get through impeaching you stop. You do not try the case.

Mr. Talley: This is not a question of impeachment. This is a question of ascertaining who was with him when he beat a policeman.

The Court: We are not trying that issue.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you and Abie Reles and others ganged up on this patrolman in Coney Island? A. No, sir. 7436

Q. It is not? In the trial of Goldstein, you testified there, did you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you asked this question and did you make this reply (page 471): "Q. Reles was with you when you beat Murphy up, wasn't he? A. Yes, sir." Were you asked that question and did you make that reply?

Mr. Turkus: Object to it. That is not inconsistent.

The Court: Sustained. 7437

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you ever shoot anybody? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. A couple of fellows.

Q. What were their names? A. Whitey Whalen.

Q. Where did you shoot Whitey Whalen? A. On Park Place off Buffalo Avenue.

Q. Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You never were convicted of that crime, were you?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless he fixes the time when the shooting took place and what the crime was.

Mr. Talley: We will get to that.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it now unless the time be fixed.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. What did you say the name was, Whitey
7439 what? A. Whitey Whalen.

Q. When did you shoot Whitey Whalen? A. A few years ago.

Q. What year would that be? A. I would say about '32.

Q. About '32? A. 1932, around that time, '33.

Q. And were you arrested on the charge of shooting Whitey Whalen?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. Arrests are not permissible.

The Court: Sustained.

7440 Q. Were you convicted of the charge of shooting Whitey Whalen?

Mr. Turkus: Objection. There is no such thing that there was a charge.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Were you?

The Court: Yes or no.

The Witness: Can I hear that question again, please?

The Court: Were you convicted of that murder?

The Witness: That was no murder.

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute, Judge—

The Court: I beg your pardon, were you convicted of that shooting?

The Witness: I was not arrested for it.

The Court: Then the answer is "No"?

The Witness: No.

Q. What was the other case of shooting by you? When and where and whom did you shoot? 7442
A. A fellow Jerry.

Q. What was his other name? A. I don't recollect his other name.

Q. And when did you shoot him? A. About seven or eight years ago.

Q. That would be again about 1932 or '33? A. Say about '33 or '34.

Q. About '34? A. Around that time.

Q. And where was Jerry when you shot him? A. On Buffalo and St. Johns Place.

Q. In the day time or the night time? A. 7443
Night time.

Q. What time at night? A. About eleven o'clock at night.

Q. Did he die as a result of the shooting? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you arrested for that charge? A. No, sir.

Q. So with your fifty or better automobiles, your several murders, and your at least two shootings by yourself, the only conviction that you have had was for vagrancy; is that right?

7444 Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. "Several murders" is not in the testimony.

Mr. Talley: It is in the testimony out of the mouth of this witness.

Mr. Turkus: Judge, may I address the Court on a legal objection? I submit that that question is improper in form.

The Court: The objection is overruled

7445 Q. What is your answer? A. Will you repeat the question?

The Court: Your only conviction is vagrancy?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. You are not living in any hotel now, are you? A. No, sir.

Q. You are confined in the Bronx County Jail, is that right? A Yes, sir.

Q. And what is the charge against you there? A. I don't think there is any charge against me 7446 there.

Q. What do you expect for giving testimony in this case? A. (No answer).

Q. Do you expect leniency? A. I expect a little help.

Q. From whom? A. From those I am helping, in fact, I was told as much, providing I tell the truth about everything in the Bronx and in Brooklyn.

Q. Who told you that you would be helped if you told the truth in court, that apparently meant? A. District Attorney O'Dwyer and District Attorney Sam Foley.

Q. Have you testified before the Grand Jury in any of these cases? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you testify before the Grand Jury in the killing in the Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you sign a waiver of immunity before you testified? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And have you testified before any Grand Jury in Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what case? A. In the Plug Shuman case.

Q. And did you sign a waiver of immunity 7448 in the Plug Shuman case before you testified before the Grand Jury? A. I don't recollect that.

Q. Do you know what I am talking about when I say a waiver of immunity? A. I understand a little of what you are talking about.

Q. And you do not know whether you did or not in the Plug Shuman case? A. I don't know.

Q. Of course, you are charged with murder in the Bronx, aren't you? A. I suppose so.

Q. Do you know whether you were ever indicted in the Bronx for murder? A. I don't 7449 think I was.

Q. You want to save yourself from going to the electric chair, if you can, do you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in an effort to save yourself from going to the electric chair, you are testifying in this case, are you not? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: I have no further questions, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: Judge, I have not made any applications throughout the trial, but in view of this testimony and the necessity

7450 of interviewing my client so as to intelligently cross-examine, I have no objection to your Honor sitting an extra half hour tomorrow, but I would like to get this testimony and not only digest it, but there are certain things which I don't want to divulge at this time, which I will have to get in the form of documentary things in addition to speaking to my client. So I earnestly request your Honor to give me
7451 this half hour or thirty-five minutes. I know this much, that if I am permitted this that I will save at least three hours tomorrow on cross-examination because I will have it in connected form and proper form.

The Court: The trouble is that while the Court wishes to, in fairness, oblige counsel as much as possible, if a precedent is created now it will have to be followed and will actually prolong this long trial.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will then say to your Honor—

7452 The Court: Pardon me just a minute. Nothing here has been done hastily in all of the weeks that the trial has continued. Everything has been done methodically and, as I said before, largo, but I am sorry I cannot grant that request.

Mr. Rosenthal: I, of course, had no knowledge until this man took the stand—

The Court: You are up against that in the trial of any case.

Mr. Rosenthal: Usually the opening apprises you of just what to expect.

The Court: Oh, no, I never heard of such a thing as that.

Mr. Rosenthal: Then I will ask your Honor to give me ten or fifteen minutes without the jury, with my client, so I can intelligently cross-examine.

The Court: The trouble is the next time you want to cross-examine there will be another ten minutes.

Mr. Rosenthal: No, I have not asked for anything. I have been here at ten minutes 7454 to ten every morning and I have not desired to prolong this trial and I would not arbitrarily make a request of this character unless I was in absolute earnestness as to the necessity of it. This witness and his testimony is an absolute surprise to me and I must prepare in order to intelligently bring before the jury whatever defense there may be in the mind of this defendant.

The Court: Here is your client. We will all wait here, and you consult him. 7455
That is the usual procedure in the trial of a case. Please don't discuss it any more.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am not going to discuss it any further. Your Honor refuses the request. The most I can do is except to your Honor's ruling.

Mr. Talley: May I suggest counsel agree to sit an extra half hour tomorrow.

Mr. Rosenthal: Come here at half past nine tomorrow, as far as that is concerned.

The Court: The discussion is ended.

7456 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Did you, Magoon, in the year 1928— Let me withdraw that.

Q. You say you have known the defendant Capone for how long? A. Eight or nine years.

Q. That would be that you know him since approximately the year 1933, is that right? A. Approximately, yes.

Q. How old did you say you were? A. Thirty-three.

7457

Q. In 1928, that is thirteen years ago, did you not, in company with a man by the name of Abraham Itzkowitz, on the 29th day of December, 1928, commit a robbery upon a man by the name of William J. Kennedy, a bricklayer, taking from him a Cole touring automobile, around 1:30 in the morning, on New Lots Avenue near Sackman Street, telling him at the time that if he tried anything funny, if he tried any funny stuff, that you would blow him apart, and at the same time beat him on the face and head when he resisted the taking of his car from him? Do you understand the question? A. Yes, sir.

7458

Q. Did you do that, you in company with one Abraham Itzkowitz? A. I think you are wrong on that, Counsellor. I can help you and give you the real story about that.

Q. Just a minute. Let me take it piece by piece then, sir. Didn't you at that time sign— Withdrawn.

Q. Didn't you go before the Grand Jury and testify against him— Let me withdraw that.

Q. First of all, do you know Abraham Itzkowitz? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Or did you know him in 1928? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he a friend of yours? A. An acquaintance.

Q. Did you go out with him prior to September of 1928? Did you and he go out together? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you on the night or the early morning of September 9, 1928, in his company, accost—Let me put it so you can understand it—talk to a man by the name of William J. Kennedy who was the owner of a Code touring automobile? Did you talk to him, to Mr. Kennedy, the bricklayer? 7460

Mr. Turkus: There are three questions there.

A. No, sir.

The Court: What is the answer?

Mr. Turkus: "No" was the answer.

Q. Did you, in company with Itzkowitz on that night hold up and take away from William J. Kennedy his automobile at 1:30 or thereabouts in the morning? Did you? Yes or no? A. No, sir. 7461

Q. Did you participate with Itzkowitz in the taking away of the automobile of Kennedy on that day and at that time? A. No, sir.

Q. You had nothing to do with the crime of taking from William J. Kennedy an automobile on that day, or on that morning? A. I had something to do with it.

Q. Now then, let me put it this way: Did you, in company with Itzkowitz, on or about that day, steal and take away from the possession of William J. Kennedy an automobile, a Cole automobile owned by Kennedy? Did you do that? A. No, sir.

Q. You say you had something to do with the stealing of the automobile. Didn't you say that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What part did you play in the stealing of Kennedy's automobile? A. Stole it.

Q. You stole it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he present at the time that you stole 7463 it—Kennedy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Itzkowitz present with you at the time that you stole it?

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to as incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Do you understand the question? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I assume that when you said you understand the question, the "Yes, sir" was to understanding the question. Will you answer the 7464 question? Was Itzkowitz with you at the time that you now say you stole that automobile? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you steal it alone? A. No, sir.

Q. Was anybody else with you when you stole it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was the second person or other person who was with you in 1928 when you stole the automobile? A. A fellow, Whitey.

Q. What is Whitey's last name? A. It ends with a "sky".

Q. Well, you mean his last name ends with a "sky"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are sure it is not with a "witz", Itzkowitz? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are positive of that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, then, the circumstances of your theft of this automobile, isn't it a fact that— Let me withdraw that.

You did not know Kennedy before the theft of this automobile, did you? A. No, sir.

Q. A total stranger? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Isn't it a fact that this man Kennedy, this bricklayer, parked his car on New Lots Avenue near Sackman Street at the hour of about 1:30 A. M., for about fifteen minutes, and entered his house, that is, Kennedy's house, and that when he came out he, Kennedy, entered his own car and he proceeded to start the car, when you approached him with the other man whom you say is Whitey with a ski on the end of his name, and struck him several blows upon the face and head, stating at the time—either you or your companion Whitey— "If you try any funny stuff, we will blow you apart," and then Kennedy was compelled to drive you and Whitey to Watkins Street and Lott Avenue? 7466 7467

Mr. Tarkus: I object to the form of the question, containing a wealth of material not testified to.

The Court: Overruled. Is that substantially true?

Q. Is that substantially the fact, yes or no? A. A small part of it, your Honor, is true.

The Court: You stole the car?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

7468 The Court: And you beat up the man?

The Witness: We fought the man.

The Court: And you made him take you to another place?

The Witness: No, sir.

Q. That part is not correct, is it? All right, we will pass that. In any event, you fought off the legitimate owner of the car when he got in his car and tried to start it, is that right? A.
7469 I can explain that, counsellor.

Mr. Rosenthal: Let us start off, Judge, if you will, please, with telling the witness we want no explanations. Where he can answer it yes or no, say yes or no. If he cannot, I will repeat the question to him so that he can fully and ably understand it.

Mr. Turkus: May we understand this, that Mr. Rosenthal is reading from a sheaf of prepared papers a question that it took at least a minute to read off.

7470 Mr. Rosenthal: Mark for identification, please, what he called prepared papers, a copy of a complaint in a Magistrate's Court.

Mr. Turkus: That is reprehensible. That is done solely to get something before the jury that an experienced trial lawyer like Mr. Rosenthal knew was reprehensible when he did it.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am not going to answer him, Judge.

The Court: The witness is instructed just to answer the questions and not to volunteer any information.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I have this paper marked for identification?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, let us have it, and let us have all the other papers marked for identification.

Mr. Rosenthal: You will get them.

Mr. Turkus: On the theory that an adjournment was requested for lack of preparation. There are a sheaf of papers 7472 in his hand.

Mr. Rosenthal: He is not going to make any statements about me. I am marking the three papers in my hand—I am not like him—for identification, consisting of complaints against this man. Will you please give these to the stenographer? I want them marked.

The Court: You mean Mr. Rosenthal did not mean he was taken by surprise?

Mr. Turkus: That is it.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am not surprised as 7473 to complaints that exist where there is public knowledge, but I am definitely surprised as to the testimony, and I reiterate what I said, so I will spend the rest of the afternoon in what are public records as to this man.

Mr. Turkus: There is some surprise here, Judge.

The Court: We will spend it to more advantage if there is less argument between counsel. Proceed, Mr. Rosenthal.

Mr. Rosenthal: I offer those three papers that Mr. Turkus offered. First, I want them marked for identification, then I will offer them in evidence after they are marked—what he calls a sheaf of papers.

The Court: He cannot say anything until the offer in evidence is made.

(Papers marked Defendants' Exhibits W, X and Y, for identification.)

7475

Mr. Rosenthal: Now I offer the three papers in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: Let me see them. With respect to People's Exhibit W, for identification, consisting of seven pages, it is incompetent.

The Court: I don't even have to read it. Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: With respect to People's Exhibit X, consisting of one page, that is incompetent.

7476

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: As to People's Exhibit Y, consisting of two pages, even though it is incompetent, I have no objection.

Mr. Rosenthal: Just a minute. I am going to show the inconsistency of the proposition.

The Court: No.

Mr. Rosenthal: I have offered these three papers together.

The Court: I won't hear of any inconsistency. That is for the jury. The Judge was initiated forty years ago into this practice.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to the Court's ruling. I have offered these three papers.

The Court: There is not one that is competent. Now you are objecting because counsel consents that one of them go in evidence. All right, he consents. You offer to put it in evidence.

Mr. Rosenthal: I consent to it. I am not objecting to it at all.

7478

The Court: No speeches.

Mr. Rosenthal: Now I reoffer the other two.

The Court: The Court refuses to even pass on it.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

The Court: Just by-play to the jury.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to that remark.

The Court: You ought to know better.

Mr. Rosenthal: And I again except.

The Court: In fact I say you do know better. Now take that for what it is worth. Take your exception and make a motion for a mistrial; the Court overrules it and you have an exception. Proceed with the examination.

7479

(Defendants' Exhibit Y for identification received and marked Defendants' Exhibit 3 in evidence.)

Mr. Rosenthal: Now then I ask the privilege of reading it.

The Court: You do not have to ask it.

7480 You know you have a right. Go ahead and read it to the jury.

Mr. Rosenthal: Thank you.

(Reading) "Affidavit—Robbery. City Magistrates' Court, Tenth District, City of New York, Borough of Brooklyn, County of Kings. William J. Kennedy of 61 New Lots Avenue, aged 21 years, occupation bricklayer, being duly sworn, deposes and says that on the 9th day of 7481 September, 1928, in the Borough of Brooklyn, in the City of New York and County of Kings, was feloniously taken, stolen and carried away from the person of deponent by force and violence, without his consent and against his will, the following property, viz:

"A Cole touring automobile of the value of five hundred ($500) dollars, the property of deponent, and that this deponent has a probable cause to suspect and does suspect that the said property was feloni-

7482 ously taken, stolen and carried away by force and violence by Seymour Magoon and Abraham Itzkowitz. Deponent further says that he parked said car on New Lots Avenue near Sackman Street at the hour of about 1:30 a. m., for about 15 minutes, while he went into his house for that period and that when he came out he entered his car and proceeded to start same when these two defendants approached, one on each side of same, and struck him several blows upon the face and head with their fists saying, 'If you try any funny stuff we will blow you apart' and compelled deponent to drive them to Watkins Street and Lott Avenue and told him 'to get the hell over, we are going to drive this car.' Deponent got out and then sent an alarm to Police Headquarters and they were found by two motorcycle patrolmen at Kings Highway and Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn, in the possession of said car.

"Corroborative affidavits of said officers 7484 hereto annexed. William J. Kennedy. Sworn to before me this 9th day of September, 1928, Charles Haubert, City Magistrate. Bailed on September 10, 1928, by Annie Magoon, one thousand dollars for examination.

"Bailed on October 5, 1928, by Lena Frosch, twenty-five hundred dollars to answer when held for Grand Jury.

"Letter on file.

"To whom it may concern, I, Seymour Magoon, am willing to appear before the 7485
Grand Jury and testify to the truth of the case Monday at ten a. m. Seymour Magoon.

"Signed waiver of immunity 10/29/28.

"Letter 10/2/28 from Harold Reitman, Attorney for Magoon, requesting permission to testify before Grand Jury under waiver of immunity. Corroborating affidavits of Officers Fitzgerald and Meeks 9/9/28. Dismissal by Grand Jury."

Q. Did you testify before the Grand Jury in that case? A. I think so.

Q. What is your recollection? Did you? A. I say I think so.

Q. Now you admit today, do you not, that you actually did steal that automobile? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you tell an untruth before the Grand Jury in respect to whether or not you stole that automobile when you testified under oath before them in 1928? A. I don't understand the question.

Q. Let me put it very plainly to you. You
7487 signed a waiver to appear before the Grand Jury in respect to this charge made by William J. Kennedy against you. Do you recal that now? You said you think so? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it clear in your mind? Do you recall now that you actually did testify before the Grand Jury? A. If that is there, I must have done that.

Mr. Rosenthal: I ask that the answer be stricken, not responsive.

The Court: Let it stand.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

7488

Q. I am asking you for your recollection at the present time. Did you or did you not in respect to that particular charge testify before the Grand Jury? A. I answered that question, counsel.

Q. Can you recall better than your answer whether or not— Let me withdraw that.

Q. Have you any recollection whatsoever as to whether or not you in 1928 appeared before a Grand Jury in Brooklyn and testified in your own behalf in respect to that particular charge?

Have you any independent recollection at this time? Do you know what the word "independent" means? A. No, sir.

Q. Let me explain it in a way that you do understand.

The Court: Do you know whether you did or not?

Q. Do you have any recollection? A. I think so, your Honor. 7490

The Court: Is that as far as you can go?

The Witness: That is about as far as I can go.

The Court: You don't actually remember?

The Witness: No, I don't fully remember the thing.

Q. Isn't it a fact that in so far as that charge was concerned that you testified falsely before the Grand Jury in respect to yourself and your connection with that particular charge? 7491

Mr. Turkus: I object to it, if he cannot even remember whether he testified or not—

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to any argument by the District Attorney that will put words into the witness's mouth.

Mr. Turkus: That might be expected.

Mr. Rosenthal: Whether that is the intention or not.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Have you any recollection?

The Court: Just a minute. I sustained your objection to what Mr. Turkus said.

Mr. Rosenthal: Thank you, sir.

The Court: In connection with his objection. Mr. Turkus's objection is overruled.

7493 Q. Do you recall the question or do you want me to repeat it?

The Court: Do you remember testifying falsely before the Grand Jury?

The Witness: No, sir.

The Court: In that case?

The Witness: No, sir.

The Court: There is your answer.

Q. You said you are how old now? A. Thirty-three.

7494 Q. When were you born? A. April 21, 1908.

Q. In 1930, in the Borough of Manhattan, on October the 29th— Let me withdraw that.

Q. Did you know a firm Max Udell & Sons Company in Manhattan in the year 1930? A. I have heard of the firm.

Q. Did you know one Theodore Lentz in October of 1930? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know one William Adams in October of 1930? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know a Philip Lentz in October of 1930? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you, in company with others whose names I have just mentioned, on or about the 29th of October, 1930, steal from Max Udell merchandise and evening apparel of the value of over two hundred thirty-odd dollars? Did you, in company with them or any one of them? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you at the premises of Max Udell & Sons on the 29th of October, 1930?

Mr. Turkus: It is objected to. It is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial. 7496

Mr. Rosenthal: I will lay the proper foundation. There is a twofold purpose, if you wish me to explain it to your Honor.

The Court: You cannot try the issue. You can ask him if he committed these other crimes.

Mr. Rosenthal: The purpose is not to try the issue, your Honor; the purpose is to see whether or not, if he now denies, he did not testify under oath contrary to his denial, which would be an entirely different crime. That is the purpose. 7497

The Court: You can ask him that.

Mr. Rosenthal: That is what my purpose is.

The Court: That is not what the question appeared to be.

Mr. Rosenthal: This is preliminary. I am first laying the foundation as to whether he knew these people and knew they were employees of this concern, and then as to whether he was at that concern on that day.

The Court: That may lead you to speculate to the jury as to whether or not he was telling the truth when he said he did not commit the crime. That is not permissible under collateral impeachment because it causes the jury to be lost in a maze of issues which are not on trial. The witness on the stand either admits or 7499 denies the commission of the other crimes or the doing of the alleged acts which tend to show dishonesty on his part. Of course, the record is quite replete on that point.

Mr. Rosenthal: This, of course, goes back, your Honor—

The Court: This is quite cumulative.

Mr. Rosenthal: No, this goes back to 1930, your Honor, whereas this witness claims that he became acquainted with this defendant at a subsequent time. The pur-

7500 pose of my inquiry—

The Court: Which defendant?

Mr. Rosenthal: With the defendant represented by me, sir.

The Court: I thought he said about 1935 or 1936.

Mr. Turkus: I believe it was 1934.

The Court: If this is to show association with Capone before that date, you may do it.

Mr. Rosenthal: No, this is to show the criminal propensities prior to the date of his ever meeting Capone, according to his own testimony.

7501

The Court: I do not understand he hangs his hat on Capone for deviation from the straight and narrow path. You cannot try the issue. Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

Q. Let me ask you this question in respect to this particular thing—

Mr. Rosenthal: Your Honor will have to indulge me a second so that I can read it so that I can properly ask the question—

7502

The Court: May I suggest this, because four o'clock is about at hand. I think that it would be well if the prosecution would, whenever it sees it is approaching the close of its case, so advise the defense so that they may be ready to proceed with the trial.

Mr. Turkus: I believe I will be able to rest tomorrow.

The Court: If we rest tomorrow, then I won't have to compel the defense to go ahead tomorrow, if you rest tomorrow.

7503

Mr. Turkus: Yes, if we work tomorrow, I believe I will be in a position to rest the People's case.

The Court: Then it is all right of the Court to ask the defense to be ready to proceed with the defense on Monday upon the prosecution resting. It is six minutes of four, and I will indulge you now, Mr. Rosenthal.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will continue now until four o'clock, your Honor.

7504

The Court: All right, use up the six minutes.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will use the six minutes up. The purpose I had before was to save time.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Now, I will ask you this question: Did you on October 29, 1930, and Philip Lentz receive from two employes of Udell Sons and Company, to wit, Theodore Lentz, and William Adams, property or goods which were owned by Udell and Company and stolen by those two employes and delivered to you and Philip Lentz? Did you commit that act in October of 1930?

7505

Mr. Turkus: That is objectionable.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, there is no scienter in that question.

Mr. Rosenthal: Certainly.

Mr. Turkus: No, not the way it has been read.

7506

Mr. Rosenthal: It is overruled. Let us get along with the six minutes.

Mr. Turkus: Let me discuss something, Judge. I have a lot of judges at my back. Let me talk to the one in the front. If your Honor will read that question you will see that the essential element to affect his credibility, namely, scienter, is absent, and thus the question is confusing and improper.

The Court: I felt justified in presuming it.

Mr. Turkus: You felt justified in presuming, but it is not there.

Mr. Rosenthal: I thought, Judge, that counsel was not to argue with the Court when the ruling was made. I think that should apply to the District Attorney.

Mr. Turkus: The District Attorney has no exception, you know. We cannot say "exception" and make a record, so the Court should indulge the District Attorney. 7508

The Court: That applies to both sides.

Mr. Rosenthal: The six minutes are gone.

Mr. Turkus: So you are very lucky.

The Court: Now you are willing to give up.

Mr. Rosenthal: No, I am not. The Court has ruled in my favor.

The Court: I have ruled in your favor. Now let the witness answer.

Q. Now, answer the question, will you? 7509

The Court: Did you receive the goods?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. And you knew that they were stealing them from Udell when you got them, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you had a brother of one of the employees of Udell with you when they stole the goods and when they were delivered to you; isn't that true? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, then, at the time that he got the goods, isn't it a fact in addition thereto that you 7510 threatened somebody at the time that you got these goods?

Mr. Turkus: Object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Isn't that the fact? A. If you say so, counsellor, it must be so.

Q. Oh, no.

7511 Mr. Rosenthal: I think we will take a recess. The witness is getting too agreeable, Judge.

The Court: Everybody kindly remain in order. Members of the jury, please do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it, keep your minds open, follow all the other admonitions heretofore given. We will resume tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. First, the witness may go, then the jury out by the other door. Defendant remanded.

7512 (Adjournment taken to November 15, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.)

Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross 7513

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 15, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED.

SEYMOUR MAGOON, a witness for the People, resumed the stand and testified further, as follows:

Cross examination by Mr. Rosenthal (continued):

7514

Q. Now, Mr. Magoon, yesterday I was questioning you, and just as you made the effort to recall, I was asking you about stolen merchandise from Udell and Company, do you recall? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did you know a man named Joseph Cooperman? A. I did not hear that.

Q. Did you know a man named Joseph Cooperman? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know that man in the year 1934? A. I have known him for a number of years.

Q. Was he a friend of yours? A. I could not very well say that.

7515

Q. Was he an acquaintance of yours? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you on the 23rd of October, 1934, in front of premises or at premises number 5815 Snyder Avenue, shoot and kill Joseph Cooperman? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you at or near those premises on that night? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know a man named Bobby Burns? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you in business with him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were in the shylock business with him, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long a period of time had you been in the shylock business with Bobby Burns, approximately? A. I would say roughly about two years.

Q. Commencing from when, approximately? A. I could not very well say that.

Q. Well, were you in business with him in the year 1936 and the end of 1935? A. I would say 7517 it was about that time.

Q. Did you know a man named Leo Shayer, of number 405 Lexington Avenue, Manhattan, a merchant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you and Bobby Burns extort money from Leo Shayer in front of the premises 1101 Rutland Road, in Brooklyn? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you and Bobby Burns extort money from in front of any premises? A. I did not extort any money from him.

Q. Let me put it this way: Were you in the company of Bobby Burns when he extorted 7518 money from Shayer, you know, prior to the time he was extorting the money, that he was going to extort it? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you threaten this man Shayer at any time? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you present with Bobby Burns at the time he took a pistol from his pocket and struck Shayer over the temple with the butt of the gun, were you present with him?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not affect his credibility.

The Court: Overruled.

A. No, sir.

Q. How long had you known Shayer? A. A number of years.

Q. Did you and Bobby Burns loan Shayer any money in your shylock business? A. I loaned Shayer money in my shylock business.

Q. That is, you loaned him the sum of $50. for which you demanded $60.? A. No, sir.

Q. How much did you loan him? A. $25.

Q. How much did you ask for? A. $30.

Q. For a week, that was? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know a woman named Anna Stein? 7520
A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you loaned this money to Shayer, did you procure from him notes which were payable to the name of Anna Stein? A. No, sir.

Q. Was Anna Stein a friend or a relative of yours? A. No, sir.

Q. Where did she come from? A. I do not know.

Q. Did she sign any of the notes? A. Not that I know of.

Q. Did there come a time when Shayer did not pay you the amount of money which you demanded for the loan? 7521
A. Will you please repeat that?

Q. Did there come a time when Shayer did not pay you the money which you demanded for the loan which you had made? A. No, sir.

Q. He paid it voluntarily? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you with Bobby Burns on the 9th day of January, 1936, at 11:40 P. M. in the premises or in front of the premises 1101 Rutland Road? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time, while you were with him, did you see Leo Shayer? A. Yes, sir.

7522 Q. Prior to the time that Leo Shayer arrived, had you had a conversation with Bobby Burns as to the purpose for which Shayer was coming to 1101 Rutland Road? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you, when you went to 1101 Rutland Road with Bobby Burns, know that Shayer was coming there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At any time did Shayer owe you any money? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, then, is it a fact that on that day you 7523 demanded the money from Shayer that he owed you? A. No, sir.

Q. Did Burns in your presence demand the money? A. It was money that he owed Burns, no shylock money.

Q. So that in your presence Burns demanded other money that had been owed to Burns, is that right? A. Right.

Q. At that time did the man ask for a week's time in which to get it?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not 7524 affect the witness' credibility.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am coming to the issue. There are several issues here.

Mr. Turkus: It looks like the trial of an issue far afield from the credibility of the witness or the indictment that we are here trying.

The Court: If there was an assault committed, why not come right down to it.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will accept your Honor's suggestion.

Q. Did you on the 2nd day of January, 1936, go to Shayer's office at number 45 Lexington Avenue? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you on that day or about that day, at those premises, accompany Burns when Shayer was struck with a gun and told that if he did not get the money that he would be killed; were you with Burns when that happened?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not affect the credibility of the witness.

7526

Mr. Rosenthal: He was asked whether he had knowledge of what was to take place.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I have already answered that question, counsellor.

Q. Well, what is your answer, if you answered it, do you recall it?

Q. (The Court) Were you there? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, the shylock business that you conducted—withdrawn.

Q. How long had you been conducting the shylock business, how many years? A. On and off for about ten years. 7527

Q. And, by the shylocking business, do you mean that you would loan sums like five dollars for one dollar additional every week? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you familiar with the methods used by most shylocks in and about the vicinity where you hung out?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. That does not affect his credibility—that is his method.

7528

Mr. Rosenthal: That is preliminary.

The Court: If he did not know the method, he should not have been in business.

Q. (The Court) Was the method to beat up for the money? A. No, sir.

Q. (The Court) What? A. No, sir.

7529

Mr. Turkus: He may be talking about his method or somebody else's method.

The Court: It is a matter of common knowledge how shylocks work.

Q. When did the ten years commence when you were in the shylock business, approximately? A. Approximately, in '31, '32.

Q. Now, you testified here that you left school when you were about sixteen years old? A. Right.

Q. Is it not a fact you left school when you 7530 were fourteen years old? A. I said about sixteen; I did not exactly say sixteen, counsellor.

Q. Well, were you asked— Question withdrawn.

Q. You testified in the trial of the People against Nitzberg, in the County Court here in May of 1941, did you, as a witness? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is about five or six months ago, isn't it, that you were a witness? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you asked this question regarding your schooling and did you give this answer, page 220 of the printed record on appeal:

"Q. How old were you when you graduated, or when you left 7-B or 7-A? A. About fourteen years old."

Did you say that? A. If it is there, I said it.

Q. Have you any independent recollection as to whether or not when you testified in that trial you did not say you were fourteen years old when you left school? A. I say, counsellor, if it is there, I said it.

Q. Well, now, it is here. Do you say that if it is here you said it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it correct that you were only fourteen 7532 years old when you left school? A. About that; I would not remember eighteen years ago exactly, counsellor; I was never interested in school very much.

Q. Well, before, in this trial, you said that you were in the eighth grade when you left; didn't you say that in this trial? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in the Nitzberg trial you said you were in the seventh grade when you left, did you not? A. 7-B is called the eighth grade, one and the same thing, in my estimation.

Q. What would the 8-A be called? A. The 7533 eighth grade.

Q. 7-B and 7-A would be called the eighth grade? A. 7-B I would call the eighth grade.

Q. Now, whatever your age was when you left school, did you go to work? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before going into that, Magoon, let me ask you this question: At the time you had this so-called fight with Patrolman Murphy, you told Judge Talley you knocked him to the ground—was he unconscious? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you left school did you go to work? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go to work? A. In a millinery supply house.

Q. What was the name of it? A. I don't remember.

Q. Where was it located? A. On 38th Street.

Q. In Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you work there? A. I would say approximately over a year.

Q. You don't know the name of your boss? A. I do not recollect it off-hand, but I will even-7535 tually.

By the Court:

Q. How long ago was that fight, sixteen or seventeen years ago? A. Yes.

Q. Where was it? A. On 38th Street, Manhattan.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Did you work there steadily for this year? A. Yes, sir.

7536 Q. Did you have any other employment at any time? A. No, sir.

Q. Was that the only legitimate employment you ever had in your life? A. No, sir.

Q. Well, did you work for somebody else at some other time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then I suppose you did not understand my question when I said was that the only employment you ever had, legitimate employment. Where else did you work, if you worked for somebody else, and when, if you can recall? A. I worked in a liquor supply house on Fifth Avenue.

Q. How long did you work there? A. I don't remember how long, because I will be truthful with you, I was never interested in work or in school.

Q. All right, but can you remember whether or not, even while you were working in the millinery house, you did not steal automobiles, even while you were working in this first legitimate place of employment you had, didn't you steal automobiles? A. I may have.

Q. Well, cannot you answer any more definitely 7538 than that, that in your first place of employment—I will withdraw that.

Q. How long after you left school was it that you went to work in this millinery supply house in 38th Street, how long after you left school did you get that job, approximately? A. I cannot answer that question to be correct about it.

Q. When I say approximately, was it within six months after you left school that you got that job? A. I cannot very well answer that question.

Q. Can you approximate in time whether it 7539 was a year after you left school—let me withdraw that and put it this way: Did you immediately upon leaving school start to steal automobiles, before you got any legitimate jobs? A. I stole cars when I was going to public school.

Q. You stole them even while you were in public school? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then, after you got out of public school, you continued to steal cars? A. For joy rides, and such, yes, sir.

Q. You mean that the first cars you stole when you were in public school were for joy rides, is that what you mean? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then later did it become a business, your stealing of automobiles, and selling them, when you were working in this millinery house? A. No, sir.

Q. Then, is it your idea, that you first became a thief while you were attending public school, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you do not expect to be electrocuted
7541 for any of the murders you have committed, do you? A. I hope not.

Q. You don't expect to be? A. I hope not.

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Q. Weren't you asked in the Strauss trial this question and didn't you give this answer— I will withdraw that for the moment.

Q. Would you lie to save your own life?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

7542 The Court: Objection overruled.

A. No, sir.

Q. Your answer is you would not lie to save your own life, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever lie in your life? A. Little white lies.

Q. White lies? A. Little white lies.

Q. You have been telling little white lies pretty nearly all your life, haven't you? A. No, sir.

Q. Well, from the time you went to public school and started to steal, you told little white lies, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you continued on telling little while lies all the way through? A. Just at intervals, counsellor.

Q. But you never told anything but little white lies, is that right? A. Yes.

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Mr. Rosenthal: All right, he has answered. Do you want to strike out the answer? 7544

Mr. Turkus: No, let it stand in the record.

Q. Now, you have been in the neighborhood of Brownsville for how long a period of time, approximately? Let me put it this way, so you can get it clear: Were you born in Brownsville? A. No, sir.

Q. Where were you born? A. Manhattan.

Q. When did you move to Brooklyn? A. I was about one year old when my people moved to Brooklyn. 7545

Q. You were practically born in Brooklyn, you went to school in Brooklyn, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you say "in Brooklyn", you mean the Brownsville area or the East New York area? A. That is right.

Q. So that from the time you were one year of age you have lived in the Brownsville or East New York area of Brooklyn, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you say you knew Abe Reles, you said that to Mr. Turkus, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you know him? A. About fifteen years.

Q. Is it not a fact you knew Reles from the time you were a kid? A. No, sir.

Q. You used to visit Reles almost every day in the week at his home, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time is fixed.

7547 Q. Over a period of time, of years? A. In the late years, yes, sir.

Q. Commencing when did you start to visit Reles' house— Let me withdraw it and put it this way: You visited Reles' house mornings, afternoons and nights pretty nearly every day, didn't you, for a period of time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Commencing when was it that you first started visiting Reles' home on mornings, afternoons and nights, almost daily—commencing when—how many years ago? A. For the last four years or so.

7548 Q. When you say, "the last four years or so", do you mean commencing about 1935 or 1936? A. No.

Q. Do you remember when Reles came out of jail? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did he come out of jail? A. On what charge are you referring to, counsellor?

Q. I don't know what the charge was, but in or around 1934, 1935 or 1936— I will withdraw that.

Q. When did he come out of jail the last time, I will point it out that way, that you know of?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not go to his credibility.

Mr. Rosenthal: It is for the purpose of fixing the time, that is all.

Mr. Turkus: I will tell you it was October, 1936. See if that refreshes him.

Q. Mr. Turkus says approximately, so we do not get the exact date, in October of 1936 was the last time Reles came out of jail. Now, does that refresh your memory—the last time before 1940, on the sentence that he served, does that refresh your memory? A. Please repeat. 7550

Q. Mr. Turkus has informed me that in the month of October, 1936, approximately, was the last time that Reles came out of jail after receiving a sentence: does that refresh your memory? A. Yes, sir. I was in jail at that time.

Q. Before he came out of jail you had known him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, then, I understand he was in jail from 1934, does that refresh your memory, to 1936— Reles? A. Yes, if I recollect right.

Q. Well, approximately, I am not trying to catch you on any date? A. Yes, sir. 7551

Q. Didn't you and Reles hang out together before he went to this jail in 1934, and go out socially together? A. We were friends.

Q. And you went out to visit one another, and went out socially, isn't that true? A. Far and few times in between.

Q. But in 1936, after you came back from jail, you visited him mornings, noons and nights, didn't you, practically every day in the week? A. Well, I was at his home quite often.

Q. In fact, do you recall whether or not you were not even at his home on Labor Day when Feinstein was killed in his home? Do you recall whether you were not there on that day? A. Will you repeat that question, please?

Q. Do you recall whether or not you had not been to Reles' home on the day that Feinstein was killed in his home—Labor Day? A. No, sir.

Q. Well, you say, "No, sir," you were not there, or, "No, sir," you do not recollect? A.
7553 No, sir, I was not there.

Q. Were you there the day before at Reles' home? A. I cannot very well answer that and be honest in answering it.

Q. You cannot remember, is that your answer, is that your answer, that you cannot remember whether you were or not? A. I was at his home, as you say, mornings, noons and nights, at all hours of the night.

Q. That is as you say, not as I say.

Mr. Turkus: What is the difference who says it, if that is his testimony?

7554 The Witness: Well, it is correct.

Q. All right, it is answered— Did you know Reles' brother, Sandy Reles? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long had you known him? A. Quite a number of years.

Q. Was he in the shylock business also? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he conduct a shylock business right across the street from 725 Sutter Avenue, on the corner of Sutter and Bradford Street; is that where he conducted his business? A. I don't know.

Q. Are you acquainted with the corner of Bradford Street and Sutter Avenue; or, were you acquainted— I will put it in that way—in 1936 and prior thereto with the surrounding vicinity, including the corner of Bradford Street and Sutter Avenue? A. How do you mean by acquainted?

Q. I mean, did you have knowledge of that neighborhood, that is, if you passed by there on occasions? A. Yes, sir, I have passed by on occasions.

7556

Q. Were you acquainted with the luncheonette that was on the corner there of Bradford Street and Sutter Avenue, Ardie's—Ardie's Luncheonette—were you acquainted with that place? A. No, sir.

Q. Had you ever been in there? A. I don't think so.

Q. Well, now, to your knowledge, did Sandy Reles shylock—or, we will put it this way—Did you ever see Sandy Reles hanging out on the corner of Sutter Avenue and Bradford Street during the year 1936, and prior, or before 1936, did you ever see Sandy Reles hanging out there? 7557
A. I have met him in East New York on a few occasions, but on what streets they were, I do not recall.

Q. In other words, so I can get your answer, is your answer that the street or location where you met Sandy Reles you cannot recall at this time? A. It was in East New York, but where, I cannot.

Q. Is Bradford and Sutter Avenue in East New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is your answer that you cannot recall

7558 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

whether it was at Bradford and Sutter you met him, or that you cannot recall what streets you met him; is that your answer?

Mr. Turkus: He met him somewhere in East New York. It is far afield on the question of credibility. It has nothing to do with the issue here.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

7559 The Court: You can ask him about the act, but avoid details.

Q. Did you know Harry Strauss for any length of time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long had you known Harry Strauss? A. Fifteen years or so.

Q. And where did you meet Harry Strauss, do you recall? A. In East New York.

Q. Where, in East New York? A. On Livonia Avenue.

Q. Livonia and what other avenue? A. Well, it was in a pool room.

7560 Q. (The Court) Saratoga and Livonia? A. No, sir, it was in a pool room in East New York.

Q. After becoming acquainted with him, did you go out socially and continuously with Harry Strauss for a number of years? A. In later years, yes.

Q. By later years, how many years do you mean that he and you went out socially together, practically daily— I will withdraw that.

The Court: He testified that he was a member of the combination that Strauss was in.

Q. (The Court) Was Strauss the treasurer? A. He was one of the bosses.

Q. (The Court) Did he carry the bag and make the split? A. No, sir.

Q. You and Strauss visited one another's homes, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You went out socially, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Practically daily, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Regarding Goldstein, how long did you know him? A. The same number of years. 7562

Q. And the same situation as in respect to Reles and Strauss—going out daily and socially? A. Was that Goldstein also?

Q. Wasn't it? A. How could that be, counsellor?

Q. Let me put it this way: Did you go out socially with Goldstein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Practically daily? A. Well, if I was with him daily, and Strauss daily, and Reles daily, there's something funny some place.

Q I will ask you, Magoon, and I just want your answer— Did you go out socially with Goldstein? A. Yes, sir. 7563

Q. Did you visit one another at each other's home? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Very frequently, would you put it that way? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And over a period of years, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. Did you go to Florida, too? A. Yes.

7564 Q. What hotel did you stop at? A. The Everglades.

Q. That is in Miami City? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The biggest hotel there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. A high-class hotel? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. You went to Florida with Harry Strauss? A. Yes.

7565 The Court: He stopped at the Nassau, Miami Beach.

The Witness: Yes.

Q. How often did you go to Florida, as long as the Judge has asked these questions I will ask you a few questions on it. How often did you sojourn in Florida? A. That was the only time I ever was.

Q. (The Court) What year was that? A. That was in the summer of 1939.

Q. The summer of 1939? A. Yes, sir.

7566 Q. (The Court) The Everglades was open in the summer? A. Yes, sir, of 1939.

Q. (The Court) There was no racing season on? A. No, sir.

Q. (The Court) No dog races either? A. No, sir.

Q. (The Court) Sure of that? A. Positively.

Q. What part of the summer were you stopping at the Everglades, July? A. June.

Q. With Harry Strauss? A. Yes, sir, and others.

Q. Now, the defendant Capone was not in Florida with you, was he? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, you had a garage on Sackman Street near New Lots Avenue which had been rented by Joe Pilch, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall when that garage was rented by Joe Pilch, approximately? A. I do not know the exact date. I think it was about the early part of 1938.

Q. Well, now, is it not a fact that it was around about four or five months before January of 1939, isn't that the fact? A. No, I think it was about 1938. 7568

Q. Well, now, were you asked in the Nitzberg trial, at page 220, folio 660:

"Q. Do you know a garage, a private garage, out on Sackman Street, in Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. Near what other street was that? A. Lott and New Lots.

"Q. And how many cars did that garage hold? A. One car.

"Q. Who rented the garage? A. Pilch.

"Q. A man by the name of Pilch? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. When prior to the 9th of January, 1939, 7569 was that garage rented, if you know? A. To the best of my knowledge, about four months—four or five months."

Were you asked those questions and did you give those answers?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is a 1938 matter. It was the renting of a garage by another man. I don't see how it affects this witness' credibility.

Mr. Rosenthal: It will in the next question.

The Court: Ask the next question and come down to the point. In all collateral matters you should come right down to the point, because there can be no answer in a collateral matter except yes or no, and the jury is bound by the answer; if the witness says no, that is the end of it.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I have an answer to my question?

7571 Q. Did you hear the question, Mr. Magoon, that I asked you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you asked those questions and did you give those answers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did that fix the time better in your mind? A. I still think it was about 1938.

Q. Now, is it not a fact that you had a set of keys to that garage and stored the automobile that was used in the Schuman murder, isn't that a fact? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And is it not a fact that you had stored a few cars in the garage—you personally had stored a few cars in the garage that had been 7572 stolen and were subsequently used in murders? A. On orders, yes, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: I ask that that be stricken out. The first part is not responsive.

Mr. Turkus: I think that is important, since it affects credibility.

The Court: Let it stand.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

The Court: Although it is a mighty tight question.

7573

Q. Now, did you own an automobile? A. Will you repeat the question?

Q. In 1936? A. Repeat that, please.

Q. Did you own an automobile in 1936—did you own your own car in 1936? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What type of automobile was it? A. A Plymouth coupe.

Q. Was it a new car? A. Well, it was mostly new; it was given to me.

Q. Was that the first car you ever owned?

7574

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not affect his credibility. What is the difference?

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. How long did you know Allie Tannenbaum? A. A few years.

Q. Can you not give us anything more definite than that, "a few years"— Do you mean to answer '33, '34, or approximately what year? A. About eight years, nine years, ten years.

7575

Q. Well, would you say around 1931 or 1932 you first met Allie Tannenbaum? A. Well, I would say '33 or '34.

Q. Well, it is '41 now, you understand? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said eight, or nine, or ten years? A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that at the present time it has been definite in your mind as to when you met him, whether in '31 or '33, is that it? A. I said in '33 or '34.

7576 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

Q. Did you meet him at Saratoga and Livonia Avenue at any time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he frequently— Question withdrawn.

Q. Did you see him at Saratoga and Livonia Avenue frequently during the years 1933, '34 and '35? A. Yes.

Mr. Turkus: I object. That does not affect his credibility.

The Court: It is not a question of his credibility at all.

7577

Mr. Turkus: Then that does not go to the issue of this case.

Mr. Rosenthal: I press the question. I submit it does.

By the Court:

Q. Was he a member of the combination? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Let it go at that.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

7578

The Court: The record is pretty voluble on that point. Rather than argue it, I will let you go ahead. I thought you had enough on it.

Q. Is it not a fact that Allie Tannenbaum was one of the persons whom you saw hanging around on the corner of Saratoga and Livonia, in the years 1934, '35 and '36? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you see him at Saratoga and Livonia Avenue in any of those years? A. I don't think so.

Q. Didn't you say a little while ago that you met him in 1933, in Brooklyn? A. Yes.

Q. Where did you meet him in Brooklyn in '32 or '33?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is not the testimony.

The Court: Objection sustained. You cannot cross examine on collateral. It is only for the purpose of impeaching credibility. That is the rule of law. You can 7580 ask him as to any criminal association, with a yes or no answer. You can ask him as to any crime. You can ask him as to any dishonest act—anything that affects his credibility, but you must get directly down to the point.

Mr. Rosenthal: I have another question in mind. I do not wish to disclose it now, but I will be glad to disclose it to your Honor. It is not pointed along that particular line at all. In view of the prior testimony of Tannenbaum, which I say I 7581 have a right to rebut, or any witness that may be called by the prosecution—

The Court: I don't know what you are talking about. The ruling stands.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Now, your shylocking business was conducted where? A. At what period are you speaking of?

Q. I am referring to the entire period of your shylocking business, where was it conducted from? A. At what place? From different places.

Q. Yes, at what place was it conducted? A. Amboy Street was one place.

Q. Amboy and what? A. Off Pitkin Avenue.

Q. On the street or in some store? A. In a pool room.

Q. What period of time was it conducted there? A. About 1931.

7583 The Court: If there is objection, I will sustain it. It is too far afield? Is there an objection?

Mr. Turkus: He has finished his answer. I might as well let it stand.

The Court: There is no sense in occasional ruling and then in the meantime have cross-examination on collateral matters.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to that.

The Court: The law is based upon sound reason, that if you are permitted to cross-examine upon matters which are 7584 far afield and which are simply collateral, relate only to credibility, the jury may lose sight of the main issue and not know what it is about.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I state the purpose of this?

The Court: No.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except.

Q. In 1936—

The Court: If you think it is necessary to go further along the line of impeachment, it is your right to do so, although were the District Attorney cross-examining, the Court would be compelled at a certain point to restrain him lest it prejudices the rights of the defendant to a fair trial. But when a man has already admitted previous crimes, a number of murder combinations, and various other crimes, it looks to the Court as if it comes down to a flat foot proposition whether or not the jury will, notwithstanding the 7586 facts just mentioned, believe he is telling the truth on this particular occasion concerning this particular crime. That is all. The jury requires no further persuasion he is a criminal or that he is a murderer.

Mr. Rosenthal: This particular line of questions goes directly to that point on testimony adduced.

The Court: As long as the record is replete with it now, you can go further with it, but come right down to the point.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to 7587 the Court's observation.

Q. In 1936 where was your shylocking business being conducted from? A. St. John's Place.

The Court: The Court, apparently, is wasting its breath. There is no objection.

Mr. Turkus: I don't know whether it is a preliminary question or what it is.

The Court: Do you object?

Mr. Turkus: He has answered. I will have to object to the next question.

7588 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

The Court: Don't go asleep.

Mr. Turkus: I am not asleep.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I respectfully except to the Court's observation to the District Attorney.

Q. Is it not a fact that your shylocking business in the years 1936, 1937 and 1938 and 1939 was conducted at St. John's Place and Buffalo Avenue?

7589

Mr. Turkus: I object. May the record show I am awake?

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. You testified on direct examination that you were at Saratoga and Livonia Avenue every day, on the corner there, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That was not the testimony.

The Court: Objection sustained.

7590 Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

The Court: The record speaks for itself, and that is the reason the objection was sustained. You are wasting time.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to your Honor's observation.

Q. Is it not a fact that instead of your hanging out on Saratoga and Livonia, you hung out morning, noon and night during the period you testified on direct examination in this trial at St. John's Place and Buffalo Avenue?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection sustained; too far afield.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Now, you testified in the Nitzberg trial about meeting certain people on the corner of Saratoga and Livonia Avenue, didn't you?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That has nothing to do with his credibility or the issue here. 7592

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Is it not a fact that in the Nitzberg trial, when you were questioned concerning those persons whom you saw at Saratoga and Livonia Avenues on the periods you were there, you failed to mention the name of this defendant Louis Capone?

Mr. Turkus: I object, that was in 1939, not within the issue. 7593

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Is it not a fact that in the case of The People against Strauss, when you were asked as to whom you had met on the corner of Saratoga and Livonia Avenues when you were there at that time, you did not say or mention the defendant Louis Capone as one of the persons?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

7594 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Now, when you were arrested, you say you were arrested when—in 1940, what month? A. I think it was March.
Q. The fact is you were arrested February 21st, weren't you charged with vagrancy?

Mr. Turkus: I object.
7595 The Court: Sustained as immaterial.
Mr. Rosenthal: Exception, this was brought out on direct examination.
The Court: Conviction, the number of arrests is not on trial.

Q. When were you convicted on the vagrancy charge? A. In March.
Q. Do you recall what part of March?

Mr. Turkus: Does that make any difference?
The Court: Is there an objection?
7596 Mr. Turkus: Yes, it does not make any difference what part of March.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Rosenthal: Exception. I submit to the Court these are all matters brought out on direct and I have a right to question him.
The Court: Do not "submit", just take your exception.
Mr. Rosenthal: All right, I will take my exception.

Q. How long after you were arrested and convicted on the vagrancy charge was it before you went to the Bronx? A. Will you please repeat that question?

Q. How long after you were convicted on the vagrancy charge was it before you went to the Bronx? A. About nine weeks.

Q. During those nine weeks you were over on Riker's Island, were you, serving your two months sentence? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, after your sentence had been completed and you got as far as the warden's office, 7598 you say that somebody arrested you, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall who the persons were that arrested you? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know the detectives who arrested you? A. No, sir.

Q. Where were you brought from the warden's office to—where were you brought to from the warden's office? A. To Brooklyn.

Q. What part of Brooklyn? A. The Raymond Street Jail.

Q. Were you brought to the District Attorney's office first before you were brought to jail? 7599
A. No, sir.

Q. You were brought directly to jail? A. Directly to jail.

Q. Were you apprised or told of the charge that was against you when you were brought over to the jail? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it a murder charge you were being brought over and lodged in jail on? A. No, sir.

Q. What charge was it you were brought over from the jail, to Raymond Street?

7600 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. How long after you had been in Raymond Street jail did you first see anybody, either Judge O'Dwyer or anybody from his office or the police?

7601 Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. How long did you remain in Raymond Street Jail before you were taken out of there? A. About a week.

Q. Where were you taken from Raymond Street Jail? A. Up to the Bronx.

Q. While you were in Raymond Street Jail, before you were taken to the Bronx, did you receive any visit from District Attorney O'Dwyer 7602 or any of his assistants? A. No, sir.

Q. Had you spoken to anybody connected with his office? A. No, sir.

Q. Had you spoken to anybody connected with the Police Department? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, when you were taken to the Bronx where were you first lodged? A. In the Concourse Plaza Hotel.

Q. You were taken to a room in the Concourse Plaza? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who took you to this room in the Concourse Plaza Hotel? A. A policeman.

Q. Do you know who the police were that took you there, by name? A. No, sir.

Q. Had you prior to that time asked to be taken to a hotel or asked to talk to anybody? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you arrived at the Plaza Hotel, were you registered there in a room or a suite of rooms?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question was he registered. 7604

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Were you detained or kept there in a suite of rooms? A. In a room.

By the Court:

Q. You mean in custody? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Dewey's men? A. No.

Mr. Turkus: Judge Foley's men.

The Witness: Foley's men.

7605

Q. He was the District Attorney of the Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. When you arrived at the Concourse Plaza Hotel did you speak to anybody connected with either the Police Department—let me divide the question—when you arrived at the Concourse Plaza Hotel did you speak to anyone attached to either the Brooklyn District Attorney's office or the Bronx District Attorney's office?

7606 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

Mr. Turkus: I object to the double question, we don't get anywheres with that.

The Court: Objection overruled.

By the Court:

Q. Did you talk to anybody there from any District Attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which one—

7607 By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Which District Attorney's office are you talking about—what was the name of the man? A. Mr. Foley and Mr. Breslin of the Bronx District Attorney's office.

Q. They were both there at that time? A. Yes.

Q. At that time was there a stenographer present? A. I do not recollect.

Q. This was in what month of 1940 that you were brought there, approximately, to the Con-

7608 course Plaza Hotel? A. May.

Q. Did you see anybody writing down in a book while you were talking? A. I do not recollect, because I was in a "blizzard" that day.

Q. After you had spoken, not recalling whether it was taken down or not, did you remain in the hotel? A. I did.

Q. For how long a period did you remain in the Concourse Plaza Hotel? A. For a few months.

Q. During that time that you remained in the Concourse Plaza Hotel did you testify before a Grand Jury in the Bronx?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the question, what difference does it make; that does not affect his credibility.

Mr. Rosenthal: I want to show immunity of any charge in which he implicated himself.

Mr. Turkus: Why not ask him that.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will ask him but not the way you want me to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception. 7610

Q. Were you called as a witness before any Grand Jury while you were up in the Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you were called as a witness was it in a matter in which you admitted your participation in? Yes or no. A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you were called as a witness were you asked to sign—I will withdraw that. Do you know what a waiver of immunity is? A. Well, I have an idea.

Q. Were you asked to sign any paper waiving immunity at the time you were called to testify before the Grand Jury? A. Yes, sir. 7611

Q. Did you sign a paper in which you waived immunity? A Yes, sir.

Q. And admitted your participation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, before you—while you were in the Bronx, that was in May, you say—question withdrawn. Was it in "May" you appeared before the Grand Jury—when was it? A. I don't recollect when it was.

7612 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

Q. How long after you got to the hotel was it before you appeared before the Grand Jury?

Mr. Turkus: I object, that does not affect his credibility.

The Court: That was a different crime. What is the difference when the day was when he appeared before the Grand Jury as affecting credibility?

Mr. Rosenthal: I can only ask one question at a time.

7613

Mr. Turkus: It has been brought out he waived immunity.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. At the time you made your statement to District Attorney Foley, in the Bronx, in May, or that you had your conversation with him, did you mention anything at all to him about the Osen case, yes or no?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

7614

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Turkus: He first has to be asked.

Q. (The Court) Were you asked anything about it?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object, not only to the Court's question but also to Mr. Turkus' statement.

The Court: I withdraw the question.

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the interjection of the District Attorney, although it may not have been meant for that purpose, as giving the witness an opportunity of formulating an answer. I ask that his interjection be stricken out.

The Court: I should have sustained the objection instead of overruling it. Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except. I made a motion with regard to the District Attorney's interjection. And I except to the Court's ruling.

7616

Q. Did you have more than one conversation with the District Attorney or his assistant in the Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many conversations did you have covering what period of time? A. I am still having conversations with him.

Q. Up to what time was it before you first started to speak to Judge O'Dwyer in Brooklyn—what was the first month you started to speak to him? A. Will you please repeat that question?

Q. You said you had first a conversation with Mr. Foley and Mr. Breslin in the Bronx? A. Yes, sir. 7617

Q. Now, how long after your first conversation with Mr. Foley in the Bronx was it that you had your first conversation with either Judge O'Dwyer or any Assistant District Attorney from his office? A. Well, it was approximately two days.

Q. After the first conversation? A. With Mr. Foley?

By the Court:

Q. Did you tell Mr. Foley anything about the

7618 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

Rosen case? A. I told him that night about one that he was interested in.

Q. Please—did you tell Mr. Foley anything about the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

The Court: We will now take a recess until 1:30 p. m. Gentlemen, please do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it, keep your minds open. Be back promptly at 1:30.

7620

AFTERNOON SESSION. TRIAL RESUMED

SEYMOUR MAGOON, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Cross-examination by Mr. Rosenthal (continued):

Q. Do you recall, just before recess, Magoon, you were asked the question by the Court in respect to whether or not you had told District Attorney Foley, at the time you were first questioned, about the Rosen case and your answer 7622 was "No". Remember saying that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You started to tell me just before recess—and I am merely repeating this so as to enable you to get the line of thought—that two days after you spoke to District Attorney Foley you first spoke to District Attorney O'Dwyer or somebody from his office. Is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was that conversation held and with whom? A. In the Bronx D. A.'s office with O'Dwyer— 7623

Q. Are you finished? A. No, sir.

Q. All right, go ahead. A. Mr. Foley, and there was other people there.

Q. You were taken out of the hotel over to the District Attorney's office in the Bronx, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Concourse Plaza, is it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then there you met District Attorney Foley, District Attorney O'Dwyer, and who were the other persons that were there? A. I didn't know them.

Q. Was one of them Captain Bals? A. I don't think I recognized anyone.

Q. Since then have you met Captain Bals on occasions? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he there, now that you do know him, at that time do you recollect? A. I don't think he was.

Q. Were any of the assistants, either Mr. Turkus or Mr. Klein or Mr. Joseph, there with District Attorney O'Dwyer? A. I don't recol-7625 lect who was there then.

Q. Was Assistant District Attorney Heffernan there? A. I say I don't recall who was there.

Q. You do not recollect? A. Outside of the outstanding people who were there.

Q. Before District Attorney O'Dwyer had come, I think you told us that District Attorney Foley said that he would help you, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when you started to speak with District Attorney O'Dwyer, was there a stenogra-7626 pher there taking down what was being said? A. There was somebody who was writing there. Whether it was a stenographer or not, I don't know.

Q. You testified in the Goldstein-Strauss case, as you said before, did you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time were you asked regarding —let me withdraw that temporarily.

Q. You say there was somebody there writing down in a book, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object. I don't think he said "a book."

The Witness: Somebody was writing there at the time.

Q. You just said "Yes, sir" when I asked you whether they were writing in a book, didn't you, before Mr. Turkus got up? A. They were writing in something, Mr. Rosenthal. If it was a book or papers, I don't recollect, but they were writing.

Q. Were you asked questions and did you give answers? A. Yes, sir. 7628

Q. Yes, or no, were you then asked or did you then say anything about the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

Q. This was then, so as to fix the time, in the month of May, 1940; is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you any idea of whether it was the latter part of the month or the early part? A. I don't recollect, but I know it was about the month of May.

Q. After you had spoken, were you returned to the hotel again? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go back to the hotel? And how long was it before you were next questioned by anybody? How many days, hours or weeks elapsed before you were next questioned by anybody? A. The next day. 7629

Q. And where was that questioning? A. In the Bronx.

Q. And was any of the Assistant District Attorneys or the District Attorney of Brooklyn present? A. No, sir.

Q. That was just questioning by District Attorney Foley? A. And Mr. Breslin.

7630

Q. I mean Bronx officials? A. From the Bronx, yes.

Q. Nobody from Brooklyn? A. No, sir.

Q. Let me ask you this so as to come down to the Brooklyn proposition. When next were you questioned by anybody from Brooklyn, any Assistant District Attorney or the District Attorney of Brooklyn; how long a time later? A. I would say a couple of months, roughly.

Q. So that from the time that you first ap-
7631 peared in the District Attorney's office in the Bronx, when Judge O'Dwyer was there with District Attorney Foley, you were not questioned by anybody from Brooklyn—I am not confining myself only to the District Attorney; I am talking of anybody from the District Attorney's office of Brooklyn—is that clear? A. Yes, sir.

Q. For a period of two months? A. Approximately, yes.

Q. On the first occasion that you were questioned by District Attorney O'Dwyer in the presence of District Attorney Foley, when you 7632 say somebody was there writing down, did you answer questions that were asked of you by Judge O'Dwyer? Yes or no. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you asked to sign anything that you were asked about at that time? A. I don't think so.

Q. Well, is there a doubt in your mind, Mr. Magoon, as to whether you did or you did not? A. Yes, there is a slight doubt.

Q. Now, then, for the two months that succeeded your first interview, were you still confined in the Concourse Plaza? Were you still confined in that hotel? A. Yes, sir.

7633

Q. During the two months from May until, that would be, July that you next saw anybody from District Attorney O'Dwyer's office, is that right? A. I would not specify but—

Q. Approximately? A. Approximately then.

By the Court:

Q. Is not that hotel right opposite the Bronx Court House? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the District Attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

7634

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. During those two months, without going into it at any length, were you questioned on a number of occasions by the District Attorney's office of the Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At any time was your questioning reduced to writing or was there a stenographer present while you were being questioned on these different occasions by the District Attorney in the Bronx? A. Yes, sir.

7635

Q. Did you sign any statement for the District Attorney of the Bronx? A. I signed a flock of papers on other occasions but I don't recollect what they were. I never read them.

Q. You merely put your signature to it on the strength of being told so by the District Attorney, without reading them; is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At any time during those two months—just yes or no to this,—were you asked any questions by any of the officials of Bronx County in respect to the Rosen case; yes or no? A. Will you please repeat that question?

Q. Yes, I will repeat it. At any time during the number of questionings that you had with officials of the Bronx District Attorney's office, were you asked any questions in respect to the Rosen case? That is before coming to Brooklyn in about July. A. No, sir.

Q. And at any time prior to your coming to Brooklyn, did you say anything to any of the 7637 officials of Bronx County about the Rosen case? Yes or no.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. He said he was not asked.

Mr. Rosenthal: Again, Judge—

Mr. Turkus: I am repeating your question. I don't wish to quarrel.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am not quarreling.

By the Court:

Q. Did you volunteer anything to the District
7638 Attorney of the Bronx about the Rosen case? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Now, then, in July or thereabouts, were you taken to Brooklyn by somebody? We are now coming down to your first interview with the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn. Were you taken to Brooklyn by somebody or did District Attorney O'Dwyer or one of his assistants come to the Bronx? A. I was taken to Brooklyn.

Q. And do you recall who brought you to Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was it brought you to Brooklyn? A. The Bronx police officers.

Q. At that time you were confined in a hotel, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I assume you came to the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you see there on your first visit? This is not any trap question; I mean the first visit after your first talk in the Bronx. Do you 7640 understand that?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the question as to form.

Mr. Rosenthal: All right, I withdraw it.

Q. Who was present on your first visit to Brooklyn, to the D. A.'s office? Is that clear to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you name the persons who were present? A. Judge O'Dwyer.

Q. Yes. A. Mr. Klein.

Q. That is Mr. Sol Klein who is seated at the 7641 counsel table here? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Assistant District Attorney, right? A. Yes, sir. Mr. Heffernan.

Q. Yes. A. There may have been others.

Q. Wasn't there a stenographer there writing down notes? A. I would not know if it was a stenographer or not but there was somebody—

Q. Wasn't there a person there—

Mr. Turkus: He is finishing.

Mr. Rosenthal: All right, let him finish.

7642 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

Q. Finish your answer. A. But there was somebody there writing.

Q. Was it a man or a woman? A. A man.

Q. Were you asked questions and did you make answers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did this person write down what you were saying?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Mr. Rosenthal: I withdraw it and put it this way:

7643

Q. Was this person writing, using a pencil, while you were talking and any of the persons, District Attorney O'Dwyer, Mr. Klein, or Mr. Heffernan, was talking? Was that person writing? A. I was not watching him all the time.

Q. Well, when you were watching him, was he using his pencil on paper? A. On occasions, yes.

Q. Were you asked these questions in the Goldstein-Strauss trial and did you give these answers:

7644 "Q. (On page 480, starting at folio 1440) When you came over to Brooklyn after seeing Mr. Foley, you saw Judge O'Dwyer and he asked you what you knew about the case, is that right? A. Yes.

"Q. And you made a statement to him, is that correct? A. Yes.

"Q. Was there a stenographer present taking down questions and answers that were being propounded to you? A. Yes, sir."

Were you asked those questions and did you give those answers?

Mr. Turkus: So the record may be clear, that case was the Feinstein case where the victim was Irving Feinstein. "The case" may be ambiguous and confusing, not only to the jury but possibly to the record.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except, sir.

Q. This occasion that you were first questioned in the month of July or thereabouts by Judge O'Dwyer— 7646

The Court: Will you suspend a minute?

Mr. Rosenthal: Yes.

The Court: Mr. Turkus, have you "Q" and "A" on this case?

Mr. Turkus: No, your Honor.

The Court: If you had, I might just as well be reading it.

Mr. Turkus: I have no "Q" and "A".

The Court: Are you sure the office has none? 7647

Mr. Klein: Quite certain, your Honor. I was there. I made personal notes of the questioning.

The Court: Check up and be sure.

Mr. Klein: I have. We have gone through every piece of paper before we have come into court so that if they called for anything they would get it.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am going to press questions and then ask and if there is none in existence, I want it on the record.

Q. Did you speak to Judge O'Dwyer himself in Brooklyn in July or was it his assistants that were conducting the questioning and answers of you, or were they all there? A. Judge O'Dwyer was there. They were all there.

Q. In other words, each one of them interjected at times questions and you would answer what any one of them asked you, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Answer this question yes or no, sir: At 7649 that time in the month of July, 1940, were you asked any questions about the Rosen case, your first visit to Brooklyn in July of 1940? Yes or no. A. No, sir.

Q. What is the answer? A. No, sir.

Q. Answer this question yes or no: At that time did you volunteer to either Judge O'Dwyer, Mr. Klein, Mr. Heffernan, or any other person who was at that examination, anything about the Rosen case? Yes or no. A. No, sir.

Q. Did you on that occasion sign the paper, sign any paper, after your examination was con-7650 cluded in respect to the subject matter—wait a minute, I will make this clearer—did you after the examination was over, that is after the questions and answers, sign any paper containing the substance of what had been said by you and the questions that were asked at any time? Is that clear to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you sign such a paper? A. I signed papers there on a few occasions but I just don't recollect if it was on that occasion or the next day or a day later or a week later but I have signed a lot of papers there.

Q. For Judge O'Dwyer you signed a lot of papers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. As well as for District Attorney Foley? A. That is right.

Q. The papers which you signed, were they in question and answer form, sir? Do you understand what I mean? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, if you understand, would you mind answering, were they in question and answer form?

7652

Mr. Turkus: Which ones?

A. I did not read them. I just signed them.

Q. While you were looking and placing your signature on these papers at any time, did you see there on that paper "Q (period)" and "A (period)", meaning question and answer? Did you see it above your signature? A. I never looked at that, counselor.

Q. Well, before you signed these papers were you told by anybody, Judge O'Dwyer or any other person in his office, the nature of the paper which you were about to sign? Were you told of that fact before you signed the paper? Yes or no. A. Yes, sir. 7653

Q. Were you told at any time that the papers which you were asked to sign were statements of what you had said to any of the persons in the District Attorney's office of Brooklyn and the answers which you had made to those questions? Were you told that at any time? A. I was told it is my statement.

Mr. Rosenthal: Now I ask for the production of any statement in respect to the Rosen case.

By the Court:

Q. Was that in the Rosen case? A. No, sir, I don't specify in any cases.

Q. Do you know what case it was? A. No, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: Let me pursue it further before I make my demand, sir.

7655

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. After your first talk with Judge O'Dwyer and his assistants, were you returned to the Bronx or did you remain in Brooklyn? A. Returned to the Bronx.

Q. In the custody of this police officer I assume? A. Police officers.

Q. And you went back to the hotel? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long a time elapsed before you were 7656 next questioned by anybody from the Brooklyn District Attorney's office? A. I think it was at shorter intervals then.

Q. So as not to prolong it—about how many times, covering what period, was it that you spoke to officials of the District Attorney's office in the year 1940? We will take only the year 1940 now from July up to January, 1941; in Brooklyn, I am confining myself. Is my question clear to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. About how many times? A. Quite a few times.

Q. Well, would you say once a week, once a month, once in two months; about how often? A. I would say all told better than twelve times.

Q. You are confining yourself up to January 1st, 1941, are you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That would be from July to January, would be about twice a month; is that about right?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that because that may give a confusing answer.

Mr. Rosenthal: I withdraw it. There is no idea of confusing him. 7658

Q. How many times elapsed between each talk, about? A. I cannot say that.

Q. Was it practically at the same intervals that you would go back to the Brooklyn District Attorney's office? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you understand what I mean? A. I understand what you mean.

Q. On these occasions when you went back there on these approximately twelve occasions, were there always the same persons there questioning you that you have mentioned, Mr. Heffernan, Mr. Klein and Judge O'Dwyer? Were 7659 they the people who were there and questioned you? A. Judge O'Dwyer wasn't. There was others there after the first couple of times.

Q. Let us get that clear. The only time Judge O'Dwyer was there was on the first occasion? A. On the first or second occasion.

Q. I mean first in Brooklyn. First or second in Brooklyn? A. Yes.

Q. And from that time on— A. There was assistants.

7660 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

Q. There were others than Judge O'Dwyer; is that right? A. Yes.

Q. The assistants were Mr. Klein, Mr. Heffernan. Did Mr. Turkus— A. Mr. Turkus.

Q. Mr. Joseph also? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On these occasions when you were being questioned, did you see a person there writing down on paper? A. Not on all the occasions.

Q. On how many of the occasions that you were there did you see, of those twelve, some-7661 body writing on paper? A. A few.

Q. When for the first time was it that you mentioned anything about the Rosen case? When was the first time that you mentioned anything about the Rosen case? A. Oh, quite a few months ago.

Q. That does not mean anything, Mr. Magoon. This is now November. Would you say it was in June of 1941 that you first mentioned about the Rosen case? A. No, I will say it was before June.

Q. Would you say May? A. I would not say
7662 but I will say it was before June that I mentioned it.

Q. Well, would you say that it was after April and before June of 1941 that you first mentioned anything about the Rosen case to District Attorney O'Dwyer's office? A. No; I will say it was after January and before June.

Q. But you cannot fix the exact date? A. No, sir.

Q. Can you tell us how many additional meetings or questionings you had in Judge O'Dwyer's office in 1941 before you first mentioned the Rosen case?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

Mr. Rosenthal: All right, I will make it clear. If you do not understand it, maybe he does not, so I will make it so both of you understand it.

Q. You said you had twelve conversations about, or approximately, up to January 1st, 1941; is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said it was later than January 1st, 1941, when you first spoke about the Rosen case; is that right? A. Yes, sir. 7664

Q. How many other questionings of you was there in the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn after January of this year before you first mentioned the Rosen case? Is that clear? A. Yes, sir. A few.

Q. You cannot give us an approximate number, to the best of your recollection? A. I would not try.

Q. When you were first spoken to by Judge O'Dwyer way back in July, 1940, he told you if you told him everything you knew he would help you, didn't he? A. Yes, sir. 7665

Q. That was what he said then? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you were being questioned about the Rosen case in 1941, who was it that conducted the questioning of you? A. Will you please repeat the question?

Q. Yes, I will repeat it. You say in 1941, after January and before June, you were questioned, after you had had a few conversations, by somebody in the District Attorney's office regarding the Rosen case; is that right? A. I still don't get that.

Q. All right, I will make it as plain as I can for you. You said there came a time in 1941 when you said to the District Attorney something about the Rosen case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that clear to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was it that was present when you made your first declaration about the Rosen case? A. Turkus.

7667 Q. Mr. Turkus? A. Excuse me—Mr. Turkus, Mr. Klein and a few other misters.

Q. A few other misters you cannot recall, is that it? Was one of the misters Captain Bals? Do you recall that? A. No, sir.

Q. I want to be fair to you. When you say "No, sir", do you mean you don't recollect or he was not there? A. He was not.

Q. Was there a person there taking down or writing with a pencil when you were being questioned? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was the questioning in respect to the Rosen case, a question asked by one of these 7668 assistants of you and you responding in answer form? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how long a time did it take, approximately, for the questioning in respect to the Rosen case on this occasion when you were in the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn, in this year? Can you recall, about? A. I was a few hours there at least.

Q. A few hours? A. Yes, sir.

Q. During that entire period of time there was somebody there writing with a pencil on a piece of paper of some character or book; is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: Now I ask the District Attorney to produce the statement made by this man in 1941 when first questioned in respect to the Rosen murder.

Mr. Turkus: There is no "Q" and "A" statement of this witness.

The Court: You may have a narrative. It makes no difference whether it is "Q" and "A" or not.

Q. Were you asked to sign that paper, do you recall? A. I don't think so. 7670

Q. Before you said you were asked to sign a number? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Containing your statements, containing what you had told the District Attorney? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You don't definitely recall whether this was one of them that you were asked to sign; is that right? A. That is right.

Mr. Rosenthal: I call for the production of the statement made in the early part of 1941, according to this witness. 7671

The Court: Any narrative, if signed, may be seen by the Court.

Mr. Turkus: We will give the Court anything we have got. We have got them on several matters, including a memorandum of information on the Rosen matter.

The Court: Signed?

Mr. Turkus: No, they are not signed.

The Court: Then they are of no value unless authenticated.

Mr. Turkus: May I state the purpose

7672 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

of the manner in which we have conducted the investigations?

Mr. Rosenthal: No, no.

Mr. Turkus: It is important that there be no confusion here in the minds of the jury.

Mr. Rosenthal: You bring it out from the witness.

Mr. Turkus: The witness does not know how we handled things in the District Attorney's office.

7673

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to any statement going on this record, sir, which would be in the nature of testimony.

The Court: These matters are confidential.

Mr. Rosenthal: I do not want his confidential notes.

The Court: Pardon me. Any statement in response to a question where the text is actually taken down by a stenographer or written in longhand, in question and answer form, may be read by the 7674

Court and, if found to contain something contradictory which may be shown to defense counsel, then the Court will pass it on.

Mr. Turkus: I will hand you now whatever I have.

The Court: Likewise anything in the nature of narrative but only provided that is signed.

Mr. Turkus: That is narrative. We have a certain method of taking examinations.

The Court: I know the method.

Mr. Turkus: All right.

Mr. Rosenthal: That is their trial memorandum I assume.

Mr. Klein: No, that is not our trial memorandum.

The Court: This is in the nature of a trial brief.

Mr. Klein: It is not.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am only taking the Judge's word for it.

The Court: This is just made from notes. 7676

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: This may not be revealed. This is strictly the property of the prosecution.

Mr. Turkus: As far as I am concerned, I have no objection.

Mr. Rosenthal: All right, we will go further. I take it the answer is there is no signed statement of this man.

Mr. Klein: In the Rosen case, that is correct.

The Court: You might check up again at the office about that. You may have something in the files. 7677

Mr. Klein: I will check, but I am quite certain it was not done.

The Court: A memorandum in narrative form that was signed.

Mr. Klein: I know there is no such statement signed.

The Court: All right.

Q. It is true, Mr. Magoon, what you said before that you actually did sign statements for the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn which were told to you to be your statements to them of occurrences, whatever they might have been; is that correct, sir? There is no question about that, is there? A. I signed papers—

Q. Do you understand? Yes or no.

Mr. Turkus: Let him answer.

Q. All right, answer it. Go ahead.

7679

The Court: May I advise something?

Mr. Rosenthal: Yes, your Honor.

The Court: Go ahead with your examination.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will repeat the question. You objected to it so I will withdraw it.

Q. Did you not tell me a few minutes ago, Mr. Magoon—

The Court: Is this man held under an indictment or is he held under a commitment order as a material witness?

7680

Mr. Turkus: He is held up in the Bronx by Judge Foley up there on a charge of murder.

Mr. Rosenthal: Now, wait a minute.

Mr. Turkus: Now wait. I did not say indictment.

Mr. Rosenthal: This man is not under indictment in the Bronx at all.

Mr. Turkus: He signed a waiver of immunity.

7681

The Court: What order is he committed under?

Mr. Turkus: Judge Foley has it. I don't know technically.

The Court: You don't know. Because if he is held as a material witness, it is quite likely that from time to time he has signed vouchers, being entitled to daily compensation under the law.

Mr. Turkus: I do not know. That is up in the Bronx.

7682

The Court: Purely speculative as to what he signed but there is no evidence here yet that he has signed a "Q" and "A".

Mr. Rosenthal: I must except to your Honor's statement. My questioning has been confined to Brooklyn, not what he did in the Bronx, and, of course,—I do not say that Mr. Turkus wilfully made this statement,—I think the record should be clear that this man is not held on any murder charge in the Bronx; he is merely held as a material witness.

7683

Mr. Turkus: Let him state what it is. I do not know technically how Judge Foley holds him. I know this, he is in jail and we have him when we need him. Let us go that far with him and there won't be any misunderstanding.

The Court: You cannot pit the word of the District Attorney against the word of this witness on the question of depositions. I know you would not want to do that.

Mr. Rosenthal: I have no intention of pitting anybody's word.

The Court: If the District Attorney, upon checking up at the office, finds any paper whatever signed by this witness, let it be brought to the court on Monday morning.

Mr. Klein: We will make a further check.

Mr. Turkus: I will instruct Mr. Joseph.

7685 The Court: I want a thorough search made.

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

Mr. Rosenthal: Would I then have the privilege, if concluded before then, to recall him?

The Court: You may then, if it is so indicated, recall the witness.

Mr. Rosenthal: We will pass this subject then.

Q. In respect to the Rosen case, did you ever appear at any time before any Grand Jury, at 7686 any time up to the present day? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you appear before the Grand Jury after this trial started?

Mr. Rosenthal: (To Mr. Turkus) Did he?

Mr. Turkus: He did not.

Mr. Rosenthal: Then I won't press it.

Q. After July or thereabout, whenever it was that you fix as the date when you spoke about the Rosen case—

7687

Mr. Turkus: That is confusing on the record. Will you revise it?

Mr. Rosenthal: Let me put it more plainly. I do not want anything confusing.

Q. You said that you recall the first time that you were asked about the Rosen case, or spoke about it, was about two months after May, didn't you?

7688

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He said it was not. He said it was after January of 1941 and before June.

Mr. Rosenthal: Let us get it straight, Judge.

Q. When did you say that you first spoke to anybody about the Rosen case, approximately? A. After January and before June.

Q. The exact month you cannot tell us? A. No, sir.

Q. After your first conversation in respect to the Rosen case, and confining yourself to the Rosen case, did you have any later conversations with any of the personnel of District Attorney O'Dwyer's office? A. Will you please repeat that question?

7689

Q. Let us put it this way—

The Court: Staff.

Mr. Rosenthal: I will reframe it.

Q. After the first conversation which you had, whatever the month was, did you again talk at any time with any of the assistants of Mr.

O'Dwyer in respect to the Rosen case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many times, and covering what period? A. On a few occasions.

Q. Well, when you say "a few," would you say about four or five? A. About six or seven.

Q. And the first time after this first conversation was about how long after; a week, a month? A. A few days.

Q. And your last time was how long before 7691 today? Approximately? A. Approximately?

Q. Yes. You don't have to give me the exact day, just the approximate time. A. About four or five months.

Q. No, I don't think you understand me. Four or five months ago was the last time you spoke? A. Before today, yes.

Q. And you have not spoken to anybody in the District Attorney's office about the Rosen case for the last four or five months: is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Regarding your place of confinement, when 7692 were you removed, if at all, from the Concourse Plaza Hotel? A. After I was there about seven months.

Q. And then you were removed to Bronx County Jail? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you removed to the civil part of the jail? No, sir.

Q. Are you in the jail where people charged with crime are? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Segregated from other people? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that right? A. I was.

Q. You are there—other than being on the stand now, that is where you are confined now, isn't it? A. In the Bronx County Jail?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you say there are policemen on guard there all day and all night, in the Bronx County Jail? A. In the Jail?

Q. Yes. A. Outside the Jail.

Q. I understood you to say you had a 24-hour guard. Did you say that? A. While I was in the Concourse Plaza, I did.

Q. But while you are in the jail there is no 7694 guard—that is wh I want to get clear—other than the guard of the jail? A. That is right.

Q. Can you tell us the month that you were transferred to the Bronx County Jail? About? A. About October or November.

Q. Of 1940? Last year? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Or this year? A. Last year.

Q. And you have been there ever since? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On this trial you told this jury that you know the defendant Capone, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long do you know the defendant Ca- 7695 pone? A. Quite a few years.

Q. Well, give us an idea; five years, six years, four years, seven years? Give me your best recollection. A. Oh, about eight or nine years.

Q. And you mentioned, did you not, on this trial that you were associated with Strauss, Goldstein, Reles, and others, including Capone, as The Combination. That is what you said on this trial: is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You further said on this trial, did you not, that you were working for a salary for this Combination. That is what you told this jury, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you also told this jury that you were only an employee; you were not in business with any of these people at any time. Did you tell them that?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

7697 Q. Did you tell this jury that you were merely an employee and were not in business with any of these men at any time?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. That is not the testimony.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Were you merely an employee of these men?

The Court: What men?

7698

Q. Whom you mentioned as comprising The Combination.

The Court: He said he was a member of The Combination.

Mr. Rosenthal: He said that he worked for The Combination, is the extract that I have.

Mr. Turkus. Mr. Rosenthal used the words "at any time." That was not the testimony. He said he was a member of The Combination.

7699

Mr. Rosenthal: There is no such testimony at all. I have the printed record, which is entirely different.

The Court: He can say whether he was employed by or worked together.

By the Court:

Q. Did you work with them or for them? A. With them and for them.

Q. Both? A. Yes, sir.

7700

Q. What was your salary? A. I started at $40 a week.

Q. Speak loud. A. I started at $40 a week.

Q. And went up to how much? A. $75.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. You were in the shylock business for a period of ten years—you were in the shylock business by yourself conducting your place from Buffalo and St. Johns; is that right? A. Yes, sir.

7701

Q. And you had been in that business at times with a partner whom you named as Bobby Burns, for a period of upwards of 10 years; isn't that true? A. Him and others.

Q. Did you, in answer to my question, say that you conducted the shylock business and that Bobby Burns was merely a partner for a short period of time with you? Did you say that when I asked you this morning?

Mr. Turkus: The record speaks for itself.

A. The record speaks for itself.

7702 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

The Court: Sustained.
Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. You were in business with Goldstein at one time, weren't you? A. What Goldstein?

Q. Martin (Buggsy) Goldstein, were you in business with him? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Pinball?
The Witness: No, sir.

7703 Q. You were in business with Strauss, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were in business with Reles also, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were asked in the Nitzberg trial, weren't you, at page 238 and 239, as to whom you had been in business with. Let me withdraw that first.

And you mentioned as being the persons whom you were in business with the following persons, did you not; (page 238 and 239) I ask you now were you asked these questions and 7704 did you give these answers in the Nitzberg trial, commencing at folio 713:

"Q. Mr. Magoon, you were in business with Goldstein, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. And you were in business with Strauss also, weren't you? A. That is, I worked for them.

"Q. Yes. A. Yes.

"Q. You were in business with them, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. And Reles was also interested in that business too, wasn't he? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. And the whole bunch of you there, Reles,

Strauss, Goldstein and yourself, were more or less partners in the business, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. Well, how long were you and Reles in partnership? A. Would you kindly repeat that?

"Q. How long were you and Reles in partnership? A. I was never partners with Reles."

Were you asked those questions and did you give those answers?

Mr. Turkus: There is nothing inconsistent with that. 7706

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

Q. In the Nitzberg trial, which occurred in 1941, when you were asked concerning the persons whom you were in business with, did you mention the name of Louis Capone at all?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. The reading of the full question shows that the questioner put certain names to him and he made response, that the questioner did not put the name of Capone to him. That is all those questions and answers indicate. 7707

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except. So as not to waste any time here, I offer to prove here that this witness never mentioned the name Capone in that trial in respect to his business or activities. Your Honor sustains that line of questions. I respectfully except.

Mr. Turkus: I do not want a bad record, your Honor. That offer of proof was bad. If he has got any other proof, let him submit it.

The Court: The Court sees through it.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to the Court's remarks.

The Court: You will be permitted to show whether or not, in response to a question which called for such information, 7709 he omitted to give that information.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to what your Honor says I am limited to, the manner in which I am limited to prove that particular point.

The Court: I said "liberty", not "limited." The fact that a man fails on a certain occasion to mention somebody's name means nothing unless it was shown that the information was called for by some question or some event.

Mr. Talley: I except to your Honor's

7710 statement.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except.

The Court: I don't know what the exception is about, but inasmuch as the statement is considered valueless, it is withdrawn and the jury is instructed to disregard it.

Mr. Rosenthal: The exception is that that is a question of fact for the jury, not for your Honor's interpretation of the fact.

The Court: What are you worrying about.

Mr. Rosenthal: That is the exception I am taking and the reason for it.

The Court: The jury has nothing to do with rulings on evidence.

Mr. Talley: It is your Honor's observations when you make the rulings, to which I take my exception.

The Court: Don't argue the rulings.

Mr. Talley: I do not intend to argue, but I intend to explain, in view of your Honor's statement. 7712

The Court: You are not going to do any explaining. You are only making a speech to the jury.

Mr. Talley: I am not making a speech to the jury. I am addressing you.

The Court: Then sit down.

Mr. Talley: I intend to sit down when I finish what I have to say.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. On this trial you were asked, at page 2318, whether you took orders from your four employers, including Reles. Do you recall being asked that? 7713

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. This record speaks for itself.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: This is cross-examination, sir, and laying a foundation for a prior inconsistent statement, and in order to lay that foundation I must first ask him whether or not he did not so testify.

7714 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

The Court: The objection is sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except, sir.

Q. Was Reles one of your bosses? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Reles give you orders? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you asked these questions on the Nitzberg trial and did you give these answers (page 239, folio 715):

7715 "Q. You were interested in the business that Reles was doing, weren't you? A. No, sir.

"Q. Never had anything to do with Reles? A. He was interested in my business.

"Q. He was more or less your boss, wasn't he? A. No, sir.

"Q. You never did any jobs with him at all? A. No, sir.

"Q. At no time? A. No, sir."

Were you asked those questions on the Nitzberg trial and did you give those answers in respect to Mr. Reles? A. If it is there, I have given it.

7716 Q. What is your recollection? This was only a few months ago. Did you, in response to questions which I have now propounded to you, give those answers, to your best recollection? Yes or no? A. I says if it is there, I have said that.

Mr. Rosenthal: I ask that the answer be stricken as not responsive.

The Court: Strike it out. Do you remember those questions and answers? Yes or no?

The Witness: Not very clearly, your Honor.

Q. Now then, if you did testify in the Nitzberg trial— Withdrawn.

Mr. Rosenthal: You concede that I correctly read from the minutes?

Mr. Turkus: If you say it is correct, that is enough.

Q. Upon the concession of the District Attorney that I have correctly read from the printed record in that case, I will now say to you, Mr. Magoon, you did say that according to the record of the Nitzberg trial. Now do you say that you made those answers to those questions? It is in the record. A. Then I have said it. 7718

Q. That was not true, was it? A. It was true.

Q. All right. You did not take any orders from Reles since May of 1941, when Nitzberg was tried, did you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

Mr. Rosenthal: I want to confine him right up to the present minute. 7719

Mr. Turkus: You mean since he is in the Bronx County Jail?

Mr. Rosenthal: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: Are you serious with that question? Go ahead.

The Court: There is no objection?

Mr. Turkus: No objection.

Q. Did you? A. Will you repeat that question, please?

7720 By the Court:

Q. Since you have been locked up, have you been taking orders from Reles? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. You did not go out on any of the baseball games, did you, at any time? A. No, sir.

Q. You say that you were hiding in a farm of a man Mannesse, a tomato farm? I will repeat the question. You said you were hiding out in a tomato farm in Milton, New York, in 1936; is that right? Is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

7721

Q. And you said the name of the place was Mannesse, I think; is that correct? A. The owner's name was Mannesse.

Q. Yes, the owner's name. A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many times had you been to that farm before? A. Never.

Q. How many times had you been to that farm after that, if at all? A. Two or three times after.

7722 Q. And covering what period of time were the two or three other times? When were the two other times? A. After I was in police custody.

Q. Oh, you mean you went to this farm accompanied by some police officers since you were arrested? A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. City police or State police? A. City police and State police.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. So that the only time that you ever were at this farm in your life—

The Court: Pardon me.

By the Court:

Q. No revenue men? A. No, sir.

Q. You know there have been a lot of raids in that immediate section? 7724

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to your Honor's question. Exception.

The Court: Withdrawn. The Court apologizes for its remark. Any motion for a mistrial? Any motion for a mistrial?

Mr. Rosenthal: I am leaving that to your Honor. Your Honor has done that for me twice, so I feel there is no necessity for me to make one.

The Court: Go ahead. 7725

7726 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. With the exception of the time in 1936 that you say you were at Mannesse's farm, tomato farm, you never were there, either before or after, excepting after you were arrested in 1940, when you were taken there by a couple of police officers or State troopers; is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You testified in this trial that you hung 7727 around the corner of Saratoga and Livonia Avenue. That was one of your hangouts. Did you say that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that true up to the time you were arrested, that this was one of your hangouts? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were asked by Mr. Turkus about having been arrested for vagrancy when Judge O'Dwyer took office, in the month of February, 1940. Do you remember being asked about that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time a number of police officers took the stand against you to testify, isn't that 7728 right, as to your whereabouts? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Over a period of months? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were present in court when these various police officers testified under oath, some six or eight in number, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did these police officers testify under oath to your whereabouts morning, noon, and night for a period of six months?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. How does this impeach his credibility?

7729

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Isn't it a fact that your regular hangout, morning, noon, and night, was at Buffalo Avenue and St. Johns Place?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That may be a regular hangout, but that—

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to him interjecting, when he makes an objection, something which will be taken as an answer by the witness, whether it is intentional or not. I object to any argument when he makes his objection.

7730

Mr. Turkus: The District Attorney has no exception to rulings—

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that statement. We have heard that since the beginning of the trial also.

Mr. Turkus: I wish Mr. Rosenthal would permit me to address the Court without becoming unduly perturbed about it.

7731

Mr. Rosenthal: I am not becoming perturbed at all.

Mr. Turkus: Please, sir, I know how to conduct myself in a trial, and I will with all propriety. I merely mention the fact that since the District Attorney has no exception, he has a right to urge a point of explanation.

The Court: You do not have to. Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to the Court's ruling.

The Court: Unless you want to show that he hung out there exclusively.

Mr. Turkus: That is different.

The Court: To the elimination of Saratoga and Livonia, but when you say "regular," that means nothing. That is the reason the Court sustained the objection.

7733 Mr. Rosenthal: There is only one way I can prove—

The Court: It is all the same general locality.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to your Honor's observation.

The Court: Nobody is glued to one corner.

Mr. Rosenthal: In view of the fact that is the ground of your Honor sustaining the objection, I will put the question in another form:

7734 By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Is it a fact that your business for the last five years was conducted from the corner of Buffalo Avenue and St. Johns Place?

Mr. Turkus: That has been answered. I object.

Mr. Rosenthal: That has not been answered.

The Court: Yes or no.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you would, when you got up in the morning, go right to Buffalo Avenue and St. Johns Place? A. Not at all times.

Q. Did you go there every day in the morning? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go there practically every day in the morning? A. No, sir.

Q. Are you sure of that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, for the six months including 1939 and up to the time you were arrested for vagrancy—Let me withdraw that. 7736

Q. Did you go there every night? A. I can explain that for you, Counsellor.

Q. No, please, we are getting along very nicely. You answer questions and I will make them. If you do not understand me, I will repeat them. A. Excuse me.

Q. Is that clear? Now then, did you go there every night?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

Q. And hang around. 7737

Mr. Turkus: That does not go to the point of exclusion of other contacts at other places. The witness has asked to make a statement.

The Court: He can say if he went there every night, even though it does not prove exclusion.

Q. Did you, yes or no? A. Practically every night.

7738 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

By the Court:

Q. Were you kept so busy at that corner that you did not go to Saratoga and Livonia? A. I had a working man there, your Honor. He was there all the time. I had a car.

Q. He was where? A. On St. Johns Place and Buffalo Avenue. Then I was not held to any particular place.

Q. You had your car and went around? A.
7739 That is right, sir.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Were you asked these questions in the Goldstein Strauss trial in respect to St. Johns Place, and did you make these answers: (on page 469, folio 1407)

"Q. Do you know where you were at half past nine that night? A. Well, the only place possibe is on St. Johns Place and Buffalo Avenue.

"Q. And you say that because it was your custom to ride around there, is that right? A. I 7740 hung out there.

"Q. You hung out there every night? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. At half past nine? A. All day and all night, or all morning, any time I got up out of the house.

"Q. Any time that you were not with anybody you were at that corner, is that right? A. Yes, sir."

Question, at page 473 of the same printed record—first, before I read that, were you asked those questions and did you give those answers? A. If it is there, Counsellor.

Q. If it is in the book, you made that statement; is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, it is in the book. Did you make the statement? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now then, in the book, at page 473, were you asked these questions:

"Q. You told me that you were at Buffalo and St. Johns Place on Sunday night. A. I did not specify any day

"Q. About half past four. A. I did not specify any day. 7742

"Q. What? A. I did not specify any day.

"Q. You might have been there? That was your usual hangout? A. St. Johns and Buffalo.

"Q. Sundays, holidays, and everything else? A. Yes, sir.

"Q. Is that correct? A. Yes, sir."

Were you asked those questions and did you give those answers? A. If it is there, it is so.

Q. Well, it is in the book.

Mr. Turkus: Then the answer is yes.

Q. Did you say that? A. Yes, sir. 7743

Q. Is the defendant Capone married, do you know? A. Will you please repeat that?

Q. Is the defendant Capone married? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Has he any family? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What does his family consist of? A. A wife and children.

Q. How many children?

The Court: What has that got to do with the case?

Mr. Rosenthal: On the point of the credibility of this man, which will come out in a little while in my questioning.

The Court: As to the number of children another man had?

Mr. Rosenthal: As to how old they are and what they are.

Mr. Turkus: He did not pretend any friendship with the children.

The Court: Is there an objection?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

7745 The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

Q. You say you were at Capone's house once, is that right? A. Pardon?

Q. You said you were at Capone's house once? A. Not once, but a number of times.

Q. And you said it was on Avenue K? A. I said I think it is on Avenue K.

Q. Avenue K, is it between—off of Schenectady Avenue on Avenue K? A. It is a couple of blocks off Utica Avenue.

7746 Q. Well, you are acquainted with that section, aren't you? A. Not that section very well.

Q. That section is how far from Saratoga and Livonia to this Avenue K section that you are talking about? A. Driving a car or walking?

The Court: How many blocks?

Q. How far in blocks, in mileage? A. Oh, I would say a couple of miles.

Q. And you are acquainted with Schenectady Avenue, aren't you? A. One end of Schenectady Avenue.

Q. Do you know where 46th Street is? A. I have heard the street.

Q. Well, is it between 46th Street and Schenectady Avenue on Avenue K that Capone lives? A. I know the house; I don't know the street.

Q. You know the house but you do not know the street, is that it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, do you know between what streets is it? A. I think it is around Avenue K, a couple of blocks off Utica Avenue.

Q. But you are guessing now, is that right? 7748
A. If we walk over there now, I can take you right there.

Q. Is it on the corner or is it between blocks? A. A corner house.

Q. Is the entrance on Avenue K? A. Two entrances.

Q. One on Avenue K and one on the other avenue, is that it? A. I am not saying on what street. There was one front entrance and a back entrance.

Q. You are sure of this, aren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And this was in—I am talking about 1939; 7749
is that what you are talking about, talking about where he lived in 1939, is when you testified? Is that what you are talking about? A. Almost sure of that.

Q. Is that your best answer, you are almost sure? A. If you—

Q. Just please— A. If you give me that question clear in one question at a time, counsellor, I can answer better.

Q. Am I not asking you one question at a time? I withdraw it. We will give it to you, half a question, if you want it, at a time.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. The witness wanted one question at a time.

Mr. Rosenthal: We will give it to him.

Q. Do you remember on your direct examination talking about telling Mr. Turkus about a conversation that you were supposed to have had in Capone's house? Remember telling him? A. Yes, sir.

7751

Q. Is that where he lived at the time that you had this conversation, the place where you have just described? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that where he lived? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the fall of 1928 you said you saw, on direct examination, Weiss, Capone and others on a certain corner?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. There is no such testimony in the record. You are ten years out of the way.

7752

Mr. Rosenthal: We will see whether you are.

Mr. Turkus: You said in the fall of '28.

Mr. Rosenthal: '38 was what was intended.

Q. Where was it you said you saw these people? A. Will you please repeat that question?

Q. In 1938, where did you say you saw these people, in the fall of 1938?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. It does not show what people he is referring to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Already mentioned. Do you want me to repeat them in the question?

The Court: Name the people.

Q. Did you on direct examination testify about seeing Weiss, Capone, Strauss and Reles together some place in 1938? A. Yes, sir. 7754

Q. When in 1938 was it that you saw them? A. In the fall of 1938.

Q. What part of the fall of 1938? A. It was kind of cool then, counsellor.

Q. I cannot hear you. A. I say it was kind of cool then.

Q. It was kind of cool that night? A. No, in that season.

Q. Can you fix any approximate month? A. I will say about October or November.

Q. Is that your estimate or are you merely guessing? A. That is my estimate. 7755

Q. Where was it that you say you met them? A. On the corner.

Q. What corner? A. Saratoga and Livonia Avenue.

Q. Were they the only people there at the time, to your recollection; yes or no? A. There is always people there.

Q. Do you recall anybody else that was there at the time; yes or no? A. Off-hand, no.

Q. About what time of the night was it? A. Around 9:30, 10:00, around that time.

Q. Are you guessing, or is that your estimate at this time? A. That is my answer.

Q. At that time did you know Paul Berger? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long had you known him? A. A little while prior to that time.

Q. What do you mean by a little while, a year? A. Two or three.

Q. And did Berger hang out on that corner? A. No, sir.

7757 Q. Had you met Berger on that corner prior to that time? A. I think it was on that corner that I met Berger.

Q. Well, what is your best recollection as to where you met Berger for the first time? A. I would say Brownsville.

Q. Well, is that the nearest you can recall as to where you first met Berger, in Brownsville? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On direct examination did you not say that it was on the corner, the corner meaning Saratoga and Livonia, that you first met Berger?

7758 Do you know what direct examination is? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is when Mr. Turkus asked you questions. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you then say that it was the corner that you met Berger?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. This record speaks for itself.

Mr. Rosenthal: This is cross-examination on a question of this man's credibility and remembrance of what he even said today on the stand.

7759

Mr. Turkus: He says this time on cross he thinks it is the corner. He is definite it was Brownsville. The jury has not forgotten the testimony. It happened a short time ago.

The Court: The record speaks for itself. Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to the Court's ruling.

7760

Q. What was the conversation that you had on the corner that night? A. Who?

Q. With anybody, in the fall of 1938, the months October or November, the time 9:30 to 10:00 o'clock, what conversation did you have on that corner?

Mr. Turkus: I object unless he fixes the persons with whom he had the conversation.

The Court: Fix the persons. Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

7761

Q. With whom did you talk on that corner on that particular night? A. In reference to what, counsellor?

Q. In reference to anything, whom did you speak to on that corner at 9:30 o'clock that night, when you arrived at the corner and, as you say, you saw Weiss, Capone, Reles and Strauss?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question, anything.

The Court: It is indefinite because fall is indefinite. There may have been other conversations. If you fix the subject matter of the conversation—

Mr. Rosenthal: I have already designated the same time as Mr. Turkus designated.

The Court: He is not required to remember the record. Even the Court has to go back on its notes to remember what was said yesterday. The human mind cannot carry a record. That is why we 7763 have the stenographer and the typewritten record. This was the conversation about Ratner's restaurant.

By the Court:

Q. Can you place that? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to the Court's observation.

The Court: Now proceed.

Mr. Rosenthal: And to the Court's direction to the witness as to what the 7764 conversation was about.

The Court: All right, the Court withdraws it, sustains the objection as indefinite. I thought that was what you wanted.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to the sustaining of the objection.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. When you arrived at the corner of Saratoga and Livonia Avenue, in the fall of 1938, and, as you say, saw Weiss, Capone, Strauss and Reles, to whom did you speak on that occasion?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question because the fall is a long period of time. That would presuppose that was the only meeting and, second, it must be directed to the attention of the witness what the subject matter is that he wishes to elicit on this question.

The Court: You see the trouble is the direct called for only information as to conversation with one but it does not include conversation as to the others. 7766

Mr. Turkus: That is right.

The Court: That is what tends to confuse. Sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to the Court's ruling.

The Court: When a person meets several in a group, it may be reasonable to suppose that it is more or less inconsequential conversation with all but we are concerned with the conversation with such as had something to do with this charge that is now being tried. You may inquire about that. 7767

Mr. Rosenthal: May I first except to the Court's observation?

The Court: But that eliminates "hello" and "goodbye".

Mr. Rosenthal: May I proceed, sir?

The Court: Yes.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Did you at that time speak to Weiss, according to you, about going some place? A. Yes, sir.

7768 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

Q. What did you say Weiss said to you or you said to Weiss on that occasion? A. He says—

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor give me a general objection to this line of inquiry on the ground it is not binding on the defendant Buchalter?

The Court: Yes.

A. He says, "Go to Ratner's restaurant to-7769 morrow morning and you will meet Paul Berger and some other fellow and he will point out Max Rubin to you. Tail him, find out his habits and so forth."

Q. What is the "and so forth"? Tell us the whole conversation. Anything else said? A. Who he walks with, who he comes out of the house, who he walks into the house, and all things like that, on following a man in order to have him killed.

Q. He told you that? A. That was next day, counselor.

7770

Mr. Rosenthal: I ask that be stricken if it was next day.

The Court: Strike it out.

Q. I am asking you now did he tell you that; yes or no? In that first conversation did he tell you that? A. No, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: Then I ask that his observation be stricken out.

Mr. Turkus: It was stricken out.

Mr. Rosenthal: No, the other thing is stricken. Now I am asking that the observation be stricken of this man and the jury instructed to disregard it.

The Court: The Court has ruled on that.

Mr. Rosenthal: The Court ruled on the other but I ask his original answer be stricken.

The Court: The stenographer will read back.

(The Court's remark "Strike it out" was read.) 7772

Mr. Rosenthal: That is only directed to the question I was asking but he had already answered prior.

The Court: The Court knows what it was. It is perfectly plain.

Q. Was anything else said that night in that conversation? This is the first conversation in respect to going over to Ratner's restaurant. Have you told us all you recall of that conversation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Isn't it a fact you were not told at that time the purpose of your tailing Rubin, on the first conversation? A. Will you repeat that question, please? 7773

Q. Isn't it a fact that on this first occasion you were not told anything about the purpose of tailing Rubin?

The Court: He has just told you the purpose of tailing him but not the eventuality.

Mr. Talley: He volunteered that, if your Honor pleases.

7774 Seymour Magoon—For People—Cross

The Court: Not the reason for the instruction. He said that was understood and then the Court struck that out on your motion.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to the Court's observation.

The Court: Counsel, under purpose of tailing comes the instructions as to the particulars that were to be observed, to keep track of his movements, see whom 7775 he went in and out with, whether he was under bodyguard, and so on, where he went, the time and all that. All those are elements, but as to the reason behind all this, we have nothing, in so far as this answer is concerned.

Mr. Rosenthal: I merely except to the Court's observation as to the meaning of answers as being an invasion of the province of this jury.

The Court: You mean when the Judge has to rule on an objection the Judge has 7776 to submit his brains to the jury and let the jury tell him how to rule before he passes on it? That is ridiculous. Don't try anything like that. That is a cheap speech to this jury. Now proceed. You are just trying to turn the jury against the Court's rulings, hook somebody up on prejudice against the Court. Don't try it. It is too cheap. Now proceed.

Mr. Rosenthal: Before I proceed, as a representative member of the Bar, I except to the Court's statement as to what the intention of counsel is. I have a per-feet right to stand here and object to anything in the interest of my client.

The Court: Yes, and the Court will see to it, too. Now proceed.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to your Honor's observation.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. After this conversation, what is the next thing you did? A. I went away. 7778

Q. Did you go to Ratner's? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you go to Ratner's? A. The following morning.

Q. At what time? A. About 9:30, 10, in the morning.

Q. When you arrived at Ratner's, did you see Berger? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you known the man that was with Berger before then? A. No, sir.

Q. How long did you remain in the restaurant? A. A little while.

Q. What do you call a little while? A. Half hour, three-quarters of an hour, forty minutes. 7779

Q. After the meal was over, what happened? A. We went out.

Q. Where did you go to? A. I went to my car. Paul Berger and the other fellow went to their car.

Q. Where was your car parked? A. In the vicinity.

Q. Approximately where? A. Off Delancey Street.

Q. Off Delancey Street? A. Yes, sir, on the side street.

Q. Where was this restaurant? A. On Delancey Street.

Q. Weren't the cars parked up at Union Square? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I thought you just said they were parked on Delancey Street?

Mr. Turkus: He did, but that is not inconsistent. You are talking about two different times.

7781 Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the District Attorney saying it is or is not inconsistent.

Mr. Turkus: That is an objection.

Mr. Rosenthal: That is an observation only, not an objection.

Mr. Turkus: Do you want to quarrel with me?

Mr. Rosenthal: No, I don't want to quarrel with you, or anybody else, but I will not be stepped on.

By the Court:

7782 Q. Counsel does not mean after you left Ratner's, he means while you were in Ratner's, do you recall where you parked your car then? A. I said up Delancey.

Q. Before you went to Ratner's? A. I parked off Delancey and then I went into Ratner's.

Q. After you left Ratner's, where did you go? A. With the other fellows. With the other two fellows?

Q. Yes. A. Parked the car on Union Square.

Q. Two different parkings? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Rosenthal:

Q. Did the both of you have your cars parked at the same place when you went into Ratner's? A. I don't know.

Q. You came out of Ratner's together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You went to your car? A. Yes.

Q. Didn't they go in their car? A. Yes, sir, to Paul Berger's car.

Q. Where was it parked? A. Up ahead of my 7784 car.

Q. And then you both drove in separate cars, you following? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was in your car, anybody other than yourself? A. No, sir.

Q. How far did you drive? A. Over to Union Square.

Q. Then you both parked your cars again on the street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then started walking? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you walk to? A. Fifth Avenue and 17th Street—17th Street and Fifth Avenue. 7785

Q. Was Berger walking with you? A. No, sir.

Q. Berger was ahead and Cuppie following? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then Berger spoke to you in a whisper? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After Berger spoke to you, did you do something? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do? A. Followed Rubin.

Q. Were you alone when you followed him? A. No, sir.

Q. Who was with you? A. Cuppie.

7786 Q. Where did you follow him to? A. All around.

Q. Did he go in any buildings or in any places? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go in the buildings with him? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you wait out in front of the buildings? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The buildings had more than one entrance? A. I presume so.

7787 Q. He always came out the same entrance? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were waiting there sometimes an hour or an hour and a half in front of the buildings after he would enter it? A. No, sir.

Q. For a period of time you would wait? A. Not very long.

Q. As long as it took him to go in and transact whatever business he was doing? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did he go and at what time— Question withdrawn. At what time did you finally 7788 leave him that night? A. I left him about 4:30.

Q. Where was he when you left him? A. 14th Street and 7th Avenue.

Q. Then where did you go? A. Back to Brooklyn.

Q. When after this did you next see any of the defendants and where did you see them? A. That night.

Q. Where did you see them? A. On the corner.

Q. That would be in the month of October or November, 1938? A. In the fall, yes, sir.

Q. Now, you fixed it as your approximation of time, October or November, is that right?

Mr. Turkus: I object. The witness said in the fall.

Mr. Rosenthal: I am asking him to fix it, if possible.

Mr. Turkus: That was not the purport of that question.

The Court: He says in the fall—whether it was then cold, if counsel can 7790 recall that fall—that was the fall that the hurricane was in, in September. What the condition was in the early part of November, maybe you can recall yourself.

Mr. Rosenthal: It was thirty degrees this summer also in some places, but that does not necessarily mean the time I mean.

The Court: He said in the fall. Don't argue.

Q. Didn't you tell me you fixed the time approximately in October or November of this conversation? 7791

Mr. Turkus: I object.

Q. (The Court) Do you remember the month? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you a few minutes ago say to me that to the best of your estimation it was either the month of October or November, did you say that?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is an objectionable question.

The Court: That is not recollection; that is only conjecture. Objection sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Well, can you more definitely fix at this time what you mean by the fall of the year 1938? A. It was cold weather then.

Q. Other than being cold weather, can you more definitely fix at this time the month of the 7793 year, to the best of your recollection? A. I say, approximately, either October or November.

Q. Now, on that night you say you had another talk with the defendant Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after that talk you went some place to follow him there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You went up to Rubin's house to watch? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you stood there until about what time? A. Until the evening.

Q. Approximately what time? A. 4:30—5:00
7794 o'clock.

Q. Then you say Rubin returned? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then that night you went there? A. To a saloon on Grand and Lewis Streets.

Q. You are sure it is Lewis Street? A. No, sir.

Q. You only think it is? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. At that time would you say you saw just the defendant Weiss and had a consultation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, isn't it your testimony that at that time Weiss said to you, according to you, "Go back to Brooklyn and see Harry Strauss and he will give you further instructions"? Is that what you testified to on direct that he said? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, then, you say you went to Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What time was it that you got to Brooklyn, what time of night? A. After nine.

Q. Can you fix it any more definitely than after nine, how much after nine? A. Roughly, 7796
I say between nine and ten.

Q. At that time you say you saw the defendant Capone, Strauss and Reles on the corner, is that right? A. Correct.

Q. You talked to Strauss— Question withdrawn.

Q. Didn't you direct your conversation to Strauss at that time? A. It was a free-for-all conversation.

Q. Didn't you say on your direct examination that Strauss said, "What happened up there?" A. Yes, sir. 7797

Q. Is that what happened when you got there? Did Strauss say that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you say that after Strauss asked you, "What happened up there?", you explained to him? Wasn't that your testimony on direct examination? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after you had explained to him, Strauss then said something to you, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did Strauss say to you after you had explained to him what you had done that day;

7798 what did Strauss say? A. He said, "Go back there again tomorrow."

Q. Is that all he said? A. No, sir.

Q. I am asking you what did Strauss say in that conversation to you after you had told him what had happened. A. "Go back there tomorrow morning and watch Rubin, tail him, who is he with, how he walks, how he goes over to the subway, how he gets off the subway, and on what side of the street he walks, and so forth."

7799 Q. Did you say anything after Strauss said that to you, to Strauss, did you say, "All right, I will"? A. Well, it is understood that it is all right.

Mr. Rosenthal: I ask that the answer be stricken out, "It is understood," as not responsive.

Q. (The Court) Do you recall whether you said anything or not?

7800 Mr. Rosenthal: I move to strike out the last answer as not responsive.

The Court: Strike it out.

A. I must have shook my head.

Q. (The Court) Do you have any recollection one way or the other? A. Off-hand, no, your Honor.

Q. How long were you there all told at that particular meeting? A. A little while.

Q. What does that mean, a few minutes? A. A half an hour or so.

Q. Well, did you leave immediately after Strauss had told you to go up and watch his habits, et cetera, as you related? A. After a half an hour or so, yes, sir.

Q. You stood around after he had finished his conversation with you? A. We were speaking for about a half an hour or so and then I left.

Q. Now, did anybody else speak except Strauss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else spoke? A. Capone spoke.

Q. When did he speak? A. In that conversation there.

Q. After the conversation— 7802

Mr. Turkus: I object. He has already testified—

Mr. Rosenthal: Now I except—

Mr. Turkus: You except to what?

Mr. Rosenthal: He is starting in again with an explanation of what he is said to have said, so that when I ask the question the witness will know.

Mr. Turkus: I object to this question as already answered.

The Court: Objection sustained. 7803

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Didn't you testify on your direct examination that after the conversation was all over and when you were going away, that then Capone said something? Did you say that in words or substance in your conversation?

Mr. Turkus: I object. That is not the testimony. I refer your Honor to page 2346 of the record.

The Court: I remember it. Objection sustained.

7804 Seymour Magcon—For People—Cross

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except to the Court's ruling.

Q. Now, you were directed, according to you, by Weiss to get instructions from Strauss, weren't you?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: Objection sustained.

7805 Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. Was anything, other than what you testified to on your direct examination, said by Capone at any time during that conversation; yes or no?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question. He has not brought out what Capone said.

Mr. Rosenthal: Other than what he testified to on direct examination.

Mr. Turkus: Why omit it? I object.

7806 The Court: That implies he has got to remember what he said yesterday on direct, and if your memory is so good why do you have to have a daily copy of the minutes?

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to that remark. I except to the Court's observation. If the Court desires me to answer, I will answer that very clearly.

The Court: The objection is sustained.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except. With the Court's observation, I have no further questions. At this time I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: On what ground?

Mr. Rosenthal: Upon the ground that the action of the Court toward defense counsel and upon the observations of this Court throughout this trial as to the testimony of various witnesses and what the import of their testimony is throughout the trial, being an invasion of the jury's province. 7808

The Court: Gentlemen of the jury, disregard that. These are just tactics trying to set the jury against the Court, thereby lessening the authority of the Court with the jury—giving the Court instructions.

Mr. Rosenthal: I except to that observation.

The Court: The motion is denied.

Defense Counsel: All except.

Re-direct examination by Mr. Turkus: 7809

Q. Both counsel for Capone and Weiss asked you about a fight you had with a policeman, do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you had the fight with the policeman, was the police officer in uniform? A. No, sir.

The Court: Why palliate it?

Mr. Turkus: I don't have to palliate it, but I don't want something that is improper on the record.

The Court: Do you draw a distinction as to whether the policeman is in uniform or not?

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor permit me to ask the question? I am not trying to put this man in any light other than what he is. There is just one point I wish to straighten out.

Q. Was it in a gambling joint where this happened? A. Yes, sir.

7811 Q. Was the cop there as a patron at the time?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to his trying the case on a collateral issue.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Turkus: Well, forget that.

Q. Now, will you come down to the social contact you had—Mr. Rosenthal, counsel for the defendant said—

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to the observation of "We will come down to," and, 7812 "What Mr. Rosenthal did," as not a proper part of a question.

Mr. Turkus: I have not finished the question.

Q. He asked you about the social contact you had with Buggsy Goldstein, Pittsburg Phil Strauss and Reles; do you recall that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He also asked you whether or not you knew that Capone was married; do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have any social contact with Capone?

Mr. Rosenthal: I objected and the Court sustained the objection at the time I tried to get that in. I object to it as not proper re-direct.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Q. What were some of the social contacts you had with Capone? 7814

Mr. Rosenthal: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

A. I was at his wedding.

Q. Did you ever go to any party at his home?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Rosenthal: I object to that as leading and suggestive.

The Court: Objection sustained. 7815

Q. Besides attending his wedding did you have any other social contacts with Capone?

Mr. Rosenthal: Objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Will you relate all the social contacts with Capone that you can recall?

Mr. Rosenthal: I object.

The Court: No, that is quite apart from the case.

7816 Seymour Magoon—For People—Redirect

Mr. Turkus: I take it your Honor has precluded me from going any further on that subject.

The Court: You have opened a field that has nothing to do with the issue.

Q. There is one final question. I do not wish to embarrass you, but do you have an impediment in your speech? A. Yes, sir.

7817 Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out this man's testimony on the ground it is not binding on the defendant Buchalter; on the further ground that any act this man did subsequent to the commission of this crime on September 11, 1936, is binding only upon himself and not upon the defendant Buchalter. And I move to strike out anything he said, together with others, after that date, on the ground it is not binding on Buchalter.

The Court: Denied at this time for the reason heretofore stated on similar motions.

7818

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: I cannot possibly conclude the People's case today.

The Court: You can go ahead until closing hour.

Mr. Turkus: I would just as soon take a recess now, I am tired.

The Court: I read five hundred pages of the record last night and I have spent from two to two and a half hours in addition in conference, together with my court work.

Mr. Barshay: I do not want to draw any parallel between the work of the Court and the District Attorney.

The Court: The Court is willing to work.

Mr. Turkus: We have fifteen minutes left, all right.

ALBERT E. AMAN, residing at 2171 Eastwood Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, called as a witness on behalf of the People, after being duly sworn, testified as follows: 7820

Mr. Rosenthal: Before the testimony, so I will not have to interrupt, I am objecting as far as the defendant Capone is concerned, if it so develops, on the ground it is not binding upon him.

The Court: I haven't the least idea what it is about.

Mr. Rosenthal: I do not want to get up and object, if your Honor will permit me to reserve my objections to the close of the testimony. 7821

The Court: That is the best time to make it.

Mr. Rosenthal: Then I might be accused of being dilatory, so I am making this motion.

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Did you state your residence as being in Chicago, Illinois? A. I did.

7822 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Q. Are you employed by the United States Government? A. I am.

Q. How many years have you been in the employ of the United States Government? A. In all, about eleven and a half years.

Q. In your eleven and a half years of employment with the United States Government, have you been attached to specific bureaus or agencies? A. I have.

Q. Has that been two in number? A. Yes,
7823 sir.

Q. Now, on April 6, 1941, in what city in the United States were you? A. Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. On April 6, 1941, did you see any defendant you now see in the court room? A. I did.

Q. Which one? A. The second man in the first row.

Mr. Turkus: Indicating the defendant Weiss?

The Witness: That is right.

7824 By the Court:

Q. Are you on the F.B.I.? A. No, sir, United States Bureau of Narcotics.

Mr. Turkus: May we take a recess now, your Honor?

Mr. Talley: I object to a recess being taken at this time. Let us have the evidence of this witness.

The Court: Go ahead with the case.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Where did you find the defendant Weiss?

Mr. Barshay: With respect to Buchalter, may I have one objection so I will not interrupt, as the testimony not being binding upon him.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

7826

A. In an automobile.

Q. Where did you find him in an automobile, can you give the specific location?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. In front of a street address, 3752 Highland Street, Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. Now, at the time you found him in this automobile, who was he with? A. He was with his wife and another lady. 7827

Q. What was the name of the other lady? A. Fay Dilly (name spelled by Mr. Turkus).

Q. Did you, when Weiss was in the automobile, ask him his name? A. I did not.

Mr. Barshay: Is it understood I have a general objection to this line of inquiry?

The Court: Yes.

Q. Did you and Weiss go to the office in Kansas City? A. We did.

7828 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Q. In the office did you ask Weiss what his name was?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. He said it was Weiss, he identified him.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not ask him his name.

7829 Q. Was his name asked of him by someone in your presence? A. It was.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Who asked the defendant Weiss what his name was? A. Joseph Bell.

Q. Now, when Mr. Bell asked the defendant Mendy Weiss for his name, what did Mendy Weiss say his name was?

7830

Mr. Talley: The same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. James W. Bell.

Q. Is the Mr. Bell, who asked Mr. Mendy Weiss, for his name the district supervisor, Joseph Bell? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, in the office, Mr. Aman, did you inspect any of the belongings of the person of the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. What did you take from his person?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Has this anything to do with the case?

Mr. Talley: Nothing whatever to do with this case.

Mr. Turkus: This is on the point of flight.

The Court: You mean having something on his person having a bearing on the question of flight? 7832

Mr. Turkus: Yes. Flight, disguise in identity, which is highly important.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: I object to the statement of the District Attorney and I take an exception to it.

Mr. Turkus: The Judge asked me a question and I must give my answer, and then counsel for the defense takes objection to it.

Mr. Talley: Yes, I object, and I move for the withdrawal of a juror and a declaration of a mistrial because of the improper statement made by the District Attorney. 7833

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I took all the papers and personal effects he had in his pocket.

Q. Did all those effects he had in his pocket, on his person, included papers and money? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you at this time remember approxi-

7834 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

mately the amount of money he had in his pocket?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. About $134 in currency.

Q. When you removed the papers and the 7835 currency from the pocket of the person of this defendant, Mendy Weiss, did you initial each and every one of them, those documents and papers you found? A. All, but the currency.

Q. Have you with you, with the exception of the currency, all of the papers and purported documents you found on the person of the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. I have.

Mr. Turkus: Will you hand me Item E?

The Witness: May I ask the Court a question, please?

7836 The Court: Yes.

The Witness: The papers that I have with me, I might have to use in litigation.

Mr. Turkus: I think I understand what the witness has in mind.

The Court: You want to take them back, you don't want to leave them here? You don't have to leave them here.

Q. Have you photostats of them? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You can produce the originals in court? A. Yes, sir.

Q. They can be exhibited to the Court and the jury and you can leave the photostats in their place? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: That will be the procedure I will adopt, with the Court's permission.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Turkus: May I have the original Item E?

(Paper handed to District Attorney by witness.)

Mr. Turkus: Since this is an original, 7838
I will not mark it, but I hand you a card and ask you if that is one of the items you found on the person of the defendant Mendy Weiss.

Mr. Talley: It calls for a yes or no answer.

The Witness: Yes.

Q. Did you question Mendy Weiss in reference to that card?

Mr. Talley: I object. I might as well state my objection further. 7839

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Talley: The offer in evidence of these papers is suggested by the District Attorney. I object to their introduction or to the introduction of any papers, or to the giving of any testimony with respect to them, upon the ground that this was an illegal seizure and search of this witness, of the defendant Weiss, and that it nowhere appears as yet that this witness had any authority to make that search that resulted in the taking of these papers.

7840 Albert E. Aman—For People—Cross
(Preliminary)

The Court: You mean it was an illegal arrest?

Mr. Talley: And on the further ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: You mean it was an unlawful arrest?

Mr. Talley: I say it was an unlawful search, and I do not know upon what 7841 authority the arrest, if it was an arrest, was made. May I examine preliminarily this witness?

The Court: You may.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Did you have a search warrant when you searched and removed from the defendant Weiss the papers you speak of? A. I did not.

Mr. Talley: I press my objection.

Mr. Turkus: That does not go far 7842 enough.

The Court: It does not go far enough because if the arrest was a legal one the search was entirely incident to the arrest.

Mr. Talley: I will proceed further, then.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Did you have a warrant for the arrest of Emanuel Weiss? A. I did not.

Mr. Talley: That seems to end that situation, if your Honor please.

The Court: The trouble is I don't know just what the Federal statute is in relation to arrest without warrant.

Mr. Talley: You know what the Federal statute is which prohibits any illegal search or seizure of anybody, and that would include this defendant.

The Court: That sounds more like an argument to the jury than an argument to the Judge. I know what the statute is in this State. There could be an arrest 7844 without a warrant if a felony had been committed, if the defendant had committed it. There could also be an arrest without a warrant, if I recall correctly, if there was reasonable ground to believe a felony had been committed by a person.

Mr. Talley: This is not a police officer. This is an officer of a bureau, a bureau of investigation, a bureau of Federal investigation.

The Court: That makes no difference.

Mr. Talley: Without a warrant he had 7845 no authority to make an arrest or a seizure.

The Court: You mean he has no authority to make arrests?

Mr. Talley: Without a warrant, he had no authority to make either an arrest or the seizure of papers.

The Court: You had better develop that, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: Under authority, what is the difference how the District Attorney gets this, in the State of New York it is admissible, but I steered away from arrest because I did not want anything mentioned here about me introducing possibly some other matter that would be the cause for another motion for a mistrial.

7846

Mr. Talley: I object to that statement as highly prejudicial.

The Court: Years ago there used to be arrests by public officers in places of business and the seizure of books and papers. Books and papers thus seized were used 7847 as a basis for investigation of the fraudulent use of the mails. A lot of people went to Atlanta upon conviction. But finally the Federal Court held— I don't know whether it went to the highest court, but it certainly went to the Circuit Court of Appeals—that papers so seized without a search warrant and without reasonable grounds for arrest—without legal grounds to make an arrest, to which the searching of a person might be incidental—must be suppressed upon trial as an illegal act—
7848 I will let you think it over until Monday morning because the legal point I will have to look into.

(At this point a recess was taken. The jury was admonished in the following language:)

The Court: Please do not discuss the case nor let anybody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open. Remember all the other admonitions and follow them. The defendants are remanded.

(Adjournment taken to November 17, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.)

Colloquy 7849

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 17, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

Mr. Turkus: On Saturday, at time of recess, there was a law point raised by Judge Talley.

The Court: Have the authorities been run down?

Mr. Talley: I have not checked the authorities since the Defour case; I know 7850 of no change since that.

The Court: Have counsel for the defendants run down authorities since the Defour case?

Mr. Talley: There are none.

The Court: I checked up on the statute. There appear to be none. In the Defour case it seems to be clear that the basis of the decision and the ground of distinction between the Defour and the Weeks case is that the State Court procedure does not come under any provi- 7851 sions of the Federal Constitution. The point I was conjecturing about on Saturday, which had relation to this witness being a Federal agent, and that possibly bringing his conduct, even in State Court procedure, under the authority of the Weeks case, seems to be lacking in value. Apparently, this evidence, if competent, may be taken regardless of the conditions under which the seizure was made, and the objection is overruled on that ground.

but I must see the paper that was offered in evidence to judge as to competency.

Mr. Turkus: I don't think we got to the point of offer. Judge Talley raised his objection when I asked this question.

The Court: I thought you offered the card.

Mr. Turkus: It was just preliminary to the offer.

Mr. Talley: Let me note an exception
7853 to your Honor's ruling before you go any further. I note my exception, and I object on the further ground that the testimony is incompetent.

The Court: I will look at the paper after it is offered.

Mr. Turkus: Agent Aman has the original paper.

ALBERT E. AMAN, a witness in behalf of 7854 the People, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus (continued):

Q. The question was, did you question Mendy Weiss in reference to the card? I am waiting for a yes or no answer to that. That is in reference to Item E.

Mr. Talley: That is objected to. That question is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: Has that exhibit been marked for identification?

Mr. Turkus: No, your Honor. There is a question now pending which has not been answered.

(Pending question read to the witness.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you ask Mendy Weiss in reference to that card? 7856

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor give me the same objection I have had heretofore, and I will not interrupt Mr. Turkus?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Talley: I object on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I showed him the card and I asked him what it was. He said, "That is my driver's card from Colorado." 7857

Mr. Turkus: I offer that driver's card in evidence. I ask that the original be checked and this photostatic copy be substituted and marked in evidence for the purpose of this trial. The photostatic copy thereof which was procured by the agent.

The Court: Show both the original and the photostat to counsel for the defense.

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

7858 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Q. With respect to the photostat, Agent Amen, did you have this card, the Colorado State license, photostated? A. I did.

Q. Is it an identical photostat of the original? A. It is.

Mr. Talley: My objection is pending, I take it.

Mr. Turkus: May the record first note that the original exhibit and the photo-
7859 stat have been handed to counsel for Mendy Weiss, for inspection?

The Court: Is that a true photostat?

Mr. Talley: I have no objection to the photostat being substituted for the original, but I object to the being offered in evidence.

The Court: Objection overruled.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit 42.)

Mr. Talley: Exception.

7860 Mr. Turkus: May I read People's Exhibit 42 in evidence to the jury? The original item.

The Court: You cannot pass papers around which have not been marked. You may pass around the photostat.

Mr. Turkus: May I read the original?

The Court: Read the photostat. Counsel said there is no question about it.

Mr. Turkus: (Reading) "Operator's License. State of Colorado. No. A 9 6138.

"Always carry this license with you.

"Glasses:" marked "No."

"Name in Full: James William Bell.
"Street and No.: 204 South 7th Street
"City or P. O.: Rocky Ford, Colo.
"Age: 34. Sex: M. Weight: 215. Height: 6'. "Color of Hair: Brown. Color of Eyes: Grey.
"Date of Issue: June 6, 1940. Renew license between Jan. 1 and July 1, 1943.
"Restriction, if any: None.
"Previous License No.: None.
"Date of Birth: Apr. 10, 1906. 7862
"Signature: James W. Bell"
And it says underneath signature: "Above described person is hereby licensed to operate a motor vehicle in accordance with the provisions of Section 7, Chapter 164, S. L. 1935."

Signed "George E. Saunder,
"Secretary of State."

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. On the reverse side of this original exhibit, 7863 Agent Aman, there appear to be the initials "A.E.A. 4/6/41," the initials "J. B. 4/6/41." Are those the signatures of yourself and Supervisor Bell? A. They are.

Q. Were those initials placed upon the Colorado operator's license found in the possession of Mendy Weiss, at the time it was recovered from his person? A. They are.

Q. Before I continue with the other items in there: Had you seen Weiss on April 6, 1941, at any place other than where you found him in the automobile at or near the premises 3752 Highland Street, Kansas City, Missouri? A. I did not see Weiss before I saw his car.

Q. Had you seen his car earlier on April 6, 1941? A. I did.

Q. What time did you see it? A. At about 12:30 A. M., April 6th.

Q. Where did you see his car at that time?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent,
7865 immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Directly across the street from the premises known as 3543 Olive Street, Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. Did you watch outside of that address and keep the car of Mendy Weiss under observation? A. I did.

Q. How long did you wait before you saw him? A. Until 20 minutes to 4 on April 6, 1941.

7866 Q. At 20 minutes to 4 in the morning, did you see Weiss emerge from any premises? A. I saw a group of people emerge from 3543 Olive Street and they got into various automobiles. I then saw Weiss and two women get into a Ford automobile bearing Missouri license 493 931—1941 license.

Q. Did you tail that automobile, as the expression goes? In other words, did you continue to follow it? A. I did.

Q. Did you follow it to the premises 3752 Highland Street? A. I did.

Q. Now, at that time did you have knowledge of the existence of a warrant for the arrest of Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. Was it at or about or near the premises 3752 Highland Street, Kansas City, Missouri, that you took the defendant Weiss into custody? A. It was.

Q. Was it from there you took him over to an office, without describing the nature of the office, in Kansas City? A. I did.

Q. Was it in that office in Kansas City where you recovered the various documents, purported documents, and initialed them as you have stated before recess on Saturday? A. I did. 7868

Q. Will you describe what was the appearance of the defendant Mendy Weiss at that time? A. At that time Mendy Weiss was dressed in a greyish suit, no vest; he had a moustache and wore glasses.

Q. And, in describing that appearance, was that his appearance at the time you took him into custody? A. It was.

Q. In the office in Kansas City did the District Supervisor, Joseph Bell, ask him his name? A. He did.

Q. Was it at that time he said his name was James W. Bell? A. He did. 7869

Q. During the examination of these various documents and purported documents, did District Supervisor Bell say anything to Mendy Weiss with reference to his name? A. He said, "Mendy"—

Mr. Talley: I ask that it be answered yes or no.

A. Yes.

Q. What did he say?

7870

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He said, "Mendy, why don't you cut out the kidding? We know you are Mendy Weiss."

Q. Did Mendy Weiss make any response? A. He said, "All right, I am Mendy Weiss."

Q. Was that conversation after the examina-

7871 tion of all those documents and purported documents that were found on his person, or during the course of it, if you can recall? A. It was right after I had taken these documents from his person, but I had not examined them as yet.

Q. At the time you took him into custody, did you know his true identity? A. I did.

Q. Have you the originals there? A. I gave you all of the originals in a brown envelope.

Q. Now, in addition to June 6, 1940, the Colorado license with the name of James W. Bell, did you find this (indicating) in the possession 7872 of Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. Did you initial it in his presence? A. I did.

Q. And mark the date on it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it initialed by District Supervisor Bell, and the date marked on it? A. It was.

Q. Was the defendant Mendy Weiss questioned with reference thereto? A. He was.

Q. What was he asked, and by whom?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the same ground as I stated in the beginning, that was a Constitutional ground, which I take it will apply to all of this type of evidence or testimony sought to be introduced, without the necessity of my objecting on that ground each time. May I so consider your Honor's understanding?

The Court: Yes. I shall hold throughout that the provisions of the Federal Constitution was in accordance with the opinion of the Court of Appeals in the Defour case, as written by Judge Cardozo.

Mr. Talley: I note my exception to all rulings along that line, without feeling it 7874 incumbent upon me to make the same objection as each one of these documents may be produced. In this case I object on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception, together with the grounds as stated.

The Court: Yes.

Q. Will you answer, please? A. I asked him how he happened to have this bank book or check 7875 book. He said, "I have money in the bank."

I said, "How did you happen to have it under the name of James W. Bell?" He said, "I wanted to get a book with a gold name on the outside."

I said, "How did you know such a book could be procured?" He said, "I was taken to the bank and found out about it."

Mr. Turkus: I offer in evidence the check book in the name of James W. Bell, together with the stubs and the checks therein contained, and ask that the original be deemed marked in evidence, and that there be accepted in lieu thereof in this case a true and accurate photostatic copy thereof.

7876 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection already urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

7877 Q. Before I pursue my offer, I will ask you this: Did you endeavor to take a photostatic copy of that book—that is, the leather back with the name "James W. Bell" in gold letters on it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Would it come out? A. It did not.

Q. With reference to the photostat you did take, did you take a photostatic copy of the first check? A. I did.

Q. No. 17? A. That is right.

Q. And the other checks, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, and 15, are they identical in print-7878 ing matter with that 17? A. They are.

Q. Now, Check No. 15, which is a part of it, has a lot of figures written on it. Do you know anything about those figures? A. I do not, only that they were there when I took the check book.

Q. With respect to a portion of the exhibit that contains the stubs, did you take a photostatic copy of the portion under which the stubs appear? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you photostat the stubs too? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: In lieu of the original book with a series of checks and stubs, I offer photostat of the first check and a photostat of the first sheet of the stubs. I will show them to counsel for the defendant Mendy Weiss for examination and inspection.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, together with the first ground stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: I ask they be marked as 7880
one exhibit.

(Received — two sheets — and marked People's Exhibit 43.)

Mr. Turkus: May I read that exhibit to the jury?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: This is People's Exhibit 23, and consists of two pieces. The first is a photostatic copy of a check, the first check in a series of checks. It reads: 7881
"James W. Bell"—printed on—"420 West 46 St. Terrace, Kansas City, Missouri." Check "No. 17.

"Kansas City, Kans. 194—
"Pay to the order of"—blank—
—blank — "Dollars"
"Security National Bank,
"18-92 Kansas City, Kans."

The other portion of the exhibit is that which was found on the stub register, reading:

"Check Register No."—blank—

7882 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

"This register contains the records of checks numbered from"—blank—"to"—blank—"and dated from"—blank—"to"—blank—and over, the signature of the agent, "A.E.A., 4/6/41," and "J. B., 4/16/41."

The Court: So that the jury will know what otherwise might be confusing, there is a part of Kansas City in Kansas and part of it in Missouri?

7883 The Witness: Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. Is Kansas City located at the junction of the Missouri and the Kaw? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is the dividing line? A. No, sir, there is an imaginary line also.

Q. What is that? A. It runs southward on a street known as "State Line," from the intersection of the Kaw River and the Missouri River.

Q. That is what I mean, where the Armour plant is? A. Yes, sir.

7884

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. How far is Kansas City, Missouri, from the Federal Prison at Leavenworth? A. Approximately 35 miles, not over that.

Q. I show you a book and ask you if this is one of the papers you found in the possession of Mendy Weiss under the circumstances related to the jury. A. It is.

Q. At the time of this seizure did you initial it "A.E.A." and put the date "4/6/41" on it in the presence of the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. The photostat which I now hand you, is that a true photostat of the face of that book? A. It is.

Mr. Turkus: I offer in evidence the original bank book and ask that it be deemed marked in evidence, and for the purposes of the trial a photostat of the face of it be accepted in evidence in lieu 7886 of the original. And I offer both the photostat and the original book to counsel for the defendant Mendy Weiss for inspection and examination.

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Same ruling.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit 44.)

Mr. Turkus: This is a bank book— 7887
People's Exhibit 44—of the Security National Bank, Kansas City, Kansas, in the name of James W. Bell; deposits, October 1, 1940, $1,000.

Q. Did you ask the defendant, Mendy Weiss, if that was his bank account? A. I did.

Q. Did he say it was his? A. Yes.

Q. Under the name of James W. Bell? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he tell you that was the name he was using?

7888 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: Objected to as leading.
The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. What name did the defendant Mendy Weiss say he was using? A. James W. Bell.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as leading.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

7889 Q. I hand you another card and ask you if that is another paper or card recovered from the possession of Mendy Weiss under the circumstances you have related to this jury. A. It is.

Q. Is that the original card recovered from his possession? A. One of a number.

Q. Does that contain your initials and date, and initials and date put on by Supervisor Bell? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that done in the presence of the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. It was.

Q. Was the defendant Mendy Weiss questioned with reference to that card? A. Yes, sir.

7890 Q. What was he asked and what did he say?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the grounds already stated.
The Court: Let me see the card.
Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I asked him how he happened to have this card, and if there was such a corporation. He said yes. I said, who were the other partners? "Well," he said, "I stuck $500 in there with a fellow named Walter Rainey and a fellow named Beck." I said, "Is the mine doing business?" He said, "I don't know anything about the mine. You know how it is when you are on the lam, you have to have something to cover yourself up. All I wanted was vice-president or some other office in the corporation."

Mr. Turkus: The original card is offered in evidence. I ask the Court that it be received in evidence and marked, and a true and accurate photostat substituted as the actual exhibit. 7892

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit 45.)

Q. Do I pronounce that correctly? Is that Chihuahua—that is the way it is spelled—"Chihuahua Tungsten Mining & Development, Black Hawk, Colorado. James W. Bell, Vice President." 7893

I hand you another card and ask you if this is one of the original cards you secured from the person and possession of the defendant Mendy Weiss under the circumstances already related to the jury. A. It is.

Q. Now, at the time you secured the original card on his person and under the circumstances related, did you have a talk with Mendy Weiss in reference thereto? A. I did.

Q. Will you relate to the Court and jury what you asked Mendy Weiss in regard thereto and what he responded?

7894 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Let me see the card.

(Handed to the Court.)

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

7895 A. The card is a Social Security Card, No. 5141906.

Mr. Talley: I object. The card speaks for itself.

Q. Yes. You told us what you asked him about that card. What did he tell you? A. I asked him if he was working. He said, "No, I am not working." He said, "I never work." I said, "Where did you get this Social Security card from?" He said, "Anybody can go over and get one of those things."

7896 Q. Did you go over to the place of issuance of the Social Security card and find out if that was correct, that anybody can walk in and get a Social Security card?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial, and hearsay.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Is this a photostat of the front and back of the Social Security card concerning which you have just testified? A. It is.

Mr. Turkus: Without repetition at all times in connection with the original and photostat, the photostat copy is offered in place of the original exhibit.

Mr. Talley: No objection to the photostat copy being offered in lieu of the original, but the exhibit is objected to on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 7898

(Received and marked People's Exhibit 46.)

Mr. Turkus: (Reading) "Social Security, Account No. 500-14-1906, has been established for James William Bell, 10/19/40; Worker's signature: J. W. Bell."

On the reverse side of the Social Security Account No. 500-14-1906, in red letters, "Worker's name: "James William Bell. Worker's home address: 420 West 46th Street, Ter., Kansas City, Missouri. Employer's name: (blank)." 7899

The exhibit bears the date "4/6/41," with the initials of the agent: "A.E.A,' and the supervisor, "J. B."

Q. Now, among other cards found in the possession of Mendy Weiss, was this certificate or purported certificate found in his possession? A. It was.

Mr. Turkus: I offer it in evidence.

7900 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the same grounds already urged.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: I hand counsel for the defendant Mendy Weiss a registration certificate and photostatic copy thereof for inspection and examination.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit
7901 47.)

Mr. Talley: I ask your Honor to rule. The objection is urged, and I am not sure whether your Honor ruled on it or not.

The Court: It was overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: With the Court's permission I will read Exhibit 47 to the jury:

"Registration Certificate.

"This is to certify that in accordance with the Selective Service Proclamation 7902 of the President of The United States, James William Bell—first name, middle name, last name—James William Bell.

"Number of Street or R. F. D. number—City or Town, County or State: 420 West 46th Street Terrace, Kansas City, Missouri, has been duly registered this 16th day of October, 1940." Signature of the registrar: "James H. Floyd, Registrar for the 18th Precinct, 7th Ward. City or County: Kansas City. State: Missouri." Signature on margin: "James William Bell." It says, "Registrant must sign here." Underneath the registrar's signature is this endorsement: "Be alert, keep in touch with your Local Board; notify Local Board immediately of change of address. Carry this card with you at all times. D. S. S. Form 2."

On the reverse side: "Description of Registrant: Height, 6 ft. approx. Weight, approx. 215. Race, White. Eyes, grey. Hair, brown. Complexion, ruddy. Other obvious physical characteristics that will 7904 aid in identification: 6-inch scar, lower right leg. U. S. Government, 16, 17, 105." Initialed by agent: "A.E.A." and District Supervisor, "J. B." "Date, 4/6/41."

Q. Now, did you hold a conversation with the defendant Mendy Weiss in reference to that People's Exhibit 47, the registration—the Selective Service registration card? A. I did.

Q. What did you ask him about this Selective Service registration card, People's Exhibit 47? 7905

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, no part of the issue.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I asked him if he registered from that address, 420 West 46th St. Terrace, Kansas City, Missouri, and he said "No." I asked him how old he was and he said, "Thirty-four." I asked him if he registered anywhere in the country, and he said "No."

7906 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Q. When he told you that did you ask him how he got this card, People's Exhibit 47 in evidence?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. What did he say? A. He said, "I just got 7907 it."

Q. Did he give you any further information than, "I just got it"? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go to the Selective Service Board appearing on the face of People's Exhibit 47 in evidence, namely, the board of James H. Floyd, Registrar, 18th Precinct, 7th Ward, Kansas City, Missouri, and make an investigation there? A. I did.

Q. Did you examine the records of that Selective Service Board?

7908 Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did.

Mr. Turkus: In order that we may save time, when the Judge overrules an objection, you may answer it; if he sustains it, you may not.
The Witness: Very well.
Mr. Talley: He is an experienced witness; he does not need that instruction; he knows how to answer. He knows how to conduct himself on the witness stand.

Mr. Turkus: And in investigations, too. Do you desire me to withdraw the instructions?

Mr. Talley: Not at all. I desire you to proceed with your examination.

Mr. Turkus: Will you resume your seat?

Mr. Talley: I will as soon as you put your question and I make my objection. 7910

Q. In pursuance to that investigation did you find the registration of James W. Bell, 420 West 46th St. Terrace, Kansas City?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: The witness has not shown that he knew how to examine the records or knew what particular books to look into. It will have to be shown.

Mr. Talley: It seems to me that the records themselves would be the best and only competent evidence, if he is going to disclose what is in the record. 7911

The Court: They are out of jurisdiction. Parol is admissible providing you qualify the witness, because the alleged record is out of jurisdiction.

Q. How many years have you been with the United States Government as an agent? A. About eleven and a half.

7912 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Q. How many years have you been with them since your first assignment? A. Eight years.

Q. What bureau were you in? A. The Department of Justice and the Treasury Department.

Q. What were your duties in the Department of Justice and the Treasury Department?

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

7913

A. Investigator.

The Court: The question is specifically what he knows about investigation of records of this particular kind.

Q. For the other three and a half years of your Government service with what bureau or agency have you been connected?

Mr. Talley: I object. That in no way indicates he is qualified to examine these 7914 records.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. The United States Treasury Department, Bureau of Narcotics.

Q. In the 11½ years you have been with the Government employ, have you done investigating? A. I have.

Q. And in pursuance of that and in the course of your duties, have you had occasion to check records? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What kind of records have you checked in the eleven and a half years of service?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. It would cover a very extensive latitude checking the records of banks, checking the records of boiler factories, the records of banks, 7916 the records of savings institutions.

Q. Have you checked records of the United States Government? A. I have.

Q. Have you checked records in connection with United States Selective Service registration? A. Not until this.

Q. Was that your first experience? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you check these records thoroughly?

Mr. Talley: I object; calling for a conclusion and characterization.

7917

The Court: Where did you go to see these records and what records did you see?

The Witness: I went to the local draft board in the community of 420 West 46th Street, Terrace, Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. Was it in the neighborhood embraced in that address? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what that address was embraced? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What particular book or file did you look into? A. The clerk, Miss Booker, in my presence, for a period of about one hour and a half, examined them.

Mr. Talley: I object and move to strike it out.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: It is not responsive to the question. I except.

By the Court:

7919

Q. Did you yourself check? A. I ran along all the records with her.

Q. You mean that you looked along with her to see what she was looking at? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Throughout that search? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What part of the file or books did you look at? A. There was an index file of cards, filing cards with street address.

Q. Are those in the selective draft? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Or the selective registration? A. Selective registration.

7920

Q. Did you cover the entire gamut? A. Yes, your Honor.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. What did a search, investigation and inspection of these records of the selective service records reveal?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. That there was no registration of James W. Bell, 420 West 46th Street Terrace, Kansas City, Missouri; and that there was no other James W. Bell registered.

Q. Now, you stated you kept that automobile with a certain license number under observation, and that was the automobile in which you found the defendant Mendy Weiss, in company with two women, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall what that license number was? A. It was Mo. 493931. It was a 1941 7922 license.

Q. (The Court) That was a Ford? A. Yes, your Honor.

Q. I show you a receipt and ask you if that is another one of the instruments found in the possession of Mendy Weiss under the circumstances already related by you to this Court and jury. A. It is.

Q. Was that initialed in the presence of the defendant Mendy Weiss by you and District Supervisor Bell? A. It was.

Q. This photostat I now hand you— Is that 7923 a true and accurate photostat of that exhibit? A. It is.

Mr. Turkus: That exhibit is offered in evidence.

Q. (The Court) What did you say that license was? A. 493931.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection to the offer as I made to the previous offer.

7924 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit 48.)

Mr. Turkus: May I read this exhibit to the jury?
The Court: Yes.
Mr. Turkus (Reading) "Motor Vehicle
7925 License Receipt. Kansas City, Missouri. Number 35629. 1941 Tag No. 54236. Date—It has '194' and a blank. Received of Rose Bell. Address, 3752 Highland. Amount, $500. Vehicle, Ford. Body, Sedan. Engine No. 18-58476. Horsepower, 30. Important—To transfer or replace remove license from windshield and present with this receipt. This license expires January 4, 1942. Paid, January 2nd, $5. January 25, 1941, check, $5."

7926 Q. (The Court) What is that, Tag No. 54236? A. 1941, 54236.

Mr. Turkus: (Reading) "This is a receipt only for amount certified above. H. J. Gorman, City Treasurer. Personal checks accepted subject to final payment."

By the Court:

Q. Is that an automobile license? A. It is a city tag, a city vehicle tag.
Q. Is that a city vehicle tax? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What does "tag" mean? A. They get a little tag with a number corresponding to that.

Q. That is not supposed to be a State tax? A. No, sir.

Q. A State automobile license number? A. That is just a city.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Did you question the defendant Mendy Weiss about this motor vehicle license receipt, 7928
People's Exhibit 48, in evidence? A. I did not.

Q. Who were the two women you found with him? A. His wife, Mrs. Bell, and Fay Dilley.

Q. When you say his wife, Mrs. Bell, was that the name she had? A. No, sir.

Q. What name did she have? A. She gave the name of Rose Bell.

Q. This Mrs. Dilley, is that the woman who lived at that address on Highland—3754 Highland Street—did she live there? A. The same woman.

Q. Now, on this operator's license of Colorado, 7929 issued on June 6th, to James William Bell, People's Exhibit 42, in evidence, did you go to the premises 204 South 7th Street, Rocky Ford? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you conduct an investigation of those premises? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you ascertained who lived at those premises? A. I did.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and it is hearsay.

The Court: It calls for a conclusion.

7930 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Q. All right, what did your examination disclose?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you ascertain who owned this apartment, or who leased it, 204 South 7th Street, Rocky Ford, Colorado, in pursuance of your 7931 investigation and the examination you made?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: The same ruling.

Q. Did you have a conversation with the defendant Mezady Weiss in reference to 204 South 7th Street, Rocky Ford, Colorado?

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; not binding on any matter connected with this indictment.
7932 The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not have any conversation with the defendant about that particular address.

Q. Did you, in reference to any other address?

Mr. Talley: I object on the same ground.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did, as far as 420 West 46th Street Terrace, Kansas City, Missouri, was concerned.

Q. What was discussed in reference thereto? A. I asked him if he lived there.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection on the same ground.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. And what did he say? A. He said "Yes". 7934

Q. Did he tell you how long he had been living there under the name of James W. Bell? A. No, sir, he did not.

Q. Well, now, I cannot go into the investigation you conducted in Colorado, but I will ask you if you found on the person of Mendy Weiss this prescription (indicating). A. I did.

Q. I hand you a photostat and ask you if that is a true photostat of the prescription. A. It is.

Q. Did you have a conversation with Mendy Weiss in reference to that prescription? A. I did. 7935

Q. What did you ask him about it and what did he say?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and on the further ground advocated with respect to all this line of testimony.

The Court: Let me see it.

Mr. Talley: The paper itself is not in evidence and cannot be inquired into.

The Court: There is nothing prejudicial; it is not a narcotic.

7936 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Mr. Turkus: There is no contention it is.

Mr. Talley: It should not be admitted, it has not bearing on this case.

The Court: Show it to Judge Talley.

Mr. Talley: It has a bearing—

Mr. Turkus: The Court just said in substance it has not.

The Court: It has a certain name on it. I said it was not prejudicial. It is not a 7937 narcotic prescription. It is a prescription for an ordinary cold.

Mr. Talley: It is objected to on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and having no bearing upon the issue in this case.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. The first thing is the conversation. A. I asked him what the prescription was for. He said that while he was in Colorado during the 7938 summer of 1940 he fell off a horse and dislocated his arm.

Mr. Turkus: The prescription is offered in evidence—as a photostatic copy.

Mr. Talley: I ask that it be stricken out. I object to the offer of the prescription on the grounds already stated, sir.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit 49.)

Mr. Turkus: With the Court's permission, I am reading People's Exhibit 49 to the jury. It is a prescription blank of "Dr. Geo. Wm. Bancroft.

"Physician and Surgeon

Prescription written in Latin.

Mr. Talley: Read it all.

The Court: Read it all.

Mr. Turkus: I don't know how to read it.

Mr. Talley: Why stop at the important part?

Mr. Turkus: All right, you read it. I have not got the preliminary education and training you have had. I cannot read it. 7941

The Court: It is aspirin, phenacetin and codeine, and stated in medical language:

"Acetyl sal. acid ..... .195

Acetphenetidin 065

Codeina sulph 0325

Take XII caps.

— One — 4 hrs. when having pain.

G. W. B., M.D."

Mr. Turkus: On the back of the exhibit is "Johnson English Drug Company, 134 North Tejon, Colorado Springs."

7942 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Q. Did the defendant Mendy Weiss make any statement about being in a hospital in Colorado Springs, Colorado, Rocky Ford?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He did.

Q. And what did he tell you? A. He said he 7943 fell off a horse, dislocated his arm, and had to go to the hospital.

Q. Saint Francis was it?

Mr. Talley: See how leading that is, if your Honor pleases? Objected to as leading.
The Court: Sustained.

Q. What hospital? A. He went to the Saint Francis Hospital, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Q. Is this the duplicate original hospital record which I now hand you?

7944

Mr. Talley: That is objected to as being incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, not the way to prove it.
The Court: Sustained.

A. It is.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the answer.
The Court: Strike it out.

Q. What is that paper?

Mr. Talley: Objected to upon the same ground.

The Court: He is not qualified to state.

Q. Agent Aman, did you go to Saint Francis Hospital? A. I did.

Q. You went there personally, did you? A. I did.

Q. In Colorado Springs, Colorado, right? A. I did.

Q. Did you there, in collaboration with an employee of the hospital make an inspection of the hospital records? 7946

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, no bearing on the issues here.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Did you procure this paper which is now before you on the desk, at the Saint Francis Hospital? 7947

Mr. Talley: Object to it as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. It does not make any difference where he got it.

The Court: He can say yes or no.

A. Yes.

Q. Did the hospital maintain records?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent. The witness is not qualified to tell that.

7948 The Court: He can say if he saw records.

Q. Did you see any records there?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did.

7949 Q. And did you examine the records there? A. I did.

Q. Is the record which is before you on the rail there a duplicate original record of the Saint Francis Hospital?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, not the proper way to prove records of a hospital.
The Court: He can say whether or not he compared it with the original.

Q. Did you compare it with the original? A.
7950 I did.

Q. Tell the Court and jury how you came into possession of that paper?

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Sister Salina, in charge of the records of the St. Francis Hospital, Colorado Springs, Colorado, procured the original records and said that she could not let those go out of the hospital. In my presence she typed from the original record this record and I stood and watched the comparison.

Q. Is that paper which is before you a true and accurate copy of the hospital records and a duplicate original thereof?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 7952

A. It is.

Mr. Turkus: It is offered in evidence.

Mr. Talley: Same objection to it as I urged to the other questions. I take an exception.

The Court: The only authority under which any hospital record can possibly be admitted by way of certified copy would be the Civil Practice Act applying to public records. I can not see its applicability to records of a hospital in another 7953 State, particularly when not a public but a private institution. Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that the hospital record be marked for identification.

(Paper photostat marked People's Exhibit Z-20 for identification.)

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the testimony given by this witness with respect to these records.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

7954 Q. In the conversation that you had with Mendy Weiss in which he said he fell off a horse, did he say how long he was in a hospital?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He did not.

Q. After you secured these hospital records, did you have any further conversation with him
7955 or was he out of your jurisdiction? A. He was out of my jurisdiction.

Q. I hand you a yellow sheet of paper and ask you if that is another one of the papers found in the possession of the defendant Mendy Weiss under the circumstances already disclosed to the jury? A. It is not.

Q. Was that one found by you on investigation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Under what circumstances did you procure that paper?

7956 Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. The motor number of the Ford automobile in which Mendy Weiss was riding the night that we apprehended him is 185847—

The Court: Not the contents.

Q. Not the contents of the paper, but tell us under what circumstances you secured it? A. I was going to do that.

Q. Continue. A. The motor number was 185-847630 and in checking with the Ford Motor people we learned that the car was sold by the—

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out.
The Court: Strike it out.
Mr. Talley: Direct the jury—
The Court: The jury will disregard it.

Q. As the result of investigation that you made in connection with the registration of that automobile in which you found and apprehended Mendy Weiss, did you go some place? A. I did. 7958
Q. Where was the place you went? What was the name of it and the address?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Immaterial and irrelevant, having nothing to do with the issues here; merely an endeavor by indirection to bring out testimony that the District Attorney knows or should know has no part in this case. 7959
The Court: He can say whether or not he personally examined the motor number and compared it with the motor number as stated on the tag.
Mr. Turkus: There is a pending question first.
The Court: Did you?
The Witness: I did not.
The Court: He cannot state any hearsay.

7960 Albert E. Arnan—For People—Direct

Mr. Turkus: I am not going to put in hearsay evidence. There is a pending question that has not been answered.

(Question read.)

Mr. Talley: That is objected to.

The Court: Overruled.

A. It is the Harry Grossman Ford Agency, Englewood, Colorado.

Q. Did that place maintain records? A. They 7961 did.

Q. Did you examine the records of that agency? A. I did.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you examine the records with reference to a sale of a Ford V-8 Model 01A, Del. Fordor mtr. #18-5, 847,630?

7962

Mr. Talley: Same objection. We are trying a case of a theft of an automobile here.

The Court: Yes, it is sufficiently apparent that this will lead us into a corner where we will have to stop. No more of that.

Mr. Turkus: I am merely asking for a yes or no answer.

Mr. Talley: I object to the question.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that that paper concerning which we have been questioning the witness be marked for identification.

(Photostat marked People's Exhibit Z-21 for identification).

Q. This photostatic copy of an operator's license was not found in the possession of Mendy Weiss? A. No, sir.

Q. How was that procured? 7964

Mr. Cuff: Objected to.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Cuff: Exception.

A. State License Vehicle Bureau, State of Colorado.

Q. Did you personally go there? A. I did.

Q. Are the State records there kept in the usual conduct of the office? A. They are.

Q. Did you examine the records there in conjunction with an employee of the office? A. I did. 7965

Q. Did you see the original on file? A. I did.

Q. And was that photostat made in your presence? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that an exact duplicate of the original operator's license on file with the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, State of Colorado? A. It is.

By the Court:

Q. Did you personally compare it with the original? A. I did.

Q. Did you find it to be accurate in all respects? A. I did.

7966

Mr. Turkus: It is offered in evidence.

Mr. Talley: Objected to upon the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, not the way to prove a public document.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: I am offering another photostat in lieu of that photostat because that is the one that bears the initials of the agent.

7967

Mr. Talley: If I did not object, if your Honor pleases, I object to it now on the grounds already stated.

The Court: Let me look at it. Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Photostat received and marked People's Exhibit 50 in evidence).

Q. I show you a driver's license card, and ask you if you found that on the person of Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. I show you a photostat and ask you if it is a true photostatic copy of the said license? A. It is.

Mr. Turkus: The original license is offered in evidence in that it be deemed marked in evidence and receive in evidence the photostatic copy in lieu thereof. 7976

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the ground that it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; upon the grounds already stated.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you speak to him about that particular 7979 license? A. I did not.

Q. That was among the papers and credentials, and purported credentials, found on his person, was it not?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases, calling for a conclusion; improper. I object to it as to form. It is already testified to.

The Court: Sustained on account of the word "credentials."

7980 Q. I show you this motor vehicle driver's license and ask you if that was found on the person of Mendy Weiss under the circumstances disclosed to the Court and jury? A. It was.

Q. Is this which I now hand you a true photostatic copy thereof?

Mr. Talley: Why don't you offer, Mr. District Attorney, the photostats you have without taking up the time asking if it is a photostat. I have stated no question would be raised as to the photostats being offered instead of the originals.

Mr. Turkus: All right, the photostatic copy is offered in evidence.

Mr. Talley: It is objected to upon the grounds already stated to similar documents that have been offered.

The Court: Let me see it.

Mr. Turkus: Better take the original.

The Court: The original is easier to read. Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

7982

(Photostat received and marked People's Exhibit 52 in evidence.)

Mr. Turkus: People's Exhibit 52 in evidence is the "motor vehicle driver's license, Kansas City, Mo. No. 153827 (in red type).

Q. I hand you a photostatic copy and ask you under what circumstances you secured it? A.

7984 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

From the motor vehicle division, State of Colorado.

Q. Did you secure this photostatic copy which you have just seen at the Bureau of Motor Vehicles of the State of Colorado? A. I did.

Q. Is it a photostatic copy of an original record on file with that bureau?

Mr. Talley: I object to it, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, not the proper way--

7985 Mr. Turkus: It has not been offered yet. I have a right to inquire into the circumstances under which any paper was secured.

The Court: It makes no difference if it was given to him without a personal comparison with the original. It must be certified—

Mr. Turkus: I am going to prove that he did.

The Court: Please. (To reporter) How much have you got?

7986 (Remarks of the Court read.)

The Court: —and properly authenticated as required by law. Only if he himself compared it in all details with the original record seen by him and can swear tha he found it upon such comparison to be correct, is it admissible.

Mr. Turkus: May I proceed with my examination?

The Court: Your question does not call for that information.

Mr. Turkus: I withdraw it in that form.

Q. Were you there personally at the office of the Motor Vehicle Bureau of the State of Colorado? A. I was.

Q. Were the original records of that bureau brought out in your presence? A. They were.

Q. Did you see the original record personally? A. I did.

Q Did you make a comparison of this photostat with the original record? A. I did.

Q. Is it a true and accurate photostat of the original record to your own knowledge and from your own inspection and examination and comparison? A. It is. 7988

Mr. Turkus: It is offered in evidence.

Mr. Talley: I press my objection as incompetent.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Immaterial and irrelevant and not the proper way to prove a public document. Your Honor stated if the document itself is not produced a certified copy is the only proof—

The Court: This method of proving a public document which is without the jurisdiction of the State was followed before the statutes were enacted permitting certified copies to be admitted. This required no statute. It comes under the common law rules of evidence. 7989

Mr. Talley: Common law rules of evidence with respect to proof of evidence has been supplemented by the direct and specific statutory provision which tells how public documents may be introduced.

The Court: That is supplementary. Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Photostat received and marked People's Exhibit 53 in evidence.)

Motor No. 185847630.
Inspected by, Jack Ellison."

And stamped on it July 11—one dollar fee.

Mr. Talley: July 11th, what year, 1940? I want you to add the year.

Mr. Turkus: I cannot add it if it is not there.

Mr. Talley: You just kept it back.

Mr. Turkus: You are not stating correctly for the record. Just a minute, you are going to have something on the record that is improper.

Mr. Talley: Read the date, cut out the talk and read the year.

Mr. Turkus: I cannot read it if it is not there. You read it yourself if you don't believe me. That is a fine accusation to make when you cannot even see it.

Mr. Talley: Try your case. Don't be so childish.

Mr. Turkus: When you get a little peeved you don't care what you say.

Mr. Talley: Oh, yes, I do. I am very careful what I say on all occasions. I am reading here the date 7-9-40. Date purchased was 7-9-40.

Mr. Turkus: I read that five minutes ago, if you were listening.

Mr. Talley: Where is the other date that you read? I cannot make out any year.

Mr. Turkus: Neither could I so we are in accord at last.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. I hand you a piece of paper and ask you under what circumstances you secured that paper? A. On this one I wrote to the Secretary of State, Jefferson City, Missouri.

Q. So that you did not see that actually compared with the original? A. I did not.

Mr. Turkus: I merely ask that it be marked for identification.

(Marked People's Exhibit Z-22 for identification.)

Q. I hand you a photostatic copy of an instrument—I will hand you two of them and ask you how you secured them? A. Those I wrote to the Secretary of State, Jefferson City, Missouri.

8000

Q. You did not see them actually compared with the original? A. I did not.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that it be marked for identification. Which is the Government's exhibit, the black one or green one?

The Witness: The black one.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that this be marked for identification.

(Marked People's Exhibit Z-23 for identification.)

8001

Q. I show you a physician's prescription, and ask you where you secured it? A. From Emanuel Weiss on April 6, 1941.

Q. Is that one of the papers that was secured from his person under the circumstances you have testified to? A. It is.

Q. And is this a photostatic copy which I now hand you? A. It is.

Mr. Turkus: In lieu of offering the original the photostatic copy thereof is offered in evidence.

Mr. Talley: Objected to upon the grounds already stated to similar type of evidence.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit 54 in evidence.)

8003 Mr. Turkus: With the Court's permission I shall now read People's Exhibit 54 in evidence, prescription of "George William Bancroft, M.D., Physician and Surgeon" with the same residence and same office address as I have read before, bearing the initials of the agent "A.E.A., A. E. Aman, and J.B., Joseph Bell, District Supervisors, 4/6/41."

"Rec'd of James Bell, 40.00, 9-23-40. Signed Geo. W. Bancroft, M.D.

The Phillips-Smith Drug Co., Prescription Specialists, 117 South Tejon Street."

8004 Q. I show you a receipt and ask you where you found that receipt or how you secured it? A. I secured that from Emanuel Weiss on April 6, 1941.

Q. Was that one of the papers on his person at the time that he was taken into custody? A. It was.

Mr. Turkus: The photostatic copy in lieu of the original is offered in evidence.

Mr. Talley: Let me see it, please. Objected to upon the grounds already stated; upon the further ground it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; is not the proper way to prove records of a hospital and that is what this is supposed to be.

Mr. Turkus: That is a paper taken from the possession of the defendant, not a hospital record.

Mr. Talley: It is objected to upon the grounds already stated.

The Court: Let me see it.

Mr. Turkus: That is a paper found on 8006
the person of the defendant under the circumstances described by the agent. That is a receipt, not a hospital record, a receipt which he secured under the name of James W. Bell.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Photostat received and marked People's Exhibit 55 in evidence.)

Mr. Turkus: This is a receipt of "St. 8007
Francis Hospital and Sanatorium, Sisters of St. Francis, Colorado Springs, 8-29-40.

"For services rendered James Bell" and across the face of it "Paid in full, L. Vandenberg, 8-29-40."

"Anesthetic fee, ether, 2.00

"8-29-40, X-ray, right elbow, 5.00. Fluorscope, 5.00

"Physiotherapy treatment, X-ray elbow, 5.00. 15.00 Total $17.00".

Having the initials of Agent Aman and Supervisor Bell of 4/6/41.

8008 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

The Court: May I see that again?

Mr. Turkus: I am going to renew the offer now. In view of the receipt in evidence of People's Exhibit 55, the receipt of the St. Francis Hospital and Sanatorium, Sisters of St. Francis, found on the person of James Bell, I offer in evidence the hospital records of St. Francis Hospital heretofore marked Exhibit Z-20 for identification.

8009 Mr. Talley: Same objection as already urged to it on its previous presentation and rejection by the Court.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. I show you another receipt and ask you under what circumstances you found it? A. I took it from Emanuel Weiss April 6, 1941.

Q. Same circumstances as all the other papers you testified to? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And is this a photostatic copy of the said receipt secured under those circumstances? A.

8010 It is.

Mr. Turkus: The photostatic copy, in lieu of the original, is offered in evidence.

Mr. Talley: Objected to upon the same grounds already indicated. I would like to look at the original or the photostat.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. May I see it before it is marked in evidence?

The Court: Yes.

(Photostat received and marked People's Exhibit 56 in evidence.)

Mr. Turkus: With the Court's permission I will read People's Exhibit 56 to the jury. It is dated July 24, 1940. "Received of Rose Bell eleven and no/100 dollars, one year fire & theft & compr ins. 1940 Ford DeL Fordor Motor No. 18-5,630. Std. Finance Co. (meaning Standard Finance Company) by E. R. Dragoo. $11.00."

Q. I show you a card and ask you if you found that in the possession of Mendy Weiss under the same circumstances as pertaining to all the other papers found? A. I did. 8012

Q. And is this a true and accurate photostatic copy of that card? A. It is.

Q. Did you have a conversation with the defendant Mendy Weiss in regard to that card? A. I did.

Q. What did you ask him?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled. 8013

Mr. Talley: On all the grounds urged to the seizure of the papers in question. They would apply, if apply at all, to any conversations had by this Federal agent with the person from whom he seized the documents.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I asked him if he owned a chicken farm and he said no and I said, "How do you happen to have this card with you?"

Mr. Talley: I object to any testimony with respect to any paper not in evidence.

The Court: Do you offer the paper?

Mr. Turkus: I will offer the paper.

Mr. Talley: Now I make the same objection to this paper as I made to the other papers taken under the circumstances.

Mr. Turkus: The conversation will make the paper admissible. I wanted to 8015 do it in the proper way but as long as the offer is forced upon me, I have no other recourse but offer at this time. The conversation will make it explainable and understandable.

Mr. Talley: It might be well if the District Attorney knew the proper way to discuss a paper is to put it in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: The proper way is first get the materiality of it.

Mr. Talley: That is your erroneous idea.

Mr. Turkus: I am very sorry, I am
8016 only a beginner.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Photostat received and marked People's Exhibit 57 in evidence.)

Mr. Turkus: This card says in type: "Frys" on the left side; on the right side "Broilers"; on the bottom it says "Eggs" on the left side; and on the right bottom "Hens". "Martin's indoor poultry farm. 77th and Blue Ridge, Fleming 1747."

Q. You got to the point where you related that you asked Mendy Weiss if he owned a chicken farm and he said he did not. A. That is right.

Q. When he said he did not own a farm, did you question him further in regard to this card, People's Exhibit 57?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases, upon the same grounds.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 8018

A. I asked him how he happened to have this card and he said, "Well, I go out there and buy chickens." He said, "I can call up and they will deliver them to me."

Q. Did he say that he had chickens delivered to his house?

Mr. Talley: I object to it, certainly immaterial, incompetent and irrelevant, not within any issues.

The Court: It may be relevant. I don't know. 8019

Mr. Turkus: I want to find out where the house was that these chickens were delivered to. Don't you understand, Judge Talley?

Mr. Talley: No, I don't understand. I certainly do not understand.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. He said sometimes he went there and, if he wanted to, he could call up and they would deliver chickens.

8020

Q. Did you go out to this farm, Martin's indoor poultry farm at 77th and Blue Ridge?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to, what chicken farms the agent visited.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

8021

A. I did.

Q. Did you there see the owner Louis Martin? A. I did.

Q. Without revealing the conversation, did you have a talk with Louis Martin, the owner of the indoor poultry farm? A. I did.

Q. Where was that place located, near what city? A. Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. How far out of the city limits was it? A. I judge roughly about fifteen miles.

Q. Did you go somewhere with Louis Martin? A. I did.

Q. Where did you go with him?

8022

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial, incompetent and irrelevant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. 700 West 48th Street, Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. Did you conduct an investigation with respect to a particular apartment and, if so, give me merely the apartment number?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, not within any issues involved in this trial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Apartment 302.

Q. While you were in Kansas City, Missouri, did you see an individual known as Cuppie? A. I did.

Q. What is his right name?

8024

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

A. May I correct my answer? I did not.

Q. Did you see his picture? A. I did.

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Nothing to show he knows Cuppie's picture. Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: I had an incorrect note.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the testimony.

8025

The Court: Strike it out.

Mr. Turkus: I have not finished. Strike out the testimony.

Mr. Talley: The answer that has been given to your previous question on this point.

Q. At the time that you went to premises 700 West 48th Street, Kansas City, and, specifically, apartment 302, did you have pictures in your possession of certain individuals? A. I did.

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases.

8026 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did.
Q. Did you have pictures of whom?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, entirely too far afield and speculative.
8027 The Court: That calls for a conclusion, hearsay, as to who the people were, unless he knew them personally.
Mr. Turkus: All right, I won't pursue it.

Q. Well, did you there interview—yes or no—Henry Horton, the janitor of 700 West 48th Street? A. Yes.

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases.
The Court: Overruled.
8028 Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you conduct an investigation with reference to the occupants of apartment 700 West 48th Street, Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, not within the issues here, and hearsay.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. Will you describe that moustache that the defendant Mendy Weiss had at the time that he was placed in custody and apprehended?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. It was a reddish colored moustache on his upper lip, from one end of his mouth to the other. 8030

Q. Was it a big one or a hairline moustache? A. Hairline.

Q. At the time that Mendy Weiss was taken into custody in that automobile in front of those premises, did he say something to you and District Supervisor Bell? A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Did he at any time have a conversation in which the word "cops" was used? A. Not until later.

Q. When was that? A. In an office.

Q. Was that in the office in which these exhibits that we have just put into evidence were secured? A. Yes, sir. 8031

Q. What did he say then?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, too remote.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. That was about two hours later.

The Court: What did he say?

8032 A. And he said that he had been picked up about fifteen times for various traffic violations in Kansas City, Missouri, and that each time he talked his way out.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike that out, if your Honor pleases. It seems to justify the objection I made. It is immaterial and irrelevant, being picked up for traffic violations. That puts us all in a bad spot.

8033 Mr. Turkus: This is James W. Bell talking himself out under that name, James W. Bell.

The Court: You have not hooked him up with the use of the word "Bell."

Mr. Turkus: You can only go one step at a time.

Q. Will you continue with the entire conversation?

Mr. Talley: I object to the entire conversation or any part of it.

8034 The Court: I will let it stand for the present, see if it is hooked up. Otherwise it is only interesting.

Q. Continue what he said about how he talked himself out of it?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question and object to the question itself.

The Court: Overruled. Give the entire conversation.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. The conversation started—

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases. If we are going to have the conversation, let us have it. What did he say?

The Court: Give the conversation.

Q. He said, "If I had known that you fellows were Government agents I would have ran for it and you would not have taken me so easy," and I said, "What do you mean by that?" He said, "I know damn well that if I had made a 8036 break and got into the gangway, that none of you Federal men would shoot and you would have had a hell of a time finding me from there on."

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out, if your Honor pleases, as incompetent, highly prejudicial, having no bearing upon this case whatsoever one way or the other in the remotest respect. I move for the withdrawal of a juror and a mistrial because of that testimony. 8037

By the Court:

Q. Did you say "ran"? A. Yes, sir.
Q. You mean "run"? A. Run.
Q. Did you say "gangway"? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Overruled. Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception in both instances.

Q. What is the gangway? A. An areaway

8038 Albert E. Aman--For People—Direct

between houses in the city of Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. And are they laid out in that manner? A. Generally all through the city.

Q. And was there such a gangway or areaway in front of the premises in which you apprehended Mendy Weiss in that automobile? A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

8039

Q. You don't mean areaway; you mean an alley? A. No, your Honor, the houses all have—ordinarily have a driveway on either side of the house and the garages are in the back of the lots.

The Court: In the East we call those alleyways or runways. Here when we speak of areaway we mean in front of a house, permitting a stairway to go down into the cellar. We understand you now.

8040 By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Did you have any conversation in the office in Kansas City in which the name "O'Dwyer" was mentioned by Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: Object to it as a leading question, if your Honor pleases. I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. What did Mendy Weiss say in connection with that name? A. We were talking about bringing him to New York—

Q. Don't disclose the reason, but just merely state the conversation in which "O'Dwyer" was mentioned. A. And he said, "I don't mind going back to New York except that I hate to sit between O'Dwyer and Dewey." That conversation was studded very heavily with profanity.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out this gentleman's addition to the conversation. 8042

Mr. Turkus: That was not an addition; that was a subtraction.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out the whole answer.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. In other words, you have left the profanity out? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Do you want it, Judge Talley? 8043

Mr. Talley: I do not want profanity.

Q. We will continue on without it. A. Shall I continue with the conversation?

Q. Yes, that is right. A. And he further added that O'Dwyer had been in St. Louis, Missouri, trying to make a big-shot out of himself over he, Weiss.

Q. And was that also studded with profanity? A. The entire conversation.

Q. Did he further say something to you, in the presence of Supervisor Bell, in which O'Dwyer's name was again mentioned? A. I believe that is all the conversation that I recollect at this time.

8044 Albert E. Aman—For People—Direct

Q. Did you take him to an aeroplane? A. I did.

Q. And was that aeroplane scheduled to go to New York? A. It was not.

Q. Who went with Weiss? A. It was not, not that aeroplane.

Q. Where was that aeroplane scheduled to 8045 go? A. Omaha, Nebraska.

Q. Who went with Weiss? A. District Supervisor Bell and Agent Westover.

Q. At the time that you brought him to the plane scheduled to go to Omaha, in company with District Supervisor Bell and Agent Westover, had Mendy Weiss been continually in your presence and sight? A. From the time of his being detained.

Q. Did you ever let him out of your sight once? A. I did not personally.

8046 Mr. Turkus: The witness is offered for cross-examination.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, at this point, on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, I move to strike all of the testimony of this witness upon the ground that it is not competent against that defendant nor is it binding on him.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

The Court: For reasons heretofore stated on similar motions.

Mr. Rosenthal: My motion which I make as to this witness is similar to the motions I have made throughout the trial as to the numerous witnesses who were called and who did not affect the defendant Capone, and I again renew the motion for the withdrawal of a juror on the grounds mentioned in my original motion for a severance throughout the trial.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: I respectfully except.

Mr. Talley: Shall I commence? 8048

The Court: You have only three minutes to go, so you better rest up for the next hour. Everybody kindly remain seated.

Gentlemen of the jury, luncheon will be provided. We will resume promptly at 1:30. Please do not discuss the case. Let nobody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open.

The witness may go and return at 1:30.

The jury out of the other door.

Defendants are remanded. 8049

(Recess until 1:30).

8050 Albert E. Aman—For People—Cross

(Afternoon Session Trial Resumed.)

ALBERT E. AMAN, resumed the stand and further testified, as follows:

Cross examination by Mr. Talley (continued):

Q. You told us, I think, that the office to which this man was taken by you was the office of the supervisor of your district, is that right? A.
8051 I did not say that.

Q. The supervisor of the district in Kansas City? A. It is the office of the United States Bureau of Narcotics.

Q. The supervisor of that office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Joseph Bell? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he take any part in the examination you made of the man who said his name was James W. Bell? A. I did.

Q. Did he? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he ask him questions? A. He asked him his name.

Q. Is that all he inquired about? A. He talked 8052 to him about coming back to New York.

The Court: Don't tell what he talked about; just say yes or no.

The Witness: Yes.

Q. And that was all? A. He may have asked other questions.

Q. You practically conducted the investigation and examination? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Alone? A. In his presence.

Q. And when you made the arrest, you described about waiting and watching his car, were you alone then? A. No, sir.

Q. How many other agents were with you? A. There were four others.

Q. Did any of those four others ask any questions? A. They did not.

Q. You conducted the entire inquiry and investigation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you put him under arrest, I think you said you had no search warrant and you had no warrant for his arrest, didn't you? 8054
A. That is right.

Q. But you knew there was a warrant pending? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was a warrant from the Federal Court, wasn't it, giving you jurisdiction? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that Federal Court in the Federal District of New York? A. I am not familiar with the judicial districts, but Brooklyn.

Q. Was the Eastern District of New York? A. I am not familiar with the judicial districts.

Q. Were you also advised there was a warrant 8055
in Texas for him? A. I was.

Q. You say you made the arrest and the search and seizure because of your knowledge that this warrant existed from the Federal Court of New York and the Federal Court of Texas, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you say anything to the defendant Weiss about taking him to Texas? A. Mr. Bell did.

Q. Mr. Bell offered him to take him either to Texas or to New York? A. Yes, sir.

8056

Q. And Weiss selected New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in all that you have done in this connection you were working as a Federal agent, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: I have no further questions.

Redirect examination by Mr. Turkus:

8057

Q. At the time you apprehended and made the arrest of the defendant, Emanuel Wendy Weiss, did you have knowledge of the existence of a warrant in this murder case?

Mr. Talley: I object to it.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Barshay: May I resume my motion at this time to strike out the testimony of the witness with respect to the defendant Buchalter, on the ground it is in no way binding upon him and has nothing to do with flight by the defendant Buchalter, nor is it in any wise whatever connected with him?

The Court: I make the same denial for the same reasons I have on all other similar motions. I will say to the jury again that the question of flight or hiding is applicable only in reference or in relation to the person who does it.

Joseph Bell—For People—Direct 8059

JOSEPH BELL, residing at 743 U. S. Court House, Kansas City, Missouri, called as a witness on behalf of the People, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Are you District Supervisor in the employ of the United States Government? A. I am.

Q. How long have you been attached to the 8060
United States Government? A. Approximately nineteen years.

Q. With what bureau or agency of the United States Government are you attached or connected with? A. The Bureau of Narcotics.

Q. Where are you District Supervisor? A. In Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. On April 6, 1941, did you see one of the defendants who is now in court? A. I did.

Q. Which one? A. Emanuel Weiss.

Mr. Barshay: Will your Honor give 8061 me one general objection to this man's testimony.

The Court: Yes, overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Where did you see him for the first time? A. Seated in an automobile in front of 3752 Highland Avenue, in the city of Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. At that time he was seated in the automobile were there others with him? A. There were.

Q. Who was with him? A. A woman who

8062 Joseph Bell—For People—Direct

said her name was Rose Bell and a woman named Fay Dilley.

Q. The woman who gave the name of Rose Bell, was she claimed to have any relationship by the defendant Weiss to himself? A. She said she was his wife.

Q. Do you see that woman in court? A. I do.

Q. Pick her out. A. I think it is in the second row there, the fourth woman from the aisle, to the right (indicating), with the black hat and 8063 the pin on her coat.

Q. The one with the large pin? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you stand up? A. Not that one- the one next to her, to her right.

Mr. Turkus (Addressing woman in court room): Will you stand up, please, and give your name to the stenographer?

Mr. Talley: I will give it to you. Mrs. Emanuel Weiss.

Mr. Turkus: The defendant Mendy Weiss' wife?

Mr. Talley: Yes.

8064

Q. Was there any other woman in this automobile? A. A woman named Fay Dilley.

Q. Is that (spelling) D-i-l-l-e-y? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the defendant Emanuel Weiss taken to an office in Kansas City? A. He was.

Q. At the time he was apprehended did you have knowledge of the existence of warrants against the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. I did.

Q. Where, in Kansas City, was he taken, to what office? A. Room 532 in the General Post-office Building, in my office.

Q. In your office did you ask him his name? A. I did.

Q. What name did he give you? A. Jim Bell.

Q. Were you present when Agent Aman examined certain papers and instruments found on the defendant Mendy Weiss' possession? A. I was.

Q. At any time during the course of the examination of these papers did you say anything to Weiss in reference to his true identity? A. As soon as I brought Weiss to this office I asked 8066 him his name, and he said, "Jim Bell," and I walked him over to the board and showed him his picture and asked him if he knew the individual in that picture, and he made no comment, and I said, "Well, cut out the fooling, Mendy, we know you are Mendy Weiss." He said, "Well, you've got me, I am Mendy Weiss."

Q. That picture you showed him, was that a picture of Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you found and apprehended this defendant, Mendy Weiss, in this automobile in Kansas City, will you describe to the jury what his appearance was then? A. At that time 8067 he was wearing glasses and he had a mustache.

Q. Now, that picture of Mendy Weiss you exhibited to him, did that picture have glasses and a mustache? A. It did not.

Q. Were you present and did you talk to him, together with Agent Aman, initial all the papers and documents found in the possession of Mendy Weiss, and inscribe the date of the discovery thereof upon the same? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At any time did you have any conversation with the defendant Mendy Weiss in connection with an individual known as Cuppie? A. No, sir, I did not.

8068 Joseph Bell—For People—Direct

Q. At some time during this conversation with the defendant Emanuel, alias Mendy Weiss, did you have any conversation in which the word "cops" was mentioned? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say at that time?

Mr. Talley: I object. It is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevent.

8069 The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He said at the time, "If I knew you were not cops, you would not have taken me so easy."

Q. When did he make that statement? A. Shortly after we brought him to the office.

Q. Was there a time in any conversation when he was apprised of the nature of the charge against him? A. Yes.

Q. At that time did Mendy Weiss make any response?

8070 Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

Mr. Turkus: I am referring specifically to a conversation in which the name of Judge O'Dwyer was mentioned.

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. At one time during the conversation it was said that he did not think I would believe him what he was telling me, what he was going to tell me, but he said he had intentions of surrendering at a later date when O'Dwyer, in New York, would leave office.

Q. Did you accompany him to an aeroplane? A. I did.

Q. Did you go in the aeroplane with him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did he go in that aeroplane with you? A. To New York City.

Q. Was there another agent with you? A. Yes.

Q. What was his name? A. H. V. West- 8072 over (?).

Q. Where did you, Supervisor Bell, and Westover, go with the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. When I got to New York, or when we left Kansas City?

Q. When you got to New York. A. There was some agents waiting for us at the airport and they took him into custody. I don't know where they went with him.

Cross examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. You were present when Weiss was 8073 searched? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He did not have a gun or any other kind of a weapon on him? A. No, sir, he had no gun.

Q. You say he said if he did not know you were cops you never would have taken him? A. That we would not have taken him so easy.

Q. Was anybody present with you when you showed him his picture which you say was on the wall? A. There were two or three other agents around; I don't know whether they were close enough to hear the conversation.

8074 Q. Agent Aman was with you in the room? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He was close enough to hear you, wasn't he?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as a conclusion, as to what Aman heard.

Q. Well, can you say how far away he was at that particular time? A. At that particular time 8075 I showed Weiss that picture I think he and Weiss were half of the board away.

Q. What distance do you say Weiss was from you? A. I could not say at that time because the agents were busy moving around. I think he was in the vicinity there.

Q. But you say he was not within earshot?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent and improper in form.

Q. How close was he to you? A. There were times when Aman was two or three feet away.

8076 Q. When you were showing him the picture on the wall, how close was Aman to you? A. He was close by in the room; I could not say exactly in feet or inches.

Q. Can you tell us whether two or three feet? A. He was more than three feet.

Q. Can you indicate by the rail of that jury box from where you sit how far he was away from you? A. Possibly at that particular time, as close as I can remember, would be about to the end of the jury box.

Q. The end of the jury row or the end of the jury box? A. The end of the jury box.

Q. Including the openings there? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: The far end or the near end?

The Witness: The far end.

Q. Is that picture you showed him in your room or in an adjoining room? A. That was in the large room.

Q. In the room in which the examination of him and his effects was made? A. No, sir. 8078

Q. It was not? A. No, sir.

Q. Was it the first room to which he was taken when he was brought in? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you take him first into the large room? A. Well, that is the main entrance to the office—the large room.

Q. Where was the picture that you say you showed him? A. In the large room.

Q. Was that amongst other pictures that were hanging in the large room? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was a picture issued by the Federal authorities, wasn't it? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. And had to do with some Federal offense 8079 with which whoever's picture was there related to? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you proposed to Weiss that you would take him either to Texas or New York, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was he who designated New York as the place he wanted to be taken to? A. Yes, sir, eventually, yes, he said he would go back to New York.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike out "eventually" as part of the answer as not responsive.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that it stand because it shows a discussion that extended over a period of time.

The Court: You can come back to it. He was stating an opinion. Strike it out.

Q. In addition to saying he would come back to New York, he waived extradition, didn't he?

8081 A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, he did not require the authorities to go into court to extradite him from the State of Kansas to the State of New York, or Texas either? A. That is right.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. How long was that conversation in which he finally stated he would go to New York City?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question. The word "finally" is objec-8082 tionable.

The Court: Leave out "finally".

Q. How long was it before he said he would come to New York? A. I would say around thirty-five or forty minutes.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. You were not talking to him for thirty-five or forty minutes on the question of whether he was going to New York or not, were you? A.

That was practically the substance of the conversation.

Q. All of it? A. Yes, sir, the most of it.

Q. Did you conduct the conversation with him? A. I did, and Mr. Aman.

Q. Who did most of the talking during those thirty-five or forty minutes, you or Aman? A. I would say we talked about equally; I could not say how many words each said.

Q. You think you asked twice as many questions as Mr. Aman did and got as many answers? 8084 A. I would say so.

Q. You did not turn the entire investigation over to Mr. Aman when Weiss was brought in? A. I did. I was in the office for about thirty-five or forty minutes and then I went home, and Mr. Aman talked with him for an hour or two afterwards.

Q. But in the thirty-five or forty minutes you say you were there, do you say that was taken up entirely with the question of whether Weiss would go to Texas or to New York? A. Not entirely, but I would say a good part of it, about ninety percent was. 8085

Q. Ninety percent? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Weren't you discussing the papers you had seized from his person? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was in the thirty-five or forty minutes, wasn't it? A. The discussion of the papers taken from Weiss' person did not take up much of my time because he did not have much to say about it.

Q. He was asked questions about each one of them, wasn't he? A. Yes, sir.

Q. By you? A. No, sir, Mr. Aman did most of the questioning.

8086 Joseph Bell—For People—Cross

Q. But in your presence? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that talk was the larger part of thirty-five or forty minutes during which you were there? A. I don't think that took more than fifteen or twenty minutes.

Q. How many papers did you take away from him in that session? A. I could not tell you the exact number.

Q. Probably twenty-five or thirty? A. I would say about twenty-five.

8087 Q. He was questioned about each one, wasn't he? A. Yes.

Q. In your presence? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you still say it did not take the larger part of the thirty-five or forty minutes in which you were engaged in the inquiry? A. I would say that, yes, sir.

Q. Now, after each paper was inquired into, you put your initials on each one, didn't you? A. I believe I initialed all of them.

Q. The papers that have been introduced here bear what Agent Aman said are your initials?

8088 A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you don't refute you took each one of these papers after being presented and put your initials on? A. I think I initialed all of them; I may not; I was in a hurry to go out; I had some other things to do.

Q. You did initial them during the thirty-five of forty minutes you were inquiring about that from Weiss, didn't you? A. No, sir, I initialed them after he was in another room; after we talked to him about the papers, yes, sir.

Q. The initialing was done during that thirty-five or forty minutes during which you were present at the interview? A. After the discussion about the papers.

Q. How long after? A. About two or three minutes probably.

Q. In his presence or away from him? A. No, sir, it was not in his presence.

Q. Then you were only initialing them as papers that had been brought to your office and not as papers that had been identified by him, is that correct? A. No, sir, that is not correct.

Q. Despite the fact that all these papers which 8090 have been introduced in evidence, and there are a considerable number of them which were not introduced, all bear your initials, and you say that ninety percent of the time was occupied in discussing with Weiss whether he would go to Texas or New York?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the preamble.
The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Is it your testimony that of the thirty-five or forty minutes during which you had Weiss in 8091 your office, in either room, that ninety percent of that thirty-five or forty minutes was taken up with the discussion of whether he would go to New York or to Texas?

The Court: The Court has just ruled on that. Do not repeat.

Mr. Talley: The objection was made as to the preamble of the question. This is a different question.

The Court: I sustained the objection.

Mr. Talley: Then your Honor does not wish this to be pressed? There was no objection to it.

The Court: No.

Mr. Talley: I take exception.

Q. Do you now say, Mr. Bell, that thirty-five or forty minutes of the conversation you had with Weiss, in his presence, was taken up with discussion of whether he would go back to New York or to Texas? A. I don't say all of that;
8093 I said most of the discussion was in reference to going back to New York or Texas; I did not look at any clock.

Q. Did you say about ninety percent was taken up? A. I would say about eighty percent, probably eighty-five.

Q. That was really the first thing you started to discuss with him? A. No, sir, the first thing we talked about were the papers in his possession, and his identity, and so on and so forth.

Mr. Talley: I have no further questions.

8094 Mr. Barshay: I renew my motion to strike out this witness' testimony on the grounds heretofore set forth. May I ask your Honor to instruct the jury, referring to the testimony of this witness, in the same manner as you did with respect to the testimony of Mr. Aman?

The Court: The same ruling; the same instruction.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I make a similar motion to the one I made with respect to Agent Aman's testimony?

The Court: Yes. As to flight or hiding, neither Buchalter nor Capone can be linked up unless it be shown that they were instrumental in it, under Section 2 of the Penal Law.

Mr. Rosenthal: I assume your Honor makes the same ruling as you did with respect to Agent Aman when I made the motion?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Rosenthal: Then your Honor overrules the objection, and I take an exception. 8096

The Court: Yes.

JAMES C. RYAN, residing at 90 Church Street, Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York, called as a witness on behalf of the People, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Are you employed by the United States Government? A. Yes. 8097

Q. In what bureau or agency? A. I am with the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, the Treasury Department.

Q. Where is your office? A. Number 90 Church Street, New York City.

Q. Did you see the defendant, Emanuel Mendy Weiss, some time during the month of April, 1941? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you see him? A. I saw him on the night of April 5, 1941.

8098 James C. Ryan—For People—Direct

Q. Where did you see him for the first time? A. I saw him when he disembarked from a plane at La Guardia Field, at about 8:30 or so in the evening.

Q. At the time he got out of the plane at La Guardia Field, did he have a mustache on him then? A. I believe he did—I don't recall exactly; I believe he did.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out.

8099 Mr. Turkus: I have no objection.

The Court: Strike it out.

Q. Did you go some place with the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. He was turned over to me and I accompanied him to the Federal detention quarters, 11th and West Streets, New York.

Q. Did you bring him inside? A. Into the detention quarters, yes, sir.

Q. Did you see him remove certain possessions from his pocket? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. What did he remove? A. He was requested

8100 to surrender all his personal property before being admitted into the prison, and I saw him remove a diamond ring, I can recall, a buckle with a diamond signet on it, and about $2700.—$2713. in cash.

Q. $2713. in cash, do you remember the denomination of one specific bill?

Mr. Talley: I object. It is immaterial, incompetent and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I recall particularly there was a one thousand dollar bill and there were several one hundred dollar bills and other smaller bills, and about two dollars in change.

Q. That diamond studded— Was that a diamond studded belt buckle?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

8102

A. It was a star which was outlined in diamonds.

The Court: Is the purpose of this to connect up that one thousand dollar bill?

Mr. Turkus: No, to show the amount of money he had under the name of James W. Bell, to enable him to continue this flight; similarly, the disguise of the mustache; assuming the identity of James W. Bell, and all the papers under the name of Bell.

8103

Mr. Talley: I object. That is an improper statement from the District Attorney.

Mr. Turkus: So he could go away on flight.

Mr. Talley: I ask your Honor to instruct the jury to disregard it.

The Court: I am asking for this reason—the pass book showed that in October, 1940, there was one deposit of $1,000. The check book shows there were some withdrawals, and the check book apparently does not account for the expenses that he may have reasonably been put to. Now, you say when he was brought here he had $2,713. in cash, and he had jewelry in addition, diamonds, which could be changed into terms of currency. From your argument, you are preparing to show continued flight and hiding?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, and bearing in mind the further admissions he made to District Supervisor Bell as to what he would 8105 do when O'Dwyer went out of office, showing how long he intended to stay away on his flight.

The Court: The reason for my inquiry was that you mentioned a specific bill. I did not know whether you were making a particular note of that.

Mr. Turkus: No, sir, that is different money entirely.

The Court: The thousand dollar bill was part of the $2,713. in actual cash in his pocket?

8106 Mr. Turkus: Yes, sir, that is right.

The Court: The objection is overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Cross examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. You are not a diamond expert? A. No, sir.

Q. You don't know whether these stones and rings you described were diamonds or imitations? A. I was only guided by the defendant's own statement.

Q. You took his statement, of course, that they were diamond rings? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: No further questions.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out this witness' testimony on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, on the grounds heretofore stated with respect to the testimony of the other agents.

Mr. Rosenthal: I make the same motion as regards Mr. Ryan.

The Court: Same ruling.

Defense Counsel: Exception.

8108

By Mr. Talley:

Q. After you lodged Weiss in the Federal Detention Prison on West Street, Manhattan, did you accompany him anywhere the next morning? A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Was he arraigned in any court, as far as you know? A. I believe he was. I cannot say of my own knowledge.

Mr. Talley: Then don't guess at it. Nothing further.

8109

Mr. Rosenthal: May I have the same motion as heretofore and exception?

The Court: Same ruling and exception.

8110 Thomas J. Winne—For People—Direct

THOMAS J. WINNE, residing at 2667 Morris Avenue, Borough of Bronx, City and State of New York, called as a witness on behalf of the People, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. What is your business or occupation? A. A custodial officer.

8111 Q. Where are you employed? A. Federal Detention Headquarters.

Q. Is that in the employ of the United States Government? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many years have you been in the employ of the United States Government? A. About three and a half years.

Q. How many years have you been at the Federal Detention Pen? A. One year and a half.

Q. On or about April 6, 1941, did you see the defendant Mendy Weiss in your institution? A. Yes, sir.

8112 Q. Were you there when he was admitted thereto? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have a conversation with him there in reference to his personal belongings and valuables? A. I made him check them off out of his pocket.

Q. When you made him check them out of his pocket, what did you see?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, no bearing upon the issue we are here to try.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Several pieces of jewelry and some cash.

Q. Several pieces of jewelry, what were they? A. A watch, a ring, a belt buckle.

Q. What kind of a ring was it? A. A diamond ring.

Q. What kind of a belt buckle was it? A. It may have been a gold buckle with a stone in it.

Mr. Talley: I move to strike it out.

Mr. Turkus: Consented to.

8114

Q. Tell me whether or not the belt buckle, to your knowledge, was adorned or embellished by anything. A. It had a diamond in it and some kind of an emblem.

Q. Was the emblem made out by diamonds? A. That I would not know.

Q. Was Ryan present when this went on? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Ryan is the agent who just preceded you on the stand? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much cash did you first see? A. I saw several bundles of cash.

8115

Q. Was the defendant Mendy Weiss taken through some kind of a machine? A. We do that, yes, sir.

Q. Is that what discloses the presence of metal? A. Weapons.

Q. When he was taken back from the machine did you see the amount of cash and where it came from? A. He checked the property.

Q. How much cash was there? A. Approximately $2700.

Q. Do you remember a specific bill, a large bill? A. There was one large bill, a thousand dollar bill.

8116 Thomas J. Winne—For People—Cross

Q. Did you see where the cash came from? A. No, sir.

Q. It came from his person, however? A. Yes, sir.

Cross examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Is your name Westpaul? A. Wynne.

Q. You are a prison keeper over there in the Federal Detention Pen? A. Yes, sir.

8117 Q. Since April 6, 1941, have you been continuously employed in this Federal Detention Prison on West Street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know that the defendant Weiss has been kept there in custody since that time up to the present day, don't you? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I move to strike out this man's testimony on the grounds heretofore urged, not binding upon the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: The same ruling.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

8118 Mr. Rosenthal: I renew my motion, your Honor. Will your Honor make the same ruling?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: The People of the State of New York rest.

The Court: I will take the defense of the defendant Buchalter first. The defense will be taken up in the order in which the names appear on the indictment.

Mr. Rosenthal: There are motions to be made first, I understand.

The Court: The motions will be made in the same order.

Mr. Talley: I am not going to make a motion now. I want to call your Honor's attention to the fact, on behalf of the defendant Weiss, that certain D.D. four forms used by the Police Department were asked for. My understanding is that your Honor directed that they be produced. I would like before the People rest entirely to get a report as to whether we are to 8120 have them here.

The Court: I am trying to recall. Are they under subpoena?

Mr. Talley: Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor had an extended discussion on the D.D. fours. At the time there was a hectic discussion in the absence of the jury. There was no ruling made, as Judge Talley said.

The Court: I am under the impression that from time to time during the trial—I am trying to recall—different counsel 8121 got a number of subpoenas duces tecum, and that those included the D.D. 4. Am I right?

Mr. Talley: You are right, Judge. I want them produced, so your Honor can examine them, if you will not turn them over to us. We would like you to examine them with regard to our contention that there are certain inconsistencies therein set forth with certain testimony given on the trial. If you find those inconsistencies, I assume your Honor will regard it as your duty to turn them over to us.

The Court: Mr. Turkus, have you them?

Mr. Turkus: Yes (producing papers to Court).

May I say this— These are D.D. 4's and 5's in the Rosen case, marked People's Exhibit Z-19 for identification, which are handed to the Court for inspection.

8123 The Court: Isn't this part of the defendants' case, properly?

Mr. Turkus: It is.

Mr. Talley: It is for an examination of one of the People's witnesses, whom I want to recall if the information is in those forms, or any of them, which I expect will be there.

The Court: You mean what witness?

Mr. Talley: Mrs. Rosen is the witness.

The Court: Are these all D.D. 4's and D.D. 5's in the Rosen case, all of them?

8124 Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: What particular point in the testimony of Mrs. Rosen are you seeking to contradict?

Mr. Talley: The description she gave of the defendant Weiss, the man whom she said fit Weiss's description, the man who was in the shop the night before the killing.

The Court: The first thing I pick up has no relation whatever. I cannot wade through all these papers. They will have to be sorted out and the particular D.D.

4's which have reference to the description given by Mrs. Rosen will have to be shown to the Court. I am not supposed to search to the bottom of a barrel to find a piece of china.

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor permit counsel for the defendants, or one of them, to go over the papers?

The Court: I am addressing Mr. Turkus. I am not going to search through this bunch of papers for a needle in a hay- 8126 stack. Mr. Turkus can hand me the proper paper in which the description given by Mrs. Rosen is stated.

Mr. Turkus: I will have to wade through them too.

The Court: Then I will take the defense, and check this up later. In the meantime I will instruct that Mr. Turkus, after hours, go through all these papers and find the description in the D.D. 4 given by Mrs. Rosen of the person who came in to buy the one cigarette and made 8127 a couple of trips—I think that is what she said.

Mr. Rosenthal: There was one other thing which your Honor directed the District Attorney to let you know this morning, as to whether or not, in respect to the witness Magoon, who claims he had been asked questions, given answers, and signed them—whether that statement exists in the District Attorney's office, and if so it was to be produced, and I was to be given an opportunity to further examine Mr. Magoon.

8128

Colloquy

Mr. Turkus: That was delegated to Assistant District Attorney Klein, who can respond.

Mr. Klein: I made a complete search and check-up of the statements made. I repeat that there is no such statement in the Rosen case.

The Court: The jury will be excused for the motions.

(The jury then left the court-room.)

8129 Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, now that the jury has left the room I want the record to show that during the voir dire examination of the jury, each and every juror, including both alternates, were apprised by counsel for the defendant Lepke of prior convictions of that defendant and his incarceration for a term of approximately 44 to 70 years in jail as a result thereof. The record should show that without the recourse of going through the entire voir dire examination of each and 8130 every juror.

The Court: That was discussed freely from the very start of the selection of the jury, and, as you said, in the questioning of talesman by the defense counsel.

Mr. Turkus: That is right. I want the record to properly reflect that.

Mr. Climenko: I will move to strike out first, before I make my motion.

Your Honor, on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, I move to strike from the record all of the testimony of the witness Maguire, on the ground that it is not binding on the defendant Buchalter by reason of the fact there is no proof that the witness Rubin was induced to flee the jurisdiction for fear that he might become a witness in this case.

The Court: We are up against a practical proposition here. In order to form any impression as to the manner in which details of testimony apply to one rather than against all, or rather than against the others, it will be necessary for the 8132
Court to make a minute and detailed study and review of the entire evidence for the People. It is not practical to make intelligent rulings on motions of this kind at this time. That can wait until the charge to the jury. Counsel knows this as well as the Court does.

Mr. Climenko: With that understanding, we will be very glad to reserve these motions until the close of the entire case.

The Court: Then there may be some question about the form of the motion. I 8133 don't think it is properly a motion to strike out as against one or two, but rather an application to charge the jury as to whether or not certain parts of the testimony fail to connect one or two of the defendants.

Mr. Climenko: I think that comment does apply to a good many of these matters.

The Court: It is like the piecing together of the parts of a watch—in fact, it is a jigsaw puzzle.

8134 Motions to Dismiss Indictment

Mr. Climenko: We have nothing further to say at this time. We will be glad to do so.

The Court: Supposing we make a blanket rule now that the Court is not in a position to make any ruling at this time to strike out any evidence or declare its applicability as to any individual defendant or defendants. That will be taken up later when the Court is preparing its 8135 charge to the jury.

Mr. Climenko: It is our right to make a motion.

The Court: Your rights will be preserved.

Mr. Climenko: We have no objection to that procedure.

On behalf of the defendant Buchalter we now move to dismiss the indictment upon the ground there has been failure on the part of the People to prove the commission of the crime alleged as against 8136 him. We also move at this time to dismiss the indictment as against him upon the ground there has been a failure of proof of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Climenko: And at this time, on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, we move for the direction of a verdict of acquittal upon the ground that there has been a failure of proof of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, as a matter of law.

The Court: Motions denied.

Mr. Climenko: Exception to the denials.

The Court: Motion on behalf of Weiss?

Mr. Talley: I make the same motions on behalf of the defendant Weiss as were made on behalf of the defendant Buchalter. I make the further statement that I renew all motions made during the course of the trial to strike out the various portions of the testimony which we claim should have been stricken out as not applicable to the defendant Weiss and not having any bearing on matters herein named in the in- 8138 dictment. We make the same motion on behalf of the defendant Weiss as was made on behalf of the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: On all except the last-mentioned motion, the motions are denied. On the last motion, I do not recall at this time whether or not, in any detail of the evidence, anything was taken subject to connection without being later connected. I think not. So I will deny the motion. If you find there is any such item of evidence, you may later renew that motion. 8139

Mr. Talley: I make a further motion to dismiss the indictment and for the discharge of the defendant Weiss upon the ground there is no credible evidence adduced on behalf of The People against the defendant Weiss except what comes out of the mouths of admitted and acknowledged accomplices to the crime; and there is no independent evidence other than the testimony of accomplices that in any way tends to connect the defendant Weiss with the commission of the crime named in the indictment.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception to the denial of all of my motions and each of them.

Mr. Climenko: May the record show, on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, that I move similarly to dismiss the indictment upon the ground that the only testimony adduced against him was testimony of alleged accomplices.

The Court: Motion denied.

8141

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Mr. Rosenthal: On behalf of the defendant Capone at this time I move to dismiss the indictment and for the direction of a verdict of acquittal upon the ground that The People have failed to prove sufficient facts against the said defendant to warrant the submission of the case to the jury; and upon the ground that the proof is insufficient as a matter of law, in view of the fact that the only testimony in this case in so far as that defendant is concerned, is that of the witnesses Bernstein, Berger, Rubin, Tannenbaum, and Magoon, and that the testimony of Bernstein is that of an accomplice as a matter of law; that the testimony of the witness Tannenbaum relates to the knowledge of the defendant two years subsequent to the alleged killing; that the testimony of the witness Rubin is that he merely saw the defendant on two occasions, the last being in the fall of 1935, one year before the killing. The testimony of the witness Berger is simply to the effect that on one occasion he saw him in company of the co-defendant Weiss; that Magoon's testimony, which seeks to be independent testimony, is insufficient as a matter of law to supply the type of independent evidence required by law to warrant submission of the case, in so far as the defendant Capone is concerned, to the jury as a matter of law.

8142

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

At this time, in view of the fact there 8144 have been some thirty-odd witnesses, of which only the number mentioned above related to the defendant Capone—in view of the fact there have been fifty-six exhibits, none of which in fact relate to the defendant Capone, and the volumes of testimony that has been adduced here that has been prejudicial to the rights and interests of that particular defendant, I again renew my motion which was made prior to this trial, for a severance. I again renew my motion for a mistrial and 8145 the withdrawal of a juror and for a severance upon the grounds heretofore mentioned by me.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Rosenthal: Exception.

(The jury then returned to the Courtroom.)

The Court: I will take the defense of the defendant Buchalter.

8146 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

JOHN J. FEGAN, residing at 5503 Thirty-first Avenue, Woodside, Borough of Queens, City and State of New York, called as a witness in behalf of the defendant Buchalter, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Climenko:

Q. By whom are you employed? A. The New York Telephone Company.

8147 Q. For how long have you been so employed? A. Over 35 years.

Q. Did you appear here today pursuant to subpoena duces tecum which was served upon your employer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does that subpoena call for the production of such records as may be in the possession of your employer with respect to facilities rented to the New York & New Jersey Clothing Trucking Corporation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in pursuance of that subpoena, have you produced certain records here? A. I have some index cards. That is about the only rec-8148 ords we were able to find that are available.

Q. May I have them? A. (Witness hands counsel papers.)

Mr. Climenko: May the two cards now produced by the witness be marked temporarily for identification?

(Received and marked Defendants' Exhibits Z and Z-1 for identification.)

Q. Now, did you, pursuant to that subpoena, look for any other record with respect to the account of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company with your employer, the New York Telephone Company? A. A complete check was made by the office.

Q. Were any other records found than these? A. None.

Q. In the regular course of business of the New York Telephone Company are index cards such as the ones which have now been marked for identification, as Defendants' Exhibits Z and Z-1 for identification—are they regularly made 8150 and filed with respect to certain types of accounts? A. They are.

Q. What types of accounts? A. Where there are some outstanding charges due to the company.

Q. Are those kept in the regular course of business? A. They are.

Mr. Climenko: I now offer them in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: I object. The proper foundation has not been laid for the receipt of 8151 these exhibits. Defendants' Z and Z-1 for identification.

The Court: Will you be more specific in your objection?

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor look at them? I say there has been no proper foundation laid, that this witness has no knowledge of any of the contents of the alleged record cards; they do not disclose he personally made them up or what relevancy they have to the issue.

8152 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

The Court: I assume this has to do, Mr. Climenko, with the testimony of the decedent's daughter.

Mr. Climenko: Yes, your Honor.

The Court: Mr. Climenko, let me ask you first about this SPring 7-0123. Do you know what I mean?

Mr. Climenko: Yes.

The Court: Do you mind telling me what this applies to?

8153 Mr. Climenko: I know only that which I have learned from the witness. Apparently it was what is known as a pay box telephone which had been subscribed for by that corporation, and the service at that pay box was discontinued by reason of the failure of the corporation to pay its obligation thereunder, and the regular telephone service was suspended by reason of default in payment of a larger obligation.

The Court: There is very little here on that. I don't see that.

8154 Mr. Climenko: But the witness can tell you, I think, by reason of his acquaintance with custom or bookkeeping traditions of the business, that there are symbols on that card which indicate to him, though they would not to you or me, the type of service there was. There are a series of identical digits there which have some significance to him or anybody as well versed as he is with the bookkeeping habits of the company.

The Court: Can you tell me what the number 2 9317 means?

Mr. Climenko: I have made no inquiry about that, but I assume it is the subscriber's telephone number.

The Court: There is nothing on the face of these cards which, so far as I can see now, in any way contradicts anything testified to by that witness.

Mr. Climenko: Perhaps I can lay the foundation.

The Court: Offer them later, if they are connected up. 8156

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, may I recall to your Honor's attention at this moment—if I am wrong in my assumption as to what is in your Honor's mind—that there is a direct issue apparently created by the testimony of one witness as to the condition of this business in April of 1932, and this proof goes to that issue. I said one witness; there were two.

The Court: There is nothing on the face of the card to indicate it.

Mr. Climenko: The face of the card, I think, does indicate it, but I think I will proceed to inquire of the witness, if your Honor pleases, and then perhaps your Honor's feeling about it may change. 8157

The Court: Go ahead.

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. Now, in the regular course of business of the Telephone Company, Mr. Fegan, assume that a subscriber, at the end of a month or whenever a bill is payable, fails to pay his bill, what happens?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.
The Court: Overruled.

By the Court:

Q. How long do you wait for your money before shutting off service? A. It all depends, your Honor, upon the credit of the account. Usually 30 days, sometimes sooner, sometimes a little later.

8159 Q. The middle of the month is the usual time, isn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Not 30 days? A. Sometimes we go that long, depending upon circumstances.

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. Mr. Fegan, will you try to talk so we can hear you back here? Mr. Fegan, assume that an account has its service cancelled, you cancelled the service because of non-payment of a bill; in that event are cards made, customarily, such as these cards which are now marked Defend-8160 ants' Exhibits Z and Z-1 for identification? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the same time, are the regular records with respect to that account retained or preserved for a certain period of time? A. They are.

Q. And regularly, in the regular course of business for your employer, for how long a period? A. Usually six years.

Q. At the end of six years, what happens to the other records with respect to that account where service has been discontinued by reason of default in payment for service? A. Usually destroyed.

Q. At the same time when service is discontinued and these cards are made, what is done with these cards? A. They are used for checking purposes in the event that the customer applies for telephone service again.

Q. In other words, counterparts of these cards are referred to various parts of your employer? A. We retain them. All is checked through our office for checking.

Q. At the present time or as of the time when that subpoena was served on the New York Telephone Company, were there any records in existence with respect to the account of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company with the Telephone Company other than these cards? A. No, sir.

Q. These were the only records? A. That is right.

Q. And the other records had been destroyed in accordance with the bookkeeping practice of your company; is that correct?

8163

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He has no knowledge of it. He says they are usually destroyed.

By the Court:

Q. What is your job there? A. I am a representative.

Q. That does not mean anything.

Mr. Climenko: I withdraw the question.

8164 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

Q. That is too indefinite. What do you do? Are you a bookkeeper? A. No, sir, outside representative.

Q. Do you keep the records? A. No, I interview customers; assigned to detailed inside work occasionally.

Q. Do you have anything to do with the bookkeeping system? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Climenko:

8165

Q. Do you have to do occasionally with the collection of delinquent accounts? A. I do.

Q. In the past four years has it been your job to work with the house attorneys for the Telephone Company? A. Correct.

Q. Have you had other occasion to look for records or discontinued accounts? A. That is right, sir.

Q. Before that, were you for about 35 years working directly with the Telephone Company? A. Yes, sir.

8166 Q. Are these records, Z and Z-1 for identification, records of the discontinuance of service by the Telephone Company, of facilities theretofore rendered to New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company? A. They are.

Q. And do these records show the state of the account as of the time when service was discontinued?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That is something he would not know.

The Court: He is not qualified. Sustained.

Q. Is this the only type of record, referring now to Defendants' Exhibits Z and Z-1 for identification, retained by your company with respect to any delinquent accounts—

Mr. Turkus: That is already answered.

Q. —for a period of more than six years after the delinquency occurred?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered. 8168

The Court: That is what he said.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, I now make a re-offer into evidence of these cards, because it now appears that these are records with respect to the status of that account.

Mr. Turkus: The objection is renewed that no proper foundation has been laid for the receipt of the instruments, and, further, no relevancy to the issue.

The Court: He is not qualified on that. Sustained. 8169

Q. Are these records, Z and Z-1 for identification, kept in the regular course of business by your company? A. They are.

The Court: You see, Counsellor, now "in the regular course of business," if there was anything on them to say that the account was discontinued, that would be different, but there is nothing whatever to say that service was discontinued.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases,

8170 may I invite your Honor's attention to the matter and data set forth on the 4th line of each of these cards?

The Court: I will look at it again. I have studied it carefully. Oh, I beg your pardon. Counsellor, I did not notice that. That is further over on the line and in fine print.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, in view of the witness's statement as to 8171 the conduct and the habits of the Company as to the keeping of records, the fact that these are the only records that exist, the character of the records themselves, I re-offer them in evidence at this time.

Mr. Turkus: I object now on the ground of relevancy.

Mr. Climenko: If that be the point of objection, will your Honor hear me on that?

The Court: Yes, on the ground it is 8172 conjecture, because anybody can have the telephone service shut off due to neglect of payment, and furthermore, the cards don't show that the service was actually cut off. It does not state in that fine print whether that is a proviso or an accomplishment, whether the term was in future or whether in the past tense.

Mr. Climenko: Will your Honor take it subject to connection?

The Court: Maybe you have had your telephone cut off at some time because you have been too busy to send a check.

Mr. Climenko: Will your Honor take it subject to connection?

The Court: You can mark them for identification, but I cannot let them be received as evidence on the ground that it is conjectural and it does not contradict anything testified to by Rosen's daughter.

Mr. Climenko: May I have an exception, your Honor?

The Court: Yes. 8174

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. Do you know from the records of your company—

The Court: Except this. Pardon me. This comes to mind: that she testified that in the early summer of 1932 came this alleged conference off of Broadway in which the books were thumbed over and there was a discussion and she was told to go out. She said from that time on the business went down and her father left about three months later. The card has relation to that, but is corroborative rather than contradictory. 8175

Mr. Climenko: On the contrary, your Honor, it shows there was no telephone service then existing at the time, and it was her testimony that her father did telephone to her at the place of business.

The Court: That does not show it.

8176 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

You can cut off service and restore it the next day.

Mr. Climenko: All things are possible. This shows that the service was cut off.

The Court: Maybe for an hour, maybe for a minute, maybe for a week. You do not know how long.

By Mr. Climenko:

8177 Q. Did you look for all the records of your Company with the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc.? A. The check was made, not by me personally.

Q. Were there any records in existence other than these cards Z and Z-1 for identification?

Mr. Turkus: He cannot answer that, because he did not make the check.

The Court: Sustained.

8178 Q. All right. Who makes the check, Mr. Fegan? Do you know his name? A. Usually delegated to some employee in the office.

Q. Do you know the name? A. Could be delegated to two or three.

Q. Could you give us the names of the persons who actually made the check in this instance? A. I could not.

Q. I mean the two or three who might have. A. No, I cannot say who made the check in this particular case.

Q. Could you find that out for us? A. I could.

Q. I mean after you leave here? A. I could.

By the Court:

Q. Will you let Mr. Climenko know? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Because he wants to get the right one here to testify. A. I will be glad to.

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. Is it the custom, after a service has been reconnected or reestablished, to make a note of that fact in the records of your company? A. On those records that you have? 8180

Q. On any records. A. Where there is a very definite record indicating that the customer did have service at one time.

Q. Is there any record in the possession of your company to the effect that this company, the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, at 2 Washington Place, had telephone service after April 3, 1932?

Mr. Turkus: Object to it. He has already testified these are the only two records he knows of. 8181

The Court: He has not qualified as having knowledge of any records. Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

The Court: Apparently he is just a messenger, so far as this case is concerned.

Q. Are you presently employed by the house attorneys for the New York Telephone Company? A. Correct.

Q. And is it the business of those attorneys to collect delinquent accounts whenever possible? A. That is right.

8182 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

Q. Do you know whether the delinquent account of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company was ever paid?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

8183 Q. Did the attorneys by whom you are employed and for whom you work make effort to obtain collection of delinquency owed by New York & New Jersey Transportation Company?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

Q. To the New York Telephone Company, if you know.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. That takes into evidence something not yet testified to or appearing.

8184 The Court: Yes, he has not shown he is qualified.

Mr. Climenko: I asked him if he knew, your Honor.

The Court: With all the many, many thousands of accounts, millions, how would he remember nine years later—

Mr. Climenko: Well, if he knows. That is the question.

The Court: —have any independent recollection whatsoever about a specific account?

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember anything about this account? A. I don't your Honor.

Q. Did you ever handle it? A. No, your Honor.

Q. Are you here simply on some cards someone gave you to bring over? A. Yes, your Honor.

Q. No personal knowledge? A. No, sir.

8186

The Court: Apparently you have the wrong witness.

Mr. Climenko: I would like to press it, if I may. Perhaps we can save some time.

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. Who makes out these cards, cards of this character, Defendants' Exhibits Z and Z-1?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. It makes no difference who makes them out under the circumstances. This witness has no personal knowledge of them. 8187

By the Court:

Q. Do you know who made that one out? Can you tell by the handwriting? A. It is typed, your Honor. I could not tell.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, I now propose to show the system.

The Court: Counsellor, don't you see this is a tremendous—

8188 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Climenko: Your Honor, I don't think under the rules of evidence I have to call all of the specific employees of the Telephone Company and a full accounting staff.

The Court: Don't you realize by this time that the man is simply a messenger so far as these cards are concerned? Somebody said, "Here are two cards. Bring them over." You have the wrong 8189 witness. You can no doubt take it up with the Company and have some chance, even at this late date, of finding the right witness.

Mr. Climenko: I have no doubt of that but I thought we might obviate all that by having him tell, if he knows, what the system is. Then the cards may be competent, even though he had nothing to do personally with composing them, if he knows. He has been there a long time. I merely want to spend a couple of minutes.

8190 The Court: Go ahead. See if you can authenticate them.

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. In the ordinary course of business, Mr. Fegan, when are cards of the type of Defendants' Exhibits Z and Z-1 for identification made up by the Telephone Company? A. When the account is cancelled and the bill has not been paid.

Q. And not until then are cards of this type composed; is that correct? A. That is right.

8191

By the Court:

Q. You don't mean "cancelled," do you? You mean temporarily discontinued. A. Terminated, your Honor. That is before the account is actually terminated. There is a time when the service is interrupted for a short period. We don't prepare cards. It is only when an account is actually cancelled.

Q. After this temporary termination of the account? A. That is right.

Q. There is a lapse of time? A. Right, your Honor.

Q. And then if, on the expiration of that other length of time, the account has not yet been paid, then the account is marked "cancelled"? A. Right.

Q. And the cards are filled out and sent to the Collection Department? Is that what these cards are? A. That is right.

Q. Then what happens when the customer pays? A. The cards are removed from the file.

Q. And put where? A. They are put in a file as destroyed within a recent period.

8193

Q. Are the cards then returned from the attorneys' office? A. The collection attorneys' office handles those particular accounts.

Q. Then the collection attorney hands those cards back to the Company? A. We are part of the Company.

Q. I understand that. A. No, we just file the cards, case closed, account paid.

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. In this particular instance these cards were never returned to anybody, were they?

8194 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. He is a messenger. He does not know the first thing about these cards.

Mr. Climenko: All right, if he knows. He is a little bit more than a messenger.

Mr. Turkus: I do not mean to disparage the man. In this specific case I urge he is nothing more than a messenger who has delivered these cards to the court house. He does not know where they came 8195 from, who dug them out, what file they came out of, if they are accurate, or whether they should have been destroyed or not. He knows nothing of the situation.

The Court: Let us find out.

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. Mr. Fegan, may I direct your attention, invite your attention to the fourth line of each card, and call your attention to the fact— (To Mr. Turkus) Would you mind waiting until I get finished?

8196

Mr. Turkus: I will.

Q. I call your attention to the fact that each card has a date on that fourth line on its right hand side and a later date on its left hand side, and is that the way these cards are usually composed, and may I invite your Honor's attention to that?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the question.

Mr. Climenko: Then I withdraw the question and I submit them to your Honor.

By the Court:

Q. In your precise connection, Mr. Witness, with the telephone company, does the handling of the cards go through you? A. No, your Honor.

Q. Do you have anything to do with it? A. No, your Honor.

8198

Q. Do you go out with these cards and ask anybody for money? A. No, your Honor.

Q. Do you do any of the collecting? A. I do.

Q. Just what part do you do? A. Collect delinquent accounts, but we have other data besides the cards.

Q. You don't have these cards? A. They are on file.

Q. Who makes out those other cards which you speak of that you handle? A. In our efforts to collect the accounts, your Honor.

Q. Yes, when you go out you say you are given some other record? A. We have the customer's 8199 signature to the contract for service; we have toll tickets, and other credit information which would assist us in locating the customer.

Q. When you go out to make a dun, is that your job? A. Yes.

Q. You have some sort of a record in your pocket? A. We have.

Q. Who makes that out? A. That is made out by some clerks in the office.

Q. Not made out by you from these cards? A. No.

8200 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

The Court: Counsellor, it is quite possible you may be able, with proper authentication to get those in, but inasmuch as the other records have been apparently, if this witness is correct in his conjecture, destroyed, that will still leave open the question as to whether or not service was not restored.

Mr. Climenko: All right, your Honor. Independently—

8201 The Court: But one of these is in the spring and the other one is in the fall. So far as that summer is concerned, that is not covered by these records.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, there is a difference in these telephones. One of them is at one address and one is at another address.

The Court: It is the same company. I assume it moved.

Mr. Climenko: There is no proof here of that in this record, your Honor.

8202 The Court: There may not be, but you are offering the records and if the records go in you would have to accept anything that they tended to prove.

Mr. Turkus: Mr. Climenko has urged another ground for objection, too. They don't even show they are the same company or same address. He has just urged that as another ground to disqualify them.

The Court: Greene Street is down around Canal Street. What number is that, Greene Street? If I remember correctly, it is Broadway, Walker, Greene.

Mr. Climenko: I do not know the precise location, but that is not the point, your Honor.

The Court: This should be around Canal Street, the other up around Washington Square.

Mr. Climenko: They had another type of service at their office.

The Court: What is that?

Mr. Climenko: They had one type of service at a particular place outside of their office and they had another type 8204 within their office, and the service within their office was discontinued.

The Court: You better get whoever is an expert in the accounts over there.

Mr. Climenko: I beg pardon?

The Court: You better get somebody who can authenticate the records so that anybody will be able sensibly to do more than conjecture upon reading it.

Mr. Climenko: Will your Honor accept them subject to connection?

The Court: The trouble is you are ask- 8205
ing the Court to do this, to put in two cards with all intermediate records admittedly destroyed and have the jury to conjecture that there was no restored service in the interim. Now when the Court calls your attention to two different addresses you say there is proof it is the same.

Mr. Climenko: Your Honor misunderstood me. You are confusing Mr. Turkus' remarks with mine. I realize that there are two different addresses on it and I do not say they are two different concerns. I say they are the same concerns with two different types of service, one type at its office and another type at a place outside of its office, and both services were discontinued, the office service on one day and the other service outside of its office at a different day. There is no inconsistency about that at all.

8206 John J. Fegan—For Defts.—Direct

The Court: There is a six months pe-8207 riod between.

Mr. Climenko: Quite true and there is certainly also a great disparity in the obligation on the account.

The Court: What is the question before the Court now?

Mr. Climenko: I would like your Honor to permit me to ask one question of this witness in respect to one of these cards.

The Court: Go ahead.

By Mr. Climenko:

8208 Q. Mr. Fegan, I show you Defendants' Exhibit Z-1 for identification. Can you tell me by inspecting any of the symbols on that card the type of service called for by the subscriber with respect to the telephone at the address set forth on that card?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. There is no time fixed. There is no relevancy shown.

Mr. Climenko: It is merely to qualify a matter mentioned by your Honor.

The Court: I will have to sustain the objection upon the ground he is not qualified to state.

Mr. Climenko: Let me ask him then, your Honor—

Q. Mr. Fegan, there are certain symbols underneath a telephone number on the upper right-hand corner of that card, is that right? A. Correct.

Q. Do you know what those symbols mean? 8210
A. I do.

Q. What do they mean?

Mr. Turkus: I object to him reading from a card not in evidence.

Mr. Climenko: He is not reading anything. Your Honor can see he is not reading. I am asking him as to the meaning of four symbols on that card.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. The card is not in evidence. Its relevancy has not been shown. It is a card which, from the 8211 examination of this witness, he received together with a subpoena and has brought over here merely as a manual messenger. He has nothing to do in the course of business with those cards; he knows nothing of the accuracy of the statements thereon; he does not even know what file they came out of.

By the Court:

Q. Mr. Witness, quite apart from whether you know about the card or not, are you familiar in the course of your business with those symbols? A. I am.

Q. What do those ciphers mean? A. Indicates a semi public telephone.

Q. You mean it is a slot machine? A. That is right.

By Mr. Climenko:

8213 Q. That was a coin box? A. That is right.

Q. And that was rented by that corporation, is that so?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. That is by indirection reading this alleged card which is not in evidence, and the further ground if your Honor will examine the data and the address on that card you will see the other ground of objection and irrelevancy. There is no such address appearing in the entire testimony in the case.

8214 The Court: Let me see it again. You mean 266 Greene Street?

Mr. Climenko: That is right.

Mr. Turkus: In that November, 1932, after the stoppage, it is irrelevant, it is incompetent, has no place in this case.

The Court: That, according to the lady's testimony, would be after her father had left the concern. Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: I withdraw my offer with respect to that at this moment but at this time I again offer in evidence the card, Exhibit Z for identification.

8215

Mr. Turkus: I object to it on the ground previously urged and on the further ground of irrelevancy.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

By Mr. Climenko:

Q. Can you have here, Mr. Fegan, the man who kept this record or from whom you got it? A. I will.

8216

Q. And who knew about retaining it in the files of your company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who also is acquainted with the system employed in the composition of these cards?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. He does not know that. He does not know if any such man is alive.

The Court: He can try to find out.

Mr. Turkus: Certainly, that is all he can do.

The Court: Anything else?

8217

Mr. Climenko: That is all from this witness at this time, your Honor.

8218 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

HENRY H. EISENBERG, residing at 152 Bellevue Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey, called as a witness on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, and being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Climenko:

Q. Mr. Eisenberg, are you an attorney? A. I am.

Q. Admitted to practice in what state? A.
8219 New Jersey.

Q. How long have you been a lawyer? A. Twenty years.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of Martin F. Kelly? A. I do.

Q. And had you known him for some time in or about the year 1931? A. I did.

Q. And had you on occasion represented him before that time? A. I did.

Q. In or about the year 1931 did you meet one Joseph Rosen? A. I did.

Q. And were you introduced to him by your 8220 client, Martin F. Kelly? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In or about the spring of 1931 did you draw a contract between Martin F. Kelly, his wife, Joseph Rosen, and his wife? A. I did.

Q. And pursuant to that contract did you also draw a certificate of incorporation? A. I did.

Q. For a company to be known as the K. & R. Trucking Company, Incorporated? A. I did.

Q. Would you say that happened in or about the month of March, 1931? A. That is right.

Q. And pursuant to that contract did Rosen and Kelly agree to enter into business together in the trucking business? A. They did.

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. That is not the best evidence.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did you, at my request, today produce certain papers? A. I did.

Q. After that contract had been drawn in April, 1931, have you any recollection—I withdraw that.

Q. Have you any recollection as to whether that particular contract was signed? A. That 8222 was not signed.

Q. Have you any recollection as to whether or not the certificate of incorporation for the company to be known as the K. & R. Trucking Company, Incorporated, was ever filed? A. It was not.

Q. Were the fees for the incorporation of that company paid?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. This is totally incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: Having nothing to do with 8223
the issue.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Subsequent to the spring, or April, of 1931, did you again meet Joe Rosen and Martin Kelly at your office? A. I did.

Q. At that time did they have a discussion with you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it.

The Court: Yes or no? Overruled.

8224 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

A. They had several discussions after that time.

Q. At that particular time, in or about the month of October, 1931, did they have a discussion with you? A. They did.

Q. At that discussion was Joe Rosen represented by his lawyer, Mr. Burr, of the firm of Spindel & Burr of Passaic, New Jersey? A. I have the notation on the paper.

Q. I show you a paper writing and ask you if 8225 that refreshes your recollection with respect to the question I now ask you (handing paper to witness). A. Yes, sir; Mr. Burr, of the firm of Spindel & Burr, represented Mr. Rosen.

Q. At that time, in October of 1931, was there a discussion between Rosen & Kelly with respect to the earlier agreement of April, 1931?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. It is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: When was this?

The Witness: October, 1931.

8226 The Court: You realize when these questions were asked under cross-examination, the Court has to go back over a great mass of detail to determine whether or not they are relevant. That takes a moment or so. Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. In or about the month of October, 1931, did Rosen and Kelly enter into an arrangement to go into business with persons by the name of Bluestein and Sobler? A. They did.

Q. Before they did that, did they have a discussion in your office about those arrangements?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it as incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Yes or no.

A. I don't recall.

Q. I show you these two papers and ask you whether they refresh your recollection as to whether such discussions were had in your office. 8228

The Court: What are those, the certificates of incorporation, Counsellor?

Mr. Climenko: No, sir, those are agreements that I handed him at this moment.

The Court: Partnership?

Mr. Climenko: Well, not precisely, but for the association. They are really incorporation contracts.

A. Yes, sir, they did have a consultation in the office.

Q. I beg pardon? A. They did have a conference in the office. 8229

Q. They did? A. That is right.

Q. Mr. Rosen and Mr. Kelly? A. Mr. Rosen and Mr. Kelly.

Q. In that discussion was there talk about the K. & R. Corporation, the certificate of incorporation which you had drawn in April, 1931?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it, incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial; certainly not the best evidence, there having been exhibited to the witness certain documents which speak for themselves. So on both grounds I urge its inadmissibility.

8230 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

The Court: I do not know what this is. Let us have it. Overruled.

(Pending question read.)

A. There was.

Q. And was there reference to the fact that that corporation had not been incorporated by reason of the default of Rosen in failing to pay 8231 a part or all of the incorporation expense, as he had earlier agreed to do?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Did you, as a matter of fact, refrain from filing the certificate of incorporation of that proposed corporation, K. & R. Trucking Corporation, by reason of that default on the part of Joseph Rosen?

8232

Mr. Turkus: Same objection.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

The Court: Of course, you know, Mr. Climenko, the difficulty in your task is appreciated, but what the Court has in mind, so you will know, possibly, what is behind the ruling, is this: that the testimony of the daughter related to the summer of 1932, the alleged conference, and that at that time the business apparently may have been on a paying basis. There was some attempt made to cut off some of the accounts. That conference, of course, is relevant on the issues brought up by this indictment. Then Harold Rosen, the brother, testified to having been taken in 1932 to a meeting at the Broadway Central Hotel, having looked through the window into the lobby and having seen certain gestures. That is not 1931. Then he went on and told about six months later—this would place the Broadway Central 8234 meeting sometime in the spring, because he said six months later the father went out of business. Then he goes on and tells about his father's subsequent employment. I think this is too remote.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, may I address myself to your Honor's suggestion?

The Court: Yes, because, granting that there were difficulties in 1931, granting that there were all kinds of details and difficulties, they are only remotely related 8235 to the condition in 1931. By "difficulties," I mean arguments. There may be a difficulty on the part of Rosen not putting up the required capital. Many such difficulties at the beginning of a business are easily overcome, and if I admit this evidence, remote as it is, it drives the jury into a conjecture as to how it is related to a condition in the summer of 1932 or in the spring of 1932.

Mr. Climenko: I respectfully suggest to your Honor that your Honor has misconstrued the possible effect of the proof which I am about to offer. It has nothing to do with anything except the history immediately preceding the spring of 1932, and I will get to that in a moment, but I cannot do more than ask one question at a time.

The Court: Go ahead then.

Mr. Climenko: I merely want to show the antecedents and origin of this business, and I then want to show, as fast as I can talk, the condition of it in the spring of '32.

8237

The Court: The Court is not crowding you. Having to sustain so many objections is disagreeable to me, and I don't want you to be embarrassed by that, because that might interfere with the quality of your work.

Mr. Climenko: Not at all. I am not embarrassed, your Honor. I merely want to go along and prove these facts.

8238

The Court: Go ahead.

Mr. Climenko: All I want to say to your Honor is that I am representing to your Honor that they are relevant—

The Court: Go ahead then.

Mr. Climenko: —to the issues as made by the prosecution.

(Pending question read.)

The Court: I am going to let him answer it because you tell me you are going to lead up to something that means something.

Mr. Turkus: May I say to your Honor, if I may respectfully suggest that you press counsel as to the relevancy of the offer of this proof. What is its relevancy in this case?

The Court: Counsel promises to hook it up. I am going to give him a chance.

Mr. Climenko: I have been, as I think your Honor realizes, very careful not to make any specific announcements, but to try to convey my meaning to your Honor without specific statements. I would 8240 rather have the witness do that.

A. I cannot be definite about the reason for not filing that certificate at this time. There were several things involved there. That may be one of five or six reasons that it was not filed.

Q. But, in any event, you are definite that in or about October of 1931 there was this discussion at your office? A. That is right.

Q. In which Kelly and Rosen participated, about the proposed association of Kelly and Rosen with Bluestein and Sobler; is that correct? 8241 A. That is correct.

Q. At that time did you draw a contract in your office between Kelly and Rosen? A. I did.

Q. And is this that contract (handing paper to witness)? A. It is.

Q. At the time that this contract was signed, Rosen was at your office, represented by Mr. Burr, a lawyer of Passaic; is that correct? A. That is right. I don't know where he is from.

Q. Well, the notation seems to indicate Passaic, but that is not important.

8242

Mr. Climenko: At this time I offer in evidence the agreement dated October 28, 1931.

Mr. Turkus: I have read this instrument offered in evidence. I cannot see its relevancy. I object to it.

The Court: The objection is sustained at this time, but, as you may be leading up to something—

Mr. Climenko: That is right, your Honor.

8243

The Court: —you may renew your offer later.

Mr. Climenko: At this time may it be marked for identification so the record may be clear?

The Court: Yes.

(Paper marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-1 for identification.)

Q. Now, to your knowledge, Mr. Eisenberg, did Kelly and Rosen become associated with the firm known as the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc. in or about October of 1931? A. They did.

8244

Q. And at that time were Kelly and Rosen, and Bluestein and Sobler employed to work for that corporation? A. They were.

Q. Did you again hear from Kelly with respect to the business of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc. in or about April of 1932?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. It is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial, whether he heard anything from Kelly or not.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. In or about the month of April, 1932, did you attend a conference at which the business of New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc. was discussed?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it, incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial. 8246

The Court: That is April, 1932?

Mr. Climenko: April, 1932.

The Court: He can say yes or no.

A. I did.

Q. Who were present? A. I don't recall.

Q. I beg pardon? A. I don't recall who were present.

Q. Was Mr. Kelly present? A. Mr. Kelly was.

Q. Do you remember whether Mr. Rosen was present? A. I don't recall.

Q. Did that conference take place in the office 8247 of a lawyer by the name of Salzman in Passaic, New Jersey? A. We had several conferences there.

Q. Did that conference take place after you, on behalf of Kelly, had started a lawsuit to collect moneys due Kelly from New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc.?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. It is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial. There was a conference without the presence of Rosen. He does not know who was present. Has nothing to do with the issue of the indictment.

8248 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Did you on or about the 27th day of April, 1932, institute an action in the Court of Chancery of the State of New Jersey for the appointment of a receiver of the corporation known as New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc., and did you do that on be-8249 half of your client Martin F. Kelly? A. I did.

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. In or about the month of April, 1932, did you sue, on behalf of Kelly, to recover from New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc., the sum of approximately $200 owing to Kelly for garage rent for trucks 8250 belonging to the corporation?

Mr. Turkus: Same objection.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. On or about the 28th day of April, 1932, —I withdraw that.

Q. On or about the 27th day of April, 1932, were you present at a conference attended by Joseph Rosen, Nat Sobler, and Martin Kelly with respect to litigation which you had instituted against New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc.?

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. Your Honor has sustained the objection to any litigation, and now by indirection you are getting the litigation in that was ordered out by the Court's ruling on this question.

The Court: Bringing Rosen into this conference.

Mr. Turkus: I know, but he is doing 8252
it improperly.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, I take exception to these remarks. That was a perfectly proper question, I submit.

The Court: Go ahead.

A. I don't recall.

Q. Will you look at this paper and see if it refreshes your recollection (handing paper to witness)? A. I was present at that conference.

Q. Now, at that conference which was attended 8253 by those people, was there a reference made to the lawsuit, the action for the appointment of a receiver, which you had theretofore instituted?

Mr. Turkus: I object. The witness has not testified that those people were there under any conference, and there is a further ground, there is no relevancy to the issue in this indictment.

The Court: Sustained.

8254 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

Q. Was the financial condition of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc. discussed on that occasion? A. It was.

Q. Now, what was said with respect to the obligation of that corporation to pay salaries to Kelly at that time?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. No proof as to who had the conversation or its relevancy to this issue.

8255 The Court: Sustained.

Q. Was there any discussion at that time about whether or not the company was then insolvent?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it on the same ground; no proof as to who had this alleged conversation or its relevancy here to this issue on the indictment.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

8256 Q. At the conclusion of this conference was this agreement dated the 27th day of April, 1932, signed by Joseph Rosen, Nat Sobler, Martin Kelly, and by the corporation by one of its officers? A. It was.

Mr. Climenko: I offer that instrument in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: May I see it? I have looked this over, your Honor. The first agreement has an exhibit attached to it. I cannot find any relevancy in this issue, and I object to its introduction in evidence as tending to cause confusion.

The Court: Let me see it. It does not appear to be admissible at this time. Mark it for identification. If connected, let it be offered later.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

(Paper marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification.)

8258

Q. Now, Mr. Eisenberg, I show you a paper which is headed with the words "Resolution of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc.," and ask you whether you produced that paper today in this court. A. I did.

Mr. Climenko: I ask that this paper now be marked for identification.

(Paper marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-4 for identification.)

8259

Q. The paper, Defendants' Exhibit Z-4 for identification, bears whose signature, if you know? A. Sobler and Bluestein, I think.

Q. Not Sobler and Rosen? A. Sobler and Rosen, yes.

Q. The authorization set forth in Defendants' Exhibit Z-4 for identification is an authorization, is it not, for the execution by the corporation, New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc., of the agreement of April 27, 1932, here marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification; is that right? A. Yes.

8260 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. The paper speaks for itself.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception. I now offer in evidence the resolution, Defendants' Exhibit Z-4 for identification.

Mr. Turkus: Objection, on the same ground as the contract.

The Court: Excluded at this time. You may renew the offer later.

8261 Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Mr. Eisenberg, was the contract, which is Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification, a contract which was drawn and signed in settlement of a lawsuit instituted by you on behalf of Kelly to recover moneys due to Kelly from New York & New Jersey Clothing Company, Inc., and so instituted by you on April 21, 1932?

Mr. Turkus: Objection. The instrument speaks for itself.

8262 The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. At the time that the contract Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification was drawn, did Kelly tell you, in Rosen's presence, that the company New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc. had failed to pay Kelly his salary for more than three months prior to that date?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this by counsel, by an improper question, trying to bring something to the attention of the jury.

The Court: Sustained.
Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. At the conference—

The Court: I don't know if I understand this correctly, but I understood that the testimony of both the son and daughter of the deceased was, as to the former, to show the Broadway Central occurrence, followed by a discontinuance of the father's 8264 connection with the business six months later, and the testimony of the latter having to do with the alleged meeting off Broadway in the Washington Square section sometime about the summer of 1932, —I think she said around July, as she recalled, if that means anything,—and as to what occurred in regard to the alleged attempt to throttle certain accounts; from that time the business went down hill, and two or three months later her father severed his connection; but in the direct 8265 evidence of both of these witnesses there was no attempt made by the District Attorney to show solvency or to show that the company may not have been milked by salaries which it could not afford to pay because of the business. There was a wide cross-examination permitted, wide latitude on cross-examination, and these things were more or less delved into, but that does not open that subject for discussion.

Mr. Climenko: May I submit to your Honor that on the direct examination of the witness, the daughter, there was testimony to the effect that that business was in good, solvent, and improving—progressively improving—condition.

The Court: What witness?

Mr. Climenko: The daughter.

The Court: On the part of the direct, that it was a solvent business?

Mr. Climenko: Yes, sir, your Honor, and may I call your Honor's attention to this 8267 fact, that the son testified that this was a solvent, progressive, and sound business and that it paid his father not only a salary regularly, but in addition to that paid expenses, which he indicated were of a substantial nature. Now, he said that he was working for that concern in the spring of 1932, and this proof is directly to the contrary, and that is why it is submitted, because these papers deal with lawsuits affecting the insolvency of this corporation in April of 1932.

The Court: No, Counsellor, I am quite 8268 sure you will find, if you consult the record, that that question was opened up by the defense on cross-examination of those witnesses.

Mr. Climenko: May I ask this of your Honor: Before a final ruling is made on this point, may counsel have an opportunity to indicate to your Honor, by a reference to the record over night, in the morning the specific portions of the record by which we believe that the District Attorney made this proof competent?

The Court: If it is in the direct, you may call my attention to it. If it is in the cross, then you cannot open the field of litigating the question, because it is purely collateral.

Mr. Climenko: May we submit to your Honor such portions of the record which we deem pertinent and such citations as we may deem pertinent to this issue?

The Court: All right. Then we will have a recess now, and you review that evidence. 8270

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor hear a motion I have to make? I can make it in the absence of the jury.

The Court: Yes, make the motion after the jury is out.

All will remain seated until the jury is out.

Gentlemen of the jury, do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open and follow all of the other admonitions heretofore given.

Let the witness and the jury go.

Mr. Climenko: There is something 8271 about the witness I want to bring to your Honor's attention.

The Court: Let the jury go out.

(The jury retired from the court-room.)

Mr. Climenko: Your Honor, the witness is a lawyer, as we know, and he has a professional engagement for tomorrow. I want to know whether it is possible for him to return in the morning. He is a New Jersey attorney.

8272 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

The Witness: I have made arrangements.

Mr. Climenko: Beyond all that, we don't want to embarrass him.

The Witness: I have made arrangements this afternoon for someone to take over.

Mr. Talley: I ask your Honor to direct the District Attorney to produce in court tomorrow morning Harry Cohen, known 8273 as Muggsy Cohen. He is in their custody. You remember he was produced for identification by the witness Bernstein, and he has been in custody, I understand, since, and I ask that he be produced.

The Court: You mean have him in the court-house? All right, have him here where he can be produced.

Mr. Turkus: He will be here all right.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor please, I have a further request: May all other witnesses presently under subpoena be directed to return tomorrow.

8274 The Court: Yes.

(To clerk) Make the announcement.

Court Clerk: All witnesses in this case under subpoena report here again tomorrow morning at ten o'clock without further notice.

Mr. Turkus: They are out in the hall.

Mr. Barshay: Bring them in.

Mr. Wegman: If they are told the Judge made the announcement, they will be here.

The Court: The defendants are remanded.

(An adjournment was taken to Tuesday, November 18, 1941, at ten o'clock a. m.)

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 18, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

Mr. Climenko: When we recessed last night there was a question as to the contents of the direct examination of the two witnesses, the son and the daughter of Rosen, called by The People. I respectfully invite your Honor's attention to page 256 of the direct examination. My 8276 contention, not a contention but simply a statement as to what their testimony was —the young man said that he worked in this business in the spring of 1932; that it was a prosperous business which paid profits in salaries and expenses of those concerned in it, and that those were substantial.

The Court: Will you direct my attention to the specific questions and answers?

Mr. Climenko: The last question on 8277 page 255, and the answer at the top of 256, fixing the time with respect to the testimony.

The Court: That is where the witness states that he was employed by his father in business from the summer of 1931 to the spring of 1932?

Mr. Climenko: Yes. So, presumably when he testified he testified with respect to the condition at that time. Now, I invite your Honor to look at the third question on page 257, and then at the fourth question.

The Court: The third question: "Were you familiar with the books and records of the company? A. Yes, sir, at that time I was familiar with the books and records of the company.

"Q. Was the business a paying business?"

Then Mr. Barshay objected to it as a 8279 conclusion. The objection was overruled and an exception taken.

Mr. Climenko: Mr. Turkus told your Honor yesterday that no such testimony was elicited on direct examination.

The Court: Then comes the answer: "I certainly know; I was bookkeeper there." But he was not pressed for an answer as to whether it was a paying business or not.

Mr. Climenko: With due respect I ask your Honor to look at the following ques-
8280 tion: "Did the partners, including your father, have a weekly salary? A. Yes, sir, they had a weekly salary."

The Court: Yes, that is on page 257, the same page I am looking at now: "Did the partners, including your father, have a weekly salary? A. Yes, sir, they had a weekly salary."

Mr. Climenko: May I ask your Honor to skip the balance of that page and look at the first question on page 258.

The Court: "In addition to that, were there profits that were distributed?"

"Mr. Barshay: The same objection." Mr. Climenko: The answer, however, came in.

The Court: Do not interrupt. "A. Yes, sir, there were profits; they usually had expense accounts which they took a certain amount during the week, etc. For example, my father had to go to Pennsylvania quite often—" Interruption:

"Mr. Barshay: I object to that as not responsive." What else is there? 8282

Mr. Climenko: That is enough.

The Court: Is there anything else?

Mr. Climenko: Nothing that I know of now.

The Court: This is in the testimony of Harold Rosen. Is there anything in the direct evidence other than that?

Mr. Climenko: No, sir, nothing that I was able to find last night. In any event, I make no point about that. When the witness was asked these questions on direct examination by the District At- 8283 torney he referred to the condition of business in the spring of 1932, and I desire to show by this witness that the condition as spoken of by the witness was not true, that the reverse was the fact, that this was a failing business after the spring of 1932.

The Court: You realize that all of these questions and answers were preliminary to the main testimony of Harold Rosen. They led up to the point of Harold Rosen's testimony, first, on the matter of the alleged meeting in the lobby of the Broadway Central Hotel, secondly, to the alleged visit of his father to Reading, Pennsylvania, a short time before the alleged murder, and his father leaving three days after arrival, upon a telephone message from the witness's sister. It is in the opinion of the Court of no evidentiary value. It was received only because it was in the preliminary stage of

8286 cerns the contacts between Rosen and the defendants, and a few matters specifically related by contact, and also to the movements of Rosen up to and including the time of the alleged murder. If the business was in operation in the summer months at the time when the alleged direction was given by one of the defendants regarding certain out-of-town accounts, causing protest to be made, and if, following that protest, the meeting off Broadway and in the Washington Square district, Rosen presently severed his connection with the company, I don't think it opens the field for exploration by a lot of far-fetched and collateral evidence—I should say involving conjecture largely—as to the precise condition of the business in the spring preceding the alleged examination of the books. Nor does it have any direct bearing or indirect bearing on the meeting in the Broadway Central Hotel, where the conversation was not overheard but was looked at through a 8288 window from the street.

Now, I have given this a good deal of thought over night in determining whether or not at this stage you are entitled to transform this into a far-fetched procedure in the nature of a bankruptcy hearing to determine the precise nature of the ousiness and its financial soundness at any and all times during its existence. I am just telling you what is in my mind. You can go ahead with your examination and the Court will rule. I think the 8289 record is sufficiently clarified. I am not ruling, but I am telling you something for your own good, for your own guidance, to clarify the record, and it is not going to be turned into a debate. Please ask your questions and the Court will rule.

Mr. Climenko: Now, if your Honor please—

The Court: Are you going to ask questions or not?

Mr. Climenko: First I will take exception.

The Court: You are entitled to an exception to everything, even if the Court blows its nose; I cannot stop you, but I would request there be no more speeches.

Mr. Climenko: I take an exception on this record—

The Court: You are not going to raise an exception for the benefit of a speech. The jury is excused. See how far you can go when the jury goes out.

8291

The Court: Now, go ahead with your speech.

Mr. Climenko: I have no intention of making any speech. I take an exception, however, at this time, in view of your Honor's actions in the presence of the jury. And I want to take exception to the statement that I could take exception to anything the Court did, including the blowing of your Honor's nose. I take exception to that, because it hurts the defense and puts me in a disparaging light, and I submit to your Honor it was not warranted by anything that happened here. All that happened last night was that your Honor said to me, "If you find anything in the record on direct examination as to the condition of that business in April of 1932, as testified to by the People's witnesses, call it to my attention," and I did. As I understood your Honor's ruling, your Honor said that in view of your reflection on the matter you no longer think it is material, even if it is in the People's witnesses' direct case. Now, I cannot, if your Honor please, preserve myself against your Honor's remarks, and I mean by that the defendant whom I represent, except by taking exception. Your Honor has made the statement of your change of mind.

The Court: Will you please come to order and sit down? Are you ready to proceed with the trial of the case? 8294

Mr. Climenko: I take exception to your Honor's ruling.

The Court: All right, bring the jury back.

Mr. Climenko: (While jury is at door of court-room) If your Honor please, for the preservation of the record—

The Court: Take the jury back again. There are more speeches. Go on, get it out of your system.

8295

Mr. Climenko: I take exception to that. By virtue of that incident I move for the declaration of a mistrial and the withdrawal of a juror.

The Court: Motion denied. The jury was just starting to come in the room when counsel jumped up with another speech.

Mr. Climenko: May the record show that counsel did not notice it?

The Court: The Court has waited for several minutes for the jury to be brought 8296 back. Counsel maintained order in the meantime, but started in again just as the jury started to walk in the room. Is it all out of your system now?

Mr. Climenko: I take exception. Of course, I think it was apparent to your Honor that my back was to the door and I did not notice the jury was beginning to come in. I knew nothing about.

The Court: I know nothing about that,
8297 but the question is: Are you all through? I will not have the jury brought back until you are.

Mr. Climenko: I am not all through, because I have not started.

The Court: Are you prepared to resume the start of the case?

Mr. Climenko: I am ready at all times. I was ready at the time your Honor dismissed the jury.

The Court: The Court is fully aware of what you are up to.

8298 Mr. Climenko: I take exception to that, because it carries an implication we are up to something improper.

The Court: There is no jury here. The Court is fully aware of what you are up to. You are not going to get the Court to lose poise.

Mr. Climenko: I take an exception to that. Let the record show there is no jury here at this time, but in the presence or in the absence of the jury I have a right to say in this record that the Court's remarks, which reflect upon the integrity of my conduct, are unwarranted, and I except for that reason.

The Court: You have your exception. Now sit down. Bring in the jury.

Mr. Wegman: While the jury is still out of the room—this has nothing to do with what has preceded—I just want on the record—I would like to ask the District Attorney to produce and have available here at two o'clock the witnesses Rubin and Tannenbaum—not for questioning, but for the purpose of having them exhibited to witnesses who will take the stand. 8300

The Court: All right.

(The jury then took their seats in the jury box.)

HENRY H. EISENBERG, a witness in behalf of the defendants, resumed the stand and testified further as follows: 8301

Direct examination by Mr. Climenko (continued):

Q. I show you defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification and ask you whether the signatures which purport to be those of Joseph Rosen and Nat Sobler were affixed to that agreement in your presence on the date of that contract, in April, 1932. A. I am not sure of that, whether it was in my presence or not. They were affixed that day before—they were affixed in my presence.

8302 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

Q. Both of those signatures? A. Yes, sir, both.

Q. And that was on or about the 27th of April, 1932? A. That is right.

Q. Immediately before, or within six days before that date, had you on behalf— Question withdrawn.

Q. Was your client, Martin F. Kelly, in April, 1932, the owner of 25 per cent of the stock of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Trans-
8303 portation Company?

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: It is hearsay. Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: That is one of the main objections. I object to this line, first, on the ground it has no relevancy, and secondly, these are hearsay declarations. If there was any relevancy in the matter of the solvency of the firm, that would have to be done in a regular, legal way, by producing some of the partners, or through some other, regular, legal course, not hear-8304 say declarations made.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Now, Mr. Eisenberg, I again show you papers which are marked as Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification and I call your attention to the fact that there are grouped in those papers two agreements, one of April 27, 1932, and an earlier one dated October 28, 1931, between Morris Bluestein and Nathan Sobler and Martin F. Kelly, Inc., and one Joseph Rosen, and I refer your attention to the signatures which appear on the last page of that second contract, those of Morris Bluestein, Nat Sobler, Martin F. Kelly, and Joseph Rosen, and I refer your attention also to this signature that appears to be that—below the words "Signed, sealed, and delivered in the presence of," and your signature, and I ask you whether the signatures of Bluestein, Kelly, Sobler and Rosen were affixed in your presence. A. They were.

Q. Now, is it a fact, to your knowledge, that Martin Kelly then became associated with or 8306 connected with the company known as the New York & New Jersey Transportation Company, Inc., as of the date of the signing of that second contract, which was signed in your presence on October 28, 1931?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as a hearsay declaration.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Subsequent to October 28, 1931, and on or about April 21, 1932, did you, at the request 8307 of your client, Martin F. Kelly, did you, in the Court of Chancery of the State of New Jersey, attempt to have the company known as the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc., declared insolvent and to have the appointment of a receiver?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; that is submitting to the jury indirectly an involved question.

The Court: Counsellor, the bringing of a lawsuit never proves anybody insolvent. Objection sustained.

Q. I show you papers, including a petition by Martin F. Kelly, Inc., and an affidavit signed by Martin F. Kelly, on the 21st of April, 1932, in an action entitled "Martin F. Kelly, Inc., a corporation of New York and New Jersey, complainant, and the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc., a corporation of New Jersey," and I ask you whether those papers were drawn by you.

8309

The Court: Now, by the method of asking that question the jury has been informed as to the contents of papers not in evidence. Counsel will not do that again.

The Witness: At my direction they were prepared.

Mr. Climenko: I offer that instrument in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it as incompetent.

8310

The Court: That is for the same reason previously stated. Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception. May it now be marked for identification?

(Marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-5 for identification.)

The Court: If there is any decree of any court in bankruptcy, I mean an adjudication in bankruptcy, that will be admitted, but the mere accusation by a lawyer or any other person does not amount to anything.

Mr. Climenko: This was Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification.

The Court: I am just telling you something. I just told you something and it does not call for any speech.

Mr. Climenko: I wanted to tell your Honor—

The Court: You made a speech to the jury a minute ago about the nature of a 8312 paper that was not in evidence. You took care to do that.

Mr. Climenko: I take an exception.

Q. Now, was this petition, Defendants' Exhibit Z-5 for identification, served on an officer of the New York & New Jersey Transportation Company?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent.

The Court: Objection sustained. 8313

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: My further objection is that it would be hearsay unless he personally served the paper.

The Court: That is no way to prove insolvency.

Q. Does that petition— I show you a paper entitled, "In Chancery of New Jersey"—

Mr. Turkus: I object to that.

The Court: The Court has cautioned

8314 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

you about that. I will deal with you in a few minutes in the absence of the jury, if you do not lay off that.

Q. (continuing) —and I ask you whether that paper was served by you.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the preamble in the question. It is improperly bringing before the jury matters not in evidence.

8315 The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

I ask that the second page so bound in the papers now referred to the witness be marked as an exhibit for identification.

(Received and marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-6 for identification.)

Q. Now, was the paper marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-6 for identification filed?

8316 Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Now, in or about the 27th day of April, 1932, did you have a conference with Kelly and Rosen and an attorney representing the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company? A. If that is the date on that agreement, I did have.

Q. In other words, that conference took place on the same day as the date of the agreement,

Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification; is that correct? A. What is Z-3?

Q. That is a contract dated April 27, 1932. A. It is.

Q. The conference took place on the same day? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time, in the presence of Rosen and Sobler and Kelly, did you have a discussion with the attorney with respect to the then financial condition of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation? 8318

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Was there a discussion on that occasion of the claim of Kelly against that corporation?

Mr. Turkus: I object on the same ground.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Turkus: Exception. 8319

Q. Were the claims of Kelly finally adjusted at the conclusion of that conference?

Mr. Turkus: Same objection.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. At the conclusion of that conference did Kelly withdraw from participation in the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company?

8320 Henry H. Eisenberg—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Turkus: I make the same objection, and the further objection that it is not inconsistent. The People's theory is that there were three partners.

The Court: Sustained for many reasons. The conversation is not evidence. So far as proceedings are concerned, the bringing of a lawsuit or even the filing of a petition in bankruptcy, that is, involuntary bankruptcy, the filing of a petition in in-8321 solvency proceedings, if not done by the concern itself, is of no more value as evidence than an indictment. It is only an accusation.

Mr. Climenko: Your Honor, I do not—

The Court: Do not argue on that point.

Mr. Climenko: I will take an exception to your Honor's remarks, if I am not permitted to argue.

Q. I refer your attention to the fact that the paper People's Exhibit Z-3 for identification.
8322 bears a certain date which is different from the date throughout the agreement bound by cover. Did you notice that?

Mr. Turkus: I object. This paper is not in evidence.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Subsequent to the 27th of April, 1932, and on or about June 30, 1932, did you write a registered letter to Salzman & Bunsevitch, of 689 Main Avenue, Passaic, New Jersey, and is this a copy of that letter? A. It is.

Q. Is the red card on it, which is apparently clipped to it by a paper clipping, the return registration slip you received from the post office for that letter?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as hearsay; the red card—there is no signature on there identified as being that of the recipient of the alleged letter. 8324

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. It is.

Mr. Climenko: I ask to have it marked for identification.

(Received and marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-7 for identification.)

Q. Was that letter written after something had happened in connection with the matters concerned in the agreement, Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification? 8325

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. It was.

Q. Now, pursuant to arrangements set forth in the agreement between Kelly and the others of the New York & New Jersey Company, in April, 1932, were certain notes given to Kelly by that corporation, the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company?

8326 Larry H. Cooper—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Turkus: I object. Your Honor has ruled on the agreement. Now counsel, by question, endeavors to bring to the attention of the jury facts he knows he cannot put in evidence directly.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. Were those notes paid at their maturity date?

8327

Mr. Turkus: I object.

The Court: That is an improper question. You had no right to ask it.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

LARRY H. COOPER, residing at 1602 Avenue P, Borough of Brooklyn, City and State of New York, called as a witness in behalf of the defense, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

8328

Direct examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. What business are you in? A. Clothing trucking business.

Q. How long have you been in that business? A. For myself?

Q. Yes. A. I am in it for myself about twenty years.

Q. You are not related to Louis Cooper of the Garfield? A. No, sir.

Q. In no way whatever? A. No, sir.

Q. Merely a similarity of names? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know Joseph Rosen during his lifetime? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you employ Joseph Rosen during his lifetime in your trucking business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you employ him? A. About 1935.

Q. Do you know when his employment with you commenced? A. About 1935.

Q. What part of the year? A. I don't remember just about the month.

Q. Was it the early part or the latter part or 8330 the middle part? A. Offhand I could not say.

Q. Can you give us your best recollection? A. He worked for me about a year and a half.

Q. From 1935? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, he commenced to work for you in 1935 and he worked for you a year and a half? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At what salary? A. He got the same salary as the other men got that were working for me.

Q. How much? A. $45.

Q. Did you ever increase his salary? A. Yes, 8331
sir, to $50.

Q. So at the end of this employment, to your knowledge, he received $50? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he do? A. He was a chauffeur.

Q. Driving a truck? A. An all-round man.

Q. A clothing truck? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you discharge him? A. I never discharged him or anybody.

Q. Did he quit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have a talk with him after he quit as to why he quit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell us.

8332 Larry H. Cooper—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Turkus: I object unless the time and place is fixed.

Mr. Barshay: He said a year and a half after he worked; he began in 1935; he cannot fix the time.

Mr. Turkus: A declaration made after he quit as to why he quit, I object to.

Mr. Barshay: Do you want him to make it before he quits?

Mr. Turkus: I object. There was 8333 nothing brought out in the People's case by witnesses as to that. Nobody contended that Larry Cooper fired him. The only testimony about Larry Cooper that the record shows was that he took him on to replace Meyer Cranes, who went with Louis Cooper.

Mr. Barshay: That still doesn't prevent me from putting in my defense.

The Court: There are two Coopers, and it is quite easy to get confused as to the points of evidence relating to each one.
8334 You must keep that distinct in order to understand this witness's testimony. Is this the Cooper who is supposed to have discharged Rosen for having stolen baskets?

Mr. Barshay: No, sir, that is an entirely different Cooper. I asked that by the first few questions I put to this man. He is not related nor has he any connection with the other Cooper. The other one is in Passaic, New Jersey. He owned the Garfield, but this man is an individual truckman and works and lives in Brooklyn.

The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Was there a man named Cranes working for you before you took on Rosen in 1935? A. That is right.

Q. Did you effectuate a transfer of Cranes to the Garfield, owned by Louis Cooper in New Jersey, in order for you to take on Rosen? A. No, sir.

Q. Was that done—did Cranes leave you to go 8336 to the Garfield in New Jersey? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you took on Rosen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, there was an exchange? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time that you employed Rosen did you know of your own knowledge whether he at that time had been employed or unemployed? A. He was unemployed at that time.

Q. Do you know when Rosen quit your employment? A. He worked about a year and a half.

Q. Do you know approximately when he quit your employment? A. I could not say. I never 8337 kept track of when he quit.

Q. Do you know when he purchased, if you do, any candy store? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you ever in his candy store? A. No, sir. I have not seen him after he quit the job.

Q. When he quit the job, Mr. Cooper—I ask you now not to answer until the Court rules—did you have a talk with Rosen? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: With your Honor's permission, may I ask this witness to relate that talk?

Mr. Turkus: What is the relevancy of it?

Mr. Barshay: If the Court will permit me to answer you, I will.

The Court: That question was asked before and the objection was sustained as incompetent and irrelevant.

Mr. Barshay: If your Honor rules against me, I will take an exception. No further questions of this witness.

8339 The Court: Is there anything from any other counsel?

(No answer from the counsel table.)

MICHAEL J. MONZ, residing at 64-14 Ninety-ninth Street, Queens Village, State of New York, called as a witness in behalf of the defense, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Wegman:

8340 Q. How are you employed? A. I am the chief interviewer of the District Attorney's office in New York County.

Q. The office of Thomas E. Dewey? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been so employed? A. I have been with Mr. Dewey since July 29, 1935.

Q. Is that the date on which Mr. Dewey started in on his career as Special Prosecutor? A. That is right.

Q. With the title of Deputy Assistant District Attorney, New York County? A. That is right.

Q. That was the very beginning of that investigation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have continued to hold that position until the present date? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At my request have you made an examination of the records and files in the office of Thomas E. Dewey, the District Attorney? A. I have.

Q. The files of Thomas E. Dewey, as special prosecutor, with the title of Deputy Assistant District Attorney? A. I have. 8342

Q. From the beginning of that investigation until the present time? A. That is right.

Q. Are those records which you checked over the records that were kept under your supervision and direction? A. That is right.

Q. Is it the custom and practice and procedure of Mr. Dewey's office, for you to interview all persons who come to Mr. Dewey's office to make complaint or to be interviewed? A. It is.

Q. Now, do you know Joseph Rosen, or did you know Joseph Rosen? A. I never knew him.

Q. Did you ever hear of him? A. I have read 8343 the papers about him.

Q. Was that after his death? A. That is right.

Q. Did you ever hear of him at all before his death? A. I did not.

Q. Is there any record whatever in the office of Thomas E. Dewey to indicate that Joseph Rosen ever came to that office, ever spoke to anyone in that office, or was ever interviewed or wanted for an interview by anybody in connection with that office?

Mr. Turkus: We never contended Mr. Rosen reached Mr. Dewey's office. Our

8344 Michael J. Monz—For Defts.—Direct

contention has been quite to the contrary, that he was killed to keep him from going there.

Mr. Wegman: The District Attorney took a different position at one time. I don't know whether he has modified or altered his position, but the record will show it.

Mr. Turkus: I don't know what he is talking about. The testimony in this case 8345 is that the victim was slain before he reached Dewey's office, to keep him away from Dewey's office.

The Court: Mr. Wegman may be confusing Rosen with Rubin. Rubin is alleged to have gone to the District Attorney's office.

Mr. Wegman: No, Rosen is the one I am talking about. I asked this witness whether he ever had, and that is the question we are now up to.

The Court: The trouble is between 8346 Rosen and Rubin, one not going to Dewey's office and the other going there. It tends to confuse the jury unless you are very careful.

Mr. Turkus: That is why I am making my objection.

Mr. Wegman: We don't want the jury to get mixed up.

Mr. Turkus: I don't think they will be anyway, but I want to keep the record straight.

Mr. Wegman: May I have an exception?

The Court: Do you claim there is any evidence, Mr. Wegman, by the People, that Rosen went to Dewey's office?

Mr. Wegman: I do not.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. You are present in court this morning with the approval of Thomas E. Dewey, and your chief? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Mr. Dewey is not the supervisor here. The Court's authority is supreme. 8348

Mr. Wegman: I understand that, but I believe the District Attorney has a right to show his approval.

Mr. Turkus: But that does not sanctify the appearance of this witness, to have Mr. Dewey's blessing. I think we ought to have Mr. Dewey's blessing in this case, too.

Mr. Talley: Why don't you prove that?

Mr. Turkus: I will before it is over.

Mr. Talley: I object to the remark and move to strike it out. 8349

The Court: Strike it out. The jury will disregard that.

Mr. Talley: I ask the Court to instruct the jury to disregard that statement.

The Court: I have just instructed the jury to disregard it.

Mr. Talley: I want you to do it in response to my request.

The Court: I do it in response to your request.

8350 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Talley: It is perfectly improper, and I think the Court should take some action at remarks like that being made by the District Attorney. It is not very easy for counsel for the defense to have those strictures placed upon them.

The Court: Yes, I will place strictures on both, both Mr. Wegman and Mr. Turkus.

8351

NAT SOBLER, residing at 170 Bay 29th Street, Borough of Brooklyn, City and State of New York, called as a witness in behalf of the defense, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. Will you keep your voice up, if possible? A. I will.

Q. What was your business in 1931? A. In 8352 the express business.

Q. What was the name of your concern in 1931? A. The New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation.

Q. Do you know when that corporation came into existence? A. I believe it was in 1927.

Q. Mr. Sobler, who was your partner in the corporation? A. Morris Bluestein and myself.

Q. Where was your office? A. No. 2 Washington Place.

Q. Before 1927 were you in the trucking business? A. That is right.

Q. Where was that? A. We had an office in Passaic, New Jersey.

Q. That was not the New York & New Jersey, was it? A. Yes.

Q. What? A. Oh, no, it was the Garfield Express Company.

Q. In other words, before 1927 you had been in some way connected with the Garfield? A. Yes, sir, started in 1922.

Q. In 1922? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. At that time how long did you continue 8354 with the Garfield? A. Up to 1925.

Q. From 1922 to 1925 you were in the Garfield? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you got out? A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the time you were in the Garfield, from 1922 to 1925, was the defendant Buchalter, called here Lepke, was he a partner of yours during those years? A. No.

Q. When for the first time did you and Rosen become connected in the New York & New Jersey corporation? A. That was in 1931, the latter part of 1931. 8355

Q. Was your office then in New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before that time, 1931, and while you were the owner of the Garfield from 1922 to 1925, was Rosen working for you as a truckman? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who became a partner with you in 1931, if anybody, when you became connected with Rosen? A. A fellow named Martin Kelly.

Q. Do you know whether at that time Kelly and Rosen, before being connected with you, were partners themselves? A. That is right.

8356 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

Q. Will you tell us how you and Bluestein operating as the New York & New Jersey, became connected with Rosen and Kelly in 1931, or whatever date it was?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the use of the word "how" as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: It is a little indefinite. Do you mean there was a contract?

8357 Mr. Barshay: Yes.

Q. (The Court) Was the contract in writing? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: I thought that was a corporation. The word "partner" has been used many times.

Mr. Barshay: I am using it because of the character of the man on the stand. If you want me to refer to him as a stockholder, I will.

8358 The Court: I just wanted to understand.

Q. You were a stockholder of that corporation? A. Yes.

Q. I show you a document referred to as Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification, and I ask you whether or not your signature appears thereon. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that a document you signed at the same time— Question withdrawn.

Q. —at the same time the other men signed it? A. I don't understand the question.

8359

Q. Did the other men whose names appear on the paper sign it at the same time you did? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see them do it? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I offer the document in evidence.

The Court: Let me see it.

(Paper handed to the Court.)

Mr. Barshay: I refer to the second part. There are two—the last signature on the page.

8360

The Court: I don't have to read the whole thing?

Mr. Barshay: No, I am just asking you to look at the last page and see where this man signed the document. There are two agreements attached to that exhibit here; I am only speaking of the last one.

The Court: This is all one contract?

Mr. Barshay: No, there are two of them, one is a joinder of parties and the other is a disassociation of parties in 1932, and they are under one cover.

8361

The Court: This is dated the 27th of April, 1922.

Mr. Barshay: That is not the one to which I had reference.

The Court: This is the one you handed up.

Mr. Barshay: I handed it up because they are joined together, but if your Honor will look toward the end you will find a separate agreement.

8362 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

The Court: They appear to be one instrument. I see now there are two.

Mr. Barshay: That is right.

The Court: This one is the 28th of October, 1931.

Mr. Barshay: That is right.

The Court: I will read that.

Mr. Barshay, do you intend to put in the certificate of incorporation?

Mr. Barshay: Of which corporation?

8363 The Court: Was the corporation formed?

Mr. Barshay: No, they bought stock in the existing corporation which was organized, according to this witness's testimony, in 1927, four years before.

The Court: Please correct me if I am wrong. This appears to me to be a contract to reorganize by a re-allotment of shares.

Mr. Barshay: In the existing agreement, known as the New York & New 8364 Jersey.

The Court: By the re-allotment of shares so that new-comers would have a participation? Am I right so far?

Mr. Barshay: Yes.

The Court: As to taking over the trucking and possibly some other assets, as to who the officers were to be and where and when the meeting was to be held for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the contract, and as to the proposed amendments to the constitution and by-laws—I don't know what he means by

8365

"constitution"—but, at any rate, proposed amendments to the by-laws and also certain fixations of salaries of the officers?

Mr. Barshay: That is right.

The Court: Now let me ask you this, Mr. Barshay: Have you got a minute book to show whether this was done?

Mr. Barshay: I have not.

The Court: Is it obtainable?

Mr. Barshay: I cannot answer that of my own personal knowledge. This is the first time this question occurred to me.

8366

The Court: You see, if this goes in, the question is, is it competent to presume that it was carried into effect in precisely the manner stated?

Mr. Barshay: I am in a position to prove why one of the men did not carry out this contract. That is exactly why I called this witness.

The Court: Now, you answer me something else, concerning the evidence of Harold Rosen as to the alleged pantomime that he witnessed at the Broadway Central Hotel, and the testimony of his sister, as to the examination of certain accounts in or about the month of July. Do you claim that this has any bearing on that?

8367

Mr. Barshay: It has a bearing.

The Court: Do you mind telling me what it is, so I will be able to rule intelligently?

Mr. Barshay: I will be glad to do so. First, before that occurrence took place, at the address where Gurrah—

8368

The Court: I mean, without revealing any detailed stuff before the jury.

Mr. Barshay: Kelly was already out, as I understand; he got out in April, 1932, as I intend to prove by the next exhibit. He got out, and I will show the jury the reason for his getting out was that it was an insolvent company. I will try to prove that through this man. Then the three of them continued until the stoppage, and, at the stoppage, Rosen went out, and we will try to prove he went out, not as Mr. Turkus said—because he was forced out—but because the company was absolutely broke and insolvent.

The Court: You claim the company was not functioning at the time the books were supposed to have been shown and certain accounts forbidden?

Mr. Barshay: They were positively functioning and continued thereafter until December of 1932.

8370

The Court: Of course, if a company is functioning, there must at least be hope of establishing it on a sound basis, even if it is having a struggle.

Mr. Barshay: I shall show through this witness that Rosen abandoned that hope; that it existed then.

The Court: You see, the jury cannot be permitted to conjecture about what was said during an alleged pantomime; it has to depend upon evidence. But as to whether or not the company was solvent or having trouble financially—a struggle—at the time of the alleged submission of the account, do you think that would have any bearing as to whether any such conversation took place?

Mr. Barshay: I certainly think so.

The Court: Do you mean you know the Company was having financial difficulty, or the defendants would not have forbidden those Pennsylvania accounts?

Mr. Barshay: There was nothing to forbid; there was nothing in it to forbid 8372 to this man Rosen. He had nothing.

The Court: You say his business was functioning?

Mr. Barshay: Yes.

The Court: And that it was voluntary?

Mr. Barshay: I do not admit the existence of that conference at all. We dispute it. I say it is a fabrication.

The Court: I am trying to figure out in what manner the precise financial condition of the company would have a bearing upon either of those two alleged in- 8373 stances. The impression I have gained is that the company was having a struggle of some kind.

Mr. Barshay: That is right.

The Court: A financial struggle, like many small businesses, but nevertheless continued. I will let this in for what it is worth. It will have to be detached.

Mr. Barshay: May I say one thing: In all the comments which your Honor has made with respect to the record here, about this conference, I hope that there will be no innuendo with the jury that we concede the existence of any such conference, either there or at the Broadway Central Hotel.

8374

The Court: Of course not.

Mr. Barshay: We firmly dispute it. We say it is a fabrication, and we will prove it, if we can.

The Court: These two contracts, one accepted as an exhibit and one not accepted as an exhibit, have been fastened together with a fastener; one detached from its cover. Will you fasten it again?

Mr. Barshay: Except the cover. Whoever put on this one has the wrong date by mistake, which I thought the lawyer would explain, but he was not permitted to.

Mr. Turkus: Take it without the cover.

The Court: You had better fasten it together before the sheets become loose; put a proper cover on it. I handed you back the cover.

8376

Mr. Barshay: The cover has the wrong date. It has the wrong date on it by error, which the lawyer tried to explain, but he was foreclosed. 1926, five years before this contract was drawn. I do not want Mr. Turkus to misunderstand me.

The Court: Mark it in evidence, the original contract, October, 1931.

Mr. Turkus: In order to keep the record straight, that was ripped out of a bundle attached to Defendants' Exhibit Z-3 for identification.

The Court: Exactly. It presented the appearance of being one document. I did not sense there were two covers; one was concealed—until my attention was called to it upon inquiry. It caused confusion at the time.

Mr. Barshay: You mean it has been separated from Z-3, the exhibit for identification?

Mr. Turkus: Yes. But there was an exception taken to the exclusion of Z-3, 8378 and the record must be clear.

The Court: This part is competent. Mark it.

(Received and marked Defendants' Exhibit 4.)

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Can you tell us what—

The Court: Don't you want to read that to the jury? 8379

Mr. Barshay: If you want me to do so now I will. I thought I would do it later.

The Court: One step at a time, and we will avoid confusion.

(Mr. Barshay then read Exhibit 4 to the jury, as follows:)

"This agreement, made this 28th day of October, in the year of Our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and thirty-one;

"Between Morris Bluestein and Nathan Sobler, of the City of Passaic, County of

8380 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

Passaic and State of New Jersey, parties of the first part, and

"Martin F. Kelly, Inc., a corp. of N. J. and

"Joseph Rosen, of the City of County of and State of parties of the second part,

"Witnesseth: That for and in consideration of the sum of One Dollar and other good and valuable considerations,
8381 each to the other in hand paid, receipt hereof is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

"That whereas, the parties of the first part are all the holders of all the shares of stock of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc.,

"That whereas, the parties of the first part are also the owners of four certain trucks which were used in the trucking business of the said New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company 8382 Inc., which said trucks are known as follows:

"Model No. 621, 3-ton White truck;

"Model No. 61, 2-ton White truck;

"Model No. 60, 1½-ton White truck;

"Model No. 51—2½-ton White truck;

"That whereas, there is still due on the said trucks certain notes which are payable monthly, and the said New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc., also have a certain amount of good will in their said trucking business.

"That whereas, the parties of the first part are desirous of combining with the parties of the second part in the said trucking business under the name of New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc.,

"That whereas, the parties of the second part have heretofore and still are in the said trucking business and also have a certain amount of good will in their said business.

"That whereas, the parties of the second part are also the owners of five other 8384 trucks which have been used in the conduct of their trucking business, which said five trucks are as follows:

"One 2-ton Brockway truck;

"Two 2½-ton Garford Trucks;

"One 2-ton Auto Car;

"One 1-ton Ford truck.

"That whereas, there are still certain unpaid monthly notes due on some of the trucks hereinabove mentioned.

"That whereas, Martin F. Kelly, Inc., has also the authority and use of a cer- 8385 tain garage in the rear of premises known as No. 9 Catherine Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey, which he has used in the conduct of his said trucking business.

"That whereas, the parties of the second part are desirous of joining in with the parties of the first part in the operation of the business heretofore conducted by the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc.,

"Now, therefore, in consideration of the mutual promises and agreements herein contained, the parties hereto agree to the following:

8386 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

"1. That the parties of the first part will surrender to the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc., all its shares of stock and on November 2nd, 1931, reorganize the said corporation, so that new shares of stock will be issued to the following:

Martin F. Kelly—50 shares;

8387 Joseph Rosen—50 shares;

Nathan Sobler—50 shares;

Morris Bluestein—50 shares; and these 200 shares will constitute all the outstanding shares of said corporation.

"2. That the said corporation shall do business with $20,000.00 actual paid in, being the aggregate value of the combined assets of all the parties hereto.

"3. That a meeting of the parties hereto will be held at the offices of Henry H. Eisenberg, No. 60 Broad Street, Elizabeth, N. J. on the 2nd day of November, 8388 1931, at which time the by-laws governing the conducting of the said corporation business will be prepared and adopted and the election of officers will take place. It is herein mutually agreed that the officers of the corporation will be as follows:

"Martin F. Kelly—President,

"Joseph Rosen—Vice-President,

"Nathan Sobler—Secretary,

"Morris Bluestein—Treasurer.

"4. That the corporation will do business with the Bank of America, at its Broadway and 3rd Street, Branch, and that the President, Martin F. Kelly, and Secretary Nathan Sobler, shall be the only authorized signatures on the checks or other instruments in writing to be issued by the corporation, and that at the meeting of November 2nd, proper resolutions to that effect will be prepared.

"5. That the corporation will hold monthly meetings on the second Saturday 8390 of each and every month and that dividends by the said corporation will be declared quarter-annually.

"6. The corporation shall also make contracts of hire with the parties hereto, which said contracts will be in full force and effect as long as the respective parties to said contracts shall retain control or ownership of their shares of stock in said corporation, said contracts will provide for payment of $75.00 weekly salary to each of the parties hereto and said contracts 8391 will contain a restrictive covenant, which will prevent the respective parties to the contract from directly or indirectly canvassing from the customers of the said New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc., should the parties of the respective contract quit their job or sell out their interest in the said corporation, for a period of five years, from date of quitting their job or disposing of their shares of stock.

"7. That the corporation shall not go into any enterprise or any undertaking whatsoever without a vote of all the shareholders as it is the intentions of the parties hereto that all the shareholders of the corporation must consent to any undertaking of the corporation involving the expenditures of any monies.

8392 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

"8. That the constitution and by-laws will also provide that should any of the shareholders desire to dispose of their
8394 party shall be submitted to the corporation for a competitive bid, and the said corporation is to have the first privilege of purchasing the said shares of stock, if the corporation offer is equal to or larger than that third party's bid, and should the corporation fail or refuse to make said purchase after the offer is made, then the shareholder shall have the privilege of selling to that third party and said third party will step into the shoes of the retired shareholder with the same rights and privileges as said retiring shareholder had in the corporation.

"9. That the by-laws will also provide that should one of the parties hereto decease, then the widow of that party shall receive the salary of her husband out of which salary the widow is to pay for the services of a man who will substitute for and do the work of her husband in said corporation, providing such salary does not exceed the sum of $40.00 per week, on 8396 condition, however, that should one of the parties hereto prepare a will and designate some other person than his wife to receive that benefit, that person so designated will receive that benefit in accordance with the wishes of the deceased shareholder.

"10. That the parties of the first part will lease without any expense to the corporation, their four White trucks hereinabove enumerated until the 15th day of December, at which time a bill of sale will 8397 be issued by the parties of the first part direct to the corporation, for all the said trucks.

"11. That the parties of the first part will cause all unpaid notes on the trucks up to November to be paid so that the corporation will only assume the balance of the notes due on the trucks on or after November 2nd.

"12. That the parties of the second part will lease without any expense to the corporation their five trucks hereinabove enumerated until after the 15th day of December, at which time a bill of sale will be issued by the parties of the second part direct to the corporation for the said trucks.

8398 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

"13. That Martin F. Kelly will give a lease to the corporation on his said garage for a period of one year, at a rental of $50.00 per month, which said lease will contain a privilege in favor of the corpo-8399 ration for the renewal of the said lease for an additional period of one year at the same rental of $50.00 per month, said lease to commence on November 1, 1931.

"14. That the parties of the second part will pay or cause to be paid all notes that may be due on their trucks prior to November 2nd, 1931, and the corporation will take over the obligations of the parties of the second part on said trucks, falling due on and after November 2nd, 1931.

8400 "15. That whereas, the parties hereto agree that after an adjustment of all equity of the respective interests of the parties of the first part and the parties of the second part, there is a balance in favor of the parties of the first part in the sum of One thousand Dollars which the parties of the second part agree to pay as follows: On May 1, 1932, $500.00 and on November 2nd, 1932, balance of $500.00

"16. The parties of the first part represent that the balance due on the trucks which were used in the conduct of the business of the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc., is not in excess of $7,000.00 and should there be an excess of that amount, they as individuals agree to pay the same.

"17. The respective parties to this agreement hereby agree that the obligations of this corporation that are to be assumed by the respective parties shall be only those pertaining to the unpaid balance due on trucks and for work done on 8402

the bodies of the said trucks, all other obligations, such as gas, oil, wages, garage rent, tires and etc., shall be paid by the respective parties hereto and not charged upon the corporation, and the parties of the first part represent that the New York & New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc., are not indebted in any amount whatsoever, except for balance due on the trucks and for balance that may be due for body work on the 8403 trucks.

"In the place of paragraph 8 the following clause is to be substituted:

"That should any of the shareholders desire to dispose of their interest or shares of stock in this corporation or quit their job, then and in that event that retiring shareholder shall sell his shares of stock to the corporation, who are to pay for the same one hundred per cent of the book value of said shares at that time the seller is offering the same for sale and said one hundred per cent is to be paid in cash at the time the said shares are surrendered.

8404 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

"In witness whereof, the said parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hands and seals the day and year first above mentioned.

Secretary.

8406

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. After the execution of this agreement I just read, Mr. Sobler, did the four of you commence to work in this corporation? A. That is right.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether Rosen put in any money? A. No.

Q. Do you know whether he did or he did not? A. He didn't.

Q. He did not? A. No.

Q. Do you know whether Rosen had any trucks? A. Well, he had trucks with Kelly.

8407

Q. Do you know whether he had any of his own? A. I don't think he had any.

Q. Do you know whether he had any trucks registered in his own name? A. No.

Q. Did Kelly put in any money? A. No.

Q. Did you and Bluestein put in any money? A. We had money in the bank.

Q. How much? A. I could not say.

Q. About. A. A couple thousands or so.

Q. Was it about $1,550? A. I could not give you—it is ten years passed by.

8408

Q. Where did you have your routes? A. Jersey and New York.

Q. In New Jersey and— A. New York. Some part of it in New York.

Q. Did you have any routes then in Pennsylvania? A. No.

Q. To your knowledge, when this corporation was reorganized as per agreement, did Rosen have any customers in Pennsylvania? A. He said he had.

Q. Do you know their names? A. Well, I can't remember.

8409

Q. Do you know how many? A. Well, about five or six or something like it, I think.

Q. Were they big ones or small ones, if you know? A. Well, they were fairly good size.

Q. The first month of your doing business together, did you draw the pay agreed upon, the $75 a week? A. First month, yes.

Q. Did the Company make money the first month? A. We could not know we make any money until the 1st of the month.

Q. And on the 1st of the month did you make any money? A. No, we went about $1,200 or $1,400 in the rear. All our money was gone.

Q. I did not hear that. A. All our money what we had there was gone.

Q. Was gone? A. That is right.

Q. You took in some money from the customers, did you not? A. We worked by months. We worked for October a full month, we collected in November, so we did not have much to collect. We were in the rear about $1,200 or $1,400, the first month.

Q. At the end of the first month, this corporation was in arrears? A. About $1,200 or $1,400.

Q. Going to the next month, Mr. Sobler, at the end of the second month was the company ahead or in arrears? A. In arrears.

Q. How much? A. I could not say. That I could not say. We did not have no money, but we stopped drawing pay. We didn't have no money and we stopped drawing pay. I refused to put more money into it, and we owed everybody and we couldn't run it any further. That's all.

Q. That is the second? A. That is the second month.

Q. So that the second month you did not draw pay? A. No.

Q. Do you know whether Rosen drew pay? A. No.

Q. Were you able to pay the garage bills to Kelly? A. I don't think we did.

Q. Did you continue for the third month in January of 1932? Did you? A. Yes.

Q. At the end of the third month, did the company make or lose money? A. We still lost money.

Q. Did you put in any more? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Do you know whether or not the finance companies began to foreclose on the trucks? A. I sure do.

Q. Did they? A. I believe that the garage man chained the trucks up.

Q. Do you know which garage man? A. In Passaic, on Main Street.

Q. Was it Pink's? A. Pink's Garage.

Q. Did you draw money the third month? A. No.

Q. At the end of the fourth month— A. No, 8414 we did not.

Q. Just one month at a time. The end of the fourth month, did the company make money? A. No.

Q. Did you draw pay? A. No.

Q. Did the other partners draw pay? A. No.

Q. Were you indebted to the workmen for pay? A. Some part of it, yes. Can I answer?

Q. What? A. We used to give them 'head checks.

Q. You used to give them 'head checks for pay? A. That is right. 8415

Q. At the end of the fifth month? A. We still did not draw no money.

Q. In April of 1932 did Kelly withdraw from the business? A. Yes.

Q. Before Kelly withdrew from the business, to your knowledge were papers served upon you? A. After he withdraw—

Q. Please, Mr. Sobler, I have to finish the question. Were papers served upon you? A. Repeat that again, please.

Q. I want to finish the question. I said, before Mr. Kelly withdrew from the business in April of 1932, do you know of your own knowledge whether or not you were served with papers by Kelly's lawyer declaring your corporation insolvent because you had not paid him either for the garage rent or his salary? A. Not before.

Q. When? A. After, a few days after.

Q. A few days after what? A. After Kelly withdraw.

Q. The papers were served? A. That is right.

8417 Q. How much did you owe Kelly for back wages, I mean the corporation? A. I could not say.

Q. Did you owe him a lot? A. Maybe five or six hundred dollars, maybe seven hundred.

Q. How much was the corporation indebted to you for back wages, do you know? A. About the same amount.

Q. And to Rosen? A. The same amount.

Q. And to Bluestein? A. Same thing.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether or not you paid the garage rent which the 8418 corporation agreed to pay to Kelly? A. To Kelly, no.

Q. You did not pay? A. Did not pay.

Q. Do you know about the average balance your company had in the bank during those five months? A. I don't think we had any balance in it.

Q. Was it a little balance or a large balance, do you know? A. We had to change banks all the time.

Q. Tell the Judge and jury why? A. We could not make any deposits. We didn't make no money, so we had nothing in the bank.

8419

Q. After Kelly served those papers through his lawyer upon you, did you and Rosen and Bluestein and Kelly come to some agreement? A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us what the agreement was? Yes or no? A. Yes, I think I can.

Q. All right.

Mr. Barshay: Mr. Turkus, this is Exhibit 3-Z for identification. I am now directing this witness's attention to Z-3 for identification.

8420

Mr. Turkus: The balance of it?

Mr. Barshay: The balance of it.

Q. I ask you, Mr. Sobler, whether your signature is on this paper. A. Yes.

Q. And did you see the other men sign that paper at the same time as you did? A. I did.

Mr. Barshay: I offer that in evidence.

The Court: Let me see it. This is the split-up of the arrangement?

8421

Mr. Barshay: Yes, your Honor.

The Court: They came together in October and divided again in April?

Mr. Barshay: That is right, sir.

The Court: Admitted.

(Received and marked Defendants' Exhibit 5 in evidence.)

The Court: Briefly—tell me if I am wrong—Kelly was out?

Mr. Barshay: Kelly was out.

8422 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

The Court: The company continued, run by the remaining two?

Mr. Turkus: Three.

Mr. Barshay: Rosen, Sobler, and Bluestein.

The Court: Read it to the jury.

Mr. Barshay: (Reading) "THIS AGREEMENT, made this 27th day of April, in the year of Our Lord, One thousand Nine hundred and thirty-two:

8423

"BETWEEN

"MORRIS BLUESTEIN, NATHAN SOBLER and JOSEPH ROSEN, as individuals, of the City of Passaic, County of Passaic and State of New Jersey, and NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY CLOTHING TRANSPORTATION COMPANY, Inc., a corp. of New Jersey, parties of the first part,

AND

8424

MARTIN F. KELLY INC. a corp. of N.J. and MARTIN F. KELLY, as an individual. of the City of Elizabeth, County of Union and State of New Jersey, parties of the second part

WITNESSETH: That for and in consideration of the sum of ONE DOLLAR and other good and valuable considerations, each to the other in hand paid, receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

That whereas, on the 28th day of October, 1931, Morris Bluestein and Nathan Sobler, who were all the shareholders of the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc. and Martin F. Kelly Inc. and Joseph Rosen, agreed under the agreement above mentioned to consolidate and form one corporation, to be known and designated as the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc. a true copy of which said 8426 agreement is attached hereto and made a part hereof and marked Agreement A.

That whereas, all the parties hereto have carried out said agreement and consolidation and each of the parties hereto have performed their share in the said formation of the newly formed organization, the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc.

That whereas, the parties hereto mutually agreed that it is for the best interest of all the parties hereto that the 8427 parties of the second part herein, to wit, Martin F. Kelly Inc. and Martin F. Kelly, individually, be paid out as and for his interest in the said corporation, so that the remaining interest in the said corporation will be held by Nathan Sobler, Morris Bluestein and Joseph Rosen.

Now, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and agreements herein contained which the parties hereto admit is valuable consideration, the parties hereto agree as follows:

That the said New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc. do convey to the parties of the second part or to one whom they may designate, the four trucks which the said Martin F. Kelly Inc., heretofore conveyed to the corporation in the agreement above mentioned and marked agreement A;

8429 One—2 ton Brockway Truck;
One—2½ ton Garford Truck;
One—2 ton Auto Car and
One—1-ton Ford Truck.

That the parties of the first part assume all the outstanding obligations of the said New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc. except those which will hereinafter be specifically enumerated and save the parties of the second part harmless by reason of any indebtedness of the said New York and 8430 New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc. except the following:

Labor, and also protested check to Mr. P. Leib	$261.62

8435 its agent for the collection of the said moneys due on said outstanding accounts, and the first moneys collected on said outstanding accounts are to be applied to the repayment of the balance of $304.37, representing the total amount due on both notes, which the parties of the first part represent they will do and will not use the said funds until said notes are paid, for any other purpose, and the parties of the second part is not to notify or collect any moneys on the said accounts due to 8436 the parties of the first part, unless he ascertains that a default has been made in this covenant.

The parties of the first part represent that there is no indebtedness due on the trucks to be conveyed to the parties of the second part as above mentioned, except such indebtedness as the parties of the second part has knowledge of, which is represented to be arrearages on notes the finance company, damages to the body on a large Brockway truck and such other items as is enumerated on the list herein-before enumerated, as items that are to be paid for and assumed by the parties of the second part.

Morris Bluestein and Nathan Sobler, two of the parties of the first part herein are to give a release to the parties of the second part for $1000.00 mentioned in the agreement herein attached and marked agreement 'A' which was to be paid by the parties of the second part to the said Morris Bluestein and Nathan Sobler, as 8438 an additional investment by the parties of the second part in the said New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc. being the amount designated and agreed upon as a difference in equity.

The parties of the second part are to execute a release to the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc., releasing it from any and all indebtedness due it by reason of its former association in the said corporation and Martin F. Kelly as an individual is 8439 to release the said New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company Inc., from the contract of hire formerly given by the corporation to Martin F. Kelly.

The parties of the second part are also to release one, Joseph Rosen, who was formerly associated with the parties of the second part, by reason of all indebtedness due from Joseph Rosen to the parties of the second part, which said indebtedness amounted to approximately $4750.00.

8440 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Direct

The parties of the first part hereby assign to the parties of the second part the following outstanding accounts, which are the accounts above mentioned, given as security for the repayment of the two notes represented to be the balance due to the parties of the second part and the moneys collected on the accounts are to be first paid to the parties of the second part; the following are the accounts mentioned;

immediately, upon receipt of the notes in question deliver a resignation as officer and director from the said corporation, and the parties of the second part is to sign a check which will be drawn on the First National Bank of 580 Broadway, New York City, which said check will be in an amount representing the balance in said bank and the said New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation 8447 Clothing Company Inc. is to draw under the direction and supervision of the parties of the first part and proper representations that a check so signed represents and balance held in said bank.

The 50 shares of stock above referred to as those being assigned to J. Bernard Saltzman are to be held in escrow by him and the said J. Bernard Saltzman shall have full power to vote said stock as if he were the original owner thereof, provided, however, that the said J. B. Saltz-8448 man shall not consent to the filing of a voluntary petition in Bankruptcy and not consent to the appointment of an equity receiver.

The parties of the first part in lieu of the sum of $304.73, being the balance due to the parties of the second part, shall have the privilege of paying the sum of $250.00 in cash, in lieu of said sum of $304.73, provided, however, said $250.00 is paid on or before, Tuesday, May 2nd, 1932.

Mr. Barshay: May the record show that the Exhibit A mentioned in the document I just read is the one marked in evidence here as Defendants' Exhibit No. 4? They were both part of the same exhibit, Z-3, before.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Mr. Sobler, after you gave those notes, one
8453 to be paid in 60 days and one in 90, did you pay those notes? Did the corporation pay those notes? A. I don't think we did.

Mr. Turkus: There is a lot of testimony here where "I don't think, ' and "I don't think."

The Court: Don't tell me what the testimony is; if you object, I will rule.

Mr. Turkus: I am going to ask that it be stricken.

The Court: Strike it out.

8454 The Witness: We did not pay that, your Honor.

Q. Please, do you know of your own knowledge—don't tell me what you think or guess—do you know of your own knowledge whether or not those notes came back for non-payment? A. Came back for non-payment but I took care of it later.

Q. Personally? A. Yes.

Q. To your own knowledge were any dividends declared before Kelly left the corporation? A. No.

8455

Q. After Kelly left the corporation, did you, Rosen, and Bluestein continue to work? A. Yes.

Q. How long did you continue to work before Rosen quit? A. That was 1932, July, the end or the later part of July.

Q. From April, 1932, when Kelly quit until July, going back to the month of May, do you know whether or not your corporation made any money? A. No.

Q. Do you know whether they did? A. No.

Q. Did they make money? A. No.

8456

Q. Do you know whether or not at the end of the month there was a balance in the bank of your corporation? A. There was no balance in the bank at any time.

Q. Did you draw your pay that month? A. Not of the corporation.

Q. Did Rosen draw any pay that month? A. No.

Q. Did Bluestein draw pay? A. No.

The Court: What month?

Mr. Barshay: The month of May which followed Kelly's withdrawal.

8457

Q. Did you take in any accounts? A. Accounts of what?

Q. Did you collect any accounts? A. We did.

Q. Was there enough to pay the workmen? A. No.

Q. Did you still continue to give head checks? A. That is right.

Q. Do you know whether or not Rosen brought in any moneys into the corporation during the month? A. No.

Q. Of May? A. He did not.

Q. In the month of June did the company make money? A. No.

Q. In the month of July did the company make money? A. No.

Q. Were any dividends declared? A. No, sir.

Q. Did the finance company seize any trucks? A. Yes.

Q. How many? A. Two.

Q. Do you know the name of the finance company? A. Well, the White truck, one White 8459 and one Sterling.

Q. Do you know how much Rosen drew during those months? A. No.

Q. May, June and July, 1932? A. No.

Q. Did you have an accountant? A. Accountant? A. No.

Q. Did you have a bookkeeper? A. Not at that time, no.

Q. When did you have a bookkeeper? A. From the beginning.

Q. Who was it? A. Harold Rosen.

Q. How long did he stay? A. About two 8460 months or so.

Q. How much did he get? A. $15 a week.

Q. Who was the bookkeeper who followed Harold Rosen? A. We didn't have any.

Q. Then did you employ any other bookkeeper? A. No.

Q. Do you remember Sylvia Rosen, the daughter of Joseph Rosen? A. I do.

Q. Did she come to the place? A. She used to come in but not for work.

Q. Did she help you at all with the books? A. No, never had—

Q. Did you give her any money?

Mr. Turkus: Wait a minute. Don't shut it off.

Mr. Barshay: If he did not finish, let him finish.

Q. You tell us everything about Sylvia Rosen. A. She did not have no work that time. She used to come in once or twice a week just to see her father, as far as I know.

The Court: We do not know how far you know. 8462

The Witness: She used to come in to see her father but no getting pay or anything like it.

Q. Did you give her a regular salary every week? A. Sylvia Rosen?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know when Joseph Rosen became dissociated from your company, when he left your company? A. Was in August—I don't remember the date but was the month of August, the beginning of August. 8463

Q. Do you remember the stoppage in 1932? A. I do.

Q. With respect to the stoppage, did he quit before, or during, or after? A. During the stoppage.

Q. Do you know how long after the stoppage began that he quit? A. Well, the stoppage began, I think, about Monday or something about Monday and he quit Saturday.

The Court: What month, if you know?

The Witness: In August.

Q. Can I refresh your recollection by referring to the month of August, 1932? A. That is right, that was the stoppage.

Q. Did Rosen have a talk with you? A. He did.

Q. Where? A. On Fifth Avenue and 17th Street.

Q. How many days after the stoppage started? A. Must have been about four or five or six days. Was on a Saturday. I remember that Saturday.

8465

Q. On a Saturday? A. On a Saturday.

Q. You tell us what Rosen said to you. What did he say to you? A. About what?

Q. You said you had a talk with him during the stoppage.

The Court: Is not this hearsay?

Mr. Barshay: No, this is what Rosen said to him.

The Court: This is not a suit against Rosen.

Mr. Barshay: I beg pardon?

8466

The Court: This is not a lawsuit against Rosen.

Mr. Barshay: We went to show how he became dissociated from the firm.

The Court: It is hearsay.

Mr. Barshay: It is not hearsay, your Honor. We are going to prove now—

The Court: Rosen is not here. He is not a witness. You are not impeaching his testimony.

Mr. Barshay: I am not, sir.

The Court: If the District Attorney does not object—it is hearsay—the Court will not be put in a forced position of doing the District Attorney's work. Go ahead.

Q. What did Rosen say to you about quitting your firm? A. Well, he came over Saturday after twelve o'clock and he says, "I am going to quit." I said, "What's the matter, Joe?" He says, "I am getting a job back by the Garfield Express and I am getting a hundred to $125 a week." I says, "I know Louis Cooper very well. Once he said no, so now how are you going back to him?" He said, "Louis Buchalter or Lepke got in as a partner there and he told Louis Cooper to take me back to work." 8468

Q. Was that the end of his association with your company? A. He left. That was the end of it.

Q. Do you know how much your company owed Rosen for back wages at that time? A. I don't know. They owed him as much as they owed me.

Q. Did you and Bluestein continue? A. What is that? 8469

Q. Did you and Bluestein continue to do business? A. Yes.

Q. Did you have to pay or did you pay any money to Rosen for his shares in the corporation when he quit? A. No.

Q. Did he ever ask you for any money for his shares? A. No.

Q. How long did you and Bluestein continue in business with the New York and New Jersey after that? A. After that, I believe five months.

8470 Q. During the five months, did you make any money? A. Well, we start to make a living again.

Q. Where did you go? A. Passaic, Jersey State.

Mr. Turkus: State of Jersey. What else?

The Witness: And New York City.

8471 Q. So that there were only two partners left? A. That is right.

Q. When did you discontinue your association with Mr. Bluestein? A. I believe it was 1933.

Q. You continued with the New York and New Jersey, didn't you? A. Not in the New York and New Jersey.

Q. Under another name? A. Under another name.

Q. Was there ever a time when Lepke, the defendant Buchalter, sent for you during the stoppage or before the stoppage of 1932? A. No.

8472 Mr. Turkus: Wait a minute, sir. There is no testimony that he ever did.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did Rosen ever tell you at any time in his life that Lepke sent for him while he was a member of your company?

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

8473

Q. Did Rosen ever tell you that he had been to see the defendant Lepke at the Perfection Coat Front Company and there was told by him, or someone there, not to continue with certain customers in Pennsylvania? A. No.

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. Please don't you answer questions. No testimony at all that he ever made such a revelation to this man.

8474

The Court: Utterly incompetent. Sustained—

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor caution this witness not to be so—

The Court: Don't interrupt the ruling. Sustained, the answer stricken and the jury is instructed to disregard it.

Mr. Barshay: That is all, sir.

Cross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Sobler, you know Lepke since 1926 or 1927, don't you? A. 1927 or 1928.

8475

Q. About June or July of 1940 Philly Buchalter took you to a lawyer's office, didn't he?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir; first, on one ground—

The Court: What date was that?

Mr. Barshay: 1940.

The Court: What is the objection?

Mr. Barshay: First, Judge, he had a right to go to a lawyer's office,—there is nothing wrong about that,—just as much as he had a right to go to the District 8476 Attorney's office. I want that clearly understood.

The Court: Who is Philly Buchalter?

Mr. Barshay: Philly Buchalter is a brother of the defendant Louis Buchalter and his name is not Philip Buchalter; his name is Philip Kauver.

Mr. Turkus: Known as Philly Buchalter.

Mr. Barshay: Kauver and he is a half-
8477 brother, I am informed, of the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: What is the use of fighting about that?

Mr. Barshay: As long as there is no wrong implication, that's all.

Mr. Turkus: We just want to fix the time.

The Court: The question is simply one of admissibility of evidence under the rules. The objection is overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

8478

A. Yes, not to the lawyer's office.

Q. Where did he take you, what kind of an office? A. It is a business place.

Q. Business place? A. On 35th Street.

Q. Somewhere around 35th Street? A. That is right.

Q. And a statement was prepared then in June or July of 1940 for your signature, isn't that right?

Mr. Barshay: Where, please?

Mr. Turkus: In this place.

Mr. Barshay: Are you asking him the question or telling him?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, certainly.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you sign a statement there? A. Yes.

Q. In the early part of 1941 you received a telephone call and then went to 60 Wall Street, Manhattan, didn't you? A. Right.

Q. And you spoke to the lawyer there about 8480 ten or fifteen minutes? A. More than that.

Q. How long? A. About an hour.

Q. And then you went away? A. That is right.

Q. And you got another telephone call?

Mr. Barshay: Excuse me. Can we get the name of the lawyer in the record?

Mr. Turkus: Be patient.

Mr. Barshay: So there will be no misunderstanding.

Mr. Turkus: I want to get the chronology of events. 8481

The Witness: If the Judge allow me, can I tell the lawyer something? I was called to the lawyer's office; at least I was not kidnapped from the street like you do. That's all I got to say. Nothing to smile about it either.

The Court: If this—

The Witness: Trying to kidnap people from the street.

The Court: (To witness) Stop talking when the Judge is talking.

8482

The Witness: O.K.

The Court: If this happened when the witness for the People was testifying, there would have been an immediate motion for a mistrial.

(To witness) You just hold your tongue and you give direct answers.

The Witness: O.K.

The Court: Remember you are in court, not in a barroom.

8483

Proceed.

(Pending question read.)

Q. Then you went up to that same law office again, didn't you? A. That is right.

Q. Whom did you see on the first visit? A. Counselor right there (indicating) I don't know his name.

Mr. Climenko: Does he indicate me, Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: I don't know.

8484

Mr. Climenko: Well, ask him.

Q. Which one? A. Right there.

Mr. Barshay: This gentleman here (indicating Mr. Climenko)?

The Witness: That is right.

Q. And on the second time, which one did you see? A. I saw Mr.—both of them.

Q. Wegman and Climenko. You know the names, don't you? A. I do not.

Q. How many times have you been up to 60 Wall Street? A. Twice.

Q. And how long did you spend the second time? A. Maybe a half an hour or so.

Q. And in the hour and a half that you spent on the two occasions at 60 Wall Street, don't you know the names of the lawyers that you spoke to? A. I just got a bad head. I can't remember.

Q. You have been remembering about nine years ago without any books and papers, haven't 8486 you? A. Well, you know I am a sick man. I am a little upset now so just leave me alone.

Q. Who brought you up to this law office? Let us get that. A. They called me to come up there.

Q. And you went up on a telephone call? A. That is right.

Q. Had not Philly Buchalter been over to see you first? A. I don't think so. No.

Q. Did anybody suggest that you go up there? A. No. They just called me, they want to see me about—

Q. Who invited you here today? A. A sub- 8487 poena.

Q. Who brought it? A. What?

Q. Who brought the subpoena? A. Gave me a subpoena.

Q. Who gave it to you? A. I don't know the man's name.

Q. Where did you get it? A. In my home.

Q. What address? A. 170 Bay 29th Street.

Q. How many times have you seen Philly Buchalter since the time he took you up to this place on 35th Street where you signed the statement? A. What is that?

8488 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

Q. How many times have you seen Philly Buchalter since June or July of 1940 when you signed a statement in some place of business around 35th Street?

Mr. Wegman: May I ask in order to avoid confusion that Mr. Turkus be instructed to use the right name of the 8489 gentleman he is referring to. It is Phil Kauver, not Buchalter.

Mr. Turkus: He is known as Buchalter as well as Kauver.

Mr. Wegman: Have you proven that, Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: Read the question.

The Court: The Court cannot remember which name is right. We know who is meant.

Q. You know who I mean by Philly Buchalter, don't you? A. That is right.

8490 Q. Is he in court? There he is, the fellow with the glasses, isn't he? A. That is right.

The Court: The man with the dark glasses?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: Let him stand up and be identified. What is your name?

A. Philip Kauver, never was known as Buchalter.

8491

Mr. Turkus: And he has added gratuitously that he is never known as Philly Buchalter.

The Court: Call him Kauver for the sake of peace.

Q. How many times have you seen that individual with his black glasses since June or July, 1940, when you signed the statement up in that place of business?

8492

Mr. Barshay: I object to the characterization of black glasses because medically they are an essential with him.

The Court: Then it is obvious to the Court the man is blind.

Mr. Barshay: Almost blind, sir.

The Court: He has little peep holes in the middle of opaque lenses.

Mr. Barshay: That is correct.

The Court: Which focus the vision directly on the lens of the eye and shut off the lateral rays. I assume that is correct. 8493

Mr. Turkus: I am not going into any medical discussion of the eye-glasses. He says he is Kauver. This man knows him as Philly Buchalter.

The Court: There is no harm meant by referring to the glasses.

Mr. Turkus: Of course not, merely being identified.

(Pending question read.)

A. That up to me to answer?

8494 Q. Yes. I believe I saw him once or twice but not more than twice.

Q. And was it about this case? A. First time it was about this case.

Q. Second time? A. Second time that the same, what I know about the case.

Q. And the second time when he saw you, was that when you went to 60 Wall Street? A. No, he did not give me any order to go to 60 Wall Street but he said "the lawyer will call you and 8495 go up and what you know about it."

Q. You did not get any orders on that occasion, did you? A. No.

Q. Philly, this gentleman here, is in the trucking business, too, isn't he? A. Who is that?

Q. Philly, the man with the black glasses. A. Yes, in different line, not in the same line as we are.

Q. The first time you got orders though, didn't you? A. Orders what?

Q. Orders to go up to 35th Street. A. Didn't get any orders from anybody.

8496 Q. Not from Philly? A. No, he just told me "the lawyer wants to see you about what do you know about the case." That's about all.

Q. How many times have you been in the lawyer's office? A. I said twice.

Q. And once in 35th Street? A. That is right.

Q. That is three times? A. That is three times.

Q. And the man who gave you the subpoena, do you know his name? A. No.

Q. Had you ever seen him before? A. No.

Q. This morning when you came to court, did you see Philly Buchalter or Philly Kauver? A. Not when I was outside, I didn't see him.

Q. You didn't? A. No.

Q. You live at 170 Bay 29th Street, in Brooklyn, don't you? A. That is right.

Q. And you live there with your wife, Lena Sobler, and your daughter May Sobler and a third daughter, a married daughter, is that right? A. That is right.

Q. Which female in the family is running a trucking business? A. My wife. 8498

Q. Lena? A. That is right.

Q. And what is the name of the outfit that she is running? A. R. S. & Z. Express Company.

Q. Your wife is a housewife, isn't she? A. Never was a housewife.

Q. And where is this trucking business located? A. Right where I live.

Q. Where does it operate? A. In New York.

Q. Is it a sizable business? A. I don't know the word about sizable.

Q. How many trucks? A. Two trucks.

Q. And the income derived from that is dependent upon the good will of the industry, isn't it? 8499 A. I don't know what that means.

Q. How do you get your business? Don't you understand that? A. How we get our business?

Q. Yes. A. We got a little business left and she operates it. Since I got sick I left it all. I can't take care of it.

Q. The two trucks are being operated in the name of your wife as the R. S. & Z.? A. That is right.

Q. You have got truckmen working on the trucks? A. Yes.

8500 Q. Is it your business or your wife's? A. My wife's.

Q. She is getting an income from it? A. I suppose she does.

Q. You know nothing about the income? A. I don't pay any thought to it.

Q. You do not know whether your wife is making money or losing money? A. She could not be in business to lose money.

Q. Do you know what accounts she has got?

8501 A. Not all of them but I know a few of them.

Q. How many do you know? A. Two or three.

Q. You only know two or three of the accounts? A. She got about three accounts.

The Court: We will continue at 1:30. Everybody kindly remain in order.

Gentlemen of the jury, please do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open. The jury may go out of one door, the witness out of the other.

8502 Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor ask the witness to stay a moment?

The Court: Let the witness come back.

(The jury retired from the court-room.)

The Court: Why do you want the witness?

Mr. Turkus: I want a direction to the witness that he do not discuss the matters until his cross-examination is completed.

The Court: What good is that? The Court cannot follow the man up.

Mr. Barshay: Counsel all consent to it and give their word that they will not permit anyone else to talk to him in any respect whatever and we request your Honor to instruct the witness accordingly.

The Court: The Court has nothing to do with it.

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, I want to make this statement in the absence of the jury and what I was about to do when I came up here at recess time 8504 was to request you to let me make a statement in the absence of the jury. The jury being out I should now like to ask your Honor to permit us to put on this record an offer of proof of what we expected to prove by the last question asked of the witness Larry Cooper, that is to say the question relating to his conversation with Joseph Rosen at the time Joseph Rosen quit his employment by Larry Cooper. As the record now stands there is nothing to indicate what was expected to be proved 8505 by means of that corroboration.

The Court: You cannot fill the hole in by doing it in a dilatory manner.

Mr. Wegman: The witness is still available.

The Court: Call him back and make your offer in open court. What the Court wants to direct attention to is this: This morning there was presented at chambers by a representative of one of the counsel for defense two subpoenas duces tecum—I think they were duplicates. They called 8506 for police information as to traffic signals on the alleged route of rehearsal testified to by Bernstein as having been gone over a number of times prior to the alleged murder. The Court called the attention of this man to the fact that the subpoena was blind as to date, that apparently this would simply bring the present regulations or the present setup and not the setup as of the date of the alleged rehearsal, which 8507 is the only thing competent. An interpolation was then made by this man representing one of the counsel on the subpoena duces tecum but I told him that I did not think that it was adequate; I think it would tend to be confusing. I take it that what is wanted is what was the setup both as to arrow directions and as to traffic lights at the time of the alleged rehearsals of route. If you want to get a proper subpoena, I would suggest you read over what has already been signed and I will 8508 be glad to sign one which will avoid confusion.

Defendants are remanded.

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, the witness Larry Cooper is still in the court-room. May I ask for a direction that he return?

The Court: That is a recess now. The defendants are being led out.

(A recess was thereupon taken to 1:30 P. M.)

8509

(Afternoon Session. Trial Resumed.)

NAT SOBLER, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Cross examination by Mr. Turkus (continued):

Q. Don't look at Lepke, look at me.

Mr. Climenko: I move to strike out the remark and I ask that the jury be instructed to disregard it. 8510

The Court: It does not call for a ruling.

Mr. Climenko: I will ask for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the ground of prejudice calculated to be created by the District Attorney.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. On July 29, 1941, did you see this detective (indicating)? A. When? 8511

Q. On July 29, 1941, this year? A. Did I see this gentleman here?

Q. Yes. A. I think I did.

Q. Where is the Svirsky Clothing? A. Fifth Avenue.

Q. What street? A. 16th Street.

Q. Did you see this detective outside of the Svirsky Clothing on July 29, 1941? A. I said I did.

Q. Did you have a talk with him? A. A few words, yes, sir.

8512 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Is that the detective who accompanied you to the District Attorney's office? A. That is right.

Mr. Turkus: For the record, will you state your name, please?

Person Addressed: Frank S. Grey, Shield No. 475, District Attorney's office, Kings County.

8513 Q. Outside of this Svirsky Clothing Company, you were waiting for Plotkin to come and unload material he had on the truck, isn't that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. One of the R.S.Z. trucks? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That detective was waiting for you, wasn't he? A. I don't know if he was waiting for me, but he was waiting there.

Q. He had a conversation with you, Detective Grey? A. No conversation at all.

Q. Didn't he tell you he wanted you to accompany him to the District Attorney's office? A.
8514 That is right.

Q. Didn't you say you were busy, that you had some $100,000. worth of merchandise to take off the trucks? A. No, sir. I told him that I was a sick man, that I could not ride in the subway.

Q. When you told him you were a sick man, you could not ride in the subway, he took you in a taxicab? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He waited until your business was over? A. He did not.

Q. He did not? A. No, sir.

Q. He took you down in a taxicab to the District Attorney's office and himself paid $1.40 for the taxicab, didn't he? A. I don't know what the amount was.

Q. You did not pay? A. No, sir.

Q. And after the questioning was over in the District Attorney's office, you were taken home to your house by automobile? A. That is right.

Q. And the automobile was driven by a detective? A. I don't know if he was a detective. It was driven by a chauffeur.

Q. That is the incident you were talking about 8516 when you made that remark to the jury? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. Now, Plotkin was there with an R.S.Z. truck, wasn't he? A. Just a minute, Plotkin was a foreman of my wife's business, and they did not have any business to take him away from there or talk to him. They had no business. That is what I told him.

Q. Enough of the volunteering— Plotkin was the man on the truck, the man who came up with the R.S.Z. truck? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Plotkin did not go with you in the taxicab? 8517
A. No, sir.

Q. He came over by himself after the day's work was over? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was your brother-in-law's place of business at or about the time of the stoppage in 1932? A. On Washington Place.

Q. What is your brother-in-law's name? A. Sam Richter.

Q. He was in business with Dutch Schultz, wasn't he?

Mr. Barshay: I object.

8518 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

The Witness: He might have been—

Mr. Barshay: Please keep quiet.

Q. Look at me, don't look over there.

Mr. Barshay: Don't let him look, my face is not as nice as Mr. Turkus'.

Mr. Turkus: It is not a question of whose face is nice.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as wholly 8519 immaterial, who his brother-in-law was. It does not affect his credibility.

The Court: It does not. Objection sustained.

Mr. Turkus: There is something I want to lead to.

The Court: I would rather you lead to it first.

Q. You are a rich man, you would object to that, would you?

8520 Mr. Barshay: I object. I object, not to his being a rich man, but I object to two questions being asked.

Q. Well, we will sever them. You are a rich man? A. I don't know about it, maybe you know about it. I don't know about it.

Q. You don't know whether you are a rich man? A. I would like to know what you call a rich man.

Q. How much money have you got? A. (Witness remains mute.)

Mr. Turkus: All right, his answer is a shrug.

The Court: It is immaterial, anyway.

By the Court:

Q. Mr. Witness, have you stopped chewing gum? A. I am sick with my heart and I have to take something to stimulate.

Q. You keep chewing gum all the time? A. No, sir, once in a while I have to have it. 8522

Q. That is chewing gum? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Now you can talk clear.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. At the time or about the time of the stoppage did you talk to your brother-in-law, Sam Richter? A. I spoke to him lots of times.

Q. Did you have any talk with your brother-in-law together with Dutch Schultz? A. No, sir.

Q. After the stoppage was over, you had a business, didn't you? A. Yes. 8523

Q. We will come to that in a minute— Now, are you presently on disability insurance? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you collecting money every week? A. Yes, not every week.

Q. How often? A. Every month.

Q. This business you got in your wife's name, that was a deal you put over on the insurance company, wasn't it?

Mr. Barshay: I object. I object to the form of the question.

8524

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

By the Court:

Q. Yes or no? A. I did not take care of any business.

By Mr. Turkus:

8525

Q. You are there every day running the business, aren't you? A. No, sir.

Q. Your wife stays home, she is home now, isn't she? A. You know more about it than I do.

Q. Wasn't your wife home this morning? A. I don't know.

Q. You are collecting about $2,000. a week on these trucks you are running with the R.S.Z., aren't you? A. $1900., not $2,000.

Q. That makes a net profit of three or four hundred dollars a week? A. It is not what——

8526

Q. (Interrupting.) When you take in about $2,000., that means a net profit of about three or four hundred dollars a week? A. I don't know nothing about my wife's business.

Q. You don't know a thing about it? A. No, sir.

Q. You don't know where she banks her money? A. No.

Q. You don't know what checking account she maintains? A. What do you mean? What bank account?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir, I don't think she has got any.

Q. You live at home? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You see your wife every day? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I object to this line of inquiry as collateral and he is bound by the answers he has received.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You and your wife are not separated, are you? 8528

Mr. Barshay: I object. That does not affect his credibility.

Q. On July 29, 1941, when Detective Grey brought you up to the District Attorney's office in a taxicab, weren't you supervising the unloading of merchandise for the Svirsky Clothing?

Mr. Barshay: Objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. What was I doing, supervising? 8529

Q. Yes, bossing it? A. No, sir, I stood about a half a block or so away.

Q. A half a block away from the Svirsky Clothing? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many days a week did you spend a half a block away from the accounts your wife, you say, runs? A. It all depends.

Q. How many times a month? A. I don't go there for no accounts.

Q. You are in the clothing district all the time, aren't you? A. When I feel I would like to take a little walk.

8530

Q. You go there for your health? A. Yes, sir, just to see my old friends.

Q. That is the only business you had in that clothing and garment district? A. I had not any.

Q. You just go there to see old friends? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, weren't you the complainant before the impartial chairman against the employe Plotkin, who drives a truck for the R.S.Z.? A. No, sir, not me.

8531

Mr. Barshay: I object. That does not affect his credibility, whether he was a complainant or not.

The Court: What is an impartial chairman?

Mr. Turkus: That is somebody at the Labor Board. I will withdraw it in that form.

Q. You know what an impartial chairman is, don't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Speak up. Don't you? A. Yes, sir.

8532

Q. Speak up just as loud as you did for the counsel for Lepke. What is an impartial chairman? A. He is an adjuster of differences.

Q. Disputes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Between employer and employe? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your wife did not appear before the impartial chairman, did she? A. She did.

Q. You did, didn't you? A. No, sir, my wife.

Q. You did not appear at all? A. No, sir.

Q. Wasn't it you that gave testimony before the impartial chairman that Plotkin would not stay on the truck? A. My wife did.

Q. You were not there before the impartial chairman? A. No, sir. I was four floors below.

Q. Where was that building? A. I think it was 22.

Q. 22 what? A. 17th Street.

Q. Were you there four floors below seeing old friends in business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were there just at the time the complaint was being heard against Plotkin? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was a coincidence? A. Yes, sir. 8534

Q. How much worth of merchandise was in the R.S.Z. truck July 29, 1941, when Detective Grey accompanied you in a taxicab to the Brooklyn District Attorney's office?

Mr. Barshay: I object. That is too far afield and has nothing to do with his credibility. That is with the insurance company.

Mr. Turkus: That is for the jury to find out what kind of an individual we are dealing with.

8535

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

(Question repeated by reporter.)

A. I do not know.

Q. Did you tell Detective Grey there was $300,000. worth of merchandise on that truck? A. I told the detective the car there must have a load of stuff and he could not take a man away from his work during the day.

Q. Did you say $300,000. worth? A. I don't know whether it was $300,000. worth or $75,000.;

8536 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

there was plenty of merchandise there, I told him. I said to leave the man alone until he finishes his work on the truck.

Q. The man was left alone until that work was finished? A. Yes, sir, after my plea for him.

Q. Nobody ever did any pleading to bring you up to 35th Street and sign a statement, did they?

Mr. Barshay: I object. He had as much right to go to 35th Street as to your office.

8537

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Isn't this business you say is in your wife's name a set-up so as to defraud the insurance company and getting all these monthly checks?

Mr. Barshay: I object.

The Court: He has never said what the monthly checks are. They may be small or large.

By the Court:

8538

Q. What are the monthly checks? A. $12.50 a week.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Answer the question.

The Court: The previous objection placed to that same question was sustained. The ruling stands.

Q. In 1933, you were actively in the clothing trucking business, weren't you? A. Up to some part of 1933.

Q. Do you know Joey Miller? A. No.

Q. Do you know Barney Gold? A. No.

Q. See if this does not refresh your recollection— Were there a couple of loft thieves whom you knew? A. I did not know no thieves, for your information.

Q. Didn't you give them a tip-off on your own customers so these loft thieves could go in and burglarize places? A. Your Honor, can I say a 8540 word? What am I brought here for? As a thief?

Q. You are brought here to testify. A. You called me a thief.

Q. Don't look at Lepke. Look here. A. I am looking right at you. I did not give any tip-off to anybody.

Q. Did you live in Passaic, New Jersey, for ten year, from 1922 to 1932? A. I did not.

Q. You did not? A. No, sir.

Q. When did you live in Passaic, New Jersey? A. From 1922 to 1925, and then I moved back to New York, and kept in New York until 1927. 8541

Q. From Passaic, New Jersey, didn't you move to Elizabeth, New Jersey, for three years? A. That is right.

Q. Wasn't that three years from 1932 to 1935? A. Yes.

Q. Didn't you sign an affidavit in the District Attorney's office on July 29, 1941? A. Here?

Q. Yes, in Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you swear in that affidavit that you lived in Passaic, New Jersey, for about ten years, from 1922 to 1932? A. I lived about ten years.

8542 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Did you say that in the District Attorney's office under oath? A. What is that?

(Question repeated by reporter.)

The Witness: Yes, sir, I lived in 1925 and I went back to New York and stayed in New York until 1927; then I came back to Elizabeth—Passaic, New Jersey. From Passaic, New Jersey, I came to Elizabeth, New Jersey, and I stood there until 1933.

8543 How long is that?

Q. Didn't you state you lived in Passaic, New Jersey, from 1922 to 1932, for ten years? A. I might did, but I am incorrect.

Q. Did you say that from Passaic, New Jersey, you came to Elizabeth, where you lived for three years, from 1932 to 1935? A. That is right.

Q. And from 1935 on you lived in Brooklyn? A. One year, yes, sir.

Q. Don't you live in Brooklyn now? A. I live, yes.

8544 Q. Haven't you lived in Brooklyn since 1935? A. 1935 I moved to Brooklyn.

Q. You have been living in Brooklyn ever since? A. No. From Elizabeth I went down to the Bronx. I lived one year there.

Q. With the exception of one year in the Bronx, have you lived in Brooklyn ever since 1935? A. Yes, sir.

Q. With the exception of one year in which you were in the taxicab business, you have been in the clothing trucking for twenty-three years? A. That is right.

8545

Q. And your specialty was trucking in New Jersey? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you swear in the District Attorney's office, "My specialty was trucking in New Jersey and I was particularly active in the New Jersey field and familiar with it"? A. Yes, sir, but when I—

Q. Do not volunteer anything.

Mr. Barshay: I object. The witness ought to be allowed to explain his answer.

8546

The Witness: When I started this business in 1908 I started in New York and I had been around New York from 1920, nothing less. In 1920 or 1921 I started for New Jersey. That is the way it happened.

By the Court:

Q. Up to 1935 did you make any income tax report to the State of New York? A. Well, no, I was a Jersey man up to 1935.

8547

Q. When did you start to make any income tax report? A. 1933, when I moved back to New York.

Q. You mean after you left Elizabeth? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Never before that? A. No, sir.

Q. And on the Federal income tax report you only stated your address? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before that as New Jersey? A. That is right.

Q. Including the Elizabeth sojourn? A. Yes, sir.

8548 By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Was your affidavit in the District Attorney's office that you were a specialist in New Jersey trucking true? A. Yes, sir.

Q. From 1922 to 1925, were you a partner with Louis Cooper and Morris Bluestein in the New Jersey trucking business, known as the Garfield Express? A. That is right.

Q. After you were in that business for about 8549 three years, that was a very substantial business, wasn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in your opinion, that business, as an expert, was worth half a million dollars, isn't that so? A. That is right.

Q. Now, during 1925 Louis Cooper, Morris Bluestein, your partners, kicked you out of the business, didn't they? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were paid five or six thousand dollars for your share? A. That is right.

Q. And Morris Bluestein and Louis Cooper remained as partners together? A. That is 8550 right.

Q. Several months after that Bluestein got kicked out of the Garfield Express, didn't he?

Mr. Barshay: I object. That has nothing to do with this man's credibility and is not binding on this defendant.

The Court: If he was not in business?

Mr. Barshay: He said he was already out of business.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Do you know when Louis Cooper and Lepke became partners in the Garfield Express? A. I don't know.

The Court: When did he say he left the Garfield?

Mr. Turkus: 1925.

Q. Several months after you were kicked out of the Garfield Express by Cooper and Bluestein, your partners in it, Bluestein left the Garfield, didn't he? A. That is right. 8552

Mr. Barshay: Objected to as immaterial.

The Court: Sustained. Don't repeat.

Mr. Turkus: I am just leading up to something in cross-examination.

The Court: The previous objection was as to when Bluestein got out.

Mr. Turkus: Not got out, but kicked out.

The Court: After he was kicked out; so he would not know, only by hearsay.

Mr. Turkus: I will not press it. 8553

Q. In 1925, do you know of your own knowledge if Louis Cooper was the sole owner of the business, the Garfield Express?

Mr. Barshay: I object. He said he got out and after that, as your Honor suggested, is hearsay.

The Court: Objection overruled. He was asked if he knows of his own knowledge who was the sole owner.

8554

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: That Cooper was the sole owner in 1925?

The Witness: At the time I left he was partners with Morris Bluestein.

Q. How long after did Bluestein leave? A. I don't know.

Q. How many months? A. I don't know, a short time, maybe a year or so, I could not say.

8555

Q. Did you swear in the District Attorney's office that several months after that, referring to the time you were kicked out, that Bluestein went out of the Garfield Express and Louis Cooper remained the sole owner of the business? A. What did I swear? When I leave, then you ask me how long Morris Bluestein stayed with Louis Cooper?

Q. Didn't you say several months? A. Several months, I don't know how long he stood.

Q. And after that Louis Cooper became the sole owner? A. I don't know who became the sole owner. I was not there.

8556

Q. Didn't you say that in your affidavit? A. I don't know.

Q. Read the second paragraph, page two, and see if it refreshes your recollection. A. I have not got my glasses, I cannot read.

Q. I will read it for you.

Mr. Barshay: Go ahead and read it.

Mr. Turkus: "During 1925 Louis Cooper and Morris Bluestein kicked me out of business and I was paid five or six thousand dollars for my share." Is that right?

The Witness: That is right.

Q. Morris Bluestein and Louis Cooper remained partners? A. That is right.

Q. "Several months after that Bluestein went out of the Garfield Express and Louis Cooper remained the sole owner of the business"? A. That is something I cannot answer; I don't know who remained.

8558

Q. Up to that point everything is right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of your own knowledge, you know this, don't you, that after Bluestein left the Garfield Express he went into the clothing trucking business under the name of the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Co., Inc.? A. No, sir.

Q. He did not? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you state that in your affidavit in the District Attorney's office? A. If you will let me explain, I will.

8559

Q. Just explain whether you swore to that in the District Attorney's office. A. The District Attorney just got hold of people and gave them a break—I will explain it right. I didn't go to school. I don't know what it is all about. I can explain you how that thing happened.

Q. I am just asking you. Didn't you say in the District Attorney's office, in the third paragraph, page two, of that affidavit which you signed each sheet of and initialed corrections, that after Bluestein went out of the Garfield Express he went into the clothing trucking business under the name of the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company, Inc., and "I went in the taxicab business and went broke in that business about two years later."? Didn't you say that in the District Attorney's office under oath? A. If you let me explain—

Q. Explain yes or no. A. You have to explain me that. I did not answer that way. I did not understand it. I can explain what it is if you give me a chance. I will explain every-

8561 thing.

Q. You did not understand when you signed that in the District Attorney's office? A. Not so well I did not understand it.

Q. Did you go in the taxicab business and go broke in that business about two years later? A. I went broke in '25.

Q. Did you go in the taxicab business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said that in your affidavit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You went broke in the taxicab business?

8562 A. Yes, sir.

Q. You understood that affidavit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After you went broke in the taxicab business, didn't you meet Bluestein in the clothing district in Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You told that in your affidavit? A. Yes, sir, that is fine.

Q. That is the same Bluestein, who, with Cooper, kicked you out of the Garfield Express? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the clothing district in Manhattan, didn't Bluestein ask you how you were doing—rather, what you were doing—and you told him that your taxicab business had broken up and you were doing nothing? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you understand that when you said it in your affidavit? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Barshay: I object to this line of inquiry. It has nothing to do with the witness' credibility.

The Court: I don't know what it is leading to. 8564

Q. Didn't Bluestein suggest that you go back in partnership and that you join him in the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company? A. Not at that time, there was no New York and New Jersey in existence. When Bluestein took me in we organized the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company.

Q. At any rate, Bluestein suggested that you come back as a partner? A. Yes.

Q. And you went into a business known as the New York and New Jersey Transportation? 8565
A. No, sir, we established that about a week or so later.

Q. A week after the conversation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then in the District Attorney's office you misunderstood what you said, that Bluestein suggested that you go back in partnership under the joint name of the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company, which I did? A. There was no New York and New Jersey at that time.

Q. The New York and New Jersey Transportation Company, which you ran with Bluestein, that was a good business, wasn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You ran four or five trucks? A. That is right.

Q. You did most of the trucking in New Jersey, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You handled all lines of clothing? A. Yes, sir.

8567 Q. You had what is known in the trade as a free hand? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You understood that when you said that in your affidavit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Some time around the latter part of 1930, Martin Kelly and Joe Rosen were doing a clothing trucking business in New Jersey? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know that they were your competitors? A. Yes, sir.

Q. They were competing with you and Bluestein? A. Yes, sir.

8568 Q. They were trying to win over houses from you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you said to Bluestein about merging with Kelly and Rosen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. To end the competition? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You understood all that when you said that in the District Attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Kelly and Rosen came in as partners with you and Bluestein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you continued doing business under the name of the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company? A. That is right.

Q. In the early part of 1931 Kelly pulled out of the business with his trucks? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That left Bluestein, Rosen and you still in business as the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You understood that when you said it in the District Attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After Kelly pulled out, Rosen, Bluestein and yourself continued in the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you had New Jersey, didn't you? A. 8570
Yes, sir.

Q. New Jersey, with all its lines of trucking, with a free hand? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was the real paying part of the business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You understood that when you said that in the District Attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were using three or four trucks in the New Jersey business, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And with three or four trucks, you were doing your usual net, when you operated three 8571 or four trucks? A. It all depends upon the season. That is impossible.

Q. If it is impossible, tell me what you were netting, you and Bluestein and Rosen? A. You mean from their business there?

Q. Yes, in 1931. A. We netted around $3,000. or so.

Mr. Barshay: I object, unless the time is set in 1931.

Q. When was it that you and Bluestein and 8572 Rosen were having a free hand in the State of New Jersey, trucking all lines of clothing, and operating three or four trucks in the New Jersey business? A. 1931.

Q. What part of 1931? A. It must have been the latter part of 1931, for 1932—the latter part of 1931.

The Court: When this witness spoke of the net earnings for the trucks, did you 8573 mean roughly—he did not say by the week, or the month, or the year.

Q. What is the estimate that you made at that time? A. About a $1,000 a month.

Q. Net? A. No, sir, not net, gross.

Q. You had New York accounts, didn't you? A. Very little.

Q. In the New York accounts you had but one truck? A. Didn't have no trucks.

Q. Didn't you say in the District Attorney's office the New York accounts were just about holding their own and they had one truck? A.
8574 I used to do it with my own car. I only had a couple and I used to do it with my own car.

Q. Did you say in your affidavit that the New York accounts were just about holding their own and you needed about one truck? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you understand it when you said it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you understand, when you said it in the District Attorney's office, after Kelly pulled out, that Rosen, Bluestein and I continued as the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company, the real paying part of the business was in New Jersey, handling all lines with a free hand, we had over three or four trucks in the business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you understand it when you said it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You also had Pennsylvania business? A. No, sir, I want to correct that.

Q. What? A. Four trucks had been rolling in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Q. Before you start in correcting, let us see what you testified to— The fact is that you had 8576
Pennsylvania accounts? A. No, sir.

Q. Those were accounts that Joe Rosen brought in, weren't they? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Those were the accounts that Joe Rosen was seeking to get, Pennsylvania accounts? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Rosen did not put any money in this business? A. No, sir.

Q. Of course, not— He came in with the Pennsylvania accounts, trying to get the Pennsylvania business for the New York and New Jersey? A. Yes, sir.

8577

Q. The Pennsylvania business used to have four trucks, didn't it? A. Four trucks were used all around.

Q. Didn't you say in the District Attorney's office, under oath—and I call your attention to page three, where you crossed out the word "two" and wrote "to" in it. I will read it: "The Pennsylvania business required four trucks. It was not a paying business." Did you say that under oath? A. I said that, but the four trucks were running all around; we did not have no special trucks for Pennsylvania.

8578 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

Q. I am not asking you for an explanation. Didn't you say in the District Attorney's office, as follows—this is the whole paragraph: "After Kelly pulled out, Rosen, Bluestein and I continued as the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. "The real paying part of the business was in New Jersey, handling all lines with a free hand"? A. That is right.

Q. You were using three or four trucks in that 8579 business? A. That means the business on the whole.

Q. That the New York accounts were just about holding their own and needed but one truck? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember saying the Pennsylvania business required four trucks, and was not a paying business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That you remember was in the District Attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you swear under oath in the District Attorney's office that by discontinuing the Penn-
8580 sylvania business there was a good living for Rosen, Bluestein and myself? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that true? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The New Jersey business, of all lines, was commonly called in the trade a "gentlman's business"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that operated three or four trucks and was a good paying business? A. Two trucks.

Q. Didn't you say in the District Attorney's office, under oath, signing each page and swearing to the final page: "The New Jersey business of all lines was commonly called in the trade the gentleman's business and operated three or four trucks and was a good paying business"? A. I did.

Q. Do you want to correct that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the correction? A. The correction is that we never ran more than four trucks.

Q. It was known in the trade as a gentleman's business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it was a good paying business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you say this under oath—look at me—"To discontinue the Pennsylvania business 8582 would mean to cut down most of the expenses and leave us with the cream of the business"? A Yes, sir.

Q. Now, Rosen was trying to branch out into a new field in Pennsylvania? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He used to go there and try to get business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. If you got any business in Pennsylvania it meant the trucking business would not stay in New York any more, is that right?

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as specu- 8583
lative on his part.

A. That was Mr. Rosen's idea.

Q. That was what he was working on? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was the idea he propounded with great faith and sincerity?

Mr. Barshay: I object to the characterization.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. In 1932, in that general stoppage, when all

8584 the clothing truckers were stopped, Max Rubin came to you and told you the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company would have to stop on a certain day? A. That is not so.

Q. You understood that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you say in the District Attorney's office under oath, right above your signature, on page three of your affidavit of July 29, 1941: "That in 1932 before the general stoppage when all the clothing truckers were stopped, Max 8585 Rubin came to me and told me that the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company would have to stop on a certain day"? Didn't you say that? A. No.

Q. You did not say that? A. No, sir. You tried to make out in a different way.

Q. See if you can see your signature without glasses. A. My signature is all right, I know it, but I cannot see, I have no glasses.

Q. You cannot see your signature? A. I can see the signature but I cannot read it.

Q. You say you did not say that? A. I mean 8586 different.

Q. Let us hear what you meant. A. I mean—

Q. Wait a minute, I will find out what you mean. Was there a general stoppage? A. Right.

Q. Did you see Max Rubin before the general stoppage? A. Right.

Q. That is all right, as far as that goes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Max Rubin see you and talk to you about the stoppage? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he tell you that the New York and the New Jersey Transportation Company would have to stop? A. No, sir.

8587

Q. That part is not right? A. No, sir, that part is not right.

Q. Did the New York and New Jersey Clothing Transportation Company stop in that stoppage? A. Right.

Q. Did you understand this thing you said under oath in the District Attorney's office—"Some time in July, 1932, a general stoppage was called and trucks of the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company also stopped"? A. Right.

8588

Q. You understood that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was the time you were talking of your brother-in-law, Richter, about the stoppage? A. My brother-in-law don't have anything to do with any stoppage.

Q. Did you consult him for advice? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not see your brother-in-law with Dutch Schultz about this matter? A. You insult me. If you continue that, I am getting off the stand. Either talk as a person or I will get off the stand. I am a sick man. I cannot take it any more. Do you think you are telling that to me?

8589

Q. I think I understand with whom I am talking. A. I object to this. Who do you think you are, telling that to? Are you bringing me in with gangsters—Dutch Schultz—who knows him? Perhaps, you know him. I don't know him. Who the hell do you think you are?

(At this point the witness rises from his chair and starts to leave.)

The Court: Sit back in your chair.

The Witness: You mix me up with 8590 Dutch Schultz— Where do you come in to say that?

The Court: Sit back in your chair, compose yourself.

The Witness: I work for my living all my life; you have no business to call me Dutch Schultz. I don't know who Dutch Schultz is. Let me get out of here.

(Witness again rises from the chair and attempts to leave.)

8591 The Court: The witness is obviously in too nervous a state at the present moment to properly continue cross-examination.

The Witness: What did you ever give me for Dutch Schultz?

The Court: You are to blame for it, you are working yourself up to that state. Counsel has a right to ask questions, but you have gotten yourself in such a nervous state that I am going to allow you to rest for five minutes to pull yourself together, after which you can come back here. I 8592 will stand for no more of these outbursts. Listen to the questions and answer them, but do not volunteer information. We will take a recess for ten minutes. Lie down for ten minutes and pull yourself together. The defendants will be remanded.

(To the Jury:) Gentlemen, we will take a recess for about ten minutes. Do not discuss the case or allow anyone to talk to you in the interim.

(Defendants remanded.)

The Court: (After jury leaves room) You might state on the record something that did not appear. The witness was trembling from head to foot and in no condition to proceed at the moment with his examination.

8593

(The jury returned to the court-room.)

NAT SOBLER, resumed the stand:

8594

The Court: The witness' nervous condition must be taken into consideration. It is quite important to maintain a placid attitude in the cross-examination and it is just as important, ever more important, that the witness shall not permit himself to become riled and work himself up into a state by going off the handle and saying things that are not called for by the questions.

Mr. Turkus: May I respectfully state, your Honor, that that may carry an implication on the record.

8595

The Court: Nervousness to the point of trembling as the witness was, is largely a matter of gradation. All emotions work up that way.

Mr. Turkus: I just want to be sure the record does not carry an implication that there was something—

The Court: Let us say nothing more about it. We have the man's age and apparent nervous condition in mind.

Mr. Turkus: Shall I continue?

The Court: Yes.

8596 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. While the stoppage was on, Sobler, New York and New Jersey Transportation Company trucks did not roll, did they? A. No.

Q. Branch Storage rolled, didn't they? A. Yes.

Q. All other trucks did not roll? A. I don't know how many was rolling and how many not.

8597 Q. While the stoppage was on, isn't it true that Joe Rosen came to you one Saturday morning and told you that he was getting a job with the Garfield Express? A. Right.

Q. You said that in your affidavit? A. That is right.

Q. You understood that? A. That is right.

Q. Isn't it also true that you said to him on that occasion, "How in the world can you do that? I know Louis Cooper won't give you a job"? A. That is right.

Q. Did you say that in your affidavit? A. Yes.

Q. And you understood that? A. Yes.

8598 Q. And isn't it true that after that Rosen said either Lep or Louis Buchalter—which name he called him you cannot exactly say but it was one of the two—"is Cooper's partner and he is giving me the job"? A. Right.

Q. And you said that—

The Court: Wait a minute. There is no objection. Is that competent?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, it is. That was brought out on direct.

Mr. Barshay: I have no objection to it, your Honor.

The Court: All right.

8599

Q. So it was true, isn't it, and you understood that when you said it in your affidavit? A. That is right.

Q. So it was on one Saturday morning during the stoppage that Rosen told you that either Lep or Louis Buchalter was getting Rosen a job with the Garfield and that Lep or Louis Buchalter was Cooper's partner? A. That is right.

Q. Now, on that very Saturday, isn't it true that Max Rubin told Bluestein and you that you both were going to have the New Jersey knee pants business and the New York accounts that you had? A. Not on that Saturday.

8600

Mr. Barshay: The man has answered but when I get up, do not answer.

Q. What Saturday and when?

Mr. Barshay: I object to anything Mr. Rubin told this man, not binding on the defendant.

The Court: Sustained.

8601

Mr. Turkus: This is part of the direct proof and in contradiction of what was brought out on the direct testimony of this witness.

The Court: Mr. Turkus, when the defense was on that point and you did not object, the Court went out of its way, if you will recall, to suggest it was an objectionable point and you did not take advantage of it and then the Court said, to avoid being misunderstood as doing the District Attorney's work, the Court would not rule unless there was an objection. Do you recall that?

Mr. Turkus: I do.

The Court: I cannot accept your silence at that time as the basis for making incompetent evidence, on cross, competent.

Mr. Turkus: I sat here and permitted that—

The Court: The Court has to watch all the time and there are points when the Court must interrupt regardless of whether there is objection or not in order to see that the trial is fairly conducted.

8603

Mr. Turkus: I know, your Honor, but the tenor of his direct testimony is that Rosen walked out of a business in great glee or satisfaction and I want to show by his testimony what the true state of affairs was.

Mr. Barshay: If your Honor pleases, I object to the characterization of Mr. Turkus. There was no description of the manner in which Rosen walked out. There was no description of glee of any kind. He just said to this man he was going to work for Garfield, which is consistent with the State's case, and he has not shown anything inconsistent in this affidavit.

The Court: He said he was getting a job with the Garfield Express so was going to quit.

Mr. Barshay: That is it.

The Court: Objection is sustained.

Mr. Turkus: I am going to show it was not a quitting. I want to show the true situation in that respect.

The Court: I don't care who is on trial—

Mr. Turkus: All right.

The Court: It makes no difference. Nobody can have it counted against him that somebody else behind his back says something to somebody else still.

Q. After Rosen was out of the New York and 8606
New Jersey, did you and Bluestein continue in business and have the New Jersey knee pants business and the New York accounts which you had formerly had? A. Right.

Q. The knee pants business was the slavery business, wasn't it? A. Right.

Q. And the rest of the New Jersey business was the gentlemen's business, isn't that right? A. Right.

Q. The gentlemen's business consisted of coats, pants, and vests; isn't that right? A. That is right. 8607

Q. On coats, pants and vests—

The Court: What is slavery business?

Mr. Turkus: I am going to bring that out in a minute.

Q. Coats, pants, and vests, how much do you get for trucking that? A. By piece.

Q. How much per piece? A. Well, let us say for a coat we get about four cents, for a vest we get a cent and a half or two cents—all depends what the contractor—and for pants we get about two cents, we get for pants.

Q. You said the knee pants business was the slavery end of the business. A. That is right.

Q. What do you get for knee pants? A. About a cent.

Q. And that is in big bulk, isn't it? A. Yes.

Q. That is a lot of hard work and a small return? A. That is right.

Q. And the other stuff, the coats, the pants,
8609 and the vests, that is the cream of the business? A. That is right.

Q. The cream of the business you no longer had after the stoppage? A. No.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. Rosen has already been declared out of this business, your Honor, so it is no longer material here.

Mr. Turkus: I am going to show that the cream of the business went to Garfield Express, Louis Cooper, and the defendant.

8610 Mr. Barshay: What of it?

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. The cream of the business and everything except the knee pants business and the New York accounts all went to the Garfield Express? A. Right.

Q. And the New York accounts you have already told us was just holding its own? A. Right.

Q. So you were left with the short end of the business, weren't you? A. Right.

8611

Q. And the cream of it went to the Garfield? A. Right.

Q. And the Garfield still has it?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

A. I don't know about it.

Q. Didn't you say in the District Attorney's office and didn't you thereafter swear to it, "All the rest of the Jersey business that the New York and New Jersey Transportation Company had, went to the Garfield Express and they still have the business"? A. I said that.

8612

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. The evidence here is clear that Buchalter's disassociation from the Garfield took place some time in 1937 and we are not responsible for what happened thereafter.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did you and Bluestein handle the knee pants business in New Jersey and the New York accounts together as partners for some period of time?

8613

Mr. Barshay: When?

Q. After Rosen got out.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception, sir.

A. Yes.

8614 Q. A short time after that did Bluestein tell you he wanted to split, that Bluestein wanted the New Jersey knee pants business?

Mr. Barshay: Judge, I object to anything that transpired between Bluestein and this man. It is not in the presence of the defendant and it does not bind him in any way.

The Court: Conversation is incom-

8615 petent.

Q. Well, did Bluestein leave the partnership with you?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not binding on this defendant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception, sir.

(Pending question read).

Q. Did he leave the partnership that he had 8616 and go out of it? A. That took place about a year later or eight months later.

Q. But did he? A. Yes.

Q. Did you wind up with the New York City business? A. No.

Q. Who did? A. Bluestein did.

Q. And you retained the knee pants? A. The Jersey business.

Q. That is slavery business that you told us about? A. That is right.

Q. Did you take over the city business later? A. Yes.

8617

Q. When was that? A. About six or seven months, five months, later.

Q. And Bluestein took over the Jersey knee pants then? A. That is right.

Q. A short time thereafter didn't Bluestein go broke and the New Jersey knee pants business also go to the Garfield?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, not binding on this defendant that any man went broke. It does not connect him in any way. 8618

Mr. Turkus: This is within the period that Lepke was a partner in the Garfield Express.

The Court: How would he know another one did go broke?

Mr. Turkus: I withdraw it in that form.

Q. Didn't the Garfield shortly thereafter get the New Jersey knee pants business that you and Bluestein once had? 8619

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is incompetent here. It is not binding on this defendant.

The Court: He can state whether or not he knows that.

Mr. Barshay: Yes or no.

By the Court:

Q. Do you know that? A. I can explain that, your Honor.

8620

Q. Do you know it one way or the other? A. Yes, the Garfield paid him money for the business.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. How much, $500? A. $500.

Q. You have been in contact with Bluestein recently, haven't you? A. Yes.

Q. How many times? A. Maybe once or twice a week, still friendly, I see him often.

8621

Q. Talk about this case? A. No.

Q. Was not Morris Bluestein one of the men that went with you to 35th Street? A. Right.

Mr. Barshay: That is 1940.

Q. Yes, in June or July of 1940? A. I can't remember the date.

Q. The time that you signed the statement? A. That is right.

Q. When Philly had you come up, you remember that? A. Yes.

8622

Q. Bluestein was with you? A. That is right.

Q. And he was one of the men who brought you to this place where you signed the statement? A. That is right.

Q. In before the impartial chairman, Sobler, didn't Plotkin refuse to go on with the hearing while you were present at the hearing?

Mr. Barshay: Please, that is a collateral matter. He is bound by the answer. It certainly does not bind this defendant what happened in '41 between this man and the impartial chairman.

8623

Mr. Turkus: This is as to his credibility. It is cross-examination.

Mr. Barshay: It is collateral. He has already answered he was not there. He is bound by the answer.

Mr. Turkus: I have a right to refresh his recollection on cross-examination. As Judge Talley used to say, you can even be repetitious on cross-examination.

Mr. Barshay: I am glad you and the Judge agree.

8624

The Court: For once you agree with Judge Talley. Read the question slowly.

(Pending question read.)

Mr. Turkus: That is a preliminary question.

By the Court:

Q. Do you know one way or the other? A. I don't know what happened there. I was not there.

8625

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Didn't your wife then take the stand and swear in your presence that the business was in her name but that you were the boss?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir. The man said he was not there.

The Court: He was asked whether or not he was present and heard his wife swear—

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

8626 The Court: That he, after all, was the boss?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: He can answer that.

Mr. Turkus: That is all I want him to answer.

The Court: Because if he was not the boss, he could have jumped up and protested.

The Witness: What is that?

8627 (Pending question read.)

A. Don't you know nothing about it.

By the Court:

Q. Did you hear her so testify? A. I don't know nothing about it. I was never for the unpartial chairman or had anything to do with it.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. This affidavit that you signed each sheet and swore to, you read that in your own house, didn't you? A. I did.

8628 Q. Assistant District Attorney Joseph was one of the men that went on the automobile ride to your home, wasn't he? A. That is right.

Q. And you sat down in the leisure and privacy of your own home and read this affidavit with your glasses, didn't you? A. That is right.

Q. And in your presence one word that was misspelled was corrected, wasn't it? A. I suppose so.

Q. And you initialed it in the margin? A. That is right.

Q. And there was some relative or some friend of yours at home when you read this leisurely, wasn't there? A. That is right.

Q. Who was that relative? A. A brother-in-law of mine.

Q. What is his name? A. Sam Richter.

Q. And Sam Richter, with his own handwriting, made the correction on page 3 of the affidavit, didn't he? A. That is right.

Q. And you initialed the correction and so did your brother-in-law, Sam Richter? A. That is right. 8630

Q. So it was read over, not only by you but your brother-in-law, Sam Richter; is that right? A. That is right.

Q. And that is the Sam Richter that you have been testifying about heretofore, isn't it? A. That is right.

Q. How long after, in the privacy of your own home, that you read this affidavit and swore to it, was it that you appeared in one of the offices of counsel for Lepke? A. I don't know, maybe about six weeks or eight weeks. Before that. I really can't recollect. Perhaps maybe 8631 before that. I think I said before that.

Q. Which offices did you go to? A. 60 Wall Street.

Mr. Turkus: That is all.

Mr. Barshay: Let us see the date of that affidavit, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: July 29, 1941.

Mr. Barshay: May I call your Honor's attention that the District Attorney has failed to offer this affidavit in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: It is offered in evidence.

8632 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Barshay: Just a second. Let me finish my statement.

Mr. Turkus: The affidavit is offered in evidence.

Mr. Barshay: I will accept it. Let me see it. There is nothing inconsistent in that affidavit with this man's testimony.

Mr. Turkus: I made an offer. You said you accepted it.

Mr. Barshay: Let me look at it. You
8633 do not want me to do it blindly, do you?

We have no objection to that part of the statement offered by Mr. Turkus except that which would be incompetent because of hearsay statements and not in the personal knowledge of this man.

The Court: That is what I figured, that when you got reading the full affidavit you would find more or less incompetent matter.

Mr. Barshay: That is right, sir. To the competent part we have no objection.

8634 Mr. Turkus: I deem the entire affidavit competent. Will the Court read it?

The Court: Do not pass this responsibility to the Judge. There was an offer and acceptance.

Mr. Turkus: There was an offer and acceptance.

The Court: Now if the Judge rules this way or that way, contrary to the way counsel views it, there will be an exception, maybe a motion for a mistrial. Either let it go in or withdraw your acceptance.

Mr. Barshay: I did not accept it unconditionally. I said I accept his offer but I have a right to view every instrument offered in evidence.

The Court: You would be foolish not to.

Mr. Barshay: I would be foolish not to. I would not be a lawyer if I did not.

The Court: The affidavit is excluded.

Mr. Turkus: May I reopen the cross for one or two questions?

The Court: Yes. 8636

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Weren't you threatened to get out of your business?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it unless it is connected with this defendant.

The Court: I don't know what it is. Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

The Court: Yes or no. 8637

A. No.

Q. Didn't you state in the District Attorney's office that you were told that was what you were going to get and you would have to take it, referring to the knee pants business?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it as not binding on this defendant, and as far as this defendant is concerned it is absolutely hearsay.

8638 The Court: Does this apply to his direct examination?

Mr. Turkus: It applies to his direct examination.

The Court: How? He said nothing about that or anything connected with it.

Mr. Turkus: He did. He explained the chronology or events of his connection with with clothing business before and after Rosen and I am taking this because 8639 there is one other sentence that I want to read to him.

Mr. Barshay: Just a second, your Honor. How can any threat made by any other person except the defendant or his direct agent bind this defendant?

Mr. Turkus: That is what it was, the directed agent.

Mr. Barshay: I object—

Mr. Turkus: If your Honor will refer to the testimony of Rubin— I have a right even to make a defense witness mine 8640 for a point.

The Court: What part of the testimony?

Mr. Turkus: Where there was the talk between Rubin and the defendant Lepke about the general stoppage and what had to be done to engineer it. Lepke sent him out to see all the truckers, all with the exception of Cooper, whom he himself, Lepke, would take care of, and with the exception of the Branch, which he said could not be stopped, and specifically sent him to the New York & New Jersey—

8641

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, the proof—

Mr. Turkus: —to stop them. That is what I want.

Mr. Barshay: Are you finished? May I address the Court?

The Court: What is the question?

(Pending question read.)

Mr. Barshay: Before he answers, may I direct your Honor's attention that this man was never spoken to either by Rosen. When I asked him on direct examination your Honor sustained the objection, nor is there proof—

8642

The Court: I don't want to interrupt, but I intend to sustain the objection upon the ground it is not definite as to who made the alleged threat.

Mr. Turkus: All right. I will go into that.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Weren't you told during the course of the stoppage or before it—

8643

The Court: By whom?

Q. —by Max Rubin that you were going to get the knee pants business and that is all, and you would have to take it whether you liked it or not?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. Max Rubin himself said he never spoke to Blue-

8644 stein or Sobler and that he directed his remarks only to Rosen.

Mr. Turkus: There is no such testimony.

The Court: Are you sure?

Mr. Turkus: I am sure. Mr. Klein remembers the record.

Mr. Klein: Spoke to all three partners.

The Court: You say you have, according to the record, an apparent delegation
8645 of authority by Buchalter?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: Apparently constituting agency?

Mr. Turkus: That is right.

The Court: What you are asking for is the representation making Rubin an agent. Then you have the question as to what the agent said. The question is whether or not in a criminal case a statement of the agent of that kind is admissible and binding upon a defendant. Inasmuch as the terms did not expressly 8646 authorize such a threat to be made, I don't see how you can get it in as competent.

Mr. Turkus: I am not going to put it as a threat. Rubin was authorized,—more than authorized, he was directed specifically,—to stop the New York & New Jersey, and he was specifically directed how to treat with them after he had reported back to Lepke.

The Court: Nothing that he would say in excess of the authority expressly thereby given.

Mr. Turkus: This is not in excess. He told this man that he would have to take that knee pants business, which this witness has testified to is the slavery end of the business; that is what he was going to get, and that is what he would have to take.

The Court: I am trying to think of what Rubin testified Buchalter told him. Just what was the language, according to the record?

8648

Mr. Barshay: Your Honor, the only thing Rubin said on the point was that the Svirsky account would be turned over to the New York & New Jersey.

The Court: What account?

Mr. Barshay: The Svirsky account would be turned over to the New York and New Jersey. When Rosen said or is alleged to have said that, all he had of this was the little Pennsylvania business. It was neither a threat nor an intimidation.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor refer to page 1147 et seq. of the record? I think it comes in at that point, 1149—1147, 1148, and 1149.

The Court: I will find it in my notes in a minute. According to my notes Buchalter told Rubin that Katz wanted a stoppage of all trucks, as the New York business was going to Pennsylvania, whereupon Rubin told Buchalter that he had doubts about stopping Cooper of the Garfield and also the New York and New Jersey and also the Branch Storage.

8650 Mr. Turkus: Yes, there is more than that, too.

The Court: What page?

Mr. Turkus: 1147, '48, and '49. That is at one point. I think there will be more on cross if we have a chance to search for it.

Mr. Barshay: I have it right here.

The Court: Will you wait a minute. At 1150 there is quite an answer.

8651 Mr. Turkus: It continues along. I just gave your Honor a starting point.

The Court: Yes, at 1150 particularly, because there he is reporting when he came back, and apparently what he told Lepke, because 1149-A says:

"Relate what you told us you said to Lepke. A. Regarding the New York & New Jersey?

"Q. Yes."

Then on the next page he tells. It appears therefore, by what I have just read, to mean that he told what was related on 8652 1150 to Lepke.

The objection is overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. I call your Honor's attention to the record directly that Lepke gave no other instructions to Rubin except to see them and report back, and he does not say anything about "Go out and threaten them," and if Rubin acted beyond his authority, that is Rubin's business.

The Court: No, he said more than that. The answer was on page 1148: "He told me to go out and see what I could do." That, of course, is vague and general.

Mr. Barshay: That is right.

The Court: That alone would not admit of this answer which is now sought, but in view of the alleged report back and Buchalter accepting it, the answer may now be given.

Mr. Barshay: But, your Honor, he had never sent for this witness or the partner, Bluestein, thereafter. He said, according 8654 to the testimony here, "You tell Rosen I want to see him."

Mr. Turkus: He did not have to send for them any more. He only had Rosen to deal with.

Mr. Barshay: I am talking for the record.

The Court: I would not let this in if I did not think it was safe.

Mr. Barshay: I take an exception.

(Pending question read.)

8655

A. Not before; I was after the stoppage, about three or four days after the stoppage, when the thing was settled—

Q. We did not hear your answer. A. I was told—

Q. Yes. A. I was not told before or in the stoppage, but I was told after the stoppage, when they settled up, when they settled.

Mr. Barshay: Did you finish your answer?

Q. Did you finish? A. Yes.

8656 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Didn't you say, on page 4 of the affidavit, which you read in the comfort of your own home, alongside of your brother-in-law, Sam Richter, the following: "On that Saturday Max Rubin told Bluestein and me that we are going to have the New Jersey knee pants business and the New York accounts which we had. The knee pants business was the slavery business. The rest of the New Jersey business was the gentleman's business, which consisted of coats, pants, and 8657 vests. I argued with Rubin and told him that he was leaving me the slavery business and that I could not make a living with it, but Rubin told me that is what I was going to get and I would have to take it. I remember on that occasion that I fainted."

Did you say that and swear to it?

Mr. Barshay: I object to that as not binding on the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: It is in excess of Mr.
8658 Rubin's authority. It is binding only on Rubin.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. Can I answer now?

Q. Yes. A. Everything is right, but I don't know how you got that in on Saturday. Max Rubin told me about three or four or five days later.

Q. You mean during the stoppage it happened? A. After the stoppage.

Q. Let me go along point by point: Did Max

8659

Rubin tell Bluestein and you that you and Bluestein were going to have the New Jersey knee pants business and the New York accounts that you had? A. Right.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. It is not binding on the defendants.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. You understood that when you said that? A. Right.

8660

Q. Did you say this: "The knee pants business was the slavery business. The rest of the New Jersey business was the gentleman's business"? A. That is right.

Q. "Which consisted of coats, pants, and vests." Did you say that?

Mr. Barshay: I object to that. It is not inconsistent with what he said on direct.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Barshay: It is merely repetitious, sir, and does not add weight to it.

8661

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Did you say that? A. Yes.

Q. Did you say in your affidavit: "I argued with Rubin and told him that he was leaving me the slavery business and that I cannot make a living with it"? A. Right.

Q. And could you understand that when you said it? A. Right.

Q. Did you also and did you understand this:

8662 "But Rubin told me that is what I was going to get and I would have to take it"?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir. It is not binding on the defendant Buchalter and hearsay as to him.

The Court: Overruled.

A. Right.

Q. Did you understand this when you said this 8663 under oath: "I remember on that occasion that I fainted"?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it. That is not binding on the defendants. There is no proof that as the result of that conversation he fainted. He almost did here. He is a sick man. It would have a bad impression to leave with the jury.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Turkus: Don't worry so much about him.

8664 Mr. Barshay: I am worried about my defendant, not to be prejudiced in anything. He fainted because somebody else told him.

Q. Do you remember saying that? A. What?

The Court: That you fainted.

Q. That you fainted on that occasion.

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

A. Yes, I did.

8665

Q. You fainted because you were winding up with the slavery business, isn't that right?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: All right, let the jury figure it out.

Redirect examination by Mr. Barshay:

8666

Q. As a matter of fact, Mr. Sobler, before you signed this affidavit at your home on the 29th of July, 1941, you already had been to the office of Wegman & Climenko on July 15, 1941? A. That is right.

Q. And you told them a story there, did you not? A. Yes.

Q. And that was the same story, substantially, you told Mr. Turkus? A. That is right.

Q. And as you told here? A. That is right.

Q. And you were subpoenaed as a witness to tell your story? A. That is right.

8667

Q. You did not dictate this affidavit to a stenographer, did you? A. No.

Q. You were asked questions and made answers? A. Yes.

Q. Is that so? And as a result of the questions and answers, someone in the District Attorney's office dictated the substance of what you were asked and answered, isn't that so? A. That is about. Can I answer that in my own way?

Q. Go ahead, answer it in your own way. A. Everything is about right there but Mr. Max did not tell me during the strike or in the strike that, that i am going to take, but he told me about three or four days when Joe Rosen was out of the picture altogether, "That you are going to get and no more."

Q. In other words, he told you after the strike? A. Yes.

Q. But he told it to you? A. Yes.

Q. Did Buchalter ever threaten you? A. No.

Q. How long do you know him? A. I know him from about, I think it was, 1927.

8669 Q. Did Buchalter ever put you out of business? A. No.

Q. The business of Rosen at Pennsylvania, was it a paying proposition or a losing proposition? A. No, that dragged us all in the expense we had; we could not make it pay.

Q. In other words, what Rosen brought in bogged the concern down?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. We have had Mr. Barshay testify to everything on redirect so far, and it is not inconsistent 8670 with the cross-examination. It is improper.

Mr. Barshay: I do not understand you, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: You have been testifying with leading questions.

Mr. Barshay: It is the only way you can prove redirect unless you forget about the rule. I am sorry.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. At any time while Rosen was connected with your concern, Mr. Sobler, did you draw $100 every week? A. No.

Q. Did Rosen ever draw $100? A. No.

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. This is improper redirect. Nothing like that brought out on cross.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Wasn't it a fact that when you finally gave up the Pennsylvania business, which is the only 8672 thing Rosen put in, that your concern began to make a living? A. Right.

Q. And even that living, did that amount to $100 a week? A. No.

Q. At any time did it amount to near $100 a week? A. No, I don't think—

Q. When you gave up the concern— A. —that it—

Q. Do you recall ever getting $100 a week? A. No.

Q. Or $75 a week? A. Yes, we had weeks we draw $75, after. 8673

Q. After when? A. After Rosen withdraw.

Q. In other words, then, there were only two partners? A. Two partners.

Q. But when Rosen was there— A. No.

Q. You did not draw that? A. We did not draw a cent.

Q. As a matter of fact, Mr. Sobler, when you wound up the New York & New Jersey, did you pay your telephone bill? A. No.

Q. Did you have money to pay it, the corporation, not you?

8674 Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, this is a reconduct of the direct examination all over again. Nothing touched on cross.

Mr. Barshay: I am showing the insolvency of the concern before, during, and after Rosen left, that is all.

Mr. Turkus: This was all gone over on direct.

The Court: After he left is of no consequence, but it does not contradict what 8675 has already been testified to, that the business went down hill following the conference off of Broadway, which was on or about the month of July. Sustained.

Q. From the time Rosen entered your concern with the Pennsylvania business, did your concern show a profit with respect to what Rosen brought in?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered on direct examination. This is 8676 not an issue in the case.

Mr. Barshay: Just a second.

The Court: I sustain the objection, but not on that ground.

Mr. Barshay: Exception. Your Honor has suggested that the business went down after a certain alleged conference. I say the proof from this man has been entirely to the contrary.

The Court: If you will think a second about your question, you will see it is incompetent, because it said with respect to what Rosen brought in. Nobody knows what that kind of a question means, and an accountant might have a hard job figuring it out.

Q. Mr. Sobler, up to the time Kelly left, was your concern earning a livelihood? A. No.

Q. From the time Kelly left up to the time Rosen left, was your concern earning a livelihood? A. No.

8678

Mr. Turkus: I object to this, Judge. This is a repetition of redirect after a cross.

The Court: It is now a repetition. That was the very purpose of the direct. Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: I only put it, sir, in answer to your Honor's suggestion that the business began to slide down after a certain alleged conference.

The Court: I did not make any suggestion, just gave a reason for a ruling.

8679

Mr. Barshay: I beg your pardon. Maybe the word "suggestion" was a word ill advised. Whatever you may call it—

The Court: Words of wisdom.

Mr. Barshay: Words of wisdom, and through this witness it has been proved that was not the fact at all. The business was bad during Kelly's presence there, after Kelly left; after Rosen left it began to show a livelihood.

The Court: The jury has to figure when the business was not paying anyone why people who had to eat all that time continued it for a year and a half.

8680 Nat Sobler—For Defts.—Recross

Mr. Barshay: I am not even concerned with that angle of it.

Q. Did you at any time after Rosen left have any substantial balance in the bank?

Mr. Turkus: That is the same as direct.

The Court: Sustained.

8681

Q. Did you at any time have enough money there to even draw the agreed earnings under the contract?

Mr. Turkus: That is objectionable. It has been gone over on direct.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: I have one final question.

Mr. Barshay: Excuse me, Mr. Turkus.

8682 By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Had you ever been arrested in your life? A. No.

Q. Had you ever been convicted of any crime? A. No.

Recross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. The Svirsky Clothing, that is an account of the R. S. & Z., isn't it? A. Right.

Q. Which you say is your wife's business? A. That is right.

Q. How long has Svirsky been on account either for you or your wife? A. Well—

Q. How long, that is all. A. Well, I could not say how long. At least you give me a chance to explain how long.

Q. No, just tell me the number of years. A. I can't answer.

Q. All right, then don't answer.

Mr. Barshay: That is all, Mr. Sobler. Mr. Baker. 8684

Mark this for identification. That is Mr. Sobler's affidavit, signed in July, 1940.

Mr. Turkus: That is an improper statement on the record. When a paper is offered for identification, it should not be characterized in the presence of the jury.

Mr. Barshay: Judge, he brought it out; I did not bring it out.

Mr. Turkus: The witness is off the stand.

The Court: What did he call it?

Mr. Turkus: He called it an affidavit. 8685

Mr. Barshay: Signed on the date it is signed.

Mr. Turkus: There should not be any characterization of the instrument.

Mr. Barshay: What do you call it, Mr. Turkus?

Mr. Turkus: Please, Mr. Barshay, I have a right—

The Court: What did he call it now?

Mr. Turkus: Just say, "I offer this to be marked for identification." You don't 8686 characterize it or its contents for the benefit of jury consumption.

Mr. Barshay: Who ever said anything about the contents? I urge your Honor to look at this paper. I said, "I offer this for identification, sworn to." I called it an affidavit.

The Court: This is simply bickering.

Mr. Barshay: That is right.

Mr. Turkus: It is not simply bickering
8687 at all. Your Honor will read what he said.

The Court: He called it an affidavit, didn't he?

Mr. Barshay: Yes.

The Court: No harm done. Mark it for identification.

(Paper marked Defendant's Exhibit Z-8 for identification.)

The Court: Whose testimony does Mr. Baker's testimony refer to?

Mr. Barshay: The testimony of Allie
8688 Tannenbaum.

Ellsworth Baker—For Defts.—Direct 8689

ELLSWORTH BAKER, residing at Monticello, New York, called as a witness on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. Mr. Baker, are you an attorney at law duly admitted to practice law in the State of New York? A. I am.

Q. Since when? A. 1905. 8690

Q. 1905? Where is your office? A. Monticello, New York.

Q. How long has it been there? A. Been there since '26. Prior to that time it was in Hurleyville, about six miles from Monticello.

Q. Are you admitted to practice in other courts in the United States? A. In the Southern District of New York.

Q. Was there a time when you were the duly elected District Attorney of Sullivan County? A. There was.

Q. When? A. I was elected about a year, one 8691 or two years, after I was admitted to the Bar.

Q. How long did you serve? A. One term.

Q. Thereafter you continued in the practice of law? A. I did.

Q. You knew the Tannenbaum family? A. I knew Albert Tannenbaum's father and I probably knew his son, the witness here, although I doubt if I would recognize him until this matter came up in Sullivan County in 1940.

Q. Who retained you on behalf of Allie Tannenbaum in 1940? A. His father, Samuel Tannenbaum, first communicated with me.

8692 Ellsworth Baker—For Defts.—Direct

Q. And after you were retained by his father, did you consult with the defendant then, the witness here, Allie Tannenbaum? A. I consulted with him after talking with his father. I am not certain that his father retained me. He talked with me about it and then afterward I talked with Allie Tannenbaum and I think it was as the result of conversations with both that I agreed to represent him. Subsequently I was assigned by the Court to represent him.

8693 Q. So that no other person except his own father retained you to represent Tannenbaum? A. Except at that time himself and afterward designation by the Court.

Q. I mean no outside source? A. No.

Q. I want to get that straight. A. I did not understand your question.

Q. Now in the course of your preparation of Mr. Tannenbaum's defense in Sullivan County on the charge of murder, did you prepare an affidavit? A. I did.

Q. What was the affidavit? A. An affidavit
8694 accompanying a notice of motion for an inspection of the minutes of the Grand Jury which had found the indictment.

Q. Did you draw that affidavit on behalf of Mr. Tannenbaum after consultation with him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you submit it to him? A. I did.

Q. Did you do that personally? A. I did.

Q. Where? A. In the County Jail.

Q. And in your presence what did he do with the affidavit? A. Read the affidavit, signed it, swore to it.

Q. Did you also act as a notary? A. I did.

Q. You are a notary, too? A. I am.

8695

Q. Was anyone else present? A. No one. No one, except this signing was in a small room which opens on a corridor and I think a jailer was out in the corridor. No one was in the room at the time.

Q. No other people? A. No.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Tannenbaum when you handed him the affidavit what it was for? A. I told him previous to that what the affidavit was to be prepared for.

Q. Tell us what did you tell him.

8696

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. There is nothing inconsistent here. I cannot understand the purpose of calling this witness.

Mr. Barshay: I will tell you briefly. Mr. Tannenbaum said under oath—he admitted it right here—that in New Jersey, in the trial of Workman, he said under oath then, charging this man Mr. Baker, a former District Attorney of that county, with handing him a paper and saying this was a bill of particulars.

8697

Mr. Turkus: Oh, that is utterly nonsensical. That never happened in this trial at all.

Mr. Barshay: I did not say in this trial; I said in the Workman trial. It was repeated here on cross-examination.

Mr. Turkus: He admitted he thought the paper in New Jersey was a motion for a bill of particulars. That is a motion for inspection of Grand Jury minutes. To a layman it may be synonymous.

Mr. Barshay: That explanation may be 8698 acceptable to you but not to a man who has practiced law that long.

Mr. Turkus: Don't switch the trial. We are trying Lepke. I object to this. We have a murder indictment here, not anybody's personal feelings.

The Court: What difference does it make?

Mr. Turkus: I cannot understand—

8699 By the Court:

Q. You told him the nature of the paper and he understood it and swore to it, didn't he? A. I told him the nature of the paper and I had every reason to believe he understood it.

Q. And he read, signed and swore to it? A. Yes.

Mr. Barshay: That is all I want.

By Mr. Barshay:

8700 Q. You never told him it was a bill of particulars? A. Oh, no.

Q. You never misled him, that is the point?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that. There is no contention he was misled.

Mr. Barshay: Then I am satisfied, Mr. Turkus. That is all.

Mr. Turkus: Thank you, Mr. Baker.

Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Direct 8701

CARL SHAPIRO, residing at 3301 Springdale Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland, called as a witness on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Wegman:

Q. Mr. Shapiro, what is your business? A. Clothing business, men's clothing business.

Q. And are you connected with a corporation engaged in that business? A. Yes, sir. 8702

Q. What is the name of that corporation? A. Raleigh Manufacturers, Incorporated.

Q. What office do you hold? A. Treasurer.

Q. Are you in direct charge of the operations of that business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And have you been in charge of those operations since the year 1936, including the year 1936? A. I have been in charge of that business since the inception, which was in 1935.

Q. Did that business occupy an office in the building at 200 Fifth Avenue? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And have you, at my request, produced the lease under which that office was occupied? A. 8703
Yes, sir.

Q. Did that lease come out of the files and records of your corporation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And to your knowledge that is the lease covering the premises? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wegman: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: This is a lease for Room 1011, commencing on the 1st of February, 1936, and terminating on the 1st of May, 1937. It is objectionable. It has no com-

8704 petency, materiality or relevancy to anything brought out on the People's case.

The Court: What is it?

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, it has a direct bearing on testimony in the People's case.

The Court: By whom?

Mr. Wegman: By means of this lease, that would be the office that was occupied in that building and demonstrate that it 8705 was on the floor different from the floor testified to by witnesses for the People who said they were there.

Mr. Turkus: It says on the tenth story, Room 1011 on the tenth story. Will your Honor read this?

The Court: What was testified to?

Mr. Wegman: They testified the seventh floor.

Mr. Turkus: They did not. They said the tenth floor.

Mr. Wegman: What?

8706 Mr. Turkus: They said the tenth floor. Why, that is in corroboration of the People's witnesses. That lease corroborates the People's witnesses.

Mr. Wegman: I press it.

Mr. Turkus: Go ahead, press it. I withdraw the objection. Thanks for the exhibit. I could not get it.

Mr. Wegman: You could by asking for it at any time, and you know that. You know you have the power of subpoena and it is a New York corporation.

The Court: Take it.

8707

Mr. Turkus: I get something from you?

The Court: I suggest that you check over your minutes and see what the stenographer took down.

Mr. Wegman: I will do that, but there is a further purpose for the offer.

(Lease received and marked Defendants' Exhibit 7, in evidence.)

8708

Mr. Turkus: The exhibit should be read to the jury as long as it is in evidence now.

The Court: What room is it?

Mr. Turkus: Room 1011, on the tenth floor.

The Court: You do not want to read all that lease. Can't you paraphrase it, tell the jury what it is?

Mr. Wegman: All right, Mr. Turkus, perhaps you and I can agree that this is a lease dated January 29, 1936, between the Fifth Avenue Building Company and Raleigh Manufacturers, Inc., covering premises known as Room 1011, as shown by the red ink lines on plan attached hereto, on the tenth story of the building known as the Fifth Avenue Building, to be used solely as a wholesale showroom for men's clothing and for no other purpose whatsoever, for the term of one year and three months, to commence on the 1st day of February, 1936, to end on the first day of May, 1937, at a rental of $1560. There is not anything else in here that you want me to read, is there?

8710 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Turkus: No.

Mr. Wegman: Perhaps, however, we might read this to the jury: "It is understood and agreed that upon the execution and delivery of this lease, the lease heretofore made to the tenant of Room number 911 in the Fifth Avenue Building, dated December 10, 1935, is hereby terminated, and the sub-lease made by the tenant of said room 911 from Murray Knitwear Company, Inc., is terminated as of February 1, 1936."

8711

Mr. Turkus: That part is not necessary, but it has been read. It does not make any difference. It has no application.

Q. Mr. Shapiro, using this court room for the purpose of estimation, will you describe to his Honor and the jury about how large that office was?

8712

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. I object to it. The exhibit is the best evidence and it speaks for itself. Defendants' Exhibit 6, in evidence, is the best evidence of the size of the office.

The Court: Does it state it?

Mr. Turkus: It is put on there in red ink on the diagram.

The Court: This does not seem to identify Room 1011.

Mr. Turkus: Well, if you read the text of the lease, your Honor, you will see that it refers to that portion of it marked in red ink on the exhibit which you have just turned over. If you will look at the exhibit, then read the lease, you will see that from the language of the lease that exhibit is incorporated therein and made part thereof and identifies the portion of the premises leased to the Raleigh by the landlord.

The Court: I see one that has figures "11". It does not give dimensions. 8714

Mr. Wegman: It does not give dimensions and that is what I am trying to get from the witness, if your Honor pleases, approximately by comparison with this room so that the jury may have an idea of the size of that office.

The Court: There is a dimension stated here, showing from the outside wall to the courtyard wall, sixty-eight feet. That divides two lines of offices and has a central hallway. 8715

Mr. Wegman: It does not indicate, however, the size of the portion of that width occupied by the Raleigh Company.

By the Court:

Q. Do you know the dimensions? A. I would say approximately eighteen by twenty-five feet.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. Mr. Shapiro, were there partitions in that office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how did those partitions divide the room? A. Well, the door opening from the hallway where all offices opened out, there was outer office which I would say approximately eight feet, and the entire width of the office, that was our outer office where we had a desk, a bookkeeper, and a receiving set-up there. Then there was a partition from that part on. The balance of the office was divided in two equal offices. There were partitions of sheet steel and glass, 8717 and to the best of my recollection, they were about eight feet or nine feet high.

Q. You were in that office regularly during the time that Raleigh occupied it?

Mr. Turkus: I object to counsel leading.

The Court: I do not know what "regularly" means. You mean at regular intervals?

Mr. Wegman: No, I mean regularly in the sense of every week and during the entire time of occupancy, not necessarily 8718 every day, but substantially so. I will reframe the question.

Q. Did you spend a great deal of your time in that office, Mr. Shapiro?

Mr. Turkus: I object to counsel leading.

The Court: Overruled.

A. In managing this business it necessitated my being some of my time in Baltimore and some of my time in New York, and it was a matter of habit with me and a regular routine layout; I spent ordinarily from Wednesdays including Saturdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, in the New York office, so that I could spend the week end with my family, and Mondays and Tuesdays, and sometimes on a Wednesday, I spent in Baltimore.

Q. When you were in New York you spent your time at the office during the business hours of the day? A. Except when I had to go out and 8720 attend to other matters which required my attention.

Q. During that time you heard many conversations in that office, did you not? A. Very often.

Q. Were conversations in any part of that office audible in every other part of the office?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. He would have to be an expert on sound and sound engineering.

The Court: The jury has to figure out the question of fact and also the question 8721 of—

Mr. Turkus: Acoustics and sound engineering.

The Court: Not only that, but the attention that is being given to another.

Mr. Turkus: And how loud the speaker talks.

The Court: Chiefly, whether or not you pay any attention.

Mr. Turkus: And whether the telephone bell is ringing, and other things.

The Court: If everybody in this world

8722 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Direct

was all the time listening to what other people were saying, there would be a riot.

Q. Did you hear conversations when you were in one part of that office which were held in another part of the office?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. Objection.

The Court: The jury can figure it out.

8723 Do you want to prove he heard a specific conversation? You may ask him.

Mr. Wegman: I did not hear your Honor.

The Court: Repeat.

(Remarks of the Court read.)

Mr. Wegman: On the direct— Your Honor I want to prove it was impossible to have a conversation in that small room without everybody in the room hearing it.

The Court: That does not mean anything. The jury can figure it out. They 8724 have the size and they have the partitions. There cannot be a presumption that everybody in the room, in an office divided into three rooms, is pricking up ears at everything that goes on that does not concern them. That is nonsense.

Q. Was it a matter of frequent comment among you and other employes of the company that conversations could not be held in that office without being overheard by everybody in the place?

Mr. Turkus: Objection.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. Mr. Shapiro, have you examined the records of Raleigh Manufacturers, Inc., for the purpose of refreshing your recollection as to whether or not you were in the New York office at Room 1011, in 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, on September 11, 1936? A. Yes, at your request.

Q. And having refreshed your recollection 8726 from those records, are you now able to state whether or not you were at that office on that date? A. I was. I was in that office on that date.

Q. September 11th? A. September 11, 1936.

Q. And it was your custom to be at that office—

Mr. Turkus: May we have the witness testify? We are getting down to something now that the witness should speak.

The Court: What is the date? 8727

Mr. Turkus: September 11, 1936, the Friday before Rosen was murdered.

A. After checking my records I found that I was absolutely in the office for the reason—

Mr. Turkus: Wait a minute. I object to him talking about records that are not in evidence.

Mr. Wegman: You cannot state the reason, Mr. Shapiro.

8728 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Direct

Q. Do you know Allie Tannenbaum? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know Max Rubin? A. Yes.

Q. Did you see either Allie Tannenbaum or Max Rubin in the office of Raleigh Manufacturers at 200 Fifth Avenue at any time whatsoever during the entire period of time that that office was occupied by Raleigh Manufacturers? A. No, I did not.

Q. And are you certain that you did not see either of them there on Friday, September 11, 1936?

8729

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. There is no claim in any part of the case that Tannenbaum was there September 11th.

Mr. Weiman: I beg your pardon. If you will state that—

Mr. Turkus: I am not stating anything. Oh, I had the wrong month. I am sorry. You are still referring to Friday, September 11th.

The Court: The Friday before the al-

8730 leged murder.

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: The specific incident the witness is alleged to have referred to, as testified to by Tannenbaum, briefly, that Rubin and Lepke were together.

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: Lepke was flushed and looked angry, and he said to Rubin he had given Rosen money to go away with but he always came back and there was one so-and-so who would never go down to Dewey and talk about him, and Rubin tried to pacify him, and Lepke said, "You told me that before, and this is the end of it." I take it that that is the conversation referred to, and that this is an effort to show it did not occur by showing that this man did not notice it, if he was there.

Mr. Wegman: May I go further than that, if your Honor pleases? This man has testified— I have not asked him whether that conversation occurred be- 8732 cause my other question was all embracing.

The Court: Go ahead with your question.

Mr. Wegman: I shall come to that specific question.

Q. Did you hear any such conversation in that office on Friday, September 11th? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear it at any other time? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: Put the year in. 8733

Q. 1936? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever see either Allie Tannenbaum or Max Rubin in that office either on Friday, September 11, 1936, or any other time? A. No, sir, never saw them up there.

Q. And when you were in New York, did you spend the greater part of the business day in that office? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. Why

8734 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Direct

don't we have the witness testify to what he did September 11, 1936?

The Court: Sustained.

Q. On Friday, September 11, 1936, what part of the day did you spend at that office? A. I usually come in the morning—

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute.

The Court: Let us get his answer,
8735 then we will know what it means.

Mr. Turkus: I object to what his usual custom was.

The Court: Why don't you wait until you get the rest of it and see what he is basing his statement on?

Mr. Turkus: I am supposed to object at the proper time.

The Court: Finish your answer. You usually what?

A. (Continued) I would come in in the morn-
8736 ing, open my mail, and take care of my correspondence; take care of a customer if he came in, some of the women salesmen when they come in in the business course of the day and wait to be waited on and see their lines; prepare lines; work on advertising, sign checks, and so on, an ordinary business course of events.

By the Court:

Q. So your mind is pretty well occupied at all times by your own business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have time to listen to other people's business? A. No, your Honor. If there is an argument there, I could absolutely hear that.

Q. Unless there was a disorder to take your mind off your own business, you would not hear what was going on? A. Yes, your Honor, or I could hear if a customer in one of the other rooms was objecting to a line.

Q. From time to time a voice is raised in that office in the course of the day? A. Yes.

Q. Nothing unusual about that? A. Nothing 8738 unusual about that.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. Was it usual or unusual for the defendant Buchalter to raise his voice? A. Mr. Buchalter as a rule rarely raised his voice, in fact, I don't believe I ever heard him raise his voice.

Q. Is it now your best recollection at this time that you never heard him raise his voice? A. That is right. Mr. Buchalter had very little to say at all times. 8739

Q. Mr. Shapiro, who else was employed in that office at that time, referring now to September, 1936? A. Our office manager, Frank Cohen, our credit man who handled the credits and did other work, Irving N. Siegel, and a young lady who is a niece of mine who has since passed away.

Q. Her name was Naomi Shapiro? A. That is right.

Q. And she died in July, 1939? A. She died in 1939.

Q. Mr. Shapiro, on Friday, September 11,

8740

1936, were those three employees at that office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there a rule in force in the regular course of business of Raleigh Manufacturers that there was never to be a time during any business day when either Frank Cohen or Irving Siegel was not in the office?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. It is not the rule we are concerned with.

8741 The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did you as the executive head of this business instruct Frank Cohen and Irving Siegel that one or the other of them must be in the office at all times?

Mr. Turkus: Objection.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Do you recall, Mr. Shapiro, a single instance of any time during the month of September, 1936, when during the office hours of the 8742 day either Frank Cohen or Irving Siegel was not in that office?

Mr. Turkus: By his own testimony it would be an impossibility. Here is a man that is down to Baltimore; he is out with a lot of accounts and business in the city, not in the office all the time. How can he state what goes on the in office when he is not there?

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Wegman: I respectfully except.

Q. Was that office to your knowledge ever left unattended by either Frank Cohen or Irving Siegel?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. That is an impossibility for the man to tell what goes on when he is not there.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Was there ever a time within your experience when you found or learned that that office was not attended by either Frank Cohen or Irving Siegel at any time during the business day? 8744

Mr. Turkus: Objected to; hearsay.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Within your knowledge and recollection, Mr. Shapiro, do you know of any time or any occasion when either Frank Cohen or Irving Siegel was not in that office?

8745

Mr. Turkus: Same objection.

Q. During the business hours of the day?

Mr. Turkus: That is hearsay. They would have to tell him these things.

By the Court:

Q. Was it the usual thing for one of them to be there? A. The office had to be attended to at all times.

Q. We assume that. A. That is a fact.

Q. But mistakes will happen in the best regulated offices. A. Well, we never know when a customer would come in, your Honor.

Q. During business hours somebody was supposed to be there? A. Somebody was supposed to be there.

Q. And so far as you know that was followed? A. That is right.

Q. You never came there and found the office vacant during business hours? A. That is right, 8747 and at no time did any customer ever tell me that he came in and there was nobody there.

Mr. Turkus: That is hearsay.

The Court: What difference does it make? It is business usage.

Mr. Turkus: That is the trouble with it. What good is it?

The Court: It is for the jury to figure out as to what the listening likelihood is.

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, I go further than that. I say that you cannot hear a non-existant person, or someone 8748 who was not there. I am demonstrating now, I believe, that these people were never in that office, and so the conversation could not have been held to be overheard by anybody.

Mr. Turkus: Let the jury determine that demonstration.

The Court: The jury will figure that. I will take the evidence.

Mr. Wegman: That is what I am attempting to demonstrate now.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. So far as you know, Mr. Shapiro, was there any time whatsoever on Friday, September 11, 1936, when either Frank Cohen or Irving Siegel was not in that office during business hours?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. How could he tell that unless he was there during the whole business day?

Mr. Wegman: He said he was there, 8750
Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: From start to finish?

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember anything about it, Mr. Witness? A. I cannot exactly say if I spent every minute of my time that day in that office, but I know that the office—

Q. Does your mind record so as to carry all these years whether or not either of those men were there that day? A. They were there, and so was Naomi Shapiro. 8751

Q. How about Tannenbaum? Do you remember if he was there or not? A. He was not there.

Q. You mean you do not remember, or what? A. He was not there.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. Mr. Shapiro, will you please keep your voice up so that we can hear you? We did not hear any part of your answers to his Honor. A. Mr. Tannenbaum was not in that office at any time.

Q. That day or any other day? A. Or any other day.

8752 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Direct

Q. And how about Max Rubin? A. He was not there, or any other day, not that day or any other day.

Q. Do you know the defendant Weiss, Mendy Weiss? A. I have seen Mendy Weiss.

Q. He is the gentleman in the brown suit here, the second from the left.

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. The witness may not need counsel to point out 8753 Mendy Weiss to him. Let us find out from him what the extent of it is. He said he had seen him. I object to it in that form.

By the Court:

Q. Do you know Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. Did you ever see Mendy Weiss at that office at 200 Fifth Avenue? A. No, sir.

8754 Q. In the month of September, 1936, or any other time? A. No, sir.

Q. Positive of that? A. Positive.

Mr. Wegman: You may examine.

The Court: Do you want to examine now?

Mr. Turkus: Well, I cannot complete it.

Mr. Wegman: Pardon me.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. Mr. Shapiro, did you see either Rubin or

Tannenbaum at any time on Friday, September 11, 1936, at any place, at any other place? A. No, I did not. I don't believe I did. I am pretty sure of it.

Mr. Wegman: You may examine.

The Court (To witness): You be here tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor direct the witness to bring with him the records he used to refresh his recollection? 8756

Mr. Wegman: I have those and I shall be glad to mark them for identification at this time. If you want them in evidence, you can see them. That is the rule. I will be glad to offer them in evidence. I now offer them in evidence.

The Court: You be here tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock for cross-examination.

Mr. Wegman: May I be indulged by the Court to ask one single question more?

The Court: We are taking a recess now. What is it you wanted? 8757

Mr. Wegman: May I ask one single question now and then I am through?

The Court: Do it in the morning.

Gentlemen of the jury, please do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open. Follow all other admonitions heretofore given which are continuous through the trial of the case. The jury may go out the main door. The witness will go out this way.

(Ten checks were marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-9, for identification.)

8758 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Wegman: Now, if your Honor pleases, may I ask your Honor to direct the District Attorney to have Rubin and Tannenbaum available tomorrow morning for the purpose of identification?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: Do you want the witness to return?

Mr. Turkus: They were here today.

Mr. Wegman: We could not get to it.

8759 Mr. Turkus: I thought you were going to have him identify them.

Mr. Wegman: I do not want anybody to identify them. I just want them to be seen by certain witnesses who will take the stand, and we could not get to those witnesses today.

The Court: Do you want the same announcement made today as yesterday in regard to witnesses?

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor will please do so.

8760 The Court (To Clerk): Make the announcement.

Court Clerk: All witnesses under subpoena by defendant Buchalter will return here tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock without further notice.

The Court: Have that shouted in the corridor by the attendants.

(Defendants remanded.)

(Thereupon an adjournment was taken to November 19, 1941, at 10 a.m.)

8761

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 19, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

CARL SHAPIRO, a witness in behalf of the defense, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Wegman (continued):

8762

Q. During the year 1936 and particularly in the summer and fall of that year, having particular reference in mind the occasion and month of December, 1936, did you see police officers in the office of the Raleigh Manufacturing Company at 200 Fifth Avenue? A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell his Honor and this jury how often they were there? A. Sometimes they came as often as once a day.

Q. Were police officers regularly in the hall outside of that office, in the hallway of the building outside the office? A. Yes, sir.

8763

Q. You are a brother of Jacob Shapiro? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Sometimes known as Charlie Gurrah? A. That is right.

Cross examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. You are not only a brother of Gurrah, but you are the front for Lepke and Gurrah in the Raleigh, aren't you?

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question and I ask your Honor to instruct Mr.

8764 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

Turkus not to repeat any such question. I ask your Honor to instruct the jury to disregard it. It is an unwarranted insult, for which there was no justification or basis whatsoever.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: I ask for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the basis of your Honor's ruling.

The Court: Motion denied.

8765 Mr. Wegman: Exception.

A. I happen to be a brother of Jacob Shapiro —I happen to be.

Q. Are you the front in the Raleigh for Gurrah and Lepke? A. I am not the front.

Mr. Wegman: I object to the end of the question. I again ask your Honor to instruct Mr. Turkus to desist from that sort of questioning, and to instruct the jury to disregard the question.

8766 The Court: That is an unwarranted interruption. The Court has previously ruled on that. The sole purpose of this is to give the witness a chance to think.

Mr. Wegman: I respectfully except to your Honor's statement, and I renew my motion for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial.

The Court: Motion denied. You are directed to take your seat.

Mr. Wegman: I take an exception to that.

Q. (Question repeated by the stenographer.) A. No, sir.

Q. What office do you hold in the Raleigh? A. Treasurer of the corporation.

Q. Who are the other officers? A. Nathan Borish, president, and I am also the secretary.

Q. The Raleigh employs hundreds of people, doesn't it? A. Seven hundred, approximately.

Q. Who are the stockholders of the Raleigh? A. Nathan Borish, Carl Shapiro, Samuel Smith.

Q. Samuel Smith? A. Yes, sir. 8768

Q. You were a member of Greenberg & Shapiro, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you terminate your connection with Greenberg & Shapiro? A. Greenberg & Shapiro were liquidated in 1935.

Q. Where did Greenberg & Shapiro maintain its office? A. 935 Broadway.

Q. Was there a Fifth Avenue number? A. 200 Fifth Avenue.

Q. You were in the embroidery business, weren't you, previous to the clothing business? A. Yes, sir. 8769

Q. I am talking about when you were with Greenberg & Shapiro, you were in the embroidery business? A. No, sir.

Q. What was the business of Greenberg & Shapiro? A. Men's clothing business.

Q. For how long? A. A little more than two years.

Q. What was the portion of men's clothing? A. All men's clothing.

Q. That was two years' experience you had with Greenberg & Shapiro? A. Yes, sir.

8770

Q. Before that what was your business? A. Pleating and stitching.

Q. And that was your business exclusively? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, when you maintained offices at 200 Fifth Avenue with Greenberg & Shapiro— A. That is not so.

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question, stating facts not in the record and con-8771 trary to the evidence.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. What was the Fifth Avenue address of Greenberg & Shapiro? A. That was 935 Broadway.

Q. Did it have a Fifth Avenue entrance? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the Fifth Avenue entrance, the number? A. The building had a Broadway and a Fifth Avenue entrance.

8772 Q. That was an office in which Lepke and Gurrah hung out? A. They were there, yes, sir, but not hanging out.

Q. Not only were they there, but that was their hangout. A. No, sir.

Mr. Wegman: I ask the witness be permitted to answer the question. Mr. Turkus broke in with a following question before the answer was complete. I ask the witness be given an opportunity to complete his answer for the record and for the hearing of the jury.

The Court: The interruption clearly indicates a desire to give an opportunity for the witness to think over his answer.

Mr. Wegman: I except to your Honor's statement. I consider it a personal insult. I desire to note my exception on the record. There was no such intention, and I resent the attack on my integrity.

The Court: Just please sit down. Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception. 8774

Q. In the two years that you were associated with Greenberg in this firm of Greenberg & Shapiro, on an average of how many times a week did Lepke and Gurrah come in those offices? A. Lepke was up there very seldom. My brother, Jacob Shapiro, was there on an average of—

Q. (interrupting) That place was a hangout for Lepke and Gurrah also? A. No, sir.

Q. How many times did you see Charlie Workman, alias Charlie the Bug, up at the office of Greenberg & Shapiro? A. Hardly ever. 8775

Q. How many times would you say that is, hardly ever? A. He was there once or twice.

Q. You know Charlie Workman? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know he is known as Charlie the Bug? A. That is right.

Q. You know he pleaded guilty to the murder of Dutch Schultz?

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question, if your Honor please, and ask that the jury be instructed to disregard it utterly. It is immaterial and has nothing to do with the credibility of this witness or any of the issues in this case. I ask your Honor to instruct the jury to disregard the question in its entirety, and I again request that Mr. Turkus be instructed to desist from that sort of questioning.

The Court: Objection overruled. Motion denied.

Mr. Wegman: I renew my motion for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial because of the prejudice necessarily carried with that statement.

8777

The Court: Finish everything you want to say and then the Court will give one ruling, which will cover it all.

Mr. Wegman: That is all I have to say.

The Court: Objection overruled; motion denied.

Mr. Wegman: May I rise to take exception to your Honor's remarks?

Q. (Pending question read by the reporter.)

8778

A. I don't know that.

Q. You never heard that? A. No, sir.

Q. You read the newspapers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was Charlie the Bug up to see in the office of Greenberg and Shapiro on the occasions you remember? A. He might have come up to see my brother; and then again I might not be so positive he was there at all.

Q. Now you are not sure he was up there? A. He might have been there and he might not.

Q. From where did you know Charlie the Bug if it was not from Greenberg & Shapiro's? A.

I have been brought up in New York practically the greater part of my life.

Q. You did not associate with Charlie the Bug? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not belong to any lodges or clubs with him? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not visit his home, socially? A. No, sir.

Q. He was not a caller at your home? A. No, sir.

Q. You had no social contacts with him? A. 8780
No, sir.

Q. You certainly had no business with Charlie the Bug? A. No, sir.

Q. Well, then, wasn't it at Greenberg & Shapiro's that you met him? A. I don't say that.

Q. You are not sure of that? A. No, sir, I said I did not say that.

Q. You don't frequent pool rooms, do you? A. When I was a kid, yes, sir.

Q. Did you know Charlie the Bug when he was a kid? A. I might have known him when I was 8781 about 12 or 13.

Q. It is not what you might have done. Don't you remember where you met Charlie the Bug? A. No, sir, I do not.

Q. Let's see: Philip Cohen, alias Little Farvel, how many times was he up to Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. I don't believe he was ever.

Q. You know Little Farvel? A. I may have when I was 10 or 11 or 13 years old while living on the East Side and some of these boys lived there and that is how I knew a good many of them.

8782 Q. You did not go to school with Little Farvel? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not play on the streets of the East Side with Farvel? A. No.

Q. You did not go out socially with him? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not have him to your home for dinner, did you? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not belong to any club or clubs? A. No, sir.

8783 Q. You certainly had no business with Farvel Cohen? A. No association.

Q. Refreshing your recollection, aren't you sure now that you met him at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. I don't think I did.

Q. Well, let us get along to Allie Tannenbaum. How many times was Allie Tannenbaum up to Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. Quite a few times.

Q. Quite a few times in the two years is your estimate as to that? A. Well, I would not know the number, but he was there from time to time.

Q. Often? A. No, sir, not often.

8784 Q. Allie Tannenbaum did not come to see you socially? A. No, sir.

Q. And you did not visit Allie's home? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not invite him to your home? A. No, sir.

Q. You had no business with Mr. Tannenbaum? A. No, sir.

Q. Who did Tannenbaum come up to see at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. My brother.

Q. He did not come up to see Lepke? A. He was not there often.

Q. But on the few occasions when Lepke was there, Tannenbaum did not see Lepke, did he? A. I could not answer that, I would not know.

Q. You cannot remember a single occasion when Tannenbaum was in conversation with Lepke together? A. To be honest, I don't think I ever saw them together.

Q. You don't think you saw Tannenbaum there? A. Together with Lepke, was your question.

Q. You are sure you saw him with your 8786 brother? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of course, your brother does not appear in this case as a defendant, does he?

Mr. Wegman: I object.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. (The Court) You know he is not a defendant? A. I know he is not a defendant.

Q. How many times was Louis Kravitz up at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. He was there a few 8787 times.

Q. And during the two years can you estimate the number of times he was there? A. That would be a guess—I could not answer that.

Q. Of course, Louis Kravitz did not come to see you socially; he was not one of your social intimates—he did not visit your home or you his; you did not belong to lodges together? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not go to school together? A. No, sir.

Q. Did Louis Kravitz come up to visit Lepke at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. Lepke was there very seldom.

Q. Do you remember Louis Kravitz being together with Lepke at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. Considering he was there so seldom, I could not say.

Q. Who did he see up at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. He came up to see my brother.

Q. By your brother, you mean Gurrah? A. Yes, sir.

8789 Q. You saw Emanuel (Mendy) Weiss up at Greenberg & Shapiro's a number of times? A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Never? A. I don't believe I ever remember seeing him in Greenberg & Shapiro's place at 935 Broadway.

Q. In the two years the office was maintained there you don't recall a single instance when you saw Emanuel (Mendy) Weiss in Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. That is right.

Q. You knew Emanuel (Mendy) Weiss when you took the stand—how long did you know him? A. Back to the time I was a kid.

8790 Q. You and Mendy Weiss did not go to school together? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not play marbles together on the East Side? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not fly kites together? A. I did not have much time to play in those days those games.

Q. You have not been to Mendy Weiss's home? A. No, sir.

Q. And he does not visit your home? A. No, sir.

Q. You do not belong to clubs together? A. No, sir.

Q. You do not go out socially together? A. No, sir.

Q. Through whom did you meet Mendy Weiss? A. As I brought out before, through the neighborhood we were brought up in, and I saw him around the streets.

Q. But you never once saw Mendy Weiss in either of Greenberg & Shapiro's offices or the Raleigh office at 200 Fifth Avenue? A. I don't believe I did.

Q. Does your memory need any refreshing? 8792
Would it help you any? A. If you can help me, all right.

Q. At the times you saw Charlie the Bug and Farvel Cohen and Louis Kravitz, didn't you perchance see Mendy Weiss with them? A. No, sir.

Q. How many times did you see Sam Feinstein up in the office? A. That name does not sound familiar.

Q. Toots Feinstein? A. I don't recall that name.

Q. Don't you remember the fellow who dis- 8793 appeared from his home—do you remember him—Sam (Toots) Feinstein?

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question as improper. The witness said he does not remember the name, does not recognize the name, and the implication in the statement that Mr. Turkus has made is an improper implication.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Mr. Climenko: I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial, on the grounds of prejudice.

8794 Carl Shapiro--For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

(Pending question read to the witness.)

A. That does not bring any recognition to me.

Q. Well, how many times did you see Izzy Bartfield up there? A. I have a remote remembrance of Izzy Bartfield, but I cannot place 8795 him. Whether or not you are referring to—this goes some time back.

Q. I am going back to Greenberg & Shapiro's. That is not so far back; that is two years before you went to the Raleigh. A. That would be nine or eight and a half years ago. I remember the name but I cannot place the individual.

Q. You did not go to school with Bartfield? A. I could not answer that.

Q. You did not play marbles with him? A. I could not answer that; I do not remember the individual.

8796 Q. You remember merely the name of Bartfield? A. The name is familiar.

Q. How about Sidney Salles, how many times was he to the office? A. I cannot place that individual.

Q. Possibly you can remember him by the name of Shimmy. A. That has a familiar sound, but I cannot place the individual.

Q. Didn't you answer that Shimmy was a visitor at the office of Greenberg & Shapiro? A. I could hardly answer that.

Q. Take it in conjunction with Charlie (the Bug) Workman and Farvel Cohen and Louis

Kravitz. Do you have any recollection of seeing Sidney Salles in their company at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. The name does not sound familiar at all.

Q. Take a look at this picture and see if it refreshes your recollection about it, about Shimmy. A. I cannot say I do, from that picture.

Q. You do not deny, do you, that Mr. Salles was a visitor at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. Not knowing the party, I could not deny anything. 8798

Q. Now, Danny Fields, how many times was Danny Fields up to Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. Very often.

Q. Of course, Danny Fields did not come to see you socially? A. Well, Danny Fields represented the union, I believe.

Q. He did not come up to see you socially? A. No, sir.

Q. Danny Fields and you did not go to school together on the East Side? A. No, sir.

Q. No social, home contacts? A. No, sir. 8799

Q. No club affiliations? A. No, sir.

Q. Who did Danny Fields come to see at Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. He came up to see me sometimes with regard to cutters.

Q. To visit you? A. My brother.

Q. And Lepke? A. No, sir, Lepke was seldom there.

Q. Did you see Danny Fields at the same time that the Bug was up there, and Cohen and Kravitz? A. That I could not say.

Q. Well, think. A. He was up there. Whether 8800 they were there at one given time, I could hardly answer that, to be truthful.

Q. Yeggy Feinberg, how many times was Yeggy up there? A. I don't believe he was ever up there, if we are referring to the same party.

Q. Yeggy Feinberg. A. That goes back a good many years. In fact, prior to nine years ago, before we were in the clothing business.

Q. You know Yeggy Feinberg? A. I knew
8801 him.

Q. Did you see him? A. I could not say; I don't believe he was up there.

Q. The name is familiar to you? A. That name is familiar, yes, sir.

Q. Of course, Paul Berger frequently came up to Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. No, sir, he did not.

Q. He never came there at all? A. No, sir.

Q. You never saw Paul Berger in Greenberg & Shapiro's? A. I would meet him in the street.

Q. But never in Greenberg & Shapiro's? A.
8802 I don't recall ever seeing him up there.

Q. On direct testimony in this case you were asked whether or not you saw Paul Berger at 200 Fifth Avenue on September 11, 1936, weren't you?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that as improper in form, prejudicial in its casting, and asked for an improper purpose.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. (Pending question read to the witness.) A. I cannot recall that being asked.

Q. Yesterday, when counsel for Lepke questioned you, you were not asked whether you saw Paul Berger on Friday, September 11, 1936, were you? A. I don't recall that question.

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor please, the witness answered before I had a chance to put any objection on the record. I did object to the same question previously. 8804

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Wegman: I move to strike out the answer.

The Court: He had answered it previously, that he does not recall whether he was asked that question.

Q. Did you attend the Bar Mitzvah of Lepke's son? A. Yes.

Q. How long ago was that? A. Well, it is a matter of years. I do not recall the exact years. 8805

Q. About seven years ago? A. If it was seven years—maybe it is seven years ago.

Q. That is a ceremony when a Hebrew reaches the age of thirteen? A. That is right.

Q. At the Bar Mitzvah you saw various of the persons whose names we have discussed, didn't you?

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I met many people there.

8806 Q. See if I can recall whom you met at the Bar Mitzvah. Where was it held? A. I cannot recall that.

Q. Was the Bug at the Bar Mitzvah? A. I could not say.

Q. Was Mendy Weiss at the Bar Mitzvah? A. I don't know.

8807 Mr. Wegman: Before Mr. Turkus asks the next question, because I do not want your Honor to make any further accusation of my method, or any attack on my integrity, may my objection stand to this entire line, beginning with the original question about the Bar Mitzvah as having nothing to do with this case and as being improper and having no bearing whatever on the credibility of this witness? May my objection stand to the entire line, so I do not have to interrupt each question?

The Court: I so understand it.

8808 Q. Do you remember seeing Louis Kravitz there? A. I don't believe I spent very much time there. I was in there a short period and may have been at the Bar Mitzvah.

Q. Do you remember seeing Toots Feinstein, Izzy Bartfield, Shimmy, Sidney Salles, Irving Friedman, alias Danny Fields, Yeggo Feinberg, Paul Berger, Willie Alberts, Allie Tannenbaum, —any of those individuals? A. I could not really answer that question. I met a lot of people there.

Q. Was Gurrah there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Let us go back to the place of Greenberg

& Shapiro. Do you remember seeing Max Rubin there? A. Maybe once or twice.

Q. Who did Max Rubin come to see? A. He came up to see my brother.

Q. Never Lepke? A. Lepke was seldom there.

Q. When Max Rubin was there did you ever see any of the other individuals whose names we discussed? A. I could not answer that.

Q. Did Greenberg & Shapiro have a union or N.R.A. label when you were operating? A. Yes, sir. 8810

Q. Wasn't Max Rubin up there with great frequency? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't he have business with you? Didn't you sell him suits? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you sell him suits with an N.R.A. label in them? A. He was never in the retail business.

Q. I am talking about you. A. No.

Q. Would you recognize your merchandise, your N.R.A. label? A. There was only one N.R.A. label.

Q. Haven't they numbers assigned? A. I 8811 cannot recall—they have a serial number.

Q. Would you remember the product of the Greenberg & Shapiro house? A. If I do, I will tell you. Garments can be bought in New York City.

Q. Greenberg & Shapiro's garments can be bought elsewhere? A. In New York City, elsewhere.

Q. Won't you take a look at it? Maybe you can refresh your recollection on the incident. A. I hardly think I could.

Q. Take a look at this garment and see if you

8812 can remember having any business dealings with Max Rubin when you sold him that. A. Yes, sir, this is one of our garments.

Q. This would help to refresh your recollection? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: For the record, it is a white suit identified by the witness. I will not offer it in evidence.

The Witness: That garment could be 8813 bought in any one of the states in the country.

Q. It could be, but I want to know whether it was not bought by Rubin right in Greenberg & Shapiro's. A. I could not answer that.

The Court: It is a palm beach suit.

Mr. Turkus: It is a linen suit.

The Court: A white linen suit.

Mr. Turkus: There are two suits.

The Witness: I don't recall this gar-
8814 ment. I don't believe we made the garment this way. I will explain to you why if you want to see it—I mean for identification. The inside vest pocket is different.

By the Court:

Q. What is there about it? A. Can I see it?

Mr. Wegman: May the record show the witness says one of the two garments produced by the District Attorney was manufactured by Greenberg & Shapiro and the other was not?

Q. How do you identify it? A. Just in the manner of the way it is made.

The Court: I suggest that this suit be marked for identification. That can be done on the inside of the lining.

8816

The Witness: As you will notice, this is a pocket that is made different. It is basted—a piece of piping.

Mr. Wegman: I think we ought to mark both for identification. One we say was not Greenberg's manufacture.

Mr. Turkus: I have no objection, but do not mark it where it is not visible. I suggest we tie a tag on it.

(Marked Defendants' Exhibit Z-10 for identification—identified garment.)

8817

Mr. Wegman: I have no objection, but I would like it marked as a People's exhibit.

The Court: Yes.

("Defendants' Exhibit Z-10 for identification" scratched off and garment marked People's Exhibit Z-24 for identification.)

Mr. Wegman: May the record show that these two garments were brought in and produced by the District Attorney?

8818 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Yes—People's Exhibit Z-24 alleged to be manufactured by Greenberg & Shapiro house.

(Other suit marked People's Exhibit Z-25 for identification.)

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Referring to People's Exhibit Z-24 for 8819 identification, that has the N.R.A. label on inside, isn't that the inside pocket of the garment? A. Yes, sir, that is. I can see it from here.

Q. That is the label that is put on when it is manufactured under the Men's Clothing Code Authority? A. That is right.

Q. That label has a number? A. I cannot see that.

Q. Take a look at it. Don't you remember from this—you say you are in business with 700 employees. Don't you remember you had a code number under N.R.A.?

8820

Mr. Wegman: Objected to as argumentative and improper in form.

A. That is not one number—that is a serial number. In other words, the next coat after that would have another number, would be 1581721, and next to that 22, 23, 24 and 25.

Q. Isn't that number assigned to Greenberg and Shapiro, isn't that one of your numbers? A. Those are labels we receive from the retail people and they sell them to whoever asks for them.

Q. So the retail people have a record of the labels they sell, and the numbers? A. Mr. Turkus, you don't seem to realize. This number is not a number given to the manufacturer. This is a serial number and they are bought in rotation.

Q. Nobody else has that number on their merchandise? A. No, there is not another garment with this number on.

Q. So that the garment can be identified by number as being the product of Greenberg and Shapiro? A. This garment is a product of 8822
Greenberg and Shapiro.

Q. And the number will identify it as Greenberg and Shapiro's product? A. In this case it does.

Q. How many years ago was it you manufactured that garment? A. This garment was manufactured for the spring—I cannot be certain about it—but it was in 1934.

Q. Doesn't that garment with the number in it—

Mr. Wegman: I object. 8823
Mr. Turkus: I have not finished.
The Court: Finish your question.

Q. (Continuing) Doesn't that garment with the number in it, a product of Greenberg and Shapiro, now refresh your recollection that you sold it to Max Rubin on one of the occasions he was there at Greenberg and Shapiro? A. No.

Mr. Wegman: My objection is to the one phrase in the question but not to the rest of the question. The witness testified that the number has nothing to do with Greenberg and Shapiro, it is only one of the serial numbers on the label and does not identify Greenberg and Shapiro at all.

Mr. Turkus: Let the jury figure that out.

Mr. Wegman: I move that the District Attorney be instructed to reframe the question without including that. It is 825 a trick question with that in it, tending to get on the record that the statement from the witness that the number had something to do with Greenberg and Shapiro, where the witness testified it has not.

Mr. Turkus: The "trick" is in the objection.

The Court: There is a little confusion, but I think that what the witness tried to say was, being familiar with his own serial number, he could identify approxi-
826 mately the year in which the garment was purchased. We have the same situation here with indictment numbers. This indictment number is 23855. There is no other indictment by that number—that is a serial. A person can tell by looking at the number, and being familiar with the serial number of the indictment, without looking at the date of the indictment, approximately the year the indictment was returned. That is the situation here with this witness. This is causing too much talk.

Mr. Turkus: For the sake of clarifying the record, may I ask your Honor to inquire of the witness whether your Honor's analysis is correct, or whether the witness said something else.

Mr. Wegman: This is an attempt to drag out cross-examination with speech after speech.

The Court: Every time the Court tries to clarify a situation, counsel picks it up and wrangles about it. 8828

Mr. Wegman: May I take an exception to the suggestion that I am wrangling, and Mr. Turkus' suggestion just stated. I am not attempting to do anything but conduct myself in a perfectly proper legal manner and in accordance with my duties and obligations, and right, as an attorney.

The Court: Proceed.

Q. Let me see if I can refresh your recollection about the Bar Mitzvah. Do you remember 8829 the name of Lepke's son, or step-son, who was Bar Mitsvahed? A. Yes.

Q. What was his first name? A. Harold.

Q. Was it at a church or a synagogue at 72nd Street and Columbus Avenue? A. I think it was.

Q. Was the reception thereafter at the home of Lepke? A. I was not there.

Q. You went to the church? A. I went to the synagogue.

Q. Do you remember now, having the place

8830 fixed, what other persons were there at the Bar Mitzvah? A. I could not honestly say.

Q. Getting back to the officers of the Greenberg and Shapiro, how many times was Oscar Frankel up there? A. The name is familiar, but I cannot place the individual.

Q. Did you ever see Murray Weinstein up there? A. No, sir.

Q. You know Murray Weinstein? A. By sight.

8831 Q. Was Sam Katz ever up there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Sam Katz was a union official with the Amalgamated? A. That is right.

Q. Holding a job which is immediately under the job that Murray Weinstein had? A. That I would not know.

Q. Benny Levine, how many times was Mr. Levine up at Greenberg and Shapiro's? A. I don't recall.

Q. Let me see if you can remember any visits to Greenberg and Shapiro by one "Joe Strawberry"? A. I cannot recall.

8832 Q. Is the name familiar? A. It sounds familiar, yes, sir.

Mr. Wegman: One half of the witness' answers are not audible. I would like the witness to keep his voice up.

The Court: Yes, speak loudly.

Q. Is it familiar through Greenberg and Shapiro? A. No, sir.

Q. Is it familiar through something else? A. No, sir.

8833

Q. It is just a familiar name? A. It is a name I have heard.

Q. You don't recall where you heard it, or to what person you associate that name? A. The name sounds familiar, but just where I could put my finger on it, I cannot tell you.

Q. It was not in the public school? A. No, sir.

Q. It was not playing marbles or flying a kite?

Mr. Wegman: Now, if your Honor please, I object to that. There is no evi- 8834 dence in this record that this witness ever flew a kite or played marbles.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. I assume you did, when you were a boy, play marbles? A. You see, I have been working since I have been seventeen.

Q. Yes or no. A. I don't recall if I ever did.

Q. And you don't remember flying kites? A. I did fly kites.

Q. You did not fly kites with Joe Strawberry? 8835
A. No, sir.

Q. You did not visit Joe Strawberry at his home? A. No, sir.

Q. Or he at your home? A. I don't recall that individual.

Q. I am trying to refresh your recollection to find out in what way the name Joe Strawberry is familiar to you. A. I cannot honestly say. I might put my finger on him.

Q. How often was Joe Riccobone up there? A. I don't recall that name.

Q. Is the name Joe Riccobone familiar? A. No, sir.

Q. Hymie Yuran, did he ever come up? A. The name sounds familiar.

Q. Hyman Yuran did not go to school with you? A. I don't think he did, no, sir.

Q. The familiarity is not due to any social or club contact or affiliation? A. No, sir, I just heard the name somewhere; I cannot just place it.

8837 Q. Can you refresh your recollection as to where the name Hymie Yuran became familiar to you? A. I cannot put my finger on it.

Q. At the office of Greenberg and Shapiro? A. No, sir.

Q. Would you say you were familiar with the name from something other than the office of Greenberg and Shapiro? A. I cannot say.

Q. Now, how many times was Moe Wolinsky, or "Dimples", up there— Morris Wolinsky, alias "Dimples"? A. I cannot recall.

Q. Is the name familiar to you? A. "Dim-

8838 ples", yes, sir.

Q. I am not asking you about dimples on anyone except Mr. Wolinsky, who was called "Dimples". A. I got your question. The name of "Dimples" sort of brings to me the fact I have heard the name before.

Q. You did not go to public school with "Dimples"? A. I don't believe I did.

Q. Have you been to "Dimples'" home? A. No, sir.

Q. Or he to yours, or any club contact? A. No, sir.

Q. Doesn't the office of Greenberg and Shapiro jog your memory now as to your familiarity with "Dimples"? A. That sounds very far back.

Q. Do you place "Dimples'" face? A. No, sir.

Q. Take a look at this and see if it refreshes your recollection.

Mr. Wegman: I would like to put on the record the display of these pictures in the presence of the jury. It is calculated to prejudice—pictures of persons the witness has not identified and has not said 8840 he knows. And in the form in which these pictures appear, it is intended and calculated to create a prejudicial effect.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: May the record show that the jury does not see these pictures? The pictures are held with the back towards the jury.

Mr. Wegman: The pictures are displayed on the District Attorney's table right in front of the jury. 8841

Mr. Turkus: That is assuming the jury is looking at the District Attorney's table instead of at the witness. That is an implication against the jury.

The Court: It makes no difference. Go ahead.

(Pending question read to witness.)

A. I cannot recall that.

Q. Well, take the name of Tannenbaum, and Buggsy Workman, Louis Kravitz, and Farvel Cohen, doesn't Dimples Wolinsky come back to 8842 your mind as having been in Greenberg and Shapiro's?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that as argumentative, impairing the witness' answer that he does not know the individual. It is a collateral matter and the District Attorney is bound by the answer.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

8843 (Pending question read to witness.)

A. It does not.

Q. Is the name Cuppie familiar, a familiar name? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that Kopplewitz? A. I did not know the second name.

Q. Didn't you see Cuppie at Greenberg and Shapiro's? A. The name is not very familiar.

Q. But, Mr. Shapiro, doesn't it help to refresh your recollection as to familiarity with the name Cuppie, to associate it with "Dim-8844 ples", and "Bugs", and "Little Farvel," doesn't that help you fix Greenberg and Shapiro's as the place of familiarity? A. No, sir.

Mr. Wegman: I object to that as improper in form, argumentative, improper cross examination on a collateral matter, having nothing to do with the issue in this case, or the credibility of the witness.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. Bruno Belea, is that a familiar name? A. No, sir.

Q. You never heard the name of Bruno Belea? A. No, sir.

Q. You have been in the clothing business for two years with Greenberg and Shapiro, and since 1935 with the Raleigh? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you never heard the name of Bruno Belea? A. No, sir.

Q. Isn't he an organizer for the Amalgamated Union? A. I don't know. 8846

Q. You are non-union? A. Today, yes, sir.

Q. Today—well, the Raleigh was always non-union? A. No, sir.

Q. We will come to that a little later. How about Meyer Luckman, is that a familiar name to you? A. No, sir.

Q. Take it in association with Max Silverman and Greenberg and Shapiro, doesn't that help you to refresh your recollection? A. The name Max Silverman sounds familiar, but I cannot place the individual.

Q. Concerning the familiarity with Max Silverman, he is a man in the late fifties, isn't he? 8847
A. I don't know.

Mr. Wegman: I object. I have been trying to state that this question is on a collateral matter. The witness has answered and the District Attorney is bound by that answer. The question is improper.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

8848 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Well, let us see if you can refresh your memory with the name Wolfy Goldis, if you will? A. It sounds familiar.

Q. Don't you link Wolfy Goldis and Max Silverman and Meyer Luckman as visitors at Greenberg and Shapiro's? A. I could not say.

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question. The witness has already answered the question but I should like the record to 8849 show my objection to this entire line of procedure of questioning—questions of the nature of the one just asked. My objection is based upon the ground that the nature of the question is such that it is intended for the purpose of creating prejudice, creating atmosphere, and the answer to the question binds the District Attorney. As a matter of law, these questions do not affect the credibility of the witness in the slightest degree. They are wholly collateral to the issue on 8850 trial and they have simply that one purpose of trying to create atmosphere by the recital of a list of names. I ask your Honor, in order that I may not have to get up repeatedly with these objections, to rule on that objection, and to instruct the District Attorney not to follow these questions up.

The Court: You take much time in stating a simple objection that could have been put in a half a dozen words. The purpose of cross examination is thwarted with this constant interruption, which is calculated to give the witness a chance to think over.

Mr. Turkus: And there has been a signal to the witness about being bound by the answer.

The Court: The Court knows the purpose of this.

Mr. Wegman: I except to that remark, and I ask the record to note my exception to your Honor's remark and to Mr. Turkus remark. I say to your 8852
Honor this, my conduct is not improper, or unethical, or illegal, or anything other than my obligation as an attorney and my duty as such. Your Honor may, here and now, excuse the jury and let us try out that issue.

The Court: Stop your nonsense. Sit down.

Mr. Talley: I wish to take exception on behalf of the defendant Weiss to your Honor's comment and criticism of counsel at this stage of the case. 8853

The Court: Constant interruption of cross examination for no legitimate purpose must stop. Objection must be stated simply and the Court will rule simply without this constant delay, and colloquy which gives an obvious breathing time to a witness in which his mind has a chance to turn over. I want to have no more of this interruption except it is legitimate.

Mr. Talley: I take exception to your Honor's remarks as prejudicial, not only to Mr. Wegman's client, but to all the clients, all the defendants in this case.

The Court: Does any other counsel wish to be heard?

Mr. Wegman: May I note on the record a motion for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial on the ground of prejudice created by your Honor's remarks, and may I also note on the record my personal resent-

8855 ment to those remarks as an unwarranted reflection on me. And I request the Court that this issue be tried out, because I am not accustomed to having my integrity attacked.

The Court: Sit down. Motion denied.

Mr. Wegman: I except.

The Court: Now, the motion for the withdrawal of a juror and a mistrial.

Mr. Wegman: I make that motion.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

8856

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. How many times was Henzy Teitelbaum up to Greenberg and Shapiro's? A. He was there quite a few times.

Q. In two years, how many times would you say? A. I could not answer that.

Q. Often? A. He was up there from time to time.

Q. From time to time, on an average of how many times a week? A. I could not say.

Q. His visits were quite regular, weren't they? A. No, sir, they were not regular.

Q. Spasmodic? A. Spasmodic.

Q. During the two years you were up there, can you estimate the number of visits that were made by Henzy Teitelbaum? A. No, sir.

Q. Would you say ten? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Would you say twenty? A. I could not put a figure on it.

Q. We got an average of ten. Less than fifty? A. I can hardly answer that. 8858

Q. Can you encompass it between ten and twenty? A. I would not begin to put a figure on it.

Q. Henzy Teitelbaum did not come to see you up there? A. No, sir.

Q. When you saw Henzie Teitelbaum up there, did you see him with The Bug, and Little Farvel and Louis Kravitz? A. He was there. Just when and who was with him I cannot answer.

Q. He did not come up to see you? A. No, he did not.

Q. He did not come up to see Gurrah? A. 8859
Yes, he would see Charlie.

Q. Wasn't Henzie Teitelbaum Lepke's chauffeur? A. He drove Louis around, yes.

Q. Then wasn't he up there to see Louis? A. Louis was up there seldom.

Q. The chauffeur was up there ten times or more and Louis the boss, was up there seldom, is that it? A. Yes.

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question.

Q. And the chauffeur was up visiting your brother? A. No, he would sit around sometimes; whether he came up to visit him or converse with him I could not answer.

Q. That was not driving his automobile in the office of Greenberg and Shapiro, was it? A. Not very well.

Q. Whom did he visit up there? Can't you remember who Lepke's chauffeur visited on these occasions? A. No, I would not know.

Q. Is it that you would not remember or you 8861 cannot remember? A. I cannot answer a question like that.

Q. Julie Martin—how many times did Julie Martin come up? A. I don't recall that name or individual.

Q. Julie Martin— A. I would not know.

Q. Let us see if I can refresh your recollection. Did Dutch Schultz ever come up? A. I don't believe so.

Q. Do you know Dutch Schultz? A. No, I don't.

Q. You know of him through something or 8862 other, don't you? A. Publicity.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection when I tell you that Julie Martin was the chief lieutenant for Dutch Schultz? Does that refresh your recollection?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that, if your Honor pleases.

Mr. Turkus: You object when I finish and then you will have a proper objection.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection that Julie Martin was up at the office of Greenberg & Shapiro?

8863

Mr. Wegman: Now may I note my objection?

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: May I have the record note that I am refraining from elaborating on the grounds of objection because of the Court's earlier remarks.

The Court: You are making a speech nevertheless and that takes time and the Court objects to being used in this manner.

8864

Mr. Wegman: I except to your Honor's remarks and I move for the withdrawal of a juror and a declaration of a mistrial both because of the question that was asked and because of your Honor's remarks.

The Court: Anybody else? Overruled. Denied.

(Pending question read.)

A. I don't know that individual.

8865

Q. And the name of Julie Martin is not at all familiar? A. No, sir.

Q. Since I have conducted this interrogation about The Bug and Kravitz and Farvel Cohen and Sam Feinstein, Izzy Bartfield, Shimmy, Danny Fields, Yeggo Feinberg, Berger and Rubin and Benny Levine and Joe Strawberry and Riccobone and all of these names, has your memory since that time been refreshed as to their appearances in Greenberg & Shapiro? A. That is a very broad question. I cannot answer that.

Q. Any of the names? A. Some of the people were up there that you mentioned, yes.

8866 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Willie Alberts, did Willie ever visit up there? A. The name sounds familiar.

Q. Well, is not the familiarity due to Greenberg & Shapiro offices? A. I don't know.

Q. Well, Willie Alberts was not a school mate? A. No.

Q. Not a social acquaintance? A. I cannot place the individual. I could not answer that.

Q. Let us see if we can place it this way. Lepke and Gurrah and The Bug and Farvel 8867 Cohen and Louis Kravitz, does that help fix your recollection that Willie Alberts was up there in their company at Greenberg & Shapiro? A. The name sounds familiar but I cannot place it. Whether I know him or not, I don't know.

Q. The suggested names are of no help? A. No.

Q. In your recollection?

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, is not the purpose of the District Attorney too obvious, a little bit too obvious, in the 8868 constant recital of these names as to which the witness has answered repeatedly? I object to that form of question and I again ask your Honor to instruct the District Attorney to desist from it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. To bring it right into a short sentence, wasn't the office of Greenberg & Shapiro a hangout? A. No, sir.

Q. When did you dissociate yourself from your partner Greenberg? A. Early in 1935.

Q. And that is when you joined the Raleigh, isn't that right? A. That is the time we formed Raleigh and took up the assets and liability of Leo Greenberg and Shapiro.

Q. What time in 1935 did the people whom you described as "we" form the Raleigh? A. It was May or April, 1935.

Q. How many employees did Greenberg & Shapiro have? A. Well, we had a few because we did not manufacture direct.

Q. But tell me how few the few were? A. Oh, 8870 less than fifty.

Q. And Greenberg & Shapiro was wound up, wasn't it? A. Dissolved.

Q. The "we" did not include your former partner, Greenberg, as coming into the Raleigh, did it? A. No, it didn't.

Q. And the Raleigh was formed before the Dewey investigation, wasn't it? A. That is right.

Q. Who were the original stockholders? A. In Leo Greenberg & Shapiro?

Q. No, Raleigh. A. Nathan Borish, Carl Sha- 8871
piro and Sam Smith.

Q. Is Sam Smith a relative? A. Yes, he is my brother-in-law.

Q. Your brother-in-law? A. That is right.

Q. Are you married to his sister? A. No, he is married to my sister.

Q. So that he is a brother-in-law to Gurrah as well? A. That is right, Jacob Shapiro.

Q. Did Lepke and Gurrah never have an interest in Raleigh financially? A. No.

Q. Gurrah only? A. No. I was going back to Leo Greenberg and Shapiro.

8872 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Greenberg & Shapiro, did Lepke have an interest in that? A. No, my brother had an interest in Leo Greenberg and Shapiro.

Q. What interest did Gurrah have? A. He had a twenty per cent interest.

Q. And when that firm was liquidated and the assets, as you described, transferred to the Raleigh, what happened to Gurrah's twenty per cent interest? A. That was adjusted between Jacob Shapiro and myself.

8873 Q. So that you and Gurrah adjusted that personally? A. I satisfied that.

Q. You are not fronting for him now in Raleigh, are you? A. No, sir; nor did I ever front for him.

Q. You have seen him recently, haven't you? A. In a visit, yes.

Q. Talked this case over with him? A. No, sir. I have not seen him now in over a year.

Q. Oh, you have seen him more recently than that, haven't you? A. No, sir.

Q. Haven't you seen him in the last few months?

8874

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, let the record show that the District Attorney is in a position to know that his question supposes a state of facts directly contrary to the fact. The fact of the matter is, and richly ascertainable by the District Attorney, that Jacob Shapiro has not been permitted to have visitors for over a year, so that he could not have seen him in that time. It is immaterial, it is collateral, it has nothing to do with the credibility of the witness, and it is intended to prejudice.

Mr. Turkus: Why not substitute witnesses here? Would you rather sit up there?

Mr. Wegman: If you want me to, Mr. Turkus, and call me to the stand, I will be glad to testify.

Mr. Turkus: I will get as much out of you as out of him.

Mr. Cuff: I object to that. 8876

Mr. Wegman: That is perfectly all right, Mr. Cuff. This witness is telling the absolute truth and you will get that from me and if you are implying that I do not tell the truth or that the witness is not telling the truth because he will testify as I would testify, let us have that on the record, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: I am sorry I started that.

Mr. Wegman: I paid ten dollars the other day for contempt of court—

Mr. Turkus: I am ready to proceed. 8877

The Court: Mr. Wegman said something I want repeated here. I do not know if I understood it correctly. What was that about Mr. Wegman vouching for the truth of the witness?

(Remarks of Mr. Wegman read.)

The Court: Mr. Turkus, according to Mr. Wegman he knows these things himself.

Mr. Wegman: That is not so, your Honor.

The Court: That would place his position a little beyond the relation of attorney and client in this case. You may consider that an offer by him seriously to testify in this case.

8878 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, there was no such implication in my statement. Mr Turkus asked me if I wanted to take the stand. I said if he wanted me to do so to call me, I was perfectly willing to take the stand, and if he asked me
8879 questions the answers he would get would be the absolute truth and I stated my belief—

The Court: Wait a minute. You said something there which is not quite consistent with the halo. Resume the trial.

Mr. Wegman: I take exception to the remark. May it be clear that my reference was to the visits between this witness and Jacob Shapiro.

The Court: The Court interprets your comment to mean you have knowledge of 8880 these matters yourself

Mr. Wegman: Then the Court's interpretation is wrong.

The Court: —more than your relation as attorney, and if you claim to have knowledge of these matters you are properly a witness in this case and could be called by either side.

Mr. Wegman: The Court's interpretation is wrong. The Court has no basis for that interpretation, in my humble opinion. I made no such statement. I certainly have no personal knowledge of any of the facts that are involved in this case as a case. I do have knowledge about the fact that this witness has not visited his brother in a number of months because I have had something to do with that. I have personal knowledge as to that. If the Court wishes to imply something else from my statement, the Court's mind is wrong on that and misinterprets my statement. I should like to have it made clear. I say again that if Mr. Turkus— 8882

The Court: You said it once. That is enough.

Mr. Wegman: —calls me, I am willing to take the stand.

The Court: Let us have peace, as General Grant said. It does not occur to you, by any possible chance, that you should withdraw what you said and which the Court caused the stenographer to repeat?

Mr. Wegman: May I make clear my meaning on the record?

The Court: Yes or no. 8883

Mr. Wegman: I did not hear all your Honor said.

The Court: Oh, you were not listening! Please repeat.

(The remarks of the Court starting with "It does not occur to you" were read.)

Mr. Wegman: May I say—

The Court: Yes or no?

Mr. Wegman: If it carries that implication, I withdraw it, but I don't believe it carried that implication.

8884 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: The Court does not construe but the Court knows the meaning of plain English language.

Mr. Wegman: Well, the Court and I may differ on that, with all due respect to the Court.

The Court: Wait a minute. I did not believe my ears when I heard that said. I had to get the stenographer to repeat it before I could realize that a member of 8885 the Bar had said it. Now let this be an end to the incident.

Mr. Wegman: May I have an exception to your Honor's remark?

The Court: Let this be the end, but the halo fell from your head.

Mr. Wegman: What is that?

The Court: The halo that you claim.

Mr. Wegman: I have never claimed a halo. I do not know whether we are trying this case for the defendants or whether your Honor has put counsel for 8886 defendants on trial. I should like to have that made clear on the record.

Mr. Turkus: I am sure the jury is not confused as to who is being tried. Let us get along with the case.

The Court: Counsel has got up repeatedly and said he was trying this case on a highly ethical plane.

Mr. Wegman: I believe I am.

The Court: Will you please keep still while the Court is talking and will you please take your seat? (To reporter) What was I saying?

(Remarks of the Court beginning "Counsel has got up repeatedly" were read.)

The Court: I would say a hundred per cent. The Court listened to that and for that reason was rather astonished when that statement was made which is now repudiated by counsel who made it. That is what the Court meant by the "halo". Let it go at that. There is no halo.

Mr. Wegman: May I ask whether that 8888 remark was intended by the Court to indicate that I am trying this case on anything other than a highly ethical plane, because, if it is, I ask that that issue be tried out summarily.

The Court: Please sit down and behave yourself. Continue.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. The firm of Greenberg & Shapiro, was that a New York corporation? A. Yes, sir. 8889

Q. The Raleigh, however, was a Maryland corporation? A. No, the Raleigh Manufacturers is a New York corporation.

Q. Formed under the laws of the State of New York? A. That is right.

Q. As a corporation. You know Whitey Deutsch, don't you? A. Yes.

Q. How long do you know Whitey Deutsch? A. Oh, that is getting back to the time I was about 12 or 13 years old.

Q. I know, but your familiarity with him kept up through the years, didn't it? A. Yes.

8890 Q. You and Whitey Deutsch are friendly? A. I have not seen him in quite some time but we are not unfriendly.

Q. And the last occasion you saw him was a business occasion, wasn't it? A. Yes.

Q. You had business with Whitey Deutsch? A. Yes, he is—

Q. Just answer yes or no. We will get along very nicely. A. A clothing manufacturer.

Q. And was Whitey Deutsch a visitor up at 8891 Greenberg & Shapiro? A. Very seldom. He was a competitor.

Q. The manufacturing plant of the Raleigh was never located in New York City, was it? A. Well, few clothing concerns are located—

Q. I am talking about the Raleigh. The Raleigh itself never had its manufacturing plant in New York City, did it? A. The Raleigh?

Q. Yes. A. No, never did.

Q. Where was the first plant? A. The first and only plant is in Baltimore, Maryland.

Q. Why, didn't they have a plant in Egg
8892 Harbor, New Jersey? A. Not Raleigh.

Q. Who had the plant in Egg Harbor? A. Leo Greenberg and Shapiro. That was a contract shop.

Q. What about the plant in Vineland, New Jersey; which outfit had that? A. We had a plant—

Q. When you say "we" which is it? A. Leo Greenberg and Shapiro. I am sorry.

Q. Was it through Murray Weinstein that the Raleigh opened up its manufacturing plant in Baltimore? A. No, sir.

Q. Wasn't it Whitey Deutsch who set up the machinery in Baltimore for the Raleigh? A. Well, he supervised in setting up this plant.

Q. You had only had two years of experience in clothing, hadn't you? A. Two and a half years.

Q. All your life before that had been devoted to embroidering? A. Cleaning, stitching.

Q. Cleaning, stitching, and embroidering? A. Yes.

Q. That is an entirely different field from clothing, isn't it? A. Very far. 8894

Q. So Whitey Deutsch who had been your competitor supervised the set-up of the machinery for the Raleigh in Baltimore? A. At that time we were negotiating to merge.

Q. Did Whitey Deutsch ever merge with the Raleigh? A. No, sir.

Q. The only thing that the Raleigh had in New York was that office which consisted of a show-room only; isn't that right? A. It is a buying office and show-room.

Q. It was that three room office at 200 Fifth Avenue? A. That is right. 8895

Q. All you had there were some swatches and a couple of samples of garments? A. That is right.

Q. When was the Raleigh plant established in Baltimore? When was all the machinery installed and the plant starting to go? A. Well, I believe the first completed garment was some time in January, 1936.

Q. The books of the Raleigh Company were not kept in the show-room, were they? A. No, they were kept in—

Q. Baltimore? A. Duplications of it, yes.

8896 Q. Why, weren't the books of the Raleigh kept in Baltimore to thwart a Dewey investigation?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that.

A. That is very unfair, Mr. Turkus. We conducted our business in Baltimore and the buying, that is in New York.

Q. Just answer me that question, didn't you keep the books of the Raleigh in Baltimore to 8897 keep them out of Dewey's hands? A. No, sir.

Q. Did the Raleigh books ever reach Dewey's office? A. No, sir,—yes, sir, I think they did.

Q. What books? A. I think at some time they were subpoenaed and we delivered them to the officers.

Q. What books were those that were delivered to Mr. Dewey's office? A. Books of Raleigh Manufacturers, if I remember correctly.

Q. What books? Describe the books. A. The books that were asked for. I will check it 8898 back and let you know.

Q. Have you got the Raleigh books in the New York office now? A. Sure we have.

Q. All of the Raleigh books? A. No, not all, no.

Q. All of the Raleigh checks? A. No. Checks written in New York are in New York and then in turn sent down to Baltimore.

Q. The checks written in Baltimore in Baltimore? A. That is right.

Q. And the things written in books in Baltimore are still in Baltimore? A. Sure.

Q. And the things written in New York are in New York? A. That is right.

Q. But the Baltimore books never got up to Dewey's office, did they? A. Some books were called for.

Q. From Baltimore? A. Yes, sir, I believe so.

Q. The books that you wanted to produce? A. Any books that were asked for, Mr. Turkus; in fact, I will let you have them now, if you want them. 8900

Q. The Baltimore books? A. Any books.

Q. Back to 1935? A. Whichever records we have.

Q. Have you got the records for 1935 when the company was formed, including the complete set-up of your stocks and your finances, and showing the complete financial arrangements and each and every check that cleared through the Raleigh's books anywhere? Have you got those books? A. Sure.

Q. And will you kindly bring them up? A. If you want them. 8901

Mr. Turkus: The invitation is accepted.

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, Mr. Turkus is certainly welcome to examine those books.

Mr. Turkus: He said so. He does not need any help from you.

Mr. Wegman: I have a right to make a statement on the record.

The Court: You have not. Sit down.

Mr. Wegman: I except. Do I have a right to make an objection?

8902 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Object and say nothing more.

Mr. Wegman: I object to Mr. Turkus' request of this witness on the ground that it has nothing to do with this case.

The Court: Overruled. Sit down.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. Now, when you opened up and you turned out your first garment of the Raleigh, 8903 you were running non-union, weren't you? A. Yes.

Q. And your brother at that time was with others representing the union in making union shops in New York? A. That I could not answer.

Q. You don't know that? Wasn't that the purpose, with the request to the union, to avoid argument with other manufacturers, that your plant was moved down to Baltimore? A. No, sir: in fact, the union is trying to organize us and has been trying to organize us for years.

8904 Q. But they have not succeeded, have they? A. That is the will of the people.

Q. Now, we will go right into that. I am very glad that we opened that up. And at the time that the union was trying to organize Baltimore, the Raleigh in Baltimore as a union shop, when was that, the first time? A. They never were a union shop.

Q. I know, but when the union was trying to organize and make the Raleigh a union shop, when was the first time? A. From the very inception.

Q. Right. And when it started, when the union started, didn't you send Paul Berger over to Murray Weinstein to pull the union off? A. No, sir.

Q. That never happened? A. No, sir.

Q. And didn't Paul Berger come back with the message, "Wait until Gurrah gets out of the can and it will be adjusted then"? A. No, sir.

Q. The fact is that the Raleigh has never as yet been unionized, has it? A. No.

8906

Q. Leo Greenberg, your former partner, came down to Baltimore, didn't he? A. No, sir.

Q. Why, didn't Leo Greenberg open up a shop in Baltimore? A. Not for Raleigh.

Q. Don't you know that? A. Not for Raleigh.

Q. No, not for Raleigh, for himself? A. That I would not know.

Q. Do you know Blumberg? A. I met Mr. Blumberg.

Q. Who is Mr. Blumberg? A. He is an official of the union.

8907

Q. In Baltimore? A. In Baltimore.

Q. Yes. Why, didn't you get somebody from New York to come down by a plane to Baltimore and get to Blumberg and shut up Leo Greenberg because he was not union? A. That is hardly the facts and I resent that.

Q. Did Danny Fields come down to Baltimore in an aeroplane? A. I don't know a thing about that.

Q. You do not know the first thing about it? A. No, sir; that is not the truth.

8908

Q. Do you know whether that was done for you? A. No, sir.

Q. When Greenberg and Shapiro were present once, when a lady by the name of Ida Schachter came in? A. The name is not at all familiar.

Q. Do you remember the name of Harry Greenberg alias Big Greenie? A. That is far back.

Q. Yes, as far back as 1935? A. Further than that.

8909

Q. Wasn't Big Greenie's wife in and didn't she hold a conversation with Lepke when you were there, in Greenberg and Shapiro? A. I would not know.

Q. See if this refreshes your recollection: Wasn't there some talk that Big Greenie was coming back from Poland? A. I would not know that.

Q. Unless he got some money? A. I don't know a thing about that.

Q. Are either Lepke and Gurrah directly or indirectly receiving any funds or benefits from 8910 the Raleigh Clothing?

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question, the form of the question, and also to the intent of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception. May I ask your Honor to have the stenographer repeat it verbatim for you so that your Honor may rule?

Mr. Turkus: I have no objection. Read it. If it is objectionable we will revise it.

(Pending question read.)

Mr. Turkus: It may be confusing in that way.

A. None whatever.

The Court: It is not confusing.

Mr. Turkus: He has answered, none whatsoever.

Q. Is any person in behalf of either Lepke or Gurrah getting any money or any benefits directly or indirectly from the Raleigh? A. The wife of Louis Buchalter is a stockholder in our Baltimore corporation. 8912

Q. Oh! I see. I forgot to talk about the Baltimore corporation. What is the set-up there? Who are the stockholders there? A. Nathan Borish, Samuel Smith, Betty Buchalter, Anna Shapiro.

Q. What is the other Shapiro? A. Anna Shapiro, my sister-in-law; and Carl Shapiro.

Q. Baltimore is where the manufacturing plant is, isn't that right? A. That is right. 8913

Q. Baltimore is where the seven hundred employees are? A. That is right.

Q. Baltimore is where you get all the cloth and manufacture the garments? A. That is right.

Q. Baltimore is where you get the money for the sale of the garments? A. Well, no.

Q. You get that in New York? A. No.

Q. Both places? A. No; there is two corporations, if you want me to make that clear, Mr. Turkus, I will be glad to.

Q. Wait, let me see if I cannot make it clear myself. I want to help myself as much as I can. The Baltimore corporation, that is under the laws of the State of Maryland? A. That is right.

Q. That is a usual place for incorporations where people don't like corporate trouble, isn't that right?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that, if your Honor pleases.

8915

A. That is ridiculous.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: Excuse me, your Honor, the form was rather bad.

Q. But I mean all Maryland corporation laws are rather loose, aren't they? A. I don't know, I am not a lawyer.

Mr. Wegman: I object to that.

8916

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Let me ask it in this way: Isn't Baltimore a favorite place for incorporations?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that.

The Court: Sustained. Nothing more on that.

Mr. Turkus: Yes, your Honor.

Q. In the Baltimore set-up what is it incorporated for? A. As I explained to you earlier in the day—

Q. How much is it incorporated, fifty thousand, a hundred thousand? What is the incorporation? A. Well, it was incorporated for twenty thousand dollars, that is paid in capital. It is incorporated for a much larger—just how much I could not say.

Q. How much? A. Paid in capital was twenty thousand dollars.

Q. What is the amount of the incorporation, a hundred thousand, five hundred thousand? A. I would not know. I would have to check it. 8918

Q. Well, the net worth of the Baltimore corporation is over a quarter of a million, isn't it? A. No. Ridiculous.

Q. Did you ever have any ratings from Dun & Bradstreet's?

By the Court:

Q. What is the authorized capital stock? A. Your Honor, I am sorry, but I don't know that. It is beyond twenty thousand dollars.

Q. That is an important thing and you should know it. A. Well, it is true, I should know it. 8919

Q. Secretary and treasurer. A. No, of the Baltimore corporation I did not hold an office until lately. I was just a stockholder.

Q. Do you sign the reports? A. I did. Just lately. As far back only as two years ago.

Q. Don't the shares of stock contain the authorized capitalization? A. Not on the stock itself. I think it is capitalized for over a hundred thousand dollars but the paid in capital is twenty thousand dollars.

Q. You said that before, but the authorized capital is over a hundred thousand? A. I believe it is.

8920

Q. Is it a million? A. No, I don't think it is.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Let me ask you this: Did you ever submit a report to Dun & Bradstreet's? A. There was no need for it. No, we did not.

Q. You don't need any credit? A. Not for anything that the Baltimore corporation requires.

8921

Q. Well, did you submit any Dun & Bradstreet report for the New York corporation? A. Yes.

Q. Did you in that report say the assets of the New York corporation were in excess of a quarter of a million?

Mr. Wegman: I object to it, if your Honor pleases; improper question, has no relation at all to the credibility of the witness.

The Court: Overruled.

8922

Mr. Wegman: Improper in form, and collateral matter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. Is the name Philip Kasacove familiar? A. Yes.

Q. He was the accountant for the Raleigh, wasn't he? A. Yes.

Q. He was at one time secretary of the Raleigh, wasn't he? A. He is today.

Q. What is the net worth of the New York corporation?

8923

Mr. Wegman: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, immaterial, irrelevant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: I object on the further ground it has nothing to do with the credibility of the witness; collateral matter.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. As secretary and treasurer do you know it? A. Yes. 8924

Q. What is it? A. The net worth is about $275,000.

Q. $275,000? That is more than a quarter of a million. A. You asked me on the Baltimore corporation.

Q. Oh, all right. Now let us get to the Baltimore corporation. What is the net worth of the Baltimore corporation where all the machinery is, where the plant is, where all the clothing is, and the seven hundred employees?

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases, 8925
I object on the same grounds as I urged an objection to the previous question with relation to the New York corporation. It is a collateral matter, wholly immaterial, irrelevant, and has no possible bearing on the credibility of the witness.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

The Court: You see, Mr. Turkus, in corporation affairs there can be any number of subsidiaries, including ownership of the plant.

8926 Mr. Turkus: I would like the witness to testify, Judge.

The Court: He has not said that. He has not said that the ownership of the plant and its values was included in the twenty thousand paid in capital.

Mr. Turkus: I am trying to find this out.

The Court: That could be a lease matter.

8927 Mr. Turkus: Has your Honor sustained the objection?

The Court: No, I am just suggesting this to you.

Mr. Turkus: I will go into that very quickly but may I get an answer to this question?

The Court: I think you are a little confused in what you are just asking between the comparatively small amount of actual paid in capital and the size of the plant.

8928 Mr. Turkus: I am not confused.

The Court: That must employ six or seven hundred hands.

Mr. Turkus: I am not confused when I see these figures, Judge. I am not a child.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Will you answer that question? A. What was the question?

(Pending question read.)

8929

A. The net worth of the Baltimore corporation today is about sixty or seventy thousand dollars.

Q. Sixty or seventy thousand? A. That is right.

Q. That is the one in which Louis Buchalter's wife has the interest? A. That is right.

Q. The sixty or seventy thousand dollars? A. That is right.

Q. She has no interest nor has he in the $275,000 corporation? A. No.

8930

Q. Greenberg and Shapiro—what was the net worth of that when it was wound up, or was it a liability? A. It was not a liability. It was around eighty thousand. I am not quite sure on the figures.

Q. What interest has Betty Buchalter in the sixty or seventy thousand dollar corporation?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, not relevant, immaterial, wholly collateral, has nothing to do with the credibility of the witness.

8931

The Court: Overruled. What did the witness say was the net worth of Greenberg and Shapiro?

Mr. Turkus: About eighty thousand.

Mr. Wegman: He said he was not sure of it.

The Court: You may now answer the last question.

(Pending question read.)

A. Twenty-five per cent interest.

Q. That twenty-five per cent interest, does it give her $400 a week? A. I could not answer that from a weekly basis but at the end of the year I would say that the dividends of that corporation exceed $10,000.

Q. So that—

Mr. Wegman: Pardon me, Mr. Turkus. The witness answered, if your Honor pleases, before I had a chance to state my objection. I should like to have the record note my objection to the question and my motion to strike out the answer on the ground that the question is wholly immaterial, irrelevant, incompetent, and has no bearing whatsoever on the credibility of the witness. It is a wholly collateral matter, not related to this case whatsoever.

8933

The Court: The Court takes the view that when the witness takes the stand and testifies that a certain conversation was not held on a specific date several years ago, at the office of the Raleigh in New York, and that certain people were not there on that day, that his credibility may be attacked upon the ground of interlinking or interlocking financial interests, not only with the defendant or any defendant but with the wife of any defendant. Overruled.

8934

Mr. Wegman: I take an exception. I should like to, if I may, direct your Honor's attention to the fact that the witness did not testify that those people were not there, that that conversation was not held.

He said he did not see them there and they were not there while he was there and he heard no such conversation.

The Court: Let it go that way.

Mr. Turkus: Let me get back to what I am doing here, if I may, your Honor.

Q. What did we get, $10,000 a year to Betty Buchalter? A. In excess.

Q. In excess of $10,000 a year? I know it may be hard to refresh your recollection about this 8936 but, in round numbers, in 1935, what did Betty Buchalter get out of the Raleigh?

Mr. Wegman: May we have an objection to this line so that I do not have to get up with each question?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, your Honor, I wish you would grant it.

The Court: Yes, you may an objection.

Mr. Wegman: That is to this entire line of questioning, and my exception.

8937

A. In 1936?

Q. Yes. A. I would say that her share of the dividends in the Baltimore corporation were about ten to twelve thousand dollars.

Q. And in 1937? A. A similar amount.

Q. 1938? A. That was a bad year.

Q. All right, would it be somewhere around $10,000? A. It was a lot less than $10,000.

Q. 1938 was a bad year? Would you say $7500. A. Yes, I would say $7500. That was a bad year. '37 was the bad year. I am sorry.

Q. All right, 1937 what did she draw? A. About $7500.

Q. 1939, that was a bad year too toward the end? A. No, 1939 was a good year.

Q. All right, how much? A. In excess of $10,000.

Q. Would you say between ten and twelve thousand or between ten and fifteen? A. It might have even been more than twelve.

Q. It might have been fifteen? A. No, I don't think so.

Q. 1940, what did she draw? A. More than 8939 fifteen thousand dollars.

Q. It would be pretty close to twenty, wouldn't it? A. That I could not say.

Q. In 1941, to date, what has she drawn? A. It has been a very good year.

Q. It would be more than twenty this year, wouldn't it? A. No, it won't be more than twenty. We don't know our figures. Our sales for the calendar year 1941 are three million dollars.

Q. So on the basis of three million dollars worth of sales, what is the interest of 25 per 8940 cent worth by way of dividends? A. That is a very profitable business, I am happy to say.

Q. Well, as secretary and treasurer, and familiar with figures, give us a rough estimate? A. It would be around twenty thousand.

Q. That New York corporation, does that pay dividends? A. Yes.

Q. Does it pay it in the same proportion as the Baltimore corporation? A. Yes.

Q. In other words, would you say that the dividends in the New York corporation are about four times larger than the Baltimore corporation? A. No, would not be larger.

Q. How much larger? What is 25 per cent interest worth in the New York corporation? A. There is nobody that owns a 25 per cent.

Q. What does 25 per cent throw off? A. That is hardly a question I can answer because—

Q. What is the smallest, please? A. Mr. Turkus, please—

Q. In the New York corporation. A. Let me make this plain. We pay the Baltimore corporation a certain amount to make a unit, and if there is sufficient work there is larger profits. 8942

Q. I am not interested in the technique. A. Excuse me, please.

Q. All right. A. The New York corporation does the buying and does the selling, will sometimes have to take losses on merchandise that does not move and the governing of profits from the Baltimore corporation as to the New York corporation are not relevant.

Q. Well, are they interlinking directorates, the New York and Baltimore corporation? A. I happen to be the general manager of the Baltimore corporation as well as the New York corporation. 8943

Q. And you work for the New York corporation and you work for the Baltimore corporation? A. Yes, I direct both corporations.

Q. Are there any other interlocking officers or stockholders? A. No, excepting Mr. Borish and Mr. Sam Smith.

Q. Sam Smith is married to the sister of Jacob Shapiro and yourself? A. Yes, sir.

Q. So he is an interlocking director? A. Yes, he is. Mr. Borish is not related to us.

Q. This Betty Buchalter interest, isn't that the Lepke interest?

8944 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Wegman: I object to that, if your Honor pleases.

A. That is hardly fair. Mrs. Buchalter happens—

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Is it, yes or no? A. No, I cannot answer it.

Q. Then don't answer it if you cannot answer
8945 it yes or no. I do not want the answer. If you cannot tell me whether that is the Lepke interest, yes or no, I do not want the answer. Can—

Mr. Wegman: I object to that question, argumentative, improper in form, and I submit to your Honor that since your Honor has permitted the inquiry to this point that the witness should be permitted to answer in his own way.

The Court: Yes. I am puzzled as to how the witness could possibly know the 8946 private arrangements between husband and wife—

The Witness: Mr. Turkus—

Mr. Turkus: Don't volunteer.

The Court: —unless a defendant told him so.

Q. I just want to get this from the New York corporation. What are the dividends of the New York corporation? A. Well, the dividends of the New York corporation—

Q. Take this year. A. This year I hope that we will have more than $20,000, $30,000.

Q. And that will be split up, the twenty or thirty thousand dollars; does that go to all the stockholders? A. Yes.

Q. All right. A. That would be an individual dividend.

Q. You mean twenty thousand dollars apiece or twenty thousand dollars for all? A. No, apiece.

Q. And how many stockholders are there in that one? A. Three stockholders, of course that is relative to the amount of stock that each individual has. 8948

Q. So the three stockholders get the $90,000? A. No, there is the minority stockholder and then there is one who has a little more.

Q. I mean all the stockholders all together. A. It would not amount to $90,000.

Q. How much? A. Possibly $50,000.

Q. And this year you estimate that the Baltimore corporation, all the stockholders together will get about $80,000? A. No. There are minority holders there too.

Q. You estimated $20,000 for the 25 per cent interest and the other 75 per cent— A. But there are minority holders there who will not proportionately draw. 8949

Q. At least the total profits of the Baltimore end of the corporation this year will be at least $80,000? A. No.

Q. How many thousand do you estimate? A. Oh, around sixty, something like that, fifty, or forty. I would not know.

Q. Between the two corporations, the profits will be around a hundred thousand or better for 1941? A. I think so.

Q. Now, having gotten yourself into a very lucrative business starting January, 1936, didn't you devote much time down in Baltimore? A. Yes, about 50 per cent of my time.

Q. In 1936, what hotel did you stop at when you were in Baltimore? A. I stayed at my sister's place.

Q. What is the name of your sister? A. Laura Smith.

Q. And what was the address in 1936 where you stopped? A. 3716 Liberty Heights.

8951 Q. Is that a very fashionable section of Baltimore? A. Well, I would say it is a nice section.

Q. Where does Laura Smith live now? A. She lives on Springdale Avenue. I don't know the number.

Q. You don't stop there any more? A. Oh, sure.

Q. Don't you stop at any hotel? A. In Baltimore?

Q. Yes. A. There was no need for it.

Q. You told Mr. Wegman that you had refreshed your recollection so that you could tes-

8952 tify that you did not see Tannenbaum or Rubin on September 11, 1936, a Friday, because you had refreshed your recollection from certain papers of the Raleigh?

Mr. Wegman: I object—

A. That is hardly the facts.

Mr. Wegman: Mr. Shapiro, please. when I make an objection—

Q. Answer it yes or no.

8953

Mr. Wegman: Mr. Turkus, I have a right to object before there is an answer. Now, please. If your Honor pleases, I object to the question. It is improper in form. It misstates the record. It misstates the testimony of the witness on direct.

The Witness: That is right.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

8954

Q. Yes or no. A. That was not the question asked me by Mr. Wegman.

Q. It was not? A. No.

Q. Did you before you came to court refresh your recollection from certain records of the Raleigh? A. That I was in New York at that date?

Q. Yes, that you were in New York that day. A. Positively.

Q. And those records—

8955

The Court: Pardon me just a minute. On the Court's notes appears the following concerning your direct testimony: "Did not see Rubin or Tannenbaum there September 11th."

The Witness: That is right.

By the Court:

Q. Did you so testify? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you testify that you know that because you refreshed your recollection by certain papers?

8956 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Wegman: No, that is not the testimony.

A. I know I was in New York that day because of certain records. That is what I said.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Were you asked this by Mr. Wegman, referring to page 2830 of the present record:

8957 "By Mr. Wegman:

"Q. Mr. Shapiro, did you see either Rubin or Tannenbaum at any time on Friday, September 11, 1936, at any place, at any other place? A. No, I did not. I don't believe I did. I am pretty sure of it."

Did you hear that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you hear then Mr. Turkus say: "Will your Honor direct the witness to bring with him the records he used to refresh his recollection?" A. That is right.

Q. Did you hear Mr. Wegman say: "I have 8958 those and I shall be glad to mark them for identification at this time. If you want them in evidence, you can see them. That is the rule. I will be glad to offer them in evidence. I now offer them in evidence."

Did you hear that discussion? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, the papers that you refreshed your recollection from were checks, weren't they? A. That is right.

Q. And from those checks, that is how you told that you were in New York on September 11th, Friday, 1936? A. Yes.

Q. May I see the checks? Perchance, do you have a diary? A. No.

Q. Why, a business that makes a hundred thousand a year profit, you have no diary?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that.

A. My secretary has a diary.

Q. An office diary? A. My secretary has a diary.

Q. Did you use the diary to refresh your 8960 recollection? A. No, these checks.

Q. Just these checks, Defendants' Exhibit Z-9 for Identification? A. Can I show you?

Q. Yes, you look them over. A. I will be glad to show you.

(Mr. Turkus hands checks to witness.)

The Witness: Here is a check—

Q. Wait. I do not want you to volunteer anything. It is from those checks—

8961

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor pleases—

Mr. Turkus: Will you sit down and keep quiet, please, and stop getting so excited?

Mr. Wegman: I am not excited.

Mr. Turkus: I merely asked the witness if that bundle of checks, Exhibit Z-19, was used by him to refresh his recollection.

The Witness: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: Now, let me have them back.

8962 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Cross

Q. And you have already told us you did not look at the office diary to refresh your recollection? A. I have no office diary. My secretary has.

Q. You did not look at the diary that your secretary keeps? A. No, I didn't. I would not know where it is.

Q. You did not look at the office records to see if there were any stubs for trains going down to Baltimore that you may have used? A.
8963 I never keep those stubs.

Q. Did you look at the office records? A. I could not say.

Q. What? A. I did not look at that, no.

Q. Who was the first person that spoke to you about coming into this case as a witness? A. I was called in by attorneys Wegman and Climenko.

Q. You did not go back to your office after the discussion in the office of Wegman and Climenko, to look for any record of stubs or any other railroad record to show the trips you took 8964 to Baltimore in 1936? A. That might have been an oversight on Wegman's part. If he had asked me to bring that, I would have looked for it.

Q. I see. That never occurred to you? A. I just brought what Mr. Wegman asked me to bring.

Q. You knew you were just coming here to say that you did not see Rubin and Tannenbaum in the office on September 11, 1936, didn't you? A. Mr. Turkus, you asked me—

Q. Now answer that yes or no. Didn't you know that you were coming hereto testify that on Friday, September 11, 1936, before Joe Rosen was killed in Brooklyn, you did not see Rubin and Tannenbaum up at 200 Fifth Avenue? Didn't you? A. I could not anticipate questions. I came here as a witness.

Q. You did not anticipate the direct questioning by Mr. Wegman? A. Mr. Wegman—

Q. Yes or no? A. That question?

Q. Yes. A. Any question I cannot anticipate.

Q. Did you not know that Mr. Wegman was going to ask you who was in the office of the 8966
Raleigh on Friday, September 11, 1936? A. That was some of the questions he asked me in his office.

Q. But didn't you anticipate it? A. I don't know what he would ask me, Mr. Turkus.

Q. You don't know what Wegman and Climenko asked you in the law office when you were there as a prospective witness in the Lepke case?

Mr. Wegman: He did not say that.

8967

A. I cannot be accountable for any questions that might be asked of me and I cannot answer them.

Q. I am asking you that when you took this witness stand here yesterday as a witness for Lepke, whether you did not know you were going to be asked about your movements on September 11, 1936. A. No more than I would know what question you would ask me next.

Q. So that you came here completely surprised when you were asked about September 11th? A. No, sir.

8968 Q. Why, you dug out the checks of September 11, 1936, to refresh your recollection, didn't you? A. I brought all the checks dated as of September 11th, written in the New York office.

Q. 1936? A. 1936, as requested.

Q. Then you understood when you took this witness stand that September 11, 1936, had significance in this case, didn't you? A. That is right.

Q. And you knew you were going to be here
8969 to testify about September 11th? A. As to the facts.

Q. 1936? A. Yes.

Q. And you knew you were to be here to testify that you did not see Tannenbaum or Rubin in that office? A. That is the truth.

Q. And you did not look for railroad stubs to see if you had been in Baltimore; you did not look in the secretary's diary; you only looked at Z-19, the checks? A. We don't keep railroad stubs; they are given to the conductor when they collect the—8970 Q. When the tickets are purchased, isn't there a record of the ticket? A. They pick that up.

Q. What about a Pullman? Did you ever ride in a Pullman, with a $100,000 profit? A. Sure I did.

Q. Did you ever hear of Pullman tickets? A. I do not ride the Pullman from Baltimore to New York.

Q. Oh, I see. And never did in all the trips you took down from 1936 to date, you never once rode the Pullman? A. Sleeper, yes, but not the Pullman.

8971

Q. You know there are sleeper records? A. When I didn't take the sleeper I went by coach.

Q. Other than these checks, Exhibit Z-9 for identification, did you refresh your recollection from anything under the sun? A. I was not asked to bring anything.

Q. Did you, sir? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: I am through.

Redirect examination by Mr. Wegman:

8972

Q. Mr. Shapiro, referring first to the last thing that Mr. Turkus got so excited and vehement about, is it possible for you to tell from these checks that you were positively and certainly in New York on September 11th? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it necessary to refer to any other records when you have these checks to demonstrate the fact that you necessarily were in New York on that day? A. That is very conclusive.

Q. Now will you please tell his Honor and this jury, and inform Mr. Turkus for his edification, how you can tell from those checks you were in New York on that day without the necessity of looking at any other records? A. There is one check here marked "Payroll, September 11, 1936, for $132." The only signature required is mine, Carl Shapiro. It is endorsed, "Carl Shapiro, O. K. for cash," and was cashed by Naomi Shapiro. That proves conclusively that I was there on that date.

Q. It was cashed on that day; is that correct? A. It was cashed on that day. Here are other checks here that was written on the same day, by the same bookkeeper, and I signed every one of those checks.

Q. And some of those checks cleared the bank on September 11th? A. Yes. I don't know all, but some. One of them it has, here. Some of these were given to other parties.

The Court: May I see that payroll check?

8975

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, will you reserve the question until I get one question on record?

The Court: I am not asking a question. I am going to ask a question in a minute. Go ahead, Counsel.

Mr. Turkus: I think I wanted to ask the same question.

The Court: Go ahead.

Mr. Wegman: I have been waiting for Mr. Turkus to get through.

The Court: You were standing up.

8976

Mr. Wegman: Yes, I am questioning the witness on redirect.

Mr. Turkus: Have you finished?

The Court: That is what I asked you.

Mr. Wegman: I am not through with my redirect. I am waiting for your Honor to get through.

The Court: I asked for this check because I wanted to see if it had been folded as though it had been put in an envelope and gone through the mail. I see a crease mark in the check.

By the Court:

Q. Did you sign that in Baltimore and mail it back to New York? A. No, your Honor. That check was written on the 11th and to send it from Baltimore would take at least a day to get to the New York office.

Q. You cannot account for that crease mark? A. Anybody would fold a check and put it in a pass book in making a deposit, and our bank account was in New York. 8978

Q. I am just asking you if that refreshes your recollection on that point. A. No; that check was written in New York and cashed in New York on the very same day.

Q. Did you ever mail checks from Baltimore to New York? A. Baltimore checks.

Q. When you were in Baltimore, did you always come back to New York on week-ends and sign payroll checks? A. Yes.

Q. They never mailed payroll checks to mail back to New York, to save you the trouble? A. I always spent my week-ends in New York, and 8979 we always paid on a Friday.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. You lived in New York at that time, didn't you, Mr. Shapiro?

Mr. Turkus: That has been brought out on direct.

Mr. Wegman: May I have the checks, please?

8980 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Redirect

Q. In answer to his Honor's question, you testified, Mr. Shapiro, that checks were sometimes mailed from Baltimore to New York; in response to that you said those were Baltimore checks. Will you please explain to his Honor and this jury the difference between New York checks and Baltimore checks? A. They are two different colors. The Baltimore check was an entirely different color than the New York check.

8981 Q. And the Baltimore checks, when you say Baltimore checks, you mean checks of the Baltimore company? A. No, even of the New York corporation. All checks written in Baltimore for the sake of easy identification as far as the bookkeepers' records are concerned, are a different color than New York checks of the same corporation. The Baltimore checks were white.

The Court: We will continue at 1:30. Everybody kindly remain in order.

Gentlemen of the jury, please do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you 8982 about it. Keep your minds open.

First the witness may leave.

Now the jury pass out the other door.

Now the defendants are remanded.

(Whereupon a recess was taken to 1:30 P. M.)

(Afternoon Session. Trial Resumed.)

CARL SHAPIRO, resumed the stand and further testified, as follows:

Mr. Wegman: Before I proceed questioning, I now renew the offer of these checks in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: Consented to.

(Ten checks received in evidence and marked as one exhibit, Defendants' Exhibit 7.) 8984

Re-direct examination by Mr. Wegman:

Q. Now, Mr. Shapiro, these checks came from a regular book of checks, didn't they? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the checks in the book are numbered in rotation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. So the serial number on the checks shows their disposition in the book? A. Yes, sir.

8985

Mr. Wegman: If your Honor please, may I suspend questioning long enough to identify these checks to the jury. We have them in evidence.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wegman: These checks, a series of ten checks, all dated September 11, 1936, start with the serial number 584, and then continue, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592 and 593. Checks numbered 588, 590, 592 and 591 have a bank perforation showing they cleared through the bank on

8986 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Redirect

September 11, 1936. The other checks bear various cancellation dates, and there are various payees named on the checks. Each check bears only the signature on it, "Carl Shapiro".

Q. Do you know in whose handwriting these checks are made out? A. Yes, sir, I know the writing of Naomi Shapiro.

Q. Every one of them is in her handwriting?

8987 A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Baltimore office of the business there were checks of the New York corporation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Those checks that you testified to were of different color than the checks from New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when the occasion arose for you to sign a check while you were in Baltimore on the New York account, that check was written in Baltimore and signed by you there on this other color? A. Yes, sir.

8988

Mr. Turkus: May we have the witness testify? That is leading.

Q. Were checks sent to you in Baltimore from New York for you to sign in Baltimore? A. No, sir.

Q. And the checks were signed by you on the dates the checks bear? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, when were you at my office the other day did I ask you substantially the same questions I asked you on your direct examination here?

8989

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Mr. Wegman: May I point out to your Honor that on cross-examination Mr. Turkus asked this witness whether he knew what he was going to testify to here, and I submit I have the right to elicit for the jury the fact he was asked the very questions he was asked here, and then what happened after that.

8990

The Court: You mean in your office?

Mr. Wegman: Yes, at my office.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. Did I ask you, Mr. Shapiro, to check your records to see whether there was any indication you were in New York on Friday, September 11th, which would satisfy you as to whether or not you were actually in New York on that date?

8991

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. When I completed my interrogation of you, did I then tell you I would want you to testify at this trial?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

8992 Carl Shapiro—For Defts.—Redirect

Q. Did I ask you to bring with you at this trial the lease of the number 200 Fifth Avenue office and the checks which showed you were in New York on that date?

Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. And did I tell you I would ask you the same 8993 questions on the witness stand that I had asked you at my office?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. When you asked on examination by Mr. Turkus concerning anticipation of questions and you stated in response that you could not anticipate the question that might be asked, did you refer to the questions that were asked you or the questions that Mr. Turkus might ask you?

8994

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.
The Court: Objection sustained.
Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. Well, Mr. Shapiro, you have been in direct charge and complete charge of the operation of the business of Raleigh Manufacturers, Incorporated, from 1936? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Since that time, since the late spring of 1937, did the defendant Buchalter, or your brother Jacob Shapiro, participate in any way, or have anything whatsoever to do with the operation of that business? A. Never did, no, sir.

Q. In any way whatsoever? A. No, sir.

Q. And your business today is approximately three times as great as it was in 1936? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Judge Talley has to absent himself from the room for a few moments.

Mr. Turkus: That will leave the defendant Weiss without counsel in the meantime. 8996

The Court: Will it be agreeable for Mr. Barshay to act in behalf of your client in the meanwhile?

Mr. Talley: Yes.

Defense Counsel: We have no objection.

The Court: It has come to the Court's attention that a situation, a critical illness on the part of one of defense counsel, makes it advisable for the Court to proceed no further this afternoon. His condition has gone to the extent of an 8997 ambulance and a priest, so for that reason it would be indecent to continue this afternoon, even though other counsel are present representing that defendant.

The Court (addressing jury): Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day. There will be no session. We will resume Friday morning at ten o'clock. Please do not discuss the case, nor let anybody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open. Follow all the other admonitions heretofore given. First, the witness may go. The witness will return on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Now, the jury may leave.

(The jury retired from the courtroom.)

Put on the record that the illness has no relation to the trial, but to a chronic condition from which counsel has been suffering for a long period of time; it is 8999 purely dietary.

The defendants are remanded.

(Adjournment was thereupon taken to Friday, November 21, 1941, at 10: a. m.)

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 21, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

9000 CARL SHAPIRO, a witness in behalf of the defense, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Mr. Barshay: In the absence of Mr. Wegman, I just want to ask one question, your Honor.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. Barshay:

Q. Mr. Shapiro, you spoke of the firm of Greenberg & Shapiro being in 936 Broadway. A. 935.

The Court: Was not Mr. Wegman conducting the redirect?

Mr. Barshay: I said I don't want to wait for Mr. Wegman.

The Court: I think we had better wait.

Mr. Barshay: I have only one question.

The Court: It is a quarter past ten.

Mr. Barshay: It is up to your Honor. I thought I would save the Court's time.

The Court: I don't want a motion for 9002
a mistrial.

Mr. Barshay: Can we withdraw this witness, and I will put a very short witness on?

The Court: I don't want a motion for a mistrial when Mr. Wegman comes in.

Mr. Talley: May I address the Court, please? I have a witness here, Major Kleinman, who is here from Camp and must get away. He must get away, he says, by 11 o'clock. He is a very short witness. I was going to interrupt the wit- 9003 ness now and put Major Kleinman on so that he can get a plane to go South to his regiment.

The Court: In order to avoid confusion, the Court is taking the defense of each defendant separately, and in the order in which the names appear on the indictment.

Mr. Talley: I do not know whether this is the last witness to be introduced at this time by defendant Buchalter's counsel. In any event, I am confronted with the situation of an Army officer, taken away from maneuvers down there, and I expected to call him on Wednesday afternoon and had him here. Now he has got to get back. He says he must be out of this building by 11 o'clock. I just present my dilemma to you.

The Court: If it is possible for him to come in the proper order, that is to your interest as well as all other defendants'.

9005 Mr. Talley: I appreciate it, but I am just confronted with that situation.

The Court: Where is Major Kleinman?

(Major William W. Kleinman approaches the rail.)

The Court: (to Major Kleinman) Come right up. We have not seen you in a long time. See if you can arrange your Army time.

Major Kleinman: I have made reservation on a plane, your Honor, so as to return to Atlanta on the 12 o'clock. I had 9006 my leave extended by one day. The last plane I can make is one which leaves at noon today.

The Court: How long will this testimony be?

Mr. Talley: My direct examination will be no more than five minutes.

Mr. Turkus: I doubt if it will be that long, because it will be something concerning which Major Kleinman has no knowledge, that is, no personal knowledge.

The Court: That remains to be seen. All right, gentlemen of the jury, this is on the defense of Weiss. Of course, all evidence which is put in the case in defense of one defendant operates as a defense of all in so far as it applies to the others, but the present witness is withdrawn momentarily from the stand while Major Kleinman, a former attorney, testifies as a witness for the defendant Weiss.

9008

MAJOR WILLIAM W. KLEINMAN, Camp Wheeler, Georgia, called as a witness on behalf of the defendant Weiss and being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Are you a Major in the United States Army at the present time? A. I am.

Q. And your regiment is located where at the present time? A. We are at Camp Wheeler, Georgia.

9009

Q. And you came up here in response to a request to testify in this trial, did you? A. I did.

Q. In the year 1940 were you practicing law here in the Borough of Brooklyn? A. I was.

Q. You have been a member of the Bar of the State of New York how many years? A. Since 1925.

Q. In the month of April, 1940, were you attorney for the defendant Emanuel Weiss? A. I was.

Q. And in that month do you remember tal-

9010 ing with Mr. Turkus, the Assistant District Attorney in charge of this prosecution? A. I do.

Q. And was it with reference to the defendant Weiss? A. It was.

Q. Was Weiss brought to the District Attorney's office at that time?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. That is something he does not know of his own 9011 knowledge.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did you have a talk with Mr. Turkus about Weiss at that time? A. Yes.

Q. Will you state what it was?

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you see Mr. Weiss, the defendant Weiss, in the District Attorney's office at that 9012 time? A. I did not.

Q. Was he here in the Borough of Brooklyn—Weiss? A. I did not see him, Judge.

Q. Did you talk with him? A. Not until later that afternoon.

Q. Later that afternoon—but I am speaking now of the month of April—did you talk with Weiss in April? A. Yes.

Q. Of 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was it here in the Borough of Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What were the circumstances which brought about your meeting with Weiss at that time?

Major William W. Kleinman—For Defts.—Direct

9013

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained as calling for a conclusion.

Q. Where did you see Weiss? A. In my office at 66—

Q. In the Borough of Brooklyn? A. 66 Court Street, Brooklyn, New York.

Q. Had he been brought to the District Attorney's office at that time?

9014

Mr. Turkus: That is something that the witness cannot testify to.

The Court: He can tell whether or not he saw him there.

Mr. Turkus: He says he did not see him there.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did you talk with Turkus about Weiss's being in the District Attorney's office?

9015

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you remember when in the month of April it was that you talked with Mr. Turkus? A. In the latter part of the month of April. I cannot recall the exact date.

Q. Would you say on or about April 25th? A. I cannot say definitely as to any date.

Mr. Talley: Is it conceded by Mr. Turkus that on April 25th this witness had a talk with him, Mr. Turkus?

9016 Major William W. Kleinman—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Turkus: The Court has ruled that out.

Mr. Talley: I am asking if you will make that concession as to the date, that is all.

Mr. Turkus: Yes, I can tell the date. Let me have the file.

I have a date noted in my file. I want to check it to be accurate. The date that 9017 I have now in my file is 3/28/40. That would make it March 28, 1940, but I am going to check that with the office records.

This testimony is incompetent anyway, and immaterial at this time, and it is taken out of order. I think it disrupts the defense.

Q. Did you see Weiss at or about that time, March or April, 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you see him? A. In my office at 66 Court Street, Brooklyn.

9018 Q. Did you advise Mr. Turkus that you would produce him at any time that he was wanted?

Mr. Turkus: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception. If your Honor pleases, I promise to connect this testimony with other direct evidence, if you will allow me to put it in subject to connection. I certainly have not brought this Major Kleinman up from Georgia without a very definite purpose, and I ask you to let me put in this evidence, which is very brief, wholly within the knowledge of Mr. Turkus, and I promise to connect it.

9019

The Court: The trouble is that my own experience in the practice of law causes me to sense what the connection would be and that it is incompetent and it may be improper to get it before the jury for that reason. I cannot let you do that.

Mr. Talley: You have taken evidence, you will recall, subject to connection here in this case.

The Court: No.

9020

Mr. Talley: Your Honor should know I would not trifle with the Court and make a statement of that kind unless I knew I could carry it out, and it is of very vital importance to this case, this particular evidence.

The Court: I cannot let you do it.

Mr. Talley: You will not permit it?

The Court: That is a ruling.

Q. Were you, at a later date, that is, a few days after the date upon which I have been inquiring when you saw the defendant Weiss, were you present with him in a restaurant here in the Borough of Brooklyn?

9021

Mr. Turkus: We'd better fix the date that he speaks of.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: I asked you to fix it, if you could.

Q. You say the latter part of April, according to your best recollection? A. It was either the latter part of April or the beginning of May.

9022 Major William W. Kleinman—For Defts.—Direct

Q. At or about that time, after the interview you say you had with the defendant Weiss in your office, were you in a restaurant with defendant Weiss? A. I was.

Q. And were you and he seated at a table? A. We were. There was one other with us.

Q. At that time were there any police officers in that restaurant that you saw, that were known to you? A. There were two who were known 9023 to me, one other who was a policeman by introduction, who was unknown to me.

Q. Who were the two that were known to you? A. There was Commissioner Valentine was the one whom I knew definitely. The other gentleman I knew by sight, but I cannot recall his name. He was either Deputy Chief Inspector or one of the Inspectors of the Police Department. The other gentleman to whom Commissioner Valentine introduced me was also either an Inspector or Deputy Chief Inspector, and, if I am not mistaken, there was one civilian, one 9024 other gentleman, with Commissioner Valentine's party who was not a police officer.

Q. How near were they to the table at which you and Weiss sat? A. Oh, perhaps within 10 feet or 12 feet.

Q. Have you any knowledge of the fact that they saw Weiss with you that day and knew it was Weiss?

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, there is an objection.

The Court: I do not understand the question.

(Pending question read.)

The Court: Sustained.

Major William W. Kleinman—For Defts.—Direct

9025

Q. Were they at any time at your table, or was Weiss at the table they were at? A. No, at no time.

Q. Was there any conversation between you and them? A. Yes, sir.

Q. With respect to Weiss? A. No, sir.

Q. Did Weiss take part in the conversation at all? A. No, sir.

Q. And when you say they were seated 10 feet away from your table, would you indicate 9026 from where you sit, Major, to whatever juryman would indicate the distance? A. The room in which we were seated—it was the newer part of Peter Luger's Restaurant—is a rather square room. We were sitting about in the center, that is, Weiss, a lawyer who was my assistant at that time, Mortime Saffer, and I were in the center of this square room. Police Commissioner Valentine and his party were along the side of the room. I have estimated it to be about 10 or 12 feet away, from about where I am to the gentleman, the alternate juror.

9027

The Court: Broadway at Driggs Avenue?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

A. (continued) And there were perhaps only three or four other people in that portion of the restaurant at the time, and the Police Commissioner and his party entered after we had been eating for some time. I think I have answered your question.

Q. Major, did you say anything to any of these policemen about Weiss being in your company? A. No, I did not mention Weiss. When I saw

9028 Major William W. Kleinman—For Defts.—Direct

Commissioner Valentine and his party come in, I mentioned that fact to Weiss and I then arose from my table and walked over and shook hands and spoke to Commissioner Valentine. I don't recall the conversation. It had nothing to do with Weiss.

Q. Is it your recollection that you and Weiss were not in the District Attorney's office together at any time during that period? A. I am rather 9029 certain that it was not Weiss whom I saw in the District Attorney's office. Weiss came to me after I went to the District Attorney's office for him.

Q. When you went to the District Attorney's office for him, did you have a talk with Mr. Turkus? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Mr. Weiss in the District Attorney's office at that time or not? A. I could not see.

Q. Was he in custody at that time, do you know? A. I am only assuming, Judge.

9030 Mr. Turkus: I object.
The Court: Sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. After you talked with Mr. Turkus, Weiss was not in custody, was he?

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. There is an objection.
The Court: Sustained.
Mr. Talley: Exception. This witness was his attorney.

Q. How long after the day that you communicated with Mr. Turkus about Weiss were you in the restaurant with him? A. Well, my best estimate of the time would be within a few weeks.

Q. How long after the day that you went to the District Attorney's office and talked with Mr. Turkus about Weiss, how long after that day was it that Weiss was in your office? A. I cannot recall definitely the time. He was in my office quite frequently after that day, and I should imagine for at least a few weeks after that.

9032

Q. But you know of your own knowledge, as his attorney and from observing him, that he was not then in the custody of the District Attorney or anybody else? A. He was with me.

Q. Free to come and go? A. Apparently.

Q. Did you write a letter to the District Attorney's office, Major, in connection with the Weiss matter at that time? A. I don't believe it was in connection with Weiss that I wrote the letter. I spoke to Mr. Turkus in connection with Weiss personally.

Q. Did you, in a letter, advise the District Attorney, that you would produce Weiss whenever he was wanted? A. I cannot say definitely. I have asked Mr. Price, who was then my associate, to find out if there was such a letter. I have not been able to determine.

9033

Q. But you do know that you made that offer orally to Mr. Turkus? A. Yes.

Q. Was that made to Mr. Turkus in his office?

Mr. Turkus: I cannot understand Judge Talley's attitude. Three times the conversation has been ruled out, and now Judge Talley is testifying to the conversation.

9034 Major William W. Kleinman—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: What is it?

Mr. Turkus: It is an objection, of course.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

By the Court:

Q. Major, some lawyers keep an office register
9035 for use in making up their bills, and it contains the amount of work done from day to day, in diary form. A. Yes, sir.

Q. The register stating what clients called, how long they talked, and what they talked about. Did you ever keep an office register? A. No, nothing like that, sir.

Q. Did you ever keep a callers' book? A. Just telephone calls, sir.

Q. You don't keep a callers' book to show when people came into your office? A. Sometimes that has happened, but we don't keep it as an office routine.

9036 Q. Did you have such a book? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I wish to take a general exception to your Honor's refusal to allow me to present this evidence through this witness, subject to my offer to connect it. I except to your Honor's attitude and ruling in that matter. I have no further questions of this witness.

Cross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Major Kleinman, you at one time were Assistant District Attorney in Brooklyn? A. I was.

Q. Judge Taylor asked you whether you had any office register. I suggest to you the date of 3/28/40 to refresh your recollection as to the date when Weiss was in your office. Does that help you any? A. If you have any means of believing that that is the date that I spoke to you, I will accept your suggestion.

Q. That is the notation in my file. A. I have no recollection.

Q. That would make it March 28th. A. I have 9038 no other recollection of it except that I attempt to fix it by the time or around the time we were moving our office from one floor to the other.

Q. At any rate, the date that Weiss was in your office was the date that you had the conversation with Assistant District Attorney Turkus; is that correct? A. That is correct.

Q. You had the conversation with Turkus earlier in that day, and later in the day you saw Weiss? A. That is correct.

Q. And within how many weeks after that was that restaurant incident that you met 9039
Weiss? A. I cannot say. I have testified that I thought it was about two or three weeks, but my recollection is very hazy about that.

Q. At any rate, since that restaurant incident you have not seen Weiss again until you saw him in court? A. No, I saw him after that, but I cannot say for how long after that. I know that that was not the very last time I saw him.

Q. It was a very short time after that that was the last time? A. Not long after that.

Q. And the next time you saw him after that last occasion was when you saw him in court? A. Today.

9040 Carl Shapiro—Recalled for Defts.—Redirect

Redirect examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. When did you go out with your regiment, Major? A. I left Brooklyn around January 28, 1941.

Mr. Talley: I have no further questions, Major. Thank you very much.

The Court: Major Kleinman says he can come back any time next week, if notified.

9041

Mr. Talley: Thank you.

The Court: Defense of defendant Buchalter resumed.

CARL SHAPIRO, a witness in behalf of the defense, resumes the stand and testifies further as follows:

By Mr. Wegman:

9042 Q. Mr. Shapiro, when Mr. Turkus was questioning you about the assets of Greenberg and Shapiro, 935 Broadway, he asked you about an entrance to that building on Fifth Avenue. You did not recall the number on Fifth Avenue. Was that the same building as 200 Fifth Avenue? A. No, it is not.

Q. It is several blocks away from 200 Fifth Avenue? A. Yes, it is two blocks away.

Q. And on the other side of Fifth Avenue? A. It has a freight entrance on Fifth Avenue.

Q. The main entrance to the building is on Broadway? A. 935.

Q. There is no connection between that building and the building at 200 Fifth Avenue? A. None whatsoever.

Q. The business that was located at 935 Broadway was the business of Greenberg & Shapiro, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the defendant Buchalter have any interest in that business? A. None whatsoever.

Q. I asked you on your direct examination about whether you saw certain individuals at the office at 200 Fifth Avenue in the month of September, 1936. I shall now extend that time. I ask you to tell his Honor and this jury whether any of those individuals ever came to the office in 200 Fifth Avenue at any time during the year 1936. 9044

Mr. Turkus: What individuals does he mean?

Mr. Wegman: Do you want me to specify them?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, certainly.

Mr. Wegman: I said the ones that I asked him about on direct examination, Tannenbaum and Rubin. 9045

A. I don't believe they ever came up there.

Q. And during the entire year of 1936—

Mr. Turkus: The answer is, "I don't believe." That is an improper answer to the question.

The Court: What do you want to do?

Mr. Turkus: Strike it out.

The Court: Make a motion.

Mr. Turkus: I do.

The Court: Strike it out.

Mr. Wegman: I don't take any exception to that striking out, if your Honor pleases. I shall now reframe the question.

Q. Did you ever see Tannenbaum or Rubin at the office of 200 Fifth Avenue during the year 1936? A. No, I did not.

Q. During that year did you frequently, almost daily, as a matter of fact, see police officers come into that office and in the hall outside that office? A. Yes.

Mr. Wegman: That is all.

Recross examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. During your examination you testified that the 25 per cent interest in that Baltimore corporation was Carl Shapiro, Anna Shapiro, Betty Buchalter, and Nathan Borish; is that correct?

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor please, we object to this as improper recross-examination.

Mr. Turkus: I want to get one interest straightened out that has not been—

The Court: Discretionary. Overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

Q. You did not testify to that? A. Nathan Borish has a 25 per cent interest in the Baltimore corporation; Betty Buchalter has 25 per cent interest in the Baltimore corporation; Samuel Smith has a 12½ per cent interest in the Baltimore corporation, and Carl Shapiro has a 12½ per cent interest in the Baltimore corporation, that is on stock distributed—

Q. That is 75 per cent. Who has got the other 25? A. That is—

Mr. Wegman: May we have the answer repeated, if your Honor pleases.

The Witness: Let me explain that this way:—

Q. We have a question now. Where is the other 25? A. There is 100 per cent of the stock distributed amongst these five individuals. 9050

Q. Who are the five? A. Anna Shapiro.

Q. You did not give me her interest? A. 25 per cent.

Q. That is what I said. Who is Anna Shapiro? A. My brother's wife.

Q. You mean Gurrah's wife? A. Jacob Shapiro's wife.

Q. So that Lepke's wife has a 25 per cent interest and Gurrah's wife has a 25 per cent interest? A. That is right.

Q. And Gurrah's wife will get about $20,000 this year as her interest? 9051

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, that is objected to on the ground it is improper recross-examination and on the further ground that the matter is immaterial to the issues here.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Climenko: Exception.

A. I approximated that amount at that time.

9052 Carl Shapiro—Recalled for Defts.—Recross

Q. At any rate, let me ask you this: She will get the same as Betty Buchalter? A. That is right.

Q. And she did get the same as Betty Buchalter since the formation of the Raleigh? A. They have equal shares.

Q. When is pay day in Baltimore? A. Friday.

Mr. Turkus: May I have those checks, Defendants' Exhibits?

9053

Q. Your payroll down in Baltimore is for about seven hundred employees, isn't it? A. That is right.

Q. Your payroll in Baltimore amounts to approximately how much per week? A. That varies. I would say our expenses in Baltimore are about $25,000 a week.

Q. And the greater share of it is disbursed on Friday? A. Yes.

Q. Up in New York you disbursed $132.50 payroll in September, 1936, isn't that right? A. If that is what the check calls for.

9054

Q. Take a look at it, Defendants' Exhibit 7, payroll. A. That is weekly payroll of the New York office.

Q. The payroll down in Baltimore to the employees, that is cash, isn't it? A. Yes.

Q. And you are the one that signs the checks? A. I sign all checks but there is just one check made out for payroll there.

Q. Yes, and that is a substantial check? A. That is right.

Q. Approximately $25,000? A. Not at that time, no.

Q. Well, at that time approximately how much? A. I would say about a little less than half.

Q. About $12,000 then? A. I cannot put a figure on it but it was a lot less than $25,000.

Q. Well, about fifty per cent of what it is today? A. No. Less than fifty per cent.

Q. Approximately? A. About $9,000, $8,000.

Q. In all the experience that you have had with the Raleigh, did you ever sign a post-dated check in your New York office? A. I don't be- 9056 lieve I ever did.

Q. Well, do you mean that since the formation of the Raleigh you never signed checks in anticipation of going out of town? A. Not in the New York office, no.

Q. Did you in the Baltimore office? A. Yes, sir, not post-dated.

Q. I assume then— A. Not post-dated.

Q. Not post-dated? A. No, sir.

Q. I don't mean from the standpoint of not having funds and desiring to anticipate the check; I mean in anticipation of being elsewhere? 9057
A. In the Baltimore corporation if I had—

Q. Yes or no, that is all it calls for. A. Let me hear that question again, please?

(Question read.)

A. I signed blank checks, yes.

Q. Didn't you ever sign blank checks in the New York office? A. No, sir.

Q. Was it a blank check for the $9,000 payroll that you signed down in Balitmore? A. That is right.

Q. Well, is it your testimony then that you signed the $9,000 blank check and did not sign the $132.50 blank check up in New York for the payroll here?

Mr. Wegman: Objected to, highly objectionable, argumentative.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Wegman: Exception. May I call your Honor's attention to the form of 9059 that question specifically?

The Court: You don't have to.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

Q. Just yes or no, sir.

Mr. Wegman: Now, if your Honor pleases, I submit that question cannot be answered yes or no and the witness is entitled to answer it fully.

The Court: He can answer it yes or no.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

9060

A. Not very well, Mr. Turkus.

Q. What? A. I cannot answer that yes or no because—

The Court: The lawyer has been telling you.

Mr. Wegman: I take exception to that remark.

The Court: Read the question again.

(Question read.)

Mr. Wegman: I submit to your Honor that that question cannot be answered—

The Court: You have already submitted. This is another interruption. Sit down. There will be no more rulings on it. (To reporter) Read it again.

(Question read.)

A. It is quite customary to sign blank checks in Baltimore—

Q. Yes or no. A. I cannot answer it yes or no.

Q. Then don't bother with it. This other exhibit here, Defendants' Exhibit 7 in evidence, Carl Shapiro, that is the check you made out to yourself, isn't it? A. I did not make out this check but this check is made out to me. 9062

Q. You signed it? A. That is right.

Q. You signed it with all the other checks that you spoke of— A. That is right.

Q. —to Mr. Wegman? A. That is right, but not a blank check.

Q. No, that was not a blank check when you signed it? A. No, sir.

Q. Who is the lawyer for the Raleigh Clothing? A. We have about three lawyers. 9063

Q. I mean, do you see any of the lawyers for the Raleigh in the court-room?

Mr. Wegman: I made it clear on the record that the firm of Wegman & Climenko are the attorneys for Raleigh Manufacturers, Inc., and have been for some time.

The Court: Would you mind sitting down and letting the witness answer the question?

9064 Carl Shapiro—Recalled for Defts.—Redirect

Q. Now that Mr. Wegman, who examined you on direct examination, has made that statement for the record, which is the first intimation that he was counsel on the record—

Mr. Wegman: I object to that, if your Honor please.

Q. How long has he been the lawyer for the Raleigh? A. Wegman & Climenko have been 9065 on retainer basis with us since the beginning of this year, 1941.

Q. And prior thereto? A. There is a lawyer who still is—

Q. I am talking about Wegman & Climenko. A. They were not our lawyers on a retainer basis.

Redirect examination by Mr. Wegman:

Q. Mr. Shapiro, I call your attention to check No. 592, serial number 592, a part of Defendants' Exhibit 7, made out to the order of "Pay-9066 roll," and call your attention to the reverse side of that check. I ask you whether that indicates to you one way or another whether you were in New York on the day that that check was cashed?

Mr. Turkus: That has been gone over on direct and redirect.

The Court: Not specifically at that point. Overruled.

A. This check bears my endorsement "Carl Shapiro" and to insure cashing it on that day it has "O.K. for cash" and has been cashed by Naomi Shapiro on that very same day.

Q. That day is September 11, 1936? A. That day is September 11, 1936, and that positively assures me that I have been in New York on that day.

By the Court:

Q. It has been cashed by whom? A. By the bookkeeper, Naomi Shapiro. 9068

Mr. Turkus: That does not positively assure anything.

Q. Naomi (spelling) N-a-o-m-i? A. Yes.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. The Naomi Shapiro you testified is now dead? A. She is dead, yes.

Mr. Wegman: That is all.

9069

Recross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. You say that this check 592, the payroll, for $132.50, because it has "Carl Shapiro, O.K. for cash" on it positively assures you that you were in New York on September 11, 1936? A. Absolutely.

Q. Why, couldn't you have signed it, September 11, 1936, payroll check, on the first day of September if you wanted to? A. Mr. Turkus—

Q. Yes or no, couldn't you?

9070 Mr. Wegman: The question was "Why", if your Honor pleases. I submit the witness has a right to answer more than yes or no when the question asked for "Why".

The Court: Again you are getting the witness to balk at an answer. You interrupted before and told the man he could not answer yes or no.

Mr. Wegman: I submit that the question could not be—9071 The Court: Will you keep still until the Judge is through? Sit down in your seat. I will tell you when you can get up.

Mr. Wegman: All right, I shall wait for your Honor's permission to arise.

The Court: When a question was asked which plainly admitted of a yes or no answer, you got up with an interruption which instructed the witness. The witness then would not answer yes or no and the purpose of the question was balked. Now you are doing the same thing again. Now 9072 you come to order. Take your exception and go ahead.

Mr. Wegman: May I arise now, your Honor?

The Court: This called for a yes or no answer.

Mr. Wegman: May I arise now, your Honor?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wegman: And put an exception on the record and tell your Honor that the question I objected to before asked him about a $132 blank check and I submit again—

The Court: Don't argue about it.

Mr. Wegman: —that assumed a state of facts not in the record and could not be answered yes or no.

The Court: Now you sit down again.

Mr. Wegman: Exception.

The Court: This question will be asked and will be answered yes or no.

Mr. Wegman: I take an exception to 9074 that direction.

(Pending question read).

A. I have never done that.

Q. All of these checks, September 11, 1936, Friday, aggregate substantially under $500, don't they?

The Court: Just a minute. (To reporter) Will you read that question again?

(Question beginning, "Why, couldn't you have signed it—" read). 9075

The Court: "Why", comma after "Why." That was a preliminary and disjointed word the same as if the counsel had used the word "Well". The Court noted the manner in which the question was asked.

Mr. Wegman: May I take an exception to the Court's editorial comment?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Wegman: And editorializing of the record.

The Court: I know just exactly what you are up to.

9076

Mr. Wegman: May I take exception to that remark?

The Court: Yes, take a hundred. Proceed. The question as asked, and asked in the manner in which the diction is understood by the Court and by anybody else in the court-room who heard it, and whether counsel for the defense concedes it or not, called for a yes or no answer. Now sit down and behave yourself.

9077

Mr. Wegman: I take an exception.

Q. Couldn't you have signed Exhibit 7, the 592 numbered check for $132.50, representing the payroll, in New York, on September 11th? Yes or no. A. Not in this case, no.

Q. Not in this case? A. Or any other case.

Q. This September 11, 1936, $9,000 payroll check in Baltimore, you signed that some day other than September 11, 1936, didn't you? Yes or no. A. There is fifty checks signed at this time in Baltimore for checks to be issued daily.

9078

Q. Will you, sir, answer questions yes or no without making a speech? A. I cannot see where I can answer the question that way.

Q. If you cannot see it, tell me that.

The Court: Mr. Witness, you can answer that yes or no and you are instructed to do so.

Mr. Wegman: I except.

A. I could, yes.

The Court: Please answer it yes or no

Mr. Wegman: May I have my exception on the record, please?

The Court: Yes.

Q. Your answer is that you did sign the $9,000 September 11, 1936, payroll check in Baltimore some day other than September 11, 1936, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. And you signed it, then, sometime prior to September 11, 1936? A. Yes.

Q. So that you signed it in anticipation of 9080
the $9,000 payroll in Baltimore? A. That check could have been distributed for any reason.

Q. Not what it could have been. Yes or no? A. In this case, yes. In this instance, yes.

Q. So that, sometime earlier than September 11, 1936, you signed a $9,000 payroll check to be cashed and distributed in Baltimore; isn't that right? A. Yes.

Q. And on the back of that check you had to write, "O. K. for cash", didn't you? A. No, sir.

Q. Where is that check? A. I will get it for you any time you want it. 9081

Q. I know, but on Wednesday you told me you were going to bring me books. Are they here?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that, if your Honor pleases. There was no request that the books be brought here today.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: Yes, there was. There was an invitation that he bring them.

Mr. Wegman: Not for today. A couple of trucks to bring books up here. For what purpose?

Q. When did you extend the invitation to bring the books? A. At your request, if you wanted them, and if you still want them I will give them to you.

Q. But since Wednesday you brought nothing else but these ten checks? A. Our Baltimore office was closed. It was Thanksgiving Day. Any time you want these checks you can have them.

Q. I mean the New York records or books,
9084 you brought nothing except these checks that were received in evidence on Wednesday? A. I was not asked to bring anything else.

Q. What other checks were signed down in Baltimore dated September 11, 1936, that were signed on some other date? A. There might be a few. I would not know that until I checked my records.

Q. Have you any idea approximately how much the face value was of the checks that you signed in Baltimore as of September 11, 1936 on some other date? A. Not the remotest.

9084 Q. So that never since the Raleigh has been in existence have you on a Friday been down at Baltimore when the $9,000 payroll in 1936, and now aggregating $25,000 in 1941, was distributed?

Mr. Wegman: I object to that.

A. That is a question I can hardly answer.

Mr. Wegman: Mr. Shapiro, please, when I am objecting, wait until I get my objection stated.

The Witness: I am sorry.

Mr. Wegman: I object to the question on the ground first, that it is argumentative; second, it assumes a state of facts not in evidence.

The Court: It is argumentative.

Mr. Wegman: And contrary to the evidence.

The Court: But he has answered it.

Q. Can you recall any Friday since the Raleigh went into existence when you were down at 9086
Baltimore tending to the Raleigh's business? A. I could not say.

Q. Were you down any Friday since 1935 to date? A. It is possible. Today I live in Baltimore, now.

Q. What? A. I live in Baltimore now, but that thing has been changed.

Q. Wait. When did you move to Baltimore as a permanent address? A. On Armistice Day in 1936, November 11th.

Q. That was November 11, 1936? A. I moved to Baltimore.

Q. And you have been living there ever since? 9087
A. That is right.

Q. And you do not know a single Friday that you were in Baltimore at the Raleigh plant or its office? A. When I moved to Baltimore—

Q. Do you? Answer that yes or no. A single instance? A. Mr. Turkus, will you permit me to let me answer you in a—

Q. I want you to answer yes or no when it is susceptible of yes or no A. I am sorry, I cannot answer yes or no to that.

Q. But you can answer "yes" that upon the basis of the payroll check, No. 592 for $132.50, because it is your signature, because you marked it "O. K. for cash," and it cleared the bank on September 11th, that tells you that you were here in New York September 11, 1936? A. Positively.

9088 Carl Shapiro—Recalled for Defts.—Redirect

Redirect examination by Mr. Wegman:

Q. Mr. Shapiro, will you please explain to the jury and to his Honor the custom that prevailed
9089 prior to November 11, 1936, and the custom which prevailed after November 11, 1936?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it on two grounds. First, it has been covered, and, second, he says he recalls this specifically because of that exhibit. No more custom now.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Wegman: I respectfully except. I direct your Honor's attention to the fact that this is matter gone over by Mr. Turkus just immediately before I arose to 9090 take the witness on redirect. I submit that I have a right to have that custom explained, as it depends upon this question of where he was on a particular Friday or on any Friday, and the custom that pertains with respect to the signing of checks. That was all matter brought out for the very first time in this case on the cross-examination of Mr. Turkus which immediately preceded my arising at this time. We objected to it on the ground it was improper recross because it did not relate to matter previously testified to. I submit that I have a right to clear the record on that point. The record is now not clear.

The Court: The Court in its discretion did not allow it in as recross, but as a resumption of original cross. That is discretionary, but the question of custom was not brought up. That is why the Court deems it to be incompetent. The witness's answers have been specific as to recollection.

9092

Mr. Wegman: I respectfully except. I submit that the custom followed by this witness has a direct bearing on recollection and on practice. Mr. Turkus asked him—

The Court: To cut this short, let him state the custom. Now you have it.

By the Court:

Q. What was the custom? A. At the time I lived in New York I always spent my week-ends home, and for that reason I knew I was in the New York office. Today the situation is reversed. 9093
As of the time that I moved to Baltimore and I always continued to spend my week-end with my family, and at that time, from then one, it was in Baltimore.

Q. Fly or take the train? A. Train from Baltimore to New York.

Q. Train time how long? A. Three hours, three hours and fifteen minutes, three and a half hours.

By Mr. Wegman:

Q. Now, Mr. Shapiro, are you the only one

9094 that signs checks in the Baltimore office? A. I am the only one that does, but someone else has a right to sign checks, too. That is Mr. Borish.

Q. In the Baltimore office check books were maintained covering both the New York account and the Baltimore account; is that correct? A. Yes, sir, that is why those numbers are changed.

Q. And in the New York office there were checks on the New York account? A. Yes, just a few, though.

9095 Q. And the checks in the New York office had a different color from the Baltimore checks; is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. So that by picking up a check and looking at it, you can tell whether the check was written in New York or was written in Baltimore?

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. I object to that.

The Court: We have been all over that. Sustained.

9096 A. Your Honor, I can clearly bring this out. I have here checks from Baltimore and from New York, and they are different colors at this very instant. These are the colors of this very day, which signifies the different check-books in the office.

The Court: Show them to the lawyer.

Mr. Turkus: May it be noted on the record that they were produced out of a wallet by the witness?

Mr. Wegman: I ask that these be marked for identification.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that they be marked in evidence.

Mr. Wegman: Very gladly—as separate exhibits, please. Suppose we take one of each.

Mr. Turkus: No, let us take them just as they were produced.

(Two green checks received and marked Defendants' Exhibit 8 in evidence. Two pink checks received and marked Defendants' Exhibit 9 in evidence.) 9098

Q. Mr. Shapiro, these checks marked Defendants' Exhibit 8 and Defendants' Exhibit 9 are checks of what corporation? A. The New York corporation.

Q. Will you please tell us which of the two, Defendants' Exhibit 8 or Defendants' Exhibit 9, are the checks written in the New York office, and which are the checks written in the Baltimore office? A. These checks today are in the New York office.

Q. What is the exhibit number on that? A. 9099
Exhibit 9.

Q. Those are checks that are written in the New York office? A. That is right.

Q. And the others? A. These are today in the Baltimore corporation, in the Baltimore office of the New York corporation. That is Exhibit 8.

Q. Let me get that clear. I am afraid that your answer was not entirely clear. Exhibit 8 are checks— A. Of the New York corporation, that is kept in Baltimore.

9100 Q. So that if you have to sign checks of the New York corporation in Baltimore while you are in Baltimore, you sign them on— A. Exhibit 8.

Q. That is the green color? A. That is right.

Q. And if you are in New York and you sign a check of the New York corporation, that would be Exhibit 9, that is, this pink color? A. That is right.

Q. And in 1936 was there a difference in the 9101 colors? A. Yes, there was.

Q. They were not, however, the same colors? A. They were not the same colors, but I am bringing that out as a distinction of the different checks.

Q. So that if, while you were in Baltimore, you had occasion to sign a check of the New York corporation, you would have signed it on the color kept in the Baltimore office? A. That is right.

Mr. Turkus: That is objectionable. That is obvious, but not all-conclusive.

9102 The Court: Overruled.

Q. And these checks which are marked Defendants' Exhibit 7 are the color checks— A. In the New York office of the New York corporation.

Q. We are talking about 1936, and you are limiting your answer to that; is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. One other question: What was your custom in Baltimore with respect to signing checks on the Baltimore corporation for use in Baltimore for payroll and other matters, in September,

1936? A. I just recall— No, I have got that twisted. Like today I am here, I have some blank checks signed in Baltimore. Anything that would come up would necessitate being paid, they would have blank checks that are signed so they can continue with the every-day course of matters that come up. We happen to have someone trustworthy there and bonded, and that is our policy and has been since the inception of the business. There is today signed blank checks there, but never did we have a similar situation 9104 in the New York office.

Q. In other words, you never had signed blank checks in the New York office? A. No, sir.

Mr. Wegman: That is all.

Recross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. The New York office, you had your niece, Naomi Shapiro, there? A. That is right.

Q. You would not leave her with a $132.50 check—yes or no? A. I would leave her anything she wanted. 9105

Q. Answer the question yes or no. A. We did not leave signed checks in the New York office.

Q. Only in the Baltimore office? A. Only in the Baltimore office.

Q. Didn't you produce these exhibits, Defendants' Exhibits 8 and 9, out of your wallet? A. That is right.

Q. Didn't you tell us that the Baltimore office is closed Thanksgiving? A. I have carried these checks for weeks.

Q. Answer the question. A. One is not relative to the other.

Q. You let the jury decide that. Don't be judge and jury. You answer questions, Mister. (Question read) Didn't you tell us that? A. Yes, I did.

Q. So that you had these checks, the green, in advance of yesterday? A. That is right.

Q. And in advance of Wednesday? A. That is right.

Q. You have been carrying them in your wallet? A. That is right.

9107 Q. And they were taken out of your wallet and they bear the numbers 9668 and 9669? A. That is right.

Q. What in the world would stop you from writing this check out in New York? A. There is ten checks you have there, and I have two checks here.

Q. Answer the question. A. That is not the case; that is not the situation.

Q. You don't decide this case. Let the jury decide it. What in the world would prevent you from right up here in New York writing out

9108 these checks, the Baltimore checks, the green colored checks, which clear through a New York bank? A. For the simple reason—

Q. Will you answer that? Is there anything in the world that would stop you? A. There is no sense to it.

Q. And what in the world would stop you when you get the pink-colored checks from the New York check book down in Baltimore, from signing it down there? A. These checks are for my own convenience, Mr. Turkus, and please let me explain that to you.

9109

Q. You can explain when Mr. Wegman, who represents the Raleigh, goes over this matter. Explain to me what in the world would stop you down in Baltimore from taking these pink-colored checks, Defendants' Exhibit 9, out of your wallet and signing them in Baltimore? A. Nothing, but I do not do it.

Mr. Turkus: All right, that is all I wanted to know. The jury can see they are both blank. May I exhibit these checks to the jury.

9110

The Court: Pass them around. All right.

Redirect examination by Mr. Wegman:

Q. Mr. Turkus said you could explain when I questioned you. I now ask you to explain.

Mr. Turkus: Explain what? Just a minute.

The Court: Be definite.

9111

Q. In response to Mr. Turkus' question as to why couldn't you sign the New York office checks in Baltimore and the Baltimore office checks in New York, since you had both kinds in your wallet, you said that you wanted to explain. Mr. Turkus said he wanted a yes or no answer, but you could explain when I questioned you. I now ask you to explain. A. These checks I carry solely in case of an emergency that I should need additional funds for one reason or another, like going out an evening with a buyer or some unexpected expense when I am not in the office of either New York or Baltimore corporations. They are strictly for convenience of my personal self.

Q. So that if you should happen to be out in Baltimore, you have got the Baltimore blank checks to use, and if you happen to be out in New York, you have the New York checks? A. Not necessarily. That does not mean anything. I could use either one of them. That does not 9113 imply anything.

Q. And those checks that you carry with you are not checks which are ever used for the ordinary course of business? A. No, sir.

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. That is Mr. Wegman's testimony, to which the witness has just said, "No, sir."

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Turkus: I tried to get an objection in.

The Court: Overruled.

9114 Mr. Wegman: That is all.

JOHN J. CANEVARI, residing at 2401 Cortelyou Road, Brooklyn, New York, called as a witness on behalf of the defendant Buchalter, and being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Barshay:

Q. Mr. Canevari, you are a stenographer attached to the District Attorney's office of Kings County? A. I am.

Q. And you have been also a stenographer attached to the office of Kings County District 9116
Attorney in the prior administration? A. That is correct.

Q. When were you appointed? A. I was sworn in on January 4, 1937.

Q. And you have continued since? A. That is right.

Q. You have taken statements of witnesses and defendants since you have been attached to the D. A.'s office as stenographer, have you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All together how many times? A. Roughly 9117
I would say approximately about a thousand statements.

Q. A thousand statements. While you were in the office were you attached to what you would call the squad which goes out and leaves the office under an Assistant District Attorney and take down notes of whatever the Assistant District Attorney asks of people and the answers those persons make? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that so? A. That is right.

Q. Whether you were at home or in the office,

9118 John J. Canevari—For Defts.—Direct

if you were on duty, that was your job? A. That is right.

Q. You carried with you a notebook for that purpose? A. Yes, sir.

Q. A notebook which was kept in the regular rotation and had to be filed when finished in the office of the District Attorney? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you explain to this Court and jury what procedure you followed when you were acting as a stenographer for any Assistant Dis-9119 trict Attorney on any investigation? What was your work?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. It is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. You were the stenographer who took the statement of Mr. Rubin in Mr. Hogan's office of Dewey's staff on December 16, 1937, referring specifically to Exhibit Z-16 for identification; isn't that so? A. Yes, sir. I do not know the 9120 exhibit number.

Mr. Barshay: Well, Mr. Turkus gave it to me.

Mr. Turkus: Gave you the exhibit number.

Mr. Barshay: That is right.

Q. Was it not the custom for any of the witnesses you questioned or any of the defendants you questioned, to sign and swear to the statements that you transcribed?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this. It is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. On this particular night when you took the statement or the particular day, did you transcribe the statement for Rubin in Mr. Dewey's office? A. I did not.

Q. In the ordinary course of events and in the carrying out of your duties, wasn't it a fact 9122 that all your transcriptions were made when you got back to the office of the District Attorney in Brooklyn?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. The custom is nothing in this case.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Wasn't it the custom for witnesses and defendants who were questioned by Assistant District Attorneys and whose statements you later transcribed, not to transcribe— I cannot 9123 hear with all this noise. I withdraw the question.

Q. Wasn't it the practice that after you took the notes, acting as stenographer, for you to go back and transcribe those notes in the office? Wasn't it?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. Custom has nothing to do with it.

Mr. Barshay: I am going to show your Honor that the custom in practice then was followed out in this case, to show 9124 that Mr. Rubin did not sign that statement because that was not the practice in the D.A's office. That is all I am trying to prove.

Mr. Turkus: So what? Nobody said he signed any statement. That is not part of the People's case. I object to this, please the Court. It has nothing to do with the case at all.

The Court: Sustained.

9125 Mr. Barshay: Exception. I just want to prove to the Court that there was no exception made in this case, that is all.

The Court: This is nothing for the jury.

Mr. Barshay: Why, of course it is.

The Court: It only tends to confuse.

Mr. Barshay: I beg your Honor's pardon.

The Court: I know the custom as well as you do. When you get a little smattering of this before the jury and some 9126 juryman goes off the handle on it—

Mr. Barshay: I make an offer of proof, your Honor, so that Mr. Turkus—

The Court: Don't make offers of proof. Ask your questions and the Court will rule.

Mr. Barshay: I have done it. I do not want to be put in the false position of having Mr. Turkus say this statement was not sworn to, and I have a right to prove that no statement is sworn to or signed by any witness, not only Rubin.

Mr. Turkus: I am not going to talk about that statement not being sworn to.

Mr. Barshay: You are not?

Mr. Turkus: Of course not.

Mr. Barshay: Witness withdrawn.

Mr. Turkus: Wait a minute. There may be something I want to bring out. Will your Honor just give me a moment?

Cross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

9128

Q. Mr. Canevari, you have worked on this Lepke case, haven't you, for some part of your time? A. I have.

Q. This Exhibit Z-16, concerning which Mr. Barshay referred, will you take a look at that (handing papers to witness)? Just sufficiently to see whether that is the statement that you typed up. A. It is.

Q. Mr. Canevari, when you typed it up, how many did you make, of Z-16, an original and how many copies? A. Original and two copies.

9129

Q. What was done with the original and the two copies? A. I filed the two copies in our regular file room, and the original was given to Mr. Dore, chief clerk, at that time.

Q. Since the file came into the possession of Mr. Joseph, Mr. Klein and Turkus for preparation, were you asked to find Z-16, the original and the two copies? A. I was.

Mr. Barshay: I object to what he was asked. Just a second.

The Court: I think I know what this is. Overruled.

9130 John J. Cancvari—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Barshay: Exception.

Q. Did you find the original?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Barshay: Exception.

A. I did.
Q. Did you look for the two copies? A. I did.

9131

Mr. Barshay: I object to it.

Q. Have you ever succeeded in finding the two copies of Z-16?

Mr. Barshay: I object to it, sir.
The Court: Sustained.

A. No.

Mr. Turkus: That is all.

Mr. Barshay: I have a request for the 9132 marking of certain exhibits for identification, your Honor, referring specifically to Exhibit Z-18 for identification. It has been marked as one exhibit, your Honor, and I should like permission to have certain documents within this file marked specially as exhibits for identification.

The Court: What is this?

Mr. Barshay: These are the records which were subpoenaed by counsel for defendant Buchalter concerning the surveillance of the defendant Buchalter.

The Court: You mean police records?

Mr. Barshay: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: They contain other matters. Your Honor may recall the incident in the absence of the jury that we had with Mr. Wegman regarding the contents of those papers.

The Court: The question is now simply to mark for identification on the record?

Mr. Turkus: They are already marked 9134 up and bundled up.

Mr. Barshay: These records contain, I am informed, the reports of policemen over an extended period of time. I should like to have marked for identification now these records, if there are any in here, for September 11, 1936, September 12, 13, all the way up to the 20th, specifically.

Mr. Turkus: The whole bundle is marked for identification.

Mr. Barshay: I know that, Judge, but I don't control this bundle after the trial 9135 of this case, but neither does Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: I'll tell you what we can do, if you are worried about it. We can seal it now. We will put some sealing wax on it and seal it.

The Court: That is a good suggestion.

Mr. Barshay: Any way you please, Judge.

The Court: (to clerk) Will you get some sealing wax, Mr. Clark? Let these remain on Mr. Clark's desk until the recess, and then Mr. Turkus may take them, because the clerk will assume no responsibility.

9136

Mr. Turkus: They are under our responsibility.

The Court: But in the meantime send to the office for sealing wax. If there is none there, send out and get some at once, and see that they are sealed before the noon recess, in the presence of the Court.

Mr. Turkus: May we put this statement on record: that pursuant to the order of your Honor the police may have access to them under the Court's supervision?

9137

Mr. Barshay: That I objected to.

The Court: The policeman may have access to them with the Court's permission and in the presence of the Court.

Mr. Barshay: That I consent to.

Mr. Turkus: That is all I asked for. It was my suggestion.

The Court: Only in the presence of the Court.

9138

Mr. Barshay: Defendant Buchalter rests.

The Court: Take the defense of defendant Weiss.

Mr. Talley: I ask the District Attorney to produce Harry Cohen for examination. I wish to call your Honor's attention to the fact that at one of the preceding sessions we called upon the District Attorney to produce certain police forms known as D.D. 4's and D.D. 5's. Your Honor turned them over to the District Attorney to look them over and then indicate to you something with respect to their contents. I ask that that now be done.

The Court: Which do you want first, Cohen or these D.D. 4's and 5's?

Mr. Talley: I thought while waiting for Cohen to be produced your Honor might pass upon these.

Mr. Turkus: It won't take long. He will be right in.

Mr. Talley: I would like to have, if 9140
we are going to get those D.D. 4's and D.D. 5's, I would like to have them this morning.

HARRY COHEN, residing at 32 Glenmore Avenue, Brooklyn, New York, called as a witness on behalf of the defendant Weiss, and being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Talley:

9141

Q. Cohen, on Thursday, October 30th of this year you were brought into the court-room while this trial was in progress, the court-room adjoining this one, and you gave your name and address in the open court. Do you remember that? A. I did.

Q. The day before that, which would be October 29th, Wednesday, you were picked up by detectives from the District Attorney's office, were you not? A. I did.

9142 Harry Cohen—For Defts.—Direct

Q. Where did they get you, at your home? A. That is right.

Q. Was that in Bristol Street? A. That is right.

Q. And have you been in the custody of the District Attorney's office or the Police Department since that date? A. That is right.

Q. And where have you been confined? A. Hotel Bossert.

Q. And you have been living at the Hotel Bossert since October 29th; is that right? A. That is right.

9143

Q. You sleep at the Hotel Bossert; you take your meals there; is that right? A. That is right.

Q. When before October 29th of this year did you last see Sholem Bernstein, who was a witness in this case? A. At the District Attorney's office.

Q. When?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it if that is a collateral matter that he is going into.

9144

Mr. Talley: Collateral nothing.

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute.

The Court: Will you wait just a minute?

Mr. Turkus: Don't get so perturbed.

Mr. Talley: What is your Honor's ruling?

The Court: Wait a minute.

Mr. Talley: Pardon me.

The Court: What is the question?

(Question read.)

Mr. Turkus: I object to it—collateral.

The Court: You mean it was not in this matter?

Mr. Turkus: No, it is a collateral matter, having in mind the testimony of Bernstein. On cross-examination Mr. Talley asked Bernstein about seeing this man in the District Attorney's office. He was bound by the answer as a collateral matter.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: I except, if your Honor pleases. I never heard of a situation such as is presented to your Honor by the District Attorney. A witness is called for the prosecution here to give certain evidence. 9146

The Court: Judge, that rule of evidence is as old as the hills.

Mr. Talley: I know how old it is and I also know its application and I respectfully submit the rule that your Honor apparently has in mind has no application here at all. Here is one of the most vital things in this case, where Bernstein describes this man as an automobile and a radio thief and tells us when he saw him, and I call this man to get his version of when he saw him. 9147

The Court: Don't argue the law. Don't argue a point of evidence in the hearing of the jury. It is too plain. It is calculated to throw the jury off. No more of it.

Mr. Talley: I have no objection to your Honor dismissing the jury for the purpose of this. It is of vital importance.

9148 Harry Cohen—For Defts.—Direct

The Court: No, the point is too simple.

Mr. Talley: That is what amazes me at your Honor's ruling, it is so simple.

The Court: Maybe it does amaze you but it is perfectly clear to the Court. No more colloquy.

Mr. Talley: I except to your Honor's ruling, to your Honor's statements.

Q. When you saw for the last time Sholem 9149 Bernstein in the District Attorney's office, was Mr. Turkus present?

Mr. Turkus: I object to it. It is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception. Will your Honor indulge me for a moment, please?

The Court: Judge Talley, insofar as your questions have relation to an attempted contradiction on a pure matter of collateral impeachment, they are out; but if you have a purpose in showing some-9150 thing that is competent evidence that happened between this witness and someone in the District Attorney's office and it has a bearing upon the issue to be decided by the jury, you may do that.

Mr. Talley: I cannot do that, your Honor, unless I can get the time fixed when he saw Bernstein in the District Attorney's office. I have got to get the time fixed, the occasion.

The Court: Precisely what is it you wish to show?

Mr. Talley: The witness Bernstein testified that this man stole the automobile which was used in connection with the killing of the deceased—

The Court: I know what he testified to. But just what do you want to show?

Mr. Talley: You will have to let me make this statement to you to be intelligible.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Talley: He testified that he had 9152 not seen this witness since he himself was taken into custody in May of 1940. That is not collateral matter. That is fundamental. This man, he says, was an accomplice of his in the murder.

The Court: Don't argue it. Just tell me what you want to show.

Mr. Turkus: Judge Talley is stating things on the record where he is completely involved. He is getting all balled up.

The Court: The Court cannot rule intelligently unless the purpose of the pro- 9153 posed evidence is lucidly and calmly stated.

Mr. Talley: I am about to state it now. I will state it as simply as I can. Bernstein says he has not seen this man since May, 1940. I have reason to believe that this witness can testify that he saw Bernstein in the District Attorney's office, in the presence of Mr. Turkus, this year, 1941, a year after the witness testified and tried to make this jury believe since he has seen this witness Cohen. That 9154 certainly is not collateral matter. That goes right down in the essence of the case. I certainly have a right, if a false statement of that kind is made by an accomplice witness, to contradict him. It is not collateral.

The Court: Is that all?

Mr. Talley: I have reason to believe the testimony given by Bernstein with respect to this witness' participation in the theft of that car was false and that this witness will tell us so.

9155

The Court: On the former point you are bound by the rule as to collateral evidence. You are bound by the limitation which is established thoroughly by law. On the latter point you may inquire.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Did you see Mr. Turkus in the District Attorney's office with respect to this case?

9156 Mr. Turkus: Object to it; your Honor has just sustained it.

The Court: That is what I will not permit but I will permit you to inquire into the other matter.

Mr. Talley: Will you just let me get it plain without attempting, as your Honor designates it, to argue?

The Court: No, there has been enough of it and I have ruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception to your Honor's ruling.

9157

Q. Did you make a statement to the District Attorney in reference to this case, in May of 1941, this year? A. I did.

Q. And who was present when you made the statement?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9158

Q. In May of 1941 did you see Sholem Bernstein in the District Attorney's office?

Mr. Turkus: That has been objected to and sustained already.

The Court: Don't persist in that. You are out of order.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: I respect you, Judge Talley, and I want to show you every possible courtesy. Please don't persist in that. The Court is having quite a strain trying this case.

9159

Mr. Talley: Counsel is having quite a strain keeping up with your Honor's rulings, let me assure you of that.

The Court: Very well. As long as you keep within the rulings you will have no strain. You may cross-examine as to any matters testified to by Sholem Bernstein in his direct, in connection with this witness— I mean you may examine.

Mr. Talley: One of the things that Sholem Bernstein testified to was the time he last saw this witness.

9160

The Court: Please don't argue any further.

Mr. Rosenthal: May I take an exception to that ruling?

The Court: Which ruling?

Mr. Rosenthal: To the ruling that we may only cross-examine this witness in so far as—

The Court: I did not say cross-examine. I say you may examine and I did not say "only" either. That is what made me wonder what you are excepting to, if you are excepting to the Court's suggestion as to what may be the subject of examination. The Court is not making that an exclusive ruling. The questions will be ruled upon as asked but once ruled upon counsel will be in order and take his exception and let it go at that and not engage in wrangling.

Mr. Turkus: May the record show, your Honor, there has been no exclusion of cross-examination?

Mr. Rosenthal: I cannot hear you.

Mr. Turkus: May the record show there has been no exclusion of cross-examination yet by any of the defendants?

The Court: It is not cross-examination.

Mr. Turkus: No, it is direct examination by Mr. Talley but there are other counsel in the case who may cross-examine, and may the record indicate—

The Court: It is perfectly plain that the Court, by slip of the tongue, at one time said "cross-examine". This was almost immediately corrected. Don't make a mountain out of a mole hill.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. When you were brought to the District Attorney's office, did you talk with Mr. Turkus? A. I did.

Q. And was Bernstein present when you talked with him?

Mr. Turkus: That is the fourth time, 9164
Judge.

The Court: Yes. The jury is excused.

(The jury retired from the court-room.)

The Court: The court-room will remain in order until the Judge comes back. Counsel will remain in their places. Judge Talley will think it over.

(Judge Taylor retired from the court-room.) 9165

(Judge Taylor returned to the bench.)

The Court: Sometimes when we get old we incline to be quarrelsome but nevertheless with age comes wisdom and I am not dealing with the rashness of youth. I am dealing with a man I respect highly and who I think respects me and I think that possibly if I just send for the jury and resume, it won't be necessary for me to say anything more except this, that when rulings are made and exception taken, there must be no repetition. When a somewhat younger lawyer at an earlier stage of the trial repeated a question after the Court had ruled, the Court allowed itself to become unduly annoyed. I am not going to permit myself to be so annoyed again. Bring the jury back.

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor look at 9167 the close of the cross-examination of Bernstein, one of the last questions asked on the cross-examination of Bernstein with respect to when he last saw this witness? If your Honor will look at that, my position might be a little clearer to you.

The Court: That was on October 30th?

Mr. Talley: October 30th, yes, sir.

The Court: Mr. Turkus, have you volume two?

Mr. Turkus: This is volume one.

The Court: I cannot bring all these 9168 books in all the time. They are getting too voluminous. You mean your cross-examination?

Mr. Talley: Yes, sir.

The Court: That is in volume one. That was on October 28th, beginning with page 741, ending with 745. You mean the last question. There are several pages will have to be reviewed. I will read them now.

Mr. Talley: There is only one question and answer with which we are concerned.

The Court: Not the last one. The last question and answer was: "That was four years after Rosen was killed which was in September of 1936."

Mr. Turkus: That is a different Cohen, Judge. That Cohen from 741 to 745 is a different Cohen, not this witness Cohen.

Mr. Talley: Bernstein is the testimony to which I am referring. The question was, "When did you see Muggsy Cohen last?" He said, "I have not seen him since I was picked up." 9170

The Court: I have to refer back to see what he is talking about.

Mr. Talley: That is what he is talking about.

The Court: If you will just be patient. Is this Irving Cohen, this witness?

Mr. Talley: No. This witness has been referred to by the name of Muggsy during part of the examination. There is only one Cohen being talked about.

Mr. Turkus: You spoke about more than one. 9171

Mr. Talley: That is Muggsy Cohen who he said stole the car.

Mr. Turkus: Nobody can get along with you. If you want to hold the floor go ahead. I am trying to help you.

Mr. Talley: I may have the minutes and, if you will indulge me, I will point out the question.

The Court: Begin at page 743 and read on to and including 745. You will see, "Were you asked those questions and did you make those replies on the trial of Irving Cohen in Monticello?"

Mr. Talley: No, no, that is not it at all, sir.

Mr. Turkus: That was your cross-examination.

Mr. Talley: That was the Gangi Cohe trial up in Monticello.

The Court: Pardon me, I am referring to something you asked me to look at.

9173 I found something that is right here. May I make a suggestion that is practical? If you desire, as I thought you said, to have this witness contradict any testimony by Sholem Bernstein in relation to the alleged murder car, why don't you take that up now because we have only eighteen minutes to go before the recess and then during the recess you can straighten this out on the record as to the rest of your examination.

Mr. Talley: The only thing we have 9174 to straighten out, sir, is to find that question that I put to him and his answer. We can do that in two minutes.

The Court: I think I would go ahead with the other and do the other and read the record during the noon recess.

(The jury returned to the court-room.)

By Mr. Talley:

Q. After you were questioned by Assistant District Attorney Turkus, Cohen, you were not put under arrest, were you? A. No, sir.

 9175

Q. Were you questioned about the killing of Joseph Rosen?

Mr. Turkus: Objection as to form. It is incompetent.

Mr. Talley: I have a right to show it was in connection with this case. That is all I want.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Turkus: The question was, was he spoken to about the automobile. 9176

Q. What is your answer, Cohen? A. Please repeat that.

(Pending question read.)

A. I wasn't.

Q. You were not? A. Was not.

Q. What were you questioned about? A. About the automobile.

Q. About the automobile that was used in the killing of Joseph Rosen? A. There was not anything mentioned about Joseph Rosen, just about the automobile on this particular day that was stolen. 9177

Q. Yes, and what particular day was that? A. I don't remember the exact date.

Q. Was it about the 11th of September, 1936? A. I think it was.

Q. And you told them all you knew about that, did you? A. I did.

Q. And after you told them what you knew about that, you were allowed to go home? A. I did.

9178 Harry Cohen—For Defts.—Direct

Q. You were not taken in custody from that time up to the day before you were brought here in this case which was October 30th of this year, last month? A. That is right.

Q. Have you ever been charged with the theft of the automobile that was used in the killing of Joseph Rosen?

Mr. Turkus: Objection. What has this got to do with the issue of the case?

9179 Mr. Talley: Everything.

The Court: Overruled.

A. I wasn't.

Q. Have you ever been charged with participating, being a principal or an accomplice, in the murder of Joseph Rosen? A. I was not.

Q. On what charge are you being held now? A. No charge to my knowledge.

Q. No charge to your knowledge? And since you have been held you have not been in any prison, have you? A. I was not.

9180 Q. You have been in the Hotel Bossert?

Mr. Talley: Now, with due deference to the Court, I ask permission to ask this witness when he was in the District Attorney's office but we have had so much confusion about that that I am putting it to your Honor before I ask the witness.

The Court: Will you wait just a minute? He said, didn't he, that in May, 1940, he made a statement in the District Attorney's office?

Mr. Talley: May, 1941, I am quite sure.

The Court: You have the date?

Mr. Talley: May, 1941. If your Honor will give me about three minutes, I will find that question and answer. May we just keep this witness on the stand?

The Court: Surely.

Mr. Talley: For that length of time?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor look at page 696 of the record, 696 and 697?

The Court: Yes. 9182

Mr. Talley: May I read them to you as I was going to do when the record was taken away from me?

Mr. Turkus: Do you want to read them to the Judge?

Mr. Talley: I did at the time you grabbed it.

Mr. Turkus: I think he reads English.

The Court: The Court is already reading it. Proceed with your questioning.

Mr. Talley: In view of your Honor's ruling, which I accept with great respect, 9183 having noted my exception, I accept because I must; I accept it because I think it is erroneous; I have no further questions unless your Honor will let me pursue that line.

The Court: Do you propose to cross-examine as to any of the matters brought out by the District Attorney in which this witness' name was mentioned?

Mr. Talley: Not at this time.

The Court: By Bernstein. You have a right to.

9184 Mr. Talley: Your Honor has denied me the right that I insist is mine and was the main reason of my calling this witness.

The Court: There is testimony here as to the alleged stealing of the automobile.

Mr. Talley: Yes, sir.

The Court: Do you wish to cross-examine on it?

Mr. Talley: Not at this stage of this 9185 case.

The Court: All right. In reference to the stealing of the radio or any of the collateral circumstances?

Mr. Talley: I have no more questions at this time. It may develop later on but at this time I do not propose to question this witness.

The Court: That is all right.

(To Witness) You may leave the stand.

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute, your Honor, there are other defendants that 9186 may want to ask—

The Court: Does anybody else want to examine him? There is nothing to cross-examine on, is there?

Mr. Turkus: I know what this picture is very well.

The Court: Anybody else wish to question?

Mr. Climenko: Not I, your Honor.

Mr. Rosenthal: I have no questions.

Mr. Turkus: As to the District Attorney I will ask your Honor to recess now

9187

It is five minutes before the scheduled time.

The Court: There is practically nothing here.

Mr. Turkus: I know, but there is something I may want to make in the way of a motion or there is something I may want to do. I ask for a recess at this time.

Mr. Talley: May I ask the Court to direct that neither the District Attorney nor anybody else interview this witness while he is on the stand. I suggest that the examination proceed now. It cannot be very lengthy.

9188

The Court: Proceed.

Mr. Talley: According to your Honor's limitation rather than have this recess.

Mr. Turkus: The first motion is to strike out his entire testimony.

The Court: Denied.

Mr. Turkus: As having no relevancy in the case.

9189

Cross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. You were in the District Attorney's office, Cohen, on April 30, 1941, weren't you? A. I was.

Q. How many days after that was it before you were taken to Talley's office? A. Between three and four weeks.

Q. In the District Attorney's office you made an affidavit, swore to it and signed every page, didn't you? A. I did.

Q. Speak up so everybody can hear you. After 9190 the signing of the affidavit in the District Attorney's office, were you at Amboy Street near East New York Avenue? A. I was.

Q. Did a man drive up in an automobile and introduce himself to you? A. That is right.

Q. Is that the man who brought you up to Talley's office at a later time? A. That is right.

Q. Who is that man? A. Sidney Weiss.

Q. The brother of the defendant Mendy Weiss, is that right? A. That is what he told me he 9191 was.

Q. When Sidney Weiss came over in that automobile or called you over to the automobile, didn't he? A. He did.

Q. Speak up so we can hear you. Your answer is "He did". In that automobile were two other men besides Sidney Weiss, weren't there? A. There was.

Q. You did not know those two other men? A. Did not.

Q. And Sidney Weiss said to you, didn't he, "I heard that you were in the District Attorney's 9192 office"?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, upon the ground this is not proper cross-examination and unless the District Attorney is making this witness his own witness, he cannot proceed with these questions under the theory of cross-examination.

The Court: You will have to make him your own witness on that.

Mr. Turkus: As to that conversation?

Mr. Talley: As to all of these matters.

Mr. Turkus: You see, Judge, that is why I asked for a recess. I wanted to study this direct testimony.

The Court: There is not much to study.

Mr. Turkus: Well, I know, but it is a maneuver and I wanted to study it. I knew what I was doing when I asked for time. I have no hesitation in bringing out everything that is pertinent in the case but I wanted five minutes to study the record that was apparent needed studying and 9194 that was denied me. Now I ask for the recess now. There is only two minutes to go.

The Court: He has testified briefly that he was brought in for identificatio.. on October 30th. We all know that. That identifies him as Muggsy. Then he said in May, 1941, he made a statement in the District Attorney's office. This was allowed in because I thought maybe they wanted to try to confront him with a statement or to use it at the proper time if and 9195 when it would be made competent under the rules of evidence. Then he said he was not questioned about the killing of Rosen; he was questioned about the stealing of the auto; that he has never been charged with the murder of Rosen or held for the theft of the auto. There it rests.

Mr. Turkus: I move to strike it out. That motion was denied.

The Court: That stays in the record. But you are now making this man your own witness.

9196 Harry Cohen—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Turkus: Well, it is now a minute to go and I ask for the recess.

The Court: Go ahead.

Mr. Cuff: I join in the request, Judge, for personal reasons.

The Court: I am not playing favorites.

Mr. Turkus: Weiss' lawyer just asked for the recess.

Mr. Cuff: You might call me by my name. I think you know my name.

9197 Mr. Turkus: I did not mean it that way.

The Court: That request is, I understand, on a different basis. That is on a purely personal basis.

Mr. Cuff: I said that.

Mr. Turkus: I wanted to show there was a dual request.

The Court: When Mr. Cuff wants a recess he can get it at any time during the trial, for personal reasons. Then we will take the lunch now.

Gentlemen of the jury, please do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about 9198 it. Keep your minds open. We will resume promptly at 1:30. Everybody remain seated while the witness leaves the stand.

Mr. Talley: Your Honor's direction to this witness and his attendance on the District Attorney, I trust has to be given?

The Court: Yes, but the Court has no supervision. I don't value those instructions. They are too easily violated.

Mr. Talley: But your Honor can give them.

Mr. Turkus: They will not be violated on this end.

The Court: I give them but I assume no responsibility.

Now the jury out the other door.

Defendants are remanded.

(A recess was thereupon taken to 1:30 P. M.)

9200

(Afternoon Session. Trial Resumed.)

HARRY COHEN, resumed the stand, and further testified, as follows:

Mr. Turkus: The recess provided me sufficient time to study the purport of the direct examination. At this time, there is no further cross-examination by the District Attorney. I say, "At this time".

Redirect examination by Mr. Talley: 9201

Q. Cohen, just before recess the District Attorney asked you if you had signed a statement in the District Attorney's office, do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said you did? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. When was that statement signed? A. Around about six months ago; I do not remember the exact date.

Q. Do you make that about May, do you think, this year? A. I guess so.

9202 Harry Cohen—For Defts.—Redirect

Q. Who was present at the time you made that statement to the District Attorney?

Mr. Turkus: That is the same question we went over on direct.

The Court: That very thing was sustained.

Mr. Talley: May I say this to your Honor--

The Court: No.

9203 Mr. Talley: I respectfully except to your Honor's ruling on the ground that the statement—

The Court: Not upon the ground—the grounds need not be stated.

Mr. Talley: I take exception to your Honor's ruling which refuses to allow me to state the grounds of my objection. I thought your Honor might sustain the objection.

The Court: The jury may leave.

Mr. Talley: I ask you not to let this jury go.

9204 The Court: The jury may leave.

(The jury leaves the court room.)

The Court: You may now finish what you wanted to say.

Mr. Talley: This question, I respectfully submit, is made competent by reason of the fact that the door was opened to it for examination along that line by the District Attorney when he asked this witness if he had not made a statement and an affidavit. He said, "In his office."

9205

That having been introduced by the District Attorney, I submit I have a right to inquire into the circumstances under which that statement was made.

The Court: The ruling on the last question stands.

Mr. Talley: I respectfully take exception to your Honor's ruling. That is all I can do.

Mr. Turkus: May I say this for the record—

9206

The Court: No.

Mr. Turkus: It is important that we have the record straight.

The Court: Go ahead.

Mr. Turkus: He said, "Under the circumstances under which it was secured." That was not the purport of that question. The purport of the question was to attempt to impeach Sholem Bernstein on a collateral matter, not "circumstances".

Mr. Talley: The statement had nothing to do with the impeachment of Sholem with what I claim.

9207

The Court: The Court understands the situation. It was not the first time that the Court has faced it. It has gotten used to it. Bring back the jury.

Mr. Talley (Addressing Mr. Turkus): Are you finished?

Mr. Turkus: Judge Talley begins to ask a question of me in the absence of the jury. He says, "Are you finished?" He is on re-direct. I will be finished when he gets through with his re-direct.

9208 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Direct

(The jury then returned to the court room.)

Mr. Talley: I have no further questions of this witness.

SIDNEY WEISS, residing at 10 Monroe Street, Borough of Manhattan, City and State
9209 of New York, called as a witness on behalf of the defense, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Are you a brother of Emanuel Weiss, one of the defendants on trial in this case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the evening, at what time did you see him? A. At ten o'clock.

9211

Q. Where did you see him? A. In my brother Sammy's store.

Q. Where was your brother Sammy's store? A. At that time it was on East Broadway.

Q. What kind of a store was it? A. An automobile store.

Q. Will you relate the circumstances under which you saw your brother Mendy at that time, on this Saturday night, September 12th? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What are the circumstances under which you saw your brother Mendy that night? A. We were going out to celebrate my birthday, my twenty-sixth birthday.

9212

Q. When was your birthday? A. My birthday, September 13, 1910, I was born.

Q. You were born on the 10th, this was your twenty-sixth birthday? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On Sunday, the 13th? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was a party arranged to celebrate it? A. Yes, sir, it was.

Mr. Turkus: I object. Let the witness testify.

9213

Mr. Talley: That is what I called him for.

Q. Will you state what happened on that night, did you meet him at Sammy's store? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was present at Sammy's store that night? A. My brother and Sammy.

Q. Were you there before they came? A. My mother and Sammy were there before I came

Q. Was Mendy there when you arrived or did he come later? A. He came later.

9214 Sidney Weiss--For Defts.—Direct

Q. And what time did he come? A. Around ten o'clock.

Q. Who was with him when he came? A. His wife and Dottie.

Q. What is Dottie's other name? A. Eisenstein.

Q. Eisenberg—is she a friend of Mrs. Weiss?

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. There have been two names given, one by the witness and one by the lawyer.

9215 Mr. Talley: Let the witness tell us the name. What is Dottie's name?

The Witness. Dottie Eisenstein, I think.

Mr. Turkus: May we have it spelled by the witness.

Q. Can you spell it for the District Attorney? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go any place from there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go? A. To a restaurant.

9216 Q. Who was in the party? A. Who was in the party?

Q. Yes, who was in the group that went from Sammy's store to the restaurant? A. My brother, Mendy, myself, my mother, Blanche, and Dottie.

Q. Did you go by automobile from Sammy's store? A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. Where did you go? A. To the restaurant.

Q. Where was the restaurant? A. The Brass Rail.

Q. Where was that? A. 7th Avenue and 49th Street.

Q. Did you all go in there? A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. Who was driving the car you went there with? A. My brother Mendy.

Q. Did he park the car somewhere before you went in the restaurant? A. We got out of the car and he went to park the car.

Q. Did you wait for him in front of the Brass Rail Restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then did you all go in and have something to eat and drink? A. Yes, sir.

9218

Q. At what time do you say it was Saturday night when you got to the Brass Rail Restaurant? A. Sometime around 10:30.

Q. How long did you stay there? A. It was over an hour.

Q. That would bring you around past 11:30, would it? A. I think a little latter than that.

Q. Nearer to 12:00 o'clock? A. That is right.

Q. Where did you go when you left the Brass Rail? A. We went to a movie.

Q. Do you know what movie it was? A. Yes, sir, the Capitol movies.

Q. At the Capitol Theatre? A. Yes, sir. 9219

Q. That is about a block away from this Brass Rail? A. A block or two away.

Q. Did you walk from the restaurant to the Capitol Theatre? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you going to the midnight show there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you all go into the Capitol Theatre? A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. Did you see the entire performance? A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. What time was it when you came out of the Capitol Theatre? A. I would say some time after 2:00.

Q. After 2:00 o'clock in the morning? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And these same persons were with you in the theatre and came out of the theatre with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then, did somebody go after the car? A. My brother Mendy went for the car.

Q. You waited for him in front of the theatre? A. Yes, sir.

9221 Q. Then he came back in the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you all get into the car again? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was any suggestion made by anybody about taking a ride? A. I think it was made by my mother.

Q. What did she say? A. It was a little warm, and she said, "We will take a ride."

Q. And did you take a ride? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go? A. I think we took a ride through the park.

Q. Through Central Park? A. Yes, sir.

9222 Q. After you drove around Central Park, where did you go? A. We went downtown.

Q. To another restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What restaurant did you go to? A. To Ratner's Restaurant on Delancey Street.

Q. Ratner's is a favorite and popular place over there on the East Side? A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is a great restaurant for Jewish people down there, isn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. They specialize in Jewish types of food? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were the same persons in the group at this restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how long did you stay there? A. Close to one hour.

Q. And what time do you say you came out of the Capitol Theatre, that was about 2:00 o'clock, what did you do? A. It was after 2:00.

Q. What time was it when you got down to the restaurant downtown? A. It was almost 3:00 o'clock.

Q. You went into the restaurant of Ratner's and had something to eat and drink there, did you? A. We had something to eat. 9224

Q. There were no drinks served there? A. No, sir.

Q. How long do you say you remained in Ratner's Restaurant? A. Close to an hour.

Q. That would bring it up to what time when you were leaving? A. I would say something around 4:00 o'clock, before 4:00 o'clock.

Q. Where did you go then? A. I went home.

Q. With your mother? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who drove you home? A. My brother Mendy.

Q. Was Mrs. Weiss and Dorothy in the car when you took your mother home? A. Yes, sir. 9225

Q. That was to Monroe Street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you remain at your mother's house or did you go out— Question withdrawn.

Q. Just you and your mother went up to your house, is that right? A. That is right.

Q. Where did Mendy go? A. He went home.

Q. Still driving the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you last saw him, was his wife and Dottie with him? A. That is right.

Q. And you left them at the door of your home in Monroe Street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you and your mother went upstairs and went to bed? A. Yes, sir.

9226 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. At what time would you say it was when you left Mendy and Mrs. Weiss and Dottie? A. 4:00 o'clock.

Q. About 4:00 o'clock on Sunday morning, September 13th, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see Mendy again on that Sunday after you parted with him at 4:00 o'clock in the morning? A. No, sir.

Q. Was this party for your birthday a special occasion? A. Yes, sir.

9227 Q. Why? A. It was my twenty-sixth and we were celebrating.

Q. Was it arranged by your mother? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And at her suggestion, was it her suggestion? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. Had you ever celebrated your birthday before that twenty-sixth by going out to a restaurant and a movie? A. No, sir.

Q. Was there a particular reason for this one, did you and Mendy have a little row before this? A. Yes, sir.

9228 Q. Did your mother suggest that he give a party and make up with you, is that how it happened? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Turkus: May this paper be marked for identification.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification.)

Q. Have you any around Borough Hall? A. No, sir.

Q. Any around Pineapple Street? A. No, sir.

Q. How many pin ball machines do you say?

Mr. Talley: I object to this as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, has no
9234 bearing upon anything brought out on direct examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Around ten.

Q. Where are they located? A. Different parts of the city.

Q. In Brooklyn? A. One.

Q. Where is that? A. Havemeyer and Grand Street Extension, in Williamsburg.

Q. Pin ball machines? A. Not up-State.

Q. Is your telephone number "Drydock 4-8150"? A. The telephone number is Gramercy 5-8630.

Q. Was it ever "Drydock 4-8150"? A. Yes.

Q. When? A. Before the number was changed.

Q. When was the number changed? A. Over a year or a year and a half ago. 9236

Q. Do you know a man named Yiddle Lorber? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you know Yiddle Lorber? A. All my life.

Q. Do you know a man named Engelson? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you known him? A. A number of years.

Q. Did you meet him through Mendy?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. 9237

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I met him through Abe.

Q. Abie Lorber? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What business were you in before you went into jute boxes and pin balls? A. No business.

Q. How old were you when you left school? A. Around sixteen.

Q. From sixteen to twenty-four, what did you do? A. I was in no business. I worked for different concerns.

9238 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. What kind of jobs did you have? A. When I left school I was an errand boy, and I worked for a dress house; I worked for a trucking concern.

Q. For eight years you did these things? A. Off and on, yes, sir.

Q. Who put you in the jute box and pin ball business?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

9239 The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Nobody; I went in myself.

Q. Did you have any partners? A. No, sir.

Q. No associates? A. No, sir.

Q. Yet you operated those ten machines? A. Sixty music machines.

Q. I show you People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, and ask you if you can identify that picture. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whose is it? A. My brother Sammy.

9240 Q. Did you take that picture? A. No, sir.

Q. When did you see it before you just saw it now? A. I never seen it.

Q. This is the first time you have seen that picture? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that of your brother Sammy when you testified about when Judge Talley was asking you questions? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not snap that picture? A. No, sir.

Q. How far is number 58 Lewis Street from Lewis and Grand? A. About two and a half blocks.

Q. And from Lewis and Cannon? A. From where?

Q. From 58 Lewis Street? A. Lewis and Cannon? There is no Lewis and Cannon.

Q. How far is it from this Gold candy store? A. Gold?

Q. Yes. A. Where is Gold's?

Q. Lewis and Grand, up near the police station, don't you know that? A. Lewis and Grand —police station—there is no police station there.

9242

Mr. Talley: Are you talking about Manhattan or Brooklyn?

Q. Manhattan, near your place? A. My place is Lewis near Delancey Street.

Q. How far away from Lewis and Grand Street is it? A. About two and a half blocks.

Q. Do you know Gold's candy store? A. No, sir.

Q. Is there a restaurant, or was there a restaurant on Lewis and Grand? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the name of that restaurant? A. I don't know. 9243

Q. Was it a restaurant where you got service —not a cafeteria? A. It was a bar.

Q. And a restaurant, where you got service by a waiter, somebody waiting on the tables? A. I don't know.

Q. Were there any hangers-on in that Klick Vending Machine Company?

Mr. Talley: I object to it as improper cross examination, and as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know what you mean by hangers-on.

Q. Did you ever see Bugs Workman there? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know him? A. Well, I seen him, but I did not know him.

Q. Where did you see Charlie the Bug? A. I was born and brought up on the East Side; I lived all my life on the East Side.

Q. You did not go to school with the Bug? A. No, sir, I am not sure; I seen him.

9245 Q. Where did you see him? A. I used to pass in a car and seen him on Cannon Street.

Q. Cannon and where? A. Cannon and Stanton.

Q. Did you ever see him with Mendy? A. Not as I can recollect.

Q. Did you ever see him with Allie Tannenbaum? A. I don't know Allie Tannenbaum.

Q. You know Little Farvel? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you known Little Farvel? A. For a number of years.

Q. How many years is that? A. Say around ten years.

9246 Q. Where did you see Little Farvel?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as having no bearing, not proper cross-examination, improper, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I seen him downtown.

Q. In the ten years you have known little Farvel, did you know him socially? A. Well, yes, I knew him, not socially; I was born and brought up on the East Side.

Q. I know that, but in the ten years did you ever go out with him socially? A. Well, I would not say—no, I did not go out with him; I knew him.

Q. Were you ever in his company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many times have you been in the company of Farvel Cohen? A. I could not say.

Q. More than ten? A. Well, yes.

Q. More than twenty? A. I don't know; lots of times I was.

9248

Q. Can you give me an estimate? A. No, sir.

Q. It was more than ten at any rate? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On those occasions when you were in the company of Little Farvel, was Mendy with you? A. A few times.

Q. And was Charlie the Bug with you on those occasions?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, improper cross examination.

9249

Q. Who else besides Mendy was with you and Little Farvel?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, improper cross examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Well, I don't remember any particular times seeing them together. I know him for a number of years. I was actually brought up in the neighborhood.

9250 Q. We have this all now. A. I could not tell you how many times I seen him, but it was a number of times.

Q. Who else besides Mendy was with you and little Farvel? A. Well, I cannot remember any particular time.

Q. Let us see if I can refresh your recollection. Did you Louis Kravitz? A. No, sir.

Q. Sometimes known as Louis Kay? A. No, sir.

9251 Q. Did you know Sam Feinstein? A. No, sir.

Q. The fellow they call Toots Feinstein? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Izzy Bartfield? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Sidney Sales, Shimmy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever see Mendy and Bartfield and Shimmy together?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as improper cross examination; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

9252 The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I think I seen them.

Q. Were you out with Shimmy? A. No, sir.

Q. Danny Fields, did you know him? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. How about Benny Levine?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you know him? A. No, sir.
Q. Well, now Dimples—Moe Wolinsky?

Mr. Talley: I object.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9254

Q. Did you know Dimples? A. No, sir.
Q. Did you know Tom Kopplewitz? A. No, sir.
Q. You did not know Cuppie? A. No, sir.
Q. You never met Jake Drucker?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.
Q. Did you know Paul Berger? 9255

Mr. Talley: The same objection.
The Court: The same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.
Q. Didn't you ever work for Paul Berger? A. No, sir.
Q. You told us you were on a truck, do you remember? A. I worked for a trucking concern.
Q. Was it the clothing trucking? A. No, sir.

9256 Q. What kind of a trucking concern? A. It was trucking shoes.

Q. You never trucked clothes? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you on the payroll of any clothing trucker, without working? A. I was never on nobody's payroll.

Q. I am asking you. A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know Henzie Teitelbaum?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

9257 The Court: Objection overruled

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I think I seen him, I don't know.

Q. Aren't you sure you know Henzie Teitelbaum? A. No, sir. I know lots of people that are born over on the East Side, I know lots of people.

Q. We understand that. Would you say Teitlebaum was Lepke's chauffeur? Does that help you? A. No, sir, but I think I know him.

Q. Where do you know him from? A. From 9258 the East Side.

Q. Have you seen him with Mendy? A. Not as I can recall.

Q. Did you see him with Farvel Cohen? A. Not as I recall.

Q. Or with Charlie the Bug?

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Not as I can recall.

Q. Were you and Mendy friendly? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You live at number 10 Monroe Street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did Mendy live in September of 1936? A. 301 East 21st Street.

Q. In Brooklyn? A. In Manhattan.

Q. Where did he live in 1937? A. I don't know.

Q. Where did he live in 1938? A. In Brooklyn. 9260

Q. Where, in Brooklyn, the number, what street? A. I think he lived at Park Place, I am not sure.

Q. Let me give you a number, and see if that will help you, 230 Park Place? A. I think so.

Q. Did you ever visit that apartment? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whether it was on the third floor of 230 Park Place? A. I don't know what floor.

Q. How many times were you to 230 Park Place? 9261

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Not many times.

Q. Under what name did your brother live at 230 Park Place?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

9262 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Hoffman.

Q. He was living there with his wife as Mrs. Hoffman? A. I guess so.

Q. Don't you know that Mendy and his wife were living at 230 Park Place as Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman?

9263 Mr. Talley: What year is this?
Mr. Turkus: 1937, according to his testimony.
The Witness: I did not say 1937.
Mr. Turkus: 1938, excuse me.
Mr. Talley: I object to it as too remote, two years after the alleged crime.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. On the occasions when you visited at 230
9264 Park Place did you see friends of Mendy's up there? A. No, sir.

Q. On any occasion that you visited, did you see an outside person there who did not belong to the family? A. I don't remember.

Q. Don't you know whether Allie Tannenbaum was a visitor there when you were there? A. I don't know Allie.

Q. And Bugs, Charlie Workman?

Mr. Talley: I object again to this enumeration of names—The man told him he knew nothing of them.

9265

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Does that help to refresh your recollection? A. I never seen him.

Q. You never saw Charley there? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9266

Q. Can you remember one person outside of Mendy and his wife whom you saw at 230 Park Place? A. My mother, my brother Sammy, and different members of my family.

Q. I mean outside of the family circle, did you ever see outsiders up there at 230 Park Place, when you visited there? A. Yes, sir, I saw Dottie.

Q. How do you spell Dottie's last name? A. I don't know.

Q. You knew Dottie since before 1936—how many years before that did you know this Dottie? A. I knew her for a number of years.

9267

Q. How many years is a "number"? A. I cannot tell you.

Q. She was attending an intimate affair, a birthday party of yours that you remembered away back in 1936, how long before that did you know this Dottie? A. I know her for a number of years.

Q. She was not there as your girl friend, was she? A. I said I knew her for a number of years.

9268

Mr. Talley: I object to it.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Talley: He has not finished his answer.

Q. Do you want to say anything further than that? A. No, sir.

Q. She was at this birthday party as your girl friend, was she? A. No, sir.

9269

Q. She was not there as Sammy's friend? A. No, sir.

Q. She certainly was not there as Mendy's girl friend? A. No, sir.

Q. What business is that Dottie in? A. She is a girl friend of Mendy's wife.

Q. What is her business? A. I said—

Q. What is that? A. I said nothing.

Q. Answer the question. You are supposed to say something. A. I did not get a chance.

Mr. Turkus: I ask to have the question read.

9270

(Pending question read.)

Q. What is her business? A. I know she is married: I don't know if she has any business.

Q. Do you know her husband? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is his name? A. I know him, Yonkel.

Q. Yonkel was not at the birthday party with his wife? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you invite Mrs. Eisenstein to the birthday party? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, at 301 East 21st Street, where Mendy lived, what name was he living under in that house? A. Weiss.

9271

Q. When first to your knowledge did he change his name? A. I don't know.

Q. You know he changed his name at 230 Park Place? A. He lived under the name of Hoffman.

Q. Well, now, when for the first time did you know that Mendy had changed his name from Weiss to some other name?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; improper in form.

9272

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. As far as I know, the time he had the apartment.

Q. The time he took the apartment at 230? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many times did you visit him at 301 East 21st Street? A. Not many times—Can I have a drink of water?

(Witness handed glass of water.)

9273

Q. You know Yonkel is a pickpocket, isn't he?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as highly improper.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.

Q. Why, you had this woman at your birthday party; didn't you know her husband was a pickpocket?

9274 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not know.

Q. After your brother lived at 230 Park Place, Brooklyn, where did he live? A. He lived in 12th Avenue and 46th Street, in Brooklyn.

Q. Do you know the number? A. No, sir.

Q. What was the name? A. The name was 9275 Newman, I think.

Q. And Blanche lived there as Mrs. Newman, is that right? A. He lived there under the name of Newman.

Q. Did you visit him there when he lived there under the name of Newman? A. A few times.

Q. On the few occasions did you see Blanche there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else did you see besides the members of your family when Mendy lived under the name of Newman?

9276 Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't think I seen any.

Q. Did you ever see Lorber up there?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: The same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not.

Q. Did you see Engelson? A. I don't know him.

Q. Did you ever see a man up there named Shafer?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you remember seeing any of Mendy's associates when he was living under the name of Newman, at his apartment? 9278

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't think so.

Q. Now, after he moved out of the place where he was known as Newman, what was his next address? A. I don't think he had any more apartments.

Q. Where did he live? A. I do not know. 9279

Q. Well, you and he are brothers; you and he were friendly. Didn't you know where he lived?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as argumentative, not proper cross-examination.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not know that.

Q. Did the members of your family, including your mother, visit Mendy when he lived under the name of Newman on 12th Avenue?

Mr. Talley: I object. He can testify as to his own visits, but I don't know how he can testify to any others.

The Court: He can say whether or not he saw them there. The objection is overruled.

The Witness: Yes, sir.

9281 Mr. Talley: I except.

Q. Under the name of Newman? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Mendy ever tell you why he was living in Park Place under the name of Hoffman—yes or no?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

9282 Q. Did you ever ask him—yes or no?

Mr. Talley: I object to that.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Did Mendy ever tell you why he was living under the name of Newman?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

9283

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Did you ever ask him? A. No.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you know Cuppy? A. Yes, sir.

9284

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. How long did you know Cuppy? A. For a number of years.

Q. Well, that is very indefinite. Can you give me a better estimate? A. Say around nine or ten years.

Q. Did you associate with him? A. Well, I knew him. I was a friend.

Q. Did you associate with him? A. I was his friend.

9285

Q. Was he an associate of your brother Mendy's? A. He knew him.

Q. Did you see them together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was Cuppy's right name? A. Migden.

Q. (Spelling) M-i-g-d-e-n? A. Yes.

Q. Were you connected with the Texas Centennial Fair? A. No, sir.

Q. Wasn't Cuppy your partner at the Texas Centennial Fair? A. He was never my partner.

Q. Did you have any machines there operating, vending machines, operating at the Texas Centennial Fair in 1935 or 1936?

9286 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; I cannot see what possible bearing that has on the issue here.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9287 A. I was operating machines in the city.

Q. And not at the Texas Centennial Fair? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ship any there to Migden? A. No, sir.

Q. What is Migden's wife's name?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial, incompetent and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't think he was ever married.

9288 Q. Did you know Ruth Migden? A. His sister?

Q. Is that his sister? A. Ruth Migden, yes, sir.

Q. Ruth Migden is Cuppy's sister? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Weren't you in Texas during the course of the Texas Fair? A. I was never in Texas in my life.

Q. Didn't you leave Migden in Texas during the Texas Fair, either in 1935 or 1936? A. I was never in Texas in my life.

Q. Where did your brother move from the address where he lived under the name of Newman? A. I don't know.

Q. What year was that he moved out of there, do you know? A. I would say sometime in 1940; I don't know; I believe it was around 1940.

Q. In September, 1936, under what name was Mendy living?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. 9290

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Weiss.

Q. Did you see Cuppy in either 230 Park Place, the apartment where your brother lived under the name of Hoffman, or at 12th Avenue, where he lived under the name of Newman? A. I don't remember.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: The same ruling. 9291

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. During the early part of March, 1940, when did you call a man named Benjamin Portman on his home telephone—

Mr. Talley: That is objected to as improper cross-examination, incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. What month?

9292 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. The early part of March, 1941. A. I know I called him. I don't know whether it was March or April.

Q. You did call Benjamin Portman on the long distance phone, you remember? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was Benjamin Portman when you called him, what city?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9293

A. Kansas City.

Q. Kansas City, Missouri? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In that telephone conversation did you say you were Sidney Bell from New York City?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, not proper cross-examination.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9294 A. No, sir.

Q. You did not? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask Benjamin Portman for "Big Jim"?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you, in that telephone conversation with Benjamin Portman in Kansas City, Missouri, say you were Sidney Bell of New York City, a brother of Big Jim? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you tell Portman you would like to contact Big Jim immediately?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: The same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't Portman say to you he did not know where to pick up Big Jim, and he hung up the receiver? 9296

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection, and on the further ground that apparently the District Attorney is trying to put in evidence telephone calls, which I think are illegal. This wire-tapping business the law does not permit any more.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No. 9297

Q. On the occasion when you spoke to Portman on the telephone where were you?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. In the city.

Q. What city? A. New York City.

Q. Before you telephoned Benjamin Portman, had you ever met him in your life?

9298 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where? A. In Kansas City.

Q. When did you meet Portman in Kansas City, Missouri? A. In 1940.

Q. What month in 1940? A. Sometime in October.

9299 Q. Now, in October of 1940, after you say you met Portman for the first time—who introduced you to him?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection, not proper cross-examination.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. My brother.

Q. Your brother Mendy? A. Yes.

Q. At the time you were introduced to Benjamin Portman, was your brother's wife, Blanche 9300 Weiss, with him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you were introduced to Portman, your brother Mendy Weiss was living in Kansas City, Missouri, under the name of Bell, wasn't he? A. That is right.

Q. James Bell, wasn't he? A. Bell.

Q. Didn't you know the first name your brother Mendy was using? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not know, in Kansas City, when you were there with him, that he was under the name of Jim Bell or James Bell? A. I know he was under the name of Bell.

Q. You did not know the first name he was using? A. Not as I remember.

Q. This "Big Jim," wasn't he known as Big Jim Bell? A. No, sir.

Q. Can you remember now the first name your brother was using in Kansas City, Missouri, when you were there? A. No, sir.

Q. Weren't you introduced to Portman under the name of Sidney Bell, a brother of brother Mendy? A. I was introduced to Portman by the name of Sidney.

9302

Q. Weren't you introduced by the name of Sidney Bell? A. I was introduced by the name of Sidney.

Q. With no last name? A. No, sir.

Q. How many times did you meet Portman while in Kansas City? A. Three times.

Q. Now, the first time was the introduction in the presence of Blanche. What was the second time? A. I think around January, 1941.

Q. In between the first visit to Kansas City and the second time you met Portman, were you living in Kansas City? A. Yes.

9303

Q. How long did you stay in Kansas City on the first trip? A. Around two days.

Q. Where did you stay for the two days you were in Kansas City? A. At my brother's house.

Q. Where was your brother's house located? A. I think the address is somewhere on 46th Terrace, or something, in Kansas City.

Q. Terrace Drive? A. Something like that.

Q. In January, 1941, on your second visit, where did you stay? A. At my brother's house.

Q. Still on this Terrace Drive, in Kansas City? A. No.

9304 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Where? A. I think at 48th Street, Kansas City.

Q. Was that Highland Avenue? A. I don't know.

Q. Was there a woman named Fay Diily living there? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know Fay Dilly? A. Not as I remember.

Q. See if I can refresh your recollection—she was Benny Portman's girl friend, wasn't she?

9305 A. Not as far as I know.

Q. Did you ever hear of her with Benny Portman? A. I don't know who she is.

Q. In January, 1941, who did you stop with, Mendy? A. I did.

Q. Still living under the name of Bell? A. I think he lived under the name of Miller.

Q. Are you sure that was in Kansas City, where he lived under the name of Miller? A. I think Kansas City.

Q. Let us see. Was that outside of the city limits? A. I don't think so.

Q. Let us see if we can get the first address.

9306 Was it 420 West 46th Street Terrace, where you stopped for two days in Kansas City? A. I know it is 46th Street Terrace.

Q. Does 420 West 46th Street Terrace, Kansas City, Missouri, refresh your recollection? A. I don't know the number.

Q. Now, the place where he was living under the name of Miller, was that at West 48th Street? Was it 700 West 48th Street? A. I think so.

Q. How long did you stop there on that occasion? A. Just a few days.

Q. Wasn't your brother living in Apartment 30 in that building under the name of Miller? A.

I don't know what apartment; he lived under the name of Miller.

Q. Did you stop in the apartment? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Wasn't Cuppy there? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you see Jacob Migden, alias Cuppy, right in the apartment where your brother lived under the name of Miller at 700 West 48th Street, Kansas City? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I object to the cross-examination of his own witness. Your Honor must hold he has made this witness his own now, and as such he cannot cross-examine him. 9308

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you at any time while you were in the apartment on West 48th Street where your brother was living under the name of Miller, see Cuppy? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered, not once, but twice. 9309

The Court: He has answered it.

Q. Was there a colored superintendent there named Henry Horton? A. I don't know.

Q. Who is Rose Weiss? A. Rose Weiss?

Q. Yes, Rose Weiss. A. That is the sister-in-law of mine.

Q. What is her husband's name? A. Max Weiss.

Q. Did you see Rose Weiss there when your brother was living under the name of Miller?

9310 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. How long did you stay in Kansas City at the time you were visiting Mendy under the name of Miller? A. A few days.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered.

9311 The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. How many is a few days? A. Two days.

Q. Now, when was the third time you went to Kansas City, Missouri? A. I think in April.

Q. April of what year? A. 1941.

Q. How long did you stay in Kansas City during the month of April, 1941? A. One day.

Q. On your first trip, that was the time you met this Portman? A. Yes.

Q. And on the second trip did you meet Portman again? A. Yes, sir.

9312 Q. Did you meet Portman, under the name of Bell, on the second trip? A. No, sir.

Q. What name did Benny Portman call you when he spoke to you? A. Sidney.

Q. Any other name, last name? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, on the third trip to Kansas City did you meet Portman?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't think so.

9313

Q. Were you aiding and abetting your brother, Mendy Weiss, in maintaining and concealing himself as a fugitive from justice under the name of Miller and Bell? A. I don't understand what you mean.

Q. Didn't you know your brother was a fugitive from justice on the occasions you visited him in Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

9314

The Court: Objection overruled. This comes under Section 2 of the Penal Law, and therefore is competent on the question of knowledge.

Mr. Talley: It certainly calls for a conclusion and is improper as evidence.

The Court: I am weighing that—that is a borderline. He cannot say whether he knows, but, on the question of impeachment, he can say whether or not he so believed.

Mr. Talley: That is objected to, and if the question is put in that form it is objectionable again, and I object to it on the grounds already stated, with respect to the preceding question.

9315

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you believe at the time you visited him in Kansas City, Missouri, where he was living under the names of Miller and Bell, that he was a fugitive from justice? A. When I seen him in Kansas City—

9316 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Did you—yes or no? A. I cannot answer it that way. I have to explain.

Q. Can you answer whether you believed him to be a fugitive from justice when you visited him under the circumstances you have related to this jury?

Mr. Talley: I object on the grounds already stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

9317 Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Can you answer that yes or no? A. I cannot answer it yes or no.

Q. Well, don't answer it at all. When you were in Kansas City did you meet a man named Morris Saul?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir, I do not think so.

9318 Q. Did you meet a man named Morris Solwinsky?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember. I met a few people, but I do not remember their names.

Q. Well, let us see if I cannot help to refresh your recollection. Did you meet this fellow Saul and his wife at the Portman home?

9319

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I met Portman at Portman's home.

Q. Do you remember a man named Morris Saul, true name Morris Salinsky? A. I do not.

Mr. Talley: I object.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9320

Q. Did you meet one Walter Rainey? A. I think so.

Q. Now, Benny Portman is a big-time gambler in Missouri, and known to you to be such?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I do not know his business.

Q. Do you know it now? A. If you say so. 9321

Q. Not if I say so. Do you know it? A. No, sir.

The Court: The objection is good unless he knew at the time of the alleged association.

Q. Were you introduced at Portman's home as Sidney Bell? A. No, sir.

Q. Before going out to Kansas City on your third trip, did you speak to Portman on the telephone, the long distance, from New York?

9322 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, not proper cross-examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. I did not get the question.

Q. I will take it piece by piece and we will get along: You told us you made three trips to Kansas City? A. Yes, sir.

Q. If I understood you correctly, your first trip was in October, 1940? A. Yes, sir.

9323 Q. That you stayed there for a couple of days? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That your brother was then living under the name of Bell, at this Terrace address? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That your next trip was in January, 1941, when your brother was living on West 48th Street under the name of Miller? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You stayed a couple of days on that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you make a third trip to Kansas City, Missouri, sometime in April, 1941, when 9324 you say you spent a day there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just before you went on the third trip to Kansas City, in April of 1941, did you make a long distance call to Portman? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you tell this Benny Portman that you were going to fly out by plane immediately? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you take a plane from New York and its environment to Kansas City, Missouri? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you call at Portman's residence? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you take an automobile that Mendy

9325

Weiss had been riding around in in Kansas City, Missouri? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you drive that automobile back to New York City? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you drive back with you Blanche? A. Yes, sir.

The Court: Blanche who?

Q. Blanche, referred to as the defendant Mendy Weiss's wife; is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

9326

Q. During the first week of August, 1941, didn't you call Morris Salinsky, sometimes known as Morris Saul, on the telephone?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Don't you remember you did call Morris Saul on the telephone and he hung up on you?

9327

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember calling Kansas City, Missouri, and having somebody hang up on you?

Mr. Talley: How does this witness know, what a man in Kansas City did? I object to it as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

9328 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: The point of the objection is you cannot guess as to who calls, with an interruption.

Q. Without guessing, let us ask it this way: Did you endeavor to speak to Morris Salinsky, sometimes known as Morris Saul, on the telephone and have the connection abruptly terminated?

9329 Mr. Talley: How does he know?
The Court: Were you suddenly cut off?
Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.
The Witness: I don't remember if I called.

Q. Let us see if this refreshes your recollection—Didn't you then telephone Walter Rainey at his home?

9330 Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I think I called.
Q. You understand you are under oath? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: I object to the question in that form.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9331

Q. Did you call up Walter Rainey on the long distance telephone on or about the first week in August, 1941?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. You just said you think you did, now you don't remember, which is it? A. Who are you referring to?

9332

Q. Walter Rainey. A. Yes, sir, I called him.

Q. Didn't you say, or ask Walter Rainey how things were in Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: In August of this year?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, August of 1941.

9333

The Witness: I don't remember what I said to him about.

Q. You don't remember the conversation? A. I mean that conversation.

Q. You are calling up long distance in Kansas City and you don't remember what you are talking about, is that your testimony?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as argumentative.

9334 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. (Continued) What you were saying? A. What are you saying what?

Q. Didn't Walter Rainey say to you, "You guys got us in a hell of a lot of trouble, and everything is red hot"?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9335

A. I don't remember that conversation.

Q. Didn't you ask Walter Rainey why Portman and Morris Saul would not talk to you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; assuming something which is not in evidence; improper cross-examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

9336 Q. And didn't Rainey then say to you, "I don't why why they won't, but I don't give a damn, I am in the middle anyway"?

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember the conversation.

Q. Do you remember what you said to Walter Rainey on the long distance telephone?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember the conversation I had.

Q. You called up in the first week of August, 1941, and spoke to a man on the long distance telephone in Kansas City and you don't remember what you said to him, do you? A. I know I called him up; I don't remember the month; 9338
I called him up this year.

Q. You don't remember what he said or you said? A. I don't remember the conversation you are telling me now.

Q. I am asking you if you remember the conversation you had with Rainey? A. I mean the same thing.

Q. "I mean", is nothing.

Mr. Talley: I object to the comment of the District Attorney. It should not be permitted. There should be a limit. 9339

Mr. Turkus: I am not appealing to the Court to give me protection from any of these witnesses. I will handle them myself, and I want them to handle the questions.

Mr. Talley: You said you needed no protection from any witness?

The Court: Objection sustained as to the comment.

Q. Can you tell us what you said to Walter

9340 Rainey on the long distance 'phone in August of 1941, and what he said to you; yes or no?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered several times.

The Court: Sustained. He can say whether or not he knew the subject matter of the conversation.

Q. Do you remember the subject matter of 9341 that call?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered.

By the Court:

Q. What was it about? A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember that either? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Turkus:

9342

Q. Did you, in August, 1941, endeavor to reach Portman on the long distance wire to Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, what he endeavored to do.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. See if this refreshes your recollection—didn't you call Portman in Kansas City, Missouri, and was not that telephone connection abruptly terminated?

Mr. Talley: I object as already gone over.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Were you in Colorado in the year 1940? 9344
A. No, sir.

Q. At any time during the year 1940 were you in the State of Colorado? A. No, sir.

Q. At any time during 1940 did you see your brother Mendy Weiss in any place other than Kansas City, Missouri? A. In 1940?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir, I seen him in the city.

Q. When did he leave the city and go out of town, do you know?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as improper cross-examination, incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. 9345

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I seen him in the city; I don't remember what month.

Q. Didn't he leave the city suddenly?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as a conclusion, and not proper cross-examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Not as far as I know.

9346 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Did you know he was leaving? A. No, sir.
Q. Were you told by him with whom he was leaving?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as hearsay; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.
Q. There was no farewell party for him when 9347 he was leaving New York City, was there?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as highly improper; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.
Q. No bon voyage party?

Mr. Talley: I except to that.
9348 The Court: Sustained as to that.
Mr. Talley: I withdraw my exception, then.

Q. How long after the newspapers carried an article about Allie Tannenbaum was it that you for the first time knew that Mendy was out of New York City?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as highly improper; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection sustained.

9349

Q. Refresh your recollection. Wasn't your first notice that Mendy was no longer in New York City some time in May of 1940?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember when he left the city; I don't remember what month he left.

9350

Q. What is the business of Walter Rainey whom you met in Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.
Q. Did you ever ask him his business?

9351

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; calling for hearsay evidence.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.
Q. Did he ever tell you his business?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

9352 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. How many times were you in Walter Rainey's society in—

Mr. Talley (Interrupting): I make the same objection.

Q. (Continued) In Kansas City, Missouri?

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9353 A. Once or twice.

Q. On which visit, the first or the second or the third? A. I don't remember if it was the first or the second I seen him.

Q. Either the first or the second visit? A. I seen him on the third visit, too.

Q. Can you remember Morris Wolinsky, asking certain questions of him on the long distance telephone calls, does that refresh your recollection about Morris Saul or Morris Wolinsky?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
9354 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you at any time see Cuppie in Kansas City, Missouri, on any of your visits?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; improper cross-examination.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Never seen him.

Q. Did you ride back with Blanche Weiss and any of the personal effects of Cuppie?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. In your presence, was your brother Mendy Weiss called "Big Jim" by anybody in Kansas City, Missouri?

9356

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember anybody.

Q. In your presence, was he introduced as vice-president of the Chihuahua Tungsten Company?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9357

A. I don't know.

Q. Did your brother Mendy Weiss have any talk with you about his driving cards being in the name of Bell?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

9358 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Did your brother Mendy Weiss ever have any talk with you that he had a bank account in the Security National Bank, Kansas City, Kansas, under the name of Bell?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection; highly improper.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9359 A. No, sir.

Q. Did your brother Mendy tell you he was vice-president of the Chihuahua Tungsten Corporation, a mining and development company, at Black Hawk, Colorado? A. He said he had something to do with a mine there.

Q. He told you that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did your brother tell you he had fallen off a horse and been injured at Rocky Ford, Colorado?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

9360 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know where it was; he had an accident, I know.

Q. He told you about that? A. The accident.

Q. Did he tell you he was at St. Francis Hospital in Colorado? A. No, sir.

Q. When was the first time that you learned that your brother was leaving New York City in the year 1940 to go west?

Mr. Talley: I object as already gone over.

 9361

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember when he left.
Q. When did you write to him the first letter?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial; incompetent; not within the issue here; not proper cross-examination.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception. 9362

A. I never wrote him a letter.
Q. In all the time that you knew your brother was living in Kansas City, Missouri, under the name of Bell, and under the name of Miller, you never wrote a single letter? A. No, sir.
Q. When was the first letter you received from your brother from Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; the District Attorney is going pretty far afield now, it seems. 9363
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember it? A. I don't remember what month. I know I received a letter from him.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. What year? A. 1940.

9364

Q. What part was it in, spring, fall, summer or winter, or when? A. In the summer.

Q. And did you answer the letter? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial, incompetent, irrelevant, not proper cross-examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9365

Q. In that letter was the name Bell used? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the address listed in that letter?

Mr. Talley: The same objection, if your Honor please; not the best evidence, not proper cross-examination; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. Where is that letter?

9366

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I must have destroyed the letter.

Q. When was the next letter received?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Around the last part of the year, around December.

Q. What happened to that letter? A. I don't know, I must have destroyed it, I guess.

Q. Didn't you destroy it intentionally? A. I don't know; I must have destroyed it after I read it.

Q. Don't you know whether you destroyed those letters with the intent to destroy them and cause their destruction?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. I object to the form of the question. 9368

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. At any time were you in long distance telephone communication or conversation with your brother at Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9369

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, when you got the second letter in the summer of 1940, was that from Colorado?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I got the first letter from Kansas City.

Q. Did you ever get a letter from Colorado? A. No, sir.

9370 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Where was the second letter from? A. Kansas City.

Q. Was there a third letter? A. No, sir.

Q. No third letter? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you send your brother, Mendy Weiss, under any name he may have been using, any information concerning the activities in the east here?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent,
9371 immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. By activities, I mean the progress of any investigation?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I never sent him nothing.

Q. Did you indirectly send him any informa-
9372 tion as to the progress of any investigation in New York City?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I never sent him nothing.

Q. Were your visits to Kansas City, Missouri, for the intention on your part to help your brother to remain a fugitive from justice?

9373

Mr. Talley: Objected to as calling for a legal conclusion.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. At the time you made your first visit to Kansas City, Missouri, did you know or believe that your brother was a fugitive from justice?

9374

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered. Your Honor passed upon that about a half an hour ago.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Did you aid or abet your brother in any respect to remain and continue as a fugitive, concealed under a false name, in Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as calling for a conclusion.

The Court: Objection overruled.

9375

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you destroy the letters which you received from your brother with the intention to cause obliteration and destruction of evidence which might be used against him?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered and as calling for a conclusion.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9376 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

A. I don't remember. I destroyed the letters, that is all I know.

By the Court:

Q. When did you destroy them? A. I don't remember.

Q. In Brooklyn or New York? A. New York.

Q. In the Borough of Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

9377 By Mr. Turkus:

Q. To whom were the letters addressed?

Mr. Talley: I object. That was already gone over. It is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. To me.

Q. And what was the address where you re-

9378 ceived them? A. At my place of business.

Q. The Klick Vending? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How soon after the receipt of them were they destroyed?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; already gone over.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Was it immediately thereafter?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Same ruling.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I could not tell you.

Q. Is it you could not tell me or you won't tell me? A. I could not tell you.

Q. When you visited in Kansas City, Missouri, and your brother told you he had a mining interest in the Chihuahua Mining Company, 9380 and you 'phoned him there, living under the name of Bell, did you ask him why he was living there under that name?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, assuming evidence which is not in the record.

The Court: This is competent under Section 2 of the Penal Law, on the question of impeachment. Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 9381

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ask him why? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you talked to him in Kansas City, living under the name of Miller, did you ask him why he was living under that name?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

9382 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Did you ask your brother when he left New York City?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know if I asked him or not.

Q. Did you ask your brother when he was going to return to New York City?

9383

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask your brother why he had only written you two letters since he was away?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9384 A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask your brother why he had not written the family since he had been away?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask him why his wife was living under the name of Rose Bell?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

9385

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I do not understand the question.

Q. You do not understand that question? A. No, sir.

Q. Did your brother take you to the mine which he had an interest in when you were out there? A. No, sir.

Q. You were not out there for mining business after you went out? A. No, sir.

9386

Q. You went out to see your brother? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You went out to bring him information, didn't you? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you go to bring him information that you did not want to entrust to the mail or telephone? A. No, sir.

Q. Was your purpose in visiting Kansas City, Missouri, for two days a social visit? A. Well, he wanted to know how the family was, and everything.

Q. Did he want to know how the O'Dwyer investigation was getting on? A. No, sir.

9387

Q. He only wanted to know how the family was? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He did not ask you if the O'Dwyer investigation or the detectives were looking for him, did he? A. No, sir.

Q. Not once in the conversations in which he spoke to you in the two day trip to Kansas City did he mention anything about the O'Dwyer District Attorney investigation in Brooklyn?

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he ask you a single question about any investigation going on in Brooklyn?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; improper cross-examination.

9389 The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. While you were out there in Kansas City, Missouri, did your brother mention the name of Lepke? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he mention the name of Farvel Cohen? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he mention the name Lou Capone? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he mention the name of Allie Tannenbaum? A. No, sir.

9390 Q. Did he mention the name of Abe Reles? A. No, sir.

Q. Or Pittsburg Phil Strauss? A. No, sir.

Q. Or Harry (Happy) Maione? A. No, sir.

Q. Or "The Dasher" Abbendando? A. No, sir.

Q. Or Buggsy Goldstein? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I object, your Honor, to all this enumeration; it is highly improper. I think your Honor should stop it. I have tried to stop it several times.

The Court: I know the question of association is always competent. Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception, as long as your Honor understands the purport of my objection.

Q. Did he mention the name of Cuppie? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he mention the name of Max Rubin? A. No, sir.

Q. Or that of Paul Berger? A. No, sir. 9392

Mr. Talley: I have my objection, I take it, to all this line.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Talley: And I except.

Q. In the two days you visited there, all he wanted to know was how the family was, is that it? A. And different things.

Q. Different things did not include anything I asked you?

Mr. Talley: I object to the question, to the form of the question. It is already answered very fully. 9393

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Before your brother left town did he tell you he was going to Chicago?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled

9394

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know people by the name of Unger? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where is the Unger apartment? A. Now?

Q. Where is it now? A. I don't know.

Q. Where was it when you knew the Ungers? A. 101st Street, Manhattan.

Q. Were you up there with Yiddle Lorber, weren't you? A. I was there; I don't know who I was with.

9395

Q. Let us see if I cannot refresh your recollection. I am talking about the year 1940, before Mendy went west, you understand? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Weren't you up to the Unger flat with Yiddle Lorber before Mendy went west? A. I don't remember. I don't remember who I was with. I know I was there.

Q. Do you remember whether Mendy and Blanche were up there when you were up there? A. Yes, sir.

9396

Q. Didn't Mendy say he was going to Chicago? A. No, sir.

Q. In the Unger flat? A. No, sir.

Q. When was it you were in the Unger flat with Mendy and Blanche? A. Some time in 1940.

Q. Was it some time in April? A. It could be April.

Q. Could it have been some time in May, having in mind when the newspapers mentioned the name of Allie Tannenbaum?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Sustained as conjectural.

Q. I will revise it. Was it sometime in May when the newspapers were mentioning the name of Tannenbaum as a prospective O'Dwyer witness?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception. 9398

A. I don't know.

Q. Didn't your brother tell you he had to leave town the minute word got to him that it looked like Allie Tannenbaum might open up? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. That is nothing reflecting on the character of this witness. I can understand something to impeach on cross-examination a witness, 9399 but he is not seeking to impeach this witness by reason of association or anything else. He is on very dangerous ground in trying to extract from this witness information.

The Court: It opens up a right to inquire as to whether or not this witness had, under Section 2 of the Penal Law, knowledge, as having a bearing upon his credibility; because, logically, if he is guilty of a crime under Section 2 of the Penal Law in secreting what he believed 9400 to be or was informed to be a criminal—the language of the statute is quite extensive—then it would be within the province of the jury to say, provided they find themselves justified in finding such to be the fact, would the same motive tend to cause this witness to give false testimony as to an alibi?

Mr. Talley: That is pretty far-fetched, your Honor.

9401 The Court: Maybe it is and maybe it is not, but I am telling you so you will understand the ruling.

Mr. Talley: I except to your Honor's ruling, and I except to your Honor's comment in connection with that ruling.

Q. Do you know Dorothy Walker? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection, incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, improper cross-examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

9402 Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you ever see your brother in Chicago? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever communicate with Mendy Weiss while he was in Chicago during the year 1940?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

9403

Q. You said that your brother, when you went out to Kansas City, Missouri, spoke to you about the family, as to how they were, and other things, do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the two days you were there what were the other things he spoke to you about?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as calling for a conclusion.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9404

A. He said he went away because he was afraid some witnesses were going to frame him on a Federal charge.

Q. He said he thought some witnesses were framing him on a Federal charge? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that was why he was living under the name of Bell? A. I guess so.

Q. Did you know that your brother had a money belt on his person with $3,000 in cash?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, not proper cross-examination. 9405

Mr. Turkus: When you were there.

Mr. Talley: Just a moment. Let me object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know your brother had a belt buckle, a gold belt buckle with a diamond emblem on it in the shape of a six-pointed star?

9406 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I object. It assumes something that is not in evidence. It may have been glass so far as the testimony shows. It might have been from Woolworth's. It is highly improper.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. You did see a diamond belt buckle? A. No, sir.

9407

Q. Did you see a big ring he had on his finger?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, meaning nothing exactly; you can buy a ring for a quarter.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask your brother how he was earning his livelihood while staying in Kansas City, Missouri, keeping away from that Federal frameup?

9408

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask him where he was getting the money from to stay in hiding on a Federal frameup?

9409

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask him if he had any money to defray expenses?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9410

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you bring him any money out? A. No, sir.

Q. Not one dollar? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask him if he had enough money to buy a meal and eat it?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9411

A. I did not ask him that.

Q. Did you ask him if you could help him in connection with this alleged Federal frameup that he was worrying about?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. When your brother told you he was worried about a Federal frameup, and he was living under an assumed name, did you offer to do anything to help him?

9412 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection. It calls for a conclusion.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go to the United States District Attorney in Kansas City, Missouri? A. No, sir.

9413

Mr. Talley: Objected to as improper cross-examination, incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you go to the head of the United States Government agency in charge of investigation?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
9414 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you appeal to the Attorney General of United States?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you appeal to any Government agency or any Government official to help your brother in connection with this frameup that some Federal office was trying to put over on him?

9415

Mr. Talley: I object. There was nothing said as to a Federal office.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

9416

Mr. Talley: There is nothing in the testimony about a Federal office. The question is highly improper. The witness said there were some witnesses that he was afraid were going to frame him up. He said "witnesses."

The Court: That is right.

Mr. Talley: Does your Honor sustain my objection to that question?

The Court: Yes, on that ground. Strike out the answer.

9417

Q. Did you appeal to any Government agency or any Government official to help your brother in connection with this alleged Federal frameup by some witnesses?

Mr. Talley: I object again: that is not a Federal frameup.

Mr. Turkus: A frameup on a Federal charge.

The Court: You had better reframe your question.

Q. Did you appeal to any United States official or agency to help your brother in connection with an alleged frameup of witnesses against him on some Federal matter?

9418 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you advise or counsel your brother as to what he should do under the circumstances 9419 where there were some witnesses who were trying to frame him on a Federal matter?

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the same ground.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you advise and counsel your brother to, himself, go to some Federal agency in connection with the alleged frameup?

9420

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection, already answered.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you counsel and advise your brother to appeal to some person in connection with the Federal Government, or some agency thereof in connection with this alleged frameup?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the same ground.

The Court: You have been sufficiently over that situation.

Q. Did you appeal to your brother to surrender himself at once?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9422

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you counsel your brother to remain in hiding under an assumed name?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Well, when your brother told you about this alleged frameup of witnesses in conjunction with the Federal matter, what advice did you give your brother? 9423

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No advice.

Q. Now, what other things besides the alleged frameup of witnesses in the Federal matter did your brother Mendy Weiss speak to you about on the occasion of your first two-day visit to Kansas City?

9424 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He said he was looking for some kind of a business to go into.

Q. What kind of a business did he say? A. He did not say.

Q. What else did he say about business? 9425 Did he say how much he wanted to invest? A. No, sir.

Q. Did he discuss the nature of the business? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. When he told you that he was looking for some business to go into, was that before he told you about the alleged frameup by wit- 9426 nesses in the Federal matter or afterwards? A. I don't know.

Q. But it was during the conversation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When he said he was looking for a business to go into, didn't you remind him of this frameup of witnesses?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as improper cross-examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

9427

Q. Did he state with whom he was going to go into business?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he say he was going to go into some business to keep up the false front of "Jim Bell", to aid him in concealing himself?

9428

Mr. Talley: Objected to as improper in form.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I also object on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Same ruling.

9429

Q. Did he tell you he had put $500 into the Chihuahua Tungsten Corporation to get the vice-presidency, to aid him in keeping up the disguise of "Jim Bell"? A. No, sir, he said he invested some money in a mine.

Q. He did not say he put $500 in it to get the vice-presidency? A. No, sir.

Q. Was that the business that he spoke to you about investing money in when you were first in Kansas City? A. No, sir.

9430 Q. Was it some other business he discussed getting into? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember any of the details of that discussion? A. He said he was looking to get into some business that is good.

Q. Did you ask him what kind of a business it was? A. He said he was looking for a business to go into.

Q. After the two-day visit in Kansas City you came back home with knowledge that your 9431 brother, Mendy Weiss, was afraid there were some witnesses trying to frame him on a Federal matter; is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He had told you that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After you got back to New York City did you attend at a law office of any lawyer? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as improper; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9432 Q. Did you go to any Federal or State agency?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go to any Federal or State prosecutor?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go anywhere or do anything in reference to the facts your brother disclosed to you, about the alleged frameup of witnesses in a Federal matter?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection. 9434
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you send your brother any money after you heard he was afraid of a frame-up by witnesses in a Federal matter?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception. 9435

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you send him any advice, either by money, telephone calls, telegraph, or any other way?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. The second visit you made to Kansas City, was that a social visit?

9436 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already gone over in detail; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I went to see him.

Q. Did you go to see him socially? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you bring any money out with you?

9437 A. No, sir.

Q. Did you bring any information about the alleged frameup by witnesses in the Federal matter?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you bring him any information about the progress of the O'Dwyer investigation? A.

9438 No, sir.

Q. When you got out there did you ask your brother how he was feeling? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ask him anything else except the state of his health? A. He wanted to know how the family was, mother and brothers and everybody.

Q. He wanted to know how the family was? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ask him why he did not communicate with the family?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you tell him how the family was? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he want to know anything else from you? A. No, sir.

Q. You spent two days on that trip, too? A. 9440
Yes, sir.

Q. On the occasion of this second trip did you ask him whether he was still worrying about the witnesses framing him up in this Federal matter? A. No, sir.

Q. How far apart were these two trips?

Mr. Cuff: I object to that as having already been gone over.

The Court: What year?

Mr. Turkus: 1940, and one in 1941. I want to know how far apart the two trips were. 9441

Mr. Cuff: I object to that as having been already gone over and answered.

Mr. Turkus: Tell me the answer and I will withdraw it.

The Witness: One was in October.

Q. When was the other one? A. Toward the end of the year.

By the Court:

Q. You mean December? A. December or January.

9442 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. When was the first? A. October.

Q. The first was October, and the second when? A. Some time in December or January.

Q. When was the third one? A. In April.

Q. These were all social, purely social visits? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go by aeroplane each time? A. By train, too.

Q. How many times did you fly? A. Once.

Q. Once you flew, then you drove the car back,
9443 and the rest of the time you went by train? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What line did you go by? A. At the Penn Station.

Q. You mean the train to Chicago and then you went by the Santa Fe from there? A. The Penn to St. Louis and then I had to take a different train; I changed to Kansas City.

Q. That is the Union Station? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. On the occasion of the second trip out, did 9444 you bring any money out with you? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you bring any jewelry out with you? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you bring anything that could be readily converted into cash with you? A. No, sir.

Q. When you got there on the second trip, other than speaking about the health of the various members of the family, did your brother speak to you about anything else?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

9445

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Just in general.

Q. Just in general. Did he mention anything about witnesses who were allegedly trying to frame him on a Federal matter? A. No, sir.

Q. Was that subject ever brought up by either one of you on the second visit? A. I don't remember.

Q. Think, you may, see if you can remember.

9446

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question and to admonishing the witness, which is highly improper in the form of a question to this witness.

The Court: It occurs to me that time would be saved instead of taking each one separately, to ask him about any visit when that was discussed.

By the Court:

Q. Did you ever discuss with him that subject? A. No, sir.

9447

Q. Did you ever ask him for the particulars? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Did you ever ask him any of the details? A. No, sir.

Q. Or did you ever offer to help him by seeing a lawyer, or seeing the witnesses and trying to fix things up? A. No, sir.

Q. You got nothing beyond that? A. No, sir.

9448 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. And you say all these visits, these three visits within approximately six months, were purely social? A. I only seen him twice.

Q. Once you went there and he was not there? A. No, he was arrested.

Q. Once you went there after he had been arrested? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was a social visit, too? A. I went to take his wife home.

Q. You went to bring his wife home after he 9449 was arrested? A. Yes.

Q. Are you older or younger than Mendy? A. Younger.

Q. Where were you born? A. New York City.

Q. Do you know where Mendy was born? A. In New York City.

Q. Do you know how old he is? A. Around thirty-five, I think.

The Court: You have the birth certificate with you, Mr. Cuff?

Mr. Talley: We have it in court; if the District Attorney wants to see it we will 9450 allow him to see it.

Mr. Turkus: I would like to see it.

Mr. Talley: Counsel hands District Attorney certificate, copy of birth certificate of Stanley Weiss.

Mr. Turkus: I meant Mendy Weiss.

The Court: I inquired as to that. I wondered if there had been a check-up on the birthday.

Mr. Talley: This is a check-up on the birthday.

Mr. Turkus: We probably misunderstood one another.

Mr. Talley: I did not misunderstand the Court. The Court was asking about the birth certificate. I have that.

The Court: Counsel, do not try to get the Court in bad before the jury. I asked him if he had here a record of the birth.

Mr. Talley: Whose birth?

The Court: And you said you have it.

Mr. Talley: I have it.

The Court: You know perfectly well you have a right to put it in, but you are not going to pass the buck to the Judge. 9452
We will now take a recess until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. Talley: Just a minute, if your Honor please—

The Court (Addressing the jury): Gentlemen, do not discuss the case nor let anyone talk to you about it. Keep your minds open. Remember the other admonitions given you by the Court.

Mr. Talley: May counsel make application before you dismiss the jury?

The Court: No.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 9453

(Jury retired from the court room.)

Mr. Talley: I wish to address your Honor before the defendants are remanded. I think counsel join with me in an application to your Honor not to compel us to come to court tomorrow, Saturday. There is no doubt, apparently, that this case will be concluded during this coming week. By not sitting tomorrow it will enable us to go over the record.

9454 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: The Judge is very, very easy, easier than I have been in any other case I ever tried. I have indulged counsel. The defendants are remanded.

(Adjournment was thereupon taken to Saturday, November 22, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.)

9455 Brooklyn, N. Y., November 22, 1941.

(TRIAL RESUMED)

SIDNEY WEISS, resumed the stand and testified further, as follows:

Cross-examination by Mr. Turkus (continued):

Q. How did you learn Mendy's address in Kansas City when you went out to see him? A. He sent me a letter.

Q. Did the letter have his address in it? A.
9456 Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't it have some person to contact? A. No, sir.

Q. It did not have Benny Portman to contact, or Rainey to contact? A. No, sir.

Q. Or Fay Dilley? A. I did not know her.

Q. It had the name of James W. Bell and the address in it? A. The name and address.

Q. How was the letter signed?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as being incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did it have "Mendy" on it? A. I just don't remember.

Q. How did you know the letter was from Mendy? A. Well, I got the letter from him; I do not know the details of the letter.

Q. How did you know the letter was from Mendy, don't you understand that? A. He put 9458 his name in.

Q. What name? A. I just don't remember.

Q. You say that it had "Bell" and the address? A. I did not say— He had the name and address, I said.

Q. And from the name "Bell" and the address, you knew it was Mendy? A. I don't know the details of the letter.

Q. Now, let us go back to March of 1940. In March of 1940, did Mendy Weiss tell you he was brought into the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn?

9459

Mr. Talley: I object. That is a direct effort to try to elicit testimony he is not entitled to. It is pretty dangerous for the District Attorney to do that, if your Honor wants to know what is in my mind.

The Court: I want to think about it. Yesterday we had that. Up to yesterday morning there was not a particle of evidence of flight and hiding by Weiss, prior to last summer. Are you going to a date before that? In the cross examination

9460 yesterday of this witness it was brought out, as far back as 1938, Weiss was living in Brooklyn under the name of Hoffman. Later on, in the same year, he lived in Brooklyn under a still different name. But there is nothing to indicate that that has any specific relation to the Rosen case. Now—and follow me closely—ordinarily, if a crime is committed and the person thereafter flees and hides, you do 9461 not have to prove what was in the person's mind. In the absence of any other evidence, there may be a presumption that flight and hiding has relation to the crime. Therefore, the inference to be drawn from flight and hiding applies, so the jury may, in its discretion, apply it. Here, you have a different situation. The record indicates that there may have been more than one motive for flight and hiding. You cannot nail it down to the Rosen case, in view of that evidence.

9462 Mr. Turkus: That is not the theory under which I am propounding the question.

The Court: Pardon me. Because, when the act is purely circumstantial it is capable of interpretation on two hypotheses. So far as the specific motivation is concerned, the defendant is entitled to the benefit of the innocent hypothesis. Have you followed me?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: I think you are treading on dangerous ground.

Mr. Turkus: May I disclose to your Honor what I am driving at? I am coming to the point of credibility on the fabrication of evidence. I intend to show this was a fabricated alibi made as far back as 1936. I want to show other fabrications by this witness. I want to show his efforts to destroy the People's case by interfering with other witnesses. This is going to his credibility.

Mr. Talley: I object to the statement 9464 of the District Attorney and ask you to instruct the jury to disregard it.

Mr. Turkus: What the District Attorney says is not evidence. That is what I mean to prove.

Mr. Talley: That is what you are trying to prove and that I am trying to prevent you from proving. You are trying to get the jury to see that now by your making the statement.

The Court: What has been said by the District Attorney that he intends to prove 9465 is not evidence. You will completely disregard it. There is not a particle of evidence in the case that Weiss, in connection with the Rosen murder, was sought at the time you mentioned.

Mr. Turkus: I have stated my theory, which I intend to prove through his own lips.

Mr. Talley: He cannot prove credibility by these series of questions.

Mr. Turkus: Doesn't that affect the credibility of a witness if he fabricates evidence, if he helps to build up a false and fictitious alibi at the time the crime was committed?

9466 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Do not argue this any further. Repeat the question.

(Question read by reporter, as follows: Did Mendy Weiss tell you he was brought into the District Attorney's office in Brooklyn?)

The Court: Objection sustained.

9467 By Mr. Turkus:

Q. In or about the end of March, 1940, did your brother Mendy Weiss tell you that he told the District Attorney of Brooklyn that he lived at number 10 Monroe Street, New York City, your house?

Mr. Talley: I object. He has no right to elicit that testimony. This is an endeavor through this witness to elicit a statement made by the defendant which 9468 he is not entitled to have before this jury. The objection is based generally upon the ground it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

Mr. Turkus: This is a preliminary question.

The Court: The trouble is, it looks to me really an attempt to get something before the jury that, by means of an answer to the question—

Mr. Turkus: I am going to call detectives who brought him in, in rebuttal.

The Court: That is a different proposition.

Mr. Turkus: I want to show efforts of this witness to fabricate in this case and to collude with his brother—I want to show it through his lips. This goes to his credibility, if that is the fact.

The Court: Please, I want no more discussion about this. Anything in March of 1940 was prior to the time, so far as the record discloses, Weiss was being sought in connection with the Rosen 9470 case, or was even under adequate suspicion.

Mr. Turkus: That is not the theory. Am I precluded from pursuing that line?

The Court: It will only confuse the issue. I have to rule in the same way against you as against the defendants. Only yesterday morning I excluded evidence from Major Kleinman on that point, which tended to lead up to the same nature of confusion. This is a complicated case. There are a great many rami- 9471 fications. It is hard for the expert mind to follow. You must not confuse it before the jury or we will have a confused verdict. The objection is sustained.

I will add this, for clarification. The only reason that the Court has permitted the evidence of living under an assumed name prior to the summer of 1940 is as having a bearing upon this witness' credibility.

Mr. Turkus: That is right.

9472 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: But it must not be prejudicial to Weiss.

Mr. Turkus: Naturally, everything is on the theory of this witness' credibility, who comes here and speaks of a 1936 alibi.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Turkus: I will not proceed on that line as the Court has ruled it out.

By Mr. Turkus:

9473 Q. Mr. Unger, whose apartment you visited, that was at number 3 East 101st Street, Manhattan? A. It was 101st Street.

Q. Do you remember the address, number 3 East 101st Street? A. I remember 101st Street.

Q. And what other street? A. East of Fifth Avenue.

Q. Right off Fifth Avenue, wasn't it? A. I said east of Fifth Avenne.

Q. Now, did you visit Unger before that in the Trenton State Prison?

9474 Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. You knew that Unger was a jail bird and an ex-convict when you visited him at 101st Street, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. I also object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled. Leave out "jail bird", call him "ex-convict". Be polite.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You saw Yiddle Lorber up there, didn't you? A. I don't know.

Q. Let me remind you, wasn't Yiddle Lorber up there, with Al Engelson and your other brother, Chick Weiss, and Sidney Weiss, yourself? 9476

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, tending to prejudice this jury.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember Weiss being there.

Q. You know Al Lorber, don't you? A. Abie Lorber.

Q. The fellow that you called Yiddle Lorber, you knew him? A. Yes, sir. 9477

Q. How long did you know him? A. All my life.

Q. You knew him as a fixer, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

9478 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Didn't you know he was a hanger-out around courts and also a fixer?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He was in the bonding business, I know.

Q. He was in the narcotic business, too, wasn't

9479 he?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: If the witness knows.

A. Not as far as I know.

Q. You knew him all your life? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know he has been convicted for narcotics, in a narcotic case, don't you?

Mr. Talley: What possible bearing has that upon the issue we are trying here?

9480 Somebody who is not in the case at all, as far as I have been able to ascertain.

The Court: The question is whether at the time of association he knew it. You used present tense.

Q. Didn't you know at the time you were at East 101st Street, in Unger's apartment, that Abie, or Yiddle Lorber was mixed up in the narcotic traffic?

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: He says he does not remember if Lorber was there. Sustained. But he can say at the time of general association whether he knew it.

9481

Q. At the time you were up at East 101st Street did Mendy Weiss live at 4520-12th Avenue? A. I know he lived on 12th Avenue and 46th Street; I do not remember the address.

Q. Let us see if I can refresh your recollection. Wasn't there a deal made in Unger's apartment that Mendy Weiss' furniture be moved out of 4520-12th Avenue by a furniture man named Kelly?

9482

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I never heard of it.

Q. Wasn't it arranged that Blanche, his wife, was to go and move in with Rose Simons?

9483

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: The form could be the subject of revision.

Mr. Turkus: The question is, if he knows. I withdraw it.

Q. In your presence, and with you as part of the conversation and the conspiracy, wasn't it arranged that Blanche was to move it with Rose Simons?

9484 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Who was Rose Simons? A. Blanche's sister.

Q. After the meeting in Unger's house, didn't Blanche, to your knowledge, move in with her 9485 sister Rose Simons on the west side of Manhattan, at an 84th Street address?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. There was no such meeting; I don't know what you are talking about. There was no such meeting. I went to see him at 101st Street, that is all. There was no such meeting that you are talking about.

9486 Q. After your visit at Unger's flat on East 101st Street, isn't it a fact that Blanche moved in with her sister, Rose Simons, on the west side of Manhattan, at the 84th Street address?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.

Q. Isn't that a fact that after you visited

Unger's flat at number 3 East 101st Street that Mendy Weiss went out to Chicago and left his wife here in New York City?

Mr. Talley: I object. He is trying to tie up two things together that have no relation.

The Court: How would he know that Mendy went to Chicago?

Mr. Turkus: I am asking him if he knows it. He can say if he does not know. 9488

The Court: You mean after he heard of it?

Mr. Turkus: I will go further than that.

The Court: If he had first hand knowledge of it?

Q. Wasn't there a deal made in the Unger flat between you and your brother Mendy Weiss, Yiddle Lorber and Unger, that your sister-in-law Blanche was to move in with her sister on the west side of Manhattan, and that Mendy Weiss was to go out west? 9489

Mr. Talley: I object to that as already answered, and as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

By the Court:

Q. Were you there? A. I was there, but there was no such party there. I don't know 9490 what the District Attorney is trying to bring out.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Were you there in April of 1940? A. I was there in 1940, but what the month is, I don't remember.

Q. In relation to the time that Mendy Weiss went west, when were you in the Unger flat?

9491 Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I was there in 1940, but what month I do not remember.

Q. In relation to the time that you went out by train to Kansas City, Missouri, when was the meeting in George Unger's flat?

9492 Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: I also object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I said there was no such meeting. I don't know of any such meeting.

Q. In relation to your visit at the Unger flat, when was it you went out to Kansas City, Missouri, to see your brother?

9493

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the same ground.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't understand the question.

Q. Don't you understand the question—How long after that meeting was your visit? A. I am telling you there was no such visit at all.

Q. How long after your visit to the Unger flat at number 3 East 101st Street, or on East 101st Street, east of Fifth Avenue, was it that you went out to see your brother Mendy Weiss in Kansas City? A. I don't know how long.

9494

Q. How long after the meeting—Question withdrawn.

Q. How long after your visit to the Unger flat on East 101st Street was it that you received a letter from Mendy Weiss, a letter which brought you out to Kansas City? A. I don't remember.

By the Court:

9495

Q. I think you told us it was in October? A. October, yes, sir.

Q. You made your first visit? A. Yes, sir.

Q. To Kansas City? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You told us it was in the summer preceding October that you received a letter from Mendy? A. Before I made the trip.

Q. Some time in the summer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Not in the fall? A. No, sir.

9496 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Did your brother Mendy Weiss, in the early part of 1940, come to you and ask you to state falsely that he was living with you and working with you in jute boxes and pin ball machines?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as trying to elicit testimony he is not entitled to 9497 elicit, and as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

Mr. Turkus: I will withdraw it in that form.

Q. Did you agree with any one to falsely testify and state that your brother Mendy Weiss was living with you at number 10 Monroe Street, New York City, and was engaged with you in jute boxes and the pin ball machine business? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, do you know a man named Frankie,
9498 in relation to your jute boxes and pin ball machines?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is Frankie's last name? A. Schneider.

Q. Where does Frankie live? A. In the Bronx.

Q. What address? A. I don't know.

Q. What is Frankie in relation to your jute boxes and pir ball business? A. He works for me.

Q. Isn't he a partner? A. No, sir.

Q. Is he about thirty-two years old? A. He is somewheres around that.

Q. Is he about five feet, six, or five feet, seven? A. A little taller.

Q. Does he weigh about 150 pounds? A. I don't know. 9500

Q. How long has Frankie been working with you? A. About five years.

Q. Is he smooth-shaven? A. I don't understand what you mean.

Q. Has he a mustache? A. No, sir.

Q. Has he a beard? A. No, sir.

Q. Is he smooth-shaven, without hair on his face? A. Yes.

Q. Has he sandy hair? A. No.

Q. What color hair has he got? A. It looks like black to me.

Q. Has he gray eyes? A. I don't know; I never looked into his eyes. 9501

Q. Let us see about Frankie. Wasn't Frankie with you in the narcotics business? A. Mr. Turkus, I was never in the narcotic business.

Q. You were not in Kansas City making contact with John Jay, out there, for narcotics?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as too far afield. Are you going to let the District Attorney go on like this?

A. No, sir.

9502 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: The witness has answered.

Q. Did you meet John Jay out in Missouri? A. No, sir.

Q. Well, didn't you meet him when he was introducing Mendy as one of his relatives? A. I did not even know him.

Q. Didn't you have a piece of a crap game at Norfolk off Delancey Street four years ago?

9503 Mr. Tailey: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, too remote.

The Court: There is no moral turpitude in play crap.

Mr. Turkus: There is no moral turpitude in it but there is the law against gambling, play crap is gambling.

The Court: The Court does not know what you mean by "piece".

Mr. Turkus: I withdraw the question in that form.

9504 Q. Weren't you, in violation of the law of the State of New York, operating a crap game at Norfolk off Delancey Street, where you were taking a cut from the players?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as calling for a conclusion; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you have an interest, a financial interest in a bar and grill at Lewis and Grand Streets, known as the Lewis Bar and Grill, which was a hangout for gangsters?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, simply intended to prejudice the jury against this defendant.

The Court: It contains two propositions. Objection sustained. 9506

Q. Didn't you have a financial interest in a bar and grill and Lewis and Grand Streets, known as the Lewis Bar and Grill?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial, incompetent and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Was the Lewis Bar and Grill one of your hangouts? 9507

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. How many times have you gone into the Lewis Bar and Grill?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. It is not affecting this man's credibility. It does not do anything at all except to becloud the issue in this case.

9508 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. More than ten? A. I don't know.

Q. More than twenty? A. I don't know.

Mr. Talley: I object to that.

9509 The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. More than a hundred? A. I don't know.

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. More than two hundred?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: Objection overruled.

9510 Mr. Talley: I must have an exception in each case.

A. I don't know.

Q. Well, when you heard the District Attorney say in the first part of that double question that that was a hangout for gangsters, did that cause you to know how many times you were in there?

Mr. Talley: I object to the question as improper.

The Court: Objection sustained.

9511

Q. Can you estimate whether you have been in the Lewis Bar and Grill five hundred times?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; already answered.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

9512

Q. How long do you know Schlermer Katz?
A. I know him about eight years.
Q. In the eight years you have known him, how many times have you been out in his company?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Never in his company.

9513

Q. Were you ever in the company of others who were with Schlermer?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: You mean with Schlermer as a member of a group?

Mr. Turkus: Schlermer was a "finger man".

Mr. Talley: If your Honor please, you see how improper and how persistent the efforts of this District Attorney are in trying to get something before the jury. I move for the withdrawal of a juror,—I think this is the first time I have made

9514 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

this application,—and for a mistrial, upon the ground that the District Attorney has persistently made statements that your Honor has ruled against him in connection with evidence he is trying to elicit, with the attempt to prejudice this jury against these defendants. And the persistence with which that is done makes it impossible for this defendant to get a fair trial—in view of the statements of that 9515 kind deliberately and persistently made by the District Attorney.

The Court: The motion is denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: Will you look at the testimony of Berger?

The Court: The evidence on that point is specific as to an alleged talk between Berger and Weiss at Clinton and Broome in relation to Rubin,—that he wanted the witness Berger to point out Rubin to Schlermer, to be "hit." Schlermer's real 9516 name was Katz. It was not Sam Katz. That Weiss then said he would have Schlermer get in touch with him. Then there was a meeting with Schlermer at Stanton and Cannon, and Schlermer said that Weiss wanted him, Schlermer, to see the witness Berger. Now, that does not make Schlermer the finger man. As I understood, the finger man was Berger—but that may be more or less immaterial.

Mr. Talley: It is very material whether Berger, whose testimony your Honor has referred to, was the finger man or not.

9517

He said he was. This question assumes anything that Berger may have said might be true, which we do not admit.

The Court: Repeat the question.

(Question read by reporter, as follows:)

Q. Were you ever in the company of others who were with Schlermer?

The Court: I will allow it.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9518

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know Ben (Bugs) Siegel? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you running those jute boxes and pin ball machines for yourself or for someone else? A. Myself.

Q. Do you know Meyer Lansky, sometimes known as Jake Lansky, sometimes known as Meyer Lansky? A. No, sir.

Q. You are not operating pin balls and jute boxes for Meyer Lansky and Ben (Bugs) Siegel, are you? A. No.

9519

Q. Didn't you work for Ben (Bugs) Siegel on the pin balls?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, too remote.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. You never met Ben (Bugs) Siegel in your life? A. No, sir.

Q. Or Lansky? A. No, sir.

9520 Q. How long do you know Hymie Siegel?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know him. I see him, but I never spoke to him.

Q. Where did you see him? A. In the East Side.

9521 Q. How many years have you seen him on the East Side? A. I don't know.

Q. Why, weren't you and Hyman Siegel and Cuppie Midgen engaged in the wholesale distribution of narcotics through a dealer named Fillipo Naty?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9522 A. No, sir, Mr. Turkus, you know very well I was never in the narcotic business. You know that.

Q. Do you mean that? A. Certainly.

Q. Was your sole visit out to Kansas City, Missouri, to see Mendy socially?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered and gone into at great length, mostly yesterday.

Mr. Turkus: The witness has invited me as to what I know now.

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have not forgotten the telephone calls you made to Kansas City, Missouri, because of any narcotic business that was out there, have you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Objection overruled. 9524
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever see this person before (indicating a person who entered the court room)? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is her name? A. I know her name as Ruth.

Q. Is that the one you were with when she was with Cuppie and you in Texas? A. I was not in Texas, I said.

Mr. Turkus: Your name, for the record, please? 9525

Person Addressed: Ruth Siik (spelling).

The Witness: Mr. Turkus, why don't you ask her if I was in Texas?

Mr. Turkus: I wish the law permitted me to do so.

The Witness: You know very well I was never in Texas.

Mr. Turkus: You know very well you were.

9526 The Court: Just a minute— The remark by Mr. Turkus is stricken out. The jury is instructed to disregard it. Mr. Turkus is admonished not to do a thing like that again.

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor admonished the witness not to make a statement.

The Court: No matter what the witness says, don't you engage in any retort that may prejudice the jury.

9527 Mr. Talley: I make the same application, that your Honor instruct the jury to disregard the last remark of the District Attorney, even after your admonition to [illegible].

The Court: I don't know if it amounts to anything, but I will so advise the jury.

Q. Were you told before you took the stand that on a collateral matter the District Attorney was bound by your answer? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear that expression before you took the witness chair? A. No, sir.

9528 Q. Now, that girl that was brought in here, Ruth Siik, was she Cuppie's sweetheart?

Mr. Tailey: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. I don't know how that is within the knowledge of this witness.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You associated with Cuppie and with her?

9529

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. You never went out in their company together? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9530

Q. On or about June 5, 1941, did you, together with a man named Oscar, visit the Brownsville section of Brooklyn? A. I did not know no man named Oscar.

Q. Did you on or about June 5, 1941, visit the Brownsville section of Brooklyn?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, "about June". It is too indefinite.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9531

A. I visited the Brownsville neighborhood; I don't know the month it was; I was there.

Q. You have been in Brownsville many times during 1941? A. I was there quite a few.

Q. Were you there on or about the month of June, 1941, and contacted one Naty Katz?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. I also object to the form of the question.

9532 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I spoke to him.

Q. You know Naty Katz? A. Not before I spoke to him.

Q. Were you introduced to him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. By whom? A. By somebody in Brownsville.

Q. Who is the "somebody in Brownsville"?
A. I don't remember.

9533

Q. Why, it was just the past summer, wasn't it? A. I don't know who took me over to him. I spoke to a lot of people in Brownsville in reference to this case.

Q. Not so fast. Who else took you to Naty Katz, who was present? A. I don't remember who took me over. I spoke to lots of people.

Q. But I know—lots of people didn't take you over to Naty Katz? A. I spoke to lots of people in reference to this case.

Q. Was there one person who took you over to Naty Katz, or were there lots of people? A.
9534 I don't remember.

Q. Had you ever seen Naty Katz before you were introduced to him on that occasion? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: He said no.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. After you met Naty Katz on that occasion did you meet with him again? A. I guess so.

9535

Q. Well, cannot you be a little more definite. A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you had sought an introduction to Naty Katz, you knew he was a Brownsville hoodlum, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; calling for a conclusion.

A. The only reason I spoke to him was because I knew he knew people from Brownsville that knew they were framing my brother. That is why I spoke to him. I wanted to get some information.

9536

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor admonish the witness?

By the Court:

Q. The District Attorney wants to know this, at the time you spoke to Naty Katz, you knew that he was a disreputable character? A. No, sir.

9537

Q. You did not know that? A. The only reason I went to Brownsville—

The Court: We heard what you said.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. On the second meeting you had with Naty Katz, did you know then he was a disreputable character?

9538 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not; I never asked him; I did not know.

Q. You did not know anything about Naty Katz after the first or second meetings with him in regard to his social standing in the com-

9539 munity?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant—his social standing or anybody else's has no bearing here.

The Court: Objection overruled.

The Witness: The only reason that I went to see him—

The Court: Repeat the question.

(Question repeated by stenographer, as follows: You did not know anything about Naty Katz after the first or second meet-9540 ings with him in regard to his social standing in the community?)

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, did you make a deal with Naty Katz to get one George Gunther to testify falsely, and when he refused it, did Naty Katz, with your approval, break his jaw?

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I made no deal with nobody. All I had in mind to look for was to look for the truth. That is all.

Q. Were you present when Naty Katz attacked this George Gunther? A. You know I was not present.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor direct this witness to answer and desist from that?

The Court: Yes. 9542

Mr. Talley: He has given an answer.

The Court: I am trying to get a word in edgewise. When he answers the question make no retort.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that the answer be stricken out.

The Court: Read the question and let it be answered.

(Question read by reporter, as follows: Were you present when Naty Katz attacked this George Gunther?)

A. No, sir. 9543

Q. You were in Brownsville in the interests of justice, then, is that it? A. Yes.

Q. Did you go to Brownsville on one occasion in an automobile with two men?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, too general.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. See if I can refresh your recollection. How many trips to Brownsville have you made in the interests of justice? A. Lots of trips.

9544 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. How many is "lots of trips"? A. Many trips; I did not count them.

Q. Would you say twenty? A. I would not say nothing; I know I made many trips.

Q. Did you make one trip in an automobile with two men? A. I made lots of trips and I took along somebody with me for company.

Q. Was "somebody" two men on each oc-
9545 casion? A. No.

Q. Do you remember one specific occasion when you went to Brownsville with two men? A. Maybe I went, I don't know.

Q. Do you remember the month of May, 1941, going with two men in an automobile to Brownsville? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I object to that as too general and too indefinite. I ask that the time be fixed. The witness has a right to have his attention directed to some-9546 thing.

The Court: You say May, 1940?

Mr. Turkus: 1941.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. May of this year.

Q. Did you go to Brownsville in an automobile with two men, and on a Brownsville corner meet one Harry, alias Muggsy Cohen? A. The only time I seen Muggsy Cohen—

Q. Yes or no; don't make a speech. A. That is the only way I can answer it.

Q. If you cannot answer yes or no, tell the jury— A. (Interrupting) That is the only way I can answer that question.

Mr. Talley: I ask your Honor again to ask the District Attorney not to make a statement of that kind, threatening and bull-dozing this witness. It is contemptible. I have never, in all my experience, seen an exhibition or talk such as we have been listening to in the last day or two from this District Attorney.

9548

Mr. Turkus: That is ridiculous.

Mr. Talley: I ask your Honor to direct the District Attorney to keep within the bounds of just plain ordinary decency in the trial of this case.

Mr. Turkus: May we have summations at the proper time?

The Court: Answer the question yes or no.

The Witness: Not then, I never seen him then.

9549

Q. Did you in an automobile see one Harry, alias Muggsy Cohen on a Brownsville corner in or about the month of May, 1941? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see Harry Muggsy Cohen in Brownsville any month in the year 1941? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What month was it? A. It was the Saturday before the case started.

Q. That was the first time you saw him? A. The first time I saw him.

Q. When you say, "before the case started",

9550 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

do you mean— A. (Interrupting) September 15th.

Q. Did you say to Muggsy Cohen, "I heard that you were in the District Attorney's office"?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as being purely collateral. Your Honor will recall that I was prevented from having that testimony elicited yesterday with relation to Muggsy Cohen, on the ground it was a 9551 collateral matter, and here we are going into it again. If your Honor allows this witness to testify and allows me to present my witness, I have no objection to it. I do not want to be foreclosed and allow these questions to be asked of this witness. I would like to find out all there is about Muggsy Cohen when he was in the District Attorney's office.

The Court: There is so much confusion with this speech making it is difficult for me to keep the evidence together. All you have to do is to make an objection on legal 9552 grounds and try to forget there is a jury here. Just address the Court.

Mr. Talley: I cannot forget there is a jury here.

Mr. Turkus: We will have a talk.

Mr. Talley: I am listening to these improper remarks given by the District Attorney.

The Court: The jury will disregard them. The objection is overruled.

A. No, sir.

9553

Q. Did you ask Muggsy Cohen what happened in the District Attorney's office? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you say to Muggsy Cohen, "I want you to meet me tonight and talk to a lawyer"? A. I said to him—

Q. Did you, yes or no? A. I said I would call him up. I cannot answer that question yes or no. I will tell you what I said to him.

Q. Tell me yes or no. A. That is the only way I can tell it to you.

9554

The Court: Repeat the question.

(Question repeated by reporter, as follows: Did you say to Muggsy Cohen, "I want you to meet me tonight and talk to a lawyer"?)

The Witness: All I said was I would call him Saturday and if he wanted to see my lawyer I would call him Saturday evening and I would make an appointment for eight o'clock.

By the Court:

9555

Q. To see if he would go to your lawyer? A. Yes.

Q. Your lawyer? A. My brother's lawyer.

Q. Who was that? A. I asked him if he would see Mr. Cuff, Mr. Kleinman, or anyone.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Did you say to Muggsy Cohen, "I want you to meet me tonight and talk to the lawyer," yes or no? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you tell Muggsy Cohen to meet you at Weiner's Bar and Grill on Amboy Street near Pitkin Avenue at seven o'clock that night? A. I said I would 'phone him there.

Mr. Turkus. Will your Honor direct this witness to be responsive?

The Court: He has already answered that that Saturday night he was to telephone Muggsy—was to telephone him and let him know if he would see the attorney for the defendant Weiss, not mentioning any specific name of the attorney.

9557

Q. At seven o'clock on the night you met Mr. Cohen on a Brownsville corner did you telephone Weiner's Bar and Grill and have a talk with Muggsy Cohen? A. I never met him at seven o'clock that night.

Q. Did you at or about seven o'clock that night telephone Muggsy Cohen at Weiner's Bar and Grill? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you tell Muggsy Cohen that you could not meet the lawyer that night and that you 9558 would call him back the next night at the same place at the same time? A. The next afternoon.

Q. So you did tell him that you could not meet the lawyer that night and you would call him back the next afternoon? A. That is right.

Q. Now, did you call back at Weiner's Bar and Grill when you said you would? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you adjourn or lay off the appointment for one o'clock in the afternoon two days later? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And two days later, at about one o'clock in the afternoon, did you telephone the same bar and grill and speak to Muggsy Cohen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you say to Muggsy Cohen, "I want you to come and meet me in front of number 40 Wall Street, New York; take a cab and I will pay for it"? A. I asked him if he wanted to go and see Talley—Judge Talley. He said, "Yes." I said, "Come down to 40 Wall Street." You want to know everything. I am telling you the truth.

The Court: Answer the question.

Q. Answer yes or no— Did you in that talk say to Muggsy Cohen, "I want you to come and meet me in front of number 40 Wall Street, New York, take a cab and I will pay for it"? A. Part of that is right and part is wrong.

Q. What is wrong? A. I asked him if he wanted—

Q. What is wrong with the two sentences—the one that you were to meet in front of 40 Wall Street, New York, "Take a cab and I will pay for it,"—which is wrong? A. "I want you." I did not command him to come down. I asked him if he wanted to come down, and he said, "Yes." I said, "Meet me in front of 40 Wall." He said he had no money. I said, "Jump in a cab, and I will pay for it." 9561

Q. So you gave Muggsy Cohen no order? A. No, sir, I did not give him any order.

Q. It was a request? A. No request, he said he would be glad to come to the office; he said he would be very glad to come to the office.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor admonish this witness? I think he has been encouraged that he can answer the District Attorney any way he sees fit.

The Court: Proceed.

Q. Did you request Muggsy Cohen to come to 40 Wall Street? A. I asked him if he wanted to come and he said yes.

Q. Yes or no? A. Yes, sir. If you want it that way, all right.

9563

Q. I want it yes or no. A. I cannot answer you that way.

Q. You did all right on direct examination, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: I object to that and move it be stricken out.

The Court: Objection sustained. Strike it out.

Q. Did Muggsy Cohen say to you, "Is it all right if I take a friend along with me?" A. No,

9564 sir.

Q. Did you say, "Yes, that is all right"? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, did Muggsy Cohen meet you in front of 40 Wall Street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he have a man with him named Blacky? A. He had a man with him; I don't know what his name was.

Q. Was it Blacky? A. I don't know.

Q. You never met him before and have never seen him since? A. No, sir, that was the second time I saw Muggsy myself.

Q. Now, you paid for the cab? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then did you say to Muggsy Cohen, "I think it is too early yet, Talley is out to lunch"? A. I think so, yes, sir.

Q. Then did you say to Muggsy, "I would like to buy you a drink"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Muggsy say, "I am not hungry, but I will have a drink"? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you walk for a couple of blocks and go into a bar and grill and have a drink? A. Yes.

Q. All of you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, you, the unknown man, and Muggsy? A. Yes, sir. 9566

Q. You paid for the drinks? A. Yes, sir, one drink.

Q. One drink for three, or three drinks? A. One drink apiece.

Q. A round of drinks? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you walk Muggsy Cohen over to the Talley law offices? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before going into Mr. Talley's office did you ask him, Mr. Talley, whether or not you could have a room along with Muggsy Cohen, to talk to him? A. No, sir.

Q. Did Mr. Talley say "Yes" to that? A. I 9567 didn't ask him that.

Q. Did you get a room alone with Muggsy Cohen first? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you, in the room alone with Muggsy Cohen, tell him you wanted to know what happened in the D. A.'s office? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ask him to tell you everything from the beginning, so that he could get everything straight and you could get everything straight? A. I told him to tell me the truth, that is all I asked him, just for the truth.

Q. Didn't you say to Muggsy Cohen in the 9568 room along in Talley's law office to tell you everything that happened in the D. A.'s office; that you wanted to get everything from the beginning so you could get everything straight? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you, after talking alone to Muggsy Cohen, bring him into Mr. Talley's private room? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you, after talking to Muggsy Cohen alone in a private room, bring him into Mr.
9569 Talley's private room and have him dictate a statement—that is, Muggsy Cohen dictate a statement—to a stenographer? A. No, sir.

Q. Was a statement taken in Mr. Talley's private room from Muggsy Cohen to a stenographer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was this man whose identity you do not know sitting in the outer office? A. In the waiting room.

Q. And after Muggsy Cohen's statement was taken through the stenographer, was Muggsy Cohen handed Mr. Talley's card by Mr. Talley?

9570

Mr. Talley: Listen, I haven't had a card in thirty years.

Mr. Turkus: Is that from the witness?

Mr. Talley: That was from me. I don't use cards in my business or profession. I want you to get that straight.

Mr. Turkus: I will take that answer from Judge Talley in lieu of the witness.

Mr. Talley: You had better take it. I am no ambulance chaser, handing out cards.

Mr. Turkus: We are trying a murder case; you are not on trial for anything; don't be putting yourself in the place of your client.

9571

Mr. Talley: Now, your Honor—

Mr. Turkus: One is in competition with the other.

The Court: I will stop this.

By Mr. Turkus:

9572

Q. Let us go back to what happened in the office—

Mr. Talley: Come back to it quickly.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor instruct him to stop hissing in my ear.

The Court: Both stop.

Q. What was Muggsy Cohen told by Mr. Talley—"in case you remember something you did not tell me, get in touch with me"? A. No, sir.

9573

Q. Did the unknown man and Muggsy Cohen leave the office together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you take Muggsy Cohen and the unknown man, and drive Muggsy Cohen home? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, out in Missouri, when you were told by your brother Mendy that he was afraid witnesses were going to frame him in a Federal Court, you did nothing about it? A. That is right.

Q. Back here in New York City, you got the idea that somebody was trying to frame your brother in a murder case, is that it? A. Yes, sir.

9574 Q. You went out in the interests of justice to help him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go to the Governor? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: That has been already gone into at great length.

Mr. Turkus: This is on this frame-up—Judge Talley is twisted or has forgotten the evidence.

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompe-
9575 tent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: I think the question is frivolous. Sustained.

Q. Did you go to Judge O'Dwyer, the District Attorney of the County?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

9576 Q. Did you go to any law enforcement agency in the interests of justice?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection, and also as to the form of the question.

The Court: That might be a normal reaction and again it might not, to go to a so-called law-enforcement agency. Most people don't know what they are or where they are located until election. The objection is sustained. The Court recognizes those only who are officially authorized to administer the law, and not self-appointed organizations that do not understand and tell public officials how to do their work when they don't know anything about it whatever.

Mr. Turkus: Am I precluded from going any further on that?

The Court: I think that part is too far-fetched.

Q. Other than personally going to Brownsville in the interest of justice, did you do anything about the alleged frameup? A. I spoke to people and tried to bring out the truth. 9578

Q. That you did all on your own? A. Yes, sir, sure; I wanted to find out.

Mr. Turkus: I ask that this photograph be marked for identification.

(Received and marked People's Exhibit Z-27 for identification.)

Q. I show you People's Exhibit Z-27 for identification and ask you if that is a photograph of Yonkel. A. Yes, sir. 9579

Q. Yonkel is the husband of this woman whom yesterday you called Eisenstein, is that right? A. Something like that.

Q. You called her Eisenstein yesterday, didn't you? A. Something like that.

Q. What was something like that you called her yesterday? A. What you just said.

Q. Eisenstein? A. Yes.

Q. That is a woman you know for how many years? A. A number of years.

Q. How many is the "number" that you know her? A. A number of years.

9580 Q. Well, is it one? A. Around ten years.

Q. Nine or ten years? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Don't you know that the name furnished the District Attorney on the bill of particulars was Dorothy Isaacson, 148 Clinton Street, Borough of Manhattan, unemployed? A. No.

Q. Well, is the name Eisenstein or Isaacson? A. Isaacson.

Q. My question to you is, just refresh your recollection as to the name. A. I cannot pronounce it; I still cannot.

9581 Q. Didn't you say "Isaacson"? A. Isaacson or something like that.

Q. So that it was your inability to pronounce "Isaacson" that caused you to say Eisenstein?

The Court: Oh, don't quarrel about that.

Q. Did you ever know this Isaacson woman under the name of Levine? A. No.

Q. Did you ever know her husband, Yonkel, under the name of Levine? A. No, sir.

9582 Q. How many times have you been out with Yonkel? A. Never.

Q. Never out with Yonkel? A. No.

Q. Only out with Mrs. Isaacson, is that it? A. That is right.

Q. Did you ever know her under the name of Rosen? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever know her under the name of Roth? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever know her under the name of Greenberg? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever know her under the name of Mirrin?

Mr. Talley: I object to the manner in which this examination is being conducted before the jury. The District Attorney, reading ostensibly from the back of a photograph, asking this witness to identify, and underneath a yellow sheet. I think that method of examination should be stopped by your Honor. The question 9584 is objected to and the manner of examination is called to your Honor's attention. It is obvious, too—the District Attorney is standing within a foot of the jury box and endeavoring to do that—he does not look at the paper from which he is examining, but is holding it in sight of the jury.

The Court: My impression would be that Mr. Turkus is quite a few feet away.

Mr. Talley: He is within one foot of the jury box.

The Court: You will have it as one on the record. The Court is not interested. 9585
Go ahead.

Mr. Talley: Your Honor declines to comply with my request?

Mr. Turkus: May the record show that Mr. Turkus is facing the witness and that he is holding the picture—which I doubt is visible to the jury—face behind, although it has been identified by the witness as Yonkel, that I am reading from the back of the picture and that I have some yellow pages in my hand, which are not visible to the jury but only to me.

9586 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: The top of the paper is headed "Police Department," and it is a yellow sheet.

Mr. Turkus: He cannot see that.

Mr. Talley: I can see "Police Department."

Mr. Turkus: You can, but the jury cannc

Mr. Talley: The sheet you are reading from is the well-known yellow sheet of the 9587 Police Department.

Mr. Turkus: It is familiar to Judge Talley.

Mr. Talley: It is. I have handled a thousand of them.

The Court: Please stop this colloquy. The Court did not notice it until Judge Talley spoke of it—the papers or what the papers were. Certainly the jury would not have knowledge of what those papers are if Judge Talley had not told them. Judge Talley is on the other side of Mr. Turkus, from the direction of the jury.

9588 Mr. Talley: I take exception to the refusal of my request.

The Court: You are not going to have this record distorted, if I can help it.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Do you know her by any other name than Isaacson? A. No, sir.

Q. You told Mr. Talley yesterday that your 26th birthday was the only birthday you celebrated; is that right? A. That is right.

9589

Q. Of all the birthdays in your life the 26th was the only one you celebrated? A. That is right.

Q. What was there of peculiar significance about your 26th birthday as contrasted with all the other birthdays in your life? A. I don't understand you and I told you that was the only birthday—

Q. You do not understand me and you told me. Who did you tell Judge Talley was at the 26th birthday, the only birthday in your life when you had a party? A. Who did I tell?

9590

Q. Yes. Don't you understand me? A. No, I didn't hear what you said. I am sorry.

Q. Yesterday you told Judge Talley that you only had one birthday party in your life. A. That is right.

Q. Your 26th birthday. A. That is right.

Q. And you remember about going to the moving pictures, and what time you came out, and what restaurant you ate in, the Brass Rail, and that you went to Ratner's restaurant, and that you met in Brother Sammy's automobile store, and that mother was there.

9591

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question, if your Honor pleases.

Q. Didn't you remember that? A. Yes.

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question. I ask your Honor to rule upon it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9592 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. On this only birthday party in your whole life, who did you say was present? A. My mother, Dottie Eisenstein, Blanche, Mendy and myself.

Q. Why, you had Sammy in there yesterday?

Mr. Cuff: I object to that.

Q. Didn't you? A. No, sir.

Q. You are not leaving Sammy out on account of that picture I showed you yesterday, are you?

9593

Mr. Talley: If your Honor pleases, Sammy was not put in the birthday party yesterday. If the District Attorney was familiar with his record, he would know. He is now referring to a picture that he marked for identification. That is not right, to refer to any picture that is not in evidence. The question is highly objectionable and I press my objection and I ask you to direct the District Attorney not to ask that type of question again.

9594

The Court: If I recall correctly, in his direct testimony he said that the Sam who was with him that night was his brother Sam.

Mr. Turkus: Yes, that is right.

The Court: Is that the one you mean now?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

The Court: That is not the picture you showed him?

Mr. Turkus: No, not this picture, but yesterday I showed him a picture which was only marked for identification, a picture which he identified as a picture of his brother Sam.

The Court: Was that marked for identification?

Mr. Turkus: It was, your Honor. Would you like to see it?

The Court: Yes, I would like to see it.

Mr. Turkus: (To reporter) Will you read the question to which Mr. Talley has taken such violent objection? 9596

Mr. Talley: I said that the testimony yesterday was that Sam was not at the restaurant, was not at the theatre, was not at the birthday party, had nothing to do with it except that they met—the family met—at Sam's place of business. That is the testimony from this witness yesterday. Now the District Attorney is trying to make it appear that this witness yesterday said that Sammy was at the party.

The Court: I thought that was what he said. 9597

By the Court:

Q. What was the fact? Did Sam go to the party? A. No, sir.

Q. You mean you left him at ten o'clock and went to the party and he stayed in the store? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your brother Sam did not go to the party? A. No, sir.

9598 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. You testified yesterday that you all met in brother Sammy's automobile store, didn't you? A. That is right.

Q. That he was present when your mother was there, when Mendy was there, and this Dottie whom you called Eisenstein was there. Do you remember that? A. We met in the store.

9599 Q. Didn't you say Sammy was present? A. He was present at the store.

Q. All right, Sammy has been around this court for how long, out in the corridor? A. The last time—

Q. How many days or weeks has Sammy been outside? A. Sammy is in the army.

Q. Yes, but he has been standing out in the corridor in his army uniform? A. He has been in the last four days.

Q. And he was brought up as a witness, wasn't he?

9600

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: How does he know?

Q. Wasn't he brought up here as a witness, to your knowledge, and when you saw this picture, People's Exhibit Z-26 for identification, Sammy is no longer a witness; isn't that it?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: And most improper.
The Court: The jury will disregard it.

Q. Was Sammy to your knowledge brought up here as a witness?

Mr. Talley: Object to that as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9602

A. Can I see that picture? Can I see the picture again?
Q. Never mind the picture. The question is, was Sammy to your knowledge brought up here as a witness?

Mr. Talley: It was objected to. Your Honor has ruled upon it.
The Court: Overruled. You may answer that without seeing the picture.

A. Yes, sir.
9603
Q. He was brought up as a witness. And he was brought up from some army camp, wasn't he? A. That is right.
Q. And he has been around the court, waiting to take the witness-stand; isn't that right?

Mr. Talley: Objected to—not permitted in the court-room.
The Court: I have here page 2989 of the minutes of yesterday on matter which is in dispute. According to that, in the group at Sammy's store: "Q. Yes, who was in the group that went from Sammy's store to the restaurant? A. My brother"—apparently referring to Sammy because he had just been spoken of on the previous page—page 2988; "Q. Who was present at Sammy's store that night? A. My brother and Sammy." This shows a distinction between brother Mendy and Sammy. "Q. Were you there before they came? A. My mother and 9605 Sammy were there before I came." The following page: "Q. Yes, who was in the group that went from Sammy's store to the restaurant? A. My brother, Mendy, myself, my mother, Blanche, and Dottie."

Mr. Talley: There is no significance to that comma after "brother". My brother Mendy, was the testimony.

The Court: In view of the previous question and answer on the previous page, I am calling that to your attention 9606 because there there is a distinction which refers to his brother and Mendy.

Mr. Talley: No question about his testimony yesterday, Judge. He testified they met at Sammy's store.

The Court: The jury can figure that out. There has been a colloquy as to what was meant. Here is the record. The jury can figure what it means.

Mr. Talley: I object to the command of the Court and the interpretation of the record.

The Court: The jury will interpret.

Mr. Talley: It is not the proper interpretation and it is not the testimony given by this witness in the manner your Honor has sought to interpret.

Mr. Turkus: We won't quibble about that. He said he was in the store, that he was intended to be called as a witness, and I have a question which this colloquy has yet prevented the answer from being recorded.

The Court: Let us have the question. 9608

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor read the record as to this witness' testimony as to who went up to the restaurant uptown, when they got to the Brass Rail? You are trying to convey that Sammy Weiss was present at the restaurant and theatre and so forth. He did not say that yesterday and I am trying—You know it already but I am reminding you what the testimony is.

The Court: Judge Talley asked for something further on on page 2989, following what the Court just read by question and answer, as to who constituted the group that went from Sammy's store to the restaurant, so I will read the next few questions and answers: "Q. Did you go by automobile from Sammy's store? A. Yes, sir, we did. Q. Where did you go? A. To the restaurant. Q. Where was the restaurant? A. The Brass Rail. Q. Where was that? A. Seventh Avenue and 49th Street. Q. Did you all go in there? A. Yes, sir, we did." 9609

Mr. Turkus: There is a pending question.

(Pending question read.)

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: He cannot say that.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. To your knowledge hasn't Sammy been out in the corridor for the past four days, waiting to take the witness-stand after you got through?

9611

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: He can state whether or not he has been in the corridor, he has seen him in the corridor, in the last four days.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know now of your own knowledge that Sammy won't take the witness-stand?

Mr. Talley: Of course, nothing could be more clearly objectionable than that.

9612

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: I am almost ashamed to interpose an objection to it in a court.

The Court: You have the ruling. Sustained.

Q. Has there been any conversation between recess yesterday and this morning between you and the lawyers in reference to Sammy taking the witness-stand? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you tell the lawyers between recess yesterday and the start of court this morning about that picture?

The Court: Don't show it.

Q. Z-26 for identification? Yes or no. A. No, sir.

Q. You said not one word to any of the counsel for your brother about this picture, Z-26 for identification? A. No, sir.

Q. The picture of your brother Sammy? A. No, sir. 9614

Q. Did you tell Sammy about the picture Z-26 for identification?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, to any further questions upon a paper that is not in evidence.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you tell any member of your family or any one of the lawyers who represent your brother as to the picture of your brother Sammy, Z-26 for identification? A. No, sir. 9615

Q. So that as far as you are concerned, what is portrayed on that picture is in your mind only? A. That is right.

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases. I am not objecting to anything about his conversations with any attorneys in this case.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: But I certainly do object to 9616 that type of examination and to that question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: May I have Judge Talley seated I think we can get along much nicer. We can get along much nicer if he sits down.

Mr. Talley: Is that all that is bothering you?

9617 Mr. Turkus: It bothered you.

Mr. Talley: Not in the least. I had to make so many objections to your absurd questions I could not be getting up and down.

The Court: Those things happen in the best of trials.

Mr. Talley: This is not the best of trials.

Mr. Turkus: Not for Judge Talley, it is not. I agree with you.

Mr. Talley: I never saw such a thing, never; never dreamed of listening to any-9618 one like you.

Mr. Turkus: I am only a beginner.

The Court: These things happen in the best of trials and, as Judge Talley said, also in the worst of trials. Now proceed.

The Witness: Can I say something, your Honor?

The Court: No.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. The family consists of yourself, Sidney

9619

Weiss; is that right, the Weiss family? A. Consists of who?

Q. Yourself, Sidney? A. That is right.

Q. Your brother Sammy? A. That is right.

Q. A third brother Maxie? A. That is right.

Q. A fourth brother Solomon? A. That is right.

Q. A fifth brother Mendy? A. Yes.

Q. A sixth brother Mannie Weiss? A. Murray.

Q. Is he sometimes called Mannie? A. No, sir.

9620

Q. And your mother, Mrs. Weiss? A. That is right.

Q. On this birthday of all birthdays, your 26th, was Maxie Weiss at the party? A. No, sir.

Q. Was Solomon Weiss at the party? A. No, sir.

Q. Was Murray Weiss at the party? A. No, sir.

Q. And did Sammy Weiss go on to the moving pictures and the various restaurants? A. No, sir.

Q. But there was one outsider, this Mrs. Isaacson, on this birthday of all birthdays? A. That is right.

9621

Q. Wasn't this alibi about being at your birthday party on September 12, 1936, cooked up by you and others as far back as 1936?

Mr. Talley: I have to object to that question, as much as I dislike to do it. It is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial; so improper that I am almost ashamed to have to make the objection to it.

Mr. Turkus: Don't be so sensitive.

Mr. Talley: I am over-sensitive about lawyers who don't know how to conduct themselves in a court. You are one of them.

Mr. Turkus: I work for Judge O'Dwyer, not Judge Talley.

Mr. Talley: Judge O'Dwyer is welcome to you, I tell you that.

Mr. Turkus: I can see I am not very welcome to you.

9623 Mr. Talley: You certainly are not. I like a lawyer to be a gentleman.

Mr. Turkus: The feeling is mutual.

Mr. Talley: And know how to conduct himself, and you don't.

Mr. Turkus: I think you have trespassed more than anybody.

The Court: Will this ever stop?

Mr. Turkus: All right.

The Court: The Judge is not ashamed to overrule the objection.

Mr. Talley: Is the inference that your Honor would be ashamed to sustain it?

9624 Mr. Turkus: It looks like it.

Mr. Talley: I am not ashamed to take an exception to it, I tell you that.

The Court: Please.

Mr. Turkus: Now that we have gotten through with all of the sensitivity here, may we have an answer to the question?

(Pending question read.)

A. No, sir.

9625

The Court: "Cooked up" means fabricated.

The Witness: No, sir.

Q. Why, wasn't the alibi fabricated so that you could have an outsider, in addition to the members of the family, to give support to it?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9626

A. No, sir.

Q. Why, this Dottie Isaacson or Eisenstein as you call her, she has been in the society and company of Blanche Weiss for years, hasn't she? A. That is right.

Q. And she has been befriended and she is obligated to Blanche Weiss, for years, isn't she?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as calling for a conclusion; incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

9627

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Why, hasn't Blanche Weiss sheltered her in her own home when her husband Yonkel was in jail?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Improper. Exception.

A. I would not know.

9628 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Didn't Blanche and Mendy Weiss buy this woman clothes at the Gold Craft Clothes, 714 Broadway? A. I would not know it.

Q. Didn't they provide her not only with lodging and shelter but with food on the occasions when her husband, the pickbocket, was in jail?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

9629 The Court: Sustained as assuming something not on the record.

Mr. Talley: Prejudicial and decidedly improper.

Q. Wasn't Yonkel a pickpocket?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

A. I don't know.

Q. Didn't Mendy Weiss and Blanche Weiss furnish this Isaacson woman with clothing and with shelter and with food on various occasions 9630 when Mrs. Isaacson's husband Yonkel was in jail?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: He said he did not know.

Q. Why, you can even tell us right now the name of the moving picture you saw in September, 1936, can't you? A. No, sir.

Q. Why, didn't you check that up at the Capitol? A. I did not check nothing.

Q. Why, didn't you check up at the Capitol that the Capitol show September 12, 1936, got out at exactly 2:00 A. M., the midnight show? Didn't you check that? A. No, sir.

9631

Q. You remembered then from September, 1936, that you emerged from the Capitol theatre at 2:00 A. M. in the morning, didn't you? A. I did not get that.

(Question read.)

A. Yes, sir.

9632

Q. On this outstanding birthday of all birthdays, can't you remember now the picture you saw? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you, between September, 1936, and the time you took the witness-stand, either directly or indirectly check up on the name of the picture playing at the Capitol on September 12th? A. No, sir.

Q. Maybe I can help you. Wasn't it "The Gorgeous Hussy"? A. I don't know.

Q. And wasn't Robert Taylor playing one of the star leads? A. I don't know.

9633

Q. Your birthday was on September 13th, a Sunday, this birthday of all birthdays? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you celebrated on Saturday? A. That is right.

Q. You celebrated on Saturday because Monday morning you had to get up to go to work early and you did not want to be out late: is that it? A. No, we celebrated Saturday night.

Q. Now, in between September 12, 1936, and the time that you took the witness-stand, how many times have you seen Dorothy Isaacson? A. September 12, 1936?

9634 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Yes. A. Until now?

Q. Yes. A. A number of times.

Q. Many, many times? A. That is right.

Q. Between September 12, 1936, and the time that you took the witness-stand, did you and Dorothy Isaacson ever talk over the alibi? A. I asked if she remembered 1941—

Q. Just yes or no first.

9635

Mr. Talley: I ask that the witness be allowed to answer the question.

The Court: That is what the Court wants him to do.

Q. Yes or no first. Then we will find out when the conversation was.

The Court: Listen carefully to the question and answer it.

(Pending question read.)

9636 A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many times? A. I took her to Judge Talley's office.

Q. How many times did you talk over the alibi with Dorothy Isaacson? A. I took her twice to Judge Talley's office.

Q. That does not help us. You may have talked to her other times. A. I asked her once before if she remembered at my birthday party.

Q. When was that that you spoke to her about the alibi for the first time? A. In the summer of 1941.

Q. Where did you find Dorothy Isaacson in the summer of 1941? A. Downtown.

Q. Where downtown? A. I just don't remember.

Q. Why, you are the man who, in the interests of justice, were going into Brownsville to get witnesses; can't you remember as far back as the summer of 1941 where you were to meet the only outside alibi witness for your brother on a murder charge?

9638

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I seen her downtown. I don't know just where. Maybe I seen her on Grand Street; maybe I seen her on Clinton Street. I don't remember.

Q. Not "maybe". A. I don't remember. I am telling the truth. I seen her some place downtown.

9639

Q. Was it in a saloon? Was it where? What kind of premises? Was it a house? Was it a saloon? Was it a gambling joint? What kind of a place was it that you saw her? A. I just don't remember where I seen her.

Q. Can't you remember the character of the premises where you met the only outside witness to an alibi in your brother's murder charge?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9640 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

A. I just don't know where I seen her.

Q. Did you go looking for her? A. Yes.

Q. Don't you remember where you looked for her and found her in the summer of 1941? A. I went looking for her. I don't know where I found her.

Q. What place did you look for her? A. On Grand Street—

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent,
9641 irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Pretty far afield now.

The Court: The Court is allowing it on the question of memory, in view of the fact he has testified in such detail as to something which happened five years ago.

Mr. Talley: Most of the witnesses have been testifying to things they say happened five years ago.

The Court: That has nothing to do with the Court's ruling.

(Last question and answer read.)

9642

A. And Clinton Street.

By the Court:

Q. Do you mean on the street or in a residence? A. On the street.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. When you started out to search for her, did you look in the saloons? A. I did not search for her any particular day.

9643

Q. How many days did you search for her before you found her? A. You are asking me questions which I can't answer you

Q. I can see that. But on this particular day that you found her, into what kind of places did you go looking for her? Were they saloons? Were they gambling joints? A. No saloon.

Q. All right, candy stores? A. Candy stores.

Q. Restaurants? A. Candy store.

Q. Only candy store? A. In a candy store, yes, sir.

9644

Q. What candy store did you look for her in? A. On Grand Street.

Q. Grand and where? A. Grand and Pitt.

Q. Did you know where she lived? A. Yes.

Q. Did you go to her house? A. No, sir.

Q. Where did she live in the summer of '41? A. Clinton Street, I guess.

Q. What number? A. I don't know.

Q. Did you go to the house in which you guessed she lived? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not look for her in her home but you looked for her in a candy store? A. That is right.

9645

Q. Did she hang-out in a candy store?

Mr. Talley: Object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. She stood there sometimes.

Q. Was that candy store a hang-out for East Side people?

9646 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. Had you ever been to that candy store before? A. I seen her there before.

Q. What is the name of the candy store? A. I don't know.

Q. Was it Gold's? A. I don't know.

9647 The Court: He said Grand and Pitt. Wasn't Gold's at Grand and Lewis?

Mr. Turkus: It was my error in saying Gold's. It could not have been at that address that he gave.

Q. Was that the first time that you had seen this Dorothy Isaacson in reference to being an alibi witness? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was after you had talked things over with some other people, wasn't it? A. No, sir.

9648 Q. Did you go out in search of Mendy Weiss' alibi witness, Dorothy Isaacson, without talking to anybody else about it? A. That is right.

Q. You did not tell your mother about it? A. I don't remember if I told her before or after. I asked her if she remembered the incident—

Q. That is susceptible of yes or no. A. That is the only answer I can give you. I am giving you the truth.

Q. I can see that, too. Let us get along with this. Did you tell Sammy you were going out for this alibi witness? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you tell Blanche you were going to go out looking for Dorothy Isaacson? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you keep it a secret that you were going out to look for Dorothy Isaacson? A. I didn't have to look for her. I just went to see her. I asked her if she knew about it.

Q. I know that. You told us that. But did you keep it a secret from the others in the family? A. No, sir.

Q. That you were looking for Dorothy Isaacson? Whom did you tell in the family? A. I don't know who I told, if I told anybody or not.

Q. This is the summer of '41? A. That is 9650
right.

Q. When you met Dorothy Isaacson at this candy store, did you tell her what happened September 12, 1936? A. No, sir.

Q. Did she remind you what happened September 12, 1936? A. I asked her if she remembered—

Q. Answer yes or no.

Mr. Talley: I object to him being interrupted and I ask that the witness be allowed to answer the question without 9651 interruption.

Mr. Turkus: Without interruption from Judge Talley. I join in it.

Mr. Talley: Mr. Turkus stops the witness.

The Court: (To reporter) Read it.

(The following was read: "Did she remind you what happened September 12, 1936? A. I asked her if she remembered— Q. Answer yes or no.")

Mr. Talley: Then he was interrupted.

9652 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: I think it is an illuminating answer.

Mr. Turkus: All right.

Q. And did she then and there outside the candy store tell you everything that happened September 12, 1936? A. No, sir.

Q. No? A. I asked her if she remembered we went out on a birthday.

Q. And what did she say? A. She hesitated
9653 awhile and then she said yes, she remembered.

Q. So that after she hesitated for a short time, she remembered that on September 12, 1936— A. I asked her if she remembered which birthday it was. She said my 26th birthday.

Q. She remembered your 26th birthday? A. Yes, she remembered my 26th birthday.

Q. And she remembered that you went to the Brass Rail to eat, didn't she? A. I asked her—

Q. Wait. Did she remember that without your telling her? A. At that time, I don't know.

Q. Did she remember that she went to the 9654 Capitol movies with you? A. At that time I don't know. I asked her if she remembered my 26th birthday.

Q. Don't volunteer. A. Well, only way I can tell you.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor admonish the witness not to volunteer?

Mr. Talley: The witness does not need any admonition.

Mr. Turkus: Judge Taylor presides, not Judge Talley. I ask for an admonition to him not to volunteer.

9655

The Court: I did not quite understand. Did she suggest it was your 26th?

Mr. Turkus: He has already testified to that.

By the Court:

Q. Or did you suggest that to her? A. I asked her if she remembered my 26th birthday.

Q. If she remembered your 26th birthday?

9656

Mr. Turkus: He has given a contrary answer to your Honor than he stated on cross-examination.

The Court: I understand.

Mr. Talley: That is not so.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Didn't you just testify, before Judge Taylor asked you the question, that Dorothy Isaacson said she remembered your 26th birthday? A. I asked her if she remembered my birthday party.

9657

Q. Didn't you just testify? A. I asked her if she remembered my birthday party.

The Court: Please. (To reporter) Will you go back a few questions?

(Questions and answers read as directed.)

Q. After she told you she remembered your 26th birthday, did she say she remembered eating in the Brass Rail restaurant? A. I don't remember.

9658 Q. Did you suggest to her that you ate in the Brass Rail restaurant? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you suggest to her that you went to the Capitol theatre? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you suggest to her that thereafter you went to Ratner's restaurant on Delancey Street? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you suggest to her that you met in Sammy's automobile store? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you suggest to her that your mother
9659 was there; that Blanche Weiss was there, that Mendy Weiss was there; and that Sammy Weiss was there? A. No, sir.

Q. Did she suggest those items to you? A. No, sir.

Q. And after that conversation you took her to the lawyer's office? A. Not right away.

Q. How long after? A. I don't know.

Q. How many days? A. I don't know.

Q. How many weeks? A. I don't know.

Q. How many months? A. It must have been a few months, I guess.

9660 Q. After you had that conversation in which you asked Mrs. Isaacson if she remembered your birthday party and she said she remembered your 26th birthday and a few months elapsed thereafter before you took her to a lawyer's office, did you tell anybody else about your conversation with Dorothy Isaacson? A. No, sir.

Q. You kept that a secret?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

A. There is no secret.

9661

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Who was the first person that you told that Dorothy Isaacson remembered your 26th birthday? A. Nobody.

Q. Nobody at all? A. No.

Q. You mean this Court and jury were the first ones told by you? A. No, sir, no, sir. I didn't have to tell it to nobody. I just asked her if she remembered my birthday.

9662

Q. To whom did you report that? A. To nobody. I didn't have to report it to nobody.

Q. Isn't Mrs. Isaacson out in the hall? A. Yes.

Q. Is this Court and jury the first— A. No, sir. If you want to know if I took her to the lawyer's office—

Q. Don't anticipate the answer. A. I don't know what you are trying to do. Too bad I didn't have much of an education so I can tell you something. I could answer your questions properly.

9663

Q. No, it does not take education. It takes candor; it takes truthfulness. A. That is what I am telling you.

Mr. Talley: May we have this discussion cut short?

Mr. Turkus: The witness has waxed philosophical and I tried to discuss philosophy with him.

The Court: Let it be stopped. Mr. Witness, just answer questions.

Q. Here is the question. Listen. A. Slow, please, let me get it so you won't confuse.

Q. If I say something you do not understand— A. You are liable to jump down my throat.

Q. I won't jump down your throat. A. Just take it easy.

Q. You are not afraid of me, are you? A. No, sir.

Q. All you have to do is to speak slowly. We will get along very nicely. Is this Court and jury the first persons who heard you report 9665 what Dorothy Isaacson told you outside the candy store in the summer of 1941? A. No, sir.

Q. Who was the first person that heard that report from you? A. You mean after I spoke to her?

Q. Yes. A. Mr. Cuff.

Q. How long after you spoke to Mrs. Isaacson was that? A. I don't know.

Q. Was it two months, three months? A. A few months. I don't know.

Q. Did you and Mrs. Isaacson and Sammy and Blanche sit down together at any time and talk 9666 over the alibi? A. First time was in Mr. Cuff's office.

Q. Where you all sat down and discussed the alibi? A. Yes. Sammy was not there.

Q. Then Blanche was there, Dorothy was there, and you were there? A. That is right.

Q. And the three of you discussed the alibi? A. We told it to Mr. Cuff.

Q. The three of you had a conference together? A. We told it to Mr. Cuff.

Q. One reminding the other? A. No; Mr. Cuff was asking us questions.

Q. Were the three of you questioned together in the same room? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did the three of you compare notes with each other? A. We had no notes.

Q. Well, I mean comparing mental notes, each one refreshing the other about what happened on this outstanding 26th birthday?

Mr. Talley: I object to the question and the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled. 9668

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you remember every detail at the time that you were in Mr. Cuff's office, that you met in Sammy's automobile place, that you ate in the Brass Rail, what time you left the Brass Rail, what time you got at the Capitol for the midnight show, what time you got out of the Capitol, where you went to Ratner's restaurant, who drove the car, and what happened afterwards? Did you know all of that yourself? A. No, sir. 9669

Q. Well, who helped you remember that? A. I spoke to Blanche. I spoke to Dottie and I got the story.

Q. Isn't it a fact that long before you ever reached Mr. Cuff's law office, and going way back years ago, you and Blanche and Dorothy Isaacson and your brother cooked up this alibi? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

9670 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Redirect

Mr. Talley: The form of the question is highly objectionable. I take an exception.

Redirect examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Were you present in my office with Muggsy Cohen on the day that the District Attorney was referring to that you met him in front of my place with your sister? A. Yes, sir.

9671 Q. Did you hear him make a statement to me? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you hear him tell me that he had been in the District Attorney's office—

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute, your Honor.

Q. —in May of 1941—

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, this is objectionable.

Mr. Talley: Let me finish my question.

9672 Mr. Turkus: Oh, no, you cannot put before the jury something improper.

Mr. Talley: I ask to have my question upon the record before there is any objection.

The Court: Finish the question. Then the objection will be taken without disturbance and the Court likewise without disturbance will rule.

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, it is obvious from—

The Court: Finish the question.

9673

Mr. Turkus: It is improper what he heard.

(Pending question read.)

Q. in the month of May, 1941?

Mr. Turkus: It is improper.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception. I call your Honor's attention—

The Court: Don't argue.

9674

Mr. Talley: I don't think it will be necessary.

The Court: Don't call attention. I will excuse the jury if you are going to do that because I know why you are doing it.

Mr. Talley: Can't I state to the jury—

The Court: I told you to take your exception and let it go at that. I know the rules of evidence. The jury does not.

Q. Did Cohen tell you that he had been in the District Attorney's office and talked with Bernstein in May of 1941?

9675

Mr. Turkus: Objection.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: This is improper.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: And reprehensible under the ruling of the Court.

Q. Did he tell you that in May, 1941, he saw Mr. Turkus there in the presence of Mr. Bernstein?

9676 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Redirect

Mr. Turkus: Just a minute. Will your Honor admonish counsel?

The Court: Do you object?

Mr. Turkus: I certainly do, most vehemently.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Mr. Turkus: And I ask further—

The Court: I cannot talk against you, Mr. Turkus. The objection is sustained and counsel for the defendant Weiss is 9677 admonished to go no further with this line of questions.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: It is grossly improper.

Q. The District Attorney asked you about your interviews with Muggsy Cohen. Do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you tell us what Muggsy Cohen said to you?

Mr. Turkus: It is objectionable.

The Court: Sustained.

9678 Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you see the statement given to me by Maggsy Cohen, taken by a stenographer in my office?

Mr. Turkus: Objection. It is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled. Just answer yes or no.

A. Yes.

Q. And you personally were in my room during the entire time that Muggsy Cohen was talking to me? A. Yes, sir.

9679

Q. There was nobody else present except yourself, Cohen, my stenographer and myself; is that right? A. That is right.

Mr. Talley: In order that my record may be complete, does your Honor wish me to understand that I can ask no further questions as to the conversations had between this witness and Muggsy Cohen, in view of the fact that the District Attorney, reading from a statement—

9680

The Court: Wait a minute. The jury is excused.

Mr. Talley: —a typewritten statement, interrogated this witness.

The Court: The jury is excused. See how far you go.

(The jury retired from the court-room.)

The Court: All right.

9681

Mr. Talley: If your Honor pleases, it is apparent to me that I have been unable to make my position clear to your Honor.

The Court: Perfectly clear.

Mr. Talley: If I had made it clear to your Honor, your Honor could not make the rulings that you are now making.

The Court: Perfectly clear.

Mr. Talley: The District Attorney in his cross-examination of this witness—

Mr. Turkus: May the witness be excluded during this discussion of law?

The Court: Yes.

9682 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Redirect

(Witness leaves the court-room.)

Mr. Talley: —asked him as to the details of a conversation that he had with Muggsy Cohen. He asked him what Muggsy Cohen had said to him and what he said to Muggsy Cohen. He read from a typewritten statement what was apparently a statement which he claims or would represent to be a statement given to him by Cohen in the District Attorney's 9683 office. The door was flung wide open by the introduction of that matter, that statement, and the questions asked of this witness. The door was opened to give defendant the right to question this witness at length as to what the complete conversation was. The District Attorney, by well recognized rules of evidence, has no right to elicit part of a conversation and then attempt to close the door, with the Court's aid, to the complete conversation which would give the jury an opportunity 9684 to understand the entire picture that is being presented. The District Attorney elicited from this witness that he brought Muggsy Cohen to my office; that a statement was made by Muggsy Cohen to me. He brought out that it was made in the presence of a stenographer. I submit that you cannot close the door upon that entire transaction, that it would be rank injustice to this defendant for you to do it; it would be unfair to put the responsibility on this jury of interpreting these things unless they get them in their entirety.

The Court: The argument is so at variance with the rules of evidence that the Court takes a view that it is really addressed to the gentlemen of the press. Are you through?

Mr. Talley: I don't think I ought to be called on to say anything more after that insult that I have just received from your Honor. What do I care about the press in this case? I am concerned with the client whom I represent here and I object and I resent that statement which your Honor has made before. I care nothing about the gentlemen of the press here or what the newspapers say. I am only concerned with one thing and that is to see that this man, Mendy Weiss, gets a fair trial and he is not going to get it with your Honor making statements like that about counsel. I except to your Honor's statement, to your Honor's comment. It is highly improper and untrue.

9686

The Court: The Court's patience and forbearance will continue. Are you all through? Are you through?

9687

Mr. Talley: I am through arguing the point that I have been attempting to make plain to your Honor, that the door has been opened to the admission of this testimony. On that I am finished for the moment.

The Court: Bring back the jury.

Mr. Talley: And I want to note upon the record my objection to your excusing the jury on these occasions when I have attempted to state my position upon these 9688 matters of evidence, what I claim to be your Honor's erroneous rulings.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Talley: That is prejudicial in itself.

Mr. Turkus: May the record note that Muggsy Cohen—

The Court: Let us have an end to this.

(The jury returned to the court-room.)

9689 The Court: Bring in the witness.

(The witness resumed the stand.)

The Court: All right. Proceed.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. Did you hear all that Cohen said to me? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were asked about a conversation you had over in Brownsville with Cohen when you 9690 asked him to come over to your attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And tell what happened. Do you remember that? A. Yes.

Q. Tell us all that conversation, please. What did he tell you?

Mr. Turkus: I object to this.

The Court: Sustained. This is strictly under the rules of collateral impeachment.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: And that rule will be upheld strictly.

9691

Mr. Talley: You cannot uphold that rule against the defendant where it is elicited on cross-examination.

The Court: The jury is excused again. Gentlemen of the jury, this time I will give you lunch. It is not worthwhile bringing you back for five minutes. Do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open.

Mr. Talley: I object to the jury being excused at this juncture of the case as being prejudicial. 9692

The Court: You want the jury to hear your speech and they are not going to hear it. The jury may leave.

Now the defendants are remanded.

(A recess was thereupon taken to 1:30 P. M.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

TRIAL RESUMED 9693

The Court: Judge Talley, before recess you objected to the exclusion of the jury during a discussion on points of evidence. On second thought, the Court was of the opinion there might be something to that —the jury might form an impression that these were occasions of discord between the Court and counsel. For that reason I simply recessed.

The jury is now here and the witness is out of the room. If you will be patient and take your seat, I will try to straighten out that situation, and, possibly, to your satisfaction. At any rate, I think you will understand that the Court is trying to rule according to the laws of evidence. With the question of counsel raising his voice and adopting a truculent attitude in his manner of address to the Court, the Court will overlook that. The Court realizes that this trial involves unusual stress, and even counsel with great legal training and learning are human, and when anything in the way of disorder occurs the Judge must try his utmost to keep his head and not permit himself to be sensitive or annoyed. So that will be just forgotten.

9694

9695

Now, referring to my notes of the cross-examination in regard to the incident in your office, I find nothing there which in any way reflects upon you or upon the conduct of your own office. I shall read you precisely what I put down and can assure you that anything I did not put down I considered of no evidentiary value whatever. "Saw Muggsy early September: admitted suggesting to Muggsy he meet Weiss's lawyer: later contact Muggsy same matter. They met in front of 40 Wal Street at Talley's office. Muggsy had a man with him: had a drink, and then all went to Talley's office. Denies asking Muggsy in a private room what had occurred in the District Attorney's office. Took Muggsy home." Now, that is all I took down.

9697

Of course, the prosecution, under the rules of evidence, was entitled, in cross-examination, to develop, if it could, anything in the way of collateral impeachment arising from this incident. But it did not do so, because, under the rules of collateral impeachment, when the witness who is being cross-examined says "No," that closes the book on that point and the cross-examining counsel may not thereafter put anybody on the stand under the theory of collateral impeachment and try out that issue. He is bound by that answer.

9698

(At this point the defendants entered the courtroom.)

The Court: I did not notice the defendants were not in while I was calling that to your attention. I do not think you want to make any point of their absence. If anybody makes the point, we will have it read.

9699

Mr. Talley: I make no point of the absence of the defendants during your Honor's statement.

Defense Counsel: No objection.

The Court: Of course, putting myself in the position of counsel sitting in the trial of a case, having this brought out before the jury, I know I would feel, if I was the lawyer in the case, that my honor was, in the eyes of the jury, impugned. But looking at it as a judge, that is not correct; and

9700 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Redirect

I so instruct the jury, that it does not reflect on your office in any way whatsoever.

Now, had the witness under cross-examination on that inquiry given affirmative answers as to anything alleged to have been related to counsel for Weiss, then that would, to a certain extent, possibly to a full extent, open the door by way of contention, of other matter for disclosure of the interview which would shed a light upon a further explanation of what the witness admitted. But the witness admitted nothing except what I have just read, and from my notion it does not go to the extent of collateral impeachment because of the negative answers of the witness. After all, soliciting Muggsy to go to your office was proper. Either side has the right to seek out anybody and quiz him and take him to the lawyer's office. The lawyer has a right to quiz him—a witness does not belong to either side, and there is no impropriety in that. There is no impropriety in having a drink, certainly; and there is no impropriety, so far as I can see, in taking home a witness who had to go all the way from Brownsville to No. 40 Wall Street.

9702

Now, the Court has really tried to be in good faith. I think maybe it would be a good thing if you just allowed the matter to rest there. But if you are not satisfied, if you still challenge the good faith of the Court, the Court would be obliged to patiently permit you your right to take an exception to what the Court has said or done.

9703

Mr. Talley: Judge Taylor, I have at no time attempted or designed to impugn the good faith of the Court. I do quarrel with your rulings upon this matter, because I do not agree with them, and I do not think they are correct and proper rulings. I at no time was concerned with the fear that my good faith or my—what shall I use—my integrity was being impugned by any of these suggestions. The point I was trying, apparently ineffectually to make, 9704 was that the witness, being interrogated about conversations which he had with Cohen, the District Attorney established an open door for me to present to the jury the entire conversation and the statement which was made in the presence of this witness in my office. I am willing to offer in evidence the statement he made to me then and there. I tried to lay the foundation for that when Cohen was on the stand. Now that Cohen has left the stand this witness was interrogated in detail, but 9705 from a written statement, ostensibly and apparently a statement given to the District Attorney by Cohen himself. When that door was opened, I had the right to present to the jury the entire statement that was made in my office in the presence of that witness, as to what Cohen said of the actual happening. Despite what your Honor has just stated, I am still of the opinion that the law of evidence permits me to do that precise thing. The door has been opened by cross-examining into it. There is just one more thing: It is not the question of my attempting to impeach any witness—or my own witness on the stand, Weiss; I am endeavoring to bring out all the details of the conversation by the witness, emanating from Muggsy Cohen. That is not an attempt to impeach this witness, and I submit, respectfully, I have a very definite and precise right to bring that out, and that your Honor, in preventing me from bringing it out, is committing a serious error 9707 in your ruling in this case.

The Court: The Court will instruct the jury, when a witness is under cross-examination and impeachment is sought, and the witness answers in the negative to any question which, if answered in the affirmative would tend to impeach, that the jury will disregard the question and form no impression from it, whether read from a paper—whether apparently read from a paper—or otherwise. Under the rules of evidence, this method of cross-examina-9708 tion cannot be avoided.

Now, Judge Talley, you have your exception, and I think that your Honor has been vindicated. I have never known you to do a dishonorable act. I am sure you are incapable of doing a dishonorable act, so please do not be sensitive about anything brought out in relation to that incident in your office.

Now, there was a possibility of this having been developed: that, had the witness admitted that preliminary to your examination of Muggsy he had taken him into a private room and had given him instructions as to what he was to say—that then another rule of evidence would come in—a rule as to fabrication. But that has not been developed. That will have to be disregarded.

Suppose we go ahead with the case? I think with that explanation, possibly everybody is in better poise now than before lunch.

Mr. Talley: May I note an exception to 9710 your Honor's statement of what your Honor regards is the law in this case?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Talley: And I want to express my appreciation of your Honor's expression of confidence in me. I assure you I was not concerned about that at all.

The Court: I am more concerned, Judge, with mutual esteem and friendship between counsel and the Court than with the many things in connection with this case, because it will soon be over. But I hope that the friendship between the 9711
Court and counsel will be lasting.

Mr. Talley: I have no fear or doubt on that score, I assure you.

SIDNEY WEISS, a witness in behalf of the defense, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

Mr. Talley: I offer in evidence a certified copy of a birth certificate of the witness Sidney Weiss, certificate dated June 12, 1941, certified by the Acting Assistant Registrar of Records, City of New York.

9712 Sidney Weiss—For Defts.—Redirect

(Received without objection and marked Defendants' Exhibit 10.)

Redirect examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. This twenty-sixth birthday celebration of yours is impressed upon your mind because you had a quarrel with Mendy just before that?

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as leading, suggestive, and brought out on direct.

The Court: That was answered. Ob-
9713 jection sustained.

Mr. Talley: Exception. I have no further questions. Perhaps I had better indicate what this is to the jury.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Talley: This, gentlemen of the jury, is a birth certificate in the usual form issued by the City of New York, Department of Health, Bureau of Records. It certifies: "The foregoing is a true copy of the record in the custody of the Registrar of Records." I need not read it in 9714 full. It says, "Below is a photostatic copy of certificate filed in the Bureau of Records, Department of Health, City of New York," and certifies as to the birth of Sidney Weiss, as being September 13, 1910. The residence of the mother is given as 415 East 3rd Street. Then it gives other details. Of course, it is subject to your inspection, but the important thing shows that he was born the 13th of September, 1910, which would make him 26 years old on the 13th of September, 1936.

SAMUEL WEISS, residing at No. 10 Monroe Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York, called as a witness in behalf of the defendants, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. You are a brother of the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you presently in the service of the United States Army? A. Yes, sir.

9716

Q. You are what is generally known as a private? A. Selective draft.

Q. You are attached to your regiment where? A. At Fort Jackson, 13th Infantry.

Q. Fort Jackson is in South Carolina? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been in the service? A. March 29, 1941.

Q. You were drafted at that time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not avoid the draft? A. No, sir.

Q. You did not try to be deferred? A. I did try to be deferred for two months or so.

9717

Q. After that you presented yourself and were selected for service? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember the night of the 12th of September, 1936? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was your place of business at that time? A. 226 East Broadway, New York.

Q. What was the business you were engaged in? A. Automobiles.

Q. How long prior to your being brought into the service were you in that business? A. Well,

9718 Samuel Weiss—For Defts.—Direct

I was in that business since 1935 to 1938, but before I was brought in the service I was not in business.

Q. Where did you say your place was? A. 226 East Broadway.

Q. Were you living at your mother's home at that time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where was that? A. No. 10 Monroe Street.

Q. How far generally was No. 10 Monroe
9719 Street from 226 East Broadway? A. About seven or eight blocks.

Q. Were you in your place of business at 226 East Broadway at or around ten o'clock or 10:30 o'clock on Saturday night, September 12, 1936? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see your mother there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see your brother Sidney Weiss? A. I did.

Mr. Turkus: I object to the leading questions.

9720 The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Who did you see at your place of business that night? A. My mother came in; I saw my brother Sidney, and at about 10 o'clock or so my brother Mendy came in.

Q. Your mother was the first one to arrive? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then who came next? A. My brother Sidney.

Q. Then, after Sidney came, and your mother was there, you say Emanuel came in? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he come in a car? A. He pulled over in a car and he came in alone.

Q. He came in your shop alone? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see who was in the car he came with?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to. The witness said he came alone.

9722

Q. I am speaking about the car—he said he came in his place of business alone.

Mr. Turkus: I object to that as leading.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Was anybody in the car with your brother Mendy when he came there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. His wife and her friend Dotty.

Q. Did you see them drive away? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Mendy driving the car? A. Yes, sir.

9723

Q. Who was in the car when he drove away? A. My mother, my brother Sidney Weiss, Mendy's wife, this girl friend Dotty, and Mendy himself, driving.

Q. They drove away, you don't know where they went? A. No, sir.

Q. You remained in your place of business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At what time do you say it was when they drove away? A. About 10 o'clock.

9724 Samuel Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. How do you fix in your recollection this night?

Mr. Turkus: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. It was my brother Sidney's birthday, and they were going out to celebrate.

9725 Mr. Turkus: People's Exhibit Z-26 for identification is offered in evidence.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, not properly identified, not proper cross-examination.

Mr. Turkus: It has been identified by the preceding witness as a picture of this man, his own brother.

Mr. Talley: There is no theory upon which that can be admitted that I ever heard of.

9726 The Court: There is a theory, but it has not been developed.

Objection sustained.

Cross examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Look at the picture, Z-26 for identification, and tell this Court and jury if that is not your picture. A. The face is mine in the picture.

Q. The face is yours? A. Maybe—it is even darker than the rest of the picture. That is not my picture.

Q. You examined so much of People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, as showed the face, that is your picture? A. The face is my picture.

Q. The body and the rest of the material thereon is not yours? A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you take this picture yourself? A. I don't know the picture.

Q. Aren't you an amateur photographer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you taken pictures of yourself? A. Sure, I have. 9728

Q. Isn't People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, the face, body, and everything on it, one of the pictures you took yourself as an amateur? A. Is that the number you just called it?

Q. Yes. A. That is not my picture, sir.

Q. Did your brother Sidney Weiss talk to you after recess yesterday about this picture? A. He did not have—

Q. Yes or no, did he? A. I cannot answer that yes or no; he said the picture was—

Q. Just a minute. After recess yesterday—cannot you answer yes or no whether or not 9729 your brother spoke to you about a picture of you that he saw when he was on the witness stand? A. No, sir, I cannot say yes or no.

By the Court:

Q. What can you say? A. With an explanation I can say.

Q. Go ahead. A. He said the picture is covered and the face as shown, it looked like me 9730 because it had glasses. He did not know, he said he was not convinced.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. The picture was not covered at all? A. That is what he said, just from the glasses.

Q. He said the picture was covered? A. He said it was held in such a way it was covered; all he could see was the glasses.

9731 Q. What was covered? A. That is the only thing he spoke to me about, the picture, and I know I had some pictures, not this kind, made in the regular process, that were stolen from the house—in fact, a lot of things were stolen from there. And I thought it may have been that picture, but I just discovered it.

Q. Didn't your brother say to you—now, answer this yes or no—that he saw a picture while he was on the witness stand yesterday? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't he tell you that he identified that 9732 picture as your picture? A. He did not say identified—he said—

Q. Yes or no. A. I cannot answer that; it is impossible.

Q. If you cannot answer yes or no, say so, and we will get along very well. A. I cannot answer it yes or no.

Q. Did you talk with anybody after you spoke to Sidney Weiss in connection with a picture which he saw in the court room? A. No, sir.

9733

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Is the answer no? A. I said no.

Q. So the only one concerning whom you had a conversation yesterday with regard to the picture exhibited to your brother Sidney in court was Sidney himself, is that correct? A. That is right.

9734

Q. You say you have taken pictures of your own before? A. That is right.

Q. Pornographic pictures?

Mr. Talley: I object.

A. Pornograph?

Q. Don't you know what a pornographic picture is?

The Court: Indecent.

9735

A. No, sir. I have never taken indecent pictures.

Q. Did you ever take any lewd or indecent pictures of yourself?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. The suggestion conveyed in the District Attorney's question is improper and should not be permitted.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9736 Samuel Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

A. No, sir, no indecent pictures.

Q. You say certain papers were stolen from your home? A. That is right.

Q. Pictures of you? A. Pictures of me, yes, sir.

Q. Do you know who the thief was? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

9737 Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Don't you know— A. (Interrupting) Now, wait a minute, I said stolen. They were taken by the police authorities. I am sorry I said "stolen". I meant they were taken without my consent or without the consent of anybody. That is what I meant by "stolen".

Q. Were those police officers government agents? A. I don't know who they were.

Q. Was the picture, People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, one of the pictures removed from your home by the government agent? A.

9738 No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I object. He said it was not his picture.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you recognize the background of the picture?

Mr. Talley: I object.

9739

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Just a chair.

Q. Do you recognize the chair? A. I do not see it complete.

Q. What part of it that you do see do you recognize? A. It may be one like we have at home; it may be, I am not sure.

Q. Look at that again and see if it is not one of the chairs you have home. A. I cannot see; 9740 that is a very poor picture.

Q. That does not tell you, and you yourself are an amateur photographer—you have taken better pictures? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Better pictures of that style? A. No, sir, not of that style; I never took that picture.

Q. Do you recognize the portion of the chair nearest the foot of the person on People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification—the lace on it—as being a piece of lace on a chair in your home? A. I do not recognize it.

9741

Mr. Talley: I object. He is trying to get before the jury the contents of a paper not in evidence.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Look at it. A. I do not recognize it.

Q. The chair that you have at home or did have at home, that looks similar to the chair in this portrait, does that have lace on it? A. No, sir.

9742 Samuel Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Is that a tidy, an old fashioned tidy?

Mr. Turkus: You can look at it, Judge.

The Court (Examining picture): A tidy over the back of a barrel chair.

Q. At the Court's suggestion, do you recognize the thing called a tidy on the back of that chair?

9743 Mr. Talley: I object to this entire line of questioning while the paper is not in evidence in the case.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception

(Question repeated by reporter.)

A. I do not.

The Court: There is another name for that besides barrel— I think it is "channel" back.

9744 Q. You are familiar with your body, aren't you?

Mr. Talley: I object. That is a silly question in the first place, and incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Witness: Of course, I am.

Q. Look at the chest and see if you recognize that in People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification.

Mr. Talley: I object, referring to a paper not in evidence.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I cannot see much of the chest.

Q. Look at it. A. I cannot see it

Q. I can see plenty of it. Look at it.

The Court: Look at the breast bone. Can you see that?

The Witness: I can see it, but I would not say it is mine. 9746

Q. Do you deny it is your chest?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you deny that the chest and the breast bone on People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, is yours? 9747

Mr. Talley: I object to the testimony, inquiring about a matter not in evidence.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. It is not mine.

Q. Have you got hair on your chest similar to the hair on the chest of People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification?

Mr. Talley: I think that emphasizes

9748 Samuel Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

the force of the objection I have made, and I object to it now.

Mr. Turkus: That is not an objectionable part of the picture.

Mr. Talley: The objection is he is endeavoring to get before the jury the contents of a paper not in evidence.

The Court: That part of it will do no harm. Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9749 Q. Look at the formation of the hair on the chest.

Mr. Climenko: May I have a general objection to this line, and an exception to the admission of the answers to these questions?

The Court: Yes.

The Witness: That is not mine. I have more hair than that.

Q. Look at the hair down to the stomach and 9750 see if you recognize that as being the hair on your own stomach.

Mr. Talley: Don't you see what we are getting before the jury—an attempt to get before the jury the contents of this paper which is not in evidence.

Mr. Turkus: We will not go any further on that.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Now, you wear glasses? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever sit in a channel chair of that type, nude?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, particularly upon the ground I stated before, that he is endeavoring to acquaint the jury with the contents of a photograph not in evidence in this case.

The Court: Leave out nude.

Mr. Talley: I object to the question. 9752

Mr. Turkus: I withdraw the question.

Q. Did you ever sit in a chair like that?

The Court: That is not an ordinary chair.

Q. Did you ever sit in a chair in your own home? A. I think we have something similar to it now.

Q. How long have you had such a similar chair in your own home? 9753

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I cannot say it is a picture of this chair there—we have something like that, a back like that. We have one like that since 1934.

Q. Look at the rest of the picture and see if you can identify the rest of it as belonging to your body—all of it. A. Absolutely no; only the face, that is all.

Q. You have had quite a bit of experience as an amateur photographer? A. No, sir, very little.

Q. Enough to take pictures of yourself? A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

9755 Q. How do you do it? Tell the jury. A. I don't know what you mean. Your own picture?

Q. Yes. A. There is a self-timer on the camera—a self-timer is set and after the lapse of about ten seconds it will go on. It is built into the camera.

Q. You mean after setting it for ten seconds you would have to quickly take a pose? A. When the picture is taken, if there is any motion to your body, there is a failure.

Q. You don't have to use a pneumatic tube to squeeze? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What kind of a camera is it? A. What?

9756 Q. The one you used? A. At present I own an Ikonta B.

Q. How long have you used it? A. A short while.

Q. Before that what did you have? A. I had some other cameras.

Q. You always changed them? A. I can give you a list.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Have you ever posed for nude, incedent, pornographic pictures?

9757

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, an attempt to get before the jury something which is not in evidence.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Can you identify the handwriting on the back of People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, the portion of it which has a name on it? A. The handwriting?

9758

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. Or the name? A. The name is my name.

Q. Do you know in whose handwriting it is? A. No, sir.

Q. Look at the front of the picture and see if you can identify the numbers on the front as anybody's handwriting. A. No, sir.

The Court: Let me see that handwriting.

9759

By the Court:

Q. What is the size of that picture? A. About three inches by four and one-half.

Q. Do you have a camera of that size? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever have one of that size? A. No, sir.

Q. How many cameras have you had? A. Maybe seven or eight, maybe six; the smallest I had was two and a quarter by three and a quarter—the one I have at the present time is two and a quarter square.

9760 Samuel Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. You are in the Army, you have no time now, have you? A. It is a good size negative, two and a quarter square.

Q. That is quite small? A. No, sir, they have cameras thirty-five millimeters.

Q. You mean in the Army you cannot carry a large camera? A. No, sir.

Q. What size do you say this is (indicating 9761 photograph)? A. This is about three by four and a quarter.

The Court: Three and a half by four and a half—one-eighth inch less than four and a half.

The Witness: That may be due to the size of the paper on which the print is—the negative may be larger.

Q. Were you present at your home when a United States Government agent removed pack-9762 ages? A. No, sir.

Q. Who was, do you know? A. My mother and a friend of mine.

Q. Who is your friend? A. Louis Keltz.

Q. Where does Louis Keltz live? A. 2149 Clinton Avenue, Bronx.

Q. What is his business? A. He is in the auto rental business now.

Q. Did you ascertain whether the pictures were removed from your room as you heretofore stated? A. Well, he told me that many things were taken; he does not know what they were; they would not let him see.

Q. But, from your room? A. My pictures are kept in a desk.

Q. In your room? A. In the living room where I sleep.

Q. You slept in the living room and the pictures which were taken by the government agent were removed from the room in which you slept? A. Yes, sir, pictures and other things.

Q. Now, as an amateur photographer, how do you account for your head being on the rest of this picture, People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification? 9764

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, too far afield.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Perhaps the District Attorney can explain. There is such a thing as trick photography. There is a lot of framing done. I did not do that. 9765

Q. So that you can account for it as being based on trick photography? A. I don't know; it may be. There are a lot of things that can be done with photographs. You can take ten pictures and make one out of them; you can add clothes to it where there originally were not any clothes.

Q. (By the Court) Do you know how that is done? A. No, sir, I have never done it. I have read about it.

Q. Look at People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, can you say if you cannot recognize some of the background as being the background of the picture of your own living room?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as already gone over.

A. Yes, there was a dark background there.

Q. What about that which appears to be a curtain, does that refresh your recollection?

9767 Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I see no curtain.

Q. In the back of the head? A. There is no curtain in the back of the head.

Q. To the side of it—

Q. (By the Court) Is that there a tidy? A. That is no curtain; there is a tidy on the back of the chair and a tidy also on the arm of the chair.

Q. What other background do you recognize 9768 there? A. What looks like a curtain. There is no curtain in the picture. That is peculiar, in place of a curtain.

The Court: It is not a curtain, that is a tidy.

Q. Before you took the witness stand today had you ever seen that People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification? A. Is that the picture (indicating)?

Q. Yes. A. Never.

Q. Do you recognize the left arm as being your left arm?

Mr. Talley: I object. It is an attempt to get before the jury the contents of a paper not in evidence.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. The picture is not very clear and I cannot tell. I would say no.

The Court: Let us see the left arm. Do you mean the left arm or the right arm? 9770

Mr. Turkus: First we are asking about the left arm; then we will get to the right arm later.

Q. (By the Court) Do you recognize the arm? A. I think I answered that.

Q. Do you know whether it was necessary for a nude man to take this picture? A. I do not know who it was; I never saw him.

Q. Look at the fingers on the right hand. Does that help refresh your recollection as to whose hand it is? 9771

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I cannot tell; it is not mine.

Q. How do you account for the picture of your head, which you admit was taken, with your eyes closed?

Mr. Talley: I object. He is not called upon to account for it; it is incompetent, immaterial.

9772 Samuel Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

By the Court:

Q. Can you account? A. I can.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Can you account how the eyes in the picture, People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, 9773 are focused upon some other part of the picture, People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification, if the head alone is yours?

Mr. Talley: I object. It is an effort to get before this jury the contents of a paper which is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection sustained.
The Witness: Can you see the eye?

Q. Did you at any time assume the position
9774 and do the act portrayed on People's Exhibit Z-26, for identification?

The Court: No, not that.
Mr. Talley: I object to it as highly improper. I think your Honor should terminate this type of examination.
The Court: The Court terminates it right now. That is as far as you can go.
Mr. Turkus: I am through with the witness then.
Mr. Talley: If your Honor please, in view of this persistent examination that has been conducted by the District Attorney, I move for the withdrawal of a juror and the declaration of a mistrial because it is so highly prejudicial and I don't believe a fair trial can be given to these defendants hereafter.

The Court: Motion denied.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

DOROTHY ISAACSON, residing at 148 Clinton Street, Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York, called as a witness on behalf of the defense, after being duly sworn, testified as follows: 9776

Direct examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Mrs. Isaacson, do you know the defendant Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you know his wife? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you known his wife? A. Over twelve years. 9777

Q. Were you brought up in the same neighborhood together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Down in the lower East Side of New York, in the Borough of Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you kept up your acquaintance with her during the past twelve years? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You and she are very good friends? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember the night of September 12, 1936? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In whose company were you that night? A.

Blanche, Mendy Weiss, his mother, Sidney and myself.

Q. Where were you before ten o'clock on that night? A. At Blanche's apartment.

Q. Blanche is Mrs. Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you visiting her there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you frequently visited her there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you stay at her house previous to that date? A. Yes, sir.

9779 Q. And over night? A. Many times.

Q. You are a frequent visitor there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What happened that evening with respect to your going out any place? A. Well, Blanche told me that Mendy was going to pick her up later in the evening and we were going out to celebrate Sidney's birthday.

Q. She invited you to go out to celebrate Sidney's birthday? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you and Mrs. Weiss leave the house together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. With whom? A. With Mendy.

9780 Q. Did he call for you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember at what time he called for you? A. At about nine o'clock.

Q. At night? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he have a car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you and Mrs. Weiss—

Mr. Turkus: I object to counsel leading the witness now; it is leading and suggestive.

The Court: Sustained. Reframe your question.

Q. Did you go somewhere with Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go? A. We got into the car and we drove down to Sammy Weiss's store.

Q. Who was driving the car? A. Mendy.

Q. You and Mrs. Weiss got in the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You drove to Sammy's place? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember where that was?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as repetitious and leading. 9782

Mr. Talley: It is not leading if you ask where the place was. Nothing can be less leading that that.

The Court: Objection overruled.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where? A. On East Broadway.

Q. When you got there did Mendy do anything? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he do. A. He walked out of the car and over to the store.

Q. What store did he walk to? A. To the 9783 place, the auto rental.

Q. Is that Sammy's place of business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you and Mrs. Weiss remain in the car? A. We did.

Q. Did you see Mendy go into Sammy's place? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did anybody come out of Sammy's place and get into the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who did? A. Mendy's mother and Sidney.

Q. Then did Mendy get into the car? A. Yes.

9784 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Direct

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as leading and suggestive.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Who got in the car?

Mr. Turkus: Objected to as already answered.

Mr. Talley: You object to it first as leading, and then when I ask a question to lead up to it, you object.

9785 Mr. Turkus: She said the mother and Sidney got in the car.

Q. Who get in the car with Mendy? A. Mrs. Weiss and Blanche.

The Court: Let us get this straightened out. Who did you say it was? Mrs. Weiss, the mother, Blanche and Mrs. Weiss and yourself?

The Witness: At Blanche's home?

9786 By the Court:

Q. Yes. A. Just Blanche and myself and Mendy came and called for us.

By Mr. Talley:

Q. I think we had better call Mendy's wife Blanche and Mrs. Weiss, the mother; there are two Mrs. Weisses. Bear in mind one is Mendy's wife and the other the elderly Mrs. Weiss, the mother of these boys.

Q. Now, do you know at what time it was when you drove away from Sammy's place? A. It must have been about ten o'clock, somewheres around that time.

Q. Where did you go? A. We drove uptown.

Q. Who drove the car? A. Mendy.

Q. Where uptown did you go to? A. We went to the Brass Rail.

Q. Do you remember where that was? A. 7th Avenue and 49th Street.

Q. 49th Street? A. Around that place.

Q. Now, when you got to the Brass Rail at Broadway and 49th Street—that is Manhattan? 9788
A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do? A. Blanche, Sidney, Mrs. Weiss and myself got out of the car, and Mendy went to park the car.

Q. Then, did Mendy come back without the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go then? A. We went into the restaurant.

Q. Do you know what time it was you got into the restaurant? A. I could not remember just what time we got in the restaurant.

Q. What is your best estimate of the time? A. 9789
It must have been about a quarter to 11 o'clock, around that time.

Q. Did you have something to eat in the restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were all those persons you have mentioned present in the restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Sitting at the same table? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you remain in the Brass Rail Restaurant? A. Over an hour it must have been.

Q. That would bring it to approximately 12 o'clock? A. About that.

Q. At 12 o'clock did you go any place? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where do you remember going? A. To the movies.

Q. What theatre? A. The Capitol Theatre.

Q. That is on 7th Avenue? A. Broadway and 50th Street.

Q. Did you ride or walk to the Capitol The-9791 atre from the Brass Rail? A. We walked.

Q. Did you all, all that you have named, go into the moving pictures? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mendy was with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the elderly Mrs. Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Sidney? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Blanche? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you remain for the entire picture? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What time did you get out? A. I don't know; I do not remember exactly.

Q. What is your best recollection? A. It must 9792 have been past two o'clock.

Q. You saw the entire program, did you, in the Capitol Theatre? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then, after you came out of the Capitol Theatre, at the time you say must have been two o'clock, where did you go? A. We took a drive through the park, Central Park.

Q. This was September 12, 1936? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the weather warm, cool, cold, or rainy or what? A. I don't remember what the weather was.

Q. When you took the ride through Central Park where did you go then? A. Then we drove downtown.

Q. After you left Central Park? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How far downtown did you go and where did you go? A. We went to the East Side, we went to a restaurant, Ratner's.

Q. Where is Ratner's? A. On Delancey Street.

Q. That is away over on the extreme East Side of lower Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go into the restaurant? A. Yes, 9794
sir.

Q. How long did you remain there? A. Anywheres from three-quarters of an hour to one hour.

Q. What time would you say it was when you came out of that restaurant? A. About four o'clock.

Q. Were all of you still together in the party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you celebrating Sidney's birthday? A. Yes, sir.

Q. After you came out of that restaurant at 9795 approximately four o'clock, where did you go? A. We drove Mrs. Weiss and Sidney home.

Q. When you say Mrs. Weiss, you mean the elderly Mrs. Weiss and Sidney? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember where they lived? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where? A. At No. 10 Monroe Street.

Q. That is in the lower East Side also? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you deposit Mrs. Weiss and Sidney at that address? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You left them there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Mendy still driving the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did anybody drive that car that night except Mendy Weiss? A. No, sir.

Q. After you left the elder Mrs. Weiss and Sidney at their home on Monroe Street, where did you go then? A. Then we drove up to Blanche's home.

Q. Blanche's home was Mendy's home? A. Yes, sir.

9797 Q. Where was that? A. On 21st Street.

Q. And what avenue? A. 2nd Avenue.

Q. In Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you then go upstairs to Mendy's apartment? A. Yes, sir.

Q. At what time was it when you arrived there? A. It was about four o'clock.

Q. What did you do after you got into Mendy's apartment? A. We spoke for a while and then we started to prepare to go to bed.

Q. Did you go to bed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you sleep that night? A. I
9798 slept in the living room.

Q. On a couch? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you slept there before? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you see Mendy and Blanche do there? A. Well, they went to the bedroom and got undressed and went to bed too.

Q. Was the bedroom adjourning the living room? A. Yes.

Q. Did you see Mendy Weiss go in the bedroom? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see Blanche go in the bedroom? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say this was after four o'clock? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go to sleep? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you woke up what happened? A. When I woke up Blanche was already up.

Q. Was she getting breakfast? A. She was starting to prepare it.

Q. Did you see Mendy there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When? A. I was still lying on the couch when Mendy walked into the living room and I pretended I was asleep and he started playing around with me. 9800

Q. That evoked laughter from the rear of the court-room. Will you tell us what you mean by that? A. He started pulling my hair and tickling my toes and tried to get me off the couch.

Q. Tried to get you up? A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. What time was that? A. That was about near 12 o'clock.

Q. Noon? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Talley: 9801

Q. That would be around 12 o'clock noontime, Sunday, September 13th? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you then get up? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have your breakfast? A. I did.

Q. Did you have it with Blanche and Mendy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you have your breakfast? A. In the dining alcove.

Q. That is adjoining the kitchen and living room? A. No.

Q. Adjoining the kitchen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did it take for your breakfast at that time? A. It must have been an hour or so.

Q. Then where did you go then, do you remember? A. Then we all started to get dressed.

Q. Yes. A. And they brought me downtown, and Blanche and Mendy went to visit her father.

Q. Where did they leave you? A. In front of my house.

9803 Q. You were still in Mendy's car, were you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you last saw them, Mendy and Blanche were in the car together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see them drive off? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What time do you say it was when they left you at your house? A. It must have been after two o'clock.

Q. On Sunday afternoon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mrs. Isaacson, at this time, September 12th, September 13th, 1936, you were married? A. Yes.

9804 Q. And on that precise date where was your husband? He was away.

Q. Where? You mean in prison? A. Yes.

Q. You say you had frequently stayed overnight with Mrs. Mendy Weiss? A. Yes, very often.

Q. In that house? A. Yes.

Mr. Talley: You may examine.

Cross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Madam, what month, what day, and what year was it that Mendy Weiss tickled your toes and pulled your hair? A. He did that all the time.

Q. What? A. He did that all the time.

Q. Oh, that was not unusual for him to be so playful? A. No.

Q. Can you remember the particular month, the particular day and the year that Mendy Weiss tickled your toes in the living room when you pretended to be asleep? A. Well, I said he did that all the time that I stayed over there.

Q. Did you always pretend to be asleep when Mendy came out? A. I don't know whether I always pretended but I know I did it quite often. 9806

Q. You were a little coy about it?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, manifestly improper.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Talley: Let us get down to this lawsuit.

Q. Picture Z-27 for identification, is that a picture of your husband?

9807

Mr. Talley: I object to that as immaterial, incompetent, irrelevant; cannot see what possible bearing that would have upon this case.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. How do you spell your last name? A. (Spelling) I-s-a-a-c-s-o-n.

Q. How many years are you married? A. Eighteen.

9808 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Q. During the eighteen years that you have been married, how many different names did you live under? A. None.

Q. Did you live under the name of Levine with your husband? A. Never.

Q. Did you live under the name of Rosen? A. No.

Q. Did you live under the name of Roth? A. No.

Q. Did you live under the name of Greenberg?
9809 A. No.

Q. Under the name of Mirrin? A. No.

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, to any further enumeration of these names. The witness has stated she never lived under any other name than her own.

Mr. Turkus: Cross-examination.

Mr. Talley: That does not justify it.

Mr. Turkus: I am trying to refresh her recollection.

Mr. Talley: That is not the way to 9810 do it.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did you ever live at 342 East 5th Street? A. No.

Q. Where did you live in 1936? A. 235 Henry Street.

Q. East Side, Manhattan? A. Yes.

Q. Do you live there with your husband now? A. Yes.

Q. You say you know Mendy Weiss and Blanche Weiss for about twelve years? A. Yes.

9811

Q. Did there come a period of time when you did not visit at their home frequently? A. No.

Q. Did you visit at their home between April, 1940, and April, 1941? A. No, I did not see them at all at that time.

Q. I don't hear you. A. I did not see them at all at that time.

Q. Did they tell you that they were leaving town? A. No.

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. 9812

The Court: Sustained.

Q. When before April, 1940, was the last time you visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mendy Weiss? A. Must have been in January.

Q. And where did they live in January of 1940? A. 46th Street in Brooklyn.

Q. 46th Street in Brooklyn? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know what other avenue it was? A. I think it was 11th or 12th. I don't remember.

Q. Did they live there under the name of Newman? 9813

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Not proper cross-examination. Exception.

A. Yes.

9814 Dorothy Isaacson—For Deft's.—Cross

Q. You visited them there knowing that they were living under an alias? A. Yes.

Q. Did you visit at 230 Park Place when they lived there under the name of Hoffman?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9815 A. Yes.

Q. How often did you visit Mendy Weiss and his wife Blanche when they were living under the name of Newman? A. Once or twice a week.

Q. Did you sleep at that 46th Street apartment in Brooklyn? A. No, that was the only apartment I had never stayed over at.

Q. Did the alias Newman have anything to do with that? A. No.

Q. If you had been invited to sleep over when they lived under that alias, you would have accepted?

9816 Mr. Talley: Objected to as being purely conjecture.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. At 230 Park Place when they were living as Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, you visited there knowing they were living under an alias? A. Yes.

Q. You slept there at 230 Park Place? A. Yes.

Q. In all how many times did you sleep at Park Place? Was that about once or twice a week? A. Maybe.

Q. During the frequent times that you visited, without including the times you slept over, did you see visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mendy Weiss? A. A family of his.

Q. Other than the family? A. No.

Q. Do you know Charley (The Bug) Workman?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. We are going to have this enueration of names again. 9818

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Never heard of him? A. I have read about him.

Q. See if you remember seeing him in the apartment. I will show you a photograph which may refresh your recollection. Take a look at this photograph and see if you recognize that as the face of a man you saw in the Weiss apartment? 9819

Mr. Talley: I object to it, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial. I likewise object to a display of photographs numbering at least twenty that are now on display on the table of the District Attorney, in plain view of the jury, obviously Rogues Gallery photographs, the table upon which they rest being exactly up against the rail of the jury box. I would like your Honor to look at them. They have been gone over one after the other in the presence and in the sight of the jury before this question was asked.

Mr. Turkus: Will your Honor note the fact that the table is below the rail and that this is no display intended for the jury's eyes at all.

The Court: They are in a disordered heap but just the same I suggest you keep them in a pack like playing cards and have them covered.

9821

Mr. Talley: Now I ask your Honor to rule upon my objection to this question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember? Don't you remember seeing him at 230 Park Place?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases. The witness has seen a photograph, not identified, not in evidence, has testified she had never seen the subject of that photograph. Any further examination upon it is improper.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. How long do you know Allie Tannenbaum?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

A. I don't.

Q. Take a look at this picture and see if you knew him as a visitor at the Mendy Weiss home when he lived under the name of Hoffman in Park Place?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection. There is no evidence as to whose photograph it is. The paper is not in evidence, improper method of cross-examination, improper question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 9824

A. No.

Q. Never saw that man before? A. In Mrs. Weiss' apartment?

Q. Anywhere? A. No.

Q. What was the question intended to mean "In Mrs. Weiss' apartment?" A. I don't know.

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled. 9825

Q. Were you in doubt?

Mr. Talley: Let me have a ruling, please?

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.

Q. You asked me "In Mrs. Weiss' apartment?" Were you in doubt? A. I thought that that was what you meant, whether I had seen him in Mrs. Weiss' apartment.

Q. Yes. A. Well, I have not.

Q. Or anywhere else? A. No.

Q. Do you know Farvel Cohen? A. Yes.

Q. How long do you know Farvel Cohen? A. A few years.

Q. How many years? A. I don't know just how many.

Q. Speak up. A. I don't know just how many 9827 years.

Q. More than ten? A. No.

Q. More than five? A. About that.

Q. How many times did you see him as a visitor up in the Weiss' home?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. It was not her home; she was visiting there.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I never saw him up there either.

9828 Q. Where did you see Farvel Cohen in the five years that you have known him? A. I see him around in restaurants I used to come into downtown.

Q. What restaurants downtown? A. Ratner's.

Q. Yes. A. Blum's, that's all.

Q. How about the one at Grand and Lewis? Did you ever see him in Lewis Bar & Grill? A. I never went to that one.

Q. Did you ever go out in the society or company of Farvel Cohen?

9829

Mr. Talley: That is objected to, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. Was your husband with you on those occasions? A. Not on all of them.

Q. Were there any other gangsters in the party when you were with Farvel Cohen?

9830

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, to the form of the question as being improper, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Sustained as to form.

Q. Were there any other disreputable people in the party?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: People known to her to be disreputable or so understood by her, she can answer. In its present form that is objectionable. Sustained.

9831

Q. Who were the other people with whom you went out when you were in the company of Farvel Cohen?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. His wife.

9832 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Anyone else? You went out with Farvel Cohen and his wife when you were not out with your husband? A. Yes.

Q. Any other man in your company? A. No.

Q. Any other men in the party? A. No.

Q. Did you know Dimples Wolinsky?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

9833 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Look at this photograph and see if you recognize it?

Mr. Talley: Make the same objection that I made to the previous photograph.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Climenko: If your Honor pleases, may I have a general objection and exception to this line of interrogation?

9834

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Climenko: So that I may not interrupt.

The Court: Yes, and a standing exception.

Mr. Climenko: Thank you, sir.

Q. Do you recognize the individual on that photograph? A. I don't.

Q. Did you know Cuppie Migden? A. No.

Q. Did you know any other persons from the East Side of Manhattan?

9835

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases. Rather ludicrous question it seems to me; incompetent, irrelevant.

The Court: She lived there.

Q. Did you know any persons from the East Side of Manhattan who visited Mr. and Mrs. Mendy Weiss?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

9836

Q. On the occasions when you were there?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, too general; incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Outside of the family, do you know a single visitor who visited Mr. and Mrs. Mendy Weiss on the occasions when you were there?

9837

Mr. Talley: Same objection, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Did you ever ask Mr. or Mrs. Mendy Weiss why they were living on 46th Street in Brooklyn under a false name, Newman?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

9838 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Did you ever ask Mr. and Mrs. Mendy Weiss when they lived at 230 Park Place why they lived there under the false name of Hoffman?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
9839 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Were you at all interested in their conduct?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I approved of their conduct.

9840 Q. So that you approved of the conduct of Mendy Weiss and Blanche Weiss? A. Yes.

Q. And it met with your full approval that they lived in various places in New York City under aliases?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, whether she did or not.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. If they did I never asked them the reason why but they probably had their own reasons.

9841

Q. Yes, and whatever those reasons were they met with your approval? A. I did not know their reasons. I never asked.

Q. Did you make any inquiry as to their reasons?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: She said she never asked.

9842

Q. Did you ever ask anybody concerning the reasons — answer this yes or no — that your friends were living under the aliases in different parts of the city?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Did the business in which Mendy Weiss was engaged meet with your approval?

9843

Mr. Talley: I object to that. It is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. It would not make any difference whether it did or not.

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not know his business.

Q. And not knowing his business, it met with your approval that you slept over at his home and visited there?

9844 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I object to that.

Q. Is that it?

Mr. Talley: False conclusion. It has no bearing upon the impeachment of this witness.

Mr. Turkus: May we have simple objections, your Honor?

Mr. Talley: It is an erroneous question, should not be permitted.

9845 The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did you at any time in the twelve years that you knew Mendy Weiss and Blanche Weiss and visited there once or twice a week and slept over-night, know Mendy Weiss' business?

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9846 A. No.

Q. Did you have the slightest interest in what business he was engaged when you were a constant visitor at his home?

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Was it any of your concern with whom Mendy Weiss associated?

9847

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

Mr. Turkus: As affecting her credibility.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. This friendship of twelve years that you had with Mendy Weiss and Blanche, did you hear anything from them by way of letters, telephones, or telegrams from April, 1940, until April, 1941?

9848

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Did you get a single letter, post card, or other communication of any kind, nature, or description, directly or indirectly, from your twelve year friends?

9849

Mr. Talley: I object to it and object to the form of the question. I object to it on the ground that it has already been answered: incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Did you make any efforts to locate your friends of twelve years between April, 1940, and April, 1941?

9850 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.
Q. Did you make any inquiry as to the whereabouts of your twelve year friends, Emanuel and Blanche Weiss?

9851 Mr. Talley: Same objection.

Q. During the period of April, 1940, to April, 1941?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. The only time—
Q. Did you, madam, make any inquiry? Yes or no. A. How can I say yes or no when I want to tell you how I inquired when I did?
9852 Q. Well, if you did inquire the answer is yes; if you did not inquire the answer is no. A. Yes.
Q. From whom did you make inquiry and when?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. From her family.
Q. Her family? Did you go to Rose Simon's, her sister? A. No.
Q. Who in her family did you go to?

9853

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I met her other sister.

Q. What is her name? A. Jennie.

Q. Jennie what? A. I don't remember her second name.

Q. Where did you meet Jennie?

9854

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial, irrelevant, too remote.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. On the East Side.

Q. Where on the East Side did you meet Jennie?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9855

A. I don't remember just where.

Q. Well, that was between the period of April, 1940, to April, 1941, far less than 1936. Can't you recall?

Mr. Talley: Object to the question. The form of the question is argumentative.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. I do not hear you, madam. A. No.

Q. Was it in a house? Was it on the street? Was it in some kind of premises? A. On the street.

Q. Was the meeting with Jennie a coincidence? A. Yes.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9857

Q. You were not searching for Jennie? A. No.

Q. Where had you met Jennie before that? A. Her home.

Q. At Jennie's home? A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember her last name now? A. I just can't think of it.

Q. Meeting Jennie in this coincidental meeting as it were, did you ask for the whereabouts of Emanuel and Blanche Weiss?

9858 Mr. Talley: Object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. Is that the only inquiry you made about their whereabouts? A. The only one I can remember.

Q. Were you furnished with an address by Jennie?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, hearsay information at best but incompetent and immaterial.

9859

Mr. Turkus: That only calls for a yes or no answer.

Mr. Talley: Never mind what it calls for. It is an improper question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. You did not go to the home of Mendy Weiss' mother for the address, did you?

9860

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

A. No.

Q. You did not go to the home of Sidney Weiss, whose birthday party you attended, for the address of your twelve year friends?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, as immaterial and irrelevant what she did.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9861

Q. Did you? A. No.

Q. When for the first time did you see Mrs. Blanche Weiss, the wife of Mendy, after April of 1941? A. During the month of April.

Q. Yes, when during the month? A. I don't remember just what day.

Q. The early part of the month? A. No, it was the latter part of the month.

Q. And where did you meet her? A. I met her in Atlantic City.

9862 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Were you there with your husband? A. No.

Q. What hotel were you at?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial, irrelevant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. At the Breakers.

9863

The Court: When was this?

The Witness: The latter part of April.

Mr. Turkus: Latter part of April, 1941.

Q. Under what name were you registered?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not stop there.

Q. Where were you stopping? A. Well, 9864 Blanche checked out too and then we went to some small place.

Q. Blanche checked out of the Breakers? A. Yes.

Q. Where had you been registered before she checked out of the Breakers? A. I had just come into Atlantic City.

Q. Was she alone? A. Yes.

Q. And from the Breakers, when she checked out, where did you and Blanche go to? A. We went to some small hotel.

9865

Q. What is the small hotel? A. I don't remember. It was not even a hotel. It was a boarding house.

Q. What street was the boarding house on? A. I don't remember.

Q. What was the name of the proprietor of the boarding house? A. I don't remember.

Q. Is there any way you can identify the boarding house that you stayed in from any other boarding house in Atlantic City? A. Not unless I went there.

9866

Q. How long did you stay at the boarding house? A. Ten days.

Q. Don't you know what street it is on? A. I just can't remember. I think it was Atlantic Avenue.

Q. Near what other street was it? A. Pacific Avenue.

Q. During the ten days can't you tell us a better location than that? A. No.

Q. That is the best you can do with it? A. Best of my recollection.

9867

Q. During that ten day period that you were down in the boarding house in Atlantic City, did anybody else join the party?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; has no bearing upon anything here.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Both of you stayed down there alone for that ten day period? A. Yes.

Q. During that ten day period, did Blanche discuss with you the alibi for September 12, 1936?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. She did not.

9869 Q. She did not? A. No.

Q. You knew where Mendy Weiss was when you were down in Atlantic City with Blanche, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. At no time during that ten day period was there any discussion with Blanche Weiss as to 9870 what occurred on September 12, 1936? A. No.

Q. When you came back from Atlantic City, madam, where did you go to live? A. Home.

Q. What was your home address? A. 148 Clinton Street.

Q. With whom did you live there? A. My husband.

Q. On the occasions when he was in jail, who lived with you at 148? A. I did not live at 148.

Q. Where did you live then? A. With my sister.

Q. Did you ever live with Blanche Weiss on the occasions that your husband was in jail? A. No.

Q. How many times has he been in jail?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. No matter how many times, it is no reflection upon this woman.

The Court: She can state. Of course it has a bearing. If he was a regular criminal during a lengthy married life and she stayed with him, it would have a bearing. Overruled. 9872

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.

Q. Don't you know how many times your husband has been in jail since you have been married?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. 9873

By the Court:

Q. Since you have been married to him. Try to figure it out. A. About three times.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. And were they long stays in jail?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as immaterial, irrelevant, incompetent.

9874

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Did you know that your husband was a pickpocket when you continued to live with him after these jail terms?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.

9875

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. And did you continue to live with him, knowing he was a convicted pickpocket?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases. Don't answer when I object, madam, please.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9876

A. Yes.

Q. And did you live with him on the fruits of his criminal activities?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: The jury can figure that out. Sustained.

Q. Did you live with him knowingly on the fruits of his criminal activities?

9877

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: That is a matter of deduction for the jury. Married eighteen years.

Mr. Turkus: Twenty-four I thought she said.

The Witness: No, I said I was married eighteen years.

The Court: And she knew he was a pickpocket and she continued to live with him.

9878

Mr. Talley: She has not said that. She said she knew he was sent to jail.

Mr. Turkus: She said she knew he was a convicted pickpocket and continued to live with him knowing it.

The Court: That is what she said.

Mr. Talley: She did not say it.

Mr. Turkus: Will you please be seated?

Mr. Talley: I object to that.

The Court: She said that, Judge. (To reporter) Read it.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception. I need not have it read back. I have your Honor's ruling.

9879

The Court: Never mind then.

By the Court:

Q. He supported you? A. Yes, your Honor.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q Did you associate with your husband's

9880 associates during the eighteen years you have been married to him?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. And among those associates were there other pickpockets?

9881

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Calling for a conclusion.

A. No.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Were there any thieves among the associates of your husband that you have been going out with in the eighteen years of your marriage?

9882

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. No disreputable characters—

Mr. Talley: I object.

Q. Or exconvicts were in your party when you went out with your husband on any occasions?

Mr. Talley: Object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Did you know Unga, George Unga, at East 101st Street?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. 9884

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Who?

Q. George Unga at 3 East 101st Street? A. I don't know.

Q. Does the name Horty Unga mean anything to you by way of refreshing your recollection? A. Yes.

Q. Did you know Horty Unga? A. Yes.

Q. Did you go out with her? A. No.

Q. Where did you know her from? 9885

Mr. Talley: I object to it as immaterial, incompetent and irrelevant, no foundation having been laid for that.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. I met her through Blanche.

Q. Have you been up to the Unga house at 3 East 101st Street? A. No.

9886 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Where did you meet this Horty Unga with Blanche?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know. I don't remember where I met her.

9887 Q. Did you meet at the home of this woman Horty Unga? A. No.

Q. Can you recall where you met her? A. No.

Q. Did you associate with her after you made her acquaintance? A. No.

Q. Did you meet Yiddle Lorber and Al Engelson?

Mr. Talley: Object to it.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I knew them, yes.

9888 Q. Where did you know them from? A. Brooklyn.

Q. Williamsburg in Brooklyn? A. Yes.

Q. Who introduced you to Yiddle Lorber and Al Engelson?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Nobody did. I just knew him.

Q. The meeting? A. I had met him. I met him through business.

Q. You met him through business? A. Yes.
Q. Yidale Lorber was a fixer, didn't you know?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, vague, general, does not mean a thing as far as I can see.
The Court: We will see. Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I met him as a bondsman.
Q. And Al Engelson, how did you meet him? 9890

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the same grounds.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.
A. With—
Q. With Lorber? A. Yes.
Q. And go out socially with Lorber and Engelson? A. Never.
Q. Did you know Chick Weiss?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled. 9891
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.
Q. Outside of Mendy Weiss and Sidney Weiss, did you know any other Weiss of that family? A. Yes.
Q. Who? A. Sammy Weiss, Murray Weiss.
Q. Yes. A. Solly.
Q. Solomon? A. Yes, and Maxie.
Q. Do you know whether any one of them is called "Chick"? A. No.

9892 Dorothy Isaacson--For Defts.—Cross

Q. What people other than Horty Unga were you introduced to by the Weisses?

Mr. Talley: Object to that, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, too general; very remote from anything that I can see.

The Court: (To reporter) Will you read that?

(Pending question read.)

9893 The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I cannot tell.

By the Court:

Q. Were there many? A. Yes.

Q. It was a long period you knew them? A. Yes.

Q. Did they introduce you to many people? A. Some.

9894 By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Madam, during the eighteen years that you have been married to your husband, have you knowingly associated with people who are exconvicts?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9895

A. I don't know what you mean by knowing that they were exconvicts.

Q. Yes, that is it exactly. Knowing that they were ex-convicts, did you associate with them? A. With whom? Whom do you mean?

Q. Anybody who was an ex-convict, that you knew to be such did you knowingly associate with them when you were with your husband during these eighteen years? A. No.

Q. No ex-convicts at all?

9896

Mr. Talley: It has been already answered, if your Honor pleases. I object to it.

Q. Will you answer it, please?

Mr. Talley: I object to it.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. During the eighteen years of your married life, have you knowingly associated with people who were violating the law?

9897

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered.

The Court: I think that is embraced more or less.

Mr. Turkus: An ex-convict is one who has violated in the past.

The Court: Sustained as to form.

Q. Did you knowingly associate with people who were engaged in the commission of organized crime?

9898 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases, as to form; incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; already been answered.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

9899 Q. You were introduced to a man named Berger by Mendy and Blanche Weiss, weren't you? A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember? Do you know Paul Berger? A. No.

Q. Were you taken to the Gold Craft Clothes at 714 Broadway by Blanche Weiss? A. I don't remember.

Q. Didn't Blanche Weiss buy you clothes at the Gold Craft Clothes, 714 Broadway, Manhattan? A. She did not buy me clothes.

Q. What did she buy you?

9900

Mr. Talley: May we have the time?

A. We exchanged gifts but never clothes.

Q. Didn't she buy you a mannish suit or more than one at Gold Craft Clothes, 714 Broadway, Manhattan, operated by Paul Berger?

Mr. Talley: May we have the time fixed, if your Honor pleases?

Q. Any time.

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

A. No.

Q. What? A. No, she did not.

Q. Didn't you get Paul Berger to intercede for your own brother who had some difficulty in New Jersey?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

9902

A. My brother never had any difficulty in New Jersey.

Q. Have you got a brother about fifty years old? A. No.

Q. How old is your brother? A. About 37.

Q. Is his hair turning grey? A. No.

Q. Did you have any trouble in Jersey a year and a half ago and did you get Paul Berger to try to help you out?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases, already answered; incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. 9903

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. Before you took this witness-stand, did anybody between recess yesterday and your appearance on the stand talk to you about your testimony? A. No.

Q. Did anybody tell you what they had testified to before you took the stand? A. No.

Q. Did you compare notes out in the hall or any place else with any witness who had preceded you to the stand? A. No.

9904

Q. Now we have it that down in Atlantic City, when you were there ten days with Blanche Weiss, nothing was said about September 12, 1936; is that right?

Mr. Talley: I object to the question and form of the question and upon the ground this has already been answered.

9905

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. That is right.

Q. Between the time that you were down in Atlantic City with Blanche Weiss and the time you took the stand in court, who was the first person that spoke to you about the night of September 12, 1936? A. Sidney Weiss.

Q. And that conversation took place outside a candy store on the East Side? A. I don't know whether it was outside a candy store.

Q. It was not in your home? A. No.

9906

Q. When was it that Sidney Weiss spoke to you for the first time about September 12, 1936? A. In the summer. During the summer.

Q. During the summer of 1941? A. Yes.

Q. In between the Atlantic City trip with Blanche Weiss and the summer of 1941, did anybody speak to you about the night of September 12, 1936? A. No.

Q. When Sidney Weiss came over to you in the summer of 1941, did he tell you that September 12, 1936, was his 26th birthday, that he had been in certain restaurants, the Brass Rail; that he had gone to a moving picture and then Ratner's, and who was with him? A. No, he did not tell me.

Q. When Sidney Weiss spoke to you about September 12, 1936, and he mentioned that it was his birthday, you remembered, did you not, right then and there where you had been? A. No, not right then and there.

Q. How long did it take you to remember? A. It took me a little while.

Q. Well, what would you say; fifteen minutes? A. Maybe that or more.

9908

Q. A half an hour? A. Yes.

Q. During that half an hour, did Sidney Weiss prompt you as to occurrences?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Well, he asked me—

Q. Yes or no, madam, did he prompt you?

9909

Mr. Talley: I ask the witness be allowed to answer the question without interruption.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. Did he prompt you that it was his 26th birthday? A. He asked me whether it was.

Q. What was it that he prompted you with? A. He did not prompt me with anything.

Q. You just said he did.

Mr. Talley: I did not understand her to say that, Mr. Turkus.

Mr. Turkus: It is funny you and I understand things so differently.

Mr. Cuff: Be fair with her.

Mr. Turkus: Now we have Mr. Cuff.

Mr. Cuff: I know what is in her mind.

Mr. Turkus: If you had been fair with her you would not have put her on the stand.

9911 Q. Did you misunderstand the word "prompt", madam? A. No, I did not misunderstand but you made me answer to it "Yes."

Q. I made you answer "Yes"? A. I wanted to answer it my way and you would not let me.

Q. Well, was it that he did not prompt you? A. He didn't prompt me.

Q. Then the answer is "No" then; is that right? A. That is right.

Q. I cannot make you say "Yes" if you want to say "No", can I? A. I know we had spoken about it.

9912 Q. The question was, "did he prompt you?" and to that did I compel you to say, "Yes"? A. No.

Q. I gave you election between yes and no.

Mr. Talley: May we proceed with the examination?

Mr. Turkus: May we have an understanding with the witness? I want to be sure nobody is confused here, that I can compel her to answer questions "Yes" when they should be "No".

A. No, he did not prompt me.

Q. Who was the first one that suggested Sammy's place of business in this talk that you had with Sidney?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as being too indefinite, too vague, too uncertain. I ask that a time be fixed.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Also assumes that somebody suggested or made a suggestion; perfectly improper from a dozen different points of view. I take an exception to your Honor's ruling. 9914

A. I don't know what you mean.

The Court: By this time she has forgotten.

Q. (Pending question read.)

Mr. Talley: That is assuming that somebody did suggest it.

9915

A. I don't remember anybody suggesting it.

Q. Listen, madam. After a half an hour talk with Sidney Weiss, your memory was very clear about September 12, 1936; isn't that right? A. It was not very clear, but he did refresh my memory.

Q. Yes, it was very clear here on the witness stand, wasn't it? A. Yes.

Q. You have not any doubts about September 12, 1936, when you related your story to this jury under questioning by Mr. Talley? A. No.

9916 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Now, how many times was your memory refreshed before you took the witness stand?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases. Improper in form.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Well, I was up at Mr. Cuff's office once.

Q. Never mind Mr. Cuff's office.

9917

Mr. Talley: Let her answer.

Mr. Cuff: Ask the witness.

Q. Tell us all about Mr. Cuff's office. You went up there when? A. We went up there.

Q. Who is "we"? A. Sidney, Blanche, and I.

Q. Yes. How many times? A. Once.

Q. And the three of you spoke together? A. We spoke to—

Q. And you were interviewed by Mr. Cuff with the three of you being present? A. Yes.

Q. How long after the incident of meeting Sid-
9918 ney on the East Side was that? A. About a month.

Q. And when was the next time you got together with anybody on your testimony? A. I think it was in September.

Q. September of this year? A. Yes.

Q. Where was this? A. In Judge Talley's office.

Q. Who was present then? A. Sidney, Blanche, Mrs. Weiss, and myself.

Q. You mean the elderly Mrs. Weiss? A. Yes.

Q. The mother of the defendant. And did the four of you answer questions in each other's presence? A. Yes.

9919

Q. And did the four of you talk about the occurrence of September 12, 1936, in each other's presence on that occasion? A. Yes.

Q. In all, how many times did you have discussions with the other witnesses in the case concerning the occurrences of September 12, 1936?

9920

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Just those three times.

Q. Between April, 1941, when you spent that ten days with Blanche Weiss in Atlantic City, until the time you took the stand, how many times were you in her house? A. I was not in her house at all.

Q. Never since April, 1941? A. No.

Q. Do you know where she lives now? A. Yes.

9921

Q. And you have never visited her there? A. She has visited me.

Q. At your home? A. Yes.

Q. How many times? A. Very often.

Q. And in all of these very often visits, how many times did you discuss the occurrences of September 12, 1936? A. Almost every time we would be together.

Q. Almost every time? What did you remember when Sidney Weiss first spoke to you on the East Side?

9922 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question, if your Honor please.

The Court: About the birthday party?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, the occurrences of September 12, 1936.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He asked me whether I remembered being out with him and the others on his birthday, his 9923 26th birthday, and after a while I did remember.

Q. There was something very significant about his 26th birthday, wasn't there? A. To me there was.

Q. To you there was. Where were you on your 26th birthday? A. I don't know.

Q. When he spoke to you about his 26th birthday, which to you had significance, what did you first remember about it? A. It was the only time I had ever been out in Sidney Weiss's company.

Q. Well— A. And celebrated a birthday.

Q. And what? A. And celebrated a birthday.

Q. If that was the only occurrence, that you
9924 had been out celebrating a birthday, what was the significance of the birthday? A. His 26th birthday, that they told me it was his 26th birthday.

Q. And when he spoke to you then on the East Side, you remembered that? A. Yes.

Q. When he spoke to you on the East Side in 1941, you remembered that five years ago that was his 26th birthday that you attended? A. Yes.

Q. What else did you remember as he spoke to you on the East Side street there? A. Well, he asked me whether I remembered spending that night with him, his birthday, and I said I did, and then we went along and we kept talking about what we did that night, and then—

Q. Not so fast now. Now, when you say, "We kept on talking," who did the talking? A. Sidney and I. We both.

Q. Back and forth? A. Yes.

Q. Each one refreshing the other as to a detail? A. Maybe so.

Q. Not "maybe so," what happened, madam? A. Well, he asked me whether I remembered going out that night.

9926

Q. Yes, and you said you remembered it? A. I said I did.

Q. All right. After you remembered that, what was the next thing he asked you? A. Then he told me that sometime later he would take me up to Mr. Cuff's office.

Q. When you said that you remembered going out with him that night, he said he would take you up to Mr. Cuff's office? A. Yes.

Q. Did he ask you if you remembered going down to Sammy's place of business? A. I don't remember whether he asked me.

9927

Q. Look, madam, you are remembering back to 1936. Let us see if you cannot remember back to that little meeting on the East Side.

Mr. Talley: I object.

Q. In 1941.

Mr. Talley: I object to the statement of the District Attorney, the form of the question, if it is intended to be a question.

9928 Mr. Turkus: Objection before I had the question.

The Court: What is the question?

Mr. Turkus: (to reporter) Read the one before the objection.

(Question read.)

Mr. Talley: That statement is objected to. It is not a question.

Mr. Turkus: I will never get a question finished with this machine-gun fire of objections, if they come in between the time
9929 I start and finish the question.

Mr. Talley: If you asked proper questions—

Mr. Turkus: Gives the witness an awful long time to ponder.

Mr. Talley: May I have a ruling to stop this torrent? Rule one way or the other, but rule, please.

The Court: I have been trying to find a chance. Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

9930 Q. Now think. Did Sidney tell you anything about Sammy's automobile place of business in 1941, in the summer, when you were on that East Side street talking it over? A. I can't remember.

Q. In the summer of—

The Court: Please interrupt me if anybody objects to this:

By the Court:

Q. Was there anything particular about 26 that made you remember it as being different from 25 or 27? A. Your Honor, he said it was his 26th—

The Court: Yes or no.

Mr. Talley: I object to the question, if your Honor pleases. It does not demand a yes or no answer.

The Court: I withdraw the question.

Mr. Talley: Thank you.

Mr. Turkus: What was the answer that you gave before the objection was interposed? 9932

The Court: I meant, how did it happen to register it was 26 all these years.

Mr. Talley: She has endeavored to tell and has been prevented.

Mr. Turkus: That is an improper statement.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Let us get back to the summer of '41 in this East Side street where you are talking with Sidney. Did Sidney speak of who drove the automobile that night? A. I don't remember. 9933

Q. Did he mention his brother's name, Mendy Weiss, as being in the party that night—yes or no? A. I can't remember.

Q. Did he mention the Brass Rail Restaurant on 7th Avenue and 49th Street or 50th Street in Manhattan? Yes or no? A. I don't remember.

Q. Did he mention the Capitol Theatre movies on that little East Side street in the summer of 1941? A. I don't remember.

Q. And did he mention the automobile ride through the park? A. I don't remember.

Q. Did he mention the automobile ride to Ratner's Restaurant on the East Side of Manhattan? A. I can't remember those things.

Q. You can't remember those things? Those things took place in the summer of 1941. Am I correct? A. That is right.

Q. Let us come a little closer to the time that you took the witness stand. Who was the first 9935 person, if anyone, who mentioned about the Brass Rail Restaurant? A. I don't remember that.

Q. Was it you? A. Might have been.

Q. Not what it might have been. We are not here to speculate. A. I don't remember, then.

By the Court:

Q. Do you remember this: Did you eat a light snack or did you eat a big meal then? A. I don't remember.

Q. When you got to Ratner's, did you eat a 9936 light snack or a big meal? A. I had coffee. It was late.

Q. You were there an hour? A. Yes.

Q. Just coffee? A. And cake.

Q. Just a light bite? A. Yes.

Q. Before going to the East Broadway place and from there to the Brass Rail, did you have your regular dinner at home? A. No, I had had a light bite up at Blanche's house in the afternoon.

Q. What time in the afternoon? A. About 5:30 or 6 o'clock.

Q. 5:30 a light bite. You don't remember whether at 10 o'clock at the Brass Rail or 11 o'clock you had a full meal or a light snack? A. I don't.

Q. But you do remember that three hours later, at Ratner's, it was just a bite? A. Yes.

The Court: All right.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Who was the first person, if you can remember, who spoke of Mendy Weiss being in the party of September 12, 1936? A. I don't remember. 9938

By the Court:

Q. At that time did the Brass Rail have a front on it or was it wide open to the street? A. I don't remember, your Honor.

Q. Have you been there on any other occasion? A. Yes.

Q. How many times? A. A number of times.

Q. About how many times? A. I don't know just how many times. 9939

Q. Many? A. Yes.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Where in the Brass Rail was it that you sat? A. I don't remember where I sat.

Q. Downstairs, upstairs, what floor? A. I can't remember where I sat. I don't know.

Q. This birthday party of September 12, 1936, don't you remember what floor you were on? A. No.

By the Court:

Q. You know there is a great big bar there on the ground floor? A. Yes.

Q. You know that, a very big bar? A. Yes.

Q. Have you any recollection at all as to where you sat? A. No.

By Mr. Turkus:

9941 Q. Was there a birthday cake, madam, at the table? A. No.

Q. No birthday cake.

By the Court:

Q. Were there any candles to count so as to fix that 26 in your mind all these years? A. No, our Honor.

Q. Yes or no? A. No.

By Mr. Turkus:

9942 Q. Who was the first person, if you can remember, who spoke about eating in Ratner's restaurant? A. I don't remember.

Q. But these all happened since the summer of 1941, these talks? A. I don't remember who spoke about it first.

Q. It was not you? A. I don't remember who it was.

Q. You do not even know whether it was yourself who first suggested it? A. No, I don't.

Q. Was there anything outstanding about the Brass Rail in September 12, 1936?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as being too indefinite, too vague, uncertain. I do not know what counsel means by "outstanding". I ask the question be made more plain.

By the Court:

Q. Anything in particular you remember?

The Court: I suppose that is what you mean? 9944

Mr. Turkus: That is it.

A. No.

Q. Was there any discussion or anything in particular that makes 26 the outstanding number that lodges in your mind? A. No.

Q. Did it make any difference to you whether it was his 25th or his 26th birthday? A. It did not make any difference, with the exception that they told me it was his 26th birthday.

Q. For some reason that lodged in your mind? A. The only reason is because that was the only time I had ever been out with Sidney Weiss. 9945

Q. Speak loud. The jury cannot hear you. A. That was the only time I had ever been in Sidney Weiss's company, was his 26th birthday.

Q. So 26 stuck in your mind? A. Yes.

Q. I am asking you that because, according to the birth certificate, his Saturday birthday was his 25th birthday, the year before.

Mr. Talley: Will your Honor let us hear your question?

9946 Mr. Climenko: I do not understand the question.

Mr. Talley: I do not get your Honor's question at all. He was 26 years old on—

The Court: Sunday, not Saturday.

Mr. Talley: They were celebrating from Saturday into Sunday, his birthday.

Q. Did you understand that Saturday was not his birthday, but the day before his birthday?

9947 A. Yes.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. When did you understand that? A. They had told me that that night.

Q. Did you remember that since 1936? A. After Sidney refreshed my memory I did.

Q. I see. Now, after having your memory refreshed, you remembered that on Sidney's 26th birthday you went to Sammy's place of business, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. That is clear? A. Yes.

9948 Q. And that you met there Mrs. Weiss, Blanche Weiss, Sidney Weiss, and Mendy Weiss? A. No.

Q. That is not clear? What is clear about the meeting in the place of business? A. At Sammy's place?

Q. Yes. A. Blanche, Mendy, and myself drove down there.

Q. Yes, the three of you. A. And it was there that we picked up Mrs. Weiss and Sidney.

Q. Under what name was Blanche Weiss and Mendy Weiss living at the time in 1936?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Weiss.

Q. Where were they living then? A. 301 East 21st Street.

Q. What borough? A. Manhattan.

Q. You remember after refreshment that you drove down to that place? A. Yes.

9950

Q. You remember every occurrence that took place from that time on, don't you? A. From that night on.

Q. What? A. That particular.

Q. From that time on. You know what time it was that you met there, isn't that right? A. Yes.

Q. What time was it? A. It was 10 o'clock we had the appointment for.

Q. And you knew you got there at ten o'clock? You remembered that? A. If we had the appointment for that time I suppose we got there.

9951

Q. Do you remember that you got there at 10 o'clock? A. I could not say I remembered. I knew we were supposed to meet him at 10 o'clock and we drove down to meet him.

Q. When you testified on direct examination, when Mr. Talley asked you questions, you remembered that it was about 10 o'clock that you got there. A. I said "about."

Q. And it was about 11 when you got to the Brass Rail? A. Yes.

Q. And that it was about 12 when you left the Brass Rail? A. Yes.

Q. And that it was shortly after 12 that you got to the Capitol Theatre? A. Yes.

Q. And that it was about 2 o'clock in the morning when you got out of the Capitol? A. That's right.

Q. And that there was a ride in Central Park down to Ratner's Restaurant? A. Yes.

Q. And that you got in Ratner's Restaurant
9953 about 3 o'clock? A. Yes.

Q. And that you left Ratner's Restaurant about 4 o'clock? A. Yes.

Q. Those are all things you remember? A. Yes.

Q. You could even remember the picture that was playing, couldn't you? A. No, I don't.

Q. Now think. Think hard and see if you cannot even remember the picture that was being played. A. No.

Q. See if I can refresh your recollection. Wasn't it "The Gorgeous Hussy"? A. Yes, it was.

9954 Q. And the man who played the lead was who, in "The Gorgeous Hussy"? A. Robert Taylor.

Q. And the lady star who played the co-lead was who? A. Joan Crawford.

Q. When I said the name "Gorgeous Hussy" to you, you remembered both stars who played in it? A. Yes.

Q. And you remembered that all the way back to September 12, 1936; is that right? A. Yes.

Q. So, by the way, you can even remember what that picture was about, can't you? A. No, I don't.

Mr. Turkus: That is all, sir.

By the Court:

Q. Can you remember anything about the play itself? A. The picture?

Mr. Turkus: Your Honor, I omitted certain questions. I have been reminded that I have not covered them. I will be very brief with this, and I think I will finish by four o'clock.

By Mr. Turkus: 9956

Q. Mrs. Isaacson, you are indebted to Mendy Weiss and Blanche Weiss, aren't you?

Mr. Talley: I object.

A. No, I am not.
Q. I don't mean financially.

The Court: Overruled.

Q. You are indebted to them for having been permitted to sleep in their home and being fed by them and being clothed by them at times when your husband was in jail; is that correct? 9957

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: You mean whether she feels under—

Mr. Turkus: Yes, feels under an obligation.

The Court: I think the question as to whether there is an obligation she may have an impulse to repay is one for the jury, not for the witness. Judge Talley's objection is sustained.

9958 Dorothy Isaacson—For Defts.—Redirect

Q. Let me just ask you this question: Mrs. Isaacson, wasn't this alibi cooked up in 1936 with you a party to it, way back five years ago? A. No.

Mr. Talley: Object to the form of the 9959 question, if your Honor pleases.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.
Mr. Turkus: I am through.
Mr. Talley: I have no further questions.
The Court: Just one thing.

By the Court:

Q. Think very hard. Have you the slightest recollection of what that play was about? A. I can't remember.

Q. You can always read up a title and those 9960 who played the leading parts. A. Yes.

Q. But can you remember anything about what the picture was about which you saw? A. I think it had a lot to do with the Civil War itself and the time of the Civil War, if I remember correctly.

Redirect examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Mrs. Isaacson, who is your favorite movie actress? A. Joan Crawford.

Q. Was it you who suggested going to see

Joan Crawford in that picture that night? A. Yes.

Mr. Talley: I have no further questions.

Recross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. Robert Taylor your favorite male lead? A. No.

Mr. Turkus: That is all.

The Court: We will recess until 10 o'clock on Monday morning. Everybody remain seated until the jury passes out. 9962

Gentlemen, please remember all previous admonitions. They are continuous throughout the trial. Do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open. Read nothing about it. Don't listen to the radio about it.

The defendants are remanded.

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 24, 1941.

TRIAL RESUMED

BLANCHE WEISS, residing at No. 10 Monroe Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York, called as a witness in behalf of the defense, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

9965 Direct examination by Mr. Talley:

Q. Will you tell us where you are now living? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where is it? A. No. 10 Monroe Street.

Q. In the Borough of Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in the City of New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you the wife of Emanuel Weiss, the defendant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been married to him? A. Eight years.

9966 Q. Do you remember the night of September 12, 1936? A. I do.

Q. Did you go anywhere from your place of residence with your husband that night? A. I did.

Q. Where did you go? A. I went over to my brother-in-law Sammy's store.

Q. Who was with you? A. My husband and Dotty.

Q. Dotty Isaacson? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know at what time you got to Sammy's store? A. Well, I believe it was 10 o'clock, because we had a 10 o'clock appointment.

Q. You mean an appointment to be there at ten o'clock? A. Yes, sir.

Q. With whom was the appointment made? A. My husband had told me about this appointment. He said my mother-in-law and my brother-in-law Sidney would be at the store; that we were to meet them at 10 o'clock.

Q. At 10 o'clock? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where were you living at that time? A. 301 East 21st Street. 9968

Q. In the Borough of Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go from there to Sammy's store? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where was that? A. That was on East Broadway, right off—

Q. Did you go in an automobile? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who went with you, your husband and Dotty? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you got to Sammy's place of business at about 10 o'clock that night? A. Yes, sir. 9969

Q. Did you get out of the car? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you and Dotty remain in the car? A. That is right.

Q. Did Mendy get out of the car? A. He did.

Q. What did you see him do? A. I saw him walk into the store and talk to my mother-in-law and Sidney, and Sammy.

Q. Then did they come out? A. Well, Sammy came over to the car first.

Q. And spoke to you? A. Yes, sir, saying, "Hello," and "How are you?"

Q. Then, did Mendy and his mother and Sidney get into the car? A. That is right.

Q. Did you then drive away? A. That is right.

Q. Who drove the car? A. Mendy did.

Q. Where did you drive? A. We drove uptown to a restaurant.

Q. Do you remember what restaurant it was? A. Yes, sir, it was the Brass Rail.

Q. Do you remember where it was? A. On 9971 7th Avenue and 49th Street.

Q. What did you do when you got to the Brass Rail, did you wait outside? A. Yes, sir, we waited outside and my husband went to park the car.

Q. Then did he come back? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Walking? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then did you go into the restaurant? A. We all went into the restaurant.

Q. Who was in the party that went into the Brass Rail Restaurant? A. Well, there was Dotty there, my mother-in-law, Sidney, my brother-in-law, and my husband and myself.

9972 Q. What time do you say it was when you got into the Brass Rail? A. Well, I could not say exactly. I believe it was before 11 o'clock.

Q. What is your best recollection? A. I would say around 11 o'clock.

Q. Then you remained there for how long a time? A. Well, I don't know just how long, but I know we got out in time to make the midnight picture.

Q. Did you have something to eat and drink in the Brass Rail? A. The only thing I can remember is we did have a few drinks.

Q. I don't want to know what you had. Did you have something to eat or drink, or both? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you went to a show at 12 o'clock? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What theatre did you go to? A. We went to the Capitol Theatre.

Q. Did you ride from the Brass Rail or walk, to the Capitol? A. No, we walked there.

Q. And the Capitol Theatre was where? A. 50th and Broadway, or 51st, I don't remember which.

9974

Q. Did you go in to see a picture there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you remain until the picture was finished? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember what the picture was? A. No, I don't.

Q. What time was it when you came out of that theatre? A. I should say it was about 2 or—

Q. Was Mendy with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the other Mrs. Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Sidney? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Dotty? A. Yes, sir. 9975

Q. The same party that was in the Brass Rail was in the Capitol picture place? A. That is right.

Q. And came out together? A. That is right.

Q. You say that was about 2 o'clock in the morning? A. I think it was around that.

Q. What did you do then? A. We then proceeded to take a drive through the park.

Q. Was it a warm night? A. I believe it was.

Q. When you say you believe, that doesn't mean anything. Do you recollect whether it was or was not? It was a clear night, anyhow? A. Yes, sir, it was a clear night.

Q. Did you take the drive through the Park? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go then? A. After we got through going through the Park we started for downtown.

Q. Did you go downtown? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go? A. We went into a restaurant on Delancey Street.

9977 Q. Is that Ratner's Restaurant? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The same party was with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mendy was with you, and your mother-in-law, and Dotty and Sidney? A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. Do you know what time it was when you got into the restaurant, Ratner's Restaurant? A. Well, around three o'clock.

Q. You remained there how long? A. About one hour.

Q. Did you have some food or refreshment there? A. Yes, sir.

9978 Q. What time would that make it, when you left Ratner's Restaurant? A. I would say around about 4 o'clock.

Q. Did you leave together? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Mendy still driving the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go? A. We went to take my mother-in-law and Sidney home.

Q. Did you take them home? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And deposit them at their door? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then where did you and Dotty and Mendy go? A. We went to my apartment.

Q. Where was it then, 21st Street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. East 21st Street? A. Yes, sir, East 21st Street.

Q. That is in Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Dotty go with you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Mendy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And yourself? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What time was it do you say when you got to your apartment on 21st Street? A. It was sometime after 4 o'clock.

9980

Q. What did you do when you got to your apartment? A. When we got to the apartment we started in to get ready for bed and spoke for a while.

Q. What do you mean, you sat down and chatted for a while? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you got ready to go to bed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go to bed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was Dotty sleeping? A. She was sleeping in the living room.

Q. Where were you sleeping? A. I was in the bedroom.

9981

Q. Was Mendy there likewise? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have a single bed or one double bed? A. We had one bed.

Q. Did you and Mendy sleep in that room? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That morning? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You got to bed about what time, you say? A. I should say it was near 5 o'clock, I would not be sure of the time: I would say it was around 5 o'clock.

Q. Dotty was sleeping on a couch in the living room? A. Yes, sir.

9982 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Direct

Q. At what time did you get up? A. I got up about 12 o'clock.

Q. 12 o'clock noon on Sunday, September 13th? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you woke up was Mendy there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Dotty there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do when you got up? A. I went into my kitchenette and started to prepare breakfast.

9983 Q. Did you? A. Yes, sir. I then asked Mendy whether he was ready to eat.

Q. Did he get up out of bed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he undressed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he have his breakfast? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Dotty have breakfast with you also? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long were you engaged in breakfast? A. I would say over one hour.

Q. Where did you go, if any place, after that? A. Sometime in the afternoon we got dressed and we went down—we drove to see my sick father.

9984 Q. Where was he? A. Out in Brooklyn.

Q. Was Dotty still with you or did you leave her home? A. No, we dropped her off at her home.

Q. Where was that? A. On Henry Street.

Q. Was that on Henry Street, Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that on your way to your father's place in Brooklyn? A. Well, it was maybe a few blocks out of the way.

Q. You left your house to go to Brooklyn? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And instead of going directly there, you dropped Dotty off on your way; that is what I mean. A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you were en route, on the way to Brooklyn, you dropped her off at her house? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you got to your father's house when? A. Sometime late in the afternoon.

Q. Where was that? Where was your father's house? A. In Brooklyn.

Q. Was it your custom to visit him every Sunday? A. Yes, sir, we go there every Sunday. 9986

Cross-examination by Mr. Turkus:

Q. You were picked out of the court-room here and identified by a narcotic agent as Rose Bell? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have been sitting through this trial for weeks? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You sat through the testimony of every alibi witness that took the stand?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question. And I think the District Attorney should now state that Mrs. Weiss was sitting here during the latter part of this trial with his consent, and at the direction of the Court—and with the permission of the Court, and at my request. I do not want any innuendo conveyed as to her being present at the trial. 9987

Mr. Turkus: There is no innuendo.

The Court: There is no innuendo. The Court authorized it because she was simply an alibi witness. That was about two weeks ago.

Mr. Talley: Yes.

9988 Mr. Turkus: And at the request of Mr. Talley.

Mr. Talley: Yes.

Mr. Turkus: There is no innuendo about it except the jury is entitled to know she heard the testimony of every alibi witness that preceded her on the stand.

Mr. Talley: Certainly, she was here with your knowledge and with the permission of the Court, but at my request.

9989 Mr. Turkus: Why is there objection to the question?

Mr. Talley: Because there is a suggestion there that she was in this court-room solely for the purpose of hearing other witnesses in this case. You know what the suggestion is.

Mr. Turkus: Having made your explanation to the jury, is there any objection to the question?

Mr. Talley: Yes, I object to the question as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

9990 The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: I wanted the jury to know what the facts were. I except.

The Court: If I recall correctly, this is what happened: I thought it better, at Judge Talley's request, to have the wife of the defendant present during the trial instead of kept in the corridor. It would be inhumane and unreasonable to keep her out in the corridor simply because she would be an alibi witness. While Mr. Turkus opposed it, the Court prevailed upon Mr. Turkus to overcome his objection, and the Court directed she be permitted to sit here during the trial, as the wife of any defendant should be permitted to do. Proceed.

Q. You sat here during the testimony of every alibi witness who took the stand? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is your maiden name? A. Blanche Langsam.

Q. You have a married sister? A. Yes, sir. 9992

Q. What is her name?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I have three married sisters.

Q. Have you one, Simon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is her name? A. Rose Simon.

Q. Where does she live? A. 147 West 79th Street.

Q. That is in Manhattan? A. Yes, sir. 9993

Q. When, in the month of April, did you spend two weeks with Rose Simon—April, 1940?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; not proper cross-examination. If this line of questioning is to be continued, it can only be by the District Attorney making this lady his own witness.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. In April, 1940?

9994 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Yes. A. I do not remember.

Q. Let me see if I can refresh your recollection. Did Mendy tell you that he was to the District Attorney's office on March 28, 1940, and questioned, in Brooklyn?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and upon the further ground to which I direct your Honor's particular attention—I might as well do it now as at any other time in the 9995 case. I object to the question on the further ground it is an attempt on the part of the District Attorney to compel this witness to testify against her husband, in violation of the law of this State. I direct your Honor's attention to the provisions of the Penal Law, Section 2445, which says: "The husband or wife of a person indicted or accused of a crime is in all cases a competent witness, on the examination or trial of such person; but neither husband nor wife can be compelled 9996 to disclose a confidential communication, made by one to the other during their marriage." Section 349 of the C.P.A., which is analogous, provides, in part, as follows, and I quote: "A husband or wife shall not be compelled or without consent of the other if living, allowed to disclose a confidential communication made by one to the other during marriage." And the leading case on that subject is People against Wood, 126 N. Y., which holds that, "no confidential communication between husband and wife may be disclosed by one spouse if objected to by the other."

As attorney for the defendant Weiss, I put upon the record the objection. I now object to this witness testifying to anything arising out of the matrimonial state. May I call your Honor's attention to the analogy between these two sections of the Code, showing the intent of the law in this case. Section 347 of the Civil Practice Act, which provides: "A person in- 9998
terested in the event shall not be examined as a witness in his own behalf, or interest—" The language is as follows: "Concerning a personal transaction or communication between a witness and the deceased person, except where the executor or administrator is examined in his own behalf." That is a section of the law which is generally invoked where, as your Honor will recall, a claim is made against the estate of a deceased person and the person making the claim is not 9999 permitted to testify. It most frequently arises in the Surrogate's Court. A person making a claim is not permitted to state any conversation or transaction he has had with the deceased person. And the Court of Appeals, in passing upon that section, in Griswold v. Hart, at 205 N. Y., page 384, defines this as a transaction which is prohibited. "Whatever he (the witness) derives from the personal presence of the deceased by the use of his senses is a communication from the 10000 deceased to him within the meaning of the statute."

I submit that is the law applicable here in this State and to this examination; that this witness cannot be compelled to testify to any transaction or any communication—or anything she saw or heard—anything that she acquired knowledge of by the use of her senses—she cannot be compelled to testify in this case against 10001 the defendant Weiss. That is the law.

Mr. Turkus: The law can hardly be so ridiculous that a woman can testify to an alibi and then avoid cross-examination.

Mr. Talley: That is my objection, bearing in mind this District Attorney is now making this witness his own witness once he departs from cross-examination on the alibi and brings out anything not disclosed by the direct examination, he makes her his own witness.

The Court: Cross-examination, particu-
10002 larly on collateral impeachment is largely composed of blank cartridge shooting. There may be no damage done by all this sort of shooting, but anything that hits the mark is one of the difficulties the Court has to face in taking notes of cross-examination. Of course, on the direct, everything is known in advance and everything is solid meat. At first the Court was under the impression that this was purely in the nature of a collateral impeachment, but the Court senses that what it is really in the nature of doing is to specify an intent to show that Weiss' flight in the month of May, in or about, or later on, was because of the Rosen case and not because of the Dewey investigation, and not because of any Federal matter. So far on the record all we have is the testimony—we have the testimony of Paul Berger—

Mr. Turkus: The Tannenbaum incident.

The Court: —that in May, 1940, he 10004
read in the newspaper something about Tannenbaum and then he had a talk with Weiss about it the next day, and Weiss said, "It looks like Allie is talking and I will have to take a duck," which is something if the jury believes it and it is connected up to the jury's satisfaction, as a motive for alleged flight. Then flight may be considered on the question of guilt under a proper charge on that point of law by the Judge.

Now, it impresses me that this is an 10005 attempt to obtain from this witness testimony that her husband made some sort of admission to her, and for that reason I think it is improper and the objection is sustained.

Mr. Turkus: I will revise the question.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Do not answer this until the Judge rules on the objection. Did Mendy, in the presence of others, tell you that he had been in the District Attorney's office on March 28, 1940?

10006 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection on the same grounds stated to the last question.

The Court: "In the presence of others", takes it out of the class of confidential communication.

Mr. Talley: I submit it does not, with 10007 great respect.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. I will revise it. Did Mendy, in the presence and hearing of any other person besides yourself, tell you he had been in the District Attorney's office March 28, 1940? A. I don't remember.

Q. Don't you remember whether your husband told you, in the presence of someone else, and in the hearing of someone else, he had been ques-10008 tioned in the Brooklyn District Attorney's office?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question. The question, "Don't you remember", assumes something happened that might be remembered. It is a question which should not be permitted in that form.

The Court: You might specify who the others are: maybe then she would remember.

Mr. Turkus: I withdraw the question. There has been objection to it.

Q. Where were you living in April, 1940? A. In 12th Avenue and 46th Street.

Q. What address? A. I think it was 2045, I am not sure.

Q. Had you been living there in March, 1940? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Under what name?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, again on the ground that this witness cannot be compelled to testify against her husband under this section of the law I have quoted. 10010

Mr. Turkus: This goes to her credibility.

Mr. Talley: It cannot possibly affect her credibility. It cannot be adduced in evidence properly in any court.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Under what name? A. The name of Newman.

Q. Had you lived any other place before that under a fictitious name? 10011

Mr. Talley? Same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was the place you lived, or the places you lived under a fictitious name or names? A. At 230 Park Place.

Q. That was Hoffman? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What other places?

10012

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection, if your Honor please, upon the same grounds.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Just those two.

Q. Did you ever live under the name of Klein?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

10013

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. When did you live in 230 Park Place under the name of Hoffman?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I think it was in 1938.

Q. You lived there a year? A. I lived there

10014 more than a year.

Q. For how long? A. About 18 months, it might have been 1937.

Q. Did you break the lease in moving out?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and upon the same ground urged to the other questions.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Out of 230 Park Place?

 10015

Q. Yes. A. I don't know whether you would call it breaking a lease. They told me to move because of my husband being arrested in that building.

Q. You had a lot of visitors there, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, on the same grounds urged before.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10016

A. I don't know what you mean when you say "visitors".

Q. Others than the members of your family, for example, wasn't Charley "Bugs" Workman a visitor there? A. No, sir.

Q. Wasn't Allie Tannenbaum a visitor there? A. No, sir. They were not.

Q. When did you move out of the 12th Avenue address in Manhattan that you say you lived in in April of 1940 under the name of Newman? A. In April.

Q. Were you present when the furniture went out? A. No, sir. 10017

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. What date in April did the furniture go out?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

10018

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Who made the arrangements for taking the furniture out? A. My husband.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10019

Q. Where was the furniture taken to?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Mr. Turkus: May I suggest at this point that Judge Talley have a continual objection instead of having to interpose an objection to each question? There is an objection to every question, which seriously breaks up the cross-examination. If it can be done, I would like him to do it.

10020

The Court: That is the right of counsel.

A. It was taken to a storage house.

Q. What storage? A. I think it was the Regal.

Q. It is still there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, having that background, is your memory refreshed about living with your sister in the 79th Street house of Rose Simons, for about two weeks?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir, I don't remember.

Q. Don't you remember this occasion, that while Rose Simons was at work—and does she work, by the way? A. Yes.

Q. Where does she work?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant, a sister of this witness, trying to bring her into 10022 the case.

The Court: Let us find out. Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Can't you see the harm and injustice that might be done?

The Court: I don't see any harm.

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question because of the implication in the part that says, "Don't you remember," assuming something happened that was to be remembered. Let the witness testify, if your Honor compels her to, as to the 10023 fact.

Mr. Turkus: I wish you would let her testify.

Mr. Talley: Stop until I finish. —and not to be asked about remembering something that may not have happened at all, that nobody could remember.

The Court: Take your exception.

Mr. Talley: I except.

Q. Where did she work? A. I don't know the address.

Q. It is a millinery business? A. No, sir.

Q. What kind of a business? A. Dress business.

Q. Is it not a fact that while Rose Simons was away at work Mendy came and took you away?

Mr. Talley: I object. This witness cannot be compelled to testify against her husband, because of the marital rule. It is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant also.

10025

The Court: Reframe the question. Leave out the word "took", and see whether she went away

Q. Is it not a fact that one day during the month of April, 1940, while Rose Simons was away at business, that Mendy came to the apartment and you and Mendy departed therefrom?

Mr. Talley: I make an objection on the same grounds as heretofore stated.

The Court: Overruled.

10026 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know what you mean by that.

Q. You don't understand me? A. I don't understand you to that effect.

Q. Don't make speeches, madam, if you don't understand.

Mr. Talley: May I ask your Honor, in behalf of the witness, if your Honor requires her to answer, may I ask the District Attorney to restrain his zeal to the extent of allowing this lady to finish her answer?

The Witness: I don't remember being there.

Q. You don't remember being in Rose Simons' apartment at any time during the month of April, 1940? A. I know I was there, but just when I was there—I have been there so many times that I cannot recall the month or anything.

Q. Let us see, you testified in Mr. Talley's 10028 examination as to something that allegedly occurred in September, 1936. I am bringing you up to 1940, in April, less than two years ago. Don't you remember an occasion when your husband came to Rose Simons' apartment while she was away at business and that the both of you departed from the Simons' apartment? Don't you remember that?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question, primarily because of the use of the words, "Don't you remember." There 10029 has been no evidence to indicate that what the District Attorney is referring to ever happened outside of his imagination or misinformation. The witness should not be required or asked to answer a question of that kind.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I do not remember that occasion.

Q. Do you deny it happened?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

10030 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I do not deny because I do not remember.

Q. Now, does this refresh your recollection? Do you know the Ungers? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is his first name? A. George Unger.

Q. Was his wife's name Horty? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were in court when you heard the other witness testify about the Ungers, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

10031

Q. How long have you known George Unger? A. Say about 10 years.

Q. How long have you known his wife Horty? A. His wife Horty I have known since their marriage.

Q. How long is that? Well, five years, two years, one year? A. I think about five or six years.

Q. Are you friendly with the Ungers? A. Yes.

Q. Have you been in the society of George Unger, and his company, on various occasions?

10032

A. I don't know what you mean when you say "company"?

Q. Have you been out with your husband when Unger was out, either with his wife or some other person? A. I remember being out with him and his wife, but I do not remember anybody else there.

Q. On numerous occasions were you out with the Ungers? A. No, sir not very often.

Q. You visited at their home? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they visited you at your home? A. Yes, sir.

10033

Q. You knew George Unger was an ex-felon, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, as well as the grounds already urged—requiring this witness to testify against her husband.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

10034

Q. You knew he served time in the State Prison in New Jersey for robbery, don't you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrevelant, and upon the grounds already stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I know he served time; I don't know for what.

10035

Q. Knowing he had served a term in prison, you associated with him and his wife?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the grounds already urged; it has been already answered in addition to that.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was your last visit to the Unger apartment—look at me—when was your last visit to the Unger apartment?

10036

Mr. Talley: I object to it on the same grounds as herefore urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. The last visit?

Q. Yes. A. I think it was in the middle of April.

Q. 1940? A. 1940.

Q. The Ungers lived at No. No. 3 East 101st Street? A. That is right.

10037

Q. Right off of 5th Avenue? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you and your husband stay in the Unger apartment and sleep there?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the grounds already stated; this witness cannot testify against her husband, and on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10038

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you and your husband stay and sleep at the Unger apartment?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection upon the same ground; and on the further ground it is not proper cross-examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Just a few weeks.

Q. Two weeks? A. About that.

Q. You left there very hurriedly?

10039

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, on the grounds already urged against this witness testifying to any of these matters.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. You owned a mink coat at that time, didn't you?

10040

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, on the same grounds already stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did.

Q. You left that mink coat at the Unger apartment at the time of your departure?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, no bearing upon this issue, and upon all the other grounds stated. 10041

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did; it was sometime in the spring; I did not need my mink coat then.

Q. That was no indication that you left hurriedly, was it?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as calling for a conclusion.

The Court: Sustained as argumentative.

Q. You never got the mink coat back?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

10043 Q. It was put in pawn by your friend, George Unger, who hocked it, wasn't it?

Mr. Talley: I object.
The Court: Sustained as irrelevant.

Q. Now, going back to Rose Simons' apartment, has your recollection now been refreshed that you stopped there with your sister on 79th Street before you went to the Unger apartment in April of 1940? A. I don't remember that.

Q. Can you remember the day that you and 10044 Mendy left the Unger apartment, the date? A. I cannot remember the exact date.

Q. To the best of your recollection, what date was it? A. I think it was the middle of April.

Q. Wasn't it your recollection you spent two weeks in the middle of April at the Unger apartment? A. I don't know.

Q. Didn't you, in previous answers, tell me you spent about two weeks at the Unger apartment? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it your previous testimony that you got to the Unger apartment about the middle of April? A. No.

Mr. Talley: I object. That was not her testimony.

Mr. Turkus: The witness has answered no, and that should be sufficient.

Mr. Talley: She did not answer that way.

The Court: She has answered.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Your recollection is you left the Unger apartment about the middle of April, 1940, is that correct? 10046

Mr. Talley: I object to the form. That is an objectionable question. "Do you understand now?" "Do you remember now?"

Mr. Turkus: I didn't ask her that. That is apparently a filibuster.

Mr. Talley: What kind of a statement is that? I object to it and I ask the Court to instruct the jury to disregard it. It is an offensive remark.

Mr. Turkus: I withdraw it. I am sorry it happened. 10047

Mr. Talley: You ought to be sorry.

The Court: The jury will disregard it.

Q. Is it your recollection you left the Unger apartment with Mendy about the middle of April of 1940? A. That is right.

Q. Does this help fix your recollection? When you left the Unger apartment, the day after you left the Unger apartment, did some story appear in the newspaper that attracted your interest?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial, too general; an attempt apparently to cross-examine his own witness, and certainly he has made Mrs. Weiss his own witness, and, having made her his own witness he cannot impeach her by questions like this.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10049 A. No, sir.

Q. After you left the Unger apartment did you learn from any source that Mendy had been indicted in the Rosen murder? A. No, sir.

Q. When did you learn that for the first time? A. The night he was arrested in Kansas City.

Q. That was the first knowledge you had? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you left the Unger apartment with Mendy in a Buick car, didn't you? A. I don't remember what kind of a car it was.

Q. It was an automobile? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whose automobile? A. I don't know.

10050 Q. Who did you leave with? A. I left with my husband.

Q. Hadn't you ever seen that car before? A. I don't remember.

Q. You have been married eight years? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you don't remember whether you had ever seen that Buick car in which you departed? A. I don't remember if it was a Buick; I don't remember the car.

Q. Had you ever seen your husband with that particular car before you left the Unger apartment with him in 1940? A. I don't remember it.

Q. How many cars did your husband own in 1940 when you left the Unger flat?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He did not own any.

Q. Well, when you left in this automobile from the Unger flat, who was in the car? A. Just my husband and myself. 10052

Q. Did you ask him where he got the car? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, not proper cross-examination; an attempt to make the witness testify against her husband.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You had your suitcases packed up? A. Yes, sir. 10053

Q. And your belongings with you? A. My clothes.

Q. Well, that is your belongings. Did your husband have suitcases with him?

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the grounds already urged; the witness is not capable to testify to that.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you drive to a hotel in New Jersey?

10054 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection on the same grounds previously urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Well, this is only April of 1940. Do you remember where you went to live after you left the Unger flat?

10055

Mr. Talley: I object on the ground this is a cross-examination of his own witness.

The Court: He has a right to test her memory. She testified to a lot of detail as to herself and as to people present five years ago.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception to your Honor's statement as prejudicial.

A. We were traveling and we stopped in many places; I don't remember just exactly where.

Q. Cannot you remember your first stop from the Unger flat when you left?

10056

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Do you mean they registered there and lived there, in Jersey City?

Mr. Turkus: I said did they go to a hotel in New Jersey. I do not want to tell this witness.

The Court: A person who goes in to telephone or buys a package of cigarettes, that would not make him a resident.

Mr. Turkus: I mean, stayed over night.

The Witness: I don't remember when the first stop was; we stopped in so many places I don't remember where it was.

Q. Did you know your destination when you left the Unger flat?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.
The Witness: I knew we were going out West.

10058

Q. Did you know where in the West?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: That comes a little close to a confidential communication. Objection sustained.

Q. Did you go to a hotel around Newark the first night out of the Unger flat?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled. 10059
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember that.
Q. Do you remember going to the city of Chicago? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, where did you live in Chicago?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the grounds already stated; she cannot be compelled to disclose that.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10060 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

A. I don't know the name of the hotel.

Q. How long did you stay at a hotel in Chicago?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember; I think it was just a short—

10061 Q. (interrupting) Two days, three days, four days, a week, or how long? A. I think about three days.

Q. You met people in Chicago, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who did you meet in Chicago?

Mr. Talley: I object again on the grounds already urged, and on the further ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and not proper cross-examination.

The Court: Objection overruled.

10062 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I met a lot of people there; I don't remember just who they were.

Q. Did you meet a man in the liquor business?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you meet Dorothy Walker?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the grounds already urged, and as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

Mr. Turkus: You look at me, never mind looking over there.

Mr. Cuff: I object. That insinuation is not proper.

Mr. Turkus: I did not intend to insinuate.

Mr. Cuff: He said, "Look at me, not over there." He meant towards Mr. Talley and myself. 10064

Mr. Turkus: How did you know that?

Mr. Cuff: I know what you said.

Mr. Turkus: I said, "Don't look over there; look at me."

Mr. Talley: You said, "Don't look over there." A lot of witnesses have a habit of looking at other people besides the examiner.

The Witness: The only time I looked over there was when I heard an objection. It sort of attracts my attention toward the person that is objecting. 10065

Mr. Turkus: Now we will have the question read.

By the Court:

Q. Did you meet Dorothy Walker? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Did you meet her son, Milton?

10066 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection on the same grounds as heretofore stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time Chick Weiss was present? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I object on the same grounds.

10067

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Before you took the witness stand did anybody discuss with you—anyone—that the District Attorney was bound by certain answers? Did you hear that expression used? A. No, sir.

Q. You know what an objection is? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, in Chicago, didn't you meet a man named Simey Friedman?

10068

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Is it not a fact that the first person you and your husband Mendy contacted in Chicago was Simey Friedman, who conducted a liquor store?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

10069

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.

Q. Wasn't Simey Friedman a man who put you and Mendy in contact with Dorothy Walker?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, not proper cross-examination, and objectionable upon the grounds already urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10070

A. I don't know anything about that.

Q. Was Dorothy Walker a friend of yours? A. No.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. A friend of your husband's?

10071

Mr. Talley: The same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know; he knew her; I would not call her a friend.

Q. You knew her from Manhattan? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you visited her at her home before you met her in Chicago? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

10072 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Had she visited you at your home? A. No.

Q. Did you have her address in Chicago when you left New York?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection on the grounds already urged.
The Court: Objection overruled.
10073 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you get the address in Chicago from someone?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not get it from no one.

Q. Do you know who got it?

10074

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No.

Q. When you met the Walkers, who was in your company?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Just my husband.

10075

Q. Where did you meet the Walkers in Chicago?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. We went over to her house.

Q. Where was her house? A. I don't remember.

10076

Q. From the house did you go to a hotel to eat together?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Didn't you go to see a moving picture together? A. That was not the same day.

Q. What day was it you went to the movies? A. It may have been the following day.

10077

Q. Was that the day you ate dinner at the hotel? A. I don't ever remember eating a dinner in a hotel.

Q. Do you remember having drinks in the hotel, or anything to eat or drink in a hotel with the Walkers? A. No, sir.

Q. Was there a conversation between the Walkers and Mendy and yourself?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the grounds already stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

10078 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Walker woman at that time had a flat on Foster Avenue, in Brooklyn, didn't she?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10079 A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know? A. I hardly ever saw her.

Q. Was there any conversation in Chicago with the Walker woman about her apartment on Foster Avenue, Brooklyn?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

10080 Q. Was there any conversation in your presence about the Walker woman staying in Chicago and keeping away from New York?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Was the conversation merely social?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question, and on the grounds already stated.

10081

The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that your visit to the Walker woman and Milton Walker, whom you knew by having visited at her home, or their home, was simply casual and confined to social matters?

Mr. Talley: I object to that.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10082

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was any business discussed?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection, as I have already urged, and as having been already answered.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

10083

Q. At no time while you were in Chicago did you see Chick Weiss?

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the grounds already urged.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you understand that you are under oath?

10084 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I object to the question, and I ask your Honor to direct the District Attorney not to repeat it. He has tried that before.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Do you know Chick Weiss? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is his right name? A. Ben.

Q. In the automobile rental business? A. No,

10085 sir.

Q. Any relation to Mendy Weiss? A. Yes.

Q. A cousin? A. No.

Q. What relation? A. His sister is married to my husband's brother.

Mr. Talley: While there is a change in the guards, may I ask the Court to direct the officer to stand back from the witness, not directly behind the witness as the last officer did? May we have the court officer removed, or if he stands there, that 10086 he stand back against the wall and not against the chair of the witness?

The Court: That is incorrect in several details. He is behind the witness and almost flat against the wall.

Mr. Talley: The last officer who was just relieved stood within three inches of the back of the chair of this witness.

The Court: You should have called the Court's attention to it then.

Mr. Talley: I did not want to interrupt.

The Court: If your observation was accurate. It occurred to me just as was just stated.

Mr. Turkus: This is about the same situation that we had on Saturday, with certain papers on my desk, and the record does not indicate there is a rail here which blocks the view of the papers on my desk.

The Court: Please proceed with the examination.

Q. Referring to the individual named Friedman in Chicago, does the first name, "Sammy" refresh your recollection? A. No, sir. 10088

Q. While you were in Chicago you took the Walkers for a ride, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. In an automobile? A. Yes.

Q. The same automobile you left the Unger flat in? A. That is right.

Q. What was the make of the automobile, can you remember now? A. I don't remember.

Q. Was it a sedan? A. A sedan car with four doors?

Q. A sedan may have two doors. Is it a hard top vehicle, all enclosed? A. Yes, sir, it was all enclosed. 10089

Q. Four door? A. I don't remember that.

Q. Black, in color? A. I don't remember that.

Q. This was April, 1940, as you say, can't you remember whether it had four doors or whether it was black in color?

Mr. Talley: I object to the cross-examination of his own witness.

Mr. Turkus: My witness?

Mr. Talley: Yes, you made her your

10090 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

witness on these matters; whether the Court says so or not, that is what you are doing.

The Court: Judge Talley has ruled. You may now proceed.

Q. Do you remember whether the car was black in color? A. No, I do not.

Q. Do you remember what State the license plates were from?

10091

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection as urged before; one cannot be compelled to testify; on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; cross-examination of his own witness.

The Court: It is a memory test. She had been in it every day, or got in it frequently. How correct is she in her memory?

Mr. Talley: It is not the purpose of testing memory, Judge. You should know that by this time.

10092

Mr. Turkus: I object to that statement.

Mr. Talley: I know it and the jury knows it. It is not the purpose of attacking her memory at all. It is an attempt and an effort to bring out testimony he is not entitled to. I had hoped your Honor had seen it. I don't know how I can make it clear any more than I have tried to.

The Court: Thank you. Proceed.

Q. Do you remember what State the license plates were from? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What State? A. New York.

Q. Before you went to Chicago in the car, hadn't you been up-State around Albany with Mendy?

Mr. Talley: I object on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Hadn't you visited people or friends who conducted a cabaret about twenty miles outside of Albany, before you went to Chicago? 10094

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Weren't you in a steak house before you went to Chicago? A. I don't know whether it was steaks. I might have been in a restaurant.

Q. But "steak house" does not refresh your recollection? A. No, sir. 10095

Q. A cabaret, twenty miles from Albany, does that refresh your recollection? A. I was to no such place.

Q. You took the Walkers for a ride in this car, didn't you? A. About once or twice.

Q. And you spent considerable time with the Walkers, didn't you, in Chicago?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and on the same grounds already urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

10096 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I would not say very much time.

Q. Who else did you entertain in Chicago besides the Walkers, if any one?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10097 A. We did not entertain anybody.

Q. You entertained the Walkers, didn't you? A. We saw them. I don't know what you mean.

Q. You took them to the moving pictures, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: Let her finish her answer.
The Witness: They went with us.

Q. They were guests, weren't they? A. I would not call them guests.

Q. Your husband paid, didn't he? A. Well, it would only be natural with a woman there that 10098 my husband should pay.

Q. Naturally or not, he did pay all the expenses for the entertainment, didn't he? A. I did not watch him that closely.

Q. Who else did you and your husband take out while you were in Chicago than those you stated?

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the grounds already urged.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Nobody else.

10099

Q. You had no friends in Chicago? A. I had friends, yes, sir.

Q. Your husband had no friends or relatives in Chicago, did he?

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the grounds already urged.

The Court: She can say if she knows. Objection sustained as to form.

Q. To your knowledge, did your husband have any friends or relatives in Chicago?

10100

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection as urged; she should not be compelled to testify.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Not relatives, but I know he knew people there.

Q. Did he visit people? A. Not as I know of.

Q. So the only one he visited in Chicago was Mrs. Walker, Dottie Walker and Milton Walker, is that correct?

10101

Mr. Talley: I object. That is not calling for her knowledge.

The Court: So far as you know.

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. From Chicago, where did you go?

Mr. Talley: The same objection, if your Honor please, on the ground she cannot be compelled to testify against her husband.

10102 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. And on the further grounds already urged— Exception.

A. We made so many stops, Mr. Turkus, I just cannot remember every little place.

Q. I know that, I don't expect you to remem-
10103 ber every little thing that happened in 1940 on a trip, but what was the next city you stayed at, the hotel?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question, and on the grounds formerly urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I cannot remember the places.

Q. When you stopped at the Chicago hotel, under what name were you living? A. I don't 10104 remember.

Q. Well, it certainly was not Weiss, was it? A. No.

Q. Well, can you remember what name you used in Chicago when you stayed there for several days on this trip?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. My husband registered. I don't know what name he put down.

10105

Q. What did the bell boy and the other people in the hotel call you, Mrs. what?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and on the same grounds already urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did you use so many different aliases when you went around with your husband that you cannot remember them?

10106

Mr. Talley: Objected to as highly prejudicial; incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; and on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Before you left the Unger flat, and while you were living there, did Yiddle Lorber visit there? A. Yes.

Q. Did Al Engelson visit there?

10107

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection there and if we are going to have an enumeration now of names such as have been plastered through the trial, I ask to have—

Mr. Turkus: I don't plaster anything in this trial. They are his client's associates, not the District Attorney's.

Mr. Talley: Will you let me finish my objection, please?

The Court: Overruled.

10108

Mr. Talley: Exception.
(Pending question read).

A. Yes.
Q. Did Chick Weiss visit there?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10109

A. Yes.
Q. Did Sidney Weiss visit there? A. Yes.
Q. Did Farvel Cohen visit there?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.
Q. You knew Farvel Cohen? A. Yes, sir.
Q. How many years? A. About twelve years.
Q. Visit at his home? A. Yes.
Q. He visited at your home? A. Occasionally.

10110

Q. You knew him as Little Farvel?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you know his business? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. In the twelve years of acquaintanceship with Farvel Cohen, did you ever know his business?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

A. No, sir. I was friends with his wife.

Mr. Talley: When I object, Mrs. Weiss, will you wait until the Court rules, please?
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception. Now go ahead. 10112

Q. When Yiddle Lorber was in the apartment, was Mendy Weiss in the apartment?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases, upon the ground first urged. She cannot be compelled to testify—
The Court: Sustained.

Q. Did you know Yiddle Lorber's business?

Mr. Talley: Same objection. 10113
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I knew he was in the bonding business.

Q. How many years did you know him? A. I know him a very long time. I don't remember just how long.

Q. Fifteen years? A. Maybe more.

Q. And all you knew of him was that he was in the bonding business? A. Yes, sir. I was not intimate with him.

Q. Did you know Allie Engelson's business?

10114 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I took it for granted he was in the same business.

Q. As Lorber? A. That is right.

Q. Did you know that Yiddle Lorber had a
10115 place out in Williamsburg, in Brooklyn?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. You spoke with these men when they came to the Unga flat? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Any other men visitors at the Unga flat while you were stopping there?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, incompe-
10116 tent, irrelevant and immaterial; on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know that Yiddle Lorber was a fixer?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

10117

Mr. Talley: The question means exactly nothing. Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. When he came to the Unga flat, did he come with anyone?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as calling for a conclusion; also the grounds already urged.

The Court: Sustained upon the first ground.

10118

Q. In your hearing and presence did Lorber report some information?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, and also upon the grounds previously urged.

The Court: You may answer yes or no.

A. Can you repeat that question?

(Pending question read.)

10119

A. What kind of information?

Q. Some information allegedly in connection with the O'Dwyer investigation in Brooklyn.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as requiring this witness to testify against her husband.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

10120 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. How long after Yiddle Lorber's visit was it that you and Mendy left the Unga flat?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to upon the ground it is compelling this witness to testify contrary to law.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. How long after Yiddle's visit was it before you left the Unga flat?

10121

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; upon the grounds already urged.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. All along this route from the Unga flat until your final destination, you went under an alias or assumed name other than your true name; is that correct?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to on the grounds of being compelled to testify con-

10122 trary to law.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. Can you remember any of the names you used enroute, on that trip?

Mr. Talley: Objected to upon the grounds already stated.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: She and her husband were alone on this trip, I beg to remind your Honor. I take an exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. No, sir.

Q. Not a single name?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as having been already answered.

The Court: She has answered that.

10124

Q. From Chicago, what was the next big city you stopped at?

Mr. Talley: That I object to, if your Honor pleases; already being gone into.

The Court: She has answered that.

Mr. Turkus: I did not hear the answer. Will the Court remind me of the answer? I did not hear any.

The Court: I thought she said she did not remember the next place where she stopped.

Mr. Turkus: I did not ask her the next 10125 place; I asked her the next big city.

The Court: Next big city.

Mr. Talley: Exception. That is compelling her to testify, and I take an exception to your Honor's ruling.

The Court: Overruled.

A. The next place I remember was Colorado Springs.

Q. Colorado Springs? Where in Colorado Springs did you stop?

10126 Blanche Weiss---For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. At first we stopped in sort of a place where they have cabins.

Q. That was a tourist place? A. Yes.

Q. How long did you stay in the tourists cabins?

10127 Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Were you there a week, a day, a month?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember how long we were at the cabins.

10128

The Court: You were not asked "we". You were asked about yourself. Please limit your answers accordingly.

Q. Do you know how long you were at the cabins?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember.

10129

Q. Have you no recollection of the period of time at all, whether it was a day, a week, a month, or a year?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, upon the ground it was already answered.

The Court: It could not have been a year.

Mr. Turkus: I am trying to give her something—

10130

By the Court:

Q. Was it over a week? A. I think it was.

Q. Was it as much as a month? A. I could not remember.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. Under what name were you living at the various cabins?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

10131

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I am not sure but I think it was the name of Bell.

Q. When for the first time did you live anywhere under the name of Bell, to the best of your recollection?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10132 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

A. Well, I don't know whether that was the first time or whether I used it before, or not.

Q. You don't remember whether you used "Bell" before? A. That is right.

Q. You mean some other year, on that trip? A. No, I mean on that trip.

Q. Your first name is Blanche? A. That is right.

Q. And you took the name of Rose Bell, is that right?

10133

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Is that right? A. That is right.

Q. Anywhere en route from the Unga flat to Chicago, did you meet Chick Weiss?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Overruled.

10134 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Anywhere from Chicago en route to the West did you meet Chick Weiss?

Mr. Talley: Already answered. It is objected to on the previous grounds.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

10135

Q. Did you meet Farvel Cohen in Chicago? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. From the tourist cabins where you lived under the name of Rose Bell, where did you move next?

10136

Mr. Talley: Same objection, upon the grounds urged.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. We rented a small house.
Q. And where was this small house? Don't use the expression "we". When I ask you something, answer that way.

10137

The Court: The District Attorney is permitted to ask these questions only in relation to yourself. Please remember that.
Mr. Talley: The witness has testified, if your Honor please, that she was with her husband all the time.
The Court: Now you have said something that I would not let the District Attorney bring out.
Mr. Talley: It is quite apparent that they were together.
The Court: Proceed.
Mr. Talley: I take an exception to your Honor's remarks and rulings

10138 Q. Where was this small house that you lived in? A. In Colorado Springs, in the mountains.
Q. Do you know the address of it?

Mr. Talley: Make the same objection as I made to the previous questions. Take an exception.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10139 A. No, sir.
Q. How long did you live in this little small house in Colorado Springs?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I remember the street now.
Q. What street? A. I think it was Red Rock, or something like that. They were all new to me.
Q. Was it 204 South 7th Street, Rocky Ford, Colorado? A. No, sir.
10140 Q. How long did you live in this small house?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: May I suggest that you don't go too far on memory tests. When you have enough, pass on to something else.

Mr. Turkus: I am going very quickly now, Judge. The time is not consumed by the District Attorney.

The Court: I know that.

Mr. Talley: Judge, this is not the memory test.

The Court: Will you wait just a minute? The Court views this as proper on the memory test, but, of course, there must be some limitation. It may also be considered as proper under question of traveling under an assumed name.

Mr. Turkus: That is it.

The Court: And on the question of associations.

Mr. Turkus: You know this could be gone over very rapidly if I could get answers. 10142

Mr. Tainey: This witness has answered every question asked, promptly and intelligently. Every question has been answered by this witness.

The Court: It has not been promptly because nearly every one has been interrupted by objection and argument.

Mr. Talley: Certainly I must object when I think questions are not proper.

The Court: I am not saying you cannot. I cannot stop you. 10143

Mr. Talley: I take an exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. I believe about two months.

Q. Did you live there under the name of Rose Bell?

Mr. Talley: Same objection as previously made.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

10144 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Q. Did you communicate with your friends and relatives, or any of them, any time from the time you left the Unga flat until you got to this small house in Colorado Springs?

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10145

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you tell anyone that you were at Colorado Springs?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. From that house, where did you go next?

Mr. Talley: Objected to upon the 10146 grounds already urged. Certainly it is not any memory test.

The Court: This goes beyond memory test. The Court is not writing a thesis on the various rules of evidence under which this is permissible. I have not made this exclusively applicable to memory test. Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

(Pending question read.)

A. We rented another house.

10147

Q. Colorado Springs? A. Yes.

Q. Did you live there in that other house under the name of Bell? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Rose Bell? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you live in this other house in Colorado Springs? A. I think it was towards the end of September.

Q. While you were in Colorado Springs, did you visit St. Francis Hospital? A. No, I did not go there.

10148

Q. You did not visit there? A. No.

Q. Did you know anybody who was a patient in the hospital?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. From that little house where did you go?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to upon the grounds already stated.

The Court: Overruled.

10149

Q. I should say the other little house. A. From there we went to Kansas City.

Q. Did you ever live at 204 South 7th Street, Rocky Ford, Colorado?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, if your Honor pleases. Already past that. On the grounds already urged, it is objected to.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Turkus: We have not passed that, your Honor.

Mr. Talley: You are out of Colorado weeks ago.

10150

Mr. Turkus: This is a very important question in regards to a very important exhibit in the case. It has never been touched on.

Mr. Talley: Object to the statement, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: You cannot refer to a paper that is marked for identification.

Mr. Turkus: No, in evidence; People's Exhibit 50 in evidence.

10151

The Court: Let me see it. Tell me briefly what it is.

Mr. Turkus: It is the operator's license found in the possession of this defendant, in the name of James William Bell, 204 South 7th Street, Rocky Ford, Colorado; date of issue June 6, 1940.

The Court: That is what I had in mind when I ruled against you. Objection is sustained.

Q. Where did you go from Colorado to Kansas? A. Kansas City, Missouri.

10152

Q. Where did you live in Kansas City, Missouri? A. On 46th Street Terrace.

Q. Under what name? A. Under the name of Bell.

Q. Did you also live at 700 West 48th Street, Kansas City?

Mr. Talley: Same objection as already urged.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

 10153

Q. Under the Terrace Drive address and the West 48th Street address, did you live under the name of Rose Beli?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.
Q. What name? A. Name of Miller.
Q. Where did you live under the name of Miller? 10154

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. On 48th Street Terrace.
Q. That was 700 West 48th Street, Kansas City? A. Yes.
Q. What was your first name when you lived there under the name of Miller?

Mr. Talley: Same objection. 10155
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Rose.
Q. Rose Miller? Did you hear other witnesses interrogated whether Cuppie Migden lived at 700 West 48th Street, while you were a spectator in court?

Mr. Talley: Object to the form of the question.
The Court: Overruled.

10156 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was Cuppie Migden living there? A. No, sir.

Q. Was the manager one Mrs. A. W. Farney at West 48th Street? A. Yes.

Q. Did Cuppie Migden at any time pose as your brother?

10157 Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

A. No, sir. He was never there.

The Court: She has answered.

Q. Did you at any time ever introduce Cuppie Migden as your brother?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

10158 Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you move into apartment 302 at West 48th Street, Kansas City, Missouri?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember the number of the apartment.

Q. Third floor. A. Yes.

10159

Q. Didn't you live there from December, 1940, and leave on April 6, 1941?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall that you occupied apartment 302? A. I don't remember the number of the apartment.

10160

By the Court:

Q. You mean you did know it but you have forgotten? A. I did know it but I don't remember it.

Q. You have forgotten it? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. You lived there December, 1940, January, February, March, April, that would be six months in that apartment; is that correct?

10161

The Court: Five months.

Q. Five months rather. A. Yes, that would make it that much.

Q. Having lived in that apartment for five months, you cannot recall now that it was apartment No. 302?

Mr. Talley: Object to that, the form of the question. Already answered.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10162

A. No, I cannot remember the number.

Q. You remember everything about September 12, 1936?

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Don't you? A. Yes.

10163

Q. Wasn't there a janitor there by the name of Henry Horton, a colored janitor? A. I only knew his first name.

Q. Henry? A. That is right.

Q. Didn't you tell Henry that there was a death in the family and you were going to leave to go to Denver, Colorado, on April 6, 1941?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, on the grounds already stated. She is now being compelled to testify to something that she is not required; not binding upon anybody or anything. Upon all the grounds previously urged I object to the question.

10164

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember that.

Q. Don't you remember as far back as April 6, 1941, I mean as recent as April 6, 1941, that you told the colored janitor there, Henry, that there was a death in the family; you had to leave immediately to go to Denver?

Mr. Talley: I object to the question, the form of the question, asking if she remembers something that is not in evidence and so far as anybody in this case knows never happened.

10165

The Court: That is quite recent, on something that is more than casual, being in relation to alleged death in the family.

Mr. Talley: The form of the question I object to.

The Court: The question, on the point of memory, is permissible. Overruled.

10166

Mr. Talley: I take exception to your Honor's ruling and statement.

A. What is the question?

Mr. Talley: Is your Honor permitting that question?

The Court. You have had the ruling.

By the Court:

Q. Answer.

10167

Mr. Talley: I take an exception to it.

Q. Do you remember that? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember whether you did or not tell that to the janitor? A. No, I don't.

Q. You do not remember one way or the other? A. I don't think I told that to him..

Q. You don't think so? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. You did have a talk with the janitor, Henry,

10168 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

before you left that apartment, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. And there was a man who paid the janitor money before you left the apartment, wasn't there? A. No, sir.

Q. Who paid the janitor the money?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

A. There was no money coming there—

10169

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Wasn't there any money coming to the Farney woman?

Mr. Talley: I ask the answer be stricken.

The Court: Strike it out.

Q. Did you have a talk with this colored man, Henry, before you left the apartment?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered; incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

10170

The Court: She said, "Yes"

Mr. Turkus: If it has been answered—I get so many objections back here I did not hear the answer.

The Court: She said, "Yes".

Q. Was it in reference to paying money? A. No, sir.

Q. Was it in reference to leaving the apartment? A. It was in reference to leaving the apartment but not paying any money because I didn't owe any money.

10171

Q. Was that conversation in the presence of Cuppie Migden? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Did Cuppie Migden in your presence pay Henry, the colored man, any money for the use of the apartment?

10172

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; upon all the grounds previously urged.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you, while you were living in that West 48th Street apartment under the name of Miller, tell Mrs. Farney and the colored man, Henry, that you were a Government agent?

10173

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; on all the grounds previously urged.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you speak with Mrs. Farney while you lived there?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

10174 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Very seldom.

Q. Did you speak with Henry while you were there? A. Yes.

Q. Did you say to Henry that you were a Government agent? A. No, sir, I never did—

Mr. Talley: Objected to as already answered.

10175

A. (Continued)—to anybody or to Henry.

Q. When you lived under the name of Rose Bell, at 46th Street Terrace, was the manager of the apartment hotel Miss Evelyn Timms? A. Yes.

Q. And was it from that place that you moved to 700 West 48th Street where you used the name "Miller"? A. Yes.

Q. While you were at West 48th Street, did you get chickens delivered to you from Martin's Indoor Poultry Farm?

10176

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Sustained—I will let that in on the question of memory. You may answer that.

Mr. Talley: I take an exception.

By the Court:

Q. Did you do your own cooking there? A. Yes.

Q. You were the housewife? A. Yes.

10177

Q. You did the buying? A. Yes.

Q. Did you buy any chickens from Martin's Poultry Farm? A. Yes.

By Mr. Turkus:

Q. And were they delivered to the apartment by Martin himself?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

10178

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Just once or twice at the very most.

Q. And he brought the chickens right up into the apartment, didn't he?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. And there were people in the apartment besides yourself when he delivered the chickens?

10179

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

Q. On those occasions?

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Were you alone when Martin delivered the chickens to the apartment?

10180 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Objected to.

A. My husband might have been there.
Q. But somebody else—

The Court: Be specific. Was Cuppie there?

Q. Was Cuppie there? A. No, sir.
Q. How long do you know Cuppie?

10181

Mr. Talley: I object to it upon the grounds already stated, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I know him many years.
Q. Visit at his home? A. No, sir.
Q. He visited at your home? A. I believe he was there once.
Q. You know him many years. Do you know him from going out socially with him? A. No.

10182

Q. You did not know him from going to school with him? A. No.
Q. Where did you know him from? A. I knew him through my brother-in-law Sidney and through my husband.
Q. Yes? A. That is all, and from the neighborhood.
Q. While you were in Kansas City, Missouri, did you meet a man known as John Jay?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases, upon the same grounds.

10183

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you, while you were in Colorado, meet John Jay?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Go through the telephone book at this rate.

10184

Mr. Turkus: No, that is where they went through, Judge.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. John Jay is a man about 65 or 66 years of age? A. Yes, sir.

Q. John Jay lived at 204 South 7th Street, Rocky Ford, Colorado, didn't he?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; upon all the grounds previously urged; not proper cross-examination.

10185

Q. Didn't he? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: Wait a minute.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: I take an exception.

Q. You visited John Jay at that adress, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you meet Frankie Carbo there on the visit?

10186

Mr. Talley: Same objection, on the grounds previously urged.

A. I don't know him.

Q. Frank Carbo—

The Court: I don't recall that name. Is that on association?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, a name I brought in for the first time in this case.

10187

Mr. Talley: Exception.

The Court: Is this on association?

Mr. Turkus: That is right.

The Court: Will you connect it up?

Mr. Turkus: I am going to try to connect it through her.

Mr. Talley: Can't do that.

Mr. Turkus: I can't now, of course not, not after I was compelled to make that statement. It was too late.

Q. Did you meet a girl up there known as Betty? A. No, sir.

10188

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Were you introduced by John Jay as a relative?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

A. Was I introduced?

10189

Mr. Talley: Just a minute, please.

A. (Continued) To John Jay?

Q. No, were you introduced by John Jay as a relative?

Mr. Talley: Mrs. Weiss, will you kindly refrain from answering when I get up?

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. Now go ahead and answer.

10190

A. No, sir.

Q. How many times did you visit John Jay?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. About two or three times.

Q. While you were with John Jay, were you brought in contact with a Mrs. Marie Hormann at Manitou Springs, Colorado?

10191

Mr. Talley: Object to the form of the question on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. What is the name?

Q. (Spelling) M-a-r-i-e H-o-r-m-a-n-n, a woman who conducts a renting agency for apartments?

Mr. Talley: I object, if your Honor pleases, to the District Attorney testifying who she is.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember the name. It might be the woman that I rented the house from.

Q. Yes. A. The second house.

Q. And did that woman live or maintain a business place at Manitou Springs, Colorado?

10193 A. I can't remember whether it is that woman or not.

Q. Wasn't the cottage that you rented rented at $50 a month? A. No, I believe it was the other one that I rented was from this woman. The name sounds familiar and yet it is not clear to me.

Q. The one in which you lived from July, 1940, until September, 1940, wasn't that one rented from Mrs. Marie Hormann at $50 a month? A. Well, they were both at $50 a month. Both houses were at $50 a month.

10194 Q. Let me ask you this: Did you ever leave a forwarding address when you vacated from any of these premises?

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.

Mr. Talley: On the grounds already urged.

The Court: You mean with the Post Office?

Mr. Turkus: Yes, or with anyone.

Mr. Talley: Is there any evidence—

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Forwarding address?

Q. Yes. A. No, sir.

Q. You never left a forwarding address, is that what you mean? A. I don't remember.

10196

Q. You don't remember? A. I don't remember leaving a forwarding address.

Q. Do you deny that you didn't?

Mr. Talley: Object to the form of the question.

The Court: Sustained. She has answered.

Q. Don't you remember as far back as 1940 and 1941 that you didn't leave forwarding addresses when you moved?

10197

Mr. Talley: Objected to. Already been answered.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't think I did.

Q. That is the best answer you can give?

Mr. Talley: I object to that question.

A. I am almost positive.

10198 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Wait a minute.

Q. Now you are almost positive. Are you positive that you didn't?

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10199 A. I am almost positive.

Q. Were you introduced by John Jay as a daughter-in-law?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you introduced to Mrs. Marie Hormann by John Jay as his daughter-in-law?

10200 Mr. Talley: Same objection and already answered.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I was never introduced by him as a daughter-in-law.

Q. Did you say that you were interested in opening a moving picture theatre in Manitou Springs?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. To who?
Q. To anybody, including Mrs. Hormann? A. No, sir.
Q. Why did you ask me "To who?"

Mr. Talley: I object to that, if your Honor pleases, highly improper.
The Court: Overruled. 10202
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know why.
Q. You don't know why you asked that question? A. I just wanted to know to who you were referring to.
Q. If you had never spoken to anyone, why was it that you asked me "To who?"

Mr. Talley: Objected to. It is highly argumentative, decidedly improper in form and substance.
Mr. Turkus: Merely asking for an explanation. 10203
Mr. Talley: Should not be permitted. I object to it.

By the Court:

Q. Can you answer that?

Mr. Talley: I object to that.

A. I spoke—

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception. I object to your Honor's question. Take an exception likewise.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You may answer, if you can.

By Mr. Turkus:

10205

Q. You just started to say you spoke and then you were stopped.

Mr. Talley: Let her answer.

Mr. Turkus: Don't you straighten it out. Let her straighten it out.

Q. You just started to say to Judge Taylor you spoke. Now go ahead and finish it. A. There was nice moving pictures in Colorado Springs—

Q. Liberty Theatre?

10206

Mr. Talley: May I have the witness finish the answer?

A. No, it had sort of an Indian name.

Q. Yes. A. And I always like that theatre. I used to talk about it to my husband. I said, "That would be a nice business."

Q. Didn't you speak to anyone about the Liberty Theatre, which was vacant at the time, to rent it and run it as a moving picture theatre?

Mr. Talley: I object to it, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; has no bearing upon any of the issues. It is objected to upon all the grounds urged in objections.

The Court: It is improper because what was said may call for a conversation with her husband.

Q. Any one except him.

Mr. Talley: Same objection.
The Court: Overruled. 10208
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not.

Q. You met Bennie Portman out in Kansas City, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes. 10209

Q. How many times were you out in the company of Bennie Portman? A. Many times.

Q. You met Walter Rainey out there, too, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you met Maurice Saul out there, too, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: Same objection to all these questions.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10210

Q. And Maurice Saul is affiliated with the Cleaners & Dyers Union of Kansas City, Missouri, isn't he? A. I don't know anything about that.

Q. You have been out many time with the three of them, haven't you? A. I used to come to the Portman's home.

Q. That is right, and he used to go out with Fay Dilly? A. Who did?

Q. Bennie? A. No, sir.

10211

Q. Who went out with Fay Dilly?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; upon the grounds already urged. Certainly cannot allow this in.

Mr. Turkus: This will all be connected very quickly.

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Didn't you go out with Fay Dilly? A. Yes.

10212

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. And on the occasions when you went out with Fay Dilly, who was her male escort?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to.

A. We did not go out.

Mr. Talley: Just a minute, Witness. I asked you not to answer—

The Witness: Excuse me, Judge Talley.

Mr. Talley: Your Honor has made a ruling bearing upon this precise matter of the District Attorney and he is now taking another cut around to evade your ruling. It is objected to on the ground this woman cannot be compelled to testify against her husband.

Mr. Turkus: Fay Dilly was not out with her husband and nobody contends that.

10214

Mr. Talley: That is what you are trying to elicit.

Mr. Turkus: I am not.

The Court: Read the question again.

(Pending question read).

The Court: Sustained.

Q. Where did Portman live? A. On Olive Street.

Q. What city? A. Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. You also met him in Colorado Springs, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. Did you visit him out at Colorado Springs? 10215

Mr. Talley: Objected to, incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. How many times? A. Very often.

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10216

Q. The answer is "Very often". Did he visit you at the cottages in which you lived in Colorado Springs? A. I don't think so.

Q. Did you visit him at his establishment?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

Q. At Colorado Springs? A. Yes.

10217

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. What kind of an establishment did Portman have at Colorado Springs when you visited him? A. I visited him in a cottage.

Q. In Portman's cottage? A. Yes.

Q. Where was that located? A. That was in Woodland Park.

Q. Do you know the address? A. No, I don't think it was Woodland Park either. I am not familiar with those places. The first time in my life I have been around this place and I am all 10218 mixed up with the names.

Q. I see. But at any rate you visited him at his cottage, wherever it was located, in Colorado Springs? A. Yes.

Q. Did you meet Rainey in Colorado Springs as well?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

10219

Q. And did you meet this Maurice Saul in Colorado Springs as well?

Mr. Talley: Same objection, if your Honor pleases.

The Court: Overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes.

Q. Where did you meet Rainey and Saul in Colorado Springs?

10220

Mr. Talley: Same objection on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Sustained.

Take the noon recess now. We will reassemble at 1:30. The court-room please be in order.

Gentlemen of the jury, please remember the previous admonitions. Do not discuss the case, let nobody talk to you about it. Keep your minds open.

First, the witness may leave. Come back at 1:30.

10221

The jury pass out the other door.

Defendants are remanded.

(A recess was taken to 1:30 P.M.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

TRIAL RESUMED

BLANCHE WEISS, a witness in behalf of the defense, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

By Mr. Turkus:

10223 Q. After the morning recess you were talking to your mother-in-law and Dotty out in the hall, weren't you? A. No, sir, I was talking to my mother-in-law, but not to Dotty.

Q. Wasn't Dotty right there with you? A. No, sir.

Q. How far away from you was she? A. She has not been here.

Q. She has not been here today? A. I did not see her.

Q. Who was the woman alongside of you when you were talking to your mother-in-law? A. This afternoon?

10224 Q. When the court recessed at 12:30. A. 12:30, I was talking to my mother-in-law.

Q. Who was the other woman? A. Oh, that was my niece.

Q. Who introduced you to John Jay?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, also on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. When was it you met John Jay?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Sometime in the summer.
Q. Of 1940? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you, knowingly, associate with people with criminal records?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled. 10226
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not ask them if they had criminal records.
Q. Didn't you associate with people whom you knew to be convicted criminals?

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the same ground as heretofore urged.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10227

A. I don't know what you mean by that.
Q. You knew that Unger had been convicted, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Talley: Objected to as not the proper way of proving it.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. You associated with him, didn't you? A. Yes, sir.
Q. You knew that your friend Dotty's husband, Yonkel, was a convicted pickpocket, didn't you?

10228 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection as heretofore urged.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. He was not always a pickpocket.
Q. How long did you know him? A. I knew
10229 him I should say about 15 years.
Q. And in the 15 years you have known him, wasn't he, in 1937, in jail for one year and three months to two and a half years for grand larceny, to your knowledge?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember what he was away for. I remember him having a restaurant at one time.
10230 Q. How many times do you remember him having been away to jail, to your knowledge?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember how many times; I did not count the times.
Q. Let us see if I can refresh your recollection. On August 11, 1936, wasn't he away in the workhouse for 3 months for policy, to your knowledge?

10231

Mr. Talley: I object to this. What has this got to do with this trial, getting this before the jury?

The Court: Sustained in that form.

Q. Wasn't he, to your knowledge, away in the workhouse in August, 1936?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10232

A. He was away; I don't remember for what.

Q. Away where? A. He was away in jail.

Q. At that time you were associating with his wife?

Mr. Talley: Same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. That is right.

Q. A woman whom you knew lived on the proceeds of crime, isn't that right?

10233

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question, assuming something not in evidence.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know what she lives on.

Q. You knew the woman more than 12 years? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did not know what she lived on? A.

10234

I know at times her husband had a restaurant, and once he had sort of a beer saloon.

Q. About the times he was in jail, what was she living on, do you know?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10235

A. She was living with her sister.

Q. Did you know he was in the workhouse in 1934?

Mr. Talley: I object to that as highly incompetent and immaterial.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not look up his record.

Q. I know you did not look up his record, but did you know he was in jail in 1934 when you were associating with his wife?

10236

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't remember the date.

Q. Was he in jail in 1933, in the workhouse, to your knowledge?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10237

A. I could not say exactly when he was away.

Q. How many times do you remember him being in jail?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I cannot remember the times; I did not keep it in mind.

10238

Q. Didn't you know when you were associating with him that he was a criminal?

Mr. Talley: That is objected to on the same grounds as heretofore urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. When I first met Dotty he had a restaurant.

Q. Will you swear that during the 12 years you have been associating with Yonkel Isaacson you did not know he was a criminal?

10239

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew many other people you associated with were criminals, didn't you?

Mr. Talley: I object.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10240

A. I would not say many others.
Q. How many others? A. I don't know.

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. Is it so many you cannot estimate? A. No, it is not so many. I don't ask people whether they are criminals or not.

10241

Q. To your knowledge, don't you know that many of your associates were criminals, crooks, thugs? A. No, sir.

Mr. Talley: I object to the form of the question and on the grounds already stated.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

Q. When you were out in Kansas City, Missouri, you were out there with the intent to avoid the arrest of a fugitive from justice, weren't you?

10242

Mr. Talley: Objected to as a conclusion, incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and on all the other grounds I have recited; especially the one I stated the law to you on.
The Court: That is too dangerous. Objection sustained.

Q. Were you there as part of a conspiracy to avoid the arrest and apprehension of a fugitive from justice?

Mr. Talley: Objected to.
The Court: Objection sustained.

Q. Were you aiding and abetting fugitives from justice when you were out in the West, to maintain themselves in hiding and concealment?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection. I think it ought to be stopped.
The Court: Objection sustained. No more along that line. It is for the jury to figure out. 10244

Q. While you were in the West you bought a car, didn't you? A. Yes.
Q. In your name? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Through what agency? A. I think it was Ralphman—I am not sure of the name.
Q. Was it the Grausman Ford Agency? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you pay $1,000 in cash for it?

Mr. Talley: I object to it as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. 10245
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.
Q. You bought Kansas City, Missouri, plates for it?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant, and upon the grounds previously asserted.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I did not buy them.

10246

Q. What? A. I did not buy them.

Q. You did not buy them, the plates, you mean? A. Yes, sir.

Q. John Jay was with you when you bought the plates?

Mr. Turkus: Question withdrawn.

Q. John Jay was with you when you bought the car?

10247

Mr. Talley: I object to that on the same ground.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And so was Albert Anastasio with you when you bought the car? A. No, sir; I don't know him; I never saw him in my life. Don't be accusing me of anything—

Q. Were you ever at the Grossman Agency in connection with the purchase of an automobile 10248 in the company of Joseph Lorino?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and on all the grounds previously urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know him; I never heard of the name.

Q. Now, you were introduced to Otto M. Blake, who operates a filling station in Black Hawk, Colorado, on that western trip?

10249

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant and on all the grounds previously urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Weren't you introduced as the daughter-in-law of John Jay to a man named Otto M. Blake, who operated a filling station in Black Hawk, Colorado?

10250

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and on the grounds previously stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you in Black Hawk, Colorado? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you introduced to Harry S. Blake, the owner of the Chihuahua Tungsten Mining Company?

10251

Mr. Talley: Objected to on all the grounds already stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you meet Charles M. Beck on your Western trip?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.

The Court: Objection overruled.

10252 Blanche Weiss—For Defts.—Cross

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you present when $500 was passed over for an interest in the Chihuahua Tungsten mine?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection sustained.

10253 Q. Now, Portman's home was at 3543 Olive Street, in Kansas City, Missouri? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is a place you frequented, isn't it? A. That is right.

Q. And Benny Portman was a notorious gambler in Kansas City, Missouri, wasn't he?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant, and upon all the grounds previously urged.

The Court: You mean a professional gambler?

Mr. Turkus: Yes.

10254 The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Didn't you visit professional gambling joints run by Portman in Colorado and Missouri?

Mr. Talley: Objected to on the ground it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and also on the grounds previously stated.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. No, sir.

10255

Q. What business was Portman in?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. Well, I know he had one place of electrical supplies, lamps, and things like that; and that he was also interested in some place that made medicine.

Q. Yes. A. That is all I know of.

10256

Q. What business was Rainey in?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Same ruling.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. I don't know.

Q. What business was Saul in?

Mr. Talley: I make the same objection.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

10257

A. I don't know.

Q. Didn't you, in Kansas City, Missouri, under the name of Rose Bell, join a ladies' society?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.
The Court: Objection overruled.
Mr. Talley: Exception.

A. If you mean knitting for the Red Cross and the British—

Q. I mean Bundles for Britain. You joined that under the name of Rose Bell? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was to give a color of legitimacy to the use of the name Rose Bell?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10259 A. It was not to give any color; it was because I wanted to do it.

Q. That was not to hide your identity, was it? A. No, sir.

Q. You were not concealing your identity from anybody, were you?

Mr. Talley: Objected to as incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant, and on the grounds already urged.

The Court: Objection overruled.

Mr. Talley: Exception.

10260 A. I was known as Rose Bell.

Q. When you were known as Hoffman, was it Blanche Hoffman, or Rose Hoffman, which? A. Blanche.
